

HOUSE OVERRIDES PRESIDENT'S BONUS VETO

ARMY STRIVES TO ELIMINATE FLYING PERILS

DAYTON, Ohio.—Construction will start soon on the only physiological research laboratory in the United States specializing in high altitude work. U. S. Army officials at Wright Field announce.

An appropriation of $5,000 has been made for the laboratory on the roof of the field's administration building. It is to be erected above a pressure room, which will form a part of it. The pressure room duplicates conditions fliers face at high altitudes.

The proposed unit will consist of two sub-laboratories, one biochemical and the other for physiological research proper. It will include also a room to house the small animals which will be used in experiments.

Capt. Harry G. Armstrong, who attained national prominence recently as a result of a treatise on the physical reactions to a parachute jump, will be in charge of the laboratory.

Armstrong said the laboratory will attempt to solve problems of safety, comfort, health and accidents of altitude fliers.

"An officer who is flying at a high altitude may be cold," Captain Armstrong stated in explaining the work, "but not necessarily ill because of this. But we wish to find out definitely whether this condition reduces his efficiency. If he would rather be on the ground in a warm room because his flying suit does not shield him from the bitter cold at high altitudes, then he cannot be at top efficiency. Problems like that are what we will try to solve."

Armstrong has made plans to obtain a number of rare instruments for the laboratory. The laboratories at Harvard University have agreed to supply two of these, a spirometer and a kymograph.

A spirometer is a small instrument which, when breathed into, collects gases from the lungs. It is delicately balanced so as not to alter the analysis of the breath and affect its composition by pressure. The instrument will be used to determine the exact composition of lung gases at high altitudes, since they change after inhalation.

The kymograph is a recording device used in the pressure chamber to determine breathing rate and depth at high altitudes, blood pressure and other physical reactions.

Armstrong has developed a "re-breather" which will purify the waste air thrown off by the lungs so that it may be used again. The officer said only one-twentieth of the air inhaled is absorbed and used and the remainder is wasted. The "re-breather" will purify this for use.

Bruno's Attorneys Beginning Action

TRENTON, Jan. 24.—Attorneys for Bruno Hauptmann began a long-expected attack today on evidence that convicted the Bronx carpenter of murder.

NO CHANGES IN MONETARY SYSTEM SEEN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—President Roosevelt today termed suggestions of a change in monetary policy as "just another one of those things."

In reply to questions at his press conference he gave a similar answer to reports a statement would be forthcoming over the week-end over the monetary situation.

He was asked first concerning New York advices which professed to see likelihood of revaluation of government silver holdings in order to create a fund for the issuance of money to pay the bonus.

Also it was pointed out to him that stock market prices were rising on the strength of such action regarding silver. He threw up his hands, laughed and said it was just another one of those things. The same reply greeted a question on the setup of a free gold market.

Full Text of Veto Message is Short And to the Point

The full text of President Roosevelt's veto message was as follows:

"I return herewith without my approval House Bill 9870 entitled 'An act to provide for immediate payment of World War adjusted service certificates for the cancellation of unpaid interest on loans secured by such certificates and for other purposes.'

"On May 22, 1935, in disapproving a bill to pay the bonus in full immediately instead of in 1935 I gave in person to a joint session of the congress, complete and explicit reasons for my actions.

"The bill I now return differs from last year's bill in only two important respects. First it eliminates issuance of unsecured paper currency to make the payment and second it adds $263,000,000 to the total payments for giving interest after Oct. 1, 1931, on amounts borrowed. I respectfully refer the members of the senate and house of representatives to every word of what I said eight months ago on the subject.

"My convictions are as compelling today as they were then. Therefore I cannot change them."

SENATE MAY ALSO VOTE TO TAKE ACTION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—The house impelled the soldier bonus toward payment today by overriding President Roosevelt's veto of the baby bond bonus payment almost immediately after a unique hand-written six-sentence veto message was read.

The vote to override completely less than an hour after reading of the veto message was 324 to 6. This compared with a vote of 82 to 98 recorded last year when the house overrode Mr. Roosevelt's veto of the Patman inflation bond bill.

The vote to override came quickly despite the fact Mr. Roosevelt's veto caught congress by surprise. The veto was expected, but not today, nor in the form presented.

The house listened to the reading of the message which was written out by hand by the president himself—probably an unprecedented act—and then smashed forward to an immediate vote.

The bill now goes to the senate where concurrence to the house action was expected.

The vote on whether to override came after the house shunted down by a vote of 189 to 131 motion to delay a vote until Monday. The roll call on overriding the veto followed immediately.

The president's veto message is a record of his 1935 baby bond veto message, emphasizing fund were not provided to pay for the bonus.

Representative Thomas Blanton, Dem., Texas, caused laughter when he said the house shouldn't put off the veto "because if we do hundreds of thousands of veterans' organization posts would wire us and they ought to save their money."

Chairman Pat Harrison of the senate finance committee, who sponsored the bonus in the senate, confirmed the general opinion that senate would concur with the house.

"It is my opinion the veto will not be sustained. I shall vote to override the veto," he said.

FARM AID IS OBJECTIVE OF THE PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—President Roosevelt said today he hoped the administration objective for agriculture could be achieved without a constitutional amendment.

The president outlined his farm dole as designed to maintain soil fertility and to pass on to the next generation a better producing power.

The president's remarks came as the agriculture department sought to revise legislation for AAA in a manner to meet constitutional requirements and ultimately provide for individual AAA units in each state. These units with federal financing aid would be designed to achieve the objective of production control and soil conservation.

The president outlined his objectives as follows:

To manage the physical land use of the United States so it will maintain not only the soil fertility but to hand back a country with better producing power and greater permanency for land use.

A senate agriculture sub-committee fearing the proposed soil conservation—domestic allotment plan—might not surmount the constitutional barriers asked the Secretary of Agriculture to revise his plan to include a system of state AAA organizations.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY MARY E. DAGUE

SEA SERIES REAS WRITER

HERE are some suggestions for getting the benefit of tomatoes' vitamin C content. They'll help get them onto the menu at least four times a week.

Don't overlook the tomato juice cocktail for dinner, luncheon or breakfast. A little lemon juice, a few drops of tabasco sauce, onion juice or Worcestershire sauce add point to the drink.

Or stiffen the juice with gelatin and rice it over crisp toast or toasted crackers as an appetizer for luncheon or dinner.

Mince parsley can be sprinkled over the tomato jelly or arranged to form a wreath of green around the red.

Jellied Salads Are Popular

Try serving jellied tomato salad between slices of pineapple, with mayonnaise masking the whole. Bananas are excellent with tomato jelly, too, cut in thin slices and molded in it, or alternating slices of banana in pieces about 3-4 inch thick and jelly the same thickness and shape. When a vegetable salad is wanted, such as vegetables as celery, cabbage, raw turnips and cauliflower are piquant molded in the jelly.

Vegetables combine well with tomatoes. Try alternating layers of canned lima beans and tomatoes into a buttered baking dish. Cover the last layer with coarse buttered crumbs and bake twenty-five minutes in a hot oven. Serve from the baking dish.

Salt codfish baked in tomato sauce is inviting for luncheon. The fish must be freshened over night in water to cover. Drain and simmer in fresh water until tender. Place in a buttered baking dish and sprinkle lightly with two tablespoons flour. Dot with bits of butter. Cover with two cups strained tomatoes and bake in a moderately hot oven. The tomato

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Chilled tomato juice, cereal, cream, baked French toast, honey, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON: Anchovy potato balls, lettuce sandwiches, ginger pudding, milk, tea.

DINNER: Oyster stew, concordia tomato on toast, mixed fruit salad, lemon sponge pie, milk, coffee.

to juice thickens during the baking and makes a sauce just thick enough to coat the fish.

Concordia Tomato on Toast

Two tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 cups canned tomatoes, 1 onion sliced, 2 cups canned corn, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 pound sharp cheese.

Melt butter and add onion. Cook over a low fire until a pale straw color. Sift over flour and stir occasionally, blended and bubbly. Add tomatoes and corn and cook ten minutes, stirring until thick and smooth. Stir in cheese which has been grated or cut in very thin shavings. Cook and stir until cheese is melted. Serve on crisp toast.

A good way to use the coarser stalks of celery is in a combination dish.

Combination Dish

One quart canned tomatoes, tablespoon sugar, 2 cups diced celery, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-8 tea spoon pepper, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour.

Melt butter and stir in flour. Cook and stir until bubbly. Add tomatoes, sugar, salt, pepper and cook until celery is tender, about twenty minutes. Stir occasionally to prevent sticking. Serve with toast cubes sprinkled over the top of the dish.

Insurance Company Assets Showing a Marked Change

Unusual conditions of the past five years have had a marked effect on the investment portfolios of life insurance companies. While few companies have increased in size, measured by total insurance in force, changes in the character of assets of some companies are apparent. A brief analysis of the balance sheet of Southwestern Life, the first of the large Texas companies to publish its annual statement, reveals a high degree of liquidity. The net liability to policyholders is less than 27 millions. The company owns securities valued conservatively at 50 millions. Of this amount 15 millions is represented by U. S. government bonds, cash, and the highest grade state, county and municipal obligations, which could be sold on today's market for a million dollars more than the amount at which they are carried in the balance sheet. The remaining 15 millions is invested in first mortgage loans on Texas real estate. In addition the company owns real estate, including its home office building, worth about 3 millions.

Five years ago Southwestern Life had only about one-ninth as much invested in bonds, but owned one-third more real estate mortgages than it does today. The gain in insurance in force for 1935 is approximately the same as for 1934, and the company is now larger than at any previous time in its history, with a total of 288 millions of insurance on the lives of approximately 140,000 Texas citizens. During recent years the amount of the average policy has decreased slightly. The rate of mortality for 1935 among Southwestern Life policyholders was almost the same as for the previous year. Lapses are steadily decreasing and loans against policies have remained at about the same level.

Dudley Hatchery In Ranger Will Open On Monday, Jan. 27

Baby chick time is here, according to announcement made today by B. S. Dudley, owner of the Dudley Hatchery, Ranger, the oldest chicken hatchery in Eastland county. The announcement also states the hatchery will open for business next Monday morning, and will be in position to hatch all eggs that may be brought in. There will be plenty of room in the incubator, said Dudley, to take care of all customers, as the capacity is 15,000 eggs. In discussing the poultry industry Dudley said that poultry raisers should be warned against fake schemes from unscrupulous dealers and in the selecting of chickens and eggs should investigate thoroughly all claims made by strangers.

"The weather never gets too cold for us to do this kind of work," said Decker, "as the lift is inside the building where it is warm and comfortable." Decker has been in the filling station business in Ranger for a number of years and is recognized as one of the leaders in this business. He handles Marathon products and General tires and looks after the auto accessories for his customers.

Tax Box Collects Keys, Pins, Pipe

CAMDEN, Ark.—Revenue Commissioner Earl Wiseman, administrator of the Arkansas new 2 per cent sales tax, will receive a surprise next month when he opens the tax return of a local grocer. The merchant, to aid in the collection of the tax, placed a large tin can near the cash register for customers to drop their pennies in. Donations up to the present, in addition to pennies, include: A dollar watch, a corn plaster, two safety pins, three rusty keys, seven buttons and a corn cob pipe. The grocer insists that the can will be sent to Wiseman "as is."

ZENITH FARM RADIO

Zenith has effected a special arrangement with the manufacturers of the Wincharger, so that every owner of a Zenith Farm Radio can reduce his operating power cost to 50 cents a year for 10 hours radio enjoyment every day. This means no more dead storage batteries to take out and recharge. Zenith Farm Radio, Model No. 6-V-27, illustrated above, is a 6-tube receiver—tunes American stations, police calls, amateur, aviation conversations, ships at sea and Foreign Stations. Has Black Magnavision dial employing Split-Second Tuning that enables logging and relocating foreign stations accurately. Operates on a 6-volt storage battery — kept charged by the Wincharger — $69.95 Zenith Freepower.

Unfavorable Trade Balance Needed For Foreign Trade

"An unfavorable trade balance is needed by the United States," said George F. Bauer, chairman, National Committee for Reciprocal Trade. "Only in this way can we collect the immense debts owed in foreign countries to American business concerns and investors." "Before the World War the United States was a debtor nation. Then we needed a favorable trade balance to permit us to pay the interest on the capital we had received from abroad. But the war and the years following it reversed this position. The world now owes us billions of dollars. We should be collecting interest and capital repayments on these great foreign investments; but our commercial policy has made any real payments impossible. A favorable trade balance means that we are supplying the rest of the world with a greater value of goods and services than we are receiving in return. Foreign nations therefore have no margin with which to make payments to us. In fact, they must owe us for the net balance in our favor, in addition to their earlier debts. "If we continue to insist on a favorable trade balance we shall eventually find that we have given away all the goods which these debts represent. The only sensible course is for us to start right in collecting these debts by taking from other nations more goods and services than we give them. Only a so-called 'unfavorable' trade balance will let us collect. "To receive more than we send will give us greater value to distribute among our own population and will thus raise our standard of living. "The reciprocal trade program is showing in what forms we can accept payments from abroad without damage to American business."

TOPPERS' RETURN

LONDON. — "Toppers" are coming back. Increased numbers of them may be seen in the City (business section of London) every day. It is even reported that two large banks have let it be known among their staffs that silk hats are the thing to wear for those who want to get ahead. A man in North Carolina was suspected of a kidnapping when he became nervous while being shaved. Still, maybe Tony began discussing the 51 sanctions.

International Banker McWhuffle Bares All

Mr. Eustace McWhuffle, the eminent international banker, took the witness stand before the Senate Munitions Committee and testified with great frankness. His words were as follows:

"Yes, I am the man who financed the allied powers in the World War, and I made a very good thing out of it indeed.

"To begin with, I loaned the allies enormous sums of money. For making these loans, I collected the customary banker's commission—and if you don't believe that it was a handsome one, I'll show you the figures.

"Then I acted as purchasing agent for the spending of the money thus loaned. In all, some three billions were spent. For the spending of it I naturally collected the customary agent's commission—which, like the other commission, was a handsome one.

"On top of that, I bought a $360,000,000 piece of the factories from which these purchases were made. So, naturally enough, I collected the dividends which these purchases made possible. Need I say that they, too, were right handsome?"

"Of course I believed heart and soul in the allied cause. From the very first my partners and I were determined to help the allied nations in every way we could. That we were well paid for our attitude is only incidental.

"The work that we did built up an unparalleled prosperity in the United States. Every farmer, every worker, and every business man had a direct interest in seeing the allied nations win the war—for if they lost, this great burst of prosperity would be painfully and swiftly deflated, although I might add that my loans were safe enough.

"That being the case, need I say that I never asked the American government to go to war, back there in the spring of 1917? Bless you, I didn't need to.

"Somehow, all this money that was being tossed around just sort of seeped into every compartment of American life. When the pinch came there wasn't any question about what the government would do. Money talks, without any prompting."

"Of course, Mr. McWhuffle is a character of the imagination and nothing like the above discourse was ever heard, for no international banker would be as frank as Mr. McWhuffle; but if you read the current dispatches from Washington carefully you will see that they are frank enough to give you a pretty clear picture of the way in which we let our neutrality collapse, 20 years ago.

"We let ourselves become banker, granary, and workshop for the allied nations. We sold them anything and everything they wanted to buy. In the end, naturally enough, we sold ourselves right down the river.

Tomado Idea Is Used In A Plane

STILLWATER, Okla. — Construction of a new type airplane which its inventor believes will rocket through the air at a speed of 400 to 900 miles an hour starts here this month.
It will be a "Tomado" type plane, combining the elements which nature uses in a tornado to generate power.
Ralph K. Odum, inventor, built a full-sized model last summer, which he said convinced him he was on the right track. He has been doing research work on the plane for seven years.
Roy Hunt, Oklahoma speed flier, will give the plane its first test about July 1.
The lifting power of the plane is so great that it can be built of steel, Odum said.
"We get about 60 pounds of lift for each horsepower, where the ordinary plane gets about 15," the inventor said.
"Airplane engineers and technicians are convinced that the plane will go at least 400, perhaps 900, miles an hour."
The "tornadoes" are created by two 100-horsepower motors which pump air into two huge half-cylinders that extend over each side like wings on a standard plane.
It will have the usual airplane tail assembly, although this may later be abandoned in favor of similar instruments on the two wings.
The model will be 8 feet high, 24 feet long, and have a wing-spread of 35 feet. It will be built of fabric reinforced with steel to meet department of commerce standards, but Odum hopes to use steel entirely on later models.
The plane is designed to have a cruising range of 10,000 miles without refueling.

Why Choose Thorns When There's Roses at Your Feet
By Irving A. Miller
When you are down hearted and feeling awful blue, because something's gone wrong and you are all in a stew; when you are worrying and thinking the world is hard on you, just stop and think how wrong you are and what you could do.
You could look on the bright side, be cheerful as you go. For the many blessings you have received that now you seem not to know, and the unpleasant hours you have spent I do not hesitate to say a few well considered thoughts might drive the clouds away.
Think how God in His mercy has spared you day by day, and how short life is to be wasted in this way. Just think of the deaf mutes and cripples who would be so happy with your blessing. Yet, you walk and talk at your leisure—why not consider this?
And you can hear the songs of THE OLD WASTE BASKET
By Irving A. Miller
What the basket would say, if it could talk; oh why do you kick me and tumble me around? I've not molested you I've not made a sound, I am your old waste basket faithful and true, I take care of your scrap paper the whole day through. No selfishness or partiality have I shown, each one of you use me as you would your own. Makes no difference how dirty the paper may be. I accept it quietly to you all I am free. Won't some of you welcome me and take my part, can't a worthy old friend claim a place in your heart? Won't mercy lead you to treat me right?

Or will you kick me around from morn till night?
birds and see the sun in its glory shine, then look at the helpless creatures who must go through life blind. Then why should you have such bitter thoughts when they could be sweet? Why choose thorns when there's roses at your feet?

To Patrons
It has been our intention for sometime to state plainly the purpose of the publication, which we have named "Union Oak Leaflet." Our main motive was to offer another source or channel through which the child might exercise his thinking powers and stimulate his desire to put his thoughts into writings. We suggest if it is not asking too much, that you encourage your child to think on some of the following subjects and write them and hand them into the "Oak Leaflet." Character, Honesty, Truthfulness, Obedience, Will Power. This will largely fulfill our objective in attempting this publication.

Large advertisement for Chesterfield cigarettes featuring a woman reading a Chesterfield advertisement to a group of people. Text includes: 'Here's one cigarette that writes its own advertising.. It's like this— You see I'm reading a Chesterfield advertisement and I'm smoking a Chesterfield cigarette, and all of you are smoking Chesterfields. Now listen—Chesterfields are mild (not strong, not harsh). That's true isn't it? Then you read "and yet they satisfy, please your taste, give you what you want in a cigarette." That says it, doesn't it? Wait a minute— It says now that Chesterfields have plenty of aroma and flavor. One of you go out of the room and come back. That will tell you how pleasing the aroma is. Chesterfield writes its own advertising'

The STRANGE CASE of JULIA CRAIG

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JULIA CRAIG, pretty young secretary to GEORGE WOODFORD of the law firm at Woodford and Brooks, is ambitious to become a night club singer. Julia lives on a mountain with AMY SANDERS.

PETER KEMP, who employed Woodford and Brooks, is in love with Julia, but she discourages his attentions. He gives Julia a letter of introduction to HENRY BERRY, head barman, but in the letter asks 3000 and to give her a job. Julia at once tells him she has everything in order business-wise.

Woodford tells Julia he is expecting a party on his yacht and asks her to come along to give for his guests. She agrees. Others on the yacht include GEORGE LEE, doctor; BOB, JACKSON, salesman; HENRY BERRY, and ROYAL NEESBITT.

Julia discovers the others which is on the yacht at Woodford's guest and also that the trip is to be for more than a week-end. When she mentions to him about this he laughs her objections aside.

CHAPTER IX

THE Wood Nymph reached Evergreen Island early the following afternoon, and despite Julia's feelings against Woodford and his plans she was forced to admit that he had chosen a beautiful spot for the yacht's destination.

As nearly as she could make out Evergreen was the largest of a veritable string of small islands tufted with foliage clear from the water's edge. But as Captain Blake carefully navigated in and out of the slender inlets and brought the boat to the far side of Evergreen Island, Julia saw that it held a sheltered bay. A part of the shore here was cleared, and she could discern a path leading up from the water.

Suddenly the yacht's engines stopped and the Wood Nymph drifted quietly into the bay under her own momentum. Julia was alone on the after deck as they came into an awesome stillness she had never before experienced. She had heard of "quiet"—she had believed she'd had moments of it in town. But now she knew that this was quiet—quiet as God had meant it.

At the sound of a human voice at her side, Julia started. It was Obo. She spoke softly, as though she too, were awed.

"Beautiful, isn't it?" she said. "I sort of feel awkward and gawky just looking at it."

There was the sudden pound of the engines again as they were thrown into reverse to hold the Wood Nymph in her path. Then they were shut off, and Julia and Cintra heard the sound of the anchor windlass paying out up forward.

Royal Neesbitt joined them. "Come on," he said. "The skipper's putting the tender down and we're going ashore."

SPEDILY and efficiently, Captain Blake set them ashore in the mahogany power boat which had been carried atop the Wood Nymph's main cabin. Julia sat in the stern seat with Woodford.

"Now," he said, "aren't you glad you came along?"

"It's wonderful," Julia said, evading his question.

"Wonderful!" exclaimed Nash turning to her and Woodford. "It's more than that. And it's the greatest hunting grounds on earth. All sorts of game. Obviously these islands were strung together at one time and probably connected with the mainland. The beauty of it is that no one sets on here except lucky Woodford and his lucky guests."

"Is the whole island yours?" asked Julia.

Woodford grinned happily. "The whole island? This is my ocean when I feel things to join me getting too rough for me!"

The party departed from the little power boat and felt the soft beach beneath their feet. Mrs. Joseph closed her eyes and sighed. Not prepared for more than a week-end trip on the yacht she had brought with her only the white gown and a sports outfit suitable for the deck of the Wood Nymph. When she looked down into the big living room and saw the two women she was about to return to her room and change again to the sports clothes. But Mrs. Joseph, cocktail in hand, espied her on the balcony.

"Ah," she said, raising her glass dramatically toward the stairs. "The lady enters!"

HER cruelty fell far short of its mark. Julia's heart warmed as she saw Cintra give the widow a dagger-like glance of disapproval. And the admiration in the eyes of Woodford and Nash and Neesbitt was unmistakable. Mere men they cared little for the amenities of female dress. They saw only that a woman who had youth and beauty, ravishing in a white satin gown that revealed lovely curves, was descending the stairs.

Woodford came forward quickly and handed her a cocktail. She thanked him, and walked on toward the fireplace where a huge log was burning brightly. They were all several cocktails ahead of her, and Julia felt that dinner was far from their minds at the moment. She herself was hungry and she wondered if there might be a chance to slip away into the kitchen to snatch some food from Obo.

But at that moment Obo entered—not with dinner, but with another tray of cocktails. Julia's heart sank.

Setting down her almost untouched drink, Julia left the fireplace bench and moved toward the door. As the rest of the party gathered around Obo's laden tray, it was no trick for Julia to make her exit into the moonlight which bathed the wide verandah.

Her mind occupied with conflicting thoughts, she followed the path, believing that eventually it would lead her to the water's edge. But somehow she must have taken a path other than the one they had traversed that evening, for instead of reaching the water she soon found herself effectively shut out by the moonlight.

She stopped uncertainly in the dark path. And then, quite close a man's voice said, "If you're a ghost... you're a very beautiful one!"

she told herself. "And I don't want to be a wet blanket. But—"

The "but" was unanswerable. She could only prepare to meet them all in the room below and pretend to be one of them. At that moment she would have welcomed Amy Sanders' concise and cynical comment. Sighing she took the white satin from her bag and began to get ready for dinner.

When she reappeared on the balcony half an hour later she was too late that Cintra Lee and the widow had not dressed for dinner. They were smart outdoors outfits that seemed to fit perfectly into the surroundings. Julia reddened. Not prepared for more than a week-end trip on the yacht she had brought with her only the white gown and a sports outfit suitable for the deck of the Wood Nymph. When she looked down into the big living room and saw the two women she was about to return to her room and change again to the sports clothes. Salaries of County Officers Is Fixed For Year 1936 Under New Law

Annual salaries and office expenses of county officials have been set at $43,670 by county commissioners. Last year fees collected by officers for their salary and expenses were $43,070.06.

Commissioners took into consideration when setting the salaries that an officer was entitled to a salary not less than the total sum earned as compensation by him in his official capacity for the fiscal year of 1936 and not more than the minimum amount allowed under laws existing on Aug. 24, 1934.

Salaries of the county auditor and the county commissioners were not affected by the new law as their remuneration is determined by the assessed valuations of the county.

The following was prepared by County Auditor Don Parker:

This item of office expense includes all automobile and traveling expense in connection with transportation of prisoners.

The county judge's salary is $3,500.00 but the major portion is paid out of the Road and Bridge Fund and does not affect the Salary Fund.

*The County Treasurer's salary is limited to $2,000.00 which is a commission for handling funds of the county of which $1,100.00 is paid out of other funds.

Commissioners court has voted for continuation of compensation of precinct officers on the basis of fees earned by them in their performance of duties. The vote was unanimous.

While the constitutional amendment for abolition of the fee system provided for setting of salary schedules for county officers, Senate Bill No. 5 gave commissioners the option of allowing continuance of the old system or fixing compensation of the precinct officers. Precinct officers who will continue on the fee basis are justices of peace and constables.

would have required months of arduous and dangerous labor by dog team. On March 29, 1929, the ship was flown to the rescue of the party headed by Charles Gould which had been marooned in a blizzard at the base of Rockefeller Mountains when the gale overturned and wrecked their Fokker monoplane which had been anchored to the ice.

The Fairchild "Stars and Stripes" was then placed in a hangar of snow and ice for the winter. In December, 1934, word was received in New York from Admiral Byrd that after four years members of the second Byrd expedition had removed the Fairchild from its tomb of snow and ice and that despite its long exposure to temperatures of 71 degrees below zero and pressure of the snow and ice that had covered it, the plane flew successfully after minor tuning up. It was found to be in exceptionally serviceable condition despite the four years' refrigeration.

In fact it was in such good condition that until personal arrangements forbade it, Lieut. Commander Isaac Schlossbach, U. S. N., of the second Byrd Expedition, planned to fly it from Australia on an extensive tour through the Fast East and the Orient.

Sanitation Urged For Entire State By Health Officer

AUSTIN.—If Texas is going to entertain millions of visitors during the great Centennial celebration and have them think kindly of us, then every citizen must insist on complete sanitation, declared Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer.

Dr. Brown further stated, "Every home owner should start now to clean and beautify their yards, this would include also sanitating of water supplies and having proper toilet facilities.

Cities should see that their water systems are free of contamination, that proper sewage facilities are available, and that all public eating places and rooms are spotlessly clean.

"Many counties may secure labor for malaria control and rural sanitation. It is hoped that full advantage of this will be taken and that cities are kept sanitary in order that the celebration of one hundred years of independence will not be marred by any epidemic."

Admiral Byrd's Antarctic Airplane to Fly Here Tuesday

"The Stars and Stripes," world famous airplane used by Admiral Richard E. Byrd on both of his Expeditions to the South Polar regions will be on exhibition and carry passengers from the local airport Tuesday afternoon and night from 2 p. m. to 10 p. m. Night flights will be featured presenting a new experience for most people. Passengers will experience the thrill of riding in the same plane that Admiral Byrd flew over the 70-degree-below-zero ice covered regions of the South Pole.

Alton H. Walker, president of Western Airplane Distributors, Kansas City, Mo., whose company is sponsoring a two-year world tour, is here with the plane. Mrs. Walker is accompanying him. Bob Myrick, well known middle west test pilot with three thousand hours flying experience will be at the controls with Dan Covington as co-pilot. The plane has just been factory reconditioned and relicensed by the government for its long tour.

Forty large framed actual photographs of both Byrd Expeditions will be displayed at the airport and Mr. Walker invites the public to see these unusual pictures without obligation. Pieces from "The Stars and Stripes" direct from the South Polar regions will be given as souvenirs to those taking flights.

On account of the plane's historical career and as a permanent memorial to Admiral Byrd's sensational and dramatic experiences in the Antarctic it is expected that on completion of this tour the "Stars and Stripes" will be placed in the Smithsonian Institute at Washington, D. C.

The plane, a seven-passenger cabin Airchild, explored over a half million square miles of frozen Antarctic territory at the rate of 4,000 square miles an hour, being flown 146 hours on the first expedition and 41 on the second.

Thousands of photographs were made from this plane. "The Stars and Stripes" was unloaded at the Bay of Whales January 13, 1929, and two days later made the first exploration flight with Admiral Richard E. Byrd as navigator and Dean Smith piloting. Seven flights were made that day by various pilots. Lindbergh Inlet and Chamberlain Harbor were discovered and named this same day.

On January 16, 1929, "The Stars and Stripes" was flown to Little America. On the 27th it was flown eastward from Little America carrying Berni Bekehen as pilot, Harold June as radio operator and Admiral Byrd, to survey the area east of the mouth of the Bay of Whales. The plane carried a gross load of 5,700 pounds including 790 pounds of emergency equipment. The first important discov-

Letters From Our Readers

To The Editor:
From the enclosed clipping it may be seen that the National Retail Grocers association has announced that the use of circulars by grocers because they proved ineffective advertising mediums is to be discontinued, which leads me to make a suggestion that will probably be a big help in keeping the city cleaner.
If the use of circulars as an advertising medium could be curtailed it would be a big help to any city, and to ours particularly.
Some firms have a habit of placing circulars on front porches, front lawns, stuck inside doors and on door handles of automobiles. It is doubtful if one person out of a hundred even glances at these circulars, but they are left to blow about the streets and create a very unsightly appearance.
I have noticed circulars placed on the door handles of automobiles parked in the business section of town and have never, yet, seen anyone read one. They are jerked off and thrown to the street to add to the large accumulation that has gathered. Those placed in doors in the residential section meet with the same fate, and they soon clutter up one's yard so it looks almost like a dump ground. I have a hedge at my home that is a catch-all for all the circulars left in our block and it keeps me busy trying to keep them picked up and burned.
Often the business section has a disgraceful appearance, one that would tend to drive customers from the town, because of the trash and circulars that accumulate and blow up and down the sidewalks with the very gust of wind.
Some towns have a city ordinance against circulars, and even where they are placed behind doors they constitute a decided nuisance. This is something the city commission should take into consideration and the business houses of the town should sanction an ordinance of this kind because circulars are probably the most expensive kind of advertising, since so few, if anyone, reads them, and they do more to keep the town dirty than all the clean-up campaigns that could be staged would overcome.
Would like to read what other readers think, and now is a good time, because we usually have our clean-up campaign in the early spring.—A READER.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Special Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON.—It was a good thing the Democrats had a speech on the program for their Jackson Day dinner. Otherwise, most of the guests wouldn't have been able to take their minds or eyes off the Hon. J. Bruce Kremer.
To tell the truth, there was even more later-table and intra-table whispering about the Hon. J. Bruce than there was over the stiff fact that the dinner was costing $50 a plate.
He was stuck right in at the head table between the president and the vice president of the United States and nobody could have been more conspicuous unless he had hung from one of the magnificent chandeliers by the slack of his pants.
Once upon a time Mr. Roosevelt had publicly frowned upon the various Democratic national committeemen who had moved here to become lawyer-lobbyists and cash in on their political acquaintanceship and prestige—and it was around that time that Committeeman Kremer of Montana and others resigned.
Of course J. Bruce was chairman of the committee which organized the dinner, but efforts to learn how he landed that post or his seat at table proved all in vain.
MANY other lobbyists were there and most of them were looking enviously at Mr. Kremer. Also, social climbers, favor-seekers, politicians, hick congressmen, and a host of jobholders were there because they feared their absence would put them on the bad books of the patronage pi-counter.
It takes all kinds to make a political party and elect a president. (The Democratic National Committee, for instance, is loaded with "Old Dealers"—McAdoo of California, Talmadge of Georgia, Paddy Nash of Chicago, Tiger of Indiana, Ruby Laffoon of Kentucky, Howard Bruce of Maryland, Ely of Massachusetts, Hague of New Jersey, Chavez of New Mexico, Shuping of North Carolina, Ewing of Utah, Byrd of Virginia, and many others who don't exactly click with Roosevelt liberalism.)
ROOSEVELT'S speech was worth at least part of the admission price. You can judge its content for yourself, but hardly deny that this is the most effective, appealing and brilliant gem who has been in presidential politics in many a long year.
This was a fighting man and it was easy to see him as a refined replica of Andrew Jackson.
NEXT day, when Jim Farley auctioned off the national convention, you found Kremer and Arthur Mullen, the celebrated lobbyist and ex-committeeman from Nebraska, sitting right in the middle of the Democratic National Committee, from which they were commonly supposed to have been barred because of their lucrative business activities.
It seemed that J. Bruce had a proxy for the national committeewoman from Alaska and Mullen had one from the committeeman for Hawaii.

HERE ARE THE REAL FACTS ABOUT BRAN

Brought Out by Tests with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN
Some years ago, there was considerable difference of opinion regarding the use of bran. So to discover the actual facts of the case, the Kellogg Company asked for a series of laboratory tests at leading universities.
Experimental studies on a group of healthy women showed that the continued use of bran was thoroughly satisfactory. Unlike cathartics, it did not lose its effect.
Other independent tests on men indicated that, with certain people, the "bulk" in bran was more effective than that found in fruits and vegetables.
Laboratory analysis proved that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplied vitamin B and iron as well as plenty of bulk. This "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is gentle in action. It absorbs a great deal of moisture, and cleanses the intestinal tract.
ALL-BRAN corrects constipation due to insufficient "bulk." It is the natural way—far better than using pills and tablets.
Serve as a cereal—or use in cooking. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

10 Thousand Times No To Requests To Congress for Seeds

WASHINGTON.—The flow of "free seed" letters is beginning again, but indications are there will be fewer than last year. For 13 years the U. S. Department of Agriculture has been trying to convince 1,000,000 people that it has no free seeds or plants. Yet each year, as spring comes, thousands of requests pour in from farms, suburbs and penthouses. And all the writers of these letters meet disappointment.
Years ago—previous to 1923—there was an annual appropriation for free seeds for Congressional distribution through the Department of Agriculture. But in 1923 the Government decided to discontinue the distribution of the great quantity of seed since it was only commercial garden seed as could be bought from any good seed house and did not necessarily represent varieties better than those in common use.
Not only does the Department of Agriculture have no free seed it has no seeds or plants for sale either.

“Eleven Billion Dollars a year for FOOD?”

THAT'S HOW MUCH AMERICAN WOMEN SPEND. IF YOU ARE BUYING FOOD FOR THE SO-CALLED AVERAGE FAMILY OF FOUR YOUR SHARE IS AT LEAST $11 A WEEK.

THE JOB OF GETTING THE MOST OUT OF THAT ELEVEN DOLLARS REQUIRES THOUGHTFUL PLANNING, IF NOT INGENUITY. YOU'VE GOT TO KEEP A SUPPLY OF STAPLES ON HAND--FLOUR, SUGAR, SHORTENING, BAKING POWDER, ESSENTIAL CONDIMENTS AND SPICES. A VARIETY OF BREAKFAST CEREALS IS REQUIRED. MILK, BUTTER, EGGS AND CHEESE FIGURE IN MEALS CONSTANTLY. TEA, COFFEE, COCOA AND CANNED FRUIT JUICES ARE CONSUMED DAILY. FRESH, AS WELL AS CANNED FRUITS AND VEGETABLES, CAN'T BE OVERLOOKED. MEATS AND FISH--EITHER FRESH, SMOKED OR CANNED--DEMAND THAT YOU BUY THEM. JELLIES, JAMS, RELISHES AND CANNED SOUPS INSIST UPON A PLACE IN YOUR MARKET BASKET. AND LAST, BUT NOT LEAST, IS BREAD THREE TIMES A DAY.

SO WHAT'S THE BEST RULE TO FOLLOW IN BUYING THIS WIDE ASSORTMENT OF FOOD? HOW CAN YOU AVOID MONOTONY IN MEALS? HOW CAN YOU DISCOVER NEW MENUS AND RECIPES? HOW CAN YOU HAVE ENOUGH MONEY LEFT OVER EACH WEEK FROM YOUR FOOD ALLOWANCE FOR A FEW TASTY LUXURIES THAT MAKE MEALS MORE APPETIZING? HOW CAN YOU SAVE TIME AND MONEY IN BUYING?

WELL, YOU CAN TRAMP THROUGH THE MARKETS DAILY---LOOKING, PRICING AND COMPARING. BUT THERE'S AN EASIER WAY--A MORE ACCURATE WAY--A MORE UP-TO-THE-MINUTE WAY---

BRIDE COMES HOME HEADS WEEK'S PROGRAM

COLBERT TO CO-STAR WITH MACMURRAY

The story of a modern girl with a super-charged temper who meets and loves a man who prefers fighting to eating will be brought to the screen of the Arcadia Theatre Sunday in "The Bride Comes Home," with Claudette Colbert and Fred MacMurray in the featured roles.

It is a thoroughly amusing story, skillfully presented, and possesses a definite appeal for all married couples. The spectacle of a young woman and a young man who disagree on everything from spinach to toothbrushes, but manage in their impetuous way to work out their heavy problem, would be difficult to present without being entertaining.

Yet "The Bride Comes Home" is more than that. The picture could not have been better cast. Lovely Miss Colbert is superb as the society girl whose father has lost all his money and who decides to go to work, while MacMurray is grand as the hard-boiled, two-fisted newspaperman who turns magazine editor and finds Miss Colbert working as his assistant.

Though they battle from the moment of their meeting, the magnetic force of love conspires to bring them to the threshold of marriage—with the jilted playboy millionaire, Robert Young, left sulking in the corner. Then Miss Colbert is informed that MacMurray snores! She learns that he goes stark mad if anybody so much as touches his toothbrush, even the handle. Further than that, he can't work properly in his apartment unless the floor is piled with rubbish, the bed unmade, and dirt a half inch thick on the furniture.

When Claudette undertakes to give the apartment a thorough cleaning a few hours before the scheduled wedding, MacMurray almost embarks on a cataleptic fit and chases the justice of the peace out of the house.

The denouement when Miss Colbert and Young elope to a Green outside Chicago, with MacMurray in close pursuit astride a speeding motorcycle, furnishes one of the most hilarious episodes the film has offered in months.

Cry of "professional" was stilled at the Wisconsin lins' contest when it was shown the contestants included no politicians or golfers.

Fewer Companies Are Given Charters

AUSTIN, Tex.—The number of new charters granted Texas corporations by the Secretary of State during December declined substantially both in comparison with the preceding month and the corresponding month last year, according to the Bureau of Business Research of The University of Texas. For the entire year 1935, however, the number of new charters granted was 15 per cent greater than for the years before.

Total capitalization of the new corporations increased sharply over the preceding month and December a year ago. This comparison is not significant, however, since the increase was the result of the conversion of bonds to stock by one large company, the Bureau's report said. Aggregate new capitalization for the entire year was $32,000,000, 44 per cent greater than for 1934.

The groups showing an increase in the number of new charters granted in comparison with the preceding year were: Oil, 8.3 per cent; manufacturing, 31.3 per cent; banking-finance, 23 per cent; real estate-building, 14 per cent; transportation, 55.6 per cent; merchandising, 23 per cent.

New Orleans Second To New York Port

NEW ORLEANS.—New Orleans stands second to New York in the value of exports and imports received at the port during the first eight months of 1935.

Exports and imports for the period totaled $173,375,286, as compared with $147,999,726 for the same period in 1934.

The Galveston customs district, which includes Houston, ranked third, with exports and imports valued at $146,722,738.

In New Orleans exports for the eight-month period were valued at $93,751,637 and imports at $79,623,649.

Couple Beset By Much Hard Luck

KIRKSVILLE, Mo.—Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Forrest are bidding for that mythical title of No. 1 hard-luck couple.

Last June Forrest was forced to give up a job to undergo a major operation. There were many bills which accompanied the several weeks in a hospital.

The Forrests moved to a small farm near here and by intensive cultivation raised a garden crop and canned 300 quarts of wild berries picked from the surrounding country. Last month while away from home fire razed the structure, destroyed all their clothing and belongings and ruined their canned fruit and vegetables. They carried no insurance.

Forrest rented a truck and decided to start hauling operations as a means of livelihood. The next day while Mrs. Forrest was riding with him they were struck by another car. Result: severe lacerations and cuts about the body and face for Forrest and a broken nose and minor injuries for Mrs. Forrest. Forrest says he is undecided what to try next.

New Turkish Regime Lures Turks Back

ISTANBUL.—Almost every day ships crowded with returning emigrants enter Istanbul harbor. These former emigrants are men and women who lived on in the Balkans after the Turkish overlords were driven out. Now the new nationalist feeling in the Balkans is making things uncomfortable for foreigners, and there is the additional incentive of the new prestige of Republic Turkey, so the tall who can are coming home. The Turkish government is installing many of them in Thrace, which it is hoped to populate with half a million new cultivators.

Ditch Digger in CCC Heads for Annapolis

WASHINGTON.—Blaine Eader digs ditches and dreams of the days he may shed his CCC khaki for a smart U. S. Naval Academy uniform.

He took the October competitive examination for West Point appointments and, because of heavy CCC routine work, almost forgot about it. Recently he received a letter from home that said he stood first on the examination list.

His appointment, however, is subject to entrance examinations and the usual physical test. Eader, a strapping 17-year-old, 5 foot 10 youth, won a scholarship to Washington and Lee University and should have little trouble with either requirement.

A Bostonian, who recently suffered from a lapse of memory, ran for senator on a Towns plank. If he wins, Townsend hope there will be no relapse.

UNIVERSAL SOUND NEWS

By HARRY GRAYSON

NEW YORK—William S. O'Brien, front man for the William T. Tilden company, declares that the United States Lawn Tennis Association carried its silly war against the professionals to such extent that Bitty Grant, Atlanta's Mighty Midget, has been promised a place on America's 1934 Davis Cup team for remaining in the fold.

Grant is entitled to a thorough trial and probably would be a member of the squad regardless of any pledge. O'Brien, who offered Grant $15,000 for five months of travel, says that he merely cites the Georgian's case to illustrate how far the amateur bigwigs will go to keep the boys in line.

O'Brien points out that clubs throughout the country are paying no attention to the U. S. L. T. A. rule prohibiting them from permitting professionals to play on their courts if the clubs share in the receipts. District associations themselves have contracted with Tilden Tours, Inc.

"The clubs are for us," explains O'Brien. "They're willing to fight the association if necessary. Take this letter I have from the president of the club in Chattanooga. He says that it costs his club hundreds of dollars every year to put on its invitation tournament."

Promoter Still Hopes to Land Wilmer Allison

THIS club already has sold more than $500 worth of tickets for our show. It expects to clear at least $1500. Using the president's own words, "What do you think I'll do, listen to those stuffed shirts in the association or give my club a chance to make some much-needed money?"

"If the association insists at its February meeting that members comply with the rule, I'll have some fine lawsuits that I can't lose.
