What Taxpayers Get, They Get in the Neck

Whenever the mills of the gods start grinding, down in Washington, the innocent little citizen who does the buying and pays the bills for the nation starts looking for a cyclone cellar...

For it seems to be a peculiarity of our government that it can lend a ready ear to anyone who comes down demanding something, but gets singularly deaf when the man who has to give something lifts his voice.

The ordinary citizen—the ultimate consumer, the good old taxpayer, the man who buys what the farmer raises and the industrialist manufactures, and who kicks through with the taxes that keep the country going—has one function above all others. That is to get it in the neck.

He is the originator of the grin-and-bear-it phrase. He has to take it and he has to like it, for no one in Washington ever bothers to wield sword and buckler in his behalf.

Is there a soldiers' bonus bill in the offing? Then rush it through with a whoop! The bill can be handed to the ultimate consumer, and he lost his voice away back when the ark was a-building, so he won't say anything.

Is there a new farm plan to be devised? Then fix one that has no brake at all on the up-take, so that farmer, distributor, and processor can all get theirs. The housewife at the grocery store will foot the bill cheerfully—or at any rate, silently, which is all that counts.

Must the processing taxes of the old AAA be refunded? Go ahead and refund them, and never mind if the people to whom you refund them managed to pass them right on to the consumer at the time they were collected. The consumer isn't organized; he supports neither leagues nor lobbies.

Besides, who ever heard of giving a sucker an even break?

Now those brief paragraphs actually do tell the story of the way such things are worked down in Washington.

There is ample protection there for any group that is in shape to demand it. If the farmers are in bad straits, they can get something done about it. If the ex-soldiers need action, it will be given them.

If the great middlemen of the food trade are in a fix, Washington will remedy it. If organized labor or organized industry need something, it has an excellent chance of getting it.

The one person who can never conceivably get any help out of his government is this same consumer and taxpayer.

It would be refreshing to see just one administration make the protection of this man the chief plank in its platform. But which of us expects to live long enough to see any such sight as that?

If Borah has his way about it, the coming presidential election won't be a case of seeing what the boys in the back room will have.

Woman Victimized By An Itinerant Fortune Teller

YORK, Pa.—It cost Mrs. Harvey Eppley, 1498 West Poplar street, $20 to have her fortune told. The swindle was perpetrated recently.

"The Indian Fortune Teller," as the swindler called herself, appeared at the Eppley residence on that date and inquired if Mrs. Eppley would like to have her fortune told. Mrs. Eppley gave her consent.

Before she finished her task, the fortune teller said in order that the fortune may materialize, Mrs. Eppley would have to wrap a piece of paper money, bread and salt in a man's handkerchief and sleep on it for a night.

The next day the woman made her appearance. She asked Mrs. Eppley if she had slept on the package and the Borough resident replied that she had. In order to complete the fortune, the swindler said, she would have to take the handkerchief and its contents to a church and pray over them.

The woman departed with the money and has not been heard of since.

A report of the incident was made to Borough Officer John H. Dodson Saturday. He immediately began an investigation. The woman is described as tall and slender, with dark red hair, is about 40 years of age and wore a dark coat and small hat.

Your Income Tax

CAPITAL GAINS AND LOSSES

Section 117 of the Revenue Act of 1934 deals with the manner of taking into account in computing net income gains and losses from the sale or exchange of capital assets as computed and recognized under sections 111, 112 and 113.

Section 117 (a) provides that in the case of a taxpayer other than a corporation only the following percentages of the gain or loss recognized upon the sale or exchange of a capital asset shall be taken into account in computing net income: 100 per cent if the capital asset has been held for more than 1 year; 80 per cent if the capital asset has been held for more than 2 years; 40 per cent if the capital asset has been held for more than 5 years; 20 per cent if the capital asset has been held for more than 10 years.

Section 117 (b) defines capital assets as property held by the taxpayer (whether or not connected with his trade or business), but does not include stock in trade of the taxpayer or other property of a kind which would properly be included in the inventory of the taxpayer if on hand at the close of the taxable year, or property held by the taxpayer primarily for sale to customers in the ordinary course of his trade or business.

Section 117 (c) provides the rules for determining the period for which a capital asset has been held and is similar to the provisions of section 101 (c) (8) of the Revenue Act of 1932. These provisions are in general to the effect that, where property is acquired in an exchange and the property so acquired retains the old basis which to compute gain or loss or where property is acquired from another person and the property retains the same basis on which to compute gain or loss as it had in the hands of the person from which the property disposed of in the exchange or the period during which the property was held by such former owner is also to be included in determining the period for which the property is held for the purpose of section 117 (a).

Section 117 (d) provides a very important limitation affecting all taxpayers (including corporations, except with respect to banks and trust companies), that is, that losses from sales or exchange of capital assets shall be allowed only to the extent of $2,000 plus the gains from such sales or exchanges.

Section 117 (e) provides that gains or losses from "short sales" of property, and gains or losses attributable to the failure to exercise privileges or options to buy or sell property, shall be considered as gains or losses from sales or exchanges of capital assets. In the former the percentage of the gain or loss to be taken into account shall be computed according to the period for which the property delivered was held. In the latter the gains or losses shall be considered as arising from sales or exchanges of capital assets held for 1 year or less.

Section 117 (f) provides that amounts received upon the retirement of corporate bonds and similar evidences of corporate indebtedness, with interest coupons or in registered form, shall be considered as amounts received in exchange therefor, thus giving to any gain or loss thereby resulting to the holder the status of capital gain or loss, as the case may be.

BEWARE of STRANGERS and PEDDLERS At Your Door WARNS Chief of Police

To The Citizens and Housewives of Ranger:

THIS IS A WARNING issued for the protection of homes and citizens from the HAZARDS OF DEALING WITH ITINERANT PEDDLERS and STRANGERS.

OWING TO THE FACT that there have been many cases of High Pressure Selling Schemes reported to the Police recently by the housewives and citizens the following warning is issued.

STRANGERS SHOULD NOT BE ADMITTED to your homes UNTIL THEIR CREDENTIALS HAVE BEEN CHECKED UP AND VERIFIED, and that you ARE SURE YOU KNOW the party at your door to be a LOCAL CITIZEN deserving your consideration.

ONE NEED NOT BE AFRAID of offending the HONEST SALESMAN, living here, or REPRESENTING A LOCAL BUSINESS FIRM, he will have his CREDENTIALS WITH HIM---that is why all are required to carry their identification SO AS TO PROTECT YOU.

DO NOT PAY CASH IN ADVANCE to Strangers on orders---as in many cases the customer HAS NEVER RECEIVED THE MERCHANDISE---nor has there been any refund of the cash-in-advance payment.

DO NOT CASH CHECKS OR ISSUE A CHECK to a Stranger on an order. Often times these checks have been "ALTERED" and later cashed by an innocent party.

IN CASE YOU ARE SUSPICIOUS --- PHONE THE POLICE AT ONCE --- DO NOT DELAY IN THIS---as it will enable our police to overtake anyone making false representations at your home.

IT'S BETTER TO BE SAFE THAN SORRY --- Protect yourself --- BE SURE you know who the Stranger is at your door before allowing him admittance to your home. ASK FOR IDENTIFICATIONS.

CRUISE TO NOWHERE

HE'S HERE TODAY

JANE WESTON looks very nervous as she sits on the deck of the ship. She is waiting for the man who she has been waiting for so long. She is waiting for the man who she has been waiting for so long.

Dirk looked at her with a smile. "You're a charming boy," she said.

Dirk experienced a little self-consciousness. Everyone pointed them out in the saloon. He knew they were saying, "There is Nora Lane, the actress. I wonder who he is with her?"

NORA LANE asked them, "What do you do? Do you work at something or are you still just living?"

She was so careful not to hurt anyone's feelings that she worded her questions like bright lines from a play. He told her he was only a ski jumper, and she smiled.

"I once saw those incredible fellows jumping at St. Moritz—falling through the air like giant birds," she said. "I talked to a little Swiss in the stands. He was only 14. I asked to feel his arms to see if jumpers had any nerves and I

He turned to Nora Lane. "Let's go see the sun set," he suggested. "We can go up to the hurricane deck and here'll be nobody to stare at us."

Miss Lane smiled. "I was hoping you'd ask me. I've been lonely on this cruise." Her face was tired again. She looked about her furtively as though afraid of something.

"But I'll go with you," she finished, and Dirk knew what her fears were. He was sorry for her.

JANE stood with Tino Rossi at the ship's stern and watched the sunset on glorious tropic seas.

"Late tonight," Jane said, "we'll be in the Bahamas. I asked the petty officer that lovely brute in the white and gold braid—"

"Darling," Tino said. "When you speak of other men I am mad with jealousy."

"Idiot!"

Inwardly Jane was pleased. It had been really flattering to have the famous singer murmur pleasant things to her all afternoon. She had lunched with him, promenaded the deck and watched the deck games until it was time to go on to the tea dance. She asked about his career and he asked her nothing about herself.

"You are so divinely you," he had said. "That's all a man should ask of you."

That speech had made Jane think of Dirk Strom. Dirk must not have seen her for what she was. He had been harboring an illusion about her, an illusion which he cherished more than he had her.

But Jane was pleased by the looks that followed her and Tino about the deck. She had hoped fervently to meet Dirk—with the glamorous Tino, attentive, at her side. She'd show Dirk.

She had been surprised and a little disconcerted to see him with the actress, Nora Lane, but she didn't care now. She felt she had everything she had hoped for and dreamed for on this cruise.

Jane turned to see a man with a camera facing them. It was Mannie Jackson, the sleek, pasty-faced individual who had followed her and Dirk the first day on ship board. She still distrusted him but when he asked to take a photograph of her with the baritone she gave her assent.

"Go ahead, shoot!" she said gaily. Tino straightened his tie and put his arm around her in the

Speedy Truck Is Used Effectively In Hunting for Coyotes

KARVAL, Colo.—Modern methods have been injected into the ancient Western sport of coyote hunting and the pastime has become a profitable business for Charles Gross.

Gross uses a light truck in his work. The truck is able to maintain a speed of 50 to 55 miles an hour over the prairie and he can overtake the fleetest coyote, which is capable of a top speed of 35 to 40 miles.

The truck is equipped with three compartments in which dogs ride. Three dogs are carried in each compartment.

When Gross is within 300 yards of a coyote he releases one group of dogs. Two tackle hounds and one killer are sent after the coyote, an animal about the size of a small police dog. In event another coyote is sighted before the dogs make it kill Gross merely turns loose another trio of dogs.

Only One Low Priced Car is FIRST in Everything That Counts

...TERRAPLANE JUST COMPARE THIS with THIS

- Terraplane alone among all popular low priced cars gives you this:
- Full 115-inch wheelbase.
 - 195 inches over-all length.
 - Most power—88 or 100 horsepower—with freedom from vibration at all speeds.
 - Body all of steel, with seamless roof of solid steel.
 - Most inside room—145 cubic feet—more leg and shoulder room, and widest rear seat.
 - Completely new style—best insurance of the investment value of your car.
 - The only rear opening baggage and tire compartment on 5 and 6-passenger models that can be had in any low priced car without extra cost. Spare tire lies flat inside.
 - Duo-Automatic Hydraulic Brakes (patent applied for), two braking systems operating automatically from one brake pedal. And a third braking system from the easiest operating parking brake in the world.
 - Extra deep "V-type" windshield—for added beauty and wider vision.
- In every other popular low priced car this is what you get:
- 2 to 6 inches less wheelbase.
 - 5 to 12½ inches less over-all length.
 - 3 to 18 less horsepower than Terraplane's 88—and not nearly as smooth.
 - Body only partly of steel—or steel body with "soft-top."
 - Less inside room—less shoulder and leg room—narrower rear seats.
 - 1935 styling, changed only in details. Far more likely to be out of date by 1937.
 - No rear opening baggage and tire compartment, except in cars where trunk models are available—at considerable extra cost. Spare tire mounted outside on all other models.
 - Single main braking system—either hydraulic or mechanical—without complete reserve braking system and without Terraplane's type of easy acting parking brakes.
 - Nothing like Terraplane's deep "V-type" windshield in any other low priced car.

The list of Terraplane advantages doesn't stop with those listed here. There's greater ruggedness, proved by owner mileages of 125,000, 150,000 and more. Greater economy, too, certified by thousands of owner statements... emphasized again just the other day in the Los Angeles-Yosemite Economy Run when a Terraplane averaged 23.95 officially certified miles per gallon over a tough 352 mile stretch on mountain roads.

And dozens of other features... all at a price down with the lowest for the model you want. Come in and see and drive a Terraplane.

J. L. Hardin Is A Candidate For Constable Office

J. L. (Slim) Hardin of Ranger has announced his candidacy for the position of constable of the Ranger precinct. The candidate was born and raised near Weatherford, and moved to Ranger in 1921, having made his home here since that date. He was for one year an automobile mechanic for the Sinclair Company and was employed by the Illinois Pipe Line company. He has been actively engaged in oil company work since 1921. He is married and has five children. Hardin expects to see every voter in the Ranger precinct between now and the democratic primary of July 25 and will conduct an active campaign for the position. This is the first time he has ever offered for public office. Hardin says he will enforce the law to the best of his ability if elected and is asking the consideration to the voters. He will issue a formal statement within a few weeks.

OLDEN

Alvin Tate, agent for the T. & P. Railway company here, is ill in West Texas Clinic at Ranger at this time. Mrs. Pettitt underwent an operation at the Blackwell Sanatorium one day last week. She is still quite ill. The high school junior class enjoyed a class party at the home of Helen Adams last Friday night. A highly enjoyable time was reported by those attending which included, Betty Gray Nix, Florine Neaves, Doris Stanton, Lillian Nowlin, Ruth Hunt, Jackie Lee Koch, Helen Adams, Faye Whiznant, May Dell Crossley, Charles Magill, S. S. Hartin, Joe Horton, Joe Wilson, Max Anderson, T. J. Weeks.

C. A. Howell entertained a group of boys, Friday night with a popcorn and peanut party at his home here. The boys were members of the boys class in the Baptist Young Peoples Union. They reported a fine time. John C. Hyatt and G. W. Curry visited over the week-end in Hillsboro with G. W.'s parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Curry. Eloise Morton of Ranger spent Friday night and Saturday with Jean Adams in Olden. Mrs. Will Stephens, who has been visiting the past month with her son Jack Stephens and family here, returned to her home in Stephenville Saturday.

A public speaking was scheduled for Tuesday night Feb. 18, when Frank Judkins of Eastland was to discuss the Townsend Plan at the schoolhouse. Everyone was invited to attend. Rev. J. A. Lovell of Dublin held services at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Park in Olden Tuesday night, Feb. 11. A nice crowd attended and appreciated his sermon, and the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Park in having them. Several were also present from Cisco and Ranger.

The Olden orchestra, under the direction of Don Minnich, was scheduled to play at the American Legion Washington's birthday banquet, to be held this year on Feb. 20, at the Legion hall in Ranger. Virginia Sue Wyatt of Olden will also play with some Eastland musicians at the same occasion.

Mrs. Doyce Strong (nee Eleanor Stanton) of Hobbs, N. M., visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Stanton here Sunday and Monday returning to her home in Hobbs Monday afternoon. Valentine Day was celebrated at school with Valentine boxes in the lower grades and the friendly exchange of Valentines was greatly enjoyed by the little folks. Mrs. Wilson taught Friday of last week and Monday of this in the place of Mr. Pettitt, sixth grade teacher, who was absent because of his wife's illness in a German sanatorium.

The volley ball game scheduled between Olden girls and an Eastland team for Monday afternoon, Feb. 17, and to have been played at the Eastland gym, was called off because of the extreme cold weather. Miss Simer, coach of the Olden volley ball girls team, deserves a vote of thanks from the parents for her co-operation in safeguarding the health of the girls. The gasoline department of the Magnolia Petroleum held their safety first school last week, attending each afternoon for four days at 2 p. m. daily. Then preparing written outlines of the work each night to be handed in the following day. The production department will hold their safety first school next week beginning Monday.

LEGIONNAIRES AND THE STORY OF THEIR WORLD WAR SERVICE

MACK M. DUTTON
Editor's Note: This is the fifth of a series of weekly biographies written by B. H. Peacock, post commander of Carl Barnes Post of the American Legion of Ranger, based on the war-time experiences of members of the post. Another will follow in next Sunday's issue.

The call of duty during those stirring days of 1917-18 touched responsive cords, not only in the youth of our country, but those even beyond the prime of life as well. Thus it was that thousands of sons of America, in their teens, many of them; their twenties, thirties, forties; and some even beyond the half century mark, enlisted and cast their lot for a country that had protected and nurtured them. It must have been the Scotch-Irish in him, or at least some other inherited patriotic zeal that prompted Mack M. Dutton of Galveston, Texas, to volunteer for military duty at his then age of 28 years. His connection with the Southern Pacific Railroad and Steamship Company at that time was ample evidence in the eyes of Uncle Sam that he should be placed in a preferred class and exempt from military service. But not so with Dutton. Realizing that possibly others just as capable of doing his job and less so for doing military service, could handle his civil duties prompted him to enlist on June 24, 1918, in the army of the United States.

As with all other soldiers in the making, it became necessary, according to the recruiting officer that Dutton should hold up his hand in allegiance to the flag. And this, mind you, only 24 hours after he had sworn possibly a more lasting and permanent type of allegiance when he took Miss Hazel Burchette of Oklahoma to be his wife. But why a honeymoon for two when there was a war to be won by thousands, and literally millions. So it was back to the barracks for bridegroom Dutton, and back to home folks for Miss Hazel.

It was on the thirteenth day of October—and what a lucky day—in 1889 when young Dutton first saw the light of day in Arcadia, La. As a child he came with his parents to Wills Point in Van Zandt county where he grew to young manhood and received his education in the public schools. At 18, instead of listening to the "Go west, young man, go west," Mack went practically due south and landed a job with the Southern Pacific Steamship Company at Galveston in the clerical department. For 11 years, or until his enlistment in 1918, he served his company well at both Galveston and New Orleans. And it was this civilian training that no doubt placed young Dutton in good stead in his army career. For it was only a period of approximately seven weeks at Camp Travis with the quartermaster corps before Dutton, with approximately 25 of his Galveston buddies, was promoted from private to corporal, and then to sergeant. It was then that his detachment was ordered to Camp McArthur in Waco for special training in order to qualify for overseas duty. This was on the sixteenth of August in 1918, and two weeks later, the outfit was called in to report for physical examination prior to embarking for France. "So exacting were the physical requirements for overseas service," commented Dutton, "that on this particular occasion one of my buddies had gotten a small burn on his forearm from the tip of a lighted cigarette. He thought nothing particular of it, but the medical officer saw fit to place his case under observation for a day or so, and in the meantime the outfit had rolled out for Hoboken and Brest, France."

In like manner, due to a minor physical deficiency, Sergeant Dutton was denied the privilege of his men, and it fell his lot to write "finis," practically speaking, to what otherwise might have been a much more exciting and eventful career. So on Dec. 21, 1918, Capt. Harry Stewart expressed "bon voyage," and forthwith handed an honorable discharge from the army of the United States to Sergeant Mack Moreland Dutton, which among other things, stipulated "honest and faithful service."

But it would be amiss not to mention that soldiering for one's country was peculiar to only one member of the Dutton family. For out of five brothers and one sister a total of four brothers answered their country's call. Charlie, the younger, while still under age, enlisted and served in the infantry at Camp Pike, Ark., as well as an older brother, John, age 23. Tom, another brother, at 25, entered the army air service in New York, was commissioned as first lieutenant and saw service as a pilot overseas. And so it was that Citizen Dutton left Camp McArthur in Waco shortly thereafter, accompanied by his wife for Greenville, Texas.

On Sept. 14, 1919, they moved to Ranger, where he immediately entered the employ of the Wichita Falls, Ranger & Fort Worth Railroad as a clerk. He was advanced in 1926 to agent, at which position he is now employed with this company. Being interested in the civic and community interests wherein he lives, Dutton has been affiliated with both the Masons, Elks and the American Legion, of which he is now serving as vice commander. Three children, Maxine, 16; Mack, Jr., 13, and Jacqueline, 12, together with his wife now complete the family of Legionnaire Dutton. "Twenty per cent of the population of the United States use eyeglasses." The percentage might be higher, but umpires just won't take advice.

This picture was made of Sergeant Dutton during his sojourn at Camp McArthur, Texas, in 1918.

Pedigreed Dogs In U. S. Are Valuable

By United Press
NEW YORK—The nation's rising interest in dogs is shown graphically in statistics of the American Kennel Club showing registered or registrable pedigree dogs are valued at $40,000,000. The club also reveals that $75,000,000 is invested in approximately 5,000 kennels in the United States. As near as can be determined there are 15,000,000 dogs in this country. Although many of these must forage for themselves, the more fortunate consume more than $1,000,000 worth of canned food annually. There are 103 distinct breeds of dogs with the Boston terrier ranking first in popularity this year and the cocker spaniel second. Last year more than a million persons paid admissions to the various shows.

OAK GROVE

Morris Milford of this place and Miss Fay Chance of Cooper, Texas, were married at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Chance, Monday, Feb. 3, 1936. They will make their home at Cooper, where Morris has accepted a position with an auto supply company. We congratulate these young folks and wish for them the very best the world can give. Omer Milford went to Cooper last Sunday and returned Sunday. His mother, Mrs. Fred Milford, who has been visiting her sister in Delta county, returned with him. Omer has been real sick with tonsillitis since his return but is improving at this writing. Boyce Hooper and Omer Milford enjoyed an evening with their lady friends in Rising Star recently. Thomas H. Dingler of Carbon and Mr. Bragg, a geologist, were in this community Wednesday, incidental looking up a few more oil leases to join a little block for a deep test somewhere near Carbon. Hounded by police for charges of serious interest, those Manhattan racketeers apparently erred by calling it margin.

Indians Who Rolled in the Snow

Urged on by their Medicine Men, the Indians of long-vanished tribes "treated" themselves by rolling in snow and ice. Hopefully but futilely, they tried to drive from their bodies the "devil" that made them sick. Now instead of Medicine Men, we have Men of Medicine. Their prescriptions call for drugs, not superstition. That's why we carry over 1800 different drugs, and have two registered pharmacists to compound them. Bring your prescription or refills to this store and they will be filled quickly, accurately.

To Preach Here

Dr. J. A. Newsom of Oklahoma City who spent 17 years as an Indian captive, will preach at the Central Baptist Church this morning at 11 o'clock. Dr. Newsom, who is now nearly 69 years of age, was only 5 years old when he was captured by Indians. For a number of years he has been active as a lecturer and preacher and is an interesting speaker.

J. C. Walker Has Best Equipment to Test Radio Defects

J. C. Walker, radio electrician of Ranger, has the best equipped radio testing and repairing shop in West Texas at his Home Electric Shop, Harwell avenue.
"If I didn't think I had the best in West Texas I would improve it until it was," Walker said Saturday morning in an interview at his shop.
Walker has been working at electrical work and particularly wireless and radio, since 1908 and has been in Ranger since 1927. At his shop at his home is the latest equipment for testing his special line of electrical work, both for tests in his shop and in the home.
"Of course I had much rather test and repair a radio here in my shop," he said, but where the customer prefers I can do the work in the home, as I have all the portable equipment necessary."
He demonstrated a number of the gadgets and thing-a-bobs that to a laymen seem decidedly compleated, but with which he is perfectly familiar, explaining how they worked and why. Much of the equipment has been assembled by Walker and installed by him, so it is a combination of the best features of many testing systems, with dials, switches, wires, lights and electrical indicators of one kind or another that looks complicated enough to be in a large broadcasting studio.

At one time Walker experimented with amateur sending equipment, but since it was but a hobby, at best, and there was little, if any, demand for servicing that kind of equipment he has concentrated on the receiving sets and has learned all there is to know about them. He does not sell radios, but does trade occasionally for second hand machines, which he sells.
Although he is thoroughly familiar with all kinds of electrical work, but prefers the radio repair work and does little house wiring or other jobs, though he does take them at times. But when it comes to radios he is always well-posted on the latest developments and keeps abreast of the times, constantly improving his equipment to keep pace with the changing demands on a radio repair man.

DEBT
It's sad to see most people sell Their very souls and live through hell
An earth, for years, in blistering sweat.
Unhappy souls!—held slave by debt.
We like to boast that we are free, Sons of this land of liberty,
But we are slaves—I know it well, When once our souls to debt we sell.
Debt's thousand little imps appear And jab our brains—engender fear!
The grocery bill—car payment—rent, And many more by debt are sent—
To keep his shackles all in place, These little imps respect no race!
Yes, most of us are race of slaves For debt will follow to our graves.
FRANCES EFFLER, Ranger, Texas.
The above was written by Mrs. Frances Effler, bookkeeper at the Burns Machine Shop. Mr. Effler is a mechanic in the same institution. This poem appeared recently in a Fort Worth paper.
