Good Luck Piece, Democrats Hope

Democrats who believe in the efficacy of luck pieces are hopeful that this token will help them on their way to victory in the coming election. On one side of the gold-plated campaign coin are shown heads of President Roosevelt and Vice President Garner. On the other side is an elephant, walking out of the picture.

UNEMPLOYED HOOT SPEAKER IN NEW JERSEY

TRENTON, N. J., April 24.— Hooting unemployed strikers who have occupied the assembly chamber in the capitol since Tuesday, demanding relief legislation, drove Theron McCampbell, formerly assemblyman and candidate for the Democratic nomination for U. S.
Senate, from the state house today, after he had called them "beg-gers and paupers."
The unemployed campers, increasing in numbers, turned on McCampbell as he strode to the rostrum and began his speech.
"You are paupers under the New Jersey law because you have been getting money you didn't work for," McCampbell said. "As a citizen and taxpayer, I tell you you are all wrong. Economically you are a bunch of children. You don't know what got you into this thing and you don't know what will get you out."
"You are asking for more taxes. It's really taxes that got you into this. You should know if taxes are reduced you will have a chance to get your jobs back."
Jeers broke out among the 75 campers in the chamber at the time. McCampbell shouted back,
"beggars, paupers." Some of them started toward McCampbell. Two police beat them to the speakers'
stand and hurried McCampbell out.

Licenses Asked After Result of Voting Declared

About 20 applications for permits to sell beer had been received Friday by County Judge Clyde L.
Garrett after commissioners court Thursday declared results of the Saturday election for legalization of sale of 14 per cent alcoholic beverages.
Results were declared at 2,358
votes for the proposition and 2, 198 votes against.
Applications must remain on file five days before the county judge can authorize the tax assessor-collector of their issuance.

Cupid Engineers Hostess Switch

Cupid dealt the Texas Centennial a staggering blow when lovely Irene Caldwell, below, the show's "Bluebonnet Girl," disqualified herself by marrying. But the Lone Star exposition staged a magnificent recovery, and chose charming Frances Nalle, 21, above, to act as official hostess when the Centennial opens June 6.

OFFICERS SEEK MURDER CLUE NEAR CENTER

Center, Texas, April 24.—Officers searched today for a definite clue to the mysterious slaying of Marlie Childs, 35-year-old automobile salesman and former treasurer of Shelby county.
Childs was shot to death in the kitchen of his home last night. The murderer fired one bullet through a window. Justice of the Peace John Carrell, after an inquest today returned a verdict of death by pistol wounds inflicted by a person unknown.
Mrs. Childs, wife of the slain man, was in another room when her husband was killed. Hearing the shots and her husband falling to the floor, she ran to the home of neighbors for assistance.
The bullet, apparently from a small caliber pistol, struck Childs
in the back of the head.
Blood hounds were brought today from Mansfield, La., and put on the trail of the murderer. The scent was lost a short distance from Childs's home.
Mrs. Childs, a 32-year-old husband with an extension of time, commissioners court has instructed the county treasurer to accept payment on 15 $60 bonds because the district was unable to pay all of 20 due April 19.

Girl's Gas Bill Traps Admirer

A gas bill for the Chicago apartment of Miss Patricia Starr, above, an entertainer, found in the records of Charles G. Koepke, investment broker, led to further investigation and resulted in the arrest of Koepke in the girl's home.
There he readily admitted, police said, that he had embezzled more than $50,000 of his clients' money.

WPA DISTRICT WORKERS TO BE REDUCED

Works Progress Administration workers of this district will be reduced to two-thirds the original number by May 30, it was announced by M. R. Russell of Abilene, assistant labor supervisor for District 13.
Lack of funds has made the reduction necessary for this district, Russell said. He pointed out that the reduction is already under way and that it will continue until the figure set has been reached.
"We regret having to cut the work lists," Russell said, "but have to because of lack of funds."
The original figure of 5,338 men must be cut to 3,573 in this district by the end of May. Russell said. It has already been reduced to 4,010.
Russell produced reports from R. W. McCarg, employment supervisor for the district, to E. E.
Hale, state employment director,
to show how the number of men
has been gradually reduced.
On April 4 the number of men employed was reported at 4,268.
On April 11 it was listed at 4,067,
and by April 18 it had been cut further to 3,928.
The reduction orders call for the following cuts, a part of which have already been made: March 31, 4,316; April 15, 4,010; April 30, 3,790; May 15, 3,681; May 30, 3,572.

Interscholastic Track Meet to Be Held On May 1, 2

AUSTIN, Tex.—Ranking contestants from all sections of Texas will gather here May 1 and 2 to vie with each other for State honors in the 26th annual State meet of the University of Texas Interscholastic League.
The final contestants in the League, an organization sponsored in one of the bureaus of the University Extension Division, are being brought rapidly to a conclusion, according to T. H. Shelby, dean of the Extension Division.
Nearly six thousand schools joined the League this year, and county meets were held in 236
counties of the State, Dean Shelby said. These initial meets were concluded during the month of March and the first week end in April. Last Saturday concluded all of the thirty-two district meets, which admitted only those contestants who had qualified in one or another of the county meets. The coming week-end will see the district winners from the thirty-two district meets gather together for competition in eight regional centers in various sections of the State. It is in these meets that high school and rural school pupils will qualify for the State meet which is held in Austin May 1 and 2.
The following contests are held in all of these meets, and state championships will be decided in the final State meet: Debate, declaration; extemporaneous speaking; ready writing; reading; writ-test); one-act play; typewriting;

are in three divisions: color, charcoal, and modelling; journalism;
five different contests; tennis,
track and field.
"There will hardly be a county in the State not represented in this great final meet, and about two thousand contestants and delegates will be assembled for two days strenuous competition," Dean Shelby said.

Presbyterians May Restrict the Choice of Pastors

PHILADELPHIA.—The annual General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church may change completely the method of selecting ministers for nearly one-third of its 8,000 churches, it was announced today at the office of the Assembly.
Nearly 1,000 "commissioners" will attend the sessions which will be held at Syracuse, N. Y., May 25 to June 3.
The assembly will act on a committee recommendation that whenever the pastorate of one of the 2,700 congregations now aided by the Board of National Missions becomes vacant, the church shall abide by the recommendation of the national missions committee of its own state synod as to the minister to be invited to become its pastor.
The report of the special committee on the Restive Church and the Restive Pastor, published in the Blue Book of the assembly, which has been mailed to all commissioners throughout the nation,
said the procedure would be necessary if the national missions board is to continue aiding financially the affected congregations.
The remaining 6,300 organized congregations of the church, which now obtain pastors on their own initiative, subject to the approval of their Presbyteries, would not be affected by the proposed action of the General Assembly.

NEW YORK, April 24.—Police

HIGHWAY 89 TO BE PAVED GROUP DECIDES

AUSTIN, April 24.—A million road maps to guide Centennial tourists and more than $1,000,000 on road improvements were ordered in highway commission minutes released here today.
Several proposed projects on the other hand have been postponed so construction work will not interfere with Centennial travel.
A policy was adopted on the highway 1 cutoff that proved so troublesome to other highway commissions. The new plans provide that work on Highway 89 between Weatherford and Strawn and improvements on Highway 1 be completed at the same time. The bureau of public roads will be asked work between Weatherford and Mineral Wells on the 1936 program and surfacing on the 1937 program.

Requests will be made that Highway 66 between Mineral Wells and Stephenville be placed on the federal aid system and grading and bridge be included in the 1937 program.
Reconditioning of the old as-the Palo Pinto-Parker line was ordered.

still weak from the ordeal of the ten days' entombment in a gold

be expedited by modern hospital attention.
In Victoria Central Hospital he rejoined Alfred Scadding, only other survivor of the disaster, who was flown to the hospital yesterday. Scadding's swollen feet caused some concern.
When Robertson was carried to an ambulance after a Royal Air

Moose River at noon, he seemed very tired. He was pale and

The revival that has been in progress for the past two weeks will close with services Sunday night. Thursday night a fine crowd of young people attended the services as "young people's night" in the revival was observed.
Brother Kennedy brought a special message adapted to the young people on "The Tragedies of Life."
Tonight is "family night" in the services. The members of the church and friends are urged to bring the entire family and sit in groups in the church. A remembrance will be given to the largest family present. Rev. Kennedy will bring a message on "Mother, Home and Heaven."
The public is cordially invited to attend all of the few remaining services of the meeting. No services Saturday.

Death to Be Asked For Mrs. Patterson

GREENVILLE, Texas, April 24.
Prosecutors laid a background for demanding the death penalty for Mrs. Velma Patterson, 34-year-old widow, as they questioned jurors in her trial on charges of poisoning her two daughters.
Questioning of veniremen took up the entire morning. Three farmers were chosen late yesterday for the panel.

Two Men Rob a Dallas Loan Society

DALLAS, April 24.—Two armed men with rags over their faces held up the manager and customers of the Providence Loan Society in a downtown building at noon today and escaped with diamonds valued at $25,000 and $250 in cash. They forced the manager, J. F. Hexter, and J. W. Slaughter, a customer, to enter a vault and the door was closed on them. The robbers took the money and gems from a safe and fled to a car outside, in which a companion waited.
The vault was not locked and the two men called police.

of Joe Wood, who is named as cause of the accident.

According to the petition, Mrs.
Anderson was riding from Rising

Eastland and Anderson & Jones of San Angelo are plaintiffs' counsel.

First Aid Contest To Be Feature of Safety Meeting

According to N. L. Muir, senior instructor of the United States Bureau of Mines, one of the outstanding features of the Oil Belt Safety conference to be held in Ranger on Friday, May 1, will be a spirited first aid contest between eight first aid teams from the Oil Belt. Mr. Muir for the past two weeks has been putting these teams through a very intensive training program in order for them to be in proper shape for the contest on May 1. "There is no doubt in my mind," stated Muir, "but that these boys will compare very favorably with the veteran teams that go annually to the Oil Show meet held in Tulsa. Several companies, including the Texas manner in which the judging is done at the International Meet in Tulsa and the same type of problems will be given them to solve. The meet will be held at 4:30 p. m. on the afternoon of May 1 at Lillard Field in Ranger. Arrangements are under way for one of the safety cars equipped with a loud speaker to be on hand to make the necessary announcements concerning the several problems that will be worked on this occasion.

American Rhumba Saddens a Cuban

PHILADELPHIA.—Americans' attempts to do the rhumba are amusing and often pathetic, in the opinion of a pretty, native Cuban girl, herself a dancer. "It makes me very, very sad to see Americans try to dance the rhumba," said Josefina Gonzalez, who came here to take an executive secretarial course. "In no way does the American interpretation resemble the real rhumba," she added. "I'm not criticizing the dancers of this country. They do the best they can and they, perhaps, are not to blame because they have no appreciation of the rhythm and the poetry of this dance."

Road May Join Alaska, Siberia

EDMONTON, Alta.—The great road building scheme in modern times, a proposal to construct a highway linking Edmonton to the American interests had advised him they are prepared to spend $500,000,000 on a highway system connecting this city with the Northwest Territories, Yukon, Alaska, and finally Siberia. The highway would reach Siberia through a tunnel under Bering Straits, and from there would pass to the great cities of the Orient.

Fallow said that the scheme may sound like a "pipe dream," but he is confident it is feasible. "I am satisfied they are in earnest and that the highway will eventually come, but I am not prepared to say when," he said. "There are many obstacles to be overcome and the scheme is still in the formative stage."

The vast mineral and oil wealth of the northland are some of the inducements that make the scheme attractive, he said. Recent discoveries have revealed that there is a wealth of pitchblende, gold, silver, copper and other mineral deposits in the sub-Arctic regions.

If a highway for heavy motor traffic were built connecting Edmonton with the great mining regions, the sub-Arctic sections to which Edmonton is the gateway would become one of the most active and richest mineral areas in the world, it is said.

The ambitious undertaking, Fallow said, ultimately would cost at least $500,000,000. The huge cost of the road connecting Alaska with Siberia via a tunnel would be made up from tolls charged to traffic.

First link in the project, he said, would be the building of a hard surfaced road between Fort McMurray and Athabasca.

Fallow refused to reveal the identity of the interests which advanced the proposal.

King of Macaroni Eats Five Pounds, Then Has Dinner

GENEVA.—Louis Paris, a bulky Genevieve construction worker, has been crowned "King of Macaroni" for 1936.

Surpassing 50 other contestants including six women, Paris won the title in a local cafe by eating more than 5 1/2 pounds of macaroni within an hour and a half. Then, wiping his mouth nonchalantly, he called for a dish of pork and sauerkraut.

Henrietta Villa, who ranked first among the women, dropped out of the contest after consuming slightly more than three pounds. Her nearest female rival, Jenette Forestier, who fell behind her record by only a few ounces, is rated to beat Miss Villa next year after a little serious preliminary training.

The champion weighs slightly more than 175 pounds and is 5 feet, 7 inches tall.

SAN FRANCISCO.—San Francisco Junior college has added a course in fingerprinting. Instruction is given by Maurice Akers.

CONSTIPATION* MAY LOWER RESISTANCE TO GERMS

Can Be Corrected by Natural Laxative Food

Common constipation is due largely to insufficient "bulk" in the diet. It is a condition that should never be treated casually. Being neglected, it may contribute to a general run-down condition. Your body lacks the strength it needs to fight off infection. You are much more likely to pick up a serious illness.

Guard against common constipation. Make sure the meals you eat contain plenty of "bulk." Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a generous source of "bulk."

Two tablespoonfuls daily, with milk or cream, are usually sufficient. Stubborn cases may require ALL-BRAN often. If not relieved a way, consult your doctor.

Serve ALL-BRAN in some form each day, either as a cereal, or added into muffins, breads, etc. Eat regularly for regular habits. Guaranteed by the Kellogg Company. Sold by all grocers. Made in Kellogg in Battle Creek.

DESDEMONA

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Stewart and daughter Gloria, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. May at Ranger Sunday.

P. L. Crossley of Eastland was here Monday.

Rev. Mrs. Earl Alexander, pastor of the Church of God, accompanied by several members of that church, drove to School Hill Sunday afternoon and organized a Sunday School. The enrollment was seventy-two, quite a large number for a rural community.

Horace Morrison attended trades day at Gorman Monday.

Gable, Harlow, Loy Together for First Time in M-G-M's "Wife Versus Secretary"

Individually among the most popular stars of the film world, collectively the greatest star triumvirate of them all, Clark Gable, Jean Harlow and Myrna Loy will be seen together for the first time in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's new giant production, "Wife versus Secretary," filmization of the widely-read Faith Baldwin novel.

The new picture which comes to the Arcadia Theatre starting Sunday was directed by Clarence Brown whose recent triumphs were "Ah Wilderness!" and "Anna Karenina." It was produced by Hunt Stromberg, responsible for such hits as "Rose Marie," "Forsaking All Others" and "Naughty Marietta."

Supporting the remarkable trio of stars is a prominent cast including such screen headliners as May Robson, George Barbier, James Stewart, Hobart Cavanaugh and also Gilbert Emery, Margaret Irving, Billy Newell, Marjorie Gatenon, Gloria Holden and Tom Dugan.

The story presenting a society "eternal triangle" from a new viewpoint, casts Gable as Van Sanford, the successful business man very much in love with his wife, Linda, played by Miss Loy. Jean Harlow as Whitey, the secretary, is the "other woman" who brings about an emotional crisis in the life of her employer.

Mrs. Vaughn spent Sunday with her mother at Flatwood.

Mary Jean Forrell is on the sick list.

Oleta Gentry is reported doing nicely.

Mrs. L. Browning spent Sunday afternoon with Mrs. J. P. Strickler.

Mrs. Lena Thomas is on the sick list. We hope she will soon recover.

Jim Gentry of Mount Pleasant spent a few days in our community with Mrs. Ora Gentry.

Several from here attended the play at Alameda Wednesday night. Mr. and Mrs. Ha Redwine visited Mr. and Mrs. Jop Rowles Wednesday evening.

Rufus Buckley was in Gorman Monday on business.

Collie Is Named As Preferred Dog In Farm Areas

NEW YORK.—The most useful dog may be one that digs fish worms, carries eggs to market or brings in stove wood, a survey conducted by the Country Home Magazine discloses.

Thousands of replies received from farmers all over the country show that the collie leads the field, followed by the shepherd and the German police dog. Next come the shepherd-collie cross, the terrier, the mongrel and cur, the hound, the wiretail and the bulldog.

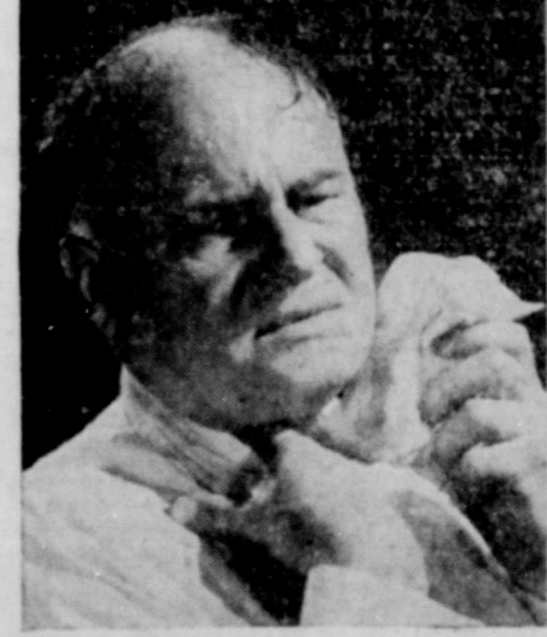

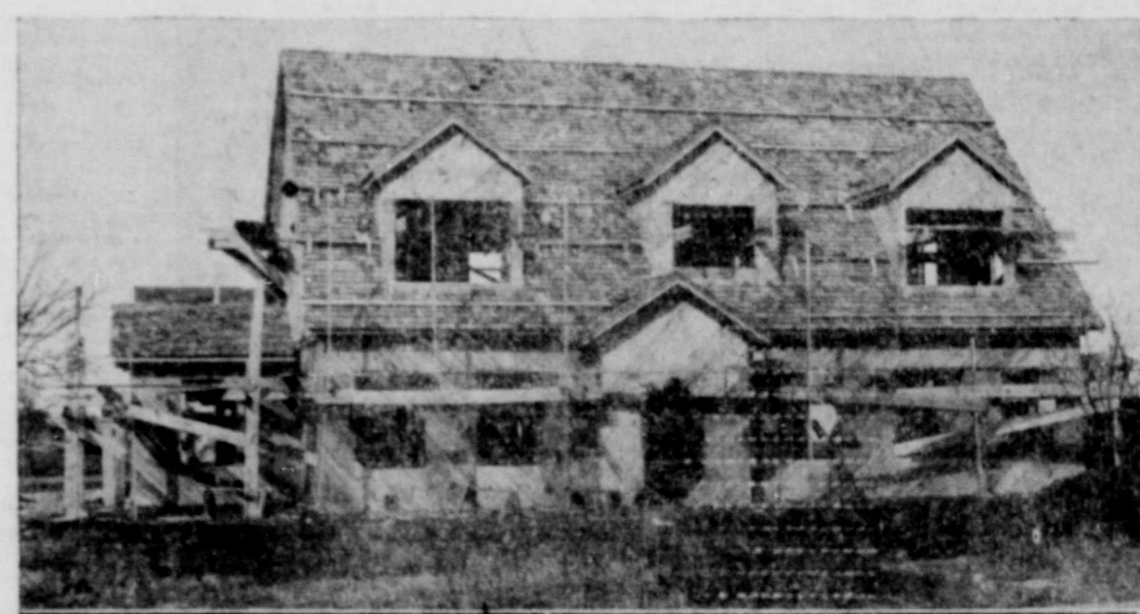

Arthur C. Bartlett, managing editor of the magazine, reported after going over the letters that the farm dog is a skilled workman, as well as a faithful friend and fearless protector.

"The task of fetching the cattle is almost universal," he said. "Other chores include herding sheep, bringing the horses, catching and holding a chicken when it is pointed out, keeping stock out of the fields and poultry out of the yard, killing vermin, carrying messages, killing snakes and of course the all important duty of all dogs, protecting and guarding the home."

The shepherd dog that digs worms belongs to Corbie Johnson of Bertis, Ky., who says that Rover goes to work as soon as he sees a fish pole. Bayard E. Addington of Gate City, Va., owns the dog that carries a basket of eggs half a mile to the store without breakage. The rat terrier that fills the wood box belongs to Mrs. Alice Taylor of Marietta, Ill.

There were numerous instances of dogs saving children from drowning, and giving warning of various dangers, the survey revealed.

NOTHING could be better than asparagus with butter but if you have only a little asparagus, and a mob to serve, try cream soup and open a can of tomatoes, say, for the extra vegetable. Serve croutons or Melba toast with the soup.

Cream of Asparagus Soup

One-half pound of asparagus, 2 cups water, 2 cups milk, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1 slice onion.

Clean asparagus and cut in inch lengths, reserving tips. Put on to cook in COLD water and cook until tender. Cook tips separately in a little BOILING water as possible. When tips are tender, drain and add the water to the other asparagus. Keep tips hot while rubbing the stalks through a coarse sieve. Add slice of onion to milk and scald. Remove onion and cool milk. Melt butter and stir in flour. Cook and stir until bubbling and slowly add asparagus puree, stirring constantly. Cook and stir until thick and smooth and add milk, salt, pepper and tips and bring to the boiling point but do not let boil. Serve very hot.

Paris Subways Are War Haven

By United Press

PARIS—What is believed to be the largest—and the safest—gas-proof, bomb-proof shelter in the world has been completed in Paris, and is ready to shelter 8,000 persons against any future air raid.

It is the first of a series of shelters which it is planned to make out of those sections of the subways which lend themselves to conversion into shelters.

During the last war, Parisians mechanically took shelter from bombs in the subways, but then the danger from gas was slight. The new shelter is arranged with particular attention to gas.

In case of an alarm, the subway ceases functioning as a roadway for underground trains. Great airtight iron doors close its tunnel, and machines compress the air in the enclosed space to a pressure of an atmosphere and a half, thus making it possible for those seeking escape to enter through the three small entrances provided, without danger of gas entering with them, for the air under pressure blows it out.

The air in the tunnel is derived from outside, filtered through machines whose secret is guarded carefully, but which are said to provide perfect protection against all known gases, which can purify some 8,000 to 10,000 cubic meters of air an hour.

This first shelter of the Metro system has been installed at the station of the Place des Fêtes, principally because of its depth—75 feet underground—and its size, both of which properties are the result of the station's location in the American Quarters (Carrières d'Amerique) quarter, whose long unused galleries provide part of the space for the shelter.

There are plenty of other possi-

Refrigerator Uses Kerosene as Fuel

Superfex Oil Burning Refrigerator

Many of these oil burning refrigerators are in use in tropical countries as well as in rural homes in this country. The burners are lit only a short time each day, going out automatically after operating about two hours to create ample refrigeration to last 24 to 36 hours.

Requiring no outside connection of any kind and having no moving parts to wear out or cause trouble, these refrigerators are being successfully used in all parts of the world, including remote sections of Africa, India, the Philippine Islands, Central America, and other tropical countries.

An exclusive feature which is said to make these refrigerators effective even under the most severe conditions is the cooling system; that is, the condenser, which provides both water and air cooling. Water is used in the condenser tank in much the same way as it is used in automobile engines.

The refrigerators freeze 40 or more ice cubes at a time, the quantity varying with the different models.

Superfex

THE "MIRACLE" REFRIGERATOR FOR RURAL HOMES

USES NO ELECTRICITY

...no running water
...has no moving parts
...makes cold from kerosene

Just touch a match to the burners once each day. That's all you have to do. Everything else is automatic. Your foods stay safely cold. You can freeze a plentiful supply of ice cubes—make unusual chilled salads and frozen desserts. And it's all done so quietly and at such little expense that you can scarcely believe your own eyes.

Burners in use about 2 hours to produce 24 hours or more of refrigeration

Superfex makes cold by burning kerosene and uses very little of it. The burners stay lighted for about two hours, then go out automatically. This makes all the cold you need for a whole day and night! Superfex, with its short burning time, brings you modern refrigeration in its most economical form.

8 years on the market

Though you may now be reading about Superfex for the first time, it has been on the market for more than eight years. And those that were bought at the very beginning are still operating as efficiently as they did when new. But that's not at all surprising. Superfex has no moving parts. Not a single one! It's built to last a lifetime. And this year's models are greatly improved—they are still more efficient—still more convenient—still more beautiful. Their modern design and cream-white porcelain finish go perfectly with any kitchen decorative scheme. And the shelves are adjustable; you can move them about to accommodate even the largest turkey!

Our Greatest Waste is Men Out of Jobs

Maybe we've lost our ability to worry about waste, or maybe the waste of a man isn't as important as that of a bushel of wheat or a crate of steel castings; anyway, we don't seem to understand that the most tragic waste in America today is that represented by unemployment.

We put in a good deal of time talking about it, to be sure, but we don't do it with reverse English.

If you get up in meeting and denounce the WPA, for instance, as wasteful and inefficient you will find innumerable people agreeing with you. If you stand up and denounce the dole as an unendurably wasteful drain on the country's finances, you will get more cheers. But both of these wastes are side issues.

The really expensive one lies in the fact of unemployment itself; in the fact that millions of able, self-respecting men who want nothing on earth so much as a job are unable to find one.

As a country we are blessed with a considerable number of great natural resources—mineral deposits, water power, rich soil, forests and so on. We are beginning to understand that it is a crime against nature for us to waste these things.

A good part of the resentment against the AAA came from a dim feeling that it was somehow every wrong to let fertile soil go to waste at a time when some people were finding it hard to get enough food. We swung away from the NRA largely because we felt that to waste productive capacity through restrictive devices was sinful.

But all the while the depression was committing the greatest waste of all with one of our richest natural resources—man power.

The presence in this country of some 40,000,000 intelligent, active men is a resource such as few nations have ever possessed. When a fourth of these men can find nothing useful to do, and must at public expense be kept from starving, a waste of unimaginable magnitude is taking place.

The money we have to spend to keep these men fed and housed is not the real waste; neither are the footing, picaresque jobs we invent to keep them occupied. The real waste is the simple, tragic fact that this great army of men who might be busy are idle. We could abolish WPA and abandon the dole if we chose; the fundamental waste would go on.

We don't seem to be able to get worked up about it.
We can bewail the slaughter of little pigs with fine fervor.
We can denounce "scarcity economics" when industrial production is restricted.

But we can't seem to understand that the greatest, most expensive of all wastes is the one represented by the men who want to work and can't.

One thing about elections such as the one held recently in Germany, very few people found it necessary to pay election bets.

About Now They Have to Begin Running Faster

"OUT OUR WAY" - - - - - By Williams

FOLLY and FAREWELL By Marie Bizard

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Linda Bourne, 20 years old, pretty and socially prominent in the little middlewestern town of Newtown, meets Peter Gardner, political reporter, when she goes to the Blade office with an announcement about a charity bazaar.
The same day Linda's father, in financial difficulties, kills himself. Peter goes to the Bourne home to break the news to Linda. Misunderstanding, she treats him rudely. Later she apologizes, and confides to Peter that her father's money is gone and she must find a job.
"I don't know what to do," Linda says, and Peter—amazing himself—replies, "You could marry me."
Linda wasn't quite sure she had heard the words correctly. Peter himself almost doubted that he had said them—"You could marry me." He didn't want a wife. He wasn't in love with Linda Bourne. He hadn't given any romantic thought to her. He wouldn't know what to do with a wife and if he were going to marry any girl, he would have too much self-respect to marry a girl who was accustomed to luxuries he couldn't give her. Then he remembered that Linda was no longer an heiress to anything except trouble. Nevertheless, this overwhelming feeling was surprised that he had spoken so impulsively.
Whatever Linda's reactions were, she did not betray them. She knew why he had asked her to marry him, and she knew, too, how to reply.
"That was exactly the right thing to say to a lady in distress," she told him, "but I am not to be outdone in gallantry. I thank you for your kind invitation and regret that I cannot accept." Then she laughed gaily.
So she had thought it was only a gallant speech! Peter stifled the smallest sigh of relief.
It was easier after that for Linda to talk to him. She had established a lighter note and the tense strain of the hour they had spent dispelled itself. She told him that she was planning to sell the house, but until it was sold she would stay on there with the housekeeper who, in time, would retire and live with a married daughter.
"In the meantime," she said, "I've been thinking of things I could do. It can't be so terribly hard to be a secretary. I've had lots of experience at the League and I thought perhaps I could get through a quick course at a business college."

Pete had heard a good many stories from girls who had lost and were unable to find secretarial jobs, but he hadn't the heart to discourage her when he had nothing else to offer.
"Or perhaps," Linda chattered on, "I might try to get a job coaching dramatic courses. You know—Little Theatre things."
Pete was glad the subject had changed to something about which he could talk. "You're interested in the theatre, aren't you?"
"Crazy about it," she told him, and added hastily, "Not acting, you know. I couldn't do that. I'm not pretty." Pete thought she was more than pretty when her face lit up with enthusiasm and that her delicate, expressive hands spoke so eloquently as her voice. "But dramatic expression, plot development—those are the things I love. I haven't had any experience except with school clubs and plays."
"And you wrote a play for the bazaar," he reminded her.
"Oh, that!" She dismissed that. She didn't want to think of it. It was too closely associated with the dreadful week before.
"Did you ever do anything else like that?" Pete asked her.
She didn't answer him immediately. She crossed the room, unlocked the desk, and drew a sheaf of papers from it. Then she slipped resumed her seat beside him. Pete had never seen a girl who was shy, and it suddenly occurred to him that he had never enjoyed himself before as much as this evening.
"Yes, I have," she answered his question finally. "I've written a movie scenario, but I'm not going to ask you to read it. I know it isn't any good," and, as he reached for it, "No, please."
"Then, tell me about it," he urged.
"You'll think it's all pretty silly, but it has been fun and it's kept me from thinking... thinking things I didn't want to. One day at the hair-dresser's I picked up a movie magazine. Hair-dressers have the very latest movie magazines," she assured him gravely and he said he'd have to speak to his barber about that; he was getting tired of the Barber's Manual.
"You ought to, because your Big Chance may come that way! Well, I read in this magazine that there was a contest with a big prize and a job in Hollywood waiting for the winner who submits the best scenario. So I've been playing with your idea."
"Finished it?"
"Yes," she said. "It's finished, but I wouldn't dream of sending it."
"Wouldn't you let me read it?" Pete said winningly, and Pete could be extremely winning.
"If you'd like it, but take it with you. It would embarrass me to have you read it here."
"And may I bring it back?" Pete wanted an invitation, and he didn't know how to ask for it.
"I hope you would. I'm here now all the time."
"The country's pretty fine now. Like to walk on Sunday?"
"I'd like very much to walk on Sunday."
It was a date and, thinking of it, Pete pushed his hat a little more to the side as he walked through the quiet town, whistling on his way home. He didn't go directly home; he stopped at a newsstand and bought all the Hollywood magazines.
Linda wanted to think of him after he left. She wanted to go back, step by step, over all that had been said between them before he had surprised her by his half-serious proposal, but she fell asleep thinking about Dix and wondering how much time would elapse before she heard from him.
The next day she wrote to Dix on her new, black-bordered stationery. It was a little note thanking him for his expression of sympathy, and adding that, since she could not go out, she would like to have him for tea on Sunday. Linda forgot her date with Pete Gardner.
She dropped the note in the box and then went home to plan for Sunday. She must not be too sombre; she would wear a smart little black velvet frock and she would fill the house with flowers. She knew that her mourning would have a deep influence on Dix, and the enchantment of their companionship had been paced by gaiety.
There were four more days until Sunday. Every time the telephone rang, Linda's heart jumped to her throat as she took the receiver from the hook. She sorted the mail with trembling fingers and tried to put time from her mind. Dix was busy. He might not have received her note. He might be out of town. He might be ill. He wouldn't write. He would telephone. He couldn't disregard her note. He wouldn't want to, but just assuring herself with faltering belief.
She dared not leave the house for fear of missing his call. The housekeeper was too old to be relied upon; that was the excuse she gave to herself. Deep in her heart, she knew her real reason was that if Dix called and said he couldn't come on Sunday, she hoped she could make him suggest another time.
On Saturday Wilda Jennings came to see her. Wilda had been Linda's right hand in those days that seemed so long ago.
"Honey," Wilda assured her, "none of us are having a good time, thinking about you having to stay here and all this terrible trouble. We don't talk about anything else, and the parties don't seem to be any fun at all without you. Don't you miss them?"
"No, I don't, but it's sweet of you to think about me. Now tell me all the news," Linda answered, wondering how she could ever have been like the other girls with nothing but parties to think about.
"There really isn't any news. Tommy is coming down from Cambridge next week-end, thank goodness. And Jane Wyatt's giving a cocktail party. She's always giving them. One tomorrow for Gracie. Oh, yes, there is news! Jane was at the movies last night with Dix Carter and he's taking her to Glee Club concert tonight."
Linda couldn't remember anything else Wilda had told her. Dix was taking Jane Wyatt to the Glee Club concert!
She couldn't speak quite clearly for the flood of relief that poured into her heart when Dix called her a few minutes after Wilda left.
"Come by for a little while around four, Linda," he said, and Linda placed the receiver on the hook tenderly because she loved it. The nice, kind, friendly telephone that had brought Dix back to her as she knew he would come.
Pete Gardner called her at 10 on Sunday morning. "I've got some wonderful news for you," he said. "But I'll keep it until I see you. How about starting around two and having supper at my house? My mother asked me to invite you."

John Tarleton to Present a Pageant On Texas History

STEPHENVILLE.—How La Salle, crossing Texas in search of his lost fort, was murdered by his own men;
How the Spanish, laying claim to Texas, kept in mind always the conversion of the Indians as well as the acquisition of territory for their monarch;
How Stephen F. Austin and other heroes worked and fought for the freedom of the empire;
How Texas has grown, in wealth, in power, and in prestige, during her 100 years as republic and state—
These are the developments to be portrayed in the Centennial pageant at John Tarleton College Saturday evening, May 16, as part of the annual Parent's Day program. The pageant will reach its climax in the World War scenes. The final will depict the sources of Texas' wealth and beauty, with homage paid to Princess Texas and her consort, Prince Renown.
Governor James V. Alfred, President T. O. Walton of Texas A. & M. College, and members of the A. & M. Board of Directors are expected to be among the guests for the Parent's Day celebration and the pageant. Governor Alfred will address students and visitors at a program scheduled for 10 o'clock in the morning. The senior program and presentation of the senior gift, a portrait of Dr. J. Thomas Davis, will be included in the day's activities.

ate Ownership of Famous Picture Is Painted Into the Picture Itself

STIN, Tex.—Artist W. H. Huddle painted the state's ownership of the famous picture, "The Surrender of Santa Anna," into the picture itself. The features were painted from likenesses furnished but the naturalness of the hands was achieved by painting from life the hands of J. L. Driskill, noted Texas cattleman, neighbor of Huddle, and the founder of the Driskill Hotel, Austin. After Driskill's death, Huddle painted the large portrait of him that is in the hotel lobby. Then the hands of the Houston portrait were the model from which Driskill's hands were faithfully painted.

Huddle was a contemporary of Texas' most famed artist-sculptor, Elisabet Ney. He loaned her the skin coat and the long rifle used in painting the Crockett Picture when he carved the Houston and Austin statues that have places in the state capitol and in the hall of fame at Washington. Mrs. Huddle was a Ney pupil. Her sister, Mrs. Haynie, posed for Elisabet Ney's celebrated study of Lady McBeth, frequently said to have been modeled by the celebrated English beauty—Mrs. Siddons.

The Okra Girls' 4-H club at the Okra school, April 17. Cornelia Faye Stewart, assistant home demonstration agent, gave a demonstration on how to alter a slip pattern. To make shorter, a fold was put in the pattern at the waistline and below the hips. To make smaller, the pattern was folded lengthwise, near the side seam. In this way, the shape of the sides and bottom of the pattern were maintained. The slip pattern was placed on the material to show the club girls how to cut one out.

Farm Experts Blink in Amazement At Dizzy Rise of "Miracle Bean"

In the dim and shadowy days of antiquity—nearly 3,000 years before Christ—written records told of a little miracle bean that would become a boon to mankind. In those misty times the Chinese wondered and fretted over suspected medicinal powers of the bean, only to discover, for centuries to benefit by, its great value as a food.

Bullet Hurling By New Force To Be Given Severe Test

By United Press
DORRIGO, N. S. W.—Invention of a bullet which will penetrate steelplate and other metals farther than any other bullet is claimed by Henry W. Haydon, a 28-year-old motor mechanic.

He is communicating with the commonwealth defense department about his invention. He asserts that in tests the bullet gave twice the range of any bullet in use, and that even if it strikes steel at an angle of 45 degrees it will not glance, but will penetrate the metal.
