Clifford Doggett Murder Case Dismissed

SENTENCE OF DEATH GIVEN NOVEMBER, '34

Dismissal Follows Recent High Court's Withdrawal of Its Opinion Affirming Action.

Granting a motion of Criminal District Attorney, Judge B. W. Patterson of 88th District Court Friday dismissed a case alleging murder of L. F. Threet, Callahan county rancher, Aug. 1934, against Clifford Doggett, 50.

The court of criminal appeals April 15 of this year withdrew a former opinion affirming Doggett's sentence of death, assessed in Eastland county Nov. 23, 1934. State's attorney referred the case to the high criminal tribunal's holding that the conviction of Doggett in Eastland county placed the defendant in former jeopardy as he was convicted and assessed 99 years in Callahan county upon a robbery with firearms charge.

The high court's action acted as complete bar to the prosecution of Doggett on the murder count, at the state's attorney contended.

Action Friday by the Eastland district court left two—Mary Lou Howell, 20, and Elmer Van Cleave, 22—against whom murder charges remain in the same case.

March 18 at the Baird district court, Van Cleave pleaded guilty to a charge of robbery with firearms in the Threet case and received five years.

The indictment charged Van Cleave with participation in the holding of Threet.

Van Cleave had previously been given a two-year sentence on a charge of conspiracy to rob the rancher.

Miss Howell, tried at Baird on robbery with firearms in the transaction in which Threet was killed, has received a reversal and remandment from her 20-year sentence.

In the Howell case, acted on Dec. 11, 1935, by the court of criminal appeals, the jurists held evidence was insufficient to prove she participated in the conspiracy to rob Threet or that she encouraged Doggett. The court ruled there was no testimony to support the proposition the robbery was committed in pursuance to a common intent and former design in which the woman concurred.

Judgment of the 88th court Friday was as follows:

Whereas, Clifford Doggett, defendant in the above case was in this court on Nov. 23, 1934, convicted of the murder of L. F. Threet and his punishment fixed at death. Prior thereto, to-wit: on Nov. 17, 1934, in the district court of Callahan county, the said Clifford Doggett was convicted of the offense of robbery with firearms, said conviction being based upon and growing out of the same transaction involved in the murder of L. F. Threet for which murder the said Clifford Doggett was convicted in this case, and whereas,

In the trial of the above entitled and numbered cause the defendant Clifford Doggett plead his former conviction of the robbery of L. F. Threet in Callahan county in bar of his prosecution for the murder of said L. F. Threet, alleging that it was in this case being twice placed in jeopardy by reason of his former conviction in Callahan county as aforesaid, which said conviction of former conviction was by his court overruled, on the theory and belief said convictions were not one and the same transaction, but for different and separate offenses, and whereas,

McAllen Will Get Natural Gas Line

McALLEN, Texas.—Construction of a $40,000 gas pipeline to serve the city of McAllen with natural gas from the Samfordyce field of southwestern Hidalgo county is to be started soon, according to officials of the Hidalgo Gas company.

The company has been recently granted a 20-year franchise by the City of McAllen permitting to build a distribution system through the city's streets and alleys. The franchise showed a top domestic rate of 66 cents per thousand cubic feet, about one-third less than the present rate.

Frank McCarthy, general manager of the company, said his Dallas office would soon announce plans for the line along with other data and a definite date for the beginning of work. Only about four miles of main-line will be necessary to bring gas to the city, since the company's commercial line from the Samfordyce field to pumping plants in southern Hidalgo county is that distance from the city limits.

Rio Grande Valley Gas company has been serving McAllen and other Rio Grande Valley cities with natural gas from the Mirando field in Webb county since 1927.

Fewer Farmers Go Bankrupt In 1935

Bankruptcies among farmers totaled 4,311 during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1935, compared with 4,716 in 1934, and 5,917 in 1933. The figures are published by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, based upon reports to the attorney general.

Farmer bankruptcies last year were 7.7 per cent of all bankruptcies reported to the attorney general, compared with 8 per cent in 1934. There was a substantial increase, however, in the number of farmer cases of indebtedness subject to adjustment or extension.

As in former years, the figures for 1935 indicate that comparatively few farmers use the bankruptcy provisions to which they are legally entitled, but that increasing use is being made of the special facilities for composing objections or for extending terms on a basis which will permit farmers to make eventual payment to creditors.

The largest relative declines in farmer bankruptcies last year were in New England and east north central areas. Only 15 states showed increases compared with 1934. Nearly 6,000 cases were adjusted or extended under provisions of the national bankruptcy act, compared with 410 cases in 1934.

Storm Sewer Clogs Flooding Building

A clogged storm sewer on Main street flooded the Ranger Auto Parts Company building early Friday morning, causing considerable damage.

The water entered the sewer in front of the Kinberg building on Main street crossed Marston and, where the sewer was clogged in front of the Ranger Auto Parts Company building, spurted through the concrete sidewalk and flowed into the building.

Street and fire department employees were busy Friday morning pumping the water out of the building and repairing the storm sewer. An additional outlet from the storm sewer is being installed to cut down the water pressure so the building will not be flooded again in case of heavy rains. It was reported by Fire Chief G. A. Murphy, who was superintending the work.

POLITICIANS TO BE NEW PUBLIC ENEMIES NOW

WASHINGTON, May 8.—An indication that the next major field of the federal government's G-men would be the connection between dishonest politicians and the underworld was seen today in an announcement of J. Edgar Hoover that only one of the kidnapers who harassed the nation for over three years, remains at large.

In Tacoma, Wash., William Mahan, kidnaper of 9-year-old George Weyerhaeuser, who was Public Enemy No. 1, during the six days between his capture and that of Alvin Karpis, faced quick arraignment on two indictments.

In St. Paul Harry Campbell last member of the Barker-Karpis gang, joined his erstwhile chief, Karpis, in custody. Both faced trials for the kidnaping of William Hamm, Jr., in 1934, and Edward Bremer, banker, in 1933.

Remaining at large was Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., kidnaper of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll of Louisville. He has retained his liberty only because he has no underworld connections and is an expert female impersonator.

Hoover revealed that arrests were pending in the Cleveland area, where, he said, members of the Barker-Karpis gang have been harbored by persons accepted as respectable. He intimated no person who aided any of the recently captured fugitives would escape.

He revealed that Campbell and Karpis escaped capture months ago only because they were tipped off by "crooked Cleveland politicians with police connections."

WOMAN WOULD HAVE GONE TO TRIAL MAY 18

Continuance Granted By the Court After Attorneys Say Witness Is Absent.

The case alleging murder of L. L. McBee at Rising Star, May, 1933, against Della Henry was continued Friday for the term by Judge B. W. Patterson of 88th district court.

The "hanging skeleton case," originally was scheduled May 18. Raymond Henry, husband of Della, former mate of McBee, has been assessed a 50-year sentence in the case.

The continuance was taken up Friday because of the opportunity of the state and defense to save expense of the state.

Points in the continuance motion of Frank Sparks, attorney for Mrs. Henry, included:

He would be out of the state May 18; that there is a "pronounced and wide spread prejudice of the guilt or innocence of the defendant on the charge against her in this case; the existence of a combination of influential men and governmental agencies, known as the Safety Commission of Texas, seeking and determined upon the conviction of this defendant in this case."

Particular emphasis was made by Sparks that Mrs. John Proctor of Rising Star would be unable to testify or appear in the trial because of illness.

A change of venue request by the defense was hinted. All witnesses are excused until the next term of the court.

OIL CITY PHARMACY

Hints Are Offered On Canned Food

By United Press
 WASHINGTON.—Food poisoning can be avoided if "common sense precautions are exercised" in the opinion of Dr. William DeKleine, medical director of the American Red Cross.

Bacteria are the most common form of food poisoning, Dr. DeKleine said because they produce toxic products in canned food that has not been properly sterilized and in other foods that have not been properly refrigerated stored and handled.

He said chemicals accidentally mixed with foods also causes poisoning but is far less common than that caused by bacteria.

"If all home canning were done by the pressure cooking method, food poisoning would be far less common," Dr. DeKleine said. He pointed out that "putting up" fruits and vegetables in the home under unsanitary conditions, without knowledge of scientific methods to prevent bacterial contamination, may be responsible for illness.

He exploded a common fallacy by saying: "There is no more harm in leaving food in an opened tin can than transferring it to another clean receptacle. Proper refrigeration is the important consideration here."

Dr. DeKleine listed the following physical indications of food spoilage:

1. The content of tin cans which bulge should be treated with suspicion.
2. Leakage around the rubber "cap" rings of jarred produce is not difficult to detect, and it indicates that food in the jar has probably been contaminated.
3. When a can or jar has been opened, the presence of bubbles, should warn the housewife of danger. Liquid in a glass jar should be clear to denote proper preservation.

Sport Glances. By Grayson

CHICAGO.—Obscure persons and minor incidents frequently start wars, which is what happened when Dizzy Dean referred to Gordon Slade as a cheese hitter.

Dean declared that he never would pitch another ball to Virgil Davis as the result of Slade's reply to the pitching celebrity of the St. Louis Cardinals. Dean and Davis fought verbally at long range a good part of the winter and spring. They threatened to punch each other on the nose, and kept the stove league hot.

Slade, former Brooklyn and Cincinnati shortstop, tells the real inside story of the row which finally was patched up by Branch Rickey.

It seems that Delmar Baker, the Detroit Tiger coach, isn't the only slick sign thief in the majors. Charley Drensen, manager of the Reds, is also adept at the practice.

"Last year, with Dean pitching against the Reds, Drensen caught the signs Davis was using," says Slade, now with the St. Paul club of the American Association. "As Davis flashed the sign for the pitch to Dean, Drensen caught it and flashed us Cincinnati batters what to expect."

"As we left the field Dean walked beside me, moaning, 'I don't know how in the world a cheese hitter like you could nick a great pitcher like me for three hits in one game.'"

"I didn't care much for that cheese hitter crack, so I went back at him with, 'Davis was tipping me off as to what pitch to expect.'"

"And Dix fell for it."

"The only thing I'm sorry about is that they didn't go through with it and really punch each other."

ATTEMPTING to pick Brevity apart, the worst critics can turn to is that Joseph E. Widener's colt has neither the conformation nor blood necessary for a stayer.

The answer to that is that Brevity wouldn't be the first sprinter to bag the Kentucky Derby, which the son of Sickle and Ormanda is favored to do on May 2.

Morvich was not bred to run and in 1922 sharps said that he could not run the Derby mile and a quarter. But Morvich captured it all at Churchill Downs, although it was the last race of any kind that he won.

While he didn't quite get there, another son of Brevity's dam, Osmand, in 1927 demonstrated that a sprinter can very easily capture Col. Matt Winn's special.

Whiskery had to call on all the gameness and courage in his makeup to beat Osmand.

WILD BILL CUMMINGS says that the Indianapolis Speedway is faster and safer since it has been rebuilt. The home-grown pilot who won the 500-mile race in 1934 has been around the new course in a stock car.

"I know it is much faster, because Babe Stapp took the car Wilbur Shaw drove last year and got four miles an hour more out of it three weeks ago," explains Cummings.

Cummings, the speed driver, is now a truck driver. Wild Bill is demonstrating a four-wheel rear-drive, eight-speed transmission vehicle pulling a 44,000-pound load to 26 different cities.

The book is expected to be of general interest to prospective Centennial visitors. It was published by Dohleley Doran.

Curfew Really Rings In McAllen Now

By United Press
 McALLEN, Texas.—Curfew really rings every night in McAllen since the youngsters have been warned off the streets by Police Chief T. S. Bryan.

An officer rings an old fire bell mounted atop the city hall at 8:30 p. m., to remind all members of the city's younger set, less than 15 years of age, that the proper place for them is at home. Only an excellent reason or their accompaniment by their parents prevents an officer from delivering the young wanderers to their homes with a warning to their parents.

Chief Bryan said the campaign, including the curfew bell, had put an almost immediate stop to a long series of petty thefts in which children in their early 'teens had been involved.

DESDEMONA

The seventh grade class of Desdemona sponsored an "amateur hour" Thursday night, April 30. The purpose of this amateur hour was to raise money for the seventh grade diplomas. Miss Delia Wall suggested this type of program. There were 32 numbers. The prize was awarded the freshmen sextette, who sang "Standing in the Need of Prayer." Second place went to the Hotsch Band, playing "Coming 'Round the Mountain." Third place went to some sixth grade boys blacked as negroes, singing "Old Folks at Home." Miss Cella Crenshaw, tap dancing, received honorable mention. Joe Merrill Jr. was master of ceremonies with the title of "Major Merrill."

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Wright drove to Stephenville Saturday to bring their sister, Miss Romalee Wright, home to DeLeon for the week-end. Miss Delia Wall and Miss Johnnie Buchanan drove to Ranger and Eastland on business Saturday. Miss Lillian Grabowsky left Friday night for Drumright, Okla., for a visit with her sister. TCU Debaters End Year of Activities

FORT WORTH.—The debating team of Texas Christian University has just completed its activities for the year after having traveled 3,000 miles and engaged in 54 debates.

The T. C. U. team met debaters from ten Texas schools, 11 out-of-state institutions, and two foreign universities.

Texas schools engaged included Austin College, Baylor University, Southern Methodist University, St. Edwards University, University of Texas, Wiley College, and Trinity University.

The University of Hawaii and the University of Puerto Rico were the foreign teams engaged. Out of state schools represented many parts of the country, from the College of the Pacific in California to the University of Pittsburgh in the East.

Most of the debates were non-decision affairs. However, T. C. U. won 62 per cent of those on which a decision was rendered.

The question used throughout the season, T. C. U. having sometimes the negative, sometimes the affirmative side, was: Resolved, that Congress, by a two-thirds majority vote, should have the power to over-ride decisions of the Supreme Court declaring acts of Congress unconstitutional.

CONSTIPATION* MAY CUT DOWN YOUR ENJOYMENT OF LIFE

Long Neglected, It May Even Develop Serious Consequences

Common constipation* keeps you from being at your best. It causes discomfort, and may lead to headaches and loss of appetite. You feel below par, lack your usual vigor.

So many people treat this condition as a slight matter. But it can be the starting point of serious trouble. It contributes to a general run-down condition. With lowered bodily resistance, you are more likely to pick up the first chance infection you meet in your everyday routine.

Common constipation is due usually to insufficient "bulk" in meals. Fortunately, a delicious cereal supplies gentle "bulk." Within the body, the "bulk" in Kellogg's ALL-BRAN absorbs moisture, forms a soft mass, and cleanses the system.

Serve ALL-BRAN as a cereal, with milk or cream, or cook into muffins, breads, etc. Two tablespoonsful daily are usually sufficient. Stubborn cases may require ALL-BRAN oftener. If not relieved this way, consult your doctor.

ALL-BRAN is guaranteed by the Kellogg Company as an effective laxative food for constipation.* Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

*Constipation due to insufficient "bulk"

U. S. Again May Heed Cry for Independence

The good people of Puerto Rico have been wearing expressions of pained surprise ever since Senator Tydings pushed into the Senate hopper a bill which would give them a chance to say whether they wish to be a free and independent nation.

The surprise and pain are out of all proportion to the amount of noise the Puerto Ricans have been making about independence of late. To listen to that talk one would have thought that the islanders unanimously were groaning under the iron heel of a pitiless despotism.

Politics in Puerto Rico seems to be quite as messy as in the United States, if not a little more so; and the politicians have learned that the cruel repression of Uncle Sam is the handiest of all stalking horses in a hot campaign.

Senator Tydings proposes to take them at their word. His bill would provide for a general election on the island, in which the Puerto Ricans could say once and for all whether they want to go their own way.

If they voted for independence, the United States would withdraw after four years. Puerto Rico would get what the Philippines are getting. After a brief transition period, they would become as free as any people on earth.

And, of course, if they voted against independence, the issue would be buried for keeps.

Senator Tydings' plan will strike most Americans as highly sensible. If the people of Puerto Rico want out, let them stop blaming all their woes on Uncle Sam and get down to the business of facing realities.

As a matter of fact, it is quite possible that as independence actually comes in sight, it will lose its fine glitter. Uncle Sam has been pouring relief money into the island at the rate of $1,000,000 a month.

The native office seeker may make political capital out of American repression so long as independence is only a distant dream. When he gets a chance to make the dream come true, he may start singing a different song.

OLLY and FAREWELL

By Marie Blizard

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Linda is left almost penniless by the sudden death of her father. Her only friend, Ollie, helps her get a job in a small office. Linda is in love with Ollie, but he is engaged to study singing. When she asks Linda to marry him, she refuses, but suggests that Linda should marry Ollie's friend, Dick.

near the road toward San Bernardino where the moon shone through the trees and the heavy scent of the orange groves hovering in the dampness, and the smooth ribbon of road was skimming as though they were without motion.

Saturday night, in a little white chignon rag splashed with brilliant stars in her dark hair (it had cost $300), Linda danced in Dix's arms. Dancing every dance at the Mayfair dance at the Coconut Grove. Driving back, they parked beneath the stars and Dix held her in his arms, whispering the things she had waited so long to hear.

They had dates and dates. They went everywhere and Linda had to think up pleasant little lies to tell Dix how she had come by tickets. She suspected that he had no money and was unwilling to let him spend what little he had on her. She had plenty, and she loved him. When they were married and Dix was famous, she would give up her job. Meanwhile they must have fun.

Fortunately there was a let-up in her work. The studio was anxious for Linda to write the script of a picture bought for Lilli Leth, and the book rights had not been cleared up.

CHAPTER XV
Linda said, "Tell me about yourself." She sat down, but at her desk—because she didn't want him to think of her as an executive when he was an actor.

"I haven't any success story yet," Dix started. "But I've got a grand time. Rome, until you get to be a bore, and then London. For a while I thought of studying for the Met but I had a second lead."

When she wasn't seeing Dix, Linda was usually on a buying spree. She bought heavenly clothes. She had a sable scarf, a silver fox, a tiny coat of ermine. Then, in a frenzy of happiness, she had her apartment redecorated by Markell, Hollywood's most expensive decorator. She had her hair cut in Victorian bangs. She did everything she could think of to make her outward self over into something she had never been because her inward self was so happy.

Linda didn't say anything then. "I've been trying to meet him, but he's inaccessible." He waited for a moment. "You know him, don't you?"

"Yes," she said shortly. "But I'm afraid I can't do anything for you there."

Dix sighed and ran his fingers through his hair. Wisely he said nothing for a few minutes that seemed like hours. "Look here, couldn't you just ask him in for a cocktail—for me?"

Not much, he answered her question. "And I didn't lead, as a matter of fact. American doesn't in English areas. Those chappies are loyal-to-them-own, and all I had some offers to do in the picture business, but I don't think they know anything about making pictures. It's the only place to go into big time."

How long have you been about three months. Ran in Charley Sage. Remember they? Linda did remember they. "He told me you were shot. I wanted to see you. Is it I wanted to see you, but I don't want to see you. Well I had no choice."

But when he had gone she picked up the telephone book—the little private one in which she had jotted down Thorne's number the night she had gone to dine with him. She found the number and, hoping he would not be in, dialed it.

"Hello," she said. "I think I've punished you long enough. Would you still like to see me?"

"Oh, no, you can't go back to New York!" How could she let him go?

"You've been wonderful, dragging me out to show, but I don't seem to get over. The one man I want to meet is Basil Thorne. He's the only one making musicals worth trying for."

Linda didn't say anything then. "I've been trying to meet him, but he's inaccessible." He waited for a moment. "You know him, don't you?"

That night they dined at her apartment. That night they went out in Linda's car, driving

CARDUI

Cardui is a purely vegetable medicine for the relief of functional periodic pain, nervousness and weakness due to poor nourishment. It is in successful use by thousands of women.
"I have used Cardui and had good results from its use," writes Mrs. W. E. Barnett, of Taylors, S. C. "I suffered with cramping and headaches and would have a chilly feeling. Sometimes I would feel miserable and have pain more than I can say, and I would be nervous. I read of Cardui and decided to use it. After taking six bottles of Cardui, I had less pain and was vigorous. I feel much better."
When such suffering can be avoided by taking Cardui, isn't it the common-sense thing to do? Of course, if it does not seem to reach the cause of your trouble, consult a physician.

NATIONAL ADVERTISERS

CAN YOU UNDERSTAND THIS ONE?

There are sixty-five or more packaged teas on sale within a fifty mile radius of New York City. But the best-seller is the brand of a New York Wholesale Grocer.

The tea that dominates the New York Market is White Rose.

White Rose is first in sales in fully 80% of 30,000 stores. And it has 99% to 100% distribution, a record approached by few grocery items in most general use nationally.

Consistent Advertising

The first White Rose specialties were canned corn, tomatoes and peas, rolled oats, and cocoa. But in 1901 Seeman Brothers decided to adopt "a pay item to advertise and put sales effort back of."

Two hundred cases of black tea were imported from Ceylon, advertised in the newspapers as White Rose, and sold like hot cakes in a

NEW YORK CITY

... and WHY?

ADVERTISERS EVERYWHERE

—are invited to remember that Quality, Service and Newspaper Advertising have always been and always will be the KEYS TO ANY and ALL Markets.

Consistent, well-planned advertising copy will be read in your daily newspaper . . . in the home, where it is a welcomed and invited guest.

But that is only half of the story. The friends and stockholders of Seeman Brothers, of whose White Rose Line of "choicest products of garden, orchard and sea" White Rose Tea is the Leader, are offering their congratulations upon a Fiftieth Anniversary made notable by net earnings and comparable to pre-depression years, and assets a million dollars greater on January 1, 1936, than on January 1, 1929.

Well Planned, Pays!

market that had previously known only the green teas of China and Japan.

And so White Rose Tea was born. And with it a policy of continuous advertising in newspapers, one to three times a week, that has continued in force for 35 years.

Quality, Service and Newspaper Advertising are the keys that opened the doors of the New York Market to White Rose.

ANOTHER REASON WHY THE NEWSPAPER IS THE BEST ADVERTISING MEDIUM

Practically every family subscribes to or buys one or more daily newspapers. There are 35,000,000 papers circulated every day in the United States. As there are 30,000,000 families, allowing for illiterates, every family reads, on the average, one and one-quarter papers a day! Because newspapers are influential, and a part of the daily life of every literate person—because they are read and believed—because they are timely—because they are local—and because they are complete—the newspaper is the best advertising medium.

In the day's news, with President Roosevelt, with the baseball results, with the "doings" of Congress, with the happenings in Germany, comics, with the news of society, with cross-word puzzles, and everything that appeals to the active and up-to-date American—the announcement of your product or name will find a ready association of quality and pertinence. A newspaper announcement gives you the opportunity of telling your story thoroughly and completely. You can show a picture of your product, you can diagram its uses—you can reason with the public. You can persuade—you can command—you can plead. In no other medium of advertising can you do as much, or sell as efficiently or as effectively.

A newspaper is "alive"—vital. Each issue vibrates with life and interest. A newspaper has an elan which carries with enthusiasm to the reader all the matter included in its daily make-up. This gives force and animation to the advertisements in addition to their individual appeals.

Some of the Advantages of Newspaper Advertising

- SECTIONAL OR LOCAL—Newspaper advertising is direct in that it covers a definite territory. You know exactly whom you can reach, and where they are located.
- TIMELINESS—Newspaper advertising can be made to fit in with the calendar, or any scheme of events. As the paper comes out every day, the advertiser's message can be timed to suit certain occasions, buying moods, or to fit in with daily occurrences.
- CONCENTRATION—In many cities or towns, one newspaper will give thorough advertising coverage. In some cities, it requires two or three. But the advantage of a newspaper is its completeness and thoroughness of coverage. If it has 50,000 circulation, advertisements placed in it offer a complete coverage for this many homes. A newspaper advertising campaign is thorough because it is complete.
- GOES INTO THE HOME—The only way to get into some homes is with a newspaper advertisement. Many people will not read circular letters, or listen to the radio; but every intelligent person reads a newspaper. A newspaper takes the advertising message into the home—along with information and news of the day.
- READ IN LEISURE—In the hurly-burly of life, every man and woman stops for a half-hour, or an hour to read a newspaper. Announcements that catch the eye in these moments of rest and leisure—if they are attractive—have a good chance of being read. It is the best time to get a message over. This message, by the way, is not "forced" on the reader, as ads in a moving picture theatre, circulars in your car, etc., and he can take it or leave it.
- GOOD ASSOCIATIONS—Advertisements in a newspaper are among good associates. Not only is there the news of the World, but there are many quality products advertised, such as automobiles, cigarettes, foods, etc. Then there are the large department stores, and representative business concerns, and the trade names and products that have reputations. The ads of quality products reflect and suggest quality on all other ads in the same paper.
- PERMITS VARIED COPY TREATMENT—Newspaper advertising allows full descriptions, and permits the use of persuasion, and argument, and "reason why" copy. Pictures and photographs—with great detail—diagrams and charts can be used—and the copy can be so dramatized that it will get attention, and "get over" the story.
- INEXPENSIVE—On the whole, newspaper advertising is inexpensive. Campaigns can be carried on with comparatively small sums of money—that will "sell" a whole community.
- NEWSPAPER ADS ARE BELIEVED—A newspaper will not intentionally allow misrepresentation in advertising. Most of the papers censor their ads, and protect their readers against fraudulent or mis-leading advertising. Newspapers are responsible institutions, and they have the confidence of the public. As a good business policy, they cannot afford to jeopardize that confidence.
- THE VALUE OF THE PRINTED WORD—Few people understand the psychology of a printed statement. "Strange is the fascination of the printed page," says Bryce. The printed word, in itself, creates faith. Words can be best used to advantage in newspaper advertising.
- FLEXIBILITY OF SCHEDULE—A newspaper is the only advertising medium that gives so much variety or flexibility in its schedule. The advertiser can use an inch ad today, or a page ad tomorrow. He can run all of his advertisements at Christmas time; or he can scatter them throughout the year. He does not have to make his schedule up for weeks and months ahead of time. He can start it at "a minute's notice."
- QUICK ACTION—Newspaper advertising is direct. It gets quick action. Put an ad in today, and get results the same day, or the next day.
- ALLOWS EXPRESSION OF PERSONALITY—In newspaper advertising, the personality of the advertiser can be developed. He can talk "straight from the shoulder," or "call a spade a spade." He can use humor. He can be individual.
- SURE TO BE SEEN—Newspaper advertising is surer of being seen. Large ads will be seen by every reader. Small ones have, of course, a less chance, but, when run frequently, cannot be missed. Consistent advertising, well planned, pays!
