Don't Hate Mussolini For African Victory

Unless all signs fail, Haile Selassie's number is up. The Italians seem to be mopping up faster than anyone expected, and the Lion of Judah is just about due to go the way of Abd el Krim and Siting Bull and all the other barbaric chieftains who got in the way of ambitious white men.

Ethiopia is a long way off, and the death of men in its muddy valleys has made little impression on our emotions.

We read the dispatches, struggled with unpronounceable names, feel a little flare-up of sympathy for the frail, strangely degenerated monarch of the doomed empire, and then turned our attention to baseball, the presidential campaign, or some other domestic concern.

It isn't a pretty spectacle. No one can enjoy watching a husky bully move in on a weakling to possess himself of the weakling's goods and chattels. But it is an old, old story and we ourselves have contributed several chapters to the writing of it.

Mussolini's assault on Haile Selassie has all the earmarks of a New York or Chicago gang sending its muscle men in on a rival's territory; it is as direct, as unmoral and as ugly as that.

Granted. But we delude ourselves mightily if we blame it all on the rapacity and greed of Mussolini himself. Every great nation has done the same sort of thing. It is war itself that is ugly.

A disinterested observer back in the 1840's might have seen our own war with Mexico in precisely the same light. Certainly, our ruthless obliteration of the western Indian nations would have looked no better. And the English conquest of South Africa, the French seizure of the Sabara, and the maneuvers by which the Dutch flag rose over Java are cut out of the same cloth.

What it comes down to is that we have no cause to work up a lather of moral indignation over what is happening to the emperor of Ethiopia. We live by a system which drives strong nations out to conquer the weak. We are today reaping the profits of that system. Can we afford to adopt a holier-than-thou attitude toward Italy?

If the conquest of Ethiopia disturbs you, with its dark implication that might does make right, after all, in this modern world, your cue is to hate—not Italy, not Mussolini but war itself, and the world system which enables nations to profit by war.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS—By Blosser

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Some heed finally has been paid to frequent complaints that it has become relatively unsafe to go to sea or up in the air under the administration of shipping and aviation by Secretary of Commerce Dan Roper.

Legislation providing for 17 new supervising inspectors and traveling inspectors for the Bureau of Navigation and Steamship Inspection has been so revamped that these officials will be under civil service. They will have to pass examinations to show that they're qualified.

The Commerce Department had insisted that the jobs be exempted from civil service. The only apparent reason for that was that the salaries involved ran up to $5000 and $6000, which come into the class of desirable political patronage.

Without the protection of civil service, it would have been easy later to fire any of the 17 officials in case they became "too severe" in enforcing safety regulations.

CREDIT for covering the 17 jobs under civil service goes to the Senate, which ordinarily is eager to reserve such plums for political uses. And also, it is reported, to the White House, which is said to have decided the men should be appointed on a merit basis for the benefit of the sea-going public.

This slight change for the better, however, probably will do little toward cleaning up the mess for which Roper's critics hold him largely responsible.

The delegation of 75 seamen which recently waited on Roper after his attempt to have sailors who went on strike in port prosecuted for mutiny merely added to a high pile of testimony.

Some of its members described lifeboats with holes in them; fire and lifeboat drills held for the benefit of inspectors, with members of the "shore gang" participating instead of the crew which would take the ship to sea; departing ships so undermanned that there weren't enough able-bodied seamen to handle all lifeboats in case of disasters; and operation of ships by alien and inexperienced crews.

Every state is entitled to contribute two statues of celebrated sons to the collection. Nebraska has chosen Bryan and J. Sterling Morton, secretary of agriculture under Cleveland and founder of Arbor Day.

The statues, to be done by Rudolph Evans of New York, will be ready about a year from now.

J. P. O'Furey, a Nebraska publisher, was here the other day to see about arrangements. He recalled that 40 years ago he worked hard for Bryan's election and at 4 o'clock in the morning, after McKinley's victory, leaned against a telegraph pole and wept bitterly.

O'Furey is now chairman of the Nebraska Memorial Commission and is seeing to it that his boyhood hero is properly enshrined. (Copyright, 1936, NEA Service, Inc.)

Padre Island Park Development May Open Wonderland

CORPUS CHRISTI.—Plans for the development of Padre Island, which extends down the Texas gulf coast line from Corpus Christi to Brownsville, as a park for a Centennial year project which will give Texas one of the most unusual parks in the world.

The island park will give the Lone Star State a great natural playground on the Gulf of Mexico and also will be one of the greatest scenic attractions of the state for tourists and visitors.

Plans for the development are far advanced and are being promoted through the interest and cooperation of the entire South Texas territory. It is proposed to construct causeways at each end of the island and to develop a scenic highway along its length which would allow the motorist to travel for approximately 150 miles along the surging surf of the Gulf of Mexico.

Padre Island, known as Santiago Island long ago and then as the Isla del Padre Balli, stretches down the coast of Texas from Corpus Christi bay to Point Isabel with the pounding surf of the Gulf of Mexico on one side and the more placid waters of Laguna de la Madre on the other. Long miles of shifting sand dunes and beach grass-covered hammocks which at one time heard only the rasping sound of the sea gulls and the roar of the surf and knew only wild life have seen the unfolding pageant of life as the Indians came to give way in time to the Spaniard, the Mexican, the cattleman, and the vacationist.

Rich in historical lore, the island has a tradition which includes pirates and smugglers. Indians at one time lived at the head of the

BEGIN HERE TODAY

LINDA BOURNE, 20 years old, is left almost penniless by a sudden death that has befallen her father, PETER GARDNER, newspaper editor, who has left her with DIX CARTER, but he is about to marry another girl, and she is to be married to him.

HONEY HARMON, film star, comes to Hollywood to get into films as an actor. Linda goes to Hollywood to see Peter's picture. She is attracted to him, but she is already engaged to Dix Carter. She is a very beautiful girl, and she is very popular.

LINDA didn't try to be gay. Her eyes searched his face, expecting to find she knew not what. It was the same face with the same laughing eyes, the same easy smile, the same impatient eyebrows.

She laughed nervously. "I'm tired, darling, and in a talkative mood. I want to play Questions and Answers. Would you like to?"

"Anything you want to do is always all right with me," he answered, dropping to the sofa.

She lit a cigarette for him. "You shouldn't smoke. Think of your voice! And is there anything new about the voice?"

"Yes. I dropped in to see Thorne today. Thought I might have some trouble getting in, but he remembered my name and asked me in. Nice fellow. He's going to make a sequence of his last picture over, and he might give me a chance to do two songs."

"But that's wonderful! Dix, darling, when he sees the rushes you'll be made and I..." Linda didn't finish her sentence; she was about to say that her work would be done. She sighed with sheer relief. The last day that she had to see Thorne could not come too soon. She was afraid of him. Afraid that he would make an overture, and she would not know how to handle him.

Dix captured her hand. Her other stroked his hair. "What are the questions and answers?" he asked.

LINDA was glad that he asked that. It made it easier for her to begin. Nonetheless, she wondered if her voice was as bright and gay as she meant it to be when she answered.

"I'll ask the questions, and you supply the answers. Do you love me?"

"Certainly. Next?"

"Do you think you always will?"

Dix laughed. "Don't you read the movie titles, woman? Don't you know that no one knows the answer to how long he will love?"

"How much do you love me?" Linda persisted.

"Linda, you sound like a character out of a children's book. Am I supposed to spread my hands 'so high' or something like that? Or would you like me to fall on one knee, seize your hand in mine and lay my heart and hand at your feet?"

He had given her the opening she had been hoping for. "Something like that," she said, and added quickly, "Only that isn't done any more, is it? Except that people still do get married. They just say 'Let's fly to Yuma and get married.' It's not as romantic, but quite as satisfactory."

Dix didn't say anything. Linda knew he must feel her heart skip a beat. She wished fervently that she had said nothing. Now Dix would think that she was pursuing him, and Heaven help the girl so unwise as to force a man to declare himself!

Dix swung his legs to the floor, smoothed his rumpled hair. "You wouldn't marry me, would you?"

She didn't say anything. "Come, come, darling, you're much too smart. You're a successful woman, and I'm a starving actor. I couldn't support you in the manner to which you're accustomed."

Linda was horribly embarrassed. "Skip it, Dix. I wasn't forcing you into a declaration of any kind. We'll both forget it."

"No, you weren't forcing me into a declaration, as you call it. The straight brows had drawn together again. "But there is something on your mind."

"Please forget it," she begged.

"There is something on my mind, but it's pictures and not matrimony."

Dix did not dismiss the subject. "I always thought we'd get married. Not right now—Linda's whole being sane—but would you have a date to run down to Yuma with me and take me on for better or for worse the minute I get a job?"

"Hold," she answered, and closed her eyes.

Dix wanted to marry her! Days were like hours after that. She was jealous of her sleeping hours that took away her consciousness, made beautiful by her dreams. Romance was rampant in Hollywood, and it was as much as Linda could do to keep her secret to herself. She wanted to tell the world that she was Dix Carter's chosen bride. Instead she listened and lived for the moment when she might make her proud pronouncement.

"I suppose you've heard Honey Harmon and Pete Gardner are romancing all over the lot?" Cora Jarrett asked her.

"No, I hadn't." That was all Linda said, but secretly she wished that Peter had rated a girl... well not quite Honey's type, but would you like me to fall on one

- and winning fame as the smoothest EIGHT in the world

New peaks of performance, economy and distinction in the new Pontiac Eight

WHAT do you look for in an eight? THE GREATEST POSSIBLE SMOOTHNESS! What's behind the fame of the Pontiac Eight? It's a miracle of smoothness! Put these two facts together and you'll know what eight to buy. You'll pick a Pontiac because the Pontiac engine has no vibration point at any speed!

You'll have to go to twice as many cylinders to match that performance, and climb the price scale to approach Pontiac's quality. Moreover, in the famous Gilmore-Yosemite Economy run, under official supervision, this big car averaged 22 miles per gallon! These facts are enough to tell the motor-wish that the greatest, smoothest eight is Pontiac!

List prices at Pontiac, Mich. begin at $615 for the "8" and $730 for the "8" (subject to change without notice). Safety glass standard on De Luxe "8" and "8". Standard group of accessories extra. Monthly payments to suit your purse on General Motors Installment Plan. A General Motors Value

ERROR IN TIME MADE SMALLER BY CLOCK
SYDNEY, N. S.—Father W. O'Leary, director of the Riverview Jesuit college observatory, has completed an astronomical clock which, according to experts, is nearer perfection in time-keeping than any other yet invented. With the discovery of a score of new stars already to his credit, Father O'Leary spent 11 years on research work on the new clock, and another year on its construction.

The new principle of absolutely free pendulum movement which he has adopted is believed to be an improvement on that employed by Short, whose clock is in standard use in the world's leading observatories.

Electrically driven, the new clock will not need the slightest regulation and, according to Father O'Leary, one dare not even touch it. It is so sensitive that an earth movement two or three thousand miles away will cause slight variation in its accuracy.

Valley-Wide Dairy, Galveston Plans Poultry School Is Interesting Group Of Summer Events

MERCEDES, Tex.—The first annual Valley-wide dairy and poultry school was conducted here under the sponsorship of the Mercedes Chamber of Commerce and County Agricultural Agent R. G. Burwell, with 2,000 to 3,000 farmers attending.

The school was arranged as a means of educating farmers of the Valley to possibilities of farm profits in dairying and poultry raising.

The school precedes the opening of the Gudaby Packing Company's $20,000 dairy products plants in Mercedes by only a few days and is designed to better acquaint farmers with the better breeds of cattle and poultry and improved methods of raising and feeding the animals and fowls.

Attendees at the school will be welcomed by L. F. Boling, manager of the Mercedes Chamber of Commerce, and County Agent Burwell will explain the objects of the school.

GALVESTON.—Galveston, resort city on "Pleasure Isle" and great golf port, has developed a program which will make it a center of interest to Texans and their visitors during much of the Centennial year.

Five events are planned in June, July and August, following the opening Mardi Gras celebration held in February. They are the Centennial Splash week, June 6 to 14; the Oleander festival, June 19 to 22; the Water Carnival week, July 19 to 26; the Centennial Beach carnival, August 3 to 9, and the Annual Auxiliary Cruiser races, August 8 to 9.

The basement of the church was beautifully decorated with flowers and the school colors, purple and white. The place cards were distinguished by a graduate silhouette in the form of a diploma.

Members of the faculty present included Supt. W. T. Walton, Dean Rhom, Mr. and Mrs. Hal Hunter, Miss Gladys Pinson, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. LaMance, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Jarvis, Miss Eleanor Kirkpatrick, Coach O. M. Moore, Mr. Sealey, and Hubert Capps.

Black-Draught Relief Is Prompt and Refreshing

It's a good idea that so many people have—to keep Black-Draught handy so they can take a dose for prompt relief at the first sign of constipation.

"I have used Black-Draught a long time, about as long as I can remember, and have a package on my shelf now," writes Mr. Sherman Stued, of Evansville, Tenn. "I take Black-Draught for constipation which causes headache, a bad, tired feeling and for biliousness, bad taste in the mouth and sluggish feeling. Black-Draught, taken about two nights, clears up this trouble and I get all right."

Black-Draught is made of medicinal herbs, dried and finely ground, but no other change in their natural condition. It is a laxative that men and women like so well because of the refreshing relief it brings in constipation troubles.
