News From 4-H Clubs of County

Okra Boys' 4-H Club
The Okra Boys' 4-H club met the third Thursday in May at the Okra school. After the business meeting Mr. Barnhart took the group of boys to Mr. Lightfoot's farm, where a hen was tested for white diarrhea, by using what is known as the Pullorum test. Mr. Barnhart discussed with the club the causes of white diarrhea, and a way to prevent this disease from spreading throughout the flock. Those members present were: Marvin V. Claborn, Bob R. Foster, Otis Adams, Jr., Norman R. Graham, Billie F. Claborn, Herman H. Claborn, and the club sponsor, Mr. Lightfoot.—Otis Adams, Jr., reporter.

New Hope 4-H Club
The boys' 4-H club of New Hope met on May 14 at the schoolhouse. Mr. Barnhart, assistant county agent, gave the club a very interesting talk and demonstration on pecan budding. After his discussion each club member budded some limbs. Mr. Barnhart also talked to the club and showed us on chickens infected with white diarrhea. The club was shown some leather which was tanned at home by Mr. Cook, the county agent. Several of the club members decided to try and tan some leather if they could find a hide which is suitable for tanning. We are all very much interested in our club work and our club is making wonderful progress.—Elton Guy, reporter.

Morton Valley 4-H Club Meets
The Morton Valley boys' 4-H club met 12:45 p. m., May 13, 1936, at the schoolhouse. Mr. Hugh F. Barnhart, assistant county agent told us further plans on the club encampment to be held in June. We were fortunate enough to have Mr. Gibson, assistant dairyman of College Station, Texas, at the meeting and he gave an educational talk on raising the future dairy cow. He told how to tend to dairy calves from the time they were a day old until they were a year old.

The following club members were present: Roy Clouch, Morris Miller, C. F. Eakins, Carl Peoples, Donald Tow, Rex Ramsower, Billie Henderson, Wince Graham, Charles Peoples, Donald Jones, Voncile Eakins, Ned Smith, Harland Harbin, Billie Jones, Fletcher Sneed, Gerald Marlow, Olin Trout, J. Stamford Rodeo Has New Fixin's

By United Press
STAMFORD, Texas.—Stamford's famous rodeo, given in the heart of Texas' cow country, will find new fixin's when the seventh annual rodeo and cowmen's reunion is held July 2-5.

From the visitors' viewpoint, probably the most important innovation will be the use of dust-laying solution in the arena. The north grandstand is being remodeled; the entire group of buildings painted; and trees planted around the lake near the show grounds.

Purchase of 11 acres more ground will give a 42-acre space for the event.

Let Not Jeffersonian Cries Deceive You

The name and the spirit of Thomas Jefferson have been invoked often enough, as this presidential campaign gets under way, to lead an innocent bystander to suppose that Jeffersonian democracy would be the issue of the year.

The administration has been denounced for leading us away from Jefferson's ideal; it has been praised for leading us toward it. And the best thing the ordinary voter can do is to make up his mind right now that all this is one of the grandest sham battles that ever began a political campaign.

There is not the slightest chance that the present administration will Jeffersonize the country; there is not the slightest chance that its opponents will do so. Neither side has either the power or the wish to make Jefferson's great dream come true.

For Jefferson dreamed of an America which, in almost every essential, was the exact opposite of the America we have today.

His America would have been predominantly agricultural; ours is predominantly industrial. His would have had few cities and small ones; ours has many cities and large ones.

He felt that democracy would flourish only as long as the overwhelming majority of Americans lived on small farms, which they owned outright and on which they raised and fabricated nearly all the food and clothing they needed; and America has not remotely resembled that concept since the pre-Civil War era.

We have, instead, an enormous working class population and an incalculably immense network of finance and industry—the two things which Jefferson would have none of at any price. Most of our farmers either are in debt to the bankers or hold their farms as tenants—two more things which Jefferson held fatal to his vision of democracy.

But the important point is not so much the fact that we are in almost every respect the direct opposite of Jefferson's dream, as the fact that it would be almost impossible for us to get back to that dream.

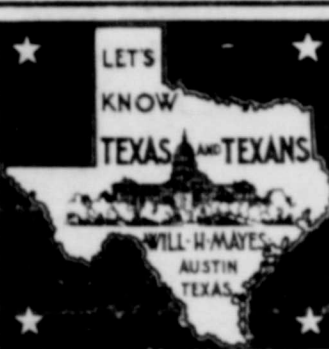

To do so we would have to remake our agriculture, to begin with, from the ground up; abolish debt, abolish tenancy, abolish the great one-crop farms of the corn and wheat and cotton belts, and restore antique handicrafts, such as weaving, wood-working, dyeing, and so on, to each farmhouse.

We would have to abolish our great corporations, give up our mass-production industries, reduce our great cities to a fraction of their size, abolish our tariffs, and whittle our banks and exchanges down to pocket size.

And if, at this point, you begin to wonder just how we could ever put through any such program, the answer is, bluntly: we can't.

We can't do it, and it is safe to say that no responsible party leader in or out of Washington thinks that we can. The fight over Jefferson's democracy is, in other words, a great sham battle. We might as well forget about it and devote ourselves to the real issues of the campaign.

BOOTS! BOOTS! BOOTS!

Q. When was Texas first formally offered to the United States for annexation?—S. J., Uvalde.
A. On Aug. 4, 1837. The offer was declined, largely because it might lead to war between the United States and Mexico and because it would extend slave territory. It was withdrawn by Texas in October, 1838, and negotiations were not renewed until October, 1843, when President Tyler asked that they be reopened. The change from Republic to State was consummated on Feb. 16, 1846.

Q. What percentage of sulphur production of the United States is from Texas and how is it mined?—R. C. U., Del Rio.
A. About 75 per cent, most of which is from Brazoria, Wharton and Matagorda counties. It is mined by forcing superheated water through pipes into the deposits, melting the sulphur and carrying it by force to the surface through pipes.

Q. How many Texans were killed and how many mortally wounded at San Jacinto?—R. N. P., Sumner.
A. Six were killed in battle. They were Lemuel S. Blakely, Rastrop; Benjamin R. Brigham, Brazoria; John A. Lamb, Walker county; John C. Hale, Sabine county; Thomas P. Fowle, recently from Massachusetts; Mathias Cooper, recently from Indiana. The mortally wounded, who died in a few days, were William J. Motley, Gonzales; Ashley R. Stephens, Washington county; Olwyn J. Trask, recently from New York. In addition to these 34 others were more or less seriously wounded.

Centennial Song Book
In the homes, in the schools, in public gatherings of all kinds, Texans are singing the best known typical songs of Texas—songs of the range, songs of the Texas home, patriotic songs—songs every Texan should know and delight in singing.

Twenty-eight of the best songs sung in Texas have been carefully selected by competent musicians, set to music, and published in a 32 page, 4 by 5 booklet on heavy coated paper with covers in colors. The booklet will be mailed postpaid for 25 cents. Send all orders to Will H. Mayes, Austin, Texas.

INDIANAPOLIS—That imaginary "groove" on the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, hunted high and low by racing stars for 25 years, has been relegated to the scrap heap.

The track's all "groove" now. This is the finding of A. O. Hastings, former member of the Indiana State Highway Commission and the expert under whose direction the oval has been remodeled to provide for increased speed on May 30 and in the future.

Winners of the 500-mile race, from Ray Harroun in 1911 to Kelly Petillo in 1935, all attributed their victory in some part to their own secret discovery of the "groove" into which the wheels of their mounts fitted most perfectly in the pilots' quest to achieve the fastest pace with the greatest safety.

Ralph DePalma, Tommy Milton, the late Frank Lockhart, and other immortals spent long hours riding the bricks to get the feel of the turns and locate rough spots. When they had charted their course they'd announce that they had found their "groove."

Directly after last year's race, Hastings began his exhaustive study to determine how to make the track faster and safer.

WHILE drivers sped around the course, Hastings checked carefully on their spring, wheel, and tire action. He noted the jabs and bumps encountered on the brick straightaways, the amount of centrifugal force exerted on the turns as speed was increased, and the visibility of the chauffeurs.

After weeks of calculation, he placed his findings on blueprints and speedway officials followed them to the letter.

The new surface on the turns is rock asphalt, blended carefully to match the brick of the straightaways.

The new outside wall, three feet high, is constructed of concrete, and built perpendicular to the cross-section grade on the turns.

The old outside concrete wall remains untouched, and it is now virtually impossible, according to Hastings, for a racing car to "climb the wall."

Removal of the inside retaining wall and the new curves have improved visibility.

The grading of a 50-foot safety zone directly inside the turns has given the drivers plenty of "spinning room" should they encounter trouble.

"CHECKING wrecks, we discovered that many cars hit the inside wall, then skidded up the track to the outside wall," asserts Hastings. "The new surface is made of the best non-skid material available, according to laboratory tests."

All curves on the remodeled track are constructed exactly alike, with a super-elevation of about 10 degrees. The two long straightaways are 3301 feet in length; the two short straightaways 660, and the four curves 1319. This gives the track a circumference of 13,198 feet or two and a half miles.

Discussing speed, Hastings estimates that 160 miles an hour could be attained on the straightaways with perfect safety, while 110 miles an hour in the curves, and 120 coming out of curves would be well within the safety margin.

"It goes without saying that much depends on the driver and 'he car,'" concludes Hastings. "We have provided a safe track for high speeds—and it's all 'groove.'"

Pure Milk IS AN AID TO HEALTH—KEEP IT fresh IN AN ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR!

Everyone knows that fresh, pure and cool milk is the finest body-building food in the world for little folks. Growing children should drink from a pint to a quart every day.

One way to make sure that all of the milk your children have is just as it should be—fresh and sweet and free from harmful bacteria—is to keep it in your automatic electric refrigerator that is built to Texas' weather specifications. Regardless of how hot the day may be, your electric refrigerator will keep constant temperatures below fifty degrees—the food safety zone.

PENNYWISE SAYS:

"Your doctor will tell you that milk is the only single food that will sustain human life. Make sure you give your children plenty of it."
