BLACK LEGION SUSPECTS ARE DETRIOT POLICE

DETROIT, May 28.—Five Detroit policemen were added today to the list of persons suspected of affiliation with the Black Legion and ordered to appear before police commissioner Heinrich Pickett.

Authorities awaiting the appointment of a grand jury to begin its formal investigation of the Black Legion in Wayne county, disclosed they were inquiring into reports that 60 or more members of the police department had taken the blood oath and undergone initiation into the terroristic band.

Prosecutor Duncan McRea said he had urged the cooperation of Pickett and other high police officials in ascertaining how many members of the force were affiliated with the vigilante band. The Wayne county official awaited a letter from federal bureau of investigation officials at Detroit, replying to his request for aid in the widespread inquiry.

19,000 RELIEF CLIENTS TO GET LAST MONEY

AUSTIN, May 28.—Nineteen thousand unemployable persons will have to depend for future relief on city or county agencies, Adam Johnson, Texas Relief Director, estimated today as the final checks were being drawn on $110,000,000 relief funds providing $20,000,000 in state bonds and federal grants.

Checks amounting to $321,212 were being written to be sent to 38,000 unemployables for June. Johnson estimated half of the $38,000 will receive relief beginning July 1 under the old age pension act. The percentage on relief eligible for pensions ranges from 7 per cent up in the various counties.

"It's up to the local counties," Johnson said when asked what would become of them.

With the closing out of direct relief the administration forces that once numbered more than 10,000 will be cut to about 150. It is estimated 100 will be needed in counties to make distribution of commodities and about 50 needed to close up state relief affairs.

Breck C of C to Refute Rumor of Road 89 'Tacking'

BRECKENRIDGE, May 28.—Activities of the Breckenridge Chamber of Commerce with reference to restoring signs west of Abilene calling attention to the route east through Breckenridge have brought information of rumors of alleged unfair play from some residents along the southern route.

As a result Hunter Jones, secretary of the local chamber, is drafting a letter to chambers of commerce along that route explaining the situation and saying that nothing is being done other than in fair competition with them for the tourist business.

An example of one rumor offered is that Breckenridge representatives have poured tacks and nails on the route leading to Strawn. It is to quell such unfounded rumors that the Chamber of Commerce is addressing the letters.

A sign has been selected to be erected west of Abilene. It reads: "Highway 80A, shortest all paved route, via Albany and Breckenridge to Fort Worth," drawn in fancy design.

That sign is to take the place of a sign that has always been there reading to the same effect but which recently disappeared. Thousands upon thousands of tourists will travel that route, and the signs give them the choice of either route.

SIX KILLED AS TRAIN HITS AUTOMOBILE

CALUMET CITY, Ill., May 28.—Four women, a boy and a small child on their way to decorate graves in a cemetery were killed today when a speeding passenger train struck their automobile at a Calumet City crossing.

Bodies were strewn along the right-of-way for 1,000 feet before the engineer halted his heavy train.

The train, north bound, approached the open crossing at its regular speed, train officials said. The red signal light was working.

The automobile was headed toward Holy Cross cemetery, about a mile from the crossing.

Plants which the women had planned to place on graves, were scattered with the bodies beside the rails. The car was destroyed.

Railroad officials were at a loss to explain the accident. The crossing at that point is in open prairie, they said, and vision is unobscured.

Southwest Stores Show An Increase Over April 1935

Retail sales in the Gulf Southwest as reflected by reports from 913 independent stores in Texas, Oklahoma, and New Mexico, reported to the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Department of Commerce, in co-operation with the Bureau of Business Research, University of Texas, according to preliminary estimates, increased about 13 per cent in dollar volume for April 1936, as compared with April, 1935. This report which covers the larger independent stores with the exception of department stores, represents 21 kinds of business, 9 of which, due to an insufficient number of reports, are included in miscellaneous or group totals.

The greatest increase was shown for New Mexico where reported sales for 55 stores were 17 per cent above April a year ago. The sales of 644 Texas merchants showed a 13 per cent increase and 214 in Oklahoma recorded a gain of about 11 per cent.

Without adjustment for seasonal influences, April sales for the three states showed a decrease of about 2 per cent from March, 1936. There were a like number of working days in both months.

All of the kinds of business represented, except food stores which recorded a decline of about 2 per cent, registered gains from last year. The greatest increase was shown by lumber of building materials dealers, with a 56 per cent gain. The total furniture and household appliances group recorded a 32 per cent increase in sales over April a year ago. A similar gain was shown for furniture stores.

Of the 913 firms reporting for April, 586 (64.1 per cent) reported an increase over April a year ago; 300 (32.8 per cent) reported declines; and 28 (3.1 per cent) had less than one per cent change in sales volume.

PENSION HEAD TO BE TRIED IN FEDERAL COURT

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Politically harassed but zealous of its dignity, the house today ended a week of bickering over the defiance of Dr. Frances E. Townsend by citing the pension leader and two aides on charges of contempt.

The house voted the contempt citation by a 371 to 41 standing vote. Efforts to force a roll call failed.

The citation authorizing a federal court prosecution of Townsend and his aides, was the answer of the house to the defiant refusal of the trio to recognize the power of the house old age pension investigating committee.

Those cited in addition to Townsend were Clinton Wauder, New York minister, and John Keifer of Chicago, both directors of Old Age Revolving Pensions, Limited, the directing organization of the Townsend movement.

It was the first contempt action in the house in 23 years.

The house, in no uncertain terms, backed up the punishment demand of Chairman C. Jasper Blum, Dem., of the investigating committee.

Under terms of the citation the case goes to the office of the United States District Attorney for trial in the District of Columbia Supreme Court. To try the three it will be necessary to obtain a grand jury indictment.

Conviction carries a fine ranging from $100 to $1,000 and a jail sentence of from one month to a year, or both.

Bombings apparently gained favor as a method of emphasizing Arab unrest. Bombs were tossed by demonstrators at Haifa, Jaffa and Safed.

What Agency Is Equal To Task of Relief?

The government system of administering relief is a failure because it does not acquaint the public with the needs and problems of welfare work.

This, in substance, is what Albert D. Lasker, Chicago advertising man, told delegates to the Red Cross convention in Chicago.

Any appeal for development of an alert social conscience which will make the well-fed citizen see the hunger and misery of the unemployed man as his own personal problem is to be commended.

But to go on from there and say that to gain that end we must go back to the private administration of relief would be to take a step possible only to the possessor of seven-league boots.

This may not have been what Mr. Lasker had in mind. But it is a proposition that is brought up frequently these days. The relief problem is as full of headaches as a keg of corn liquor; it is easy to feel that most of the headaches would vanish if we only could take the whole business off the government's hands and turn it over to the Red Cross, or some similar group.

But would they?

We might as well understand, first of all, that it is sheer fantasy to suppose that this work could be financed by private contributions in the traditional style.

The WPA program could be eliminated, of course, and we could go back to the dole. But what would that cost us?

Direct relief today averages $33 a month a person. It is quite possible that this figure could be reduced considerably—although this enlightened social conscience which private relief administration is supposed to foster might be outraged if the reduction were too drastic.

Still, let us suppose that the cost could be cut to an average of $20 a month a person.

At the beginning of 1936 the federal and local governments had 5,000,000 people on relief. Returning prosperity has probably reduced that total somewhat; still, if we abolished the WPA, we would get an increase in the direct relief cases, so that for the immediate future we can hardly figure on having fewer than 5,000,000 people to feed and clothe.

Laying out $20 a month for each person, we would be spending $100,000,000 a month, or $1,200,000,000 a year, on relief. Does any mortal in his senses suppose that we could raise any such sum by public contribution in the community chest manner?

The money would have to come from the government; and if it comes from the government, what happens to that direct public participation that Mr. Lasker talks about?

The relief problem is one long headache, admittedly. But the headache will go away only when the relief problem itself disappears. No easy short-cut is open to us.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Staff Correspondent. WASHINGTON—The big headache of the 74th Congress—to such few members as try to understand it—is the Patman-Robinson quantity discount bill. If this so-called "anti-chain store" measure is passed in any of its various proposed forms, most government experts hope President Roosevelt will veto it and give them a chance to study the probable effects of such legislation on the American people and the American business structure. Hardly anyone except the proponents and opponents pretend to have a grasp of the bills, and their claims and counter-claims are as far apart as the ends of the Pacific Ocean. ESSENTIALLY, it is an amendment to the Clayton anti-trust act which would drastically curtail, if not prohibit special terms granted by manufacturers to mass purchasers who buy in huge quantities. Independent merchants—especially retail and wholesale grocers and druggists—have brought heavy pressure to the bill, hoping such a law would stop the expansion of chain stores. If the bill passes the House, a measure will have to be worked out in conference—as Senator Joe Robinson said in explaining his acceptance of any and all amendments offered in the Senate. Although it is proposed to protect the small retailer from unfair competition such as "undue" quantity discounts and other allowances which mass purchasers sometimes can get from producers, an extreme interpretation would deprive consumers of all benefits of mass distribution. One chain store representative testified that the nation's retail food bill would be increased $750,000,000 a year, which probably is an absurd estimate. SENATE and House bills would bar quantity discounts, would confine allowances for "advertising" to services actually rendered by buyers, and provide against false brokerage allowances. The important exemption as to quantity discounts would be for discounts based on actual differences in cost resulting from quantity sales. But perhaps the biggest battle over interpretation comes right there. Burden of proof would be put on the seller and buyer and the problem of showing costs is so complex that opponents and some neutral outsiders say the burden would be an impossible one. ONE of the worst features proposed, from the chain store point of view, is an authorization for the Federal Trade Commission to decree a top-quantity discount limit on any given article, meaning that the government could crack down by limiting the discount rate so that it wouldn't increase beyond certain maximum quantities. New Dealers have been perplexed. Those who abhor "bigness" want to protect the independent retailer and favor anything within reason which will prevent the big corporations from gobbling him up. On the other hand, there's the consumer, half of whose dollar spent for food goes to those who handle it before it reaches him. Opponents of the Patman-Robinson bill says this spread between farmer and consumer would be increased tremendously if the measure were passed. (Copyright, 1936, NEA Service, Inc.)

Col Domingo Ugartechea, in command of the Mexican forces at Velasco refused to let the cannon pass. A fight ensued in which the Mexican fort was captured with about equal losses on both sides. This was on June 26, 1832.

OLD BOOK COMES BACK

By United Press. ALAMEDA, Cal.—A high school history textbook which he sold in Franklin, Ind., 44 years ago has come back to Dr. Arthur Hieronymus, local physician here. Lucian Finch, a friend, happened to find it in a second hand book store with Hieronymus' name inside, bought and returned it to him.

the SANTA MARIA Columbus' Flag Ship

the ship that brought Columbus to America ..and tobacco to the world

History tells us that when Christopher Columbus' sailors took tobacco back home with them everybody hailed it as one of the first new pleasures in years.

Today tobacco gives more pleasure to more people than ever before. Many different claims are made for tobacco, but most everybody agrees on this...

Smoking is a pleasure and the cigarette is the mildest and purest form in which that pleasure can be enjoyed.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

GAIL EVERETT, winner of a prize for costume design offered by a large silk manufacturing company, comes to New York to do work. She is hired—due to a stroke of luck—by MADAME LIZETTE, proprietor of an exclusive shop. Madame proves temperamental and difficult to work for.

BARBARA HARGREAVES, young artist, is interested in Gail, and offers her friendly advice. FRANCOIS, whose sister was her roommate at school. She also became acquainted with NATALIE PRESTON who, under a mask of friendliness, makes shrewd plans to advance her own interests.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER VIII

DAT MURPHY, the porter, glanced at the time clock and then at Gail. "Good morning, Miss," he said. "Sure, everyone's early this morning."

"Good morning, Pat. It looks like another fine day."

"Maybe that's why everyone's so early. It's the Madame herself that came in half an hour ago, and God forgive me, but here's her fire in her eyes."

"There was no laughter in the cloakroom when Gail pushed the door open."

"Why's everybody so upset this morning?" Gail asked Clytie.

"Oh, Madame's in a furious temper, and no one knows yet who'll get the benefit of it."

The mannequin shrugged her shoulders. "Don't look so scared. She won't eat you."

"No," piped up Ariadne, "but she may make you feel less than the dust if she wants to . . . and it won't be just a private affair. She'll choose a moment when she's sure of an audience."

"I saw her with a telegram. Maybe it was from Rex."

"Oh, is he still in Arizona?"

"I guess so," answered Clytie. "I don't see why she should worry about him—sitting pretty as confidential man on the job for the Travers Mining and Developing company."

"Say, he must have a good thing. Does he ever come here?" questioned Ariadne, who had only recently come to the shop.

"Once in a blue moon; but don't think it will make any difference to you. Madame's the one who chooses his girl friends!"

"PICKING up her handbag, Gail left the room. If Madame was in the warpath and her ill temper directed at Gail herself the girl wanted to know it and have it done with. But as she walked along the dimly-lit passage everything was peaceful. Perhaps, after all, the girls were wrong. Maybe Madame—but her thoughts ended swiftly as the other door of the designing room opened and her employer appeared on the threshold.

"Good morning," said Gail quietly.

Madame Lizette ignored the greeting, as she flounced into the room. "Mrs. Travers is coming in this forenoon with her daughter," she said, "and I want you to get a frock ready for her immediately. Have Ariadne come here at once. This is the material."

She pointed to a bolt of sheer, silky organdie in a delectable shade of blue.

"This is the style she wants," Madame said and Gail felt her spirits rise as she recognized one of the sketches on which she had worked the day before.

"Very well, Madame," Gail answered, a prayer of thankfulness rising in her heart as she watched her go.

Toinette and Selma entered the room a moment later. "Oh, Toinette," Gail said. "I wonder if you would find Ariadne and ask her to come here at once."

"All right, Miss Everett." The wiry little Frenchwoman hurriedly departed.

"You're going to drape that on her?" questioned Selma.

"Yes, Madame has a customer coming this forenoon, so we'll have to hustle."

"Well, we haven't much else to do today," remarked Selma, glancing around the room.

"That's good, for I understand this dress is for one of Madame's special customers."

"Oh, Miss Everett, they're all special customers according to the Madame! She likes to make us think they're important. As if it would make any difference in the work we put on the dresses. That cuts no ice with me any more. I've heard it too often."

"You've been here quite a long time then?" asked Gail.

SELMA shrugged her heavy shoulders. "It's better than being in a wholesale house . . . not so many people. Maybe it's worse too, for Madame can make me cry. You know what I mean! But there, such is life." She held out her hands expressively.

"Well, you seem to be quite happy."

"And why not? Toinette, Frank and I have worked for a long time together. We're friends. So long as we're together everything is all right."

"That's fine," commented Gail, as Ariadne sauntered in.

For the next half hour hardly a word was spoken, though the sharp snip, snip of shears cutting through the organdie and an occasional little cry from the model as Gail, in her enthusiasm, stuck a pin a little farther in than the thin satin slip Ariadne was wearing, revealed the progress of the work.

"At last Gail exclaimed. "There! Take a look at yourself in the mirror. How do you like it?"

"Not bad—but don't you think the ribbons might be changed a little here?"

"Yes, I believe that's better," agreed Gail, quickly unpinning and spinning the ribbons. "Now I'm going to call Madame and tell her we're ready to show her the frock." As she lifted the ribbon, the door on the right opened.

"The dress is ready—yes? Why did you not send for me at once as I tell you?" Before Gail could answer, Madame Lizette had reached Ariadne, and with a plump little hand on the girl's shoulder, turned her around as though she were a dummy. Then she shrugged and shook her head.

Selma and Gail then hurriedly slipped the fragile creation over Ariadne's head.

"At half past 11 Lita came hurrying into the room. "Is that organdie dress ready?" she asked.

"Miss Travers is in the showroom and Madame wants it at once. Quick, where is it?"

"Hold your horses, Lita," replied Frank, removing the dress from the pressing machine and slipping it on a hanger, while Toinette with quick, eager hands straightened the bonnets.

"Now you may take it," said Gail, snipping a tacking thread from the front.

Noon came and the others hurried from the room. Gail straightened her desk and, picking up her keys and handbook, started across the room. Suddenly the door opened and Lita called.

"You're to go into the showroom at once, Miss Everett!"

FRECKLES and HIS FRIENDS—By Blosser

Claunch, Jean Claunch and the club sponsor, Mrs. Rayfield. Ruby Lee Yarbrough, reporter.

Okra Girls' 4-H Club
The Okra 4-H club girls met on a regular meeting day at the Okra school, May 7, at 9 o'clock. Cornelia Faye Stewart, assistant home demonstration agent, gave a demonstration showing us how to make a slip fit. If the slip was made out of silk rayon, it is better to either french seam the side seams or stitch twice and overcast them. This will prevent them from raveling. Since silk rayon shrinks more than slip sheen, it will be necessary to make them fit more loosely.

The following club members were present: Quida Brazzil, La Verne Claborn, Hazel Neely, Bobbie Sue Burns, Lola Bell Grisham, Wilma Claborn, Nellie Jack Burns, Dorothy Russell, Johnnie Russell, Dorothy Chambers, Blanche Tye, Faye Dewre, Tommie Jean Claunch, Jean Claunch and the club sponsor, Mrs. Rayfield. Ruby Lee Yarbrough, reporter.

Seam Finishes
A slip that has been cut too small to have the seams pinked or French-seamed can be finished successfully, says Jantice Smith, cooperator of the New Hope Girls' 4-H club. Since only one fourth inch seam could be taken on the side seams, they were stitched twice and then overcast. In this way, the seams do not ravel and a smooth finish was left.

New Hope Girls' 4-H Club
The New Hope 4-H Club Girls met May 14, at the New Hope school. The slips were tried on and Cornelia Faye Stewart, assistant home demonstration agent, fitted them on the girls. Miss Stewart gave a demonstration on how to make French seams, flat fall seams, and pinked seams. The following club members

Length of Pillow Slips

The length of pillow slips should be in good proportion to the width of the pillow and should be long enough to cover the end of the pillow completely. Nine to 10 inches longer than the pillow is a general rule to follow. This measurement is for the finished slip," stated Mrs. Charles Starr, bed room demonstrator for the Dan Horn Home Demonstration club. Each cooperator in the home demonstration clubs will make one pair of pillow slips as one of the goals in the bedroom work and they are to make the slips long enough for the pillows.

Morton Valley Girls' 4-H Club

The Morton Valley 4-H Club girls met Wednesday, May 13, at the school. The club was divided into two groups. ### Tufting Stitch

"The tufting stitch on the candlewick spreads should be made by the following method, use the tufting yarn double and about 18 inches long for the best work and with a running stitch pick up about one eighth of an inch of the material and then make the stitch one half inch long on top of the spread." Mrs. Lillian Neal Eastland, bedroom demonstrator for the Ranger Co-Workers Home Demonstration club instructed her co-operators. "A gauge needle is more satisfactory in making the stitches all the same. When the pattern has been outlined as given, clip each stitch exactly in the center. It is necessary to have good sharp scissors in order to have the tufts even."

The Story of GARY COOPER In "MR. DEEDS GOES TO TOWN" JEAN ARTHUR A COLUMBIA PICTURE A FRANK CAPRA PRODUCTION

WHAT HAS HAPPENED BEFORE: Longfellow Deeds, pride of Mandrake Falls, inherits twenty million dollars, goes to New York and stands the city on its ear with his eccentric behavior. He refused to make up an $180,000 deficit on his opera, he goes on a binge with a famous author. Deeds doughnuts to horses to see how long it will take the horse to ask for a cup of coffee, he helps the fire department extinguish a blaze and he orders social leaders who have assembled at his house for a party to get out so that he can keep a date with Babe Bennett, pretty blonde newspaper reporter that he has met. Longfellow does not know Babe is a reporter and has fallen in love with her. He cannot understand where the daily stories of his exploits are coming from. Babe, who has been posing as a stenographer named Mary Dawson to Longfellow, realizes that she has fallen in love with him, too, and is seeking desperately for some way to keep him from learning that she is the "Cinderella Man" and made him a laughing stock in the press. Meanwhile, his attorney who has vital reasons for not giving Longfellow an audit of his estate, are plotting a surprise for him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY. Chapter Five

Cobb was waiting at Longfellow's house when he returned from his poetic proposal to Babe. Longfellow, smiling broadly, was bursting with his news, but "Corny" cut him short. "Hello, sucker!" he said. He rose from his chair and crossed the room toward Deeds. "Well," he said, "it's just as I suspected, wise guy! I don't mind you making a sucker out of your- self, but you made one out of me, too." "What's eating you, Sour-puss?" Longfellow asked. "I finally had a sense enough to have you followed tonight. The dame you've been running around with is Babe Bennett. New York's smartest sob-sister took you for a sleigh ride for years. She's the slickest, double-crossing, two-timing scoundrel in the city." Longfellow, in a rage, grabbed Cobb's throat and shook him. "What are you talking about?" he roared. Cobb yanked his head back at him. "All right—go ahead! Sock away! With his free hand he reached into his coat pocket. "And then try to laugh this off," he added, thrusting a photograph under Deeds' nose.

"That dame is Babe Bennett—New York's smartest sob-sister—and she took you for a sleigh ride." (Posed by Gary Cooper and Lionel Stander)

It was a photograph of Babe Bennett and Longfellow. He gazed at Cobb as he read the caption beneath it. "Louise (Babe) Bennett wins Pulitzer Prize for reportorial job at Mandrake Falls. Every time Longfellow stared unbelievably at the picture while Cobb continued with his tirade. "She's the smartest reporter on the Mail. Every time you opened your kisser you were giving her another story. She's the dame who christened you the 'Cinderella Man.' She's the—" Longfellow interrupted him. "Shut up!" he cried, and there was agony in his voice. He crossed to a chair and sat down. For a long time he said nothing and his face was a dead mask of disillusionment. Slowly, a wry smile came to his lips as Cobb and Walter watched him in sympathetic silence.

"Fack my things, Walter," he said. "I'm going back to Mandrake Falls." Cobb's face softened. "Gosh, pal, if I knew you were going to take it so hard I'd have kept my trap shut." Longfellow was about to speak when a commotion in the hall distracted them. The door burst open and a wild-eyed man came into the room, struggling with the butler. "Lemme go!" he cried. "I wanna see him! I wanna see that guy! Lemme go!" He stared at Longfellow. "There you are! I just wanna see what you look like—a guy that can spend thousands of dollars on a party when people are starving all around him! Cinderella Man! Know

The Vacation Bible School comes to a close in the morning. It has been a wonderful success. Some of the children are wishing it would go on all the summer. They will be talking all the year about what they have learned and the good times they have had. They have been studying Mexico. In the morning they are going to have an exhibit displaying Mexican products. I wouldn't miss it for anything. They start promptly at 8:30 and will close some time after 10 o'clock. All members of our choir take notice. Rehearsal tonight at 7:30. We hope all members of the choir will be present on time.

Formal Statement Of Cox Submitted

Ed T. Cox, Sr., candidate for representative for the 106th district, comprising Eastland county only, has made the following statement to the voters:

Indications are that the 45th legislature will have to consider more important questions than any session for many years. Among the matters of most importance is the financing of old-age pensions, which was demanded when the Constitutional amendment providing for it, was voted by the citizens of Texas.

I favor amending the present pension law so that all citizens meeting its requirements will receive equal payments. The payment of pensions will require a large increase in the taxes to be collected, and you should not be called upon to bear more than your fair share of the burden.

The varied interests of the state make it difficult for the legislature to agree on a financing

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Caused by Tired Kidneys

Many of those gnawing, nagging pains of the back are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way. The kidneys are one of Nature's chief ways of taking acids and wastes out of the blood. A healthy person should pass about 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 2 pounds of waste matter. If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, waste stays in the body and may become poisonous. It may start nagging backaches, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Don't let it lay you up. Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills—used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help to flush out the 15 miles of kidney tubes. Get Doan's Pills.
