DEMOCRATS GO TO SENATE FOR SESSION HEADS

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The New Deal will draw on its lieutenants in the senate to rule the Democratic National convention at Philadelphia which will nominate President Roosevelt. Alben Barkley, Kentucky, and Joseph Taylor Robinson, Ark., will be temporary and permanent chairmen, respectively.

Lesser members of the convention organization will not be definitely decided on until the convention meets June 23, but according to present plans two other senators will fill the all-important posts of rules and resolutions chairmen.

Senator Robert F. Wagner, New York, liberal friend of Alfred E. Smith as well as of Mr. Roosevelt, a legislator with a distinguished record as friend of labor is expected to head the resolutions committee which will have the important task of formulating the party's platform.

Clark to Head Rules Group
Senator Bennett Champ Clark, Missouri, one-time house parliamentarian and son of a former speaker, is slated for the rules chairmanship, a post that will carry the responsibility of deciding any disputes over the seating of delegates such as that likely to ensue in Minnesota, where two factions have named delegates.

Robinson Replaces Walsh
Robinson, senate majority leader, as permanent chairman will replace the late Senator Thomas J. Walsh, Montana. Walsh, after the election, was given the post of attorney general in the new cabinet, but died just before the inauguration.

Virtually all the important business of the Democratic convention will take place in night sessions. Judge John E. Mack of New York probably will nominate Mr. Roosevelt, and since there will be no protracted balloting between rival candidates as in past Democratic conventions, leaders are considering permitting up to 48 second speeches, one from each state.

Mr. Roosevelt and Vice President John Nance Garner will accept the renominations Saturday, June 27, in the Philadelphia Stadium.

Memorial to Wm. Eastland Erected

Rehabilitation Supervisor Explains How Texas Crippled Children Aided

How crippled children receive hospitalization through co-operation of the state department of rehabilitation with the Texas Crippled Children's Society was explained this week at Eastland by E. E. McGlamery, supervisor of the northwest district of Texas.

The rehabilitation department, which receives funds from the state and national governments, until recently was primarily concerned in the physical restoration of children and their placement in positions. The crippled society's funds are obtained from memberships.

Through the crippled children's society, the rehabilitation department finds and places children under 21 in hospitals for treatment. The crippled children work is also aided in funds from the state and national governments.

McGlamery is supervisor for 73 counties in the rehabilitation work and has charge of 43 counties in the crippled children division. The supervisor stated this work is constantly expanding, citing the recent addition of three supervisors who will devote their time to crippled children work.

Types of cases which the department handles through 26 approved hospitals and 31 orthopedic and plastic surgeons are as follows: Infantile paralysis, club feet, hare-lips, cleft palates, bone diseases, old fractures, bad fresh burns, spinal curvatures, deformities of joints, bones and muscles, and after effects of meningitis.

McGlamery emphasized the aid is only offered children of families not able to pay for the treatment.

Since Sept. 1, 1935, 1,100 children in Texas have received treatment. Ten children in this county have received aid since December, 1935.

J. J. Brown of Austin, state director of vocational rehabilitation, is also executive secretary of the Texas Crippled Children's Society. McGlamery is located in the courthouse at Eastland.

ARTHUR GOOCH GOES TO DEATH FOR KIDNAPING

M'ALESTER, Okla., June 19.—The first death sentence under the Lindbergh kidnap law was executed today when the federal government hanged Arthur Gooch, 27, at the penitentiary.

Gooch winked and smiled at the crowd as he mounted the scaffold. His neck was not broken when he dropped through the trap and he was strangled to death. He died without a statement.

The former Okmulgee butcher boy who turned to a career of crime and had served two prison terms, jarred to the end of the rope at 5:07 a. m. Fifteen minutes later he was pronounced dead.

He was convicted of kidnaping two officers in Paris, Texas, and forcing them to ride with him into Oklahoma. A cut suffered by one of the officers when he was pushed into a glass showcase, sounded the death of Gooch. The Lindbergh kidnaping law provides that any kidnap victim injured by the kidnaper makes the abductor eligible for death. Gooch grinned sickly as he mounted the scaffold. Deputy Marshal George Hall asked:

"Do you want to say anything, Arthur?"

Again came the pallid grin and Gooch shook his head. Then he turned and shook hands with deputy warden Jess Dunn and said:

"You've been good to me, Jess." Those were his last words.

NEW YORK, June 19.—July cotton reached the 12-cent level on the New York exchange today, the first time a futures position has sold at that price since Nov. 21, 1935, when the October position reached 12.08 cents.

Rev. Dossey Brings Good Message to Revival at Central

The morning-week day services of the Central Baptist revival were beautifully climaxed with a service dedicated to the older people of the church. Rev. Dossey brought an inspirational message on the subject, "Gardens and Graves."

Just following the sermon some beautiful couplets were awarded to various members of the elderly group. One bouquet for being the oldest woman present went to Mrs. Mary C. Mann, L. A. Eady was given a token for being the oldest man present, and Rev. Simpson Gregory was given a bouquet for having been a Christian the greatest number of years.

There was one addition to the church in last night's service and another in the morning service bringing the total number of additions during the meeting to 35.

CANDIDATES ARE ACCEPTING SPEAKING ENGAGEMENTS FOR RANGER FOR FOURTH OF JULY

With a large majority of the candidates for county and district offices, including all the candidates from the state senate and one candidate for congress accepting invitations to speak in Ranger on July 4, indications are that the entire program, which has been outlined by the committees in charge, will be one of the best in this part of the state.

The first part of the program will start at 9:45 on the morning of Saturday, July 4, with a fat man's relay race down Main street and will end with a softball game at the Municipal Field that night at 8:30. No charge will be made for the games scheduled for the afternoon, but the regular charge will be made for the night game to help pay for the lighting costs.

Included on the program, a complete outline of which is published elsewhere in this paper, will be speaking of candidates following the fat man's race, a horned frog race in the early afternoon followed by a terrapin race and another speaking by candidates in the afternoon.

Late in the afternoon two softball games have been scheduled, with a night softball game, and possibly a double-header, ending the day's activities.

THREE TEXAS CONVICTS KILL GUARD, ESCAPE

ANGLETON, June 19.—Three Texas convicts attacked Felix Smith, a guard at Retriever prison today, killed him with his own gun and escaped.

Smith was taking the number three plow squad today when he was attacked. There were several other prisoners in the group but they did not participate in the break, officials said.

The escaped prisoners were T. B. Atkinson, serving a life sentence as a habitual criminal; Luke Trammell, serving 85 years for robbery and murder; Forest Gibson, serving 10 years from Limestone county.

Captain E. W. Conner, manager of the farm, formed a posse of guards and started in pursuit of the felons, led by the prison blood-hounds.

Jack Ellington, general manager of the prison system, began an investigation and directed the hunt for the killers.

"Apparently Smith got closer to the squad than he thought he was. The three grabbed him, shot him to death with his own gun and escaped. They have two guns with them," Ellington said.

The guard was armed with two pistols and a rifle. The other prisoners stood by while the three killed Smith.

"They stayed with the slain guard until other guards arrived. One of the guards' guns dropped and a convict picked it up and held it until a guard arrived, Ellington said.

He said he had not determined if Smith was shot with a pistol or the rifle.

French Treasury Is Empty and the Nation In Debt

PARIS, June 19.—The French treasury is empty. This year's authorized borrowing already has been exhausted and 14,000,000,000 francs ($22,600,000) in disguised inflation has been carried out. Vincent Oriou, minister of finance, told the chamber of deputies today in his report on national finances.

He revealed that in the face of these conditions government requirements will total 8,000,000,000 francs in addition, he said. France must repay a 3,000,000,000 franc ($197,700,000) British loan.

COURT DENIES ADVANCEMENT OF BEER SUIT

The Eleventh Court of Civil Appeals overruled a motion for the advancement of a suit by which days seek a court order restraining County Judge Clyde L. Garrett from hearing applications for permits to retail beer.

The court's ruling, in an opinion written by all justices, was based on the lack of statutory authority for the court to advance the case.

The case, an appeal from 91st district court which dissolved a temporary order restraining Judge Garrett from issuing licenses, was filed after commissioners' court decided results favoring the sale of 14 per cent alcoholic beverages.

The opinion of the court was as follows:

"On this the 19th day of June, A. D. 1936, came on to be heard the motion of appellants, Joe J. Mickle and others, to advance the date of submission of the above entitled and numbered cause and set same for submission on July 3, 1936, and the motion having carefully considered by this court, the same is overruled for the following reason:

"It appears from the motion and the record that the same is an appeal from a judgment refusing a permanent injunction after trial on the merits, and it is therefore not subject to advancement." If, however, the appeal is properly to be construed as one from the refusal of the district judge to grant a temporary injunction, or dissolving one, the allegations of the motion to advance clearly show that the subject matter of the appeal or question involved insofar as the temporary injunction feature is concerned has become moot. In either event, there is no statutory authority authorizing this court to advance the case over other causes filed prior thereto. The motion is overruled.

Sea to Engulf An Ancient Town

LES - SAINTES - MARIES - DE - LA - MER, France — This ancient town on the Mediterranean, one of the most picturesque in France, is in danger of disappearing—in danger so imminent that the Prefect of the Department of the Bouches - du - Rhone has been asked to do something about it.

The sea is eating its way into the coast. Already the city proper, once three-quarters of a mile from the sea, is protected from it only by dikes, one of which, on the west, has been almost destroyed by this year's storms. Middle-aged inhabitants remember playing in fields now well out in deep water. Customs officers huts that once stood on a cliff above the sea now are in deep water.

The town is almost entirely surrounded by water. To the south is the Mediterranean, to the west the salt lake of Les Lones, to the east the Imperial salt lake. Both of these bodies of water are separated from the sea only by a thin strip of shore, through which narrow channels are beginning to be cut.

It will not be long, if nothing is done, until the barriers break down, the lakes become part of the Mediterranean, and Les - Saintes - Maries - la - Mer, a small promontory on the end of the neck of land bearing the road from Arles, gradually will sink beneath the sea as so much of the land about it has already done.

Dikes built along the banks of the Little Rhone to protect the region from floods have helped to increase the speed with which the sea is eating away at the coast, for the silt which the Rhone used to spread at its mouth to replace the land eroded by the sea is now carried out into the Mediterranean.

Les - Saintes - Maries - de - la - Mer retains all its picturesqueness because its inaccessibility keeps all but the most determined tourists away. Whereas other famous old cities of France have been spoiled

Youth is Held in Jail Awaiting an Order on Trial

By United Press

EDINBURG, Texas. — A new trial for Richard A. Palmer, youthful Texas ex-convict who was found guilty and given a 99-year sentence for his alleged part in the slaying of Percy A. Calkins, Houston salesman, will not be set down on the docket of 92nd District criminal court until receipt of the opinion from the Court of Criminal Appeals.

Palmer has been held in the Midalge county jail here since his conviction June 1 by a trial jury on the 92nd district court on a charge of murder in connection with the Calkins slaying.

The youthful defendant was given a new trial after the Court of Criminal Appeals reversed his conviction on grounds that the trial court was in error in refusing Palmer a second special venire after the first special venire had been quashed.

James D. McAllister, also a former Texas convict, was electrocuted at the Texas penitentiary in Huntsville the morning of June 5 after the Court of Criminal Appeals confirmed his conviction for the slaying of Calkins.

McAllister and Palmer, according to testimony in both trials, were "picked up" by Calkins on State Highway 66, south of Falfurrias, and were given a ride toward the Valley, in Northern Hidalgo county, according to the testimony, McAllister, sitting in the rear seat of the sedan, shot Calkins through the head. Calkins' body was thrown into the rear of the car and later dumped, only partly clothed, into a clump of cactus near the Red Gate road between State Highway 66 and Raymondville.

The boy was found the next day by hunters. Palmer was arrested at a carnival at Rio Hondo two or three days later and McAllister the same night at a San Antonio transient camp.

CARDUI

Helped Three Times

At three different times, Cardui has helped Mrs. Ike Wright, of Sealy, Texas. "I used Cardui when a girl, for cramps, and it helped then," she writes. "Next, after marriage, she reports having taken Cardui when she felt weak, nervous and restless before her children were born.

And during middle life, it helped her again. "I was miserable," she explains. "I did not have an appetite. I was very blue and upset. I remembered Cardui had helped me, so took it again and soon began to pick up. I ate and had more strength. I kept up the Cardui and did not have any more trouble. Is it any wonder that I recommend Cardui to all my friends?"

Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU consult a physician.

WE WILL BUY YOUR POULTRY, CREAM, CATTLE AND HOGS

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY MARY E. DAGUE
NEA Service Staff Writer

WE used to think that cottage cheese was something you served only as is. The smart modern cooks and dietitians have found a multitude of uses for it as an accessory. In fact, it's become such a fashion that most of the city markets and dairies offer a very good quality on their counters. It usually may be had in two forms, mixed with cream ready for use or unmixed. The unmixed is cheaper to buy, but if cream must be purchased for the mixing, the final cost is practically the same.

However, cottage cheese can be made at home and it's an excellent way to use up milk when it sours. If you follow the rules carefully you will have successful results.

How to Make It

The directions are very simple. Thick, curdled milk that has soured quickly is the best foundation for a good quality of cottage cheese and the following is the easiest of several ways to make it.

Place the bowl containing the thick sour milk into a large pan of hot water. Never let the milk become hotter than blood heat. Too high a temperature toughens and hardens the curd. Let stand until thorough separation takes place. Then pour into a large square of cheesecloth—double thickness—placed over a colander. Gather up the four corners of the cheese cloth and hang up to drain. Let it drain until the curd is firm and the whey is drained out. It's the whey that has the strong acid taste. Remove from cheesecloth to a bowl and beat with a fork, adding cream, either sweet or sour, to make the mixture of the right consistency. An electric beater is splendid for this mixing. Add salt to taste, which is usually about 1 teaspoon to 2 cups of cheese. Season well with white pepper.

Lamb in rice border is a light main dish that needs a dessert rich in protein to finish the meal.

Lamb in Rice Border

One and one-half pounds of lamb, 1 pound green peas, 2 cups canned tomatoes, 1 small onion, 3 tablespoons flour, 2 teaspoons salt, 1-2 teaspoon pepper, 1-2 cups cold water.

Use a piece of the shoulder of lamb. Trim meat in neat pieces of clear meat. Put bones and trimmings into sauce pan, add cold water and let stand thirty minutes. Bring slowly to the boiling point and simmer thirty minutes. Strain. Brown lamb in hot oiled frying pan and put into casserole. Add tomatoes, minced onions, salt, pepper and broth. Cover casserole and cook about an hour. Add peas and corn, thirty minutes longer, until tender. Remove meat and vegetables to center of hot platter and surround with a border of steamed rice. Thicken liquid in casserole with flour stirred to smooth paste with a little cold water. Pour gravy over meat, garnish with ripe olives and serve.

DESDEMONA

Edward May and family left Tuesday morning for their home at Dimmitt, Texas, after visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. May, and their many friends who were delighted to see them.

After two weeks' serious illness, Barbara Henrice, eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Obed Jensen of Freer, passed away early Friday morning at Gorman. Funeral services were held at the First Baptist Church at Ranger Saturday afternoon, with the pastor of the Baptist Church at Freer in charge of the services and with Rev. K. C. Edmonds of Olden assisting. Interment was in the Ranger cemetery. The floral offerings were numerous. Barbara was born in Desdemona and spent most of the eight years of her life here as this was the home not only of her parents but also her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Henrice (who moved to Freer last year) and Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Hilliard. From her very infancy Barbara was known as one of the brightest and friendliest children who ever lived here and her death is regretted by all. An immense crowd of relatives and friends filled the church at the funeral.

Mrs. Sam Roberts and children formerly of Desdemona, and Mrs. Jimmie Upton, formerly of Olden, visited Mrs. J. H. Jackson and Mrs. Bailey Stark and a number of other friends here Friday before returning to their homes at Healdton, Okla.

Mrs. Bill Parks drove to Strawn Saturday and took Miss Mollie O'Rear, John O'Rear and Mrs. Annie Daniel, who had been called there to attend the funeral of their great-nephew, the two-week-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Seed, formerly of Eastland but now of Clovis, N. M. Mrs. Seed is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milt O'Rear of Strawn. Their many friends here deeply sympathize with the sorrowing relatives. Milt O'Rear visited the family here on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Stover drove to Stephenville Sunday afternoon to visit her half-brother, Gene Lookingbill, who was seriously ill at the hospital following a major operation. They were glad to find him better though still in a critical condition.

J. G. Williamson Jr. of Santa Anna was the guest of his cousin, Charles Bragg Jr., last week.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Skipping left Thursday for a visit in Brownwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hilliard and children left Wednesday for their home at Overton after a visit here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Nabers.

Mrs. Horace Morrison and baby daughter, Patricia Ann, were brought home from the Blackwell sanitarium on Tuesday night of last week and they are receiving visits from their friends at their home at the Bedford Hotel. Her mother, Mrs. Woody of Gorman, and Gene and Herbert Crenshaw visited them Sunday.

Mrs. Roy Ashburn and daughter, Anita, are visiting her sister, Mrs. Willie David, at her home at Tulsa, Okla.

W. C. Bedford drove to Eastland Monday to attend the meeting of Democratic precinct chairman. He was accompanied by W. H. Whitworth.

Miss Ceille Crenshaw, accompanied by Miss Leta Troy Huddleston drove over to Gorman Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Preston Sparks returned Tuesday from Austin for a short business trip.

The Methodist Missionary Society met Monday afternoon at the church for the monthly World Outlook program. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Charles Lee. Roll call responses were answers to Bible questions on the Book of First Samuel. Miss Mollie O'Rear read the Scripture lesson and Mrs. E. M. Daily offered prayer. During a short business meeting it was reported that the society still had a good supply of vanilla and several packages of Betty Brites for sale and members were urged to assist in the sales. Those present were Miss Mollie O'Rear and Misses G. S. Bruce, W. H. Whitworth, Charles Lee, S. E. Snodgrass, E. M. Daily, C. O. Bragg and W. C. Bedford.

The first Centennial visitors to reach Desdemona were Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Malthy of Whittenton, Texas, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Compton and little daughter, Marjorie Faye, of Terling, Okla. They came on Tuesday of last week to visit C. W. Malthy and family. W. C. and C. W. Malthy are brothers. The visitors had been to the Centennial which they said was wonderful.

Hosts of friends of John Hammond and family will regret to know they moved to near Comanche. They moved here in 1924.

Hoyt Lee Browning was able to be brought home from Gorman Sunday. Mrs. Nannie Noell left Wednesday for Dublin to visit her children.

Weldon Rushing left Saturday for Houston to accept a position with the Humble Oil & Refining Company. His many friends regret to see him leave here but are glad he has such a good position.

Miss Johnnie Buchanan returned Tuesday from a short visit in Denton.

Rev. Mrs. Earl Alexander and her husband and Miss Naomi Alvis and Miss Capitola Browning returned to Stephenville Monday to continue a revival meeting of the Church of God there. Rev. Alexander expects to organize a church there soon. Crowds estimated at three or four hundred have attended the revival.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Barron and son, Billy Jack, who moved to Olney several months ago, spent Friday here with their many friends. Billy Jack was the guest of Paul Stanley Arnold and Mr. and Mrs. Barron had dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Gifford Acres. While here they let the contract to Frank

Swift Justice

In one hour and 23 minutes of deliberation, a jury in Cleveland recently convicted a police captain on four counts of a bribery charge...

It is encouraging to note how quickly the jury disposed of the case. It meted out the kind of justice that must be had if corruption is to be divorced from public office.

so long as the state is unable to make provision for these, it certainly would not be just to take from the state's treasury, or to tax the people, to pay pensions to millionaires and the rich. The state must first discharge its moral and social obligation to the sick and afflicted, the unemployed and the needy.

the pensions must commence without delay; (thus payments would have started last fall instead of July 1 of this year—that the committee be instructed to report back not later than Monday, Nov. 11,"—Senate Journal, Page 265, Nov. 8, 1935.

This motion was lost 16 to 11. I favored and insisted upon the payment of $15 per month to every qualified applicant, but was voted down, over my objection, the previous question, which under the rules cut off debate and further proceedings, except the main question of passing the bill. Being thus deprived of further opportunity to derive the defeats and correct the bill, I was unwilling to vote for a bill making an appropriation of $25,000,000.00, without the revenue being provided; to vote for a year's delay and the payment of salaries of numerous investigators for months before the assistance payments began; and to authorize discriminations between qualified applicants, as well as for other sections of the law which are objectionable and unsatisfactory to the people.

Permit me to state clearly that I supported increases in the taxes on sulphur, oil, gas, utilities, pipe lines, franchises, and many others which would have raised sufficient revenue. Any statement that I did not do so, or was absent, is deceiving and untrue—Page 377, Senate Journal, Nov. 11, 1935. I shall again support these tax increases to pay the Old Age Assistance and other necessary governmental obligations. My position on the necessity of a great reduction in ad valorem taxes is well known.

What do those opposing me for a second term offer? They criticize now, but they did not offer one word to help us solve the problems at that time. Since then, they have had several months in which to make a cool and calm study of the law passed; whereas, in the midst of the rush and excitement of debate, I introduced

Sport Glances.By Grayson

NAPANOCHI, N. Y.—Who'd he ever fight? John L. Sullivan popped the question in regard to Jim Corbett. Gentleman Jim wanted to know where old Bob Fitzsimmons buried his dead. Ruby Robert metook Jim Jeffries for a saperoo. The boilermaker was given a bum steer when the Jack Johnson match was made.

"Who'd he ever fight?" asked Johnson, when they were trying to build a case for Jess Willard. The Pondorous Pottawatomie Pounder thought so little of Jack Dempsey that he had a barber give him the works, massage and all, the morning of the slaughter. The Manassa Man said that he wouldn't trade his left hook for the supposedly timid Gene Tunney's spirit of the marines.

"Who'd he ever fight?" before Max Baer made him look like a dumb waiter. The Buttery Butcher Boy felt sorry for Jim Braddock, but was glad to see Mae and the kids get a break.

Max Schmeling had spent the better part of an hour explaining how he had returned to Europe, sharpened up his left hand, and fought himself out of his slump. The German would have plenty of respect for Joe Louis at Yankee Stadium, June 18. All opponents were dangerous.

SCHMELING wanted to catch a picture show. The interview was concluded. The German turned to go, but back over his shoulder came the inevitable question, "Who'd he ever fight?"

In the little time that he has had with Schmeling this trip, Joe Jacobs has tried to drum into the Teuton's head the fact that a blonde named Adolph Winter and Patsy Perroni stayed 10 rounds with the Negro. Jacobs has stressed Natie Brown's feat of getting off the floor in round one with a cut above his eye, and going 10 with the Brown Bomber. Little Joe keeps repeating that Hans Birkie, slower than the Giants, went into the 10th heat before being halted by the Dark Angel.

What Jacobs has neglected to tell Schmeling is that Louis, little more than a novice then, was carefully gaited by the veteran Jack Blackburn, who knows that a boxer must be on the firing line to acquire polish. The famous old lightweight took no chances while molding the finished product which he has today.

LOUIS, now 22, has filled out around the shoulders since he brought his meteoric rise a year ago. The Alabama-born darky no longer is a boy. He now is a man. He may be at his peak against Schmeling.

"I picked flaws in Chappy up until now," explains Blackburn. "I can't find them any more. He's letter perfect."

Louis brings more memories of great gladiators of the glorious past every time you see him. Philadelphia Jack O'Brien beamed at Lakewood the other afternoon, as Smoky Joe fell back into the ropes as a sparring partner let a punch in attempting to drive him into them.

The slack in the hem enabled Louis to pull his chin just out of range, and an uppercut, at the apex of the rebound, neatly tore the sparring mate's head off.

"I haven't seen anything like that since the old days," remarked Professor O'Brien.

Who'd Louis ever fight? Well, there is every reason to suppose that Schmeling will be quite positive that Louis fought Schmeling almost as quickly as they put up their hands.

the above motions and sought by every means at my command to eliminate these defects now being complained of; and urged the passage of the necessary revenue measures.

RUNAWAY BRIDE

By Helen Welshimer © 1936 NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY Two hours before the time set for her marriage, MARCIA CUNNINGHAM suddenly remembers BOB HANKELL, saying to SYLVIA GRAHAM, "Certainly, I love you Sylvia, but I can't stand to marry you. Marcia's father is giving me a job."

Marcia lets them know she has heard the conversation, then goes to her room. She looks at her dress, she slips out of the house and goes to the home of her dear friend WENDY ANDREWS. She tells Wenda the marriage is off, asks her to break the news to Marcia's parents.

After Wenda leaves Marcia gets into a cab, suddenly remembers the honeymoon trip to France. Impetuously she decides to go. She gets on the ship just before the captain is relieved.

CHAPTER II THERE were flowers in the living room of the cabin which Marcia entered—red roses and yellow roses and iris and narcissi and daffodils. There were small trays of canapes and plates of sandwiches and a big bowl of stuffed olives and another tray of slives wrapped in bacon. The cabin, quiet patently, expected a party.

A maid came in and offered to unpack. Marcia watched her for a minute. Then she took off her hat, ran a comb through the tawny curls, powdered her tilted nose, and outlined her lips with deeper red. She put on her hat again and went to the quarter-deck. She began to walk around and around and around the deck. If she could grow tired she might be able to sleep. The orchestra had burst into a "swing" tune. The trumpet was improvising as it flung its wild music down to the sea. She might have been dancing there, with Bob—

Marcia went downstairs, turned on the shower, let the icy needles fall across her lithe young body, and climbed into bed. Then she heard bells ringing and remembered. Ship's bells. She was sailing alone on her wedding night! The tears that had been so far away all evening came then out on to walk, around, quiet at last. She slept until the stewardess called her in the morning.

"Perhaps Mademoiselle will breakfast in bed?" Marcia stretched lazily. Why not? There was nothing for which to get up. Nothing. Her body was weak and tired, as though it could be moved only through supreme effort. Yet if she stayed in bed she would think.

"I'm going to the dining room, thank you," she said. HALF an hour later, dressed in a yellow flannel sports frock whose big wooden buttons matched the brown of her polo coat and felt sports hat, she came out of the dining room and sat down at her place at the first officer's table. A man and woman at the table exchanged glances as Marcia was seated. She gazed at them curiously before she ordered a double orange juice, toast and bacon, and coffee.

Breakfast over, she went on deck, sat down in her chair, and sent a deck steward for magazines and books. Someone paused in front of her and Marcia raised lazy eyes. It was a friend of her mother's, a woman who had been invited to the wedding, who had a tongue for gossip.

Marcia sat quietly while Phil read the message. The only friend she had at sea was bang drawn, gently but surely, into the world on shore.

Marcia became aware of the plural pronoun when it was too late. "Neither," he answered, and she saw that his voice and smile were sure and slow. "I happen to know Mrs. Jameson!"

The morning went faster than she had hoped it would. The young man, whose name was Phillip Kirkby, drew up a chair and chatted with her at tea-time. He was an electrical engineer, just back from the Pampas where he had been assisting in a bridge construction job. He was big, not handsome, but well-built. His hair was rough and dark and his eyes were strikingly blue against the browned face.

Marcia thought about Bob as she dressed for dinner. Dusk had swept the sea of all color and Marcia was lonely. Maybe she could have made him love her! That thought made her weak and she sat down to consider it.

"Stop!" She stamped a foot in a fragile golden slipper. Bob was probably driving along the Long Island bay tonight, with a white moon in the sky, wash of waves against the shore, and somebody who might be Sylvia or anyone else at his side. Bob would get over it—"What does it matter whom I marry?"

She wanted to sink back on the bed and cry, but she didn't. Instead she went down to dinner. This night, when the trumpet and the clarinet and the drums swung into it, she danced, too.

MARCIA laughed lightly as she went from one pair of arms to another. She knew that the men were giving her appraising looks. She was heartless in their eyes! She had left one of their kind at the altar—or almost at the altar. She had insulted their sex. They wanted to punish her, but they wanted to kiss her first. All but Phil. He was steady, reassuring, gay, and kind. She was glad when he cut in.

There were acres and acres in which to stroll on the deck. There were squash courts and there was a swimming pool; there were lounges and salons, and the sun shone on bright blue water all the way.

She mentioned Bob to no one until the last night out. For the sixth time she had donned a dinner dress from the trousseau. A molded one of pale lavender silk this time.

She was dancing with Phil when he said, "Let's go on deck. I need to breathe. Tomorrow I'm going to see Camilla!"

They sat in their chairs, watching the rain play darkly on the water save when the lightning made a quick green path through the sky. They were comfortable. "Camilla!" Marcia took up the theme.

"The girl I've loved since I knew that women had other purposes than having their hair pulled and interrupting games. I've proposed regularly and been given hope. When I came back from the Pampas the other day I found that the young lady had gone off to Paris, and the tabloid columnists are saying that a young Austrian count, an officer with the embassy at Paris, is the reason. I'm dropping in to see."

"And if it's true?" "I'll drop out again. I'm due back in the Pampas in September anyway."

Suddenly Marcia wished that she was due somewhere, anywhere.

A deck steward came by, calling Phil's name. "Radiogram for you, sir," he said.

Marcia sat quietly, while he excused himself and read it by the fore of two matches. A radiogram. Already the only friend she had at sea was being drawn gently but surely into the world on shore.

Centennial Pens Are Upon Exhibit

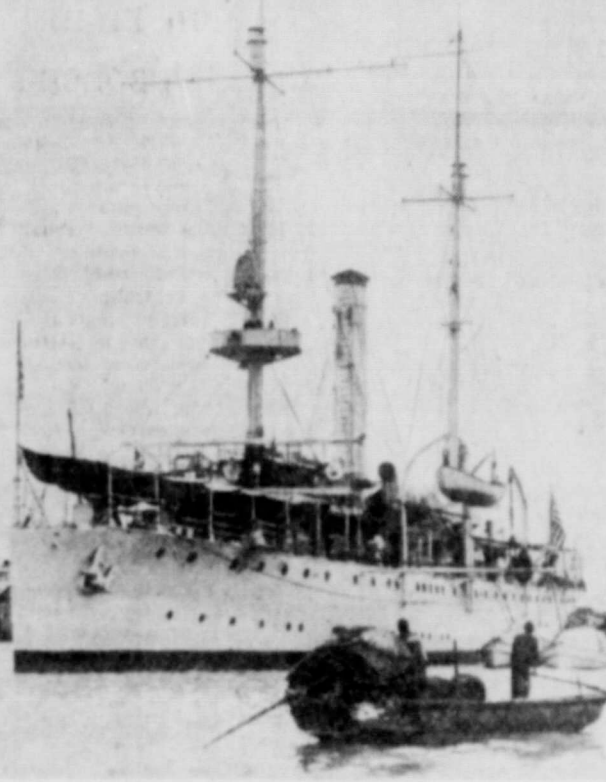

DALLAS.—Garland Adair, veteran newspaperman and Centennial organizer, exhibited at the Texas Centennial Exposition grounds the pens used by President Roosevelt, Vice President Garner, and Gov. James V. Allred to sign the legislation which provided $6,000,000 for the Centennial.

The pen which had been flourished by Franklin Roosevelt was a grey fountain pen, and the one Garner used was a brown straight gadget to sign the bill in which was earmarked $500,000 for the Texas Memorial Museum, a permanent structure to be erected at the University of Texas at Austin.

Adair originated the Centennial commemorative coins which are being sold to help finance the construction of the museum. He was also for more than three years chairman of the American Legion Centennial committee which raised over $6,000 for the anniversary celebrations.

Adair, now a candidate for state treasurer, was given the pens for his work in behalf of the Centennial. Upon the exhibition of the pens here he commented that the pen was still mightier than the sword, although it took the pen and sword both, plus the plow, share, the drill, and theariat to build the state of Texas.

ARE YOU ON THE BORDERLINE OF ACTUAL SICKNESS?

Constipation* Causes Discomfort, May Lead to More Serious Troubles

You may have days, perhaps even weeks, when you feel below par. Not sick enough to go to bed, but certainly not at your best. The trouble may be with your diet. Poorly balanced meals can affect your physical condition.

Meals which lack proper "bulk," for instance, may lead to common constipation. Continued neglect of this condition causes discomfort, may lead to headaches, poor appetite, listlessness.

Guard against common constipation.* Make sure the meals you eat contain plenty of "bulk." Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a generous source of effective "bulk." Within the body, it absorbs moisture, forms a soft mass, and gently cleanses the system.

Two tablespoonfuls daily, with milk or cream, are usually sufficient. Stubborn cases may require ALL-BRAN oftener. Serve ALL-BRAN either as a cereal, or cooked into muffins, breads, etc. Eat it regularly for regular habits.

ALL-BRAN is guaranteed by the Kellogg Company. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

For instance, there is the scene where Bob and his two friends are held prisoners in the cellar of the ranch belonging to their enemies, the Brady brothers. The trio find
