Jury In Della Henry Murder Case Dismissed

ARTILLERY IS PUT TO USE IN MADRID AREA

A heavy artillery barrage rock-Madrid today as government nationalist batteries resumed fierce cannonade. With rain preventing operation of airplanes, the leftist artillery shelling the insurgent positions on almost the entire front and the nationalists quickly reformed. Loyalist militia trapped 1,000 rebel storm troops in the eastern part of the city and expected to annihilate them. Foreign legionnaires and the bel soldiers tried a dash into the city last night. A strengthened militia line was reported to find the enemy attacking. Militiamen began a hot enveloping movement and firing stopped the nationalist advance. There was a growing opinion that the nationalists had lost one opportunity to take Madrid. On Monday night the loyalist forces were demoralized and close to defeat. Two days ago foreign military experts were convinced the city was doomed. Now thousands of fresh troops arrived, men with fighting experience. They came from Catalonia and from abroad. The complete shift in the situation is believed to mean that the threat to Madrid has faded.

Mavs Give Lions Run For Money

BROWNWOOD, Nov. 12.—Brownwood's Lions needed all the horse shoes in their new athletic stadium Wednesday afternoon as the pass tossing Eastland Mavericks cut loose with a last quarter aerial attack that raved them two touchdowns to come within six points of overhauling the Lions. The final score being 26 to 20, Brownwood scored one touchdown in the first quarter, added single center in the second, third and fourth to lead 26 to 7 all but one minute of the fourth period remaining. With Samuels doing the tossing the Mavericks started marching goalward. Daniels took a pass from Samuels and raced 55 yards for the first score on a pass. Samuels to Garrison, netted the other. And to make the evening complete, Samuels had passed to Cook for the extra point after the final touchdown. Samuels had passed to Cook for the Mav's first score midway in the third period. James Thomason the Lions' all-district fullback, scored three touchdowns, one a 70 yard run after an intercepted pass. McHorse made the first on a pass from Thomason. The Mavericks completed 25 for a total gain of 234 yards, fourteen being incomplete, four intercepted, Eastland led in first downs, seventeen to seven. Lineups: Eastland—Garrison and Cook, ends; Trantham and Perine, tackles; J. Taylor and Leclair, guards; R. Taylor, center; H. Taylor, quarter; Daniels and Jones, halfbacks; Hill, full. Brownwood—Joiner and Butler, ends; Miller and Manning, tackles; Scott and Hayes, guards; Vaughn, center; Newby, quarter; McHorse and Wilson, halfbacks; Thomason, full.

School Children To Have Special Day at Centennial

A 22-coach passenger train, starting from Cisco Friday morning at 6 o'clock, leaving Eastland at 6:20 and Ranger at 6:40 will carry between 1,500 and 1,800 Eastland County school children to the Centennial at Dallas. The train will proceed directly to the Centennial grounds, where it will remain all day, leaving that night for the return trip. Arrangements were made today with J. E. Bass, with the Dallas division of the Department of Education, to have some spot at the Centennial designated as the meeting place for the school children, so that if any become separated from the rest of the group they can return there before train time. School teachers from the schools in the county will accompany the children on the trip as guardians. It was announced today that the Cisco delegation would be put in the front portion of the train, the Eastland children in the middle section and Ranger children in the back portion of the train. Each town's section will remain locked until the train arrives in that town in order that their seats will not be taken. All schools in the county will be closed all day Friday in order that the children may attend the Centennial on Eastland county day.

TWO TRAINS ARE WRECKED IN LOUISIANA

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 12.—Two L. & A. railway freight trains were derailed today while officials of the company and striking union leaders met to confer with Gov. Richard Leche on arbitration of their difficulties. No one was reported injured. W. N. Adams, vice president of the L. & A. said both derailments were caused by vandals. One derailment occurred at Jamestown, La., and the other at Spring Hill. Gov. Leche issued invitations to the meeting a week ago. The trainmen have been on strike since September 19. Since that time seven men have lost their lives on the railroad, which is now operated by strikebreaking crews.

Father of Former Eastlandite Dies

Ben T. Pettit, 71, father of Mrs. J. E. Hickman of Austin, formerly an Eastland citizen, died Thursday morning at a Dallas hospital following an operation performed Sunday. Services for Pettit will be held at Dallas Friday afternoon at two o'clock. His Dallas address was 4502 Columbia Avenue. He was born in Alabama. Pettit had visited his daughter often when she and her husband, then chief justice of the eleventh court of civil appeals, resided in Eastland. Hickman is now a member of the Supreme Court Commission at Austin.

Last Rites Held for George A. Bumpers

Funeral services for George Albert Bumpers, who died at Odessa of injuries received in an automobile accident, were conducted from the First Methodist church of Ranger Wednesday afternoon at 2:30. Interment was in the Alameda cemetery, with Killingsworth, Cox in charge. Pallbearers for the services were Nick Crawford, Saunders Gregg, James Smith, Bob Earnest, James Phillips, Louis Phillips and Buck Grisham and Mr. Wittmeyer of Chrane.

BULLDOG AND LOBO TIE PUTS END TO LONG LOSING STREAK FOR BOTH CONTESTING TEAMS

The Ranger Bulldogs and the Cisco Lobos, living up to the tradition of friendly rivalry and closely contested games, battled to a 6 to 6 tie at Cisco Armistice Day before a small crowd. By playing a tie the teams each won a moral victory, as it put an end to a long losing streak for each. And, although the game meant little in the Oil Belt standings, as it leaves both in last place in the district, the game was a hotly contested as though the district championship had been at stake. The Lobos, who appeared to outweigh the Bulldogs more than their weights indicated, pulled two bad plays and got one bad break that kept them from a possible win. An off-side penalty on the kick for point after touchdown was the break, a pass deep in their own territory while leading 6 to 0 was the first bad play and the blocked punt behind the goal line that resulted in Ranger's touchdown was the other. Had the quarterback elected to take a safety Cisco might have won by a score of 6 to 2. That the game was closely contested is indicated by the fact that the score was tied, Cisco made nine first downs to eight for Ranger and the ball was near midfield a good part of the afternoon. Cisco's first score came on the ninth play after the second quarter opened and marked the end of a 45-yard march to pay dirt, with Rainbolt carrying over for the score on an end run after good ball carrying by Steyer and Donohue had placed the ball in scoring position. On the kick for extra point Cisco was offside and drew a penalty and the second attempt was blocked. In the final quarter, with but a few minutes to play, Cisco attempted a pass from deep in their own territory, which was intercepted by Cox, but Cisco stopped the Ranger advance, temporarily, when a pass was intercepted on the Cisco two-yard line. Cisco attempted to punt from deep in the end zone, but it was blocked and recovered by Dudley for a touchdown and Adkins' try for the extra point failed. Dudley played a whale of a game at guard throughout the afternoon, going down under all Ranger punts and taking the safety man in his tracks, so that no return was made on any Ranger kick. Stevens was outstanding on the defense, too, as were Cox and Adkins, and Stevens did a good part of the passing, the most effective pass combination being from Stevens to Adkins though the order was reversed on one or two occasions. Outstanding offensively for Cisco were Steyer and Rainbolt, who gained early in the game on a lateral and end run, which backfired after the first few attempts and lost ground. Jones, at end, was instrumental in breaking up a majority of Ranger's plays off right tackle when, time after time, blockers failed to keep him out of the play. Cisco was rated as being the best passing team of the two, but her passing attack failed to clock. The Lobos attempted 12 passes, seven of which were incomplete, three intercepted and two completed, one for no gain and the other for 18 yards and a first down. Ranger attempted 15 passes, seven were incomplete, two were intercepted and six were completed for a total of 66 yards. On running plays the Lobos outgained the Bulldogs, gaining a total of 144 yards to 67 gained by the Bulldogs, while Ranger was thrown for a total loss of 18 yards and Cisco lost a total of 23 yards. Penalties were about even with Cisco being penalized 40 yards and Ranger 35, but most of Ranger's penalties came in bunches, the Bulldogs being penalized 15 yards on two occasions. The game was by far the best played by either team this season, though Ranger was without the services of McKelvin, Hinman and Lingle, who showed up well in the early part of the season, were used but a few minutes during the latter part of the game.

Progress is Made In Collections for The Ranger Band

Progress, although at present a little slow, is surely being made in the financing of some new uniforms which the Ranger High School band so badly needs. The weekly collection from the "jars" around the city last week will be combined with the collection to be made this week, and the results will be tabulated early next week. Also an announcement of surprise about the new uniforms will probably be ready for the press. Ranger is the only town in this football conference that does not have its band dressed in its colors, and the writer of this article, after talking to a large number of Rangerites, knows that a vast majority of the citizens would like to see the uniforms as soon as possible. If each jar that has been put out could collect just $1.00 a week we could have the uniforms in a short time. May we call attention to this fact, and ask that shoppers and others interested in making our band one of the very best put your spare change in the jars. It is not the burden of any one or two or three to do all the work, but a few of the band members' parents have taken the responsibility of getting this uniform fund started. Let's all help, and all have a share in this matter of civic pride.

Lewis Rejects the Cost-Wage Formula

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—John L. Lewis, head of the committee for industrial organization, flatly rejected the "cost of living" formula for regulating wages in the steel industry. After a conference with workers Lewis gave support to employees who have refused proffered pay increases which are coupled with the "cost of living" index.

Ranger Boy Makes Best Club Report In 4-H Contest

Howard Hinman of Ranger has been awarded a gold medal of honor for making the best report of any 4-H club member in the county in a National 4-H Rural Electrification Contest conducted by extension agents. The winner who was designated by County Agent Eno V. Cook is automatically entered in the state contest, in which the prize is a $50.00 merchandise certificate. Eight all-expense educational trips to the 15th National 4-H Club Congress, to be held in Chicago November 27—December 5, will be awarded to that number of highest scoring state champions. The three highest scoring of the eight will be awarded cash college scholarships of $400, $300 and $200 which are provided with other prizes in the contest by Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company. Contestants were required to submit a diagram showing the location of their farm with relation to the nearest "high line," and another plan showing how to wire their home and out buildings if not now wired. They were also required among other things to indicate what appliances they could use to advantage, and what they could add where they now have electricity.

BLOODY HEAD OF WOMAN IS CAUSE OF HUNT

OGDEN, Utah, Nov. 12.—Two young women reported to police today they had been accosted by a degenerate a few hours after police had started search for a man who, 11-year-old Della DeHaven said stopped her and displayed a woman's head wrapped in a bloodstained newspaper. The story of the young women was the only evidence the police had to the child's story, related hysterically to her parents late yesterday. The girl, still near collapse, began the hunt when she ran screaming to her home, a piece of bloodstained newspaper in her hand. She told of a man who tried to induce her to get into his car. When she refused, she said, the man reached into the back seat and held up a woman's head with "light blond hair." He threatened that she would suffer the same fate if she didn't get into the car.

Constable And Justice of Peace Shot in Battle

CENTER, Nov. 12.—Constable Ed Chapman, 60, was near death in a hospital today as the result of a gun battle in which two other men were shot to death during a dance at the Stockman high school last night. Justice of the Peace, Albie Gillespie, 50, and Alpus Lillie, 25, were killed. Chapman was wounded five times. Gillespie and Chapman went to the high school to question Lillie about a disturbance earlier in the evening. Chapman began searching Lillie and the latter drew a gun and began firing.

Alameda Boy's Calf Wins at Centennial

Jack Walker, 4-H club member of Alameda club won third place with his registered senior yearling Jersey heifer at the Junior Livestock Show at the Centennial, Dallas, according to Hugh F. Barnhart, assistant county agent. Jack's heifer, the only one shown from Eastland county, was bought last summer from Chas. Pearce, registered Jersey breeder of Denton for use in his club work.

Papal Accord Seen in Visit to Hitler

An hour's interview with Chancellor Hitler at Berchtesgaden, Bavaria, by Michael Cardinal Faulhaber (above), Archbishop of Munich, was interpreted by observers as a new bid for accord between the Nazi government and the Vatican. It was Faulhaber's first meeting with the German leader, whose policies he had vigorously condemned.

SHIP STRIKE SETTLEMENT IS BEING SOUGHT

WASHINGTON.—The federal maritime commission today began an investigation of the seamen's strike situation on the Atlantic and Gulf coasts. Rear Admiral Harry Hamlett, who has been conducting an investigation on the west coast, will leave for Washington Sunday to discuss possible consolidation of the inquiry.

Ranger Jr. College Wins Cage Contest

The game was played before a crowd of about 100. Several more practice games are planned for the basketball team before entering the Central Texas conference season. The team plays Carbon, winner of the high school championship last year, and which has practically the same team intact this year. The game is scheduled for next week.

BODY RECEIVED WOMAN'S FATE LATE TUESDAY

Inability Reported to Judge Patterson By Foreman McCorkle. Dissenting jurors in the trial of Mrs. Della Henry, charged in connection with the death of her former husband, H. L. McBee, were dismissed at 11:35 a. m. Thursday by Eighty-eighth District Court Judge H. W. Patterson. The case was received by the jurors at 10:50 Tuesday night. Foreman W. L. McCorkle of Nimrod reported to Judge Patterson of the jury's inability to reach an agreement. It was understood the jurors stood 9 to 3. Mrs. Henry was charged in connection with the death of her former husband, who disappeared from his Rising Star home May 1, 1933. About three months later, she married Raymond Henry. In December, 1934, the body of McBee was found suspended from a tree near Rising Star. The appeal of Henry from a 50-year sentence in a companion case, assessed April 5 by a jury in 88th district court, will be submitted to the Court of Criminal Appeals at Austin, Wednesday, Dec. 23. ### Galloway Names Office Deputies

R. V. "Rip" Galloway, county clerk-elect, who takes office next January, has announced two deputies who are to work with him in the county clerk's office. The announcement from Galloway reads as follows: "Virgil Love of Ranger, Texas, and Miss Genevieve Truly, present deputy in the county clerk's office will form the personnel. Due to the fact that I have two daughters in junior college here in Ranger, and two boys in high school, I think it would be advisable for me to continue to live in Ranger until the end of the school term. However, both Mr. Love and Miss Truly will reside in Eastland and be available in case of emergency after office hours. "I am sure that with these two efficient deputies in the county clerk's office we will be able to give the public the very best of service, and will appreciate their cooperation at all times, and assure them that it will be our aim to conduct the affairs of the office in the same efficient manner in which it has been conducted under Mr. Collier's administration."

Democracy May Guide Us Through War Crisis.

Probably the most futile task anyone could undertake right now would be to try to fix the blame for the spread of the war peril in Europe.

The effort is being made, of course. Any left-wing publicist can tell you that if the wicked German and Italian Fascists would only keep from interfering in the Spanish revolt the danger of war would immediately dwindle.

Similarly, any staunch right-winger can point out that the situation has been made indefinitely more tense by Russia's announced intention to help the left-wing Spaniards with money and munitions.

But to say, because of these things, that war (if it comes) will be the "fault" of Hitler, Mussolini, or Stalin is to miss the point entirely.

That, indeed, is the dismaying part of the whole sorry business—the fact that it is impossible to find a person at all devil in the situation.

What Europe is up against is nothing less than a clash between two opposing, impersonal forces, two diametrically opposite schemes for the ordering of human society.

A clash of that kind can hardly be resolved by soft words or conciliatory gestures.

What is biting the statesmen in Rome, Berlin and Moscow seems to be a realization that the continent of Europe will not, in the long run, be large enough to contain both Communists and Fascist nations. In the very nature of things they cannot exist side by side.

That is why none of these three capitals can sit quietly on the sidelines while conservatives and radicals fight it out to see who is to rule Spain. They dare not let the Spaniards decide for themselves. The question ties in too closely with their own future.

So we are likely to have more, rather than fewer, angry words and defiant gestures passing among the rival powers across the tormented body of Spain. If the world has just a little bad luck, these gestures will turn into war. For the conflict from which they arise is irrepressible.

Does that mean, then, that Europe is doomed to a bloody, last-ditch war, sooner or later, in spite of all that men can do to prevent it?

It would, but for the saving fact that democracy still holds the balance of power. Great nations such as France and England, and smaller ones such as the Scandinavian countries, have not admitted that the race must choose between two dictatorial forms of government.

They are still trying to work out their problems in the way of peace and freedom—and, at last accounts, were having pretty good luck at it.

Democracy is not a threat. It can be a good neighbor. It can live by conciliation rather than by the sword.

If Europe gets through its present crisis without war, it will be because the democracies willed it so—and, willing it, retained enough of a hold on the imaginations of men to make their will good.

Mussolini's latest speech was delivered in Bologna, Italy—a coincidence.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson

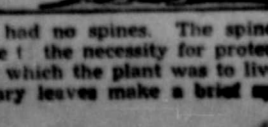

ABRAHAM LINCOLN CALLED HIS CABINET MEMBERS INTO SESSION ON SEPT. 22, 1862, FOR THE PURPOSE OF READING THE IMPORTANT PAPER NOW KNOWN AS THE EMANCIPATION PROCLAMATION. BUT FIRST HE READ THEM TWO CHAPTERS FROM THE HUMOROUS WRITINGS OF ARTEMUS WARD.

A GACTUS GROWS RUDIMENTARY LEAVES BEFORE IT GROWS SPINES.

A CAMEL SWEATS ONLY ON THE BACK OF HIS NECK.

In the early history of life, each had no spines. The spines gradually took the place of leaves, due to the necessity for protection, and to the arid conditions under which the plant was to live. But, even now, the tender rudimentary leaves make a brief appearance before the spines push out.

ed by the King of Spain, sailed from San Lucar, Spain, June 15, 1527, with the Narvaez expedition, which was wrecked off the Texas coast in November, casting de Vaca and a few men on shore. The party suffered intense privations and finally dwindled to three white men and a negro slave, who in 1534, made their way overland to the Pacific coast. On the trip they heard wonderful stories of "Seven Golden Cities of Cibola," reports of the wealth of which started Coronado, through El Paso del Norte in 1540, lured de Soto to his Mississippi grave, brought Guzman, Espajio and others across the Rio Grande, and also caused the coming of La Salle and others from France.

Miami Building At 10-Year High

MIAMI, Fla.—The Miami area is enjoying the biggest wave of building since 1925 in preparation for an anticipated influx of 2,000,000 visitors. Addition of approximately 6,000 housing units to accommodate tourists is revealed in a survey by J. B. Sullivan, hotel commission.

More than 100 new apartment houses and 33 new hotels are included in the building permits issued since last April in Dade county, embracing the City of Miami and several surrounding communities, according to Sullivan.

His survey shows the new apartment houses account for approximately 3,000 rooms, while construction of residential and hotel hotels adds an additional 30 units.

The fanfare accompanying the 26-26 Florida boom is absent in this constructive increase in building," Sullivan said. "Nevertheless, the records of the Miami building department show that there is residential building construction in the district since the start of the year exceeds in volume of the first eight months of 1936.

A total of $5,644,878 was spent on residential construction in Miami during the first three months of the year in Miami, linked to Miami by two highways across Biscayne Bay, building expenditures in the area amounted to $3,393,315. Completion of a schedule of map-ports events and special entertainment features in the Miami area are believed to assure the best winter season here to date.

Former Opinion On Land Use Will Be Sought at Once

COLLEGE STATION, Tex.—A state-wide campaign to determine former opinion on land use will be launched immediately by a committee headed by George E. Sims, assistant state agent of the Extension Service. Efforts will be made to secure land use data from every county in the state within the next two months.

Under state committee plans, county agricultural and home demonstration community meetings, extension councils will be asked to appoint joint committees to determine the charge of the work and to hold community meetings. Farmers will be given farm plans upon which to figure present use of land on their own and estimate changes necessary to prevent erosion and to improve soil fertility.

The state committee will combine county estimates and forward a total to the department of agriculture at Washington, D. C., for use in connection with federal agricultural programs.

Other members of the state committee include Miss Mildred Horne, extension vice-director and home demonstration agent; E. Morgan, extension specialist in agricultural planning, county secretary; Miss Lola Blair, extension staff member; and S. McMillan, extension economist and farm management.

Esperanto Urged as More Than a Hobby

By United Press
CUBBOCK—"Esperanto is most able to us today as a hobby, it has greater possibilities," Dr. Archie J. Bahr, Texas Agricultural College philosophy lecturer, who teaches an extracurricular evening course in the national language, said. Esperanto affords many benefits in social and official communication between nations.

The 50-year-old language is in tourist guides and rail-bulletins in many foreign trices, Bahr said. He pointed the facility in communication of ideas in the international stage, stating many Americans can correspond with persons in the proposed international language.

MYRA NORTH, Special Nurse -- By Thompson and Coll Sport Glances. . . . . By Grayson ALLEY OOP . . . . . By HAML

YOUNG Knute Rockne is learning football the hard way—on a rock-strewn field as a member of a squad of 14. The youngster with the most famous name in football says that he will not be awfully disappointed if he doesn't crash the Notre Dame varsity in 1938. "I'd like to make the team, of course," says the yellow-haired Knute Rockne of today. "Who wouldn't? But when you weigh only 145 and there are dozens just as fast and a darned sight bigger, you can't expect the coach to pay much attention to you."

LIKE his illustrious father, young Knute recognizes a football player when he sees one. "We've got one boy who's going to make the folks take a look," he asserts. "He's a long-legged kid named Rossiter." Young Knute's array has just three substitutes, including two boys who'd rather go swimming, and a Cuban lad who doesn't know what it's all about and isn't quite sure whether he wants to play. At Notre Dame, the institution made famous in football by the other Knute Rockne, 185 young men attempted to make the team this fall.

Billroy's Comedians To Show Tonight Only in Ranger

The big show is here! Billroy's Comedians, "The Greatest Show on Earth for the Money," arrived in Ranger today with the finest equipped outfit that has ever pitched a tent in this fair city, preparatory to their showing here tonight at the Terry show lot.

The entire show is brand new and the equipment is a marvel to see. Eighty people are with the show this season, including 17 star vaudeville acts, headlined by the Queen of Fan Dancers, "Daphne," and her company. There are "so many girls you can't count 'em all" and the largest, prettiest, fastest stepping and best costumed chorus in America under canvas.

A new play is being presented this season, entitled, "Morning, Noon and Night," a three-act comedy farce, featuring that imitable comedienne, Miss Bonnie Mack, better known as "That Funny Old Lady." Billroy's Comedians have never played in Ranger before but have been keeping faith with the public for years and are well and favorably known.

A new act with the show this season is the original Hickville Trio, said to be the funniest "Hillbilly" act on the American stage. The doors open tonight at 7.15 and the Palais Royale orchestra

CHAPTER I

BETTER December wind from Long Island Sound swept the station platform as the 6.34 train brought its usual crowd of commuters home to Bobbs Neck. Philip Canfield shivered, but very slightly, in his $275 overcoat while he walked a dozen yards and stepped into his heated car through the door opened smartly by the chauffeur. Thomas Waddell shivered just a trifle in a $90 coat as he hurried to his car, also heated, where Mrs. Waddell awaited him in the driver's seat. Frank Osborn shivered quite perceptibly in his coat, $47.50 and three years old; and the shabby car which Mrs. Osborn had driven down to meet him was unheated. Ralph Hanson shivered hardly at all, but had to hunch his shoulders in his $18.50 coat and walk very fast indeed, to keep from shivering, all the eight blocks to his home. Mr. Canfield alighted in his three-car garage and walked briskly through a covered passage to the house, whose considerable bulk was situated at the top of the hill at the Point and so received more than its share of the winter wind, but which offset this seasonal disadvantage by its superior and costly construction. Mr. and Mrs. Waddell alighted in the one-car garage built into the basement of their home, and they proceeded into the comfortable house simply by steps and through a door, the opening of which signaled their maid to serve dinner. Mr. Osborn left Mrs. Osborn out at the sidewalk of their rented home and then drove around to the garage at the back, where a little difficulty with the doors delayed him for a few minutes, so that when he had waded through the snow in the yard and reached the house by the back door Mrs. Osborn had almost completed the transfer of dinner from warming oven to table. Mr. Hanson alighted on his front porch from the wings of the wind and stamped the snow off his shoes, whereas Mrs. Hanson opened the door and he darted in before the house lost any precious heat to the outdoors. MARCIA CANFIELD greeted her father in the library when he came down from his room to await dinner. She was sitting sideways in a wing chair, reading her prize-winning legs, hanging over an arm of the chair, viewed absent in time to some impatient and private rhythm. The butler carried in a tray, bearing two glasses. Mr. Canfield took one, but Marcia shook her head. "Just her daddy's old-fashioned gin," said Mr. Canfield. Marcia smiled. "Dad, I asked to have dinner right away tonight. Will that suit you?" "Effectively."

Pating on her hat and coat, Marcia spoke to herself in the mirror. "Can you be the lady-unafraid-of-gossip?"

of reproach in the arch of one eyebrow. "Going out, are you?" asked Mr. Canfield. "It's trout night for the Stagecraft Guild play," said Marcia. "They have a simply swell show this time—Half-Acre in Eden. I had a rotten part in the spring play, if you remember. Maybe I'll have better luck this time. I'd jump at any one of a dozen parts." PHILIP CANFIELD took the second cocktail, lighted a cigarette. "I wonder why you amateurs do it," he said. "Granted that some of you have talent and all of you work hard, your product still falls far short of a professional job. What the dickens is there in it? A chance to show off? An escape for thwarted ambitions? Or do you believe you are really acting when you get up in front of your neighbors—instead of only playing at acting? Excuse any implied insults, of course." "Awkins announced dinner. "I should think you'd be busy enough already," Mr. Canfield carefully renewed conversation over the soup, "with your Village Welfare work, your bridge club, your story hours for the kids at the library, your heaven-knows-what-else. My word, when does the modern young woman have time for the men?" MARCIA colored, and immediately he realized that his aimless talk had led him to an unfortunate topic. "My dear, I'm sorry!" "It's perfectly all right, Dad."

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MARCIA CANFIELD, daughter of wealthy PHILIP CANFIELD, knows that the neighborhood is buzzing with gossip over the disappearance of FRANK KENDRICK, whose engagement to Marcia has been announced. Since his disappearance, a shortage in Kendrick's business accounts has been discovered. Refusing to let others know how deeply she has been hurt, Marcia, who is interested in amateur dramatics, goes to the tryouts of the Stagecraft Guild to try for a part in the new play. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER II THE Stagecraft Guild's casting committee awaited the ambitious talent of the village in the Bobbs Neck Community Auditorium. A few early seekers of roles were seated, in various conditions of nervousness, through the auditorium itself, while the seven members of the committee had withdrawn to a private room to pass the time until 8:15 o'clock, when tryouts were to begin. One committee had chosen the play; the casting committee would people it; another committee had the task of selecting, also from the membership, an amateur director; still another would create the scenery and costumes. Such was the democracy of the Guild. Annual elections were intended to keep the committees fresh. With four plays a year scheduled, a member of the Guild might well be in turn an actor, director, stagehand and designer in one 12-month. Mike Bradford, who worked for a New York newspaper and had few gods, addressed his six fellow members of the casting committee after fading by his watch that 10 minutes must pass before the evening's labors could begin. "There are 27 parts in this cheese of a show," he said, "counting clear down to the part in the third act who says 'Yes, father,' twice and 'No, father,' once. I'll laugh raucously if only 26 people show up tonight." There was no response, but Mike needed none. "I figure," he continued, "that 98 per cent of all contestants in this sort of bilge are 100 per cent rotten actors to start with, and since the by-laws allow the casting committee only this one evening to finish off the job, there won't be much selectivity involved. The only work in any event will be sponging off our self respect afterward." Miss Sellers, the chairman, who taught English in the high school, volunteered a defense of the dignity of the Guild's aims. Miss Sellers continually volunteered for a variety of endeavor in Bobbs Neck. "Why, Mr. Bradford," she said, smiling with some coyness to cloak the scolding she intended to give this agnostic, "you don't really feel that way about it, of course! If you did, you wouldn't have become a member of the Guild in the first place, or have permitted yourself to be elected to our committee in the second place."

Marcia.

she put my name on the application. That made me a member. And since I suppose everybody dodges these idiotic committee jobs, someone piked on me and put my name on the ballot at the last election, and here I am, while Joan, the cause of it all, sits at home in comfort. Pardon me! Forget I was speaking to the members of the committee." "I just know you're teasing!" said Miss Sellers, who knew that he wasn't. "Yes, ma'am," said Bradford. "Well, come on, judges. Let's get out there and get it over with. My dear Joan, how I'd love to smack you right on the jaw!" Two hours sufficed for an elimination review of the talents of the 41 candidates who had appeared for the tryouts, with Miss Sellers on the stage giving them lines to say and actions to perform. Ralph, Jr., was known favorably to his contemporaries in the village, and to his elders he was "that awfully nice Hanson boy." THE part of Sally, Bully's elder sister, went without debate to Helen Waddell, Marcia Canfield's closest friend, whose father owned the $90 overcoat. Helen had the attributes of success; she was pretty, and serious, and clever, and she was popular. But at 24 years she could only spend her time wishing she had a job, for there was a parental injunction that people in the village would think they needed the money if she had gainful employment. The casting went on. The members of the committee found themselves in surprising agreement as the various roles and

CHAPTER XXXI
The front door stood open. Kate ran in, calling excitedly, "Jeff!"

He came toward her. To him, it seemed natural. He had always dreamed that she would be like this one day.

"You want to hear your sister's?" he said. "I've got the station."

They went into the front parlor, where she saw, he had added no more of his own save the radio.

Caroline had begun to sing. A fine, powerful receiving set bringing her clear young voice to the room as if she herself were present.

"The glowing, oh, my darling, when the lights are soft and low."

"You're my darling," she said.

Caroline's rating was where she had sung. Caroline raised her head. The old logan sofa she, Kate, sat so often listening. . . .

When the song had died away he met Jeff Howard's eyes. He did not seem a foreign presence in the room. He, too, somehow belonged here, along with Caroline's and the old furniture and memories of childhood. "Jeff," said brokenly, putting out her hand. "I'd like you to know I'm mind any more your being ashamed."

"Kate," he said. "Little Kate!" was in his arms, close, just as she had dreamed it. She said, "How can you love me when I'm been such a devil?" And he replied, "I've been a devil, I've loved you harder and fiercer for every inch you've fought me. Kiss me, Kate. Lift your face, darling."

He expected more attention. He had scarcely begun before uttered a quick exclamation, "My sister's going to be married! It's Tuesday, if I can be there!" This is what Kate had written: My Dearest Sister: I'm marrying Jeff Howard Tuesday afternoon if you can dash out from that day. Can you? Answer, please!

"When this reaches you you'll be a veteran of several broadcasts. I heard your first song and it was lovely. You didn't sound frightened; just alive and happy. I didn't hear any more because Jeff had my ears muffled. I was at Meed Meadows, listening over his radio. With him."

"You see, it was this way. At first I thought I couldn't bear the tension of listening in when you took off. Then I felt I had to. Our radio was worse than usual—one big blur. It was 6:50 o'clock. I got in the car and drove like mad to Meed Meadows to listen there. Don't ask me why I didn't go to the Hold. They're nearer and they have a good radio. I simply didn't. I drove to Jeff Howard's as if that were the only place on earth to go."

"You will understand. We were courting when I was digging up his lawn and he was shooting me in the shoulder; when he was buying my horse to torment me, and I was setting his house afire. That's why we're so about each other now and can't any longer be married."

"Let me know if Tuesday at 4 will suit you. At the church. As my only attendant, you'll want a sweet new dress—you'll have money to buy it now because we shan't need any of your salary. Choose something simple, as I'm going to wear Mother's muslin wedding dress rather than Grandmother's satin and lace. Two tailors are working night and day on Jeff to eliminate that mountain look when he comes his cutaway."

"Your same, only infinitely happier, Kate."

"P. S.—Bring Carl Neilson if you still like him and if he wants to come."

CAROLINE looked up from the letter. "Tuesday at 4," she said, "in our little church in Shelby. You're invited, if you care to go."

"I do," he answered emphatically. "We'll drive up in my car. Have to get you back here before 7. Does this marriage please you?"

"Yes," thoughtfully. "I believe it's the only thing in the world that would tame my sister and make her contented. She's been obsessed with this man ever since their paths crossed. He foreclosed a mortgage on Meed Meadows—the place where we were born and reared. He's a wealthy mountaineer. Cool lands, I believe. Kate's insulted him in a hundred ways, and he's fought back. But they were drawn to each other with a perfectly terrible persistence."

"A mountaineer," Neilson remarked with interest. "One of those strong silent types?"

"Rather fine and sensitive, I'd say. And a college man. But he draws rather worse than the Blue Grass people, and now and then he uses a double negative. Oh, there'll be things about him to annoy Kate, of course, but she's too much in love to mind."

"Young Mr. Neilson looked at the girl he had 'discovered.' 'I apply of mixing strains. Most of you 'southern gentry' inter-marry too much for your own good. It's not productive of creative genius. Take you, for instance. An ideal husband for you, I'd say, would be a chap under 30, just a generation removed from Norway. Somebody who's more interested in music than horses. Somebody who doesn't like southern cooking, doesn't call you 'Honey' and has never bothered to see a Derby run. Somebody who has lots of enthusiasm for the future of the radio and your voice. Me. But I'll give you until June to think it over. I like women with college degrees.'"

Caroline blushed. "What an unromantic proposal. So cold and practical."

KATE and Jeff rode horseback the morning of their wedding day. He had given her Brown Boy as a betrothal gift. In his pocket was her wedding gift. He drew it out, leaned from his horse and put it in her hands.

It was a deed to Meed Meadows, making it Katherine Meed's. "Oh, Jeff! But it's not necessary now! If it belongs to you, and I belong to you, what difference does it make?"

"There's a difference. The land's always been Meed land. Some day the Howards will get it—but younger Howards. Through inheritance, and they'll be part Meed." He smiled shyly.

They took the horse through the woods, leading to the house. "Yes, you're right Jeff. There's something about having it for my own!" She seized a walnut leaf. . . . they passed and pressed it against her cheek. She shut her eyes, letting reason and senses join in the awareness of happiness: her horse beneath her, her hand about her, her house just beyond.

"People will say, Jeff, that I married you to get my home back. Do you mind?"

"No. I don't mind what they say. I've got you."

Then, after a quarter-mile of woods path, Jeff said, "I thought your grandfather'd like his old room back. He'd feel more natural there."

Kate gave him a grateful look, and he's mixed with adoration. It went to his head. He drew his horse along. . . .

Citizens Throng to See New Chevrolet

More than 1500 residents of Ranger and vicinity thronged the showroom of the Anderson-Fruet Co., Saturday to inspect the new 1937 Chevrolets which made their bow, all over the United States, on Saturday.

Mr. Fruet reported advice from Detroit to the effect that advance orders for the 1937 models totaled more than 100,000. The message, signed by W. E. Holler, vice president and general sales manager of Chevrolet, asked him to thank local residents for the confidence which prompted them to invest in Chevrolet's new models "sight unseen." The fact that more than 100,000 persons, in all parts of the United States, felt sufficient faith in the institution and its product to take so important a

Loretta Young and Don Ameche Score Triumph, Ramona

In the presentation of "Ramona," which opened yesterday at the Arcadia theatre, 29th Century Fox has added another great triumph to its already imposing roster of cinema successes. Flashing action on a far-flung scale combined with its production in the new perfected Technicolor, make "Ramona" one of the most important pictures of the year, an exciting picturization of Helen Hunt Jackson's immortal love story.

Loretta Young is featured as Ramona, with Don Ameche as Alessandro, and the splendid supporting cast includes such players as Kent Taylor, Pauline Freder-

WELL, SIR—YOU'D THINK WASHINGTON HAD NEVER SEEN a PRESIDENT BEFORE

You'd think, after all these years, that Washington, D. C., could take its presidents or leave them alone—but just look at this exhibition of unbridled excitement at the White House. Defying the chilly winter morning air, Washingtonians take up every inch of the land, clamber onto the portico, precariously of pillars and shrubbery just to get a peek at President Roosevelt on his return to the capital from Hyde Park, N. Y. More than 150,000 took part in the spontaneous welcome to the victorious New Deal chief.

THE ANTI-FREEZE UNDERWEAR FOR MEN AND BOYS

The Technicolor is effective cause it is absolutely indisputable to life. Since a large part of the picture called for out-of-scenes, the main location for filming of "Ramona" was a 600-acre ranch in the Mesa Grande area of the beautiful Sacramento Mountains in California, miles southeast of Los Angeles where the natural beauty of the region made a perfect setting.

"Ramona" is a picture that is ly teems with high romantic fiestas, fandangoes, songs, secret trysts, mission bells, kisses, tears, love and laughter. It is one of the greatest love stories ever unfolded on the screen.

Beer was served at the presentation of "The Drunkard," but the audience got in the spirit of the play.

With morning... came the repair crews

An early snow, drifting down from leaden December skies, froze to telephone poles and lines. Hard on its heels came the wind. Ice-laden wires snapped and poles splintered before the blast.

Night found scores of towns throughout the storm region handicapped by crippled telephone service.

But, with the morning, came the repair crews. Hastily gathered from regions untouched by storm, they poured into the stricken area with trucks, tools and materials. Day and night they rushed the work of reconstruction.

One advantage of the Bell System's far-flung organization is this: When disaster flattens the telephone system, men and money and materials are instantly available for the prompt repair of the damage.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Excite to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sick and the world looks pink.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A more logical treatment, doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Burdock, gentian, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Absolutely refuse anything else. 25c.

SHIP TOYS TO CHRISTMAS ISLAND

Destined for Christmas Island in the British East Indies, the season's first shipment of Montgomery Ward toys is ready to be packed for export, giving the cameraman and a little visitor, Mary Lou Stenstrom, a preview of what Santa will have in store for December 25. Far away customers must order early, and a busy season for the company's export department is beginning. The company's retail stores will also be fully stocked with the latest toys in a few weeks.

total national wealth of the United States was only 100 billion dollars. A rapid expansion of the national wealth paralleled the expansion in use of motor vehicles and petroleum until now total national wealth is 300 billion dollars, or equal to that of all Europe.

Construction of roads and streets, facilitating transportation and social intercourse by motor vehicle, has had an important influence in stimulating the development of increased realty wealth, which in 1900 was placed at 45 billion dollars for the nation. Suburban and rural regions, formerly remote, were made accessible and building was stimulated over wide areas. The new facilities of transportation also greatly enhanced realty values all over the country. Total realty wealth in the United States is now estimated at 175 billion dollars.

Since most of the tax revenues of states, cities, and counties, which total about eight billion dollars annually, are derived from taxes on real estate, the petroleum and automotive industries indirectly enable the collection of many millions of dollars through increased realty values. In addition, they directly pay taxes or more than one billion dollars annually.

The petroleum and automotive industries directly have added 20 billion dollars to the national wealth of the country. Indirectly they have stimulated the creation of many additional billions of dollars of wealth, which is now providing a substantial part of the taxes collected in the United States.

Beware The Cough That Hangs On

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Creomulsion not only contains the soothing elements common to many remedies; such as, Syrup of White Pine Compound with Tar, fluid extract of Licorice Root, fluid extract of Wild Cherry and Menthol, but also has fluid extract of Ipecac for its powerful phlegm loosening effect, fluid extract of Cascara for its mild laxative effect and, most important of all, Beechwood Creosote is perfectly blended with all of these to reach the source of the trouble from the inside. Creomulsion can be taken frequently and continuously by adults and children with remarkable results.

Thousands of doctors use Creomulsion in their own families as well as in their practice knowing how Creomulsion aids nature to soothe the inflamed membranes and heal the irritated tissues as the germ-laden phlegm is loosened and expelled. Druggists also know the effectiveness of Beechwood Creosote and they rank Creomulsion top for coughs because you get a real dose of Creosote in Creomulsion, emulsified so that it is palatable, digestible and potent for going to the very seat of the trouble. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs, chest colds and bronchial irritations and especially those stubborn ones that start with a common cold and hang on for dreadful days and nights thereafter. Even if other remedies have failed, your druggist is authorized to guarantee Creomulsion and to refund every cent of your money if you are not satisfied with results from the very first bottle. Don't worry through another sleepless night—phone or go to a bottle of Creomulsion right now. (Adv.)
