FAITH HEALER FACES COURT ORDER TODAY

DALLAS, Dec. 9.—District Judge John Rawlings ordered the Rev. J. M. Hart, faith healing advocate, to appear before him today and show cause why medical attention should not be given to the minister's 16-year-old son, Ralph, for accident injuries.

The judge's order was issued shortly after District Judge Claude McCallum had refused to consider the case, insisting he had no jurisdiction because the boy was more than 16 years old.

The new petition, presented immediately afterwards to Judge Rawlings, alleged cruelty to the boy who suffered a skull fracture and broken collar bone Monday when an automobile knocked him from a bicycle.

Members of Rev. Hart's Full Gospel Church continued to pray for the boy's recovery and the minister pointed to improvement in the youth's condition as proof that "we need no doctor."

Receives Aid for Broken Collar Bone

John Hart, Hardin-Simmons university student, arrived in Eastland Tuesday from Abilene for treatment of a broken collar bone received in football play. The injury was suffered while playing with friends and not in connection with university football play.

Two Speakers On Rotary Program

Dr. L. B. Gray, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Ranger and Miss Gregory, head of the local relief office, were the speakers at the Rotary Club meeting today.

Miss Gregory told the club members of their relief work being done locally, stating that there were from 100 to 250 recipients who were supplied with something from the sewing rooms and with groceries and other necessities. It is her duty to investigate the cases and see that all who are on the relief rolls, which are now supplied with necessities and donations from the state and county.

Dr. Gray spoke on Friendship, bringing out the main points in President Roosevelt's recent talk before the Pan-American Peace Conference. He spoke on the president's plea that the Americas should show the other nations the way to peace by being good neighbors and friends. He stated that honesty was not only the best policy, but was the principle upon which international understanding was based.

Dr. W. L. Downtain was elected president-at-arms to fine those who are late for meetings, those who do not wear their Rotary pins or who call members by other than their first names. Several fines were collected at the meeting today.

Damage Suit Filed Against Doctor

A suit asking $25,000 judgment for alleged negligence in an arm operation has been filed in district court by Frank Conway Perry against Dr. George T. Blackwell, Gorman surgeon and physician.

Perry stated in the petition granted in an arm following a setting in 1918 by Dr. Black-

First Submarine Cable Was Laid 84 Years Ago

Prince Edward Island is the smallest of all the Canadian provinces, but it is not the least in point of achievement. It leads in the production of silver foxes and the cultivation of seed potatoes and historically it can boast a few dates to rival its eight sisters in the Canadian Confederation. One of the most interesting of these historical epochs was celebrated on November 22, which marked the 84th anniversary of the laying of the first submarine cable in North America. This cable was laid across the Strait of Northumberland from Cape Traverse (now Borden) Prince Edward Island to Cape Tormentine in New Brunswick. To commemorate this event a bronze plaque has been affixed to the facade of the historic Province House in Charlottetown by the Historic Sites and Monuments board of Canada.

Candidate for Mama's Beauty Title

Miss America of 1935, who was Miss Henrietta Leaver of McKeesport, Pa., presents a candidate to succeed her in the beauty ranks—her own new baby daughter, Patricia Lee. Miss Leaver, now Mrs. John Mustacchio, left a quiet existence in McKeesport to win the beauty title and the fame that goes with it. Then she created a sensation by refusing to allow a nude statue of herself to be exhibited publicly. In preference to possible fame on screen or stage, she chose a housewife's role, and now motherhood.

Brashear-Fox Still Seeking Oil Production

Making gas estimated at 2,000,000 feet, Hoffmann & Page's No. 1 Brashear-Fox was being drilled at 3,213 feet, south of Ranger, Wednesday morning, 20 feet in the pay. Drilling was going forward, it was understood, for oil production.

The Brashear-Fox is in the E. Finley survey, 330 feet of the south line and 330 feet west of the farm lines.

It is 2,000 feet east of the G. D. Chastain well which brought in high production last summer.

Game Preserves May Get Airing Because of Mystery

AUSTIN—State game preserves are likely to get considerable airing at the January session of the Texas legislature. Disappearance of John and Luther Blanton in the neighborhood of a 45,000 acre preserve in Wilcox county has directed the spotlight on them.

Complaint has come to those in high authority that game preserves have been established practically about the borders of large tracts and are not always held inviolate to favored persons although kept strictly closed to those who "hunt for hunger."

A state game preserve under the law is closed to all hunters. This includes the owner of the land designated as a preserve, the owner's friends, game wardens, officials and everybody.

The particular preserve along the Gulf coast was once considered as a site for a federal bird sanctuary. Negotiations for its purchase for that purpose were begun. Instead, it was closed to hunting by being made a state game preserve. The area is described as a rendezvous for migratory birds on their way South.

Another such preserve is planned by the Mexican government. Texas is the greatest winter haven for migratory birds. More than 700 varieties have been found in the state.

Game preserves are distinct from shooting preserves. Shooting preserves are leased to hunters by owners. The owners then are required to keep records of the game shot.

Woman is Held In Chum's Death

LANSING, Mich., Dec. 9.—Hope Morgan, 25, appeared before Municipal Judge Sam Hughes today and waived examination on charges of slaying her life-long chum, Bessie Gilmer, as a result of a strange "homicidal fixation."

The young woman, who was less than 24 hours before, had killed her friend, a bride-to-be, as they sat across a kitchen table, was remanded to the custody of the county sheriff without bail.

Ranger and Eastland Negro Football Players Named for Charity Game To Be Played In Eastland Friday

The Ranger Black Bulldogs had a stiff workout under the lights of Municipal Field at Ranger Tuesday night and a tentative starting lineup was worked out by "Head Coach" Wesley (Fats) Johnson, with the aid of Assistant Coaches Buster Mills, Baker Wright and Tom Youker.

"I don't know just how good they are going to look at Eastland Friday afternoon," Fats stated after the workout, "but if Mr. Buster had about 10 days to train the team I believe it would show up those Eastland negroes. Mr. Buster sure is giving them some good football dope."

The tentative lineup for the Black Bulldogs was named as follows:

Ends, Kid Horton and Bob Barnett; tackles, Tommy Weather and Leon Lewis; guards, Archie Robinson and G. Hanson; center, J. C. Drake; quarterback, J. A. Allen; halves, Jerry Lewis and Nick; fullback, Charlie Warren. Substitutes who will see action in the game include Guy Daily, Garvin Daily, Fred Battle, O'Neal Lewis, Lester Sanders, Dan Gray, Claud Richie, Julian Hightower and Toby Miller.

The game is being advertised as being "two outstanding negro football teams which will meet on the gridiron to see which team is the toughest. If you like razzle-dazzle football, don't miss this game as you will see football at its razzle-dazzle."

The game is to be played at Welch Field, Eastland, Friday afternoon under the sponsorship of the Eastland Lions Club and the Ranger Elks Club. The proceeds from the game will go to charity funds of the two sponsoring organizations. Admission price for adults will be 35 cents and for children of school age, 15 cents. Tickets are now on sale in Ranger by members of the Ranger Elks Club and in Eastland by the Eastland Lions Club, or can be procured at the gate at Welch field prior to game time.

L. C. "Bounce" East, who is unofficial captain for the Eastland Lions, named the players. In the left flank position will be Willie D. Green. Tommy Wright is to play left guard and Felix Soto the left tackle.

A special section will be reserved for colored citizens.

INVENTOR OF AUTO GYRO IS CRASH VICTIM

LONDON, Dec. 9.—Fourteen persons were killed and three others injured today when a Royal Dutch airliner crashed as it took off from Croydon Airdrome for Amsterdam.

The three survivors were removed to a hospital and small hope was held for the survival of two. The hostess, a Dutch girl, suffered only shock.

Admiral Solomon Lintman, former prime minister of Sweden, and Don Juan de la Cierva, Spanish inventor of the autogyro, were among those killed.

The crash occurred in a fog less than a mile from the airport. Visibility was limited to a few feet and the plane scraped off the roof of a house, hit a telephone pole and crashed into the side of a residence, bursting into flames.

New Pension Law Not For Paupers, Carpenter Says

AUSTIN—The new pension law is not a "pauper's law" nor can it be so construed as to mean that an applicant must take a pauper's oath to receive aid, declared Orville S. Carpenter, acting director of the Texas Old Age Assistance Commission, today.

"The entire criteria of eligibility is 'need', and there is no legal formality whereby an aged person must embarrass himself by declaring to the world that he is a pauper. Such a method of administration would be wrong and unfair," the director said.

"Our workers have been instructed to be courteous. Each of our investigators knows that immediate discharge will result if he is discourteous or harsh in his dealings with the aged of his county."

"Investigations by employees of this commission will be conducted in a dignified and quiet manner. If we find an old person in necessitous circumstances, we will see that he receives help from the state, provided, of course, he meets constitutional requirements. The fact that he will be given a pension is his own affair," Carpenter said.

State of Calamity Is Declared in The Philippines

MANILA, Dec. 9.—Commonwealth President Daniel Quizon, in a radio broadcast today proclaimed a state of calamity and invoked his fullest active power to cope with a flood which may take thousands of lives.

Quizon proclaimed the emergency aboard a steamer while en route to Hong Kong. The government, he said, would centralize its relief forces to aid the thousands made homeless in three provinces.

It was believed it would be several days before a check could be made of the dead. A food shortage appeared a new menace to survivors.

First Submarine Cable Was Laid 84 Years Ago

CANYON, Texas.—Fossil discoveries in the Palo Duro canyon near here may become one of the most valuable in the country, according to C. Stuart Johnston, paleontologist for West Texas State Teachers College.

Ten WPA workers supervised by Mrs. Johnson and R. O. Reynolds of Clarendon are unearthing the fossil remains. A camp building for use of workmen and paleontology students will be erected.

The pits were discovered two years ago.

"These fossils represent the life of the Pliocene age about five million years ago," said Johnston. "We have found a great variety of animals and they help us fill a wide gap in our pre-history."

Fossils excavated will be assembled and exhibited at the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society museum at Canyon. Duplicates will be exchanged with other museums throughout the nation.

A Credulous Public
Often Is Fact

Margaret Mitchell, the young southerner who wrote the amazing popular success, "Gone With the Wind," found out the other day how effectively an author can kid the public.

She received a letter from a reader in South Dakota who wanted to visit Tara, the ancestral southern home of Scarlett, the heroine of Miss Mitchell's book. This reader said that her sister had visited Tara a few days before, while on a trip through Georgia, and had had an unforgettable experience; would Miss Mitchell tell her how she, too, might find Tara?

Miss Mitchell undoubtedly would have been glad to oblige; the only trouble was that there never was such a place as Tara. The author not only had invented it but she had taken pains to get a detailed map and send it on a blank spot so that no existing plantation could possibly be confused with it.

And yet here was at least one reader who was sure she actually visited the place, and another who wanted to do likewise!

Miss Mitchell seems to be learning an interesting truth, that an imaginative writer who invents something vividly can add it to the lore of the race, so that things which never happened and never were become as real and substantial in people's minds as actual historical facts.

How many, many visitors to Hannibal, Mo., for instance, have thrilled at the contemplation of a long-imagined thing when they went through the cave where Tom Sawyer and Becky Thatcher spent those fear-haunted hours, or looked on the authentic fence which Tom's inimitable endowed with a painless coat of whitewash, or stood the island where Huck Finn and Nigger Jim laid out?

What if these persons were figures of Mark Twain's whimsical imagination? They are as real to us, now, as Abraham Lincoln or John D. Rockefeller. They have given this town of Hannibal their flavor forever, just as the ghosts of Dickens' people haunt the streets of London.

Perhaps the prize example for all time of this sort of thing is an experience which befell the British writer, Rudyard Kipling, during the World War.

In the fall of 1914 Kipling wrote an imaginative story about the British retreat from Mons, in which he had the assistance of the yeomen archers of old England come through the mists to the aid of the hard-pressed British army. The story took hold with a keyed-up British public and promptly ran away from Kipling.

Before long Britain was full of mystic, told-for-fact stories about the Angels of Mons—supernatural beings with broad shoulders, who materialized above the trenches and with shafts of dazzling light, stopped the German advance.

Newspaper correspondents dug up veterans of the retreat who had "actually seen" the angels. The thing was discussed in pulpits; Kipling's story was forgotten, to be replaced by one of the great legends of the war.

That is the sort of thing you are fooling with when you write fiction. If you once touch people's imaginations, you have made history for them.

What you invent—as Miss Mitchell is learning—can become more real than the things that really happened.

Women's Missionary Society Plans Christmas

The old-fashioned Christmas program and a social hour features of the monthly meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of First-Christians church, Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Bert Beatty, house hostess at residence, was assisted by hostesses Misses N. L. Smith, J. Beard and D. J. Piensy.

Mat Action in Ring Bout

At first glance, the above picture seems to be of a couple of wrestlers putting on their toe-in-out-of-the-ring show. However, it shows some unusual action during a heavy-weight fight in London in which Walter Neusel, of Germany, defeated Ben Food, South African and champion of the British Empire. Food is on top as both nearly fall out of the ring.

Tuesday was reported by Mrs. A. Larner, and that car hostesses from Eastland church, wrote Mrs. J. B. Overton, S. A. Green, R. A. Larner and Rev. Cartledge, with several guests.

Mrs. John Mays stated the "Margaret Fund," the Mexican mission work in Eastland was described by Mrs. R. L. Young, and the W. M. U. voted $3.00 monthly toward this work. A pleasing statement of Young People's department was made by Mrs. S. A. Green, and Mrs. R. L. Young announced the Junior department would have a Christmas tree and party, December 22, in the Baptist church assembly room.

Cohostesses name, Mrs. W. P. Leslie, and Mrs. J. P. Hearn.

The session Monday afternoon in Methodist church, opened with hymn service, Mrs. Haley at piano. The Society voted to pay $15 class member is urged to be present.

Drago, president, who has invited all members of the Society to attend the morning "coffee" at that hour, and the installation to follow.

Dakotan Strikes Gold In His Backyard; All Lawns in Town Quickly Spaded Up

STURGIS, S. D.—While John Bayliffe was digging a cesspool in his backyard recently, he struck gold, and now every backyard in town is cluttered with picks and shovels.

Bayliffe, a police sergeant, found some suspicious looking dirt, panned a little of it and found "colors." Excited by his discovery, he took the "colors" to a local jeweler, who placed the value at $5.

Bayliffe hurried back to his yard where he found some more bits of gold.

His neighbors caught the fever. Obtainers quickly recalled the channel of Dead Man's creek once coursed through Bayliffe's property.

Dead Man had its origin in the Kirk Hill district, between Deadwood, Galena and Sturgis, in a region particularly rich in mineral deposits. The old channel, gold men say, was rich in placer gold many years ago, but like other Black Hills streams, was abandoned as the prospectors skipped for richer diggings.

Down the road a few rods from Bayliffe's backyard stands a monument of an early adventurer—Reddy Noll—pony express rider killed by Indians as he was carrying letters to the miners of Deadwood. It was this incident which gave the gulch its name.

Bayliffe's discovery is history repeating. Scores of men in this district have come upon the "yellow flakes" when they were looking for something else.

Henry Rave, at Custer, a few years ago, found gold in French Creek running through his farm—the same creek that the late President Coolidge fished on a vacation from the White House.

A ditch-digger in patched overalls came upon deposits of gold three miles from Deadwood. He didn't know what the yellow flakes were until he showed them to a prospector. Then he shed his shabby clothing and, before he knew it, was able to afford swallow-tailed coats and top hats.

In the Bear Lodge, Tommy Smith loaned over to get a drink of water out of a spring and found a gold nugget as large as a goose egg.

Present: Misses Guy Sherrill, G. R. Crossley, Otis Knox, Loretta Herring and Mrs. B. E. Roberson, who led the closing prayer.

Ladies Bible Class to Discuss Christmas Plans

The Ladies' Bible class held a lesson period at their Monday afternoon meeting in Church of Christ.

Mrs. Otis Knox led the acanello singing and Mrs. Guy Sherrill the prayer.

The lesson from the 26th Chapter of Acts was taught by Mrs. Loretta Herring.

Announcement was made that at the meeting next Monday afternoon, plans for Christmas will be discussed and each member of the class especially requested to be present.

Due to so much illness in the church, there was a small attendance at this session.

Terms in Cattle Cases Pronounced

Sentences in two cattle cases were pronounced Tuesday by Judge B. W. Patterson in district court against Rayford Adams, both sentenced, concurred were for two-year terms.

Adams had been found guilty previously by juries who had liberated his fate. One indictment charged the defendant with theft Oct. 9 of two head of cattle owned by L. B. Norvell. The other indictment alleged theft two head of cattle Oct. 2, W. L. Andrus.

Constables Serve Jurors as Bailiff

Six Eastland county constables were in Eastland serving as bailiffs for the grand jury in session Tuesday. They were John Bar of Ranger, Marion Seaborn of Eastland, Grant Daniels of Cisco, "Speck" Hull of Rising Star, Aaron Bryant of Gorman and Rube Miles of Deadwood.

New-Car Sales Lag Where Taxes High A Survey Shows

NEW YORK—High automotive taxes, and particularly excessive blind taxes, apparently exert an adverse effect upon the will-ness and financial ability of prospective buyers to purchase motor vehicles, it is revealed by a study of new-car registrations made by the American Petroleum industry committee.

The survey, based upon a comparison of registrations in the eight months of 1936 with those in the corresponding period of 1935, indicated that in the 18 states where gasoline rates are regarded as excessive the average increase in new-registrations was only 20.8 per cent as against an average 25.8 per cent in the 30 states and the District of Columbia where gas-tax rates are viewed as reasonable.

Terms of actual registrations also found that only 94,105 new cars were registered in the 18 high tax states, or 30 cars less than would have been registered had the group enjoyed the same rate of increase as the low-tax group. It was pointed out that the depressing effect of sales taxes caused an estimated loss of $16,234,440 in business for new-car dealers. It was estimated also that, since the average dealer does an annual business of about $124,000, some 131 dealers would have shared a full year's business.

The effect upon employment was noted, it being estimated that since each million dollars of car sales provides employment for 75 workers at retail outlets, 1,200 additional employees would have had jobs for a year.

Further, it was found that the sale of additional new cars would increase gasoline consumption by about 16,000,000 gallons annually, and substantially would increase revenues from the gasoline taxes and from registration fees.

Adversely affected also, the survey indicated, were small business establishments catering to the automotive trade. These included garages, repair shops, service stations, tire and battery shops, parking lots, etc., a group generally regarded as one of the more important in the retail business. It represents about 10 per cent of all retail establishments, accounts for 20 per cent of all retail sales, employs 16 per cent of retail employees, and pays 17 per cent of retail trade wages.

Science Is About To Smash Atom

CHICAGO.—Scientists have revealed what they know about how to smash the elusive atom into infinitesimal smithereens with an immense particle rocketing thru space at a speed of something like 10,000 miles a second.

The technique and results of disintegrating the nucleus of the atom, smallest single portion of matter, with high speed, electricity-charged particles was related in a series of papers before the meeting of the American Physical Society.

Present were two Nobel Prize winners, Prof. Arthur H. Compton of the University of Chicago, who delves into the mysteries of cosmic rays, and Dr. Carl D. Anderson of the California Institute of Technology, who discovered the positive electron, or positron.

Compton explained a series of experiments showing that cosmic rays, which originate in outer space, have energies as high as 150,000,000 volts.

Anderson used the cosmic rays to bombard sheets of lead, and he made his discovery of the positron by the previously known electron, which is the negative-charge of the atom.

Marriage Course Is Offered In College

AUSTIN.—Students at the University of Texas now learn when to get married and particularly how to stay married.

In a course in which scholastic credit is given, instructed by Dr. W. Hall, 84 university students met three times each week and study the "whys and wherefores" of marriage.

In their class meetings the students hear lectures on courtship and post-nuptial relationships and discuss any problems that might arise after marriage. Dr. Hall's lectures on the subject have become so popular he has been asked to deliver them in other cities.

In his lectures he discusses with young people such problems as when to get married, choosing companions and other related problems.

By approaching these delicate subjects from the religious standpoint, Dr. Hall finds that his students are able to discuss frankly and without embarrassment the marriage problem.

Real Beer Has Been Temperance Factor Health Head Says

BUFFALO, N. Y.—The legalization of real beer has been a powerful factor for the promotion of temperance and to check lawlessness, says Dr. Francis E. Fronczak, health commissioner of Buffalo, who is recognized as one of the foremost health authorities in America.

Testifying before the United States Senate committee on manufactures in 1932, Dr. Fronczak urged the legalization of real beer in the interest of public health. He declared that in his experience of approximately forty years as a medical practitioner he had never witnessed so much intemperance and general lawlessness as prevailed during the prohibition era. Asked his opinion today, based on observations during the three years that have elapsed since real beer was legalized, he said:

"Four summers have passed since the brewing of beer was resumed in the United States. Each summer since 1933 has seen a gradual increase in the consumption of that popular malt beverage until now, at the close of the season of 1936, this country has taken the lead among the nations of the world in the consumption of beer and ale. In my capacity as health commissioner of the city of Buffalo, in which work I have been engaged for many years, having begun prior to the prohibition era and having continued through that depressing period until the present time, it is my duty to observe conditions that have to do with the health of the people in the community it has been my lot and good fortune to serve.

"In 1932, when I testified before the committee on manufactures of the United States Senate, I said, among other things, that I was of the opinion that it would be good for the public health for Congress to pass a bill permitting the manufacture of beer. That opinion, based upon my observations during the past three years, obtains today.

"Beer is a healthful, wholesome drink and when consumed in moderation will produce no ill effects upon the human system. I subscribe fully to a statement made by Lord Horder, noted English physician, who said 'the stigma attaching to beer in the minds of many is associated with the fact that some people take too much of it. By a confusion of thought the beverage is condemned rather than the intemperate person.'

"Temperance in all our physical activities will promote good health. We citizens of America, referring to the masses, are inclined to be intemperate in all of our activities. We eat too much and we play too hard. More graves are dug thru intemperate eating than were ever filled from the consumption of beer.

"Surely prohibition did not solve the temperance problem. Far from it! In all of my many years of experience as a physician and a health official, I never have seen such intemperance and such wholesale disregard for all laws as I did during the fourteen years when good beer was banned. In my testimony before the Senate committee in 1932 I submitted considerable evidence to substantiate that statement.

"Good beer is a food. It has many properties that are beneficial to the human system. It has been well established that its moderate consumption provides nourishment of inestimable value." Dr. Fronczak is a native of Buffalo and spent many years in public health work both in this country and abroad. Previous to becoming health commissioner of Buffalo he had a large private practice and he now is connected with several hospitals.

Worries Wrack College Youths, Educator Says

INDIANAPOLIS.—The gray "high-de-ho" activity of the average American college student masks a multitude of worries, according to Prof. L. M. Sears, head of Purdue University history department.

"You would not be surprised how little jollity or genuine gaiety there is among youth in college," Prof. Sears told members of the Purdue Dads' association of the Indianapolis area.

The historian, a bachelor, asked his audience to "sympathize with the problems of youth."

"Collegiate jollity is of the hectic, excitable type," he said, "but actually the student is under the weight of many things which constitute real worries.

"College students worry about their studies and whether they are pleasing their professors. They worry about whether they are pleasing their fellow students and thus are obtaining popularity. They worry about their careers—whether they will have careers at all. They worry about the right person to marry."

Prof. Sears said he is convinced the age of the college youth is not the "Golden Age."

WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Assurance from the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and other business groups that industry can be depended upon to absorb the unemployed are a great comfort to those in the administration who believe they can depend on such assurances.

There would be more believers if it were not for the fact that the unemployment problem had been a big one ever since 1929 and that industrial policy meanwhile has been such as to discourage re-employment in proportion to the increase in industrial production.

New evidence as to the effect of growth and improvement of machines on employment is contained in a confidential report, covering a survey of technological unemployment developments, which Roosevelt took away to study during his ocean trip. The Bureau of Labor Statistics and WPA co-operated in the survey.

Thanks to greater efficiency through machines and higher standards imposed by industry, the American factory worker can now produce 39 per cent more than in 1929 and 10 per cent more than in 1929.

The figure covering the post-1929 period is new and shows that the relentless process of displacing workers by machines continued right on through the depression.

RESTORATION of employment to the 1929 level would require production of 10 per cent more goods than were produced in that year, whereas industrial production is now about 10 per cent below 1929.

Incidentally, it is officially estimated that there were about 1,800,000 unemployed in the best part of 1929.

But technological unemployment is only one of the explanations why there are still between 8,000,000 and 11,000,000 unemployed. (The U. S. Chamber's special committee says there are only 4,000,000 available for employment, but that seems low. WPA officials say it merely approximates the minimum estimate of unemployed who aren't on WPA or home relief rolls.)

A very large factor is the birth rate, for which captains of industry can hardly be blamed. It is stated authoritatively that since 1929 about half a million more young people have entered the labor market each year than have been retired by old age or death. Young, eager, and often willing to work for low wages, these new workers have been displacing older men and women. So you find Roosevelt and Harry Hopkins complaining that many corporations are placing the top hiring ages of 40 and 45 years while an increasingly large proportion of persons between 45 and 65 is found on the relief rolls.

THIS factor—more than 3,000,000 new workers in seven years—means that production would have to be increased 20 per cent above 1929, or nearly 35 per cent over the present figure, to reduce unemployment to 1929 proportions.

Meanwhile, the working population keeps on increasing and technological unemployment also continues.

On top of that, industry has been increasing the number of hours worked per week by the average employe. The A. F. of L. says the average work week increased from 38 hours in 1935 to 40 hours in 1936.

Numerous business experts believe the national average working week is 44 hours or more, when all unorganized industries are included.

Picked as Healthiest of Nation's 4-H Club Members

A happy, robust sextet, these farm boys and girls were named healthiest 4-H club members of the country at the national congress of the organization in Chicago. Chosen from the health champions of 40 states, they all work hard, eat balanced diets, and go in for sunshine, they declared. About to do justice to tempting sandwiches, they are, left to right: Mary Flynn Sellers, 16, Letohatchee, Ala.; Jerry Cowan, 19, Rogersville, Mo.; Margaret J. Topovski, 16, Wooster, O.; Roy Graves, 20, Porter, Okla.; Martha Ekberg, 16, Wisconsin Dells, Wis.; and C. A. Abbott, Jr., 17, Blair, Va.

It is driven by compressed air. He believes his invention will revolutionize the motor industry. "The engineers said it couldn't be done because they didn't get it out of their books," Hunt said. "And they didn't get it out of books because it wasn't in them. But I did it, and now they'll put it in their books."

Hunt plans to make the first practical test of his invention about Dec. 15. He promises to put his first skeleton automobile powered with the air-driven motor on Springfield streets at that time. His first car will have a light steel frame only 4 feet long, 26 inches wide, with a "skeleton" body. It will have a maximum speed, he predicts, of approximately 14 miles per hour.

Hunt's motor has a tiny, five-eighths inch piston and a four and one-quarter inch stroke, and a weighted flywheel mounted on a small axle to which the piston is attached.

Reporter Finds His New Federal Card Just Isn't So Hot

WASHINGTON.—The Social Security Board has started delivering credentials—which look something like old-fashioned speaking cards—in wholesale quantities. These cards are done with a red, white and blue motif and frankly, the printing job is not so hot. Card number 57703,4033, which belongs to yours truly, is a little smeared and the eagle's tail is missing.

The card itself is white. The number is stamped in red. The printing is blue. It shows Grecian pillars on either edge of the ticket, with a vaulted arch connecting them. On the arch is printed in capital letters "SOCIAL SECURITY ACT." Then comes our account number and our full name, first, middle and last.

This bothers us a little because the compressed air tank, a plunger releases half a pound of compressed air from the tube leading from the tank into the cylinder housing the piston. The half-pound blast of air shoves the piston down, and the flywheel, weighted with five pounds of metal on one side, turns over.

As the piston returns to the top of the cylinder, the plunger releases another blast of air automatically, forcing it down again and keeping the operation continuous.

The plunger which releases the air into the cylinder operates on the same principle as a match stuck into the valve core of an automobile.

Hunt believes he can harness the car's bouncing to pump air into the tank.

To each of the four corners of the car's frame, a pump will be attached with a tube leading from it to the air tank. When the car hits a bump, the raising of the frame will raise the plunger from the pump, sucking air into it. As the frame settles back, the bump plunger will force the air into the tank, Hunt believes.

And if there aren't enough bumps and the supply of air is exhausted?

Hunt has an answer for that, too.

Refill the tank, he says, with an ordinary air hose at the filling station, or bounce the car by jumping on the running board.

Prank Damage Is Costly to Parents

KANSAS CITY, Kan.—The recent destruction of hundreds of street bulbs has been solved by the admission of 14 high school and junior college students, two of them girls, that they broke the bulbs as part of an initiation ceremony. W. H. Stone, chief of police, said. Parents of the students agreed to pay for the damage, estimated at $1,000, according to Stone.

we're a little worried about wearing it out. It is printed on a cheap grade of cardboard, thin, like a movie ticket. Bend it and it stays bent. Crease it and the crease is permanent. Rub it and the paper wears off in little rolls.

By the time we're 85 years old, we fear that this card is going to be dog-eared. We're afraid all the printing will be worn off after 60-odd years of riding in our wallet, and that as a social security document it will look like something an archeologist dug up.

The treasury department, which looked at these cards but diplomatically refused comment, said it printed its dollar bills on the best quality paper obtainable—and that they wore out in nine months flat.

Of course, the treasury said its

$5,000-bills were printed on the same kind of paper and they lasted a life time. This would indicate big bills don't get much wallet mauling. And it may be that the security board wants us to keep our tickets at home under the mattress with the silverware and the baby shoes.

The board said furthermore if we lost ours it would fill us out a new one, and ditto if it wore out. So our worries probably are groundless. We can't help wishing, though, for two things:

1. That our eagle had a tail.
2. That our middle name hadn't so casually and so flauntingly been committed to print.

Christmas in Madrid should be a medley of blasts and "Silent Night."

marred by the pain of the blow.
"I do thank you, ever so much,"
Marcia was saying when McDougal became conscious of anything except the fact that he was dancing with her. "I have been wanting to say that to you, in person, for ever so long."
For the while, at least, McDougal was, in obedience to his own command, snapping out of it.
Some self-assurance returned,
some cheerfulness.
"Don't mention it" and "You're quite welcome" he quoted, laughing at her. "Besides that, what else could you have expected from any person who happened on the scene at the moment I did?"
A strange young man, thought Marcia—though, indeed, his logic was unassailable.
Someone quickly cut in on their dance.
McDougal, in turn, cut in on Dorothy Osborn's partner. He recalled as they danced, his feeling of obligation to her for the dinner date broken by Marcia's accident, and he wondered, with some amusement, whether he was now able to repay that debt to a woman who since had found herself on the threshold of a Broadway career, and who therefore was a different woman than the one who had so kindly offered the hospitality of her home to a newcomer in the village.
He did not know the new Dorothy, any more than he had suspected the old.
THE idea of a gift occurred to McDougal, a gift which she might care for, as marking her arrival on Broadway.
"Would you," he asked, "if you can spare the time, dress as you will appear in the part and let me do a portrait sketch of you?
It won't be the world's greatest art work, but perhaps it will be your first portrait, and you can keep it to laugh at when you have acquired a bigger and better collection."
Dorothy was more genuinely flattered than he would have believed. Broadway—that was abed, but the attentions of friends and neighbors of Bobbs Neck were in the present, and McDougal's offer was far from among the least.
They arranged to meet on Mon-

Attendance at P.-T. A. Reaches Mark of Fifty-Seven Hudges Oak Park Parent-Teacher Association met Tuesday afternoon at 3:45 o'clock, with the president, Mrs. John Hassen, in charge. Meeting opened with school song from group and followed with the State president's message read by Mrs. Hassen.

Business session brought several interesting points. A parent education course was announced to begin in January, 1937, with Mrs. Harry A. Bishop, appointed directing chairman. Several prizes are to be awarded to the children whose mothers attended the P.-T. A. meetings regularly during the year just drawing to a close, also to rooms which were most largely represented from the opening meeting in September to the last closing meeting December 22nd. Miss Dora Baskin's room furnished a very enjoyable program, with three numbers by the harmonica band, and a Christmas playlet.

Mrs. E. R. Green gave a most interesting report on the State convention appreciated by her listeners and which served very beneficially to delegates.

The Christmas party announced for the afternoon, December 22nd,

Snub In 1843 Is Cited In Rise of Feminine Rights

SENECA FALLS, N. Y.—Nearly a century ago—93 years to be exact—two women walked arm in arm down a London street enraged because they were expelled from a world convention to consider the slavery of black men.

The women, Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Lucretia Mott, both of Seneca Falls, had traveled some 3,000 miles to attend the convention, only to be told that women were not wanted.

Campers' Area In Forests Widened

By United Press
ELY, Minn.—An enlarged campground will form a part of a new recreational area under development in the Superior National Forest.

The area, including approximately 80 acres of forest, which will be preserved in its natural condition, with the cutting of timber forbidden, will be developed on Meander Lake in the LaCroix ranger district.

Necessity for the enlargement of the camp facilities arose from the great number of tourists visiting the site, it was explained. The original campground was constructed in 1931.

"Meander Lake," according to A. C. Martensen, superintendent of Portage river CCC camp, "has a distinctive shoreline with numerous rock outcroppings and fern-covered boulders."

Improvements will include fireplaces, shelters, log tables, incinerators, wells, docks, rafts and tent sites.

Winter is following autumn so closely it seems a case of Lo the poor Indian summer.

Light Glows Hours After Current Stops

CHICAGO—Aladdin's magic with a lamp is being approached by modern industrial engineers who have invented a light which continues to glow after it has been extinguished.

Introduced during a home-furnishings exposition in the Merchandise Mart, the light has a chemically treated shade which continues to glow for several hours after the electric bulb is turned off.

100-Year-Old News Is Still Interesting

By United Press
AUSTIN, Tex.—News as it was written and displayed more than one hundred years ago is being exhibited at the University of Texas Centennial Exposition.

Copies of early Texas papers, dating back to 1830, yellowed with age, but carefully preserved are included in the exhibit. Examination of the papers indicates that different things made news during the "barbed wire and raw hide" era of Texas.

A copy of the Texas Republican, published in Brazoria, July 5, 1834, has two stories on the front page. A speech about forming a state government takes up most of the page.

The editor of the Telegraph and Texas Register, published at San Felipe de Austin, Oct. 17, 1835, preferred poetry to news. More than one third of his front page is devoted to a poem, "Dawn."

In another, a letter concerning Texas Independence covers all the page. In still another, over half of the front page is devoted to advertising. The rest of the page contains stories on the climate of Australia, and the laws passed at the third session of the Fortieth Congress.

In the January 12, 1865, edition of the Dallas Herald, appears a story of an engagement fought in the Civil War. It is listed simply as "In Sunday's Mail."

Legion Auxiliary Laugh Skit to Be On Program Here

At the open house meeting of Carl Barnes Post No. 69 of the American Legion, to be held in the legion hall Thursday night, the ladies of the American Legion Auxiliary will present a comedy skit entitled "Thursday at Home."

This is a laughable comedy which promises to prove entertaining to everyone present.

The open house meeting this week will be one of a series of programs that are being arranged by the entertainment committee, to entertain the ex-service men, their families and friends on open house nights.

There is no admission charge to be made and everything will be free, including light refreshments, which will be served after the meeting.

The public has been issued a cordial invitation to "come and enjoy the evening with us."

Sport page headlines should give out ill-wishers abroad some satisfaction. They'll be pleased by evidence of military dissension in the Army-Navy fracas.
