HENRY VI IS NOW THE NEW KING

By United Press
LONDON, Dec. 11.—Edward VIII ended his brief reign today by giving his royal assent to the bill legalizing his abdication. His brother, the Duke of York, Any King, next Monday, became the King, to rule as George VI, one-fourth of the world's territory and people.

The tragic crisis in the life of Edward VIII was over. He was to marry Mrs. Wallis Simpson, the twice divorced Baltimore woman, when she obtains her divorce decree.

All that remained was for Edward VIII to make, as a private citizen, his farewell to his people by a broadcast to his people at 10 p. m. tonight (4 p. m. Central Standard Time).

The House of Commons passed a bill in a two-hour session. It measured the Lords only six minutes to the bill.

At 1.50 p. m. (7.50 a. m. Central Standard Time) a royal commission, sitting before the throne in the House of Lords, announced that the royal assent had been given. Lord's official arose and said the King wishes it. It was Edward VIII's last official act.

Wild Turkeys May Eat Up Grasshoppers

By United Press
DALLAS — Conservation of wild turkeys will aid materially in assisting Texas farmers to eradicate the grasshopper pest, it was pointed out by Dr. L. M. Dickerson, Assistant Wild Life Technician of the National Park Service.

All types of insects are grist to the mill of this bird, he said, which is hatched with a seemingly full-grown appetite that shows a strong preference for grasshoppers.

Directing attention to wildlife preserves that have been established in Texas State Parks, where development is being carried on under technical supervision of the National Park Service, Dr. Dickerson said that "the key to the restoration of the turkey, as in the case of other wildlife, is to provide adequate sanctuary protection and food supplies."

EDWARD TO LEAVE SOON FOR EXILE

By United Press
LONDON, Dec. 11.—King Edward, spending his last hours as a king-emperor, bade farewell to his staff at Fort Belvedere today and ordered his pilot to stand by for a flight to the continent.

There was a rumor, unconfirmed, that he might leave for Zurich, Switzerland.

CANNES, France, Dec. 11.—Mrs. Wallis Simpson may flee from France to Italy to escape publicity, it was learned today.

Her host, however, reiterated the statement he made yesterday. "Mrs. Simpson will be here at least through tomorrow. She has no plans to meet Edward."

The King possibly will leave London after his broadcast, "so a place abroad," a spokesman said, "is still definite that he is not coming here."

Questioned about the threatening letters to Mrs. Simpson which police said were being received, the spokesman replied that he had not seen them.

LONDON, Dec. 11.—George Bernard Shaw's white whisker rippled today because most of the world believed Edward had renounced his throne for the love of Mrs. Simpson.

That, said Shaw, was not the real reason.

"The King abdicated," he told the London Press, "not because of his intention of marrying Mrs. Simpson, and not because a tiny pressure was put on him by the government, but simply because he hates his job and has had enough of it."

Security Law Banishing Dread of Old Age

The Social Security Act got a lot of discussion when Congress passed it. It got a lot more during the presidential campaign. But it is only now, when it is actually about to go into operation, that the ordinary citizen realizes that it is taking place.

What is happening, clearly, is something very like a revolution in our traditional attitude toward old age. For the first time, we are preparing to look ahead to old age with pleasant anticipation rather than with dread.

The statistics about the number of people who can provide financial security for their final years are more or less familiar.

Of any representative group of wage earners, a small number at the top will be able to retire on their savings. Another small group, at the bottom, ultimately will "go on the country." The rest finally will be supported by their relatives; and, however strong the ties of love may be, they will know that they are a burden.

That is the way it has worked out from the beginning of civilization. And now, under the Social Security Law, we are heading in a different direction.

We can admit that the act is sadly imperfect in many ways. Probably it will be several years before Congress gets all the kinks ironed out of it. The big thing is the fact that it is a start—and a good healthy start, too—has at last been made.

Take one ordinary, average, individual wage earner and think of the change this act will make in his life.

He can look ahead, let us say, to a lifetime retirement pay of $50 a month. To that extent, his retirement is taken care of and his old age is secure. No longer does he need to count the years as they slip away, denying himself little luxuries and even necessities to provide for the day when he is cut off the payroll.

Instead, he can be confident. If he can save enough as he goes along to buy that "little place in the country," here he can live rent-free and grow a few vegetables for himself, he can look ahead to absolute independence.

If he can't be at least know that, when retirement comes and he moves in with son and daughter, he can pay his own way and be obligated to no one.

Retirement can look like a release, not a tragedy. Old age will no longer be a scrapheap, but a time for the leisurely avoring of some of those pleasures which get crowded out in the rush of ordinary activity.

Multiply that one case, then, by millions, and you can see the change this new law will bring to America.

Measured in terms of human happiness, the Social Security Act is one of the most important laws ever passed by Congress.

Small Taxpayers Are Paying On Taxes

FORT WORTH — Delinquent small taxpayers in Tarrant county are making payments this fall, local officials have reported.

A collection campaign was launched late in September and November receipts. Notices were mailed property owners and scores of suits were filed against those who failed to heed the warning.

"Payments this year are from smaller property owners," said McLeod Greathouse, clerk of the district attorney's tax office. "In 1935, pressure was put on the big cases and most of them were collected."

ENGAGEMENTS LEAD TO PRISON

TURLOCK, Cal.—Getting engaged is not very expensive in terms of prison confinement.

Samuel Frank of this city, who became engaged to 18,000 women via the mail route, will spend only one day in prison for each 10 engagements. His sentence is for five years.

The Hungarian who broke two of his dentists' ribs might simply have been trying to determine if he was painless, as advertised.

WHY PUT UP WITH PIMPLES, WRINKLES AND A SALLOW SKIN?

So many women throw their charm and beauty away—look years older than they are—because they neglect common constipation. They forget that badly balanced meals, over a period of years, can change how they look and feel.

Often their menus lack the "bulk" needed for regular habits. Then constipation, the beauty-killer, sets in. Other effects may be headaches, listlessness, sleeplessness.

Get "bulk" back into your meals with a delicious cereal: Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. It absorbs moisture within the body, forms a soft mass, gently cleanses the system.

Just eat two tablespoons daily, either as a cereal or in cooked dishes. ALL-BRAN is guaranteed. Try it a week. If not satisfactory, your money will be refunded by the Kellogg Company. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Two British Ships Heavily Armored

LONDON.—Contracts for more than 20,000 tons of armor plate, the largest orders of the kind placed since the war, are to be awarded by the British navy.

The plate will be used mainly in the construction of two new battleships to be laid down in January, and will cost about $30,000,000.

It is understood that the new battleships will be the most heavily plated vessels ever built for the navy.

LOWE BROTHERS HIGH STANDARD HOUSE PAINT

Don't buy house paint on price alone. Price per gallon does not determine the cost of a paint job. The cost depends on the years of wear. High Standard covers more surface per gallon and wears years longer.

HALF-ACRE in EDEN

BY ROBERT DICKSON © 1936 NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY... MICHAEL CANFIELD, daughter of PHILIP CANFIELD, who shortly after the mysterious disappearance of FRANK KENDRICK...

"It's just the size of the mortgage that staggers me. I don't want you growing gray under a debt. But what was the new idea you mentioned a while ago?"

"Oh, that was to hire some high-priced talent," replied Mike, grinning a bit ruefully. "It just occurred to me that Bruce here could attend the village's biggest event each week and do it in sketches—a half page or so. His daily stuff is getting to be known all over the country, but our weekly would be the only paper printing his drawings of local news..."

"There is just enough left in the bottle," he said, not looking at them, "for about three more. Mr. McDougall will get his one-third and I will get my two-thirds."

"He went out. 'If you said 'boo' at that guy now,' confided Joan, 'he'd bust right out crying.'"

"And there still is a lot to be said," Joan insisted, "for my idea of buying a house. The money each of you will put into the paper would get each of you a home."

"What does he want a house for?" asked Mike. "He's not married."

"He can get married, can't he?" retorted Joan reasonably. "Really, Bruce—you and Mike have been talking about the Gazette as a bargain, but there are a lot of house bargains here, too, and you wouldn't be making any mistake if you got yourself at least a lot now, because they're bound to go up and when you need one you'll have to pay more for it."

"One-half and one-half," he said aloud; "that makes one. Then a third, a third and a third; that makes one again. So there it is!"

"Leave him alone," said Mike. "What do you want to do—build him a house for him, pick out a girl and get him married?"

"I know nothing about the business," grinned McDougall, "but if my suspicions are correct I'll throw my sketches in to balance the overtime Mike contributes, and that evens that."

"WALKING home, in the cold twilight of 2 o'clock in the morning, McDougall suddenly stopped in his tracks and laughed. 'A few weeks ago I came to town and settled down to a new job,' he told himself, 'and thought I had started on enough of the future to be wrestled with. It's a little faster pace than I've been used to—but I like it. Anything can happen now.'"

(1 1-4 pounds.) Two cups granulated sugar, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 1-2 cup corn syrup (colorless), 1-2 cup water, 2 egg whites, 1-2 cup nut meats, 1 teaspoon vanilla extract. Boil sugar, salt, corn syrup and water together until the syrup will form a firm ball when put in cold water at 70 degrees F. on candy thermometer. Pour gradually over the egg whites which have been beaten stiff. Continue beating until mixture begins to look dull and is stiff enough to hold shape when dropped from spoon. Add nut meats which have been well cut up, and vanilla extract. Pour into well greased enamel or heat resistant glass dish about 6 by 10 inches. Leave the top of the candy slightly rough. Cut into squares. Decorate each piece with a candied cherry and a candied citron leaf, or with a perfect half nut meat.

Sport Glances. By Grayson

NEW YORK—Barney Ross, by his victory over Izzy Jannazzo, gained nothing except negligible currency. Prior to his fight with the Alabama boy, the welterweight champion was held in high esteem in New York. Customers had every reason to place Ross on a high pedestal, for they saw him trounce Tony Canzoneri and McLarin. It was probably luck for Ross that McLarin wasn't in there instead of Jannazzo. Had such been the case, the championship might have changed hands. Little known outside of New York, Jannazzo was named as Ross' chief challenger following Jozzy's 15-round draw with Cefelino Garcia. The latter will meet Ross within 60 days in another championship fight, for it was deemed by the state athletic commission that Garcia be given his chance, whether or not Ross successfully defended his crown. From the outset the Ross-Jannazzo bout was regarded as a lemon. The fans knew that Jannazzo, who fights along the same lines as Maxie Rosenbloom, did not possess the power necessary to bring down the champion. Ross, fighting his first major battle since May, 1935, will have to be punching in more accurate fashion when he is called on to defend the crown against Garcia in January. Jannazzo, an elongated, awkward and pesky fighter, lost the first six rounds, topped the seventh, and lost the eighth. Jannazzo's better boxing won the ninth, 10th, 11th, 12th, and 13th rounds, but the crowd didn't like it. In the opinion of the writer, the Ross-Jannazzo fight brought back the goofy-night era to New York. Ross, contracted to draw down 40 per cent of the net gate, did not earn $8000. He fought like one of Singer's Midgets, and that was a terrific surprise. The fight received a good buildup, but I suppose the fans are becoming wise to the fact that boxing in all divisions is at an extremely low ebb. This is proved by the fact that, before many moons have passed, a Filipino ringster who has been knocked out on the west coast will be hoisted into the ring and regarded as the chief challenger for Luc diadem. With the exception of Garcia, Jannazzo, and the 30-year-old McLarin, there isn't a 147-pound ringster capable of drawing more than flies in a little scrap. That's quite a change from the days when such bellies as Jimmy Clabber, Jimmy Gardner, Clarence Ferns, Ray Bronson, and other top-notchers were battling it out for the right to be recognized as welterweight kingpin, following the renouncing of the throne by Mike (Twin) Sullivan. THE fight, however, wasn't the only goofy thing connected with the latest New York bust. Item No. 2 had to deal with the selling of the radio rights. It was advertised in Manhattan and New England papers that the fight would be broadcast. I was given to understand that the sum of $1000 prevented the broadcasting of the event. As things turned out, the Madison Square Garden Corporation lost whatever money it was to receive for the broadcast and the organization certainly didn't make anything on the fight. Can you imagine the late Tev Rickard quibbling over a "grand" with radio people?

Behind the Scenes in Washington

BY RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON—The Republicans will have their counterpart of the famous "firm of Michelson and Shouse," which went into action for the Democrats after the G. O. P. landslide of 1928 and by organization work and by hammering incessantly at Herbert Hoover, greased the ways for the Roosevelt cleanup in 1932. The Republican firm will be known as "Hamilton and Casey." National Chairman John D. M. Hamilton intends to apply himself to the job just as vigorously as if Governor Landon hadn't been snouted under in the recent election. He has named as the national committee's director of publicity Mr. Leo J. Casey, whose task will be similar to the one which Charlie Michelson performed with such success that he became a figure in American political history. Hamilton loves politics and has by no means, as some who don't know him might suppose, had enough. Early in 1937 he is going out as a traveling salesman with the mission of building up the party toward what he hopes will be a greater effectiveness in subsequent campaigns. He figures the 17,000,000 Landon voters offer a fine nucleus to work with, as well as an excellent source from which to raise enough relatively small contributions to pay off the party deficit of more than a million dollars. However, he expects that a few wealthy Republicans will underwrite current committee expenses for awhile. THE Hamilton idea is that the party can function in Congress as an intelligent, hard-hitting minority. He plans to work with congressional Republicans toward formulation of a definite legislative policy with which to go before the country in the congressional elections of 1938. One of the Landon handicaps in the campaign was the fact that most Republican members had voted for New Deal legislation and hence had no separate record on which to stand. Landon, himself, for that matter had once supported some of the most important New Deal programs. Hamilton and Casey are too sensible to plan any immediate barrage of statements attacking the administration. They will wait for the breaks—and hope for such luck as came to Michelson with the depression. They will be aided by Dr. Olin Glenn Saxon of Yale, chief of the national committee's "brain trust," who will serve as an adviser, although he is resuming his professional duties at New Haven. CASEY is a keen, hard-boiled, realistic New York newspaperman, schooled in politics and popular with other newspapermen. He worked in Washington and Hartford, Conn., with the United Press, and in New York with the Evening Graphic before becoming political city editor and then polling editor of the New York Evening Journal. He covered the Hall-Mills murder case and many other big stories. Early in the 1936 campaign, he was made director of publicity at eastern Republican headquarters and in the last few weeks before election was personal assistant to Hamilton. Hamilton picked Casey for his present job from among the host of publicity and advertising men who infested Republican headquarters, apparently signifying that he was fed up with the high-pressure stunt men who spent as much of the G. O. P. money as such little avail. At least the new Republican firm will have whatever advantages of publicity and advertising that Hamilton is and Casey is. (Copyright, 1936, NEA Service, Inc.)

Colony High School Presents "Big Brother."

The students of Colony High School present a three act play entitled "Big Brother" at the school auditorium Wednesday, Dec. 10, 1936. You have heard of brotherly love don't fail to see it portrayed on the stage, a full evening of high class entertainment. Don't fail to see "Big Brother." Meet your friends at the Colony Auditorium and get acquainted with "Big Brother."

There will be a small admission charge. The play will begin at seven-forty-five.

Public Speaking Class:
Since each student in the high school public speaking classes is required to make at least five talks before an audience other than the classroom itself during the first semester of school, it is requested that if any clubs or other organizations in town need any speakers, orators, and debaters for any program that is being sponsored, the public speaking classes will be glad to furnish such speakers.

Several clubs have already used the public speaking students on programs for debates, orations, etc., and the students appreciate this very much. Detainers can be furnished to debate any one of the following subjects:

Resolved, That Mexicans make better citizens to our country than do the Negroes.

Resolved, That the Law Profession is Superior to That of Medicine.

Resolved, That Old Mexico is a better neighboring country to the United States than Canada.

Resolved, That it is better to be a Little Frog in a Big Pond than it is to be a Big Frog in a little Pond.

Resolved, That the Government should own and Operate all Manufacturing Plants for the Manufacture of Munitions for War.

Resolved, That Baseball is a Superior Game to Football.

Any other subject can be debated if the request is made in time for the students to be adequately prepared.

Orations and Special Talks relative to Christmas can also be provided.

A. W. Warford,
Pub. Instructor.
