LAYTON NOT INCLUDED IN LIBEL SUIT

ABILENE, Jan. 16.—Dismissal of a $100,000 civil suit for libel brought by Thomas L. Blanton, as E. E. Layton, named as one of the defendants in Blanton's original petition, was ordered in district court here yesterday by Judge Milburn S. Long. The action was taken upon request of Charles L. Blanton, Jr., of Albany attorney for his father, now in Washington.

The action leaves Clyde L. Garret, who succeeded Blanton as congressman last week, and J. W. Garret, Garret's secretary, as defendants in the suit.

Friday's hearing was started for the purpose of considering a motion by Blanton to be allowed to file a controverting plea to Layton's plea of privilege, in which he asked trial of the case to be transferred to Eastland county, his home. Blanton had asked to be allowed to file the controverting plea after expiration of the legal period of five days prescribed for answers to such pleadings. Blanton, Jr., asserted that, although he requested notification when Layton should file his plea of privilege, he was not notified.

After the court had heard testimony and arguments on Blanton's motion, and before it had acted upon the motion, Blanton requested that the action be dismissed as to Layton.

Miss Belle Wellborn, district clerk, said from the witness stand that no request or notice was received.

Thomas L. Blanton, Jr., testifying, said "It is my honest belief that I made a request of the district clerk, asking her to notify me in case of the filing of any answer by any of the defendants to this lawsuit. It is my honest belief and belief that she has some answer which would negate and assented thereto."

Miss Wellborn was questioned by Layton's attorney, Carl Springer of Eastland.

"It is alleged here that Mr. Blanton asked you to notify him if any of these defendants filed an answer. Did he make that request?" Springer asked.

"He did not," Miss Wellborn replied.

"It is alleged that you answered a substance that you would notify him. Did you make that answer?" the attorney asked.

"I did not," the witness said. On cross-examination Blanton was asked: "Are you sure Miss Wellborn heard you?"

He replied: "I am not sure. I am sure at the time, but I am not sure now, because I know if she had heard me, as efficient as she would have notified me."

Ranger Debaters In Finals at Tourney

The boys and girls debate teams from Ranger High School went to the finals in the Brownwood debate tournament, it was announced in Ranger Saturday by A. W. Warford, coach of the debate teams.

A total of 25 teams competed at the tournament and the two Ranger teams made an excellent showing in going to the finals, which the girls lost to Coleman by vote of 3 to 2, and the boys lost to Abilene by a vote of 4 to 3.

The girls defeated debate teams from Brownwood, Putnam and Cross Plains to go into the finals, while the boys won from Brownwood, Putnam and Coleman.

Girls on the team were Dorothy Jean Bruce and Inez Baker, while boys Sanders and Thomas Thompson were on the boys team. Other debaters from Ranger who were entered were Lewis Hughes, Homer Smith and C. E. May, Jr.

Board to Determine Shipowner's Stand

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—Seamen strike headquarters today said the national labor relations board would hold a meeting in Washington Friday to determine if shipowners have denied the right of collective bargaining to striking seamen.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 16.—Negotiations in the 78-day-old west coast maritime strike bogged down again today, in inactivity. Farmers of the San Joaquin and Sacramento valleys threatened a march on the San Francisco waterfront to release needed cargoes on strike-bound ships.

RACE TRUCE IN AUTO STRIKE

The leaders in the conference at Lansing, Mich., photographed in the small hours of the morning as they announced that a truce had been agreed upon in the auto strike. Left to right: William Knudsen of General Motors; Gov. Frank Murphy; James Dewey, Federal conciliator; Frank Martin, President of the Auto Workers' Union.

Association For Highway No. 81 Is Being Formed

Formation of a Highway 81 Association, which will include members from towns along the proposed highway route from Graham through Caddo, Ranger, Desdemona and De Leon, to connect with highway 81 at De Leon, was started the latter part of the week by a group of Ranger citizens.

C. E. May, C. D. Woods and J. E. Mervoney visited in Desdemona, where they contacted a number of the citizens, all of whom were interested in formation of the association.

The purpose of the Highway 81 Association will be to promote the project of closing up the gaps in the highway, making a through highway from Wichita Falls to San Antonio, which would be approximately 20 miles shorter than any other route between the two cities.

The highway is already an all-weather road except for a designation between Caddo and Desdemona and would form a north and south outlet for several towns along the route. If designated the highway would probably connect with highway 79 near South Bend and with 81 at De Leon.

Texan Hopes His Cotton Picker Will Succeed In 1937

PLAINVIEW, Texas — A. R. Nesbit, Sr., 77, hopes 1937 will bring success to his 50 years of experimentation with a mechanical cotton picker.

Nesbit's invention was tried out recently in a cotton field near Plainview and it harvested approximately 90 per cent of the crop.

With minor mechanical adjustments, Nesbit expects to make the machine practical and inexpensive, to answer the demand for elimination of hand picking.

The Nesbit picker weighs 1,500 pounds and is operated by one man, using the same motor to generate power for traction and for picking. Wind suction pulls the cotton bolls against a fine mesh screen on the machine and removes the impaled lint by revolving the screen. Another "blower" on top of the picker removes the lint from the screen and deposits it on a canvas container.

The machine has picked an average of three acres an hour in its early tests. It has a normal speed of eight miles an hour.

Nesbit said the invention was limited at present to harvesting the type of cotton grown on the Texas plains—especially the shorter staple lint. Extra long lint and extra tall plants handicap the picker, he explained.

Work on the present picker has been carried on for five years, although the inventor tried other methods beforehand. He was granted a patent in 1934. Nesbit said several farm machinery manufacturers had sent representatives to inspect his machine.

Nominations Are Confirmed by Senate

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The Senate today confirmed the nomination of William Phillips as Ambassador to Italy, William Bullitt as Ambassador to France and Joseph Davies as Ambassador to Russia.

DR. MATTSO Band Parents Club Will Have Party

TACOMA Wash., Jan. 16.—Dr. W. W. Mattson said today he believed the men who kidnaped and killed his son Charles, were amateurs, and destroyed the child because their prisoner learned too much about them.

Dr. Mattson issued a "final review" of the case which he handed to newspapermen in his office. The statement read: "The statement to the effect that the kidnap was a disgruntled patient of mine who was seeking revenge is entirely without foundation. I have no enemies, I am sure, who would do such a thing."

"I am confident this man and whoever his colleague is are crooks who have never previously held a job of this magnitude and when advanced to the stage where they were ready to receive the ransom they found Charles knew too much and they dared not release him."

"As further proof of bungling I am certain no intelligent criminal would have picked me out for ransom, as there are several men of wealth in Tacoma who would have been far better prospects than I."

"I always lived simply and had no social aspirations. My only reason for a nice home were that all my interests were centered in my home and I wished to rear my children in the best surroundings I could afford."

"There is undoubtedly a living act that decrees what should happen at a time like this, otherwise why should that rabbit have led the Morrow boy to Charles' body. This is unquestionably going to mean the eventual identification of the culprit and justice will be meted out as it always is."

MARRIAGES CELEBRATED

MONTROSE, Colo.—Four local couples celebrated their 66th wedding anniversaries here within the space of a few weeks. They were Mr. and Mrs. Gus Frost, Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Latrop, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Gibson and Dr. and Mrs. Fred Schermerhorn.

Complaints Heard About Stray Dogs

Attention has been called to the Times of the large number of stray dogs that have been roaming in the city in droves during the past few weeks.

The city ordinance is clear on this and all dogs that are allowed to run at large should be vaccinated against rabies, should be licensed and tagged.

Any number of readers are complaining that they have trouble sleeping at night because of the large number of dogs barking, fighting and prowling around the streets.

Clues Are Sought In Man's Murder

BIG SPRING, Jan. 16.—Officers sought clues today to the identity of the slayer of J. H. Reynolds, 64, whose body was found 12 miles south of Gall.

Reynolds had been missing 20 days when a searching party found the body yesterday in a shallow grave. Reynolds apparently had been killed by a heavy blow that crushed his head and jaw.

Justice of the peace C. W. Taylor returned an inquest verdict that Reynolds' death was murder at the hands of persons unknown.

Rebel Attack Upon Madrid Is Frustrated

GIBRALTAR, Jan. 16.—A rebel cruiser heavily bombarded Marbella, contested point between the loyalists and insurgents on the south coast today.

MADRID, Jan. 16.—Loyalists contended today that they had checked a rebel attack in which General Francisco Franco threw the weight of his entire army against the west and northwest parts of the city.

Papers appeared with huge headlines about the failure of the attack. The rattle of shellfire lessened during the day as a fog enveloped the capital.

ROME, Jan. 16.—Italy and Germany are ready to compromise with the democratic nations of Europe on their previous insistence on the establishment of fascism in Spain, diplomatic sources said today.

They are opposed to any form of communism it was said, but will discuss a happy medium if Britain and France are ready for proposals for a modified version of the four-power pact among them, eliminating Russia from European affairs.

The reports were the outcome of conversations between Mussolini and Hermann Goering lieutenant of Adolf Hitler, which continued today.

Mussolini it was said, had considerable difficulty in convincing Goering he should support a compromise.

LONDON, Jan. 16.—The British government received information today of fresh arrivals of Italian recruits in Spain to re-enforce the insurgents and a further influx of French troops through Barcelona to aid the loyalists.

Floodwaters Over Five States Recede

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—Thousands of refugees huddled in temporary shelter today as floodwaters receded from mud-coated farms and residences of six central states.

Waters swirled through streets of abandoned villages and swept away farm property in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana, and Missouri.

Freezing temperatures halted the record mid-winter rains. Observers predicted a week-end of fair weather would remove the last flood threats.

This evening at 7:15 Coleman Craig will speak at the Central Baptist Church of Ranger on his visit to the Holy Land and the near East. He will also show pictures taken by him on this trip.

"Mr. Craig is a most interesting speaker," Rev. H. H. Stephens, pastor of the church said Saturday, and you will miss a rare opportunity if you fail to hear him tonight."

The announcement stated that no offering would be taken at the service.

A group of fishermen, including E. H. H. Stephens, Rev. H. H. Johnson, T. J. Anderson, W. W. Paschall, Lloyd Bruce, A. J. Smith and C. D. Woods, will leave tonight for Corpus Christi, where they will remain until Thursday. They expect to return to Ranger Thursday night or Friday morning.

Ann Harding to Be Married Again

LONDON, Jan. 16.—Notice was filed at the register office today that Anne Harding, was to marry Werner Janssen, symphony orchestra conductor. Janssen's age was described as divorced from Elsa Janssen, nee Smith. Miss Harding's age was given as 34.

It was understood that the wedding would be held Monday or Tuesday.

Miss Harding, motion picture star, has been in London making her first British film. She is divorced from Harry Ranister, playwright, and after the divorce engaged in a long court fight over custody of their daughter, Jane 8.

Leaves Hospital

Recovered from his long and dangerous illness, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., smiles cheerfully as he leaves the Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston to return to the White House to recuperate.

Gov. E. W. Marland said today he had received a letter demanding $5,000 on threats of bodily harm to him and Mrs. Marland.

He posted a $500 reward for the arrest of the sender.

The letter, in longhand, was mailed in Oklahoma City Friday. It read: "You are a rich man and I want you to give us a donation of $5,000 in bills that are not marked."

"If you know what is good for you you will not say anything about this to the police or to anybody else. If you do it will be too bad for you and your wife."

Marland turned the letter over to state crime bureau operatives. Although not inclined to take it seriously, the governor was angered. Department of Justice agents were called in.

Marland plans to reinforce the single executive mansion night watchman.

"I have no idea," Marland responded when asked if he believed there is a connection between the letter and his drive against a man whom he described as the "kingpin of the underworld" in Oklahoma City.

Cattlemen Will Ask Legislature For Feeding Fund

BEEVILLE, Texas—South Texas cattle owners, from a region where cattle raising began in the state, prepared today to ask the 45th legislature to appropriate funds to aid them in the work of improving scientific feeding methods.

They point out that their area, bounded on the south by the Rio Grande, on the west by Del Rio, on the north by Austin and on the East by the Gulf, has many climatic and soil conditions peculiar to this region alone.

The South Texas area, they recalled, is without facilities for experimental work under state direction, such as is carried on at other points such as College Station, Big Spring and Spur. They will ask that such an experiment station be established in their territory, probably near Beville.

Cattlemen met here last Nov. 23, formed a permanent organization to promote their interests and drafted a resolution requesting the legislature to consider an appropriation for experimental work to aid them.

San Morris Roberts of Pettus announced that he would support a bill authorizing such work, which has the support of the South Texas Chamber of Commerce.

The South Texas area was the early home of the beef cattle industry in Texas. Here originated the great droves of longhorns that were driven up the old cattle trails to market in the 1870's and '80's. Now its stockmen seek a comeback by development of the cattle "finishing" industry to its highest attainable peak.

Cattlemen argue that actual feeding tests have proved that the weight of a long yearling put on pasture, then "finished" by rationing on corn, ensilage and cottonseed meal, will almost double that of a range steer of the same age when shipped to market.

Teachers Turn to Farming As Step Toward Security

MAZOMANIE, Wis.—Two former women school teachers have found security and happiness on their 12-acre farm near here.

Three years ago, Helen Brandemuehl, Madison, and Louise Parman, Mazomanie, were threatened with unemployment in the teaching profession. They pooled their resources to purchase a farm and sufficient equipment.

For three years they have done all the farm work themselves. Miss Brandemuehl, a home economics teacher for four years, confines most of her work to the kitchen, while Miss Parman, who was reared on a farm, does the chores.

The farmerettes have three cows, two horses and nine pigs. They grow the usual farm crops and in addition vegetables and fruit which they sell fresh or canned.

Gov. Marland of Oklahoma Is Threatened

Gov. E. W. Marland said today he had received a letter demanding $5,000 on threats of bodily harm to him and Mrs. Marland.

He posted a $500 reward for the arrest of the sender.

The letter, in longhand, was mailed in Oklahoma City Friday. It read: "You are a rich man and I want you to give us a donation of $5,000 in bills that are not marked."

Clothing Worn By Mattson Boy to Be Given Analysis

EVERETT, Wash., Jan. 16.—Bloodstained clothing which may have been worn by Charles Mattson, 16-year-old Tacoma boy, before a kidnaper murdered him, were sent to a laboratory today for examination.

The clothing was found in an abandoned shack not far from where a hunter stumbled over Charles' body.

Federal agents sought to find if the blood was that of the boy.

Elaine Barrie Will Divorce Barrymore

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 16.—A school girl's dream of making an "ideal husband" of John Barrymore, ended today with the filing of a divorce complaint.

Elaine Barrie, Hulster College co-ed, with a desire to be an actress, had hoped to succeed where three other mothers failed.

She accused the aging "great lover" of a number of things including:

- 1—Inhuman conduct and extreme mental cruelty.
- 2—Calling her "indecent and profane names."
- 3—Threatening to "kill or maim her."
- 4—Striking her at a New Year's Eve party.

The actual separation dated from the New Year's Eve party, when Miss Barrie informed her husband she intended making a name for herself on the stage.

Favorable Agri Policy Continues

The favorable policy toward agricultural work as maintained in previous years will be continued by county commissioners and the county judge, it was learned Saturday.

Because of the commissioners' court and the county judges' knowledge of the value of four agricultural agents the full staff will continue to be employed.

Elmo V. Cook is county agent, Hugh F. Barnhart his assistant, Miss Ruth Ramey county home demonstration agent and Miss Cornelia Faye Stewart her assistant.

C.I.O. RIGHTS CHALLENGED BY KNUDSEN

DETROIT, Jan. 16.—Forty-eight hours before first collective bargaining efforts were to be made, General Motors challenged the Committee for Industrial Organization on the latter's demand for "exclusive" bargaining rights.

General Motors made public an exchange of telegrams between William Knudsen, vice president of the corporation and George Boyesen, head of the Flint alliance in which he pledged:

"General Motors will never tolerate the domination of its employees by a small minority."

Meanwhile Homer Martin, president of the Automobile Workers, led a parade of 42 singing strikers from the Fleetwood Body Plant and 500 from the Cadillac plant as part of his pledge to evacuate all sit-downers before opening negotiations Monday.

One banner read, "Today G-M, Tomorrow Ford," a reflection of the union's hope that the U. A. W. will be able, next to penetrate the Ford Motor Company, which for years has resisted unionization.

One of the chief threats to peaceful settlement of the strike was removed today when a Flint prosecutor withdrew 300 warrants charging kidnaping against members of U. A. W.

National Guards still occupied Flint and some will remain until strikers march out of Fisher Body Plants No. 1 and 2 Sunday. Half of them had been ordered demobilized, but the order was cancelled abruptly Friday night.

'Rats' Practice Mass Suicide; Must Men?

There exists in the wilds of Norway a tiny, rat-like animal called the lemming, which goes haywire by platoons and battalions every so often and rushes off for an experiment in mass suicide.

Dr. Raymond Pearl, Johns Hopkins University's famous biologist, suggests that the lemming is not, after all, so very much different from modern man.

The lemming enjoys periodic spurts of prosperity. Boom times come bringing an abundance of clover seeds, or bumblebees, or whatever it is that lemmings feed on, and the numbers of lemmings increase tremendously. Then, just when everything seems to be going fine, something gets into the heads of these tiny rodents and they all start traveling across country.

They don't seem to know where they are going or why they are going there, but they leg it like good fellows—and by and by they come to the ocean. It doesn't stop them. In they go, to drown by the thousands, leaving only a few survivors back home to repeat the whole process a few years later.

Now all this, says Dr. Pearl, is a striking and unflattering parallel to the behavior of modern human beings.

About 300 years ago the human race suddenly started to increase at an unprecedented rate. Altogether, it multiplied its numbers by five during the three succeeding centuries.

Today it is exhibiting the restlessness and confusion that the lemmings show when they are ready to set out on one of their cross-country hikes.

And if there is no all-engulfing ocean ahead of the human race, there is something just as effective—war.

A new war, Dr. Pearl tells the American Association for the Advancement of Science, would do to the human race just what the plunge into the ocean does for the lemmings. The World War of 1914 was bad enough, and a World War of 1937 or 1938 certainly would be a great deal worse.

By violence, by famine, and by plague the human race would reduce its numbers just about as effectively—and just about as senselessly—as the lemmings periodically reduce their.

We hardly need a man of Dr. Pearl's brilliance to tell us that human beings ought to be able to order their affairs a little more intelligently than do the rats of Norway.

If the progress of the last three centuries has been nothing more than a build-up for a painful experiment in mass suicide, then modern progress is a sham and the race has learned nothing worth knowing since the Stone Age.

"The present-day struggle to avert war is more than an effort to prevent misery and loss. It is nothing less than a fight to save civilization itself.

"If it fails, the race will stand convicted of being no brighter than the northland lemming, which climax years of prosperity by joining hands and rushing down a steep place into the sea.

in the best methods of performing their duties.

The first class discussion aroused sharp criticism of women who employ maids.

Complaints included: No rest period is allowed, one girl being expected to be on 24-hour duty in some homes. On Sunday mornings breakfast must be ready at any time between sun-up and 2 p. m.

Employers evidently have no idea what equipment is needed in the kitchen. The maids said they should have up-to-date equipment, at least four uniforms in which to work and—free cosmetics to aid them in looking their best.

Furthermore, they pointed out that although Thursday night may be the traditional "maid's night out," and a holiday for the servants, when they come back to work the next day the sink is piled high with dishes and no one has cleaned the house.

Many mothers give the children sanction to "mess up" the kitchen at any time, further adding to the headaches of the maid.

Women are finicky about food, but usually decide what they want for dinner after they return from an afternoon of bridge—15 minutes before meal time.

The maids suggested that classes also be conducted for employers, to teach them the problems of their own households.

They suggested that a standard wage scale would make household work as lucrative as working in stores, thus giving houseworkers an incentive to improve their places and their service.

Many Crashes Due To Monoxide Gas

By United Press
LONDON—Mystery road accidents—the increasing number of deaths caused by drivers who suddenly faint at the wheel or lose control through drowsiness—are caused by poison gas.

This is the theory advanced by a British specialist in an appeal to the Ministry of Transport for an immediate inquiry into the menace of carbon monoxide.

"Carbon monoxide," he declares, "does not actually kill people by asphyxiation while they are driving. It is the drug effect of this gas-producing sleepiness and in alertness—which is the greater danger to drivers.

"Unbelievably small concentration inside a car, breathed for an hour or two, can produce sleepiness, headache, and impaired judgment, but the driver will not be fully aware of his condition.

"One car in every 20, including trucks, contains dangerous quantities of carbon monoxide, in the driver's cabin. At this time of the year, when car windows are kept closed, the danger from carbon monoxide naturally increases."

Describing how motorists could guard against poisoning, he said: "A short pause for exercise in fresh air will replace the carbon monoxide you have inhaled with oxygen, and the relief from muscular and mental tension will make you a safer driver."

The original sitdown strike was staged by the wallflower who decided to take a personality course.

Finance Commissioner of the City of Ranger, who has announced he will be a candidate for re-election in the city election to be held in April. Judge Flewellen was elected to the commission upon the resignation of Walter Harwell.

L. H. Flewellen, finance and fire commissioner of Ranger, who was elected to fill the place vacated by Walter Harwell, has announced his candidacy for re-election with the following statement:

To the Citizens of Ranger: I hereby announce as a candidate to succeed myself as your Finance and Fire Commissioner on the City Commission.

Having served in said capacity since Dec. 4, 1935, succeeding Walter Harwell, who resigned, I am now familiar with the city's affairs to the extent that I can render more efficient service in the future than in the past. I have endeavored at all times to render efficient service. I will continue in this endeavor if re-elected.

Our City's finances are in excellent condition and we have had fewer fires in the past year. These results have been accomplished in part, at least, by planning and acting.

I am particularly concerned

When a vicious disease threatens, or a hospital out holds feverish stricken being, from this box come little vials that bring new life and hope. Many a person in Ranger owes his life to this guardian of health. Surely it deserves to be called "the ice box that's a life box."

Colonel Brashier Seeks Re-Election To Commission

Col. Brashier, who for the past four years has been street commissioner of the City of Ranger, has been prevailed upon by his friends in Ranger, who are cognizant of the good work that he has done while in office, to run again for the commission.

During the time he has been in office it has been necessary to make every effort to supply labor to as many men as possible, and at the same time to do as much work as possible on the Ranger streets with the limited funds with which he has been forced to work.

With our bonded indebtedness, same must be refinanced at the proper time in line with our ability to pay.

Tax relief has been effected in many instances. I favor granting such relief in all cases entitled thereto.

Much Federal money has been spent in Ranger for labor and street improvements. This resulted from co-operation and the spending of a much smaller sum of City money for those worthwhile purposes. Many others in our City have received aid in like manner.

While I am the Finance and Fire Commissioner, and also have the supervision of Evergreen Cemetery, I am no less interested in all departments of our city and their continued betterment.

I favor continued support of our Board of City Development. It is a necessary institution, and has done much for Ranger.

I am for the welfare and co-operation of all our citizens, to the end Ranger shall continue to be the best city of its size in this part of Texas.

Candidate for Finance and Fire Commissioner.

Announcement has been made by Col. Brashier, Street Commissioner of the City of Ranger, that he will be a candidate for re-election in the city election to be held next April. During his term of office Brashier has put through many street improvements in the city.

More than 10 miles of streets have been built or resurfaced in Ranger during his term of office, and a number of substantial bridges have been constructed, while drainage problems have been corrected.

The government requires, under the PWA projects, that the cities sponsoring street improvement projects must furnish 30 per cent of the cost of the projects, which throws a terrific burden upon the city when a program as large as that recently completed in Ranger is undertaken.

A few years ago there were a number of streets in Ranger which were practically impassible, especially during or immediately after heavy rains. Today these streets are good, substantial, all-weather streets over which traffic flows in all kinds of weather. This change has helped to furnish a large amount of labor to the unemployed men and has furnished an easy outlet to almost every section of the city.

The equipment of the street department, which was in a badly worn condition when Brashier took office, and which was costly to maintain because of its condition, has all been replaced with newer, more efficient and more economical equipment, which has been paying for itself through the savings that have been possible since it was installed, in addition to furnishing the street department with equipment with which it can do excellent work on the city's streets.

Col. Brashier is thoroughly familiar with the many problems with which the city commission is faced, and has secured the wholehearted cooperation of the remainder of the commission on all his projects. He is in sympathy with the taxpayers and is keenly interested in aiding them and in maintaining an efficient city government as is humanly possible under the existing conditions.

In family portraits German artists, by order, heretofore must draw at least four children. The trend in Canada would be to panorama.

E. H. Mills to Be Candidate In City Election In April

E. H. Mills, who has been water commissioner for the City of Ranger for the past three years has announced his candidacy for re-election to the position on the commission. It was due largely to the insistence of many of his friends in Ranger that he continue the good work he has done in the water department of the city that he has decided to again be a candidate.

The audit reports of the City's books show that much improvement has been made in the financial condition of the water department since Mills took charge of the department.

The audit as of April 30, 1936 shows that for the year ending on that date, which was when Mills went into office, the department operated at a net loss of $7,688.43, while the audit report for the fiscal year ending April 30, 1936, shows the department had a net profit of $8,932.98. This total is an increase of $16,621.41.

During the time Mills was in office there were fewer meters in operation in Ranger than at any previous time, the books of the water department reveal.

This saving, therefore, was made possible by a reduction in the cost of operation, elimination of unnecessary waste, elimination of losses and a general application of accepted business principles in the operation of the entire department.

Line losses have been reduced

E. H. MILLS

E. H. Mills, water commissioner of the City of Ranger, who has announced his candidacy for re-election to the position. During his regime Mills has taken a department that showed a loss of $7,688.43 in 1933 and has made a net profit from the department for 1936 of $8,932.98.

25 to 30 per cent and the loss from bad accounts has been reduced by 75 per cent during Mills' administration. This reduction in loss from bad accounts was due to a policy of equal and fair treatment to all, requiring all to pay their water bills when they fall due.

Mills favors a re-adjustment of values for tax purposes on both business and residential property. The water commissioner is thoroughly familiar with the needs and problems of the city, having kept in touch with all departments of the city government, and has given his assistance in every problem with which the city has been faced. He has always had time to listen to every individual who has approached him on any business in connection with the operation of the city's business.

The mayor and the other members of the City Commission have given Mills a free hand in the operation of the city water department, but have been working with him and lending him all the assistance possible during his three years in office.

Sig Faircloth, owner and manager of Sig's Nu-Way Store, was highly pleased, Saturday, with the results of the advertisement he ran in the Times on Friday and the Eastland County News the same day.

"I don't know what there was about the advertisement I had in the paper this week," Faircloth said Saturday, "but it surely is getting the job done in a big way. I have seen more new customers in the store today than I have seen on any Saturday in the past eight or ten months."

Dr. Logsdon Will Run For Mayor In Election In April

Dr. Harry A. Logsdon, Mayor of Ranger, has announced his candidacy for re-election in the city election to be held next April, after a number of his friends had urged him to run for one more term in order that the good work that has been accomplished under his guidance could be continued.

Dr. Logsdon first served two years as a commissioner before being elected mayor, being elected as head of the city commission upon the retirement of John Thurman.

When Dr. Logsdon went into office as mayor all salaries and most of the bills of the city were being paid in script, but when he was elected one of the first accomplishments of the commission was to put the city on a cash basis, paying cash for everything that has been bought and paying all salaries in cash.

During his term of office as mayor many objectives have been accomplished, many of which were considered almost impossible. Among these could be listed, in addition to meeting all payrolls promptly and in cash, the meeting of all sinking fund requirements as they fall due.

Newer and more modern equipment for the city has been purchased and paid for and much has been done in aiding the Federal Government in furnishing labor for the unemployed at Ranger.

Audit reports of the city reveal that the city is in a better financial condition than it has been at any time in the past 19 years. All these are accomplishments that any mayor of any Texas city would feel proud, and it is the record upon which Dr. Logsdon is basing his candidacy.

With a full understanding of the problems with which the city is now faced and which need completion, he is asking re-election on the basis of his past service to the city and to every citizen of the town.

Philco Dealer Sees Sales Set Records

The most successful year in its history was reported today by J. F. Killingsworth, local Philco distributor, as the Company closed its books for 1936.

"The past year was outstanding in several ways," Killingsworth said. "Our total volume of business for the 12 months broke all records, our Christmas business was the heaviest in our history and the last half year saw the average unit of sale climb steadily until today it stands at the highest level of which we have any record."

"This means," he explained, "that there is more money and more confidence. People are beginning to pay a little more for merchandise in order to get the best. We first noticed this trend a half year ago, but the time when Philco introduced automatic tuning, which gives a hair-line tuning precision by a mere twist of a dial.

"Naturally, the cost of such sets was higher than the regular line, but so great was the demand for them that our entire sales figures were swept to the highest level. Reports from every section of the country reveal that other dealers had the same experience."

The coming year, Killingsworth said, has "enormous possibilities."

"Rising curves in business graphs greet us on every hand and they mean only one thing—more business," Killingsworth pointed out.

"But most significant of all, far as the coming year is concerned," he said, "is the sharp revival of basic industry. For years basic industry has been lagging behind the recovery procession. But no more. Basic industry is catching up fast and carrying the entire business structure with it to new heights.

Q. Has Camp Colorado been restored? H.L.J.

A. No, but a replica has been built at Coleman by the city of Coleman and the Centennial Commission, increased by Federal Centennial fund, and it will be used as a museum. The site of the fort of that name was in Coleman county from 1856 to 1861.

Q. Did any other Texas town than Buffalo, Leon county, ever have that name? E.T.R.

A. Senator John H. Reagan founded the town of Buffalo in the present limits of Henderson county in 1847 and with the exception of a short time when the courts were held at Centerville, it was the county seat of that county until October, 1850, when Athens became the county seat. Old Buffalo was on a high bluff on the east bank of the Trinity river and once had great hopes of river navigation and of becoming an important city.

Q. Who were the Throckmortons? Wasn't he a governor of Texas? A. D.

NEW YORK—Horace Stoneham not only aided the position of the New York Giants by purchasing the Albany club, but his transfer of the franchise to Jersey City materially strengthens the International League. The stability of Class AA and other minor baseball circuits has been an acutely serious problem. It wasn't until it looked like all of the little fellows would bow out in a body that the big show came to the rescue.

International League franchises have been juggled around in recent years in hopes of bolstering the backs office. Jersey City was dropped because it was without owners who would build a satisfactory park.

This despite the fact that one of the more ancient and traditional of all baseball rivalries existed between the neighboring cities of Jersey City and Newark.

Jersey City long was one of the nation's best minor league cities despite the fact that it hasn't even snatched a pennant since the late Charles Murray led the Skeeters to the flag with a record 736 percentage way back in 1903.

BILL TERRY, named the successor of the illustrious John J. McGraw by Charles A. Stoneham, has been against the chain store idea, but then, Memphis Bill never subscribed to any idea that didn't benefit himself.

Terry is through as an active combatant, or nearly so, and Stoneham is looking to the future. The appointment of the personable Travis (Stoney) Jackson as manager of the Jersey City club may be significant.

Stoneham would like a few more connections and friendships than Terry will have when the none too popular first baseman and manager bows out.

... and he was like a beacon and a symbol to millions of this earth's tired people. He was real and his throne was real.

"I didn't exchange it for anything, strictly speaking. But if you must make a bargain out of it, let's say I exchanged it for— for life, for freedom, for the chance to— to realize whatever potentialities I have for living."

"Himm. And all of this is life, freedom and the chance to realize your God-given potentialities?"

Paul colored. His old tutor could always make him feel like a stammering schoolboy who had scamped his lessons.

"That isn't fair, either, Doctor," he said. "You take one night at a frivolous night resort and make it stand for a whole career."

Dr. Sonders shook his head and thrust his goatee forward aggressively.

"Paul, Paul, it isn't just one night. I read the papers, my boy."

"SURELY. You don't suppose that the people of Northumbria are left in ignorance of the way in which you are spending your time, do you? They get all the details—including, doubtless, some that are quite imaginary."

But unless there is a great deal more of imagination in these accounts than I have ever known our newspapers to be guilty of, this night is a pretty fair sample, after all.

"I don't mean," he went on, raising a hand as Paul opened his lips to protest, "I don't mean that there's anything so terribly bad or abandoned about this crowd here tonight. There's no harm in them . . . not in most of them, anyhow. But Paul, Paul—I do hate to see pearls cast before swine."

"Meaning—?"

The doctor stroked his goatee and looked out over the bay at the lights of the cruise ship.

"Paul, I had a king. He was a fine young man, tall and handsome as a king should be, and he had a keen mind and a warm heart and his soul was clean. He sat in a high place and he was like a beacon and a symbol to millions of this earth's tired people."

"To these millions, Paul, that king was not an abstraction, and the throne he sat on was not merely a convenient figment of government. He was real and his throne was real, and together they meant much."

The doctor paused and stopped stroking his goatee. His eyes looked out from the wrinkles that the burning sun of the tropics had put about them, and they looked old and tired.

"I had a king, Paul, and he deserted me," he went on at last. "He left me because, as king, he might not marry the woman he loved. No, don't interrupt me, Paul. I know that the traditions, the prejudices and the laws which kept the empire of Northumbria from admitting an actress to its throne as queen are narrow and stupid. It was not fair or just at all. But a king is a king to stand unfirm and unflinching—yes, and loneliness and doubt and unhappiness too, if need be."

Again he paused.

"That part is as it may be," he said at last. "The decision was

Chiffonade Salad (4 to 6 servings)

Mixed greens, 3-4 cup French dressing, 1-4 teaspoon onion juice, 1 hard-cooked egg (chopped), 2 tablespoons minced beets, 2 teaspoons minced parsley.

Rub salad bowl lightly with garlic. Wash and dry and chill a combination of romaine, water-cress, endive, escarole and lettuce. Toss in bowl. Add egg, onion juice, and all the other ingredients and pour on French dressing. Toss lightly until dressing has wrapped its blessing about all the greens. Do not mix until just before serving.

Stuffed Beet Salad (6 servings)

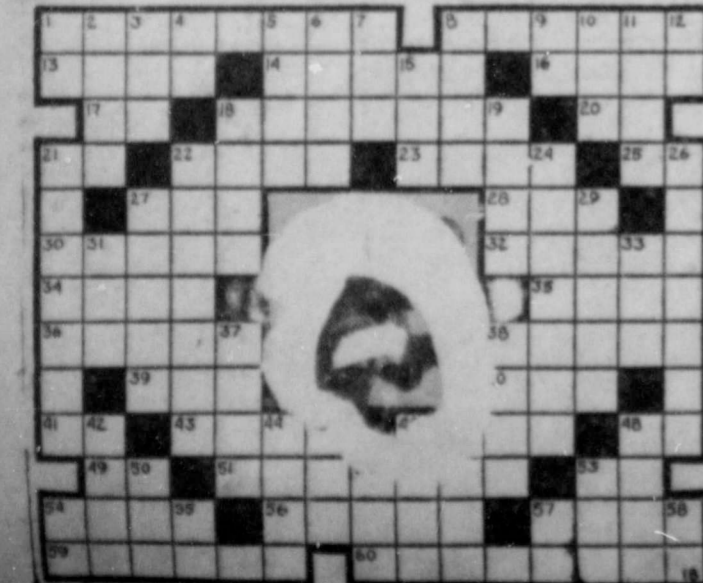

Six perfect beets, 2 hard-cooked eggs, 1 green pepper, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, lettuce. Cook beets. Cool and peel. Scoop out large pocket in center of each beet. Chop pepper, hard-cooked egg and scooped-out part of beet. Moisten with mayonnaise to which a little cayenne pepper has been added. Arrange each beet on bed of crisp lettuce and dot with mayonnaise.

The least hint of garlic in almost all salads makes a strong appeal for favor. Place a clove of garlic in your jar of French dressing. It will add excellence such as French chefs insist on.
