PHILIPPINE CAMPAIGN.

Situation in the Island of Panay During March.

A CHANCE FOR NATIVE ALLIES.

Services of the Macabebes to Subdue the Rebellion Offered to President McKinley - Activity of Mohammedans in Mindanao - Our Soldiers' Short Supply of Home News.

The Manila correspondent of the New York Post writing under date of March 4 about the Philippine campaign says: "Everything is at a standstill in the island of Panay, outside Iloilo. The rebels are still entrenched across the road from Iloilo to Pavia. In the Santa Barbara district there is firing every night, much the same as around Manila. The situation proves what was said when the Iloilo expedition was sent, that it would not be strong enough to more than hold the city and its immediate vicinity. Troops for this purpose were sent away, when they could not be spared if offensive operations around Manila were to be continued, and they arrived just at the time when the Iloilo rebels had received news from their northern brethren of what they call great victories over the Americans. However, the situation at Manila. The result was the burning of that city and the retirement of the rebels just far enough into the country to keep the city practically under siege, thus reducing the situation at Manila. Were all the force and energies of the army concentrated upon the task of completely breaking up the Malolos government, in all probability, when this was accomplished, the rebels of Panay would recognize the hopelessness of resistance and submit. If not a sufficient force might then be sent to subdue them. As it is, we have Iloilo burned, Manila partly burned, and two armies paralyzed because of insufficient numbers. News from Cebu is to the effect that the inhabitants of the city favor the Americans, because they are anxious to have the city preserved from the fate of Iloilo, while the natives in the country want to resist the Americans. However, food supplies are short, and that may have an important influence in preventing a conflict.

through the rough hand of war or by the more gentle and tardy hand of diplomacy. A holy war embraces the Americans as well as the Spanish though in the eyes of the latter and their Filipino coreligionists we are heretics and infidels and destined to supply eternal annuities to the devil. The fighting this morning took a somewhat serious turn in front of General Anderson's division. Just at daylight two caissons loaded with insurgents were observed crossing the Pasig above San Pedro Macati, to re-enforce the line south of the river. The gunboat was sent after them and made great slaughter among them as they succeeded in landing. This led to firing along the whole front of the line, during which General Anderson took the opportunity to advance a part of his right to give another exhibition of their inferior exhibition of military principles, the same morning the insurgents holding Malaban ran a belidpiece out upon the beach in front of the town and began firing at the Helena, lying off the city about half a mile. The gunboat immediately steamed in close and opened up her rapid fire guns, and in less than five minutes there were left only a pile of dead bodies and some pieces of wood and iron. She then threw some shells into the town, which soon caught fire, and a large part of the place was burned. This move was on a par with many that have been made by the insurgents, such as the throwing of a body of troops in the rear of our lines to aid the burning of the city. Nothing but the burning of the city. Nothing but the burning of the city. Nothing but the burning of the city.

anchor in Manila bay. Admiral Dewey raised his four starred flag to the masthead of the Olympia and it was greeted by a salute of 17 guns from every warship in the harbor, foreign and American, and by the saluting battery in Fort Santiago on the city walls. Congratulatory visits were paid the flag ship during the day and in the evening Admiral Dewey held a reception. The saluting was like the thundering of a great battle and at first, caused a little excitement in the city. This is the first time a full admiral's flag has been raised in Pacific waters, and it will be a long time before a full admiral's flag will be seen in these waters again after Dewey returns home.

There is one thing the army suffers from which is extremely aggravating and that is the lack of telegraph news from home. For a full month the men have been fighting, and yet not even an inkling of what the people at home think of the matter has reached the troops, except one or two telegrams of congratulation. They would like to know whether the people are backing the army up or whether the fact that we are compelled to fight the natives has strengthened the sentiment against holding the islands. They would also like to know the fate of the army and the probable policy of the administration in the matter of sending the volunteers home. Not that the latter are so anxious to go home as they were. They are having a little fun now and are willing to remain awhile longer to enjoy it, but when that is over they will clamor to go home as loudly as ever. Yet, if the army bill failed to pass, they expect, for the most part, to be kept here a year longer, recognizing, as they do, the fact that an army of 30,000 men is the least that can be left here with safety, so far from re-enforcements, for several years to come.

On the Morgan City came 83 ladies, chiefly wives of officers, both regular and volunteer, who have already begun to see the wisdom of women remaining at home in time of war. General Otis has refused them permission to land, on the double ground that it requires too many soldiers to guard those American ladies already here, and that the presence of their wives in the city has a tendency to make officers disaffected in the trenches and constantly seek an excuse for going to the rear. Now that war conditions prevail, the general has no time to encourage picnics. As the Morgan City has been ordered home on the 11th, the ladies will have to return on her or find other quarters, unless the general relents. Hongkong is the regular city of refuge for those ex-patriated from Manila, and doubtless many of these superabundant ladies will go over there until conditions improve in Manila.

The last of the Christmas boxes arrived on the Morgan City, the Nebraska and Colorado receiving the greater number. Those containing apples were much the worse for their long delay.

PRaises His Men.

Major General Lee Landis Soldiers Under Him During the War.

Havana April 17.—The last general order issued by Major General Fitz-Hugh Lee to his command, the Seventh army corps, is, in part, as follows: "An order has been received which moves the last regiment of the Seventh army corps across the sea to be mustered out of the service of the United States, and the ranks of its organization will be forever broken. The record made by the officers and men, however, will be forever preserved in the pages of the military history in which their country will inscribe their deeds. No troops have won a greater reputation for discipline, drill, manly discharge of duty, soldierly conduct and cheerful obedience to all orders.

"The president's assurance that had war with Spain continued the Seventh army corps would have been selected to lead the assault on the Havana lines proves that the corps possessed the confidence of the commander-in-chief of the army and navy, a confidence shared by his fellow countrymen.

"It is gratifying in reviewing the career of the corps to remember the harmony which has existed among the 60,000 soldiers who answered the rollcall at Tampa, Jacksonville, Savannah and Cuba, whether it were the volunteers who afterwards, at various times, broke ranks and resumed the duties of citizenship, or the regulars whose standards, still flying, are now the advance sentinels of American progress and civilization. The soldiers of the north and south took the sunshine and storm of camp together and marched side by side under one flag, in one cause and for one country."

Chicago Going Ahead.

The cruiser will pass through the Suez canal down the eastern coast of Africa to Johannesburg and Cape Town. A stop will be made at St. Helena. It is expected that the Chicago will return next October.

Second Louisiana Mustered Out.

Savannah, April 18.—The Second Louisiana regiment, Colonel Wood, was mustered out. A number of enlisted men of the regiment called upon Gen. W. W. Gordon, who was in command of the brigade in which the Louisiana regiment was included in its stay at Miami, Fla. A number of presents were carried to General and Mrs. Gordon as a token of esteem in which they were held.

The Wilmington Welcomed.

New York, April 18.—A dispatch to The Herald from Panama says the United States cruiser Wilmington arrived there.

Insurgents have sacked the chief towns of other islands, probably believing that their time for work of this kind is short. Cullion, Bacuit and Taytay have suffered in this way. Reports from Mindanao are to the effect that Mohammedan fanatics are stirring up the tribes by preaching a holy war. When General Rice evacuated Iloilo, he took his handful of troops to Zamboanga, a well fortified military post in the eastern part of Mindanao, where they still remain, awaiting transportation to Spain. The Spaniards never have subdued the many tribes of that island, and have practically exerted authority only over the immediate region surrounding their fortified posts. This work of subjugation will have to be undertaken by the United States, either through the rough hand of war or by the more gentle and tardy hand of diplomacy. A holy war embraces the Americans as well as the Spanish though in the eyes of the latter and their Filipino coreligionists we are heretics and infidels and destined to supply eternal annuities to the devil.
