Two Billion Years As Age of Earth Latest Reckoning

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—Taking measurements with a new "yardstick" created by recently-discovered radio-active substances, Kirtley F. Mather, Harvard geology professor, estimates that the earth is about 2,000,000,000 years old.
"Although for more than a century geologists have possessed a very satisfactory technique for determining the relative age of various events in the history of the earth," he says, "it is only within the last few years that they have had a satisfactory method of measuring the lapse of time."
He said the oldest minerals, the age of which is known, are about 1,800,000,000 years old, and many specimens indicate ages greater than 600,000 years.

As Men of Steel Made Peace—and History

CARNEGIE-ILLINOIS STEEL CORPORATION,
By B. F. Fairless
President.

STEEL WORKERS ORGANIZING COMMITTEE,
By Philip Murray
Secretary-Treasurer

David J. McDonald
Director, Western Region

Clinton S. Golden
Director, Northeastern Region

Lee Pressman
General Counsel

Dramatic evidence of the pact which broke U. S. Steel's 50-year solid front against "outside" unions is provided in the signatures, right, of Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation and C. I. O. representatives to their one-year contract. Practical effect of the agreement is suggested by the smiling ex-change of congratulations between William Garrity, at left without tie, of Bradock, Pa., Carnegie-Illinois electrician and father of 10 children, and Philip Murray, chairman of the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee. Signers of the contract are B. F. Fairless for the steel firm; Murray, David J. McDonald, Clinton S. Golden, Van A. Bittner and Lee Pressman for the S. W. O. C.

thing "Did you know?" things about Africa. The first lesson from the new study book, "Out of Africa," was then led by the study superintendent, Mrs. W. C. Bedford, who gave a sketch of the author and then conducted a round table discussion of physical features of Africa. A large map of Africa was used in showing the locations of missions. Miss Mollie O'Rear and Mrs. W. H. Whitworth reviewed articles from World Outlook. Those present were Miss Mollie O'Rear and Misses Lee, Bragg, Sparks, McDonald, Snodgrass, Whitworth and Bedford.

J. Hall Chambliss, traveling salesman from Cisco, was here on business Monday afternoon. He also visited with some old friends whom he had not seen for a long time. The Baptist Missionary union met Monday afternoon at the church with a good number in attendance. Mrs. R. A. Brown presided over the meeting and led the program. On account of illness among the members and the extreme weather of the past two months, several meetings were not held.

Work on the new Methodist church is progressing nicely, as the foundation is almost completed. The old church has been torn down and the lumber from it and from the rural church building that was torn down last week make piles of material that look as if there would not much have to be bought. When finished it will be quite attractive. During the time that it is being built, services are being held at the old Masonic hall. The contractors are from DeLeon, and they state that the building will be complete before the last of April.

County Agent Elmo V. Cook of Eastland was here Friday morning and addressed a good crowd of farmers gathered at the city hall. The subject of his address was soil conservation, and he explained the plans of the United States Government in regard to reduction of peanut acreage and the planting of peas and other crops to be used to enrich the soil and restore fertility.

Men Still Prefer Blondes As Brides Club Head Says

MINNEAPOLIS — Mrs. Nelle Zrooke Stull, president and founder of the national Widow and Widowers club, is in Minneapolis on what she calls a "manhunt."

She said she was looking for eligible husbands for two persons, "a friend in particular, one a wealthy Cleveland woman who can cook."

These mate-seeking women, according to Mrs. Stull, have expressed preference for "the chivalrous Scandinavians."

Mrs. Stull, a chubby little woman past 50, told about her success in bringing more than 850 couples before the altar during the last 17 years.

"I pick out logical mates from the information each sends me and then they arrange their own meetings," she said, "and the resulting marriages are invariably love matches because the participants, being in the mood for love, fall easily."

"Men," she said, "still prefer blondes. But what they really want is a girl who looks like a blonde, talks like a brunette and acts like a redhead. And the young men—oh, those boys—they want everything in a mate. They want good looks, health, a good figure, a job and money. Older men, on the other hand, want any woman who can satisfy their vanity by flattering and babying them.

"A meal ticket, excitement and a 'cave man' are the things that a young woman expects in a husband. All middle-aged women expect is moderate comfort and companionship," she asserted.

Mrs. Stull admitted that she was a staunch believer of love. She added, "women won't fall in love with men for their good qualities but merely because of the way a man puts their hand or kisses them good-night."

"The happiest marriages," she said, "are second marriages and the only real love comes in the second marriage. Earlier love is of the puppy variety."

And child marriages?

DESDEMONA

Miss Ruth Abel returned Saturday night from Coahoma, where she had been visiting friends the last three weeks.

A. J. Erwin of Roswell, N. M., was Sunday for a visit with his daughter, Mrs. Wiley Powers, and her husband and son, Jack. His daughter, Mrs. H. H. Pullig, came over from Gorman and spent Sunday with her father and sister.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Williams and children visited relatives in the Cool Hill community Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Truesdell, Elvin Truesdell and Mr. and Mrs. M. Hamill returned to their homes at Caddo Monday afternoon. They had been here three weeks while the gasoline plant, known as the Mid-Kansas, was being torn down.

Miss Delia Wall, teacher of public school music, was at her home on DeLeon last week on account of a severe attack of neuralgia.

Clarence Ragland had improved enough by Wednesday not to need the trained nurse, but his mother, Mrs. Ragland, Sr., had taken pneumonia and the nurse went over to take care of her. Mrs. Ragland was improving a little Monday but is still seriously ill.

Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Sloan of Stephenville was here Monday afternoon on business. Mrs. Sloan visited with friends while Mr. Sloan looked after his candy trade.

W. F. McDermott of Fort Worth was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. I. N. Williams on Tuesday of last week when he was here looking after his oil and gasoline business.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Everett of Ranger were visiting their sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bailey Stark on Wednesday. They brought Mrs. Stark and baby, Jane Anne, home from Olden where they had been for two days. Mr. Stark had gone with them to Olden on Tuesday and they had spent the day with his parents. Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Stark, and they also visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Everett. The many friends of Mrs. W. C. Stark will be sorry to know that she is still very ill. "Uncle" Bob Gregory, who has been seriously ill for a long time, is improving.

Style McEntire was able to be down town Sunday for the first time in two weeks.

The Methodist Missionary society met Monday afternoon at the parsonage, where all the meetings will be held during the time the new church is being built. The opening song was "There is Power in the Blood," and prayer was offered by Mrs. O. D. McDonald.

The devotional was led by the president, Mrs. Charles Lee. Among the items of business attended to was the election of Mrs. Lee as delegate and Mrs. C. O. Bragg as alternate to the meeting of the conference of missionary societies to be held at Temple in April. A letter announcing the next zone meeting was read. The meeting is to be at Carbon the last of this month. Another letter that was read was from the superintendent of the Methodist children's home, stating that there was not a child available for the Desdemona society to furnish with clothes. Roll call responses were items begin-

Supreme Test
Faces Private Initiative

Harry Hopkins' warning that we shall probably have at least 4,000,000 people "normally unemployed" in even the best of good times is a sharp reminder that we can't expect rising business indices to solve all of our problems for us.

We might as well make up our minds, says Mr. Hopkins, that a good many people are "going to have to get their share of the national income by means of various types of government benefits."

Why? Because, he explains, we don't need all our man-power to produce the goods that we can consume; because there is always a certain number of people who just can't earn their own living, anyway; because people keep on living after they get too old to work.

If Mr. Hopkins is correct—and he ought to know what he is talking about, having had his nose up against the relief grindstone for a long time—we are going to have to accept the fact that the relief problem is a permanent responsibility.

This carries along with it some far-reaching implications about the functions of the national government.

A continuing responsibility like this one will inevitably be felt in the lap of the government. By accepting it, the government must automatically make itself responsible for the under-privileged as a group—not merely for the people who are actually on relief, but for all the low-wage people who will go on relief the moment the economic machines slips its gears a bit.

That is to say that the government will be expected to see to it that a square deal is provided for the people from whom the relief rolls are recruited—the sharecroppers, the tenant farmers, the casual and migratory workers, the unskilled laborers, and so on.

All of that adds up to quite a load of responsibility. No one can expect that the government will carry it indefinitely without demanding the power that goes with responsibility.

Now it is extremely unlikely that the average American wants to see his government given that power—for it would involve, among other things, the power to fix hours and wages in industry; and the power to regulate agriculture, both powers that returned to the dust when the NRA and the AAA died.

Yet that is the short thing we are facing if we sit back and resign ourselves to the continuing existence of a government-supported army of 4,000,000 unemployed.

Here, then, is the supreme challenge to private initiative. If it can absorb these unemployed, prove that consumption in a free land can keep pace with production, and, in short, solve the problem by abolishing it, we can forget about this talk of giving the government wider powers. If it can't, we are going to hear such talk in ever-increasing volume.

Sport Glances. . . . .By Grayson

THERE is a movement afoot for the return of the spit-ball. Former great pitchers, an executive and a couple of scouts suggest the spitball again be legalized so the old-time pitching duel will be something more than a rarity. It's not a concerted movement—not an organized campaign. It is just a series of coincidents that Walter Johnson and Big Ed Walsh, the old work horse of the White Sox; Eddie Collins, general manager of the Red Sox; Charley Barrett, the Cardinals' daddy of forgers; and Ray Cahill, who trails players for the Browns, each should express the opinion that the saliva ball should be permitted again. "The moguls made a mistake when they ruled out the spitball," asserts Barrett. "We scouts know more about this business than the magnates. We get out and see things. We see ball players and we sit in the stands and chat with the fans." As chief scout for the far-flung Cardinal system, Barrett gets around the country and should know more than anybody the seriousness of the scarcity of hurling talent and the trend toward lighter ball games. For years everything has been in favor of the batter—a lively ball that always is new, slippery and hard to handle. BILL DEWITT, vice president of the Browns, doubts that major league officials ever will pass legislation endorsing the spit-ball again. DeWitt points out that it is the other stuff the spitter encourages which will keep it out. The first cousins of the spitter include trick pitching such as the shine ball, use of emery, licerice, mud, coffee and other foreign substances.

Half Acre Garden Will Produce $100 In Food Annually

COLLEGE STATION.—"One-half acre of garden, properly cared for, will produce an average of $100 worth of food for the family." This statement was made by J. F. Rosborough, Extension horticulturist, who pointed out that year in and year out, the garden could be the most profitable area on the average farm.

For each member of the family, 600 feet of row space should be allowed, Rosborough said. To supply a balanced vegetable diet, this 600 feet of space should be divided into 200 feet devoted to potatoes; 100 feet to yellow and leafy vegetables, such as mustard, cabbage, and carrots; 100 feet to tomatoes, and 200 feet to such miscellaneous vegetables as onions, beets, and turnips. Over a large portion of the State, the time is at hand to plant Irish potatoes, according to Rosborough, who recommends the Triumph and Irish Cobbler varieties. Cabbage and onion plants should be set out, and tomato plants started now. For deep soil, Texas, where most tomatoes have already been planted, Rosborough indicated that the Bonnie Best tomato was a good all-around variety, while for the rest of the State and East Texas, he preferred the Marglobe. He favored the Earliana, June Pink, or Earliana or June Pink for Texas. English peas should be planted in rows that have been laid off inches apart with 24 to 30 inches between rows. By this method, peas will tend to support each other in their upward growth, but Rosborough pointed out.

Texas Accidents Are Tabulated by Safety Department

AUSTIN, Texas -- Principal causes of Texas' traffic accidents in 1936 and a summary of the resulting casualties was issued recently by the Drivers' License division of the Department of Public Safety.

Of 1,885 persons killed in 1936 traffic accidents, 194 were school children. Measuring the miles traveled by gasoline consumption, the record shows that while 19 persons were killed in 1935 for every 10,000,000 (M) gallons of gasoline, the death rate had been reduced to 17.4 persons for the same consumption basis in 1936.

Other statistics included:

Computed on the basis of population:

1935--31.4 persons were killed for each 100,000 population.

1936--29.2 persons were killed for each 100,000 population.

In 1936 48 per cent of total killed were passengers, 30 per cent were drivers, and 22 per cent were pedestrians.

As to the location of accidents, 46 per cent were in cities and towns and 54 per cent were in rural areas.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON -- Oyez! Oyez! Oyez! (To use the language of the Supreme Court's official announcer as he ushers the nine justices to their seats.)

Three dates demand the attention of those who want to follow each new move in the battle of the century over Mr. Roosevelt's plan to pack, repack or unpack (the choice of words is yours) the Supreme Court:

1--March 9. This is the date set by President Roosevelt for the next of his "fireside talks" to the nation. While his subject has not been officially announced, the talk is pretty certain to be an appeal for his court reorganization plan, designed to loose a deluge of pressure on congressmen from constituents' "back home." There has scarcely been a comparable political move since Woodrow Wilson "took the League of Nations to the people." The events of this date may well affect those of the two dates immediately following.

2--March 10. This is the day the Senate Judiciary Committee begins its hearings on the administration bill. The lineup of witnesses isn't available yet, but it is practically certain Attorney General Homer S. Cummings will appear in support of the measure. Partisans of each camp are wondering how Cummings will try to defend his previous premises that the rich are favored over the poor, because of court congestion; that the congestion is due to the advanced ages of justices; that the Supreme Court's refusal to review most cases appealed to it represents a miscarriage of justice. The Judiciary Committee includes some bitter enemies of the Roosevelt scheme.

3--April 11. On this day, Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes becomes 75 years old. Hughes has written that "the risk of having judges who are unable properly to do their work, and yet insist on remaining on the bench, is too great to permit chances to be taken." He added that "a compulsory retirement at 75 could be more easily defended" than a retirement age of 70. Hughes might decide he should live up to this theory, or he might decide he has no right to quit at this time, while the court is under fire. Public attention probably will be called to those old statements of Hughes.

IN case you don't care to listen -- or in case you want to get your answers ready, the high spots of Roosevelt's March 9 address can be synopsized right now.

The President will declare the New Deal program calls for maximum hour and minimum wage legislation, collective bargaining, social security, unemployment relief, crop control and crop insurance, a federal housing program, flood prevention with co-ordinated river basin control similar to TVA, and a broad program for conservation of natural resources.

The country can take its choice, Roosevelt may be expected to say, between having those things this year or taking a chance on getting them some time in the next 10 years. The President will declare that those measures cannot be had without a change in the Supreme Court. He will say that he has asked the members of Congress to think up some other method of attaining their constitutional duty in the near future as members of Congress have been unable to produce.

That talk, as the land lays now, will be the trump card in the administration offensive.

HER NAME IN LIGHTS

you let me down. You know I always admired you tremendously because you always played so fair."

He didn't say anything. He poured himself a high ball and made much of getting exactly the right amount of soda. "Have one?"

"No, thank you," she answered to say the right thing.

"We all slip on those things sometimes," she pursued, "but there is something else. I used to be a little sorry that I wasn't the right complement for you."

"What do you mean?" he asked and put down his glass.

"Oh, Tuck, you're so... such a worldly person, so balanced, so... oh, you've the cosmopolitan manner." Words, she thought, "You're the kind of a man I thought should marry a girl who would be glamorous. A woman of the world. A woman who was always assured and, well, grown-up."

"You might make a good husband for Jennifer at that. She's frightfully extravagant, loves expensive clothes and servants just as much as you do." Daphne knew that sacrifice was not in Tuck's line. He loved his fine clothes, his expensive little apartment and Daphne knew that it took all his income to keep them up. She watched the dubious frown gather on his forehead.

"She'll be true to you, Tuck. She's that kind because she is jealous. She knows what she wants and what she wants, she gets! But once she has got it, it belongs to her. I admire her possessiveness and her go-gettiness, too."

Tuck drew in his breath. Daphne half-expected him to whistle. Instead he took a long swallow.

"As a matter of fact I wouldn't be a bit surprised if this eloping idea was entirely Jennifer's."

"It was," he said unexpectedly and Daphne hated him for it.

TUCK got up and picked up the suitcase. He took it into the bedroom. Daphne gave herself the luxury of a great sigh of relief and stifled her smile of triumph as he came back.

"Larry Smith is downstairs. Hurry up and get into your dinner jacket and we'll have a party. We'll go on with you wherever you are picking Jennifer up. Is it a go?"

Daphne didn't think that Tuck could look sheepish. He did now.

"Look," he said, "You don't understand, don't you? Jen is a lovely little thing and we... well, it seemed like a good idea."

"Of course it was," she said stoutly. "But I'm sure that you weren't getting the right break. You'd prefer that we announce the engagement, wouldn't you?"

He caught his under lip and avoided her eyes. "You've given me something to think about. I mean that age angle. You're always right, Daphne. Jennifer is only 18 and I'm 30. Let's talk it over some other time."

"All right," she said cheerfully. "You talk it over with Jennifer's. Now, hurry."

WHILE she waited and powdered her nose, she thought: Daphne, for a quiet, conservative girl you do rather manage to pack the exciting things into your life. Well, a little more lipstick might help me to meet the fireworks. Because, my girl, there will be fireworks when sister gets this news.

"Where is she?" she asked Tuck.

Tuck, arranging a dark red carnation in his lapel, wore the expression of a man who has been snatched from the edge of a burning pit.

"She's with the Bakers. They were going to El Matador. I'm picking her up there."

"Splendid. Larry and I had planned to go there."

"Darling, we'll be able to go to El Matador, after all," she said to Larry and gave him a warning squeeze of the wrist for silence, when they were three in the taxi.

Jennifer saw them before they saw her. She was seated at a table hidden by palms while they stood at the plush rope. And she knew as surely as though it had been told her, that somehow Daphne had learned about her plans and had spoiled them.

For the next two hours while they danced at El Matador and later at the Hi Jinks Club where they went to hear the songs of the latest French diva, Jennifer was gay. And so was Daphne. But when Daphne spoke to Jennifer, Jennifer did not answer.

At last, they were alone in their apartment.

Jennifer undressed silently, bathed and got into her bed. Before she turned off the light, she said, "Daphne, I warned you that if I ever fell in love and you interfered, you'd be sorry. You will be!"

Nu-Way Grocery Has Anniversary

Friends and neighbors are congratulating Mr. and Mrs. Sig Faircloth today on their second anniversary operating Sig's Nu-Way Grocery and Market.

Faircloth has been in the present location a year and has built up one of the nicest grocery businesses in Ranger.

In addition to celebrating their second anniversary the store is offering specials on grocery and meat items today and Saturday. Admiration Coffee will be served as will Browns Cake and Crackers.

WE are today celebrating our second anniversary in the grocery business at our present location. This store and its entire personnel want to thank each and everyone for the splendid patronage that it has been our privilege to enjoy. It has been a real pleasure to serve you and we have certainly enjoyed it. The store has grown from a small stock of merchandise to one of the largest in the city, and this has been made possible because of the confidence shown in us by our many patrons. It is our purpose and our desire to continue to give you the same courteous treatment in the future that we have tried to render in the past, and we will certainly appreciate your continued support so that we can give you the same standard merchandise at all times at the least cost. There are many specials on this page and it will be to your advantage to check each item before you make your week's grocery purchases.

Ranger Ministers Express Regret at Pastor's Resigning

The Ministerial alliance of Ranger has issued the following statement upon the resignation of Rev. George W. Thomas as pastor of the First Baptist church of Ranger and as president of the Ministerial alliance:

"On March 10th, Rev. G. W. Thomas resigned as president of the Ranger Ministerial alliance, and Rev. T. E. Bowman was elected to fill out the unexpired term of office. As Bro. Thomas is giving up the pastorate of the First Baptist church of Ranger, the secretary of the alliance was instructed to draft and to publish this expression of our love and devotion to our fellow-minister:

"We deeply regret that Rev. George W. Thomas is giving up the pastorate of the First Baptist church of Ranger, and resigning as president of our alliance. We hereby record our sincere appreciation of this man of God, as a man, as a minister, and as a fellow laborer in the religious activities of the community. His genial disposition and fine Christian spirit have endeared him to our entire community. His consistent stand for righteousness, at whatever cost to himself, and his strong affirmations for truth in every field, place him in front rank as Christian minister. His earnest, Biblical sermons, in their forceful presentation, will bear abundant fruitage in the years that are to come. His broad, fraternal Christian charity has been an inspiration to his co-laborers in the ministry, and makes us feel that a devoted Brother in Christ has been among us. Truly his place in our fair city will be hard to fill. Our earnest prayers and best wishes go with him to his new field of labor.

"THE MINISTERIAL ALLIANCE OF RANGER,
"By L. B. GRAY, Secretary."

Merchants to Plan A Cooking School Session for Men

Plans for the annual Happy Kitchen Chautauqua, conducted by the Ranger Daily Times, with the cooperation of the merchants of Ranger, are being rapidly completed, with a better cooking school than has been held before in prospect.

The electric refrigerator dealers, who have aided in the displays presented at the school, are to meet early next week, probably on Tuesday, in a luncheon meeting at which time plans for a night session for men is to be planned.

Cooking will not be taught at the men's session, but a good program is to be worked out which all the men will enjoy.

This night session was planned this year because there are so few of the men in town who have time from their duties to attend the afternoon sessions, and they do not fully realize just what the cooking school really means.

Further announcements concerning the session for men will be made after the meeting next week.

"ALL-BRAN SAVED ME FROM A LIFETIME OF SUFFERING"

"I had suffered from constipation for three years. My condition was becoming really serious, when I read of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN."
"I bought a package. Within two weeks, my bowels were regular, and I began to enjoy living again. It has saved me from a lifetime of suffering."—Mrs. Lloyd Baird, 384 S. Hancock St., Denver, Colo.

Try ALL-BRAN yourself. It corrects the common type of constipation. Within the body, it absorbs twice its weight in water, forms a soft mass, gently cleanses the system. Just eat two tablespoons daily. Three times daily in severe cases. As a cereal with milk or cream, or in recipes.

Isn't it better to eat this wholesome food than to take pills and drugs that may be harmful and often lose their effect? ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Made and guaranteed by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Through an error it was announced in the Times Thursday afternoon that the Band Mothers Club would serve lunches at the school after the meeting next week.

The announcement should read that the lunches would be served Saturday at noon, instead of Friday.

A plate lunch, with dessert and coffee will be served at a small cost, and the public and school teachers have been invited to take advantage of this opportunity to secure a good meal at a little cost. The money raised for the lunches will go toward making uniforms for the Band High School Band.
