TO NAME 50 TRUSTEES IN BALLOTINGS

At least 50 trustees will be selected Saturday, April 3, in 39 common school districts of the county, records of Superintendent C. S. Eldridge disclose.

Names of candidates should be filed with County Judge W. S. Adamson ten days before the election, he stated. Judge Adamson said he had received numerous requests for blanks for prospective candidates, but said there is no supply of applications for placement on the ballots and it is only necessary for the candidate to give him notice by letter.

Five qualified voters may have placed the name of any man in their district on the ballot, Judge Adamson also explained.

Following are the names of the trustees whose terms expire on the election date: Central No. 1-A, D. W. Seabourn; Lone Cedar No. 2-A, L. G. Powell; Union No. 2-B, Porter Wood; Flatwood No. 3, M. A. Justice; J. B. Caudle. Another also is to be chosen, making three places to be filled on the ballot.

Rumor Purvis, Model to Wed

When Janice Jarrett, Texas beauty, professional model and film actress who smiles from the upper photo, met Melvin Purvis at the Los Angeles airport recently on his return from a trip east, it revived rumors that the couple soon would march to the altar. The former ace G-Man is now a Los Angeles attorney.

EARHART IS IN HAWAII ON FLIGHT

HONOLULU, Mar. 18.—Amelia Earhart completed the first lap of her globe circling flight today when she brought her plane down on Wheeler field at 10.25 a. m. C. S. T.

She led an aerial parade across the Pacific which started late yesterday from Oakland, Calif.

Mrs. Putnam made the 2,410-mile flight in 15 hours, 47 minutes.

Cooper School to Present a Play at School on Friday

The Cooper School Dramatic Club will present a two-act play "Rescued by Radio" Friday night, March 19, at the Cooper School Auditorium.

Characters in the play will be as follows: Madge, the hostess—Mashia Williams; Janet, a guest at the house party—Irene Hill; Bob, her younger sister—Odella Manning; Helen, another guest—Ruth Dorsey; Lucia, a strange visitor—Doris Mathena; Kitty, a maid—Dorothy Ferris; Miss Price, a young nurse—Della Lee Curtis; Ray, Madge's brother—Alvin Johnson; Clem, a guest at the house party—Joe Don Meroney; Burt, another guest—Wayne Langie; Robin, another strange guest—Lowell Hunt; Kito, a Jap boy, Everett Weaver.

Delegates Return From State Meeting

Fred Witt, Odd Fellows delegate to the state convention of Odd Fellows and Rebekahs, and Mrs. Anna Mae Robinson, Rebekah delegate, have returned from the convention, which they report was a big success.

More than 2,000 were present at the convention, it was reported today.

Announcement was made upon their return that the State Secretary's Association, including secretaries of all branches, would meet in Ranger on Aug. 2, at which time a royal reception would be planned for them. An attendance of 1,500 is anticipated.

City Election Set For Tuesday, Apr. 6

S. J. Dean has been named presiding judge in the city election, to be held Tuesday, April 6, with H. D. Pounds and C. L. Moorman as his assistants.

Time for filing for city elections, according to past custom, is one week prior to the election, it was stated today by Roy Jameson, city secretary, in order to allow time for preparing, printing and delivering ballots to the election judges.

Group Will Select Jurors for Court

A commission appointed by Judge George L. Davenport will meet Monday at 9 a. m. in Eastland to select jurors for the April term of 81st district court. The term begins Monday, April 5.

80 Congressmen Favor One Plan

WASHINGTON, Mar. 18.—Representative William R. Thomas, Dem. Ohio, foe of President Roosevelt's court plan, said today that a poll of house democrats showed 80 members would support a proposal requiring a two-thirds supreme court majority to invalidate acts of congress.

Swastikas on Synagogue Rouse New York Jewry

Interpreted as a belated echo of the international uproar created by Mayor LaGuardia's attack on Adolf Hitler and the subsequent abuse heaped on America in the German press, eleven fiery orange Nazi swastikas like that being pointed out, were painted on a Jewish synagogue in New York City by unidentified vandals.

SCHEDULE OF EVENTS FOR COUNTY MEET IN RANGER IS COMPLETED

W. T. Walton, director general of the Eastland County Interscholastic League meet, which is to be held in Ranger Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 1, 2, and 3, today announced the schedule of events and the directors of the various divisions. Attention was called to the deadline for entries, which, according to the Interscholastic League rules, reads "entries shall be made 10 days before the date set for the meet." In calling attention to the deadline, Walton stated that because of trouble late entries caused for the directors of the various events, the director general has been requested not to accept any that are postmarked after March 29.

At the request of a majority of the 4 debate coaches, all debates will be held Saturday, April 3, in the Ranger high school building. The one-act play contest is to be held in the Eastland high school building Friday night, April 2, with an admission charge of 10 cents being made.

Rules governing the playground ball competition call for a 14-inch outseam ball, with three strikes being constituted an automatic out, regardless of whether or not the catcher catches the ball.

SLAYER OF TWO WOMEN IS WOUNDED

Sheriff A. T. McElroy reported today that J. W. Willford, 60, slayer of his wife, Mrs. Theresa Willford and his stepdaughter, Mrs. Lillie Guffner Tuesday night, was near death in San Antonio, after a suicide attempt.

The sheriff said San Antonio officers notified him today that Willford had shot himself in the right temple there on the night of the killings.

The man was charged with murder here yesterday.

Ranger Officer Is Thanked for Aid In Capturing Fugitive

Guy Pledger, Ranger patrolman, has received a letter from Under Sheriff B. G. Broadus of Ukiah, California, thanking him for his cooperation in capturing Reynold Peterson, wanted in California on several charges. The letter stated that Peterson had been sentenced March 1, and had been delivered to San Quentin Prison authorities on March 2.

Peterson was captured in Ranger after Pledger read his description and looked over his picture on a police notice from California after he escaped there on Dec. 17. After looking over the poster Pledger left the police station and saw Peterson across the street and made the arrest, all within a few minutes after the circular was received.

Eastland Health Record Is Good

Eastland's state of health is considered high by Dr. L. C. Brown, city health officer. He reported Thursday there is not a quarantined contagious disease case in town.

While not quarantainable, some cases of measles and mumps have been reported, said the doctor. Students who have those illnesses are not permitted to attend school.

Rep. Dies Charges Foreign Nations Seek U. S. Funds

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Rep. Martin Dies, Dem., Texas, charged before the house rules committee today that foreign nations are employing propaganda in the United States in an effort to tap American financial resources. He named Germany and Russia as two nations making such efforts.

"Most nations are seeking to build up large influential groups in this country because they feel that we have the purse strings of the world," Dies said.

Bring Your Pencil And Notebook to Cooking School

Bring your notebooks and pencils! It's the only way of preserving and benefiting from the many recipes and suggestions which will be given by Miss Jessie Hogue in the free Happy Kitchen Chautauqua.

Women attending the school will, of course, keep much that they hear in their memories. At the same time, when they desire a recipe for a particularly favored dish told about in the cooking school, the little notebook will yield a great deal of satisfaction for housewives.

The lecturer is a clear, distinct speaker, and every woman will be able to hear her sufficiently to take down every recipe which she will give.

Miss Hogue is especially anxious that women of her daily schools become acquainted with her personally after the lectures are over; asking her questions, and telling their personal household and cooking problems. She believes that she is capable of offering some practical bit of advice to wives and mothers on many of their individual worries.

All sessions of the Kitchen Chautauqua will be free. No admission will be charged as the cooking school is a compliment to the housewives of this city and vicinity by this newspaper.

Traffic Violation Will Draw Penalty

Police Chief W. J. Peters announced Thursday fines soon will be assessed for violation of speeding and stop laws in Eastland.

The department has for the past two weeks warned citizens to regard the signs, and some improvement, which is described as not sufficient, has been noted.

The chief said the penalty for not obeying the traffic laws will be $1.

He said the young drivers apparently regard traffic laws better than parents, as few have been warned of neglect in the campaign.

Chief Peters reminded that the speeding limit of 20 miles an hour in a city is not a local law, but is fixed by the state. City limit signs warning of the speed limitation are soon to be placed on the outskirts of Eastland.

GRANT PAY RAISES TO OIL LABOR

HOUSTON, Mar. 18.—In face of a threatened unionization campaign by John L. Lewis' committee for Industrial Organization in Texas oil fields, one oil company after another today announced wage increases.

Pay hikes averaged seven cents an hour for drillers, pipe line workers, refinery crews and other laborers. Several companies announced that salaries of white collar workers would be increased soon.

The pay hikes will total about $10,000,000 a year, company officials estimated.

The Gulf Oil Corporation announced a seven-cent an hour hike for field and refinery workers. The Magnolia Petroleum company and the Texas company followed.

GOVERNMENT IS POWERLESS IN STRIKE FIGHT

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Speaker William Bankhead said today he felt the federal government is "powerless" to intervene in the wave of sit down strikes at present.

Bankhead's statement was the latest in a series of administration congressional leaders who expressed apprehension concerning sit down strikes.

They came as federal efforts were underway to arrange a conference at Detroit of Walter P. Chrysler and John L. Lewis in an effort to end the Chrysler Automobile strike.

Bankhead said that he felt that federal power over sit down strikes could not be determined until the supreme court passed upon constitutionality of the National Labor Relations Act.

"I am most anxious for the supreme court to make its decision, because the act is the instrumentality set up by congress to render such decisions," Bankhead said.

School Children Are Lucky When Bull Breaks Loose

FORT WORTH, Mar. 18.—Hundreds of school children discussed today their miraculous escape yesterday when a wild Brahma bull broke loose at the afternoon rodeo performance at the Fat Stock Show.

The enraged animal bucked off Melvin Harper of Marfa during the steer riding event, reared toward one end of the arena where the school children were seated, and jumped the arena wall.

The bull smashed a gate and ran out of the coliseum. Officers cornered the animal and killed it with a volley of pistol shots.

Lou Gehrig Signs For $36,000 Salary. ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Mar. 18.—Lou Gehrig, New York Yankee first baseman holdout, today agreed to play this season for $36,000.

World Cannot Endure Modern War's Horror

When the Postoffice Department in its wisdom issued stamps commemorating the trans-Georgia march of Gen. William T. Sherman and his merry men, it seems to have started something.

The campaign of 1864 is being fought all over again. Divers southern legislators have protested in terms that would make the doughty old general revolve vigorously in his grave, if he could only hear them.

Remembering some of the things that happened on that wild march to the sea, it is hard for an outlander to blame the Georgians very much. General Sherman's way of making war was terrible, but it was because war itself had grown terrible.

It is rather important for us to realize this. Not because it makes much difference what we think of General Sherman, but because it makes a great deal of difference what we think of war.

For a good many generations war was conducted under what you might call tournament rules. Armies met and battled under an elaborate and formal code, as carefully documented as the rules for a football game.

The novelst Ford Madox Ford recently cited a quaint illustration. Some three or four centuries ago, when England and France were at war, the French sent a protest to the English about the way a certain British artilleryman was performing.

That was what war used to be; a formalized conflict between professional fighters that left ordinary folk pretty much undisturbed.

Within the last century or so, all that changed. Wars became contests between nations rather than between armies. It was discovered that you could win a war by tormenting the enemy's civilians until they would do anything to have the war ended.

Out of this grew the unspeakable horrors that are commonplace in modern warfare: the torpedoing of merchant ships, the bombing of defenseless cities, the starving of the civil populace by means of blockade, and so on.

The world could put up with the old kind of warfare. It can't put up with the new kind. The cost is too terrible. Which is why thoughtful men tell us that if civilization is to endure we must not have any more wars.

Leslie Howard says Luckies are "tops" with his throat

"Years ago, as an ambitious young actor, I was impressed how well my throat liked Luckies and how well they suited my idea of a perfect cigarette. That impression still stands. In my recent tour of 'Hamlet', with its many performances each week and the attendant tax on my throat, I have been convinced anew that this light smoke is both delightful to my taste and the 'top' cigarette for an actor's throat."

Leslie Howard

An independent survey was made recently among professional men and women—lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc. Of those who said they smoke cigarettes, more than 87% stated they personally prefer a light smoke.

Mr. Howard verifies the wisdom of this preference, and so do other leading artists of the radio, stage, screen and opera. Their voices are their fortunes. That's why so many of them smoke Luckies. Sport Glances... By Grayson

At heart we must be a most savage sort of people. You see, an authority on bowling was saying the other day that he thought the popularity of the game of bowls—and, you know, it's almost as popular as Roosevelt—is due to the fact that it gives release to the pent-up desire, which beats madly in our troubled bosoms, to wreck things and make noise.

THE releasing of desires under the auspices of the A. B. C. will proceed from March 10 until May 4. The 20,000-odd bowlers will compete for three different championships—the five-man team title, the two-man team and the singles.

It has cost this year's contestants—in entry fees alone, that is—some $217,000 to get back to nature and give their desire a parole. The prize money is $145,000. Maybe, after all, it is worthwhile.

HER NAME IN LIGHTS

By MARIE BLIZARD.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

DAPHNE BRETTS loved LARRY SMITH, architect. Larry had repeatedly asked her to marry him. Daphne had always refused, not telling Larry, however, that she first wanted to lay aside sufficient money to launch JENNIFER, her young sister, in career.

Jennifer had proved the selfish sister from the start. Dying Daphne at every turn. Finally Jennifer meets LORDON HEZBERG, theater producer, and apparently finds her work.

Then Daphne is sent on a two-month sales tour across the continent. Before she leaves, Larry again asks her to marry him, and again she refuses. So Larry says goodbye, assuming that Jennifer cares more for her career than she does for him. The trip proves successful, but the thought of losing Larry torments Daphne.

And when she returns she finds that Larry is now dating Jennifer!

that I'm an unpleasant girl. I'm cracking up because my sister stole my beau."

"Jennifer and Larry? But that's ridiculous. Why I've seen them together three or four times in the last month but I..." She realized she had said too much. "Was there some trouble between you, Daph?"

"Yes," Daphne drew on her gloves, "it was all my fault and Jennifer is beautiful so I guess I'd better get a grip on myself. Why shouldn't he fall for her?"

Anne pulled Daphne down on the bed beside her. "I'll tell you why, you little fool; because Jennifer isn't worth your little finger and because she is a... well, what kind of a girl is she who'd do a thing like this to her own sister? She knows that you were in love with Larry. You ought to teach her a lesson for her own good."

Teach Jennifer a lesson for her own good!

FOR Jennifer's good. For Larry's good. Jennifer had everything now. She had no reason to believe that she could always take what she wanted, have everything she desired no matter who it hurt. She was young, beautiful, ruthless. And some day it would hurt her. That some day was still Daphne's responsibility. That thought she kept in mind.

"Do you mind terribly about Larry?" Jennifer asked her.

"Why should I?" she responded, coolly.

"I've got to rush if I'm going to meet Larry"... "You understand why I don't ask him here, don't you, darling? I don't want to embarrass either of you..."

Larry was showing me some plans today for the new building the Trepal school is putting up at Plantport..." Larry this and Larry that.

Not by one small sign did Daphne betray the thing that happened to her when she heard his name on her sister's lips; the swift, hot pain that smote her and retreated slowly along an aching path of memory...

"She picked up the threads where she had left them off and was astonished to see how few they were. She hadn't realized how completely Larry had filled her life, how many pleasant companions she had let go when she had found Larry."

"Daph, I saw Gordon Herzberg today. He's got a marvelous new show. He took me to lunch and told me about it. There's a part that calls for a girl who is more

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XX

DAPHNE said yes, she had certainly liked San Francisco and that she would like to have seen it when there was a "Barry" coast. No, she said, she hadn't met anyone named Mickel when she was in Cleveland.

She did her very best to be the kind of a guest she should have been at Anne's annual party for her advertising agency friends but when 2 o'clock came, she picked herself up from her cushioned seat on the floor and slipped away to the bedroom to get her wrap.

Anne closed the door softly at her back and they were alone for the first time.

"Lovely party, Anne. Mr. Todd told me that he wanted you to do their spring book." She powdered her nose.

"I know all about that so let's skip it. What I want to know is what's happened to you?"

"We'll talk about it some other time, darling. I hear your guests screaming for you. That's a sure sign of success."

"Let 'em scream. Oh, I wish I'd had a chance to talk to you but you know how it is."

Daphne was getting into her wrap. "Of course, I do. Give me a ring at the office tomorrow."

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON—The astonishing turn in labor history signified by the steel industry's decision to sign wage, hour and collective bargaining agreements with the John L. Lewis C. I. O., is generally attributed by high government officials here to three chief factors.

1—Conviction among leaders of the industry, and the Morgan-Wall Street interests behind them, that Lewis was in a position to be beaten in a strike only after unprecedented labor warfare.

2—Pressure from a pro-labor administration in Washington, which demanded the 40-hour week and collective bargaining, plus existence of pro-labor state administrations and local authorities in the steel area.

3—Unwillingness to forego the profits which 1937 promises from steel.

It may be that all those factors, and others, combined to bring about this "Industrial New Deal." It is commonly suspected here that only J. P. Morgan knows the answer. But everyone concedes the spectacular success of C. I. O.'s organization campaign was the first key to the recent about-face by America's foremost leaders of industry and finance.

Neither Lewis nor Philip Murray claimed to have more than 200,000 of the 550,000 workers in the steel industry as members. But they were relatively stronger in steel than in the automobile industry, where they already had achieved considerable success.

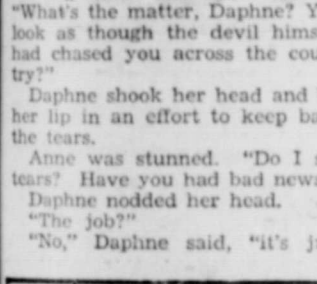

The steel tycoons had applied intense heat on Roosevelt and Secretary of Labor Perkins in effort to obtain suspension of the Walsh-Healy law. That act said bidders on government contracts must observe a 40-hour work week, and certain other labor provisions. The battle was fought over more than 100,000 tons of steel the navy needed for battleships.

In secret conferences, Assistant Secretary of Labor Edward F. McGrady insisted the steel industry produce that steel in accordance with the law as a patriotic duty and they had a duty to their stockholders and couldn't effect a 40-hour week.

The Labor Department's reply was preparation of an order dated Feb. 27 for a public hearing, beginning March 5, to which navy officials, steel industry heads, labor leaders and members of Congress were given to understand "patriotism" would be the issue. The order was held up because of a report on Feb. 27 that an independent steel company was ready to bid under terms of the Walsh-Healy act. (Willingness of certain independents to "play ball" with the government, plus an implied threat that the government would make its own steel, might also have had a large part in softening the industry's attitude.)

Matters stood thus when, on March 1, big units of the steel industry began to announce 40-hour weeks, the $5 daily minimum wage and willingness to bargain collectively. (Copyright, 1937, NEA Service, Inc.)

SO LITTLE HELPS SO MUCH

"GONE WITH THE WIND" By E. A. RINGOLD

Quite obviously, the title for this talk to you was suggested by the name of that popular novel of the South before, during and just after the Civil War, which is at present our "best seller." I assume many of you have read it. In unforgettable scenes it depicts the easy and leisurely life of the planters of the old South, and the coming of the War which first drew off its noblest sons; then gradually exhausted its resources; and finally left it in the devastation of the burned Atlanta and of Sherman's march to the sea. Most of the book is taken up with an account of the distressful conditions and the struggles of the poverty-stricken southern gentlemen and gentlewomen in the days of the "carpetbaggers" and the "scalawags" of the reconstruction period. The wealth, the old culture, the old social relationships were "gone with the wind." Those who remained were compelled to face the new conditions and to strive to rebuild a new civilization on the ruins of the old. Perhaps the way is intentionally left open for a sequel which will show how the unconquerable Southern American stock succeeded in constructing upon those ruins a much more prosperous, a much happier society, with a wider, more general spread of the comforts and the good things of life.

The big, thriving manufacturing and mercantile city of Atlanta today—which furnished the central locale of the story—admirably illustrates, by comparison with the little town of ten thousand of the ante-war days, the enormous progress made.

There is a parallel to be drawn between the condition of the South after the War as depicted in the story I have mentioned, and the situation in which Ranger finds itself after the oil boom and the depression. Many things which had long been an integral, probably by many regarded as an inseparable, part of our lives have "gone with the wind." Or, to be quite accurate, they will have "gone with the wind" when we begin to look around after the effects of the wind are complete.

Let us recall some Ranger days lost in the wind, when gambling and bootlegging ran wide open and Ranger's quota of murders was two per day.

How many of you remember when common labor was $6.00 per day, skilled labor $10.00 per day, and oil field drillers were getting $25.00 per day?

How many of you remember when a two-room shack rented for $50.00 per month and a modern cottage rented for $150.00 per month?

How many of you remember when vacant lots on Main street sold for $10,000.00 per front foot and a twenty-five foot business building brought $500.00 per month rent?

How many of you remember when Ranger had five banks with a combined deposit of nearly $10,000,000.00 and customers had to stand in line and take their turn to deposit or withdraw money?

How many of you remember when drinking water was $1.00 per barrel delivered at your home? Do you remember when country butter was $1.00 per pound and fresh eggs sold for $1.50 per dozen?

Do you remember when a service car would cost you $20.00 for a round trip from Ranger to Eastland?

Do you remember when there were ten show houses in Ranger and box seats at the old Liberty theatre were $3.00 each for road shows?

Do you remember when a pair of work shoes cost $7.50 and fancy shoes were $22.00 per pair. Do you remember when a meal at Ranger's leading cafe would cost you $2.00?

All "gone with the wind."

Do you remember when there were approximately three thousand children of school age in Ran-

Incoming President to Represent P. T. A. at District Meet

Tuesday afternoon's meeting of Young Parent Teacher Association as promised proved a very interesting hour, presided over by the president, Mrs. C. E. Maddocks who opened the session and presented the principal speaker, Cleo Powell, whose well deviled talk carried the subject, "Cooperation."

Mrs. Pleas E. Moore outlined plans for the summer roundup, an annual undertaking by the association each fall for the benefit of children whose first year it is in school.

The last meeting brought the election of officers which have been named, Mrs. Dean Murrell, who will serve as president next term, will also attend the district Texas Congress of Parent Teacher Association meetin at Brownwood March 30-31, as representative of her respective organization. Other members also to attend include Mrs. C. E. Maddocks, outgoing president and founder of Young School P. T. A.

Mrs. Annie Anderson presented as her part of the program entertainment her pupils in a lesson demonstration, with a chosen group from the declamation group offering readings.

Love Leads a Left In Fast Comedy-Drama

Michael Whalen and Rochelle Hudson are featured in "Woman-Wise," new Twentieth Century-Fox riotous free-for-all of love, laughs and surprises at the Arcadia Theatre today only.

"I" and appointed in cools of green and white carried covers for every seventy guests when the B. T. U. of Central Baptist church entertained at the church Tuesday evening with a banquet, presenting as principal speaker, Rupert Ringold, teacher at Ranger High School.

The delightful program was offered under the supervision of chairman Dorothy Jean Bruce, and Minnie Lee Shirley acted as toastmistress. Interesting talks on Irish national life were made by members of Intermediate and senior unions.

The principal address by Mr. Ringold, tied in with the fitting topic, St. Patrick's day, and quarter numbers composed of members of the Junior Boys division added greatly to the entertaining feature.

John L. McKelvain contributed with the reading of the beautiful poem, "You."

Group singing was under the direction of Roy Moore.

Supper plates consisted of sandwiches, olives, pickles, fruit salad, cookies and lemonade.

Among the large number of guests were Rev. and Mrs. H. H. Stephens.

High Officers of Royal Neighbor Camp Honored by Local Chapter

The Royal Neighbors of Camp No. 9059 met in a special session Wednesday night at I. O. O. F. hall, and oracle Laura Todd presided over the program, which paid special compliment to guest officers of the state.

Guests of distinguished mention were Mrs. Eva Huskey, state supervisor of Greenville, Texas, and Mrs. Martha White, past State Oracle, from Breckenridge.

Guests registered in a pretty hand-made book set in Shamrock shape which was presided over by Mary Jane Todd. The session opened with the grove voting on two new members, followed with initiation of six new members.

Talks were made by the visitors Mrs. Huskey and Mrs. White. Mrs. Carrie E. Henry, district deputy, offered greetings, and visitors from Eastland and Breckenridge camps were asked to make prompt remarks.

The hostess camp put on a degree of interest to members, with the assistance of the prominent guest speakers.

Tables were beautifully decorated in white and green, and guests were assisted in finding places by Mrs. Artburn, Mrs. Rayfield, Mrs. Hazard, Vella Todd Mrs. Ford, Mrs. Green and Mary Jane Todd and Jimmie Beth Todd.

A delicious salad course with fancy sandwiches, green and white bread, olives, pickles, and coffee was served to the fifty guests. To those who assisted in making this courtesy a pleasant affair, the committee in charge wish to express their thanks.

Party Pretty Compliment

Parties this week have been exceptionally colorful, gay in dress, colors of green and white have been employed in varied fashion, giving due stress to St. Patrick's Day.

A party entertaining between thirty-five and forty guests was held at the First Methodist church with hostesses, Mrs. Johnnie Finto and Mrs. Jessie Weaver, graciously receiving and in charge of the evening's party, paying compliment to the Good Fellowship Sunday school class taught by Mrs. B. A. Tunnel.

Upon arrival each member was presented with a shamrock carrying a number later matched with corresponding number designating partners for the games following a delightful hour. The fun centered about the White Elephant sale, with J. A. Johnson acting as auctioneer.

Tables were smartly appointed and surfaced with green crepe paper dotted with bits of white.

Refreshments plates of cakes and coffee sounded the two tone color motif in napkins.

Among guests present were prospective members who have in the past visited in the interesting class whose study is attracting the interest of more from time to time.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. Garland Burke, are home after a week-end visit to Fort Worth, where they attended the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show.

Mercury Lamp Is Simplified by Use Of Small Bulbs

CLEVELAND—Engineers have developed a 100-watt mercury lamp which is said to give as much light as the standard filament 200-watt bulb.

Still in its experimental stage, the new lamp is a small tubular bulb-within-a-bulb, the outer bulb, 1 1/2 inches in diameter, being a protecting envelope for the inner bulb of extra-hard, heat-resisting glass.

Within the inner bulb is a small amount of mercury and enough argon gas to start the lamp. An arc strikes when the lamp is turned on. After five minutes, the first feeble glow is built up into a brilliant stream of light.

Secret of success with the lamp in early experiments, engineers say, lies in the precise design and placement of the two electrodes, one at each end of the inner bulb. Unlike present 250 and 400-watt mercury lamps, the new bulb operates from either a 110-115 or 120-volt line, without requiring a voltage step-up for starting. It operates at about two atmospheric pressures.

Gone With the Wind

progressive people hard at work to restore their town and public buildings to what they were before the cyclone. And within the next two years that town will far surpass in beauty and commercial progress—the town that was there before the cyclone.

What Ranger will strive for is a "build up" that will have elements of permanency, not a "build up" merely to go into another tailspin.

To get the business you must obviously meet its terms. If we could not do so, then we might well despair, but we can. Let me repeat that the old times and conditions have "gone with the wind" and that the town which doesn't realize it, will lose its business to the competitors as the Southern business men did to the "carthagians" in the late sixties.

Will you bring back the pre-depression prosperity of Ranger which has "gone with the wind" by using the opportunities before you? Let me remind you that the figure of speech which we have borrowed from nature is replete with hope. Fortunately, winds change. Things may go with the wind, but they may also come with the wind. Today we are beginning to feel again the gentle breezes of prosperity. By united action our town and our school can ride with that rising wind to brighter and sunnier days.
