Ranger Child Hurt When Hit by a Car

Darrell Jean Meddows, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Meddows of Ranger, was painfully but not seriously injured late Thursday afternoon when he was struck by an automobile on Main street in front of the Piggy-Wiggy store, where his father is manager of the meat department.

The child was rushed to a local hospital, where x-ray pictures revealed that he did not sustain a fractured skull as was at first feared. He sustained bruises and a laceration of the scalp, it was reported this morning.

Early Grand Jury Found Bill Versus One of Its Members

One of the many stories of early history in Eastland county relates the indictment of a juror by other members of a grand jury.

Not substantiated by records, however, the circumstances are related by many pioneers that while the first grand jury was in session under the spreading boughs of a large tree, for lack of a building in which to meet, one of the members was asked to go for a bucket of water.

While the juror was gone a bill was voted against him.

When he returned his first remark, the story goes, was: "Well, boys did you indict me while I was gone?"

A study of early county records disclose fighting and stealing were the major offenses for which indictments were returned.

When district court met at Schmick's school house in June, 1874, but 13 reported for service as grand jurors Judge Osterhout ordered the panel filled and 20 members were sworn, served two days and were paid two dollars for each day.

At the November term 16 men were empaneled to serve as grand jurors and received two dollars a day for four days.

The first grand jury found a total of six true bills. Three were for theft of stock and three for assault.

STRIKES KEEP 500,000 OUT OF WORK TODAY

More than 500,000 workers waited in idleness today, pending settlement of labor controversies. Principal disputes centered in the automobile and soft coal industries.

More than 400,000 soft coal miners stood by in technical strikes, hopeful that settlement of contract negotiations between the United Mine Workers union and coal operators might be achieved shortly.

The soft coal contract expired at midnight Mar. 31. Mines have been idle since that hour. Yesterday was a holiday in the coal fields. But today's stoppage of work was directly caused by the failure to agree on a new contract. Contract negotiators said they had narrowed agreement to a single point, a union demand for time and a half pay for overtime work.

New troubles in Detroit broke out in the hotel industry, where a strike occurred at the huge Book-Cadillac hotel. Union officials attributed the strike today to delay in arbitrating a similar hotel dispute which occurred in March.

A major walkout of WPA workers developed in the San Francisco Bay area, where workers' alliance officials sought to organize a general strike of relief workers.

A sit-down strike was called by CIO leaders at the plant of the Hershey Chocolate company at Hershey, Pa., today.

About 3,000 persons are employed at the plant.

SPEAKS TONIGHT

Rev. Robert E. Bowden, Eastland, secretary-treasurer of the Eastland County United Dry Forces, will speak tonight at the Morison Vp school house.

BASIC SHIFT IN RELIEF IS NOW PLANNED

WASHINGTON, Apr. 2.—President Roosevelt today announced a basic shift in New Deal recovery and relief spending in an effort to slow down a boom in heavy industries, such as steel and copper, which he fears threatens the future of the nation's well-being.

Instead of spending huge sums on massive construction projects, Mr. Roosevelt said the emphasis would be placed on the expenditure of light 'consumer goods' industries, where the bulk of the money goes into wages.

The changed policy, he made plain, means an end of the type of monumental works especially encouraged by the PWA.

The compelling reason for the change, said the President, is the fact that heavy industry activities had outstripped that of light industries. This, he declared, in the past has resulted in economic depressions because in this situation prices rise faster than the income of consumers.

Borah Says State Has Only Right In Sit Downs

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Senator William E. Borah, Rep., Idaho today challenged the authority of the federal government to deal with sit down strikes and opposed an amendment of the Guffey Coal Control Act to include an anti-sit down provision.

Borah told the senate that the federal government had no power to intervene in a sit down and that this responsibility was that of the state where the sit down occurred.

Eastland Safety Patrol Is Formed

In cooperation with Police Chief W. J. Peters a safety patrol from the Eastland High school fire department has taken steps to reduce traffic hazards of students and motorists.

The road in front of the high school has been made a one-way drive. Cars must approach from the Ammerman street side and leave from the Oak street side.

To insure this regulation safety patrol members will be stationed before and after classes begin each day, before they are dismissed for lunch and prior to resumption of classes afternoon and before and after final dismissal each day.

Among other school safety measures under consideration by the safety patrol and its Chief Thomas Dabney and Assistant Chief Wilbur Williams are stationing of members at South and West ward schools.

Twelve Killed In Crash In London

LONDON, April 2.—Twelve persons were estimated killed today and 30 injured in a collision of electric passenger trains in Central London.

One train was on a viaduct outside a station, awaiting a go-ahead signal. The second train, speeding in from South of London, crashed into it.

Because the crash occurred on a viaduct, rescue work was impeded. Police had difficulty in restraining crowds.

Cupid More Active In March Last Year

Marriage licenses issued during March by County Clerk R. V. Galloway and his deputies were four less than those issued in the same period in 1936.

Total for the month was 26, as compared to 30 in 1936.

Number of licenses issued for the year, however, is higher than last. The 77 issued the first three months this year reflect an increase of two over the same period last year.

'Good Boy' Admits Girl Slaying

Thomas Smith, 18, above, was known in Buffalo as a "model youth" and when he invited Frances Fitzgerald, 14, right to take an auto ride with him she consented. A few hours after their return, Smith was in jail charged with stabbing Frances with an ice pick, and had confessed, police said, to knifing and beating Mary Ellen Babcock to death two months previously. Smith neither smoked nor drank and he quit college to support his mother. Neither of the girls was criminally assaulted, and Frances stab wound will not be fatal. Smith told police, they said, that usually he did not care for girls, but that he killed Mary Ellen Babcock on a lonely lane because he was impelled by an "uncontrollable impulse."

GEDEON GETS NIGHT OF REST AFTER PROBE

NEW YORK, Apr. 2.—Joseph Gedeon, refreshed by his first night's sleep since police began questioning him Wednesday in the triple murder in which his wife, daughter and their boarder were victims, was subjected today to a further ordeal under the glare of lights in a police therapy.

Police planned to hold him on a charge of possessing a gun without a license until they solved the Easter slaying.

During the questioning he exhibited emotions only once. That was when a detective asked if he were married.

Gedeon bent his head a moment, sighed deeply and almost whispered, "Yes."

At no time did his questioners touch on the murder.

"Is this charge about the gun true?" his questioners asked.

"That is correct," Gedeon replied.

No New Taxes Are Needed Now Senator States

AUSTIN, Apr. 2.—Sen. John Redditt of Lufkin, chairman of the finance committee of the Texas Senate, announced today there likely will be no need for additional taxes at this session.

He suggested that if the need develops, next fall will be soon enough to levy them.

"If the 45th Legislature continues its policy of economy," Redditt said, "making its regular appropriation bills substantially the same as passed by the 44th Legislature, with reasonable increases in salaries and increased appropriations where necessary, there will be no further need of additional taxes at this session."

RANGER HOLDS SCANT LEAD OVER EASTLAND IN THE COUNTY MEET

In the tabulation of the results of the Eastland County Interscholastic League meet in Ranger at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon, Ranger has a scant lead over Eastland, in second place, with Gorman in a close third. The results at that time were as follows: Ranger 47, Eastland 44, Gorman 40, Cisco 32, Rising-Star 28 and Carben 14.

Results of events held late on Thursday afternoon and up to 2 o'clock Friday were as follows:

Rural Choral Singing — Romney, Crocker, Bullock.

Senior Girls Tennis — Edith Rosenquest, Eastland; Beatrice Lewis, Rising Star.

Senior Boys' Tennis — Jack Bishop, Gorman; Billie Ray McBeth, Rising Star.

Ward School Choral Singing — Rising Star, Olden, Eastland.

Playground Ball, Class A Girls — Scranton, Morton Valley, Colony.

Playground Ball, Class B Boys — Morton Valley, Colony, Scranton.

Playground Ball, Class A Girls — Eastland, Cisco.

Garage Is Damaged By Eastland Blaze

The roof and one side of a garage at 414 South Green Street in Eastland was destroyed Thursday afternoon by fire. Chief A. W. Hennessie of the fire department stated the blaze was believed to have started from trash outside the garage.

Roosevelt Urges Better Conditions In Textile Works

WASHINGTON, April 2.—President Roosevelt and two members of his cabinet urged the International Textile Conference today to strive for stability and better working conditions in the world-wide textile industry, upon which the welfare of more than 12,000,000 persons depends.

In a letter read to 200 delegates from 23 nations assembled to study one of the world's major industries, Mr. Roosevelt expressed confidence that "this open meeting of minds" will have a beneficial effect on the "ultimate prosperity of the textile industry."

COURT VISITORS

A. S. Mausey and Bill Swain of Sweetwater were visitors Friday in the Eleventh Court of Civil Appeals at Eastland.

Cisco Wins First In Play Contest

Cisco high school's entry in the one-act play contest held Thursday night at Eastland as part of the annual interscholastic league meet, was judged as first prize winner.

Eastland won second. Ranger high school was presented the third offering.

Cisco's winning play was entitled "A Wedding." Eastland and Ranger plays were "Not Quite Such a Goose" and "Who Gets the Car Tonight."

To a Cisco girl, Vada Bell Tomlinson, went individual acting honors. John Kley of the Eastland cast won individual honors among the boys.

Eastland Boy at Kemper Gets His Numeral In Track

BOONVILLE, Mo., April 2.—Major H. C. Johnston, head track coach at Kemper Military School here, has just announced the awarding of letters to twelve members of his indoor track team for 1937.

The Yellowjackets won their fifth consecutive indoor track championship in the Missouri Junior College conference at Columbia last week-end and their third championship for 1936-37, having previously won the state championship in football and basketball.

The list of letter men includes Cadet Horace E. Horton, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Horton of Eastland. This is Cadet Horton's second year on the Kemper track team.

Abilene Children End a Sit Down

ABILENE, Apr. 2.—Three hundred Abilene youngsters, who staged a sit down strike against going to school on April Fool's Day, went back to classes today.

The strikers were students of Central Ward school and they returned to classes yesterday afternoon by agreement.

Principal W. B. Gullidge said no official punishment was planned.

Prohibitionist Is Dry Meet Speaker

Citizen from Cisco, Ranger, Carbon and Eastland Thursday night heard Rev. Jeff Davis of Dallas, lecturer on prohibition, at a mass meeting of the United Dry Forces of Eastland county at Eastland in the Methodist church.

In a talk designed to show the merits of prohibition over legalized beverages, Rev. Davis stated taxes as derived from liquor and beer each year for schools would only operate them two hours. Taxes for old age pensions as obtained from alcoholic beverages pay approximately $2 to each pensioner's check every month, he said.

The petition dries will present to commissioners' court for calling an election is in process of signing. About 500 signers are necessary before the court may be petitioned to remove alcoholic beverages from the county, according to officials Friday.

U.A.W. Officials Ask New G-M Agreement

DETROIT, Mich., April 2.—United Automobile Worker officials asked General Motors corporation today to agree to modification of their "permanent peace" pact as two of 11 sit down strikes in G-M plants were settled.

At Lansing Gen. Frank Murphy announced that Chrysler strike negotiation conferences would be resumed Saturday morning instead of today.

Grapevine Meet to Begin Next Sunday

Rev. H. D. Blair, Cisco, who is missionary for the Cisco Baptist district association, will begin a meeting Sunday night in the Grapevine school house. Services are scheduled at 8 o'clock each evening.

The public has been invited to attend.

RANGER FIELD WILL BE SCENE OF THE FINALS

Olden and Eastland Favored To Take First and Second Places in Meet.

The annual Eastland County Interscholastic Track and Field Meet, a part of the meet that has been in progress in Ranger since Thursday morning, will be held at Bulldog Stadium in Ranger Saturday afternoon beginning at 1 o'clock and continuing until about 4:30 in the afternoon.

The track around the football field has been rolled and prepared for the track events, so that it is in the best condition in which it has been since it was installed during the early winter months, with lanes marked for the runners down the 100-yard straightaway in front of the west stands. No admission charge is to be made for the meet.

A beautiful silver trophy standing about 18 inches high, with the statue of a runner in full stride, will be offered by the Carl Barnes Post of the American Legion to the winner of the meet. Any school winning the track and field meet for three years in succession will become permanent possessor of the trophy, which is the first of its kind offered in the county track and field event in several years.

A gold trophy is being offered by the Ranger Chamber of Commerce for the all-around winner, which includes the literary and athletic events.

The fast and long-victorious Olden High School track team, coached by Herman Scruggs, is a big favorite to take the track and field events Saturday, with Eastland as the dark horse entry most likely to wrest the first place laurels from the Olden team.

Fac'd by Anderson, high-point man in a number of track meets in Ranger and last, closely followed by Curry, the Olden team is one of the best track organizations in this part of the country, and probably among the best in the state from a school of its size.

The Olden Hornets have finished second in two invitation meets during the past two weeks, barely being nosed out in the Rising Star invitation meet and being beaten only by Abilene in the Ranger invitation track meet. Sickness had delayed the Hornets from getting off to a good start in the Rising Star meet and the team has showed considerable improvement since.

The Mavericks from Eastland finished the Rising Star and Ranger meet in next position behind Olden and have also been showing steady improvement.

Ranger and Cisco, both starting slowly with new men in every event, have both improved rapidly, accounting for twice as many points in the Ranger meet than they did at the smaller Rising Star meet the week-end before, so either team has a good opportunity of finishing well up toward the front Saturday.

Tonight the finals in volleyball in the Rural, Ward, Class B, and all games of Class A will be held in the Recreation Building at the corner of Pine and North Marston streets. A small admission charge will be made for spectators.

MOVE TO EASTLAND

L. E. Huckabay, bookkeeper for Hoffmann & Page and Mrs. Huckabay have moved from Ranger to Eastland. They are located at 505 South Seaman street.

Investigators to Re-Probe Number In Old Age Plans

Eastland county investigators for the Texas Old Age Assistance Commission are starting re-investigations of those who have been denied aid since the beginning of the law and those cut off Jan. 1, after change in the law.

This was announced Friday by W. W. Kelly, Eastland, one of the county investigators who, with Mrs. Lula Riddell of Ranger, the other investigator, attended a district meeting Thursday at Abilene, ene.

Dionne Quins Thrive on Oatmeal
For many weeks every man, woman and child watched with tense interest to see what would happen to the Quins. The fate of these famous babies was a source of speculation and wonder. The Dominion of Canada, making their welfare a National obligation, put them in the care of a top-notch staff of child experts. The amazing result of this special care is that the Dionne Quintuplets are miraculous examples of the glowing health that science can give. Their diet is composed of things which do them good and which they like—such as oatmeal. Oat meal was given to these charming babies by the dieticians because oatmeal with milk contains such an abundance of body-building minerals, muscle-building

Pontiac Dealer Here Announces Contest
A nation-wide demonstration and essay contest was recently announced by the Pontiac Division of General Motors offering as prizes five new 1937 Pontiac automobiles and 90 valuable cash awards.
Everyone is invited to enter the contest—the only requirements are that you write an essay on protein, energy-making carbohydrates, and Vitamin B for keeping fit. Vitamin B is the best safeguard against those dangerous enemies of childhood—nervousness, constipation, and poor appetite due to lack of that vitamin in the diet. Therefore the Quins thrive on Quaker Oats.

being each contestant first take a brief demonstration ride in a new Pontiac and then write in 100 words or less "Why I think the 1937 Pontiac is 'America's Finest Low-Priced Car'". Official entry blanks upon which the essay must be written can be obtained at Simmons Motor Company.
In making the local announcement for the contest, C. P. Simmons said that complete preparations have been made to take care of everyone in the city who enters the contest.
"There is no reason why at least one of these fine prizes which are being offered by Pontiac Motors cannot be won by a resident of this city," said Simmons. "The people are just as smart as they are anywhere else and can write as good, and I believe, a little better essay on the subject of why they think a 1937 Pontiac is 'America's Finest Low-Priced Car,' than almost anyone else in the country."
"Our sales staff will be on hand every day until the contest closes midnight, May 31st, to help with questions and facts about the Pontiac car. We have set aside a number of new demonstrators so that everyone can have a ride and there is an adequate supply of the contest blanks which must be filled out and used for the essay by every person competing.

"I'd like to see all the people of this city who could use a new Pontiac or one of those cash prizes come to our salesrooms, enter their names, take a demonstration and turn in their essay."
"It is the grandest opportunity that has ever been offered to the people of this country and it requires only a small amount of time and thought."

Woman With Bullet In Brain Will Live To Tell About It

AUSTIN.—Miss Willie Branch, 25, will live to tell about a bullet in her brain.
She was rushed to a hospital when a .25 calibre pistol bullet struck her head and cut diagonally across the brain to the opposite side. She was given only a slight chance to live, but when doctors examined more closely they found that the bullet had traversed a "silent area" in the brain without severing any large blood vessels or piercing a vital spot.

CONSTIPATION IS A MISERABLE THING!

It takes the pep right out of you—makes you feel tired and irritable—ready to worry over the slightest thing.

Yet it can be corrected in most cases so easily. Common constipation is usually caused by lack of "bulk" in the foods you eat.

Millions of people have learned that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN ends constipation by putting "bulk" back in the diet. Within the body, ALL-BRAN absorbs twice its weight in water, forming a soft mass and gently sponging out the system.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN also furnishes vitamin B to tone the intestines and iron for the blood.

Two tablespoonfuls daily as a cereal with milk or cream, or in recipes, are sufficient. Three times daily in severe cases.

Sold at all grocers—and guaranteed by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Texas Is Still First In Number Of Oil Refineries

Texas continues to hold first place in number of oil refineries and total refining capacity, although in that state, as elsewhere, there has been a falling off in the number of plants. One year ago Texas had 201 refineries and a daily crude capacity of 1,195,140 barrels. Now, with 190 refineries, almost all in operation, the crude-refining capacity has grown to 1,232,540 barrels.

The most active manufacturing year in petroleum industry is on its way. Technical processes, which have recorded remarkable strides, are moving toward still greater achievements. There are 350 companies and individuals operating 471 refineries in the United States. Outside this country 300 refineries are doing important research work and establishing new production records in response to the rising demand for oil products throughout the world.

In making these forecasts and reviewing what has been accomplished the current issue of The Oil and Gas Journal, which contains that publication's annual refinery survey, points out that the refining branch of the industry in this country has continued to add to its active refining capacity notwithstanding a decrease in the total number of plants and in the total capacity of refineries. The capacity of operating refineries increased from 1,936,535 barrels daily on March 15, 1936, to 4,031,660 barrels daily on March 15, 1937. The total number of refineries in the United States, including those not operating, decreased from 670 to 662, and the total refining capacity declined from 4,301,754,000 barrels daily to 4,206,260 barrels daily.

Ad Liska, former pitcher for the Washington Nationals, now with the Portland Beavers of the Pacific Coast League, plays leap frog with teammate Hobo Carson in spring training at Fullerton, Calif.

The growth in active refining capacity is accounted for by the great amount of remodeling and enlargement work on plants now in operation and the construction of small refineries to care for production from new fields. Refiners in all parts of the country made long-delayed repairs and replacements in their equipment.

California, second in number of plants and in refining capacity, shows an increase in the total number of plants, but a decline in the number of operating refineries and capacity. Eighty-three refineries are now operating in the state with a total daily capacity of 878,310 barrels.

The refining capacity and number of plants in other states with few exceptions show little change from the 1936 figures. Oklahoma shows a slight decrease in both number of plants and capacity; Pennsylvania, a decrease in the number of refineries but an increase in both total and active plant capacities. Kansas recorded a slight increase in the total plant capacity but a decline in number of refineries. Illinois, Ohio, Indiana and New Jersey show practically the same capacities and number of plants as a year ago. Louisiana shows a decrease in both number of plants and in total refining capacity.

Cotton Supply In The United States Somewhat Smaller

AUSTIN. — Total supplies of cotton in the United States as of Mar. 1 were 9,210,000 bales, according to Dr. A. B. Cox, director of the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research. The net decline this year of supplies of cotton in the United States and American cotton in European ports and afloat to Europe was 492,000 bales.

"During the past seven years the average change in the index price of cotton per 100,000 bales change in the supply has been 16.45 points," Dr. Cox said. If that ratio holds good now, the index price based on the above supply change should be about 81 points higher than last year. When this calculated index price is adjusted for the changes in the price level and the spinners margin, the calculated price of New Orleans middling spot cotton is 14.38 cents. When the price is calculated in terms of average percentage change in relation of supply to price, the indicated price is only 12.92 cents.

"Spinners ratio margin on American cotton based on the price of 32's twist yarn in Manchester and the price of middling 3/8-inch cotton in Liverpool was 179 in February. In January the ratio margin was 181 and in February last year it was 172.

Junk Dealers Reap Profits from Scrap

By United Press
FORT WORTH. — European arms factories working at near war-time speed are bringing prosperity to the junk dealers of Texas.

Despite a recent embargo on scrap metal shipments from Texas "The price margin in February averaged 5.65d compared with 5.62d in January and 4.38d in February last year. These margins indicate strong demand for cotton and increasing consumption."

ports, dealers are continuing to pay high prices—confident that a market will reopen in view of the military rumblings abroad. Prices of exported junk are the highest since the World War, and inland junk markets like Fort Worth are the busiest in years.

Fort Worth dealers are paying $10 and $11 a ton for scrap iron worth $4 in 1934. Prices at port cities are about $2 a ton higher.

"They're carrying this thing too far," said one Tarrant county farmer. "Last month somebody dismantled my tractor while it was standing in the field."

Numerous junk thefts were reported. One man here drew a 90-day sentence for stealing pipe to sell as scrap metal. Another was sentenced for taking tie-rods. An ex-convict was arrested here for taking a man-hole cover and selling it as junk.

Who does most of the buying? One Fort Worth dealer said: "England is buying a lot . . . and Japan and Italy."

Self-Reliant Citizens Have Become Oddities

If the people of the United States could learn a little something from the sturdy citizens of East Lampeter, Pa., the state of the republic would improve with considerable speed.

For the people of East Lampeter have made a strange, almost unprecedented request of the federal government. They want it to stop trying to lend them money for civic improvements.

Some little time ago the PWA set aside $56,000 to build a new consolidated school house for the benefit of the children in East Lampeter and vicinity. It was to replace several older school buildings, and it was just the kind of project that 99 out of 100 communities would accept with devout thankfulness.

Now there happen to be 2300 registered taxpayers in East Lampeter, and 1600 of them are of the Amish and Mennonite faiths and these faiths teach that it is wrong to borrow money at interest.

So a public mass meeting was held, and a resolution was adopted stating that East Lampeter already has plenty of schools, that the townspeople didn't care to go into debt to build a new one, and that Uncle Sam would be doing everybody concerned a favor if he would keep his money and forget all about the school building he had planned.

For several years now the federal government has been pouring out funds to states and cities; and this is the second time, in all these years, that any group has declined to take what was offered. The other case involved a set of Menominee Indians in Minnesota, who turned down a government offer to build a new road across their reservation. As a spokesman for Secretary Ickes remarks, "Nobody else has ever said anything but 'Gimme, gimme'."

We have got so far from the old-fashioned virtues these days that the people of East Lampeter look positively quaint. What? These people actually refuse to go into debt? They are willing to get along with what they have, instead of replacing it with something new? They don't feel they need the federal government's help in educating their children? What ails them, anyway?

They are sadly behind the times, obviously. Getting into debt is fashionable, almost inescapable, these days. So is the practice of discarding old possession, still good for years of service, and replacing them with new ones. And so, too, is the habit of demanding that Uncle Sam help you do what you used to do for yourself.

That we yield to these things without a struggle, and at the same time demand that the federal government balance its budget, dismantle its growing bureaucracy, and cease asking for extended powers, merely proves that we don't bother to be logical.

We could learn something from the Amishmen and the Mennonites of East Lampeter—and from the Menominee Indians.

RELIVING FATEFUL HOURS 20 YEARS AGO WHEN U. S. PLUNGED INTO WORLD WAR

Josephus Daniels Recalls Tense Scene as Wilson Cast Lot With Allies

When the die was being cast for the United States' entry into the World War, Josephus Daniels, now United States ambassador to Mexico, was "on the inside" as Secretary of the Navy in President Wilson's cabinet. Few persons were in such a favorable position to understand the full significance of the drama that was enacted in the Capitol on April 2, 1917, when Wilson announced the break in relations with Germany. He tells of that scintillating interplay of personalities in this special article for NEA Service. It is interesting to recall that Daniels at that time was the boss of Franklin D. Roosevelt, then undersecretary of the Navy.

Twenty years have passed since I was privileged to be present at the Capitol on the memorable night of April 2, 1917. Stirring scenes have intervened, but the scenes of that night—"these things I saw and a part of them I was"—remain photographed indelibly on my mind.

Not in all American history is there a scene comparable to that of 20 years ago in the House of Representatives as war was the offing.

Josephus Daniels (left) with Ambassador Jusserand of France "whose eyes brightened" at the prospect of America's entry into the World War.

Every ambassador and minister accredited to Washington was present, attired in gorgeous uniforms. Most of their countries were already in the war, others awaiting anxiously the action of the United States.

British Ambassador Spring-Rice, present with his staff, wore his gold braid proudly. He had been severely troubled and harassed during the difficult days of neutrality. That night he beamed with joy.

Ambassador Jusserand of France, dean of the diplomats, seemed to add inches to his short stature. His eye brightened at the prospect. In the early days of the war, Jusserand had not been among those who clamored for the entry of the United States into the war. "If your country goes in," he said to me one day when the demand for our entry was swelling, "hope for an adjustment will be lost, and there will be no end of the war except by the exhaustion of the men and resources of all Europe. Your country's good offices as a neutral can alone bring peace!"

But like Wilson, by April 2, he had come to the conclusion that arbitration was out of the question. Only the German Ambassador, Baron Bernstorff, who had received his passports, was conspicuous by his absence. Admirals and generals of the army and navy in brilliant uniforms matched the gold and purple of the diplomats. The galleries were crowded, women in evening dress making the scene a colorful one.

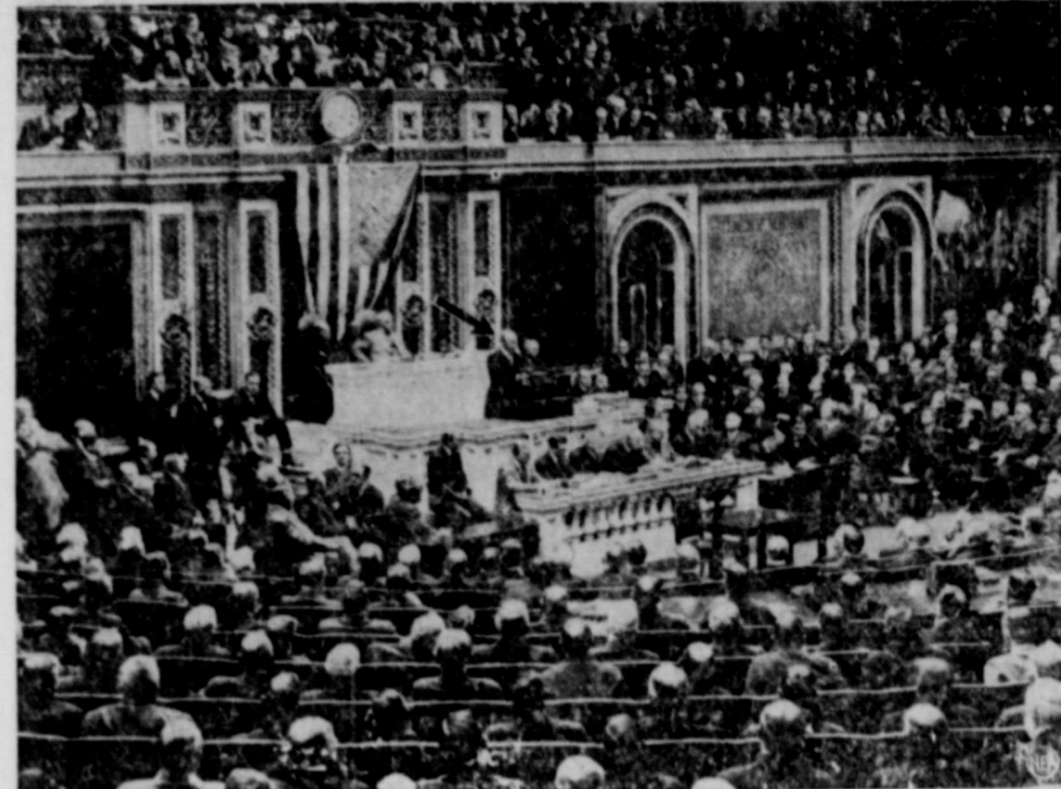

Supreme Court Sat Precedent
 On the floor, seated in a half-circle just in front of the Speaker sat the Justices of the Supreme Court, the figure of Chief Justice White towering like Saul among the prophets. Their presence in the House was unprecedented.

I observed that the Chief Justice seemed to be laboring to conceal his satisfaction that the hour had arrived for the declaration he had long believed to be inescapable. For months he had not concealed his zeal for entrance into the war on the side of the Allies.

Near the robed justices sat the ten members of Wilson's cabinet, who had on March 20 unanimously voiced their approval of the call for special session of congress that would mean war. In all previous cabinet sessions there had been divisions of opinion. Now there was none.

My heart sank at the great responsibility entrance into the war would impose, but I was strengthened in spirit as I felt that the distinguished gathering of leaders was voicing the mounting mandate of the American people.

An air of tense expectation filled the chamber. Speaker Clark, who had not believed earlier that the course he had long advocated was about to be taken.

The members of the House were all in their places. The press gallery, re-inforced by the presence of leading editors from all over the country, was crowded.

Wilson Sounds Clarion to Nation
 It was an awed gathering, silent in anticipation as the clattering of a cavalry escort, plainly heard on the pavement outside the Capitol, gave notice that the President was arriving.

Every person jammed into the House chamber rose as President Wilson entered the brilliant hall. He gave a spontaneous and sustained ovation.

"The President of the United States" announced the Speaker as Mr. Wilson ascended to the place appointed. As the sound of the gavel died away, the hushed audience resumed their seats. Any stranger would have chosen Wilson as the leader if he had looked down on that gathering. There was a gravity and distinction in his bearing that marked him as the voice and inspiration of a great people. He looked inches taller in his immaculate dress. A spirit of serious apprehension of all that lay before him seemed to sit upon his countenance. He was pale, for he had come to that moment through great travail of mind and heart.

He bowed his thanks for the evidence that those present were ready to go all the way with him. His eyes took in the scene, rested a moment on the faces of his Cabinet comrades, swept the pageant of military and diplomatic uniforms, and then rested for a brief period on the gallery where encouragement and love beamed from his wife and daughters. From that intimate and reassuring glance he turned to the manuscript he held in his hands, an air of calm and confidence settled upon him. The spirit of the seer and the prophet and the fighter were upon him.

He spoke clearly and solemnly. In sentences so vascular that they would have bled if cut, he recounted the tragic events which had culminated in the necessity for war. The spirit of the Covenant flashed from his eyes as he proclaimed: "The world must be made safe for democracy!"

Speech Drew Tears From Men
 Why did he counsel war—why must we fight? He answered: "For democracy, for the right of those who submit to authority to have a voice in their own governments, for the rights and liberties of small nations, for a universal dominion of right by such concert of free powers as shall bring peace and safety to all nations and make the world at last free!"

The chamber breathed its approval and consecration. When he came to the climax: "There is one choice we can not make, we are incapable of making. We will not choose the path of submission," all observed the tall and commanding Chief Justice rise to his feet—he looked 10 feet tall—and lead the cheering with which the chamber rang. As he applauded, his face moved convulsively and great tears ran down his cheeks. The Chief Justice was not alone. There were not many eyes. The die had been cast. The days after Congress declared a state of war existed between the United States and the Imperial German Government.

As the President was leaving the chamber, Secretary House records that he said to the President: "If it will give you comfort, I can tell you that I have been watching the Supreme Court Justices. On the spot unanimously they have given you a favorable verdict as to the constitutionality of your proposal . . . and I am certain that the Court will give a favorable verdict on any proposal necessary and designed to beat the Germans."

President Wilson then returned to the White House. Instead of the applause of the people which he had expected, the President was pressed in the moment of action.

"Think what it meant," sadly said to Joseph Tumulty, private secretary, "the application of the gathering in the Capitol as we returned from the Capitol. My message tonight was a message of death to our young men. How strange to applaud that!"

And Tumulty records that he would follow the declaration war, Woodrow Wilson let his head fall on the cabinet table and webed as if he had been a child.

Movie executives must have some qualms before releasing film, "Green Light." When title flashes on the screen the is likely to go.

Magic Will Win Her.
The practice of magic will do the trick. Women folks are a curious tribe and admire a man who can do something different. Apply a little magic on the lady fair, and see if the results are not astounding. Half the cats in Texas could be killed if the curiosity aroused by Dick Daring's prescribed feats of magic could be properly applied. Many a drab evening has been enlivened with laughter and entertainment by just such slight-of-hand accomplishments as those contained in the "Bag of Tricks." The rules of the contest are simple; and so are the tricks if you have the book to learn them by.

Soviet Pushing Rails to the East

By United Press
MOSCOW.—With only approximately 450 miles of track yet to be laid, the Soviet Union expects to complete double tracking of the Trans-Siberian Railroad during 1937. The section yet to be completed extends from Khabarovsk to Voroshilov (formerly Nikolok-Ussuriak) paralleling the eastern border of Manchukuo southward toward Vladivostok. The task of double tracking involved the laying of more than 2,500 miles of rails over a period of four years under difficult conditions. More than 63,000,000 cubic meters of earth had to be excavated, several thousand bridges built, including some several hundred yards in length, the river Zeia dammed and stations and workshops constructed. The huge amount of supplies required had to be transported long distances on the existing single line without interrupting normal traffic. With completion of the double tracking, the Soviet Union will have taken a great stride forward in its plans for the industrialization and defense of the Far East, but will consider its transportation system secure only when the thousand mile Baikal-Amur trunkline is in operation. More than a billion rubles has been appropriated for construction of this line in allocation of finances for the second five-year plan during 1932-37. It is expected to be completed during the third five year plan. The Baikal-Amur line, however, is known to start in the East Siberian Region, probably connecting with the line planned to extend from the Trans-Siberian north of Lake Baikal to the Lena River valley. Its terminal probably will be the new port of Sovietskaya Gavan on the Gulf of Tartary. Another possible terminal is Nikolaevsk. In either case the terminal port will be developed into one of the most important on the Pacific, as an alternative to Vladivostok. Although of great military importance the Baikal-Amur line also will develop a vast rich territory before mostly inaccessible to man. Gold, timber, coal and fur resources will be developed, and the line itself will make available its own fuel from the new Bureya coal fields.

TRAILER ADVENTURE

By Nard Jones

© 1937, NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MARTHA BRITAIN and BETTIE MAYNES begin a trip up the coast to demonstrate team work. They pick up a truck-hiker, Neal, and take him to meet a friend, JACK BROWN, at the Long Beach camp. But at Long Beach Neal disappears from the trailer and Bettie drives away with the truck.

Francis, Martha's police officer, tells her that Neal is still in the area. He tells her that Neal is still in the area. He tells her that Neal is still in the area.

THE cocktail lounge was pink and white and utterly modern. Martha exclaimed at the miniature tables and exciting neutrals. "This is clever," Neal agreed, "but not the real Monterey. The real Monterey is the old Monterey—and the fishing. We'll see it after I've let this cocktail get in its work."

And they did. He showed her the old Spanish theater, and the government house, and pointed out where Robert Louis Stevenson had lived. He took her along the venerable street of walled courtyards which had once shielded Spanish beauties from the eyes of the curious. "And now," he told Martha, "we'll go down to the wharves. I'll show you fishermen who know how to fish—because it's in their blood. And we'll have a seafood lunch."

In Carmel, Neal showed her the austere stone homes of Lincoln Steffens and Robinson Jeffers, pointed out the marble castles of Pebble Beach, and laughed with her at the contrast of having tea and biscuits at a tiny shake cottage inn near the sea.

"There's just one more thing," he said across the rickety little table. "A swim in the surf. I'll get our suits at a shop uptown." He looked at Martha judiciously. "Red. Flaming red, for you. You've just the hair for it."

GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER IX

BETTIE said Neal, stuffing the telegram into his pocket, "she really will be there when you see in San Francisco as per schedule, just as her message indicated. Now let's forget all this mess, just for a day. Are you?"

Martha was silent a moment, she nodded slowly. "I suppose I may as well. There doesn't seem to be anything I can do." "You don't sound very enthusiastic," Neal laughed. "But I guarantee that a day here will give you a different view."

MARTHA'S protests were of no avail. Not 10 minutes later he had emerged from one of Carmel's shops with swim suits for both of them. "But where can we put them on?" Martha wanted to know. "I don't see any bath houses."

"That's another nice thing about Carmel," Neal said. "Not a bath house in 100 acres. But there's plenty hundreds of acres." He jumped into the car and showed it into gear. "We'll drive south where there's lots of privacy."

Down the Point Sur road Neal drove slowly, past the historic Carmel mission, out beyond the beautiful homes of Carmel Heights into a lonelier stretch where only an occasional rancher's shack broke into nature's plan. Finally he stopped where a wide point jutted into the surging ocean, handed Martha the package containing her suit.

"You can dress on the beach down there without the slightest hesitation—unless you mind seagulls or seals watching. I'll skin into these trunks right here." He grinned at her. "I'll be down in 15 minutes. Hope it's the right color of red."

LAUGHING, Gerry Neal held his cigarette case to Martha. "Having a good time?"

"A marvelous time," Martha said, meeting his gaze gratefully. "So marvelous that my conscience—"

"None of that," he warned. "You and I haven't a conscience between us today. Do you know where we're going now?"

"Wherever it is," Martha said. "It's not going to be aboard those bicycles!"

"I agree. We'll leave them with Tony and the bike man can pick them up for us. I'll rent a car to take us over the Drive—and you must see Carmel." He rose. "Come on. There's lots more to do!"

"I thought," Martha went on ruefully, "you wanted me to rest!"

"This is the best kind of rest—an active change."

Though she lived to be a hundred, Martha would always remember that day as the most delightfully crowded one of her life. There was no denying Del Monte's spirit of play, no refusing the breathless beauty of cypress trees and rugged coastline, of blue bay and red roofs, of quiet missions and wild flowers.

Later, in a cafe at the end of a dingy wharf, Martha was forced to agree. Beyond the window was the unbelievably bright blue of the Bay of Monterey. Gulls swept down between the wharf and the little fishing craft riding at anchor. Occasionally there drifted to them the soft cuzzing of one of the little boats bound out down the bay.

"It's heavenly here," Martha said at last.

Sheltered between two towering rocks, Martha donned the suit. And when Gerry Neal clambered down the slope to view his purchase he gazed at her in frank admiration. "I was right," he said. "Right about what?"

"About the red—and your hair. Ignoring the remark, Martha turned, ran down the white sand to the water's edge. Wading waist-deep against the breakers she dived suddenly beneath them—so suddenly that she missed Gerry Neal's alarmed shout. But no sooner had she plunged her lithe body into that green maelstrom than she knew she was caught. A force was drawing her down—and then while she fought and held out with bursting lungs she felt herself swung upward again with frightening force. Even in that terrifying moment's struggle she pictured in her mind the clutching jagged rocks which half circled the little cove.

3-YEAR ROMANCE URGED

By United Press

GREELEY, Colo.—Two years' acquaintance and a third year of betrothal furnish one key to a happy married life, according to Dr. Paul Popenoe, executive secretary of the Human Betterment Foundation of Pasadena, Cal. He told students at Colorado State College of Education that the formula was based on investigations made by the bureau.

By Mrs. GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Service Staff Writer

IN every man's heart lies a secret spot which nothing can fill but a dumpling. Ladies in love—take this advice—

Dumpling Pot Pie
(4 to 6 servings)

Two cups veal broth, 2 tablespoons flour, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon onion salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 3-4 cup cooked veal, chopped, 3-4 cup raw potato, sliced very thin.

Mix 2 tablespoons flour with a few tablespoons cold veal broth. Bring the remaining veal broth to boiling point, then add the flour mixture, stirring constantly to avoid lumping. Use a 1-1/2 quart heat resistant glass saucepan. Boil for 5 minutes until flour is well mixed with broth. Add salt, onion salt and pepper. Add potatoes, then chopped veal. Bring slowly back to boiling point.

Dumpling Batter

One cup flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons butter, 1-3 cup milk. Sift dry ingredients, cut in butter. Add milk and mix well. Drop by rounding teaspoons into gently boiling broth. Cover tightly and continue to cook over very low flame for 20 minutes without removing cover. Serve at table in same dish—and serve immediately.

tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Grapefruit sections, baked egg, low flame with bacon curls, Danish pastry, coffee, milk.

DINNER: Cold fresh asparagus, vinaigrette sauce, dumpling pot pie, spinach timbales, buttered beefs, celery, frozen custard, chocolate cake, coffee, milk.

SUPPER: Stuffed eggs on sliced ham, endive salad with French dressing, hot biscuits, strawberries and cream, cake, tea, milk.

Cheese Dumplings in Tomato Sauce
(4 to 6 servings)

One can tomato soup, 1 cup water, 1 bay leaf, 3 whole cloves. Heat ingredients together in 1-1/2 quart glass saucepan.

Dumpling Dough

One cup prepared biscuit flour, 1-2 cup grated American cheese, 1 tablespoon grated onion, about 1-3 cup milk.

Lightly mix together the prepared biscuit flour, cheese, onion and enough milk to make a soft dough. Remove bay leaf and cloves from hot soup. Drop dumpling mixture into gently boiling soup by rounded teaspoons. Cover tightly and continue to cook over very low flame for 20 minutes. DO NOT REMOVE COVER during this time. Take from flame and serve immediately in the glass saucepan.

Sport Glances. . . . .By Grayson

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Service Sports Editor

MEXICO CITY—Almon Williams was a pupil of Paul Richards, who formerly caught for the Giants and Athletics. . . . Richards taught Williams too well for his own good. . . . Williams played basketball with Richards at Wake Forest College, N.C. . . . He told Richards that he could pitch. . . . Richards purchased equipment for Williams, who now stands six feet three and weighs 200 pounds, showed Mack the young giant how to make batters hit bad ones, and got him a job with Portsmouth of the Piedmont League. In the fall of 1935, Connie Mack gave Richards and cash for Williams.

Williams, a right-hander out of Lanette, Ala., won 17 games and lost 7 for Atlanta in 1936. . . . Buck Ross is showing signs of becoming an intelligent pitcher as well as one with much latent ability. . . . Chubby Dean and Ace Parker attend jai-alai games nightly.

Mack rates Floyd Yount highly. . . . He is a 185-pound, right-hand hitting outfielder from Wake Forest College. . . . Mack has had a yen for collegians ever since he picked up Edward Frowbridge Collins, Jack Coombs, Jack Barry, and the remainder of that famous class years and years ago. . . . The tall tactician was the first to give the rah rah boys a real tumble, and the move paid rich dividends.

The Mexican opposition isn't much, but stands out in one respect. . . . The native athletes will attempt to take an extra base at the slightest opportunity. . . . Bud Thomas, right-hander up from Atlanta with Almon Williams, appears to be a finished product. . . . Bud once was the property of the Washington club, which let him get away in farming him out.

A MOVEMENT is on in Mexico City for a government grant that will enable Lena Blackburne, veteran coach of the A's, to spend next winter instructing teams in the land of the Montezumas.

Mack is keenly interested in Ace Parker, Duke's famous back who is trying out for an outfield berth. . . . The youngster has several faults which must be corrected, but those who know him best declare that he can't miss becoming a major leaguer, if not this trip the next one or two.

Wally Moses got $8500 or 85 per cent of what he demanded. . . . Scouts have been kicking themselves ever since Mack drafted this star from the Texas League two years ago. . . . In his bow, Moses was paid a good deal more than the ordinary salary for a drafted hand. . . . The figure was doubled a year ago. . . . Al Benton, up for a second inspection, has been out two weeks because the skin between the little and fourth fingers was torn by a hard smash. . . . A stitch was necessary to close the wound.

Mexican baseball promoters do not like to book games earlier than a week in advance, and for a while it looked as though there would be more contests between the Regulars and the Yannisians than between the A's and Mexican teams. . . . Mack ironed out the difficulties.

Suffering a severe heart ailment a slight improvement made possible the move home where he is in charge of the family nurse, Mrs. Guy Rainy of Spring Road.

Congressman Says 345 Taxes Fall Upon Motorist

WASHINGTON. — The burden of 345 taxes fall upon the operation of a motor vehicle, according to Congressman Fred A. Hartley of New Jersey. In a recent talk he said that the average motorist does not realize that "there are 27 taxes on the purchase of a car, 117 taxes on its upkeep, and 201 taxes on the oil and gasoline. The tax on gasoline is greater than its wholesale cost."

The burden of gasoline and other taxes falls heaviest on the persons with moderate or small incomes, Congressman Hartley concluded, asserting that "if the government confiscated the entire income of those earning over one million dollars a year, it would run the government less than one week. If it confiscated the entire income of all who earn over $5,000, it would run the government less than seven months."

WARM SPRING'S LONG AWAITED PARTY

Patients at the Warm Springs (Ga.) Foundation, where they take treatment for infantile paralysis after-effects, drew up their wheel chairs to join President Roosevelt in a party he gave to take the place of the annual Thanksgiving feast which he was unable to attend because of his South American trip. The President, seated at the center of the table, is seen setting the guests an example of "pitching into" the refreshments.

Use of Power Shows Increase

AUSTIN, Texas.—Electric power consumption in Texas during February increased substantially over the like month last year, but there was a moderate decline from the preceding month because of fewer days, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research.

Reports from fifteen of the major companies of the State show total production in February 12.8 per cent greater than during the corresponding month last year. Commercial consumption increased 16.1 per cent; industrial, 12.3 per cent, and residential, 17 per cent.

Roosevelt Plans No Arms Parley

By United Press
 WASHINGTON, April 2.—President Roosevelt today confirmed the statement by Sec. State Cordell Hull that the United States is planning no move toward an international economic or disarmament conference.

The president described reports that he is considering important or sensational move in the European field in an attempt to avert a war as press-inspired statements.

CHEANEY

There was a good many from here went to Thurber Sunday to see the old brick stack thrown, and report a grand success was made.

There was a large crowd and all seemed to enjoy the day.

Mr. C. E. May of Ranger was in our community of late on business and also to look his farms over.

Our gardens look like they need ed sunshine or planting over since the freezes. We are just waiting and hoping they may come through in fort.

There is not much corn planted yet as its been too wet and cold for 10 days. If the sun continues to shine corn planting will be the order of the day next.

The play at the school house Wednesday night, entitled the "Spinners Convention" was well rendered and enjoyed by a large crowd. Thank you. All come again.

The ladies of this community all praise the cooking school at Ranger where a good many attended and praised it highly.

Miss Della Rogers who has been real sick for a week or more is reported doing fairly well.

The road work is going forward and much good to our roads is ap-

Man Is Sentenced In Bank Shortage

By United Press
 DALLAS, April 2.—Burns Kittrell, 26, today was under an 18-month federal sentence for taking $11,000 from the bank at Lubbock, where he was employed. Kittrell pleaded guilty and said he spent $1,700 on pleasure.

An industrialist expects an inflationary boom and subsequent collapse during the next three years. It is there to be another army corps stratosphere flight?
