WRITS PREVENT COUNTY GROUP CANVASS VOTES

Beer Retailers, Wholesalers Allege Voting Illegal In Voiding Effort.

Members of commissioners' court Thursday morning were prevented from canvassing returns of the Saturday prohibition election by the serving of writs of injunction granted by 91st district court in a contest of the election filed by wets.

Filing of the suit, styled G. Connolly vs. W. S. Adamson et al, followed return of Milton Lawrence, Eastland attorney, engaged by nine Cisco, Ranger and Eastland beer retailers and wholesalers, from Austin.

At Austin the attorney conferred with officials of the Texas Liquor Control Board and members of the Attorney General's department. He left Monday and returned Wednesday noon.

County Judge Adamson and members of the commissioners' court were unaware of the proceeding until Thursday morning when they convened at Eastland to canvass the votes and were served with the writs.

The suit filed by the wets alleges the election was void because of "improper posting of notices," and an "improper ballot." They charge the election was illegal also because it was to prohibit what had never been permitted.

Unofficial returns of the election show the drys were victorious carrying the proposition 1,578 to 1,316, that all liquors should be prohibited from sale in the county. Fourteen per cent alcoholic beverages were legalized by the county in the April 18 election of last year.

The position is taken by the wets in the suit that an election to ban beer and malt beverages should have been submitted by a ballot for the prohibition of 14 per cent beverages.

Members of the court, who are nominal defendants in the case because of their position, instructed Criminal District Attorney Earl Conner, Jr., to take steps for filing a motion asking dissolution of the injunction.

The writs of injunction were made returnable to the next term of 91st district court, which begins Monday, June 7.

The flustered, middle-aged stranger who stood there identified himself as her brother, home for the first time in 40 years.

But what made his re-appearance more startling was that friends had reported him dead in Chicago two months before.

The brother, James Leroy Green, 58, object of a nationwide, year-long search, had come back to claim his quarter share of the estate of a wealthy aunt.

Forty years ago, Green lived with his sister on a farm three miles west of Lorain, Adventurous and ambitious, he had left home at 18 to seek his fortune.

That was the last Mrs. Heilman saw of her brother until his return.

In February, 1936, Green, with two sisters and a brother, inherited a quarter share of the estate of Olivia Loomis, his aunt.

No relative had heard from Green for years. None knew where he was. Advertisements in newspapers over the continent urged him to claim his legacy.

Then, after a year's search, he was found in Chicago. Mrs. Heilman, overjoyed, wrote to him, enclosing train fare to Lorain. Exactly a week later a friend in Chicago telegraphed that Green was dead.

Minter said the diaries mention a prominent actor, who was a friend of Miss Minter when she was murdered. The district attorney said the man would be identified.

Balancing Budget Calls for Stern Measures

The Congress evidently wouldn't have an objection in the world to balancing the budget, if the job could be done without either levying new taxes or cutting down on spending.

Early reception of the President's budget recommendations in Congress ought to make it easy for anyone to understand why it is such a mortally hard job to cut down on government spending once you get it started.

Mr. Ordinary Congressman, who is in there with a pet bill to spend $100,000,000 on the deepening, straightening, beautification, and elimination of roadside ditches, gets up and hammers the tub as soon as that lovely word, economy, is mentioned. He is all for it, he thinks it is fine, he is determined that the federal government shall put its house in order, new taxes must be avoided, the budget must be balanced—and so on and so on, as long as he thinks anyone is listening.

But a great change comes over him as soon as someone suggests that his own $100,000,000 project must be one of the things to be dropped.

This project is different. It is vitally necessary. The country needs it. He will fight like grim death to save it. The $100,000,000 involved can easily be saved by making cuts elsewhere—by digging, for example, into the $200,000,000 which his good friend and colleague, Representative Gerryman, would spend on the eradication of painter's colic.

Hearing this, Representative Gerryman—who has been yelling for economy with the best of them—utters pitiful moans and announces that his bill is precisely the one bill which is indisputably essential. Let it stay on the docket, and save money by weeding the surviving Republicans out of the clerical staffs in the government departments.

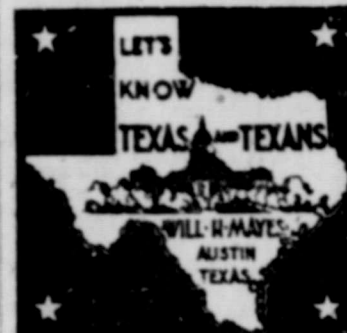

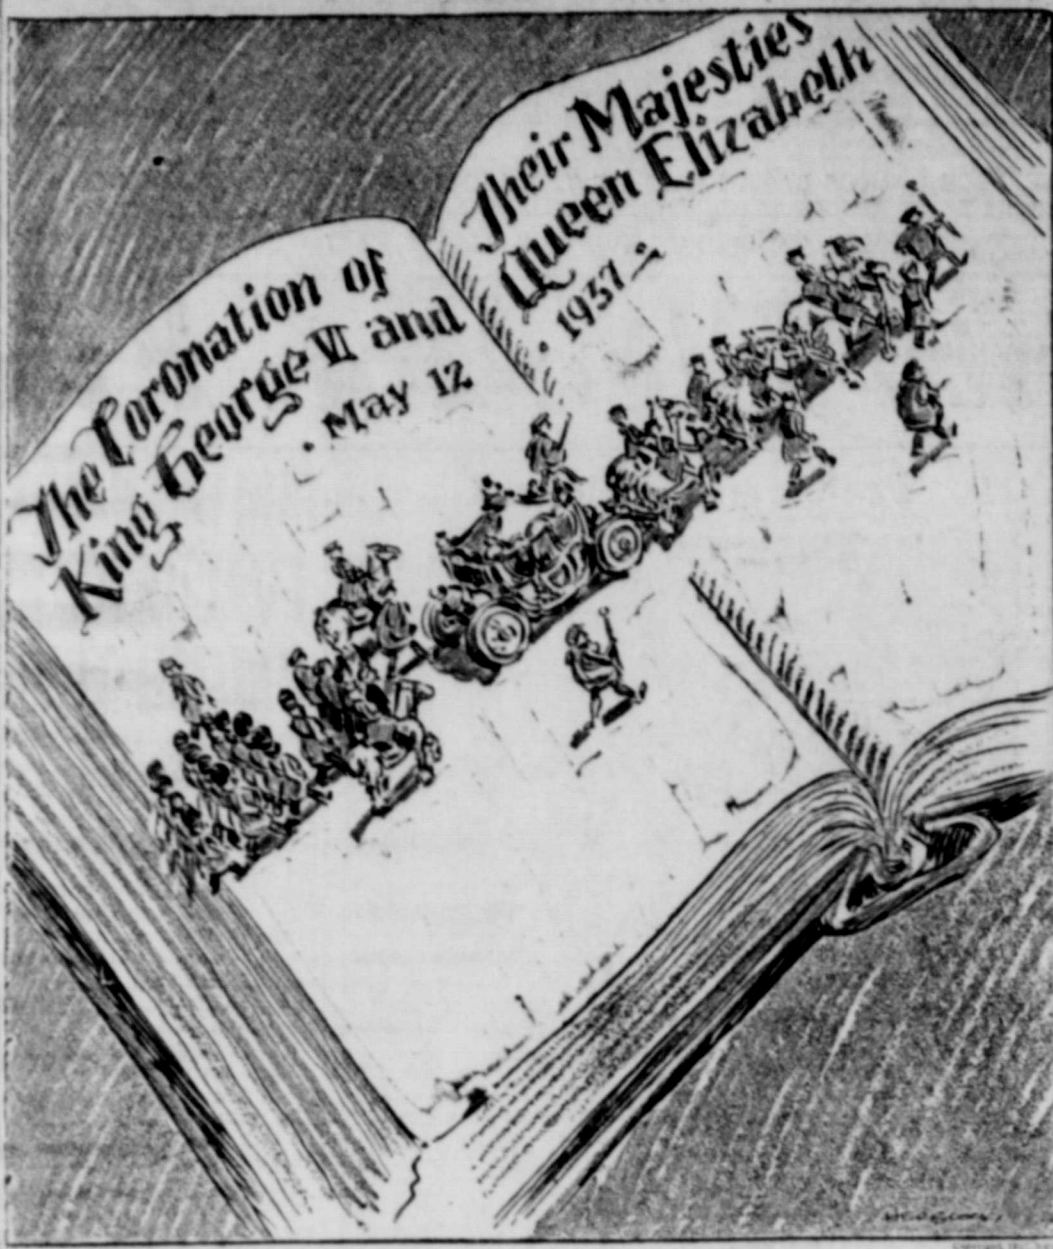

Presently, before the outsider knows quite what is happening, these two congressmen get together and agree to stand fast for each other's bills and to try to make the needed savings elsewhere. Their circle grows, as other congressmen with pet projects join them; and the upshot, as likely as not, is that Congress blandly appropriates half a billion more than it appropriated the year before, and blows in the direction of economy by reducing the staffs of half dozen of the federal bureaus which are actually doing some useful work.

There is no particular point in reviewing all this here, except to remark that the way to cut expenses is—surprisingly enough—to cut expenses. If we are going to balance the budget, a lot of pet projects will have to be discarded. The government will have to forego doing various things which probably ought to be done. It will have to withhold money from causes that genuinely need money.

If the resoluteness and hardboiledness to do just that sort of thing are not forthcoming, we shall not get a balanced budget. It is all very well to say, "Yes, we must save money—but this project is essential." Balanced budgets just don't come out of that sort of talk.

A radio comedians' wife is suing him for divorce, charging excessive cruelty. That seems a mild way of describing listening to those jokes.

ANOTHER LINE IN BRITISH HISTORY

July 13 About Only Date Not Urged For Legislative Adjournment With Christmas Day Rated as 100 to 1 Shot

AUSTIN, Tex.—As far as is known, no one has suggested July 13 as adjournment date of the regular session of the Forty-fifth legislature.

That is about the only date that hasn't been proposed. The 120-day period set by the state constitution is nearly up and if legislators don't go home May 11 they will find their pay envelopes almost as flat as a toy balloon "the morning after."

The constitution states that lawmakers may draw $10 a day for 120 days. Thereafter the pay is reduced to only $5 a day.

This, of course, doesn't take into consideration the possibility of a special session being called by Gov. James V. Allred.

It may have been either or both of the two rather strongly worded messages he sent to the legislators that has given them the idea that Allred will call just such a session.

Allred has demanded compliance with the state Democratic platform commitment that horse race betting repeal should receive some sort of definite vote before the legislators go home.

A United Press poll revealed legislative sentiment regarding the extra session: Thumbs up, indicating approval approximately six.

Thumbs down, indicating disapproval—approximately 172. Indifferent, indicating the new non-directional thumb wave—approximately three.

The three indifferent ones are Sen. Houghton Brownlee, 63-year-old Rep. John B. Patterson and 37-year-old Rep. Homer Thornberry, all of Austin. They will remain right here at home, except Patterson, who, in a confidential aside, intimated that he has a rendezvous with fish, not law west of the Pecos.

But when you boil the whole thing down, no one really knows what's going to happen before legislative adjournment.

Even a poll in the two press rooms under the dome, wherein work 22 newspaper and news service correspondents, reveals that there is a startling divergence of opinion over special session possibilities.

State League Meet To Attract Many

AUSTIN, Texas—The University of Texas campus was prepared this week to receive between 2,500 and 3,000 visitors when the 27th annual Interscholastic League meeting convenes Thursday for a three-day session.

The 1,000 high school contestants, survivors of district eliminations, will be accompanied here by 400 teachers and 1,000 parents and friends.

They will register Thursday afternoon, Friday and Saturday they will engage in the grim business of competing for state championships in a dozen different activities.

On the list are public speaking, journalism, typing, shorthand, drawing, extemporaneous theme writing and one-act play contests.

Restricted to rural contestants is a "Three R" contest combining reading, writing and arithmetic.

The high school contestants are the cream of the cream. Roy Bedinek, director of the interscholastic meet, said, "They are the first place winners in several elimination contests."

The 1,000 parents and friends who will accompany the contestants are "camp followers," Bedinek said.

Social events are on the program for those not too busy with contests. Various University organizations play host to the visitors.

Fraternity and sorority houses are thrown open to take care of the overflow after downtown hotels are crowded to capacity.

From the 20 high schools in the state's eight districts will come some 400 tennis, track and field stars.

Strenuous county, district and regional competition has been survived by them. Preliminary events Friday and Saturday morning will still further narrow the field for the championship determining finals Saturday afternoon.

As Rebels Swept on to Bilbao

The Rebels' merciless drive on Bilbao; the fronts at Madrid, Cordoba, and the territory held by Loyalists and Rebels are shown on the above map of Spain.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

WASHINGTON—Lots of statistics pour out of the various government bureaus these days, but there is one thing on which there issues not a single statistic.

That is the rising tide of government payrolls. The latest word on that is from the President's Committee on Administrative Management, which is authority for the statement that between June 30, 1932, and June 30, 1936, the civilian employees of the executive branch of the federal government increased from 578,231 to 824,259. That is a gain, in four years, of 246,028, or more than 40 per cent.

Perhaps that gives you a cue as to why it is always hard to trim federal expenses. Every one of these employes defends his job resolutely, and most of them have direct influence with congressmen who appointed them. When you cut budgets, you cut jobs. And that's where the shoe pinches.

Incidentally, this rise is a tendency that runs throughout all government, not merely the federal government at Washington, though attention centers here at the moment. In 1921 there were 82 people working for national, state and local governments for each 100,000 of population. In 1931 there were about 250. In 1934, 10 per cent of the national income was being paid to government officeholders in salaries, federal, state and local.

Admittedly it would reduce government operation costs to cut these rolls, but the thing usually assumed—that many of these people do little or nothing—isn't true. It is simply that the last four years something in Eastern government bureaus never seen before have been abandoned, and people to man them, can't cut personnel to the extent without abandoning functions and activities. It is where the congressional pinches, not to mention pricks from constituents, are looked after in their own way.

Party lineups are doing strange dances these days. Hoover praising the re-advance of some Republicans, and they learn that Ogden has been giving a series of lectures before the New York School of Social Work, and he is known to be less conservative than Coolidge.

Mills, discussing at School the future of the Republican Party, said: "It is a residuary legate of the individual man has his government, and prior to government, and that government may deny him the right without arresting program making them slaves."

A rough peroration to the echo of Thomas Jefferson, arch-radical, Tom Paine, writings once inflamed to explain why many Republicans and Democrats as well, deriding today just as party lines are drawn.

Admittedly it would reduce government operation costs to cut these rolls, but the thing usually assumed—that many of these people do little or nothing—isn't

FRAID to Love

By MARION WHITE © 1937 NEA SERVICE, INC.

MISS GREELEY'S severity increased. She did not like young men who smoked without first asking her permission.

"You thought?" she prompted.

"Well—in the event that he might wish to remember Miss Barrett in his will—he would, of course, want to know more about her."

"Your uncle sent you here to make these inquiries?"

"Yes," he replied, a little hesitantly. "That is—in a way, my uncle sent me."

"I do not understand you, young man. Did your uncle send you or not?"

"Well—not exactly—"

"I see. Suppose then, you leave your uncle's name and address with me and I will mail him a formal report within a few days."

Philip fidgeted in his chair. This was becoming an ordeal. Curse Sybil and her silly suspicions, anyway.

"My uncle would prefer," he replied, brightening as he suddenly thought of a plausible answer. "If I brought him the report personally, Miss Barrett, as I explained, is his confidential secretary. Any report coming through the mails would naturally fall into her hands first. He does not wish to embarrass her, of course."

"Of course,"

Miss Greeley pressed a buzzer on her desk. A moment later a young woman stepped into her office.

"Miss Baldwin, will you bring me the record card of Joan Barrett, class of 1927?"

"Yes, Miss Greeley."

Philip looked after Miss Baldwin approvingly. Why the devil hadn't he asked for Miss Greeley's secretary instead of the old Amazon herself?

TO Philip it seemed an age before Miss Baldwin returned with the desired information.

"Thank you, Miss Baldwin. I shall return this to you later," Miss Greeley took the card and studied it carefully for a moment.

"Miss Barrett," she told Philip presently, "seems to have been one of our best students. Her department record is perfect. Scholastically she was very much above the average, particularly in history, literature and foreign languages. I can give you her marks in each subject, should you desire specific details. There is no indication of any laxity either in punctuality or attendance. She was a member of the French club and played on the basketball team. . . . Is there anything else you would like to know, young man?"

Sport Glances. . . . . By Grayson

BY HARRY GRAYSON
Sports Editor, NEA Service

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md.—Merry Maker may well be first "poor" man, or to be more exact, "poor" woman's man in decades to win the Kentucky Derby, particularly if it comes mud at Churchill Downs, May 8.

Merry Maker clearly demonstrated this at Havre de Grace the other afternoon when in the muck the bay gelding easily won the Glen Oaks at a mile and 70 yards from Sun Phantom, Court Scandal, and Matey, which finished in the order named.

Although Charley Kurtzinger held Merry Maker under strong restraint in the final sixteenth, the son of Cynic negotiated the distance in 1:46 1/3, estimable under the conditions.

Merry Maker improved after Willie A. Shea claimed him from Maxie Hirsch last year.

Shea races Merry Maker in the name of his wife, Myrtle, and trains the steed himself.

When I say that a "poor" couple's thoroughbred stands a chance of copping the Derby, I do not mean to infer that the Sheas are exactly starving. But beside the Whiteys, Vanderbills, Woodwards, Mars', Fields, du Ponts, Howards, Sloanes, Wrights, Waggoners, Phipps', and Bradleys, who have dominated the turf for so many years, the Sheas' little pile is what the state tax is to a banquet check.

SHEA, who is in his 50s, is a New Yorker active in the affairs of Tammany Hall and an old and close friend of John F. Curry, former leader of that organization.

Willie is a 100 per cent horseman.

Racing bangtails is vastly more than amusement to him. It is his livelihood, and he has had his ups and downs. He plays his own horses hard and high.

Shea will be recalled as the owner of the one-eyed Sandy Ford, which in 1930 was a surprise winner of the Dixie Handicap at Pimlico. The victory was worth $26,025 to Shea in addition to the killing fee and members of Tammany Hall made at $67.50 to $1.

At that time, Shea was reputed to be worth $100,000. John McKenna then trained his horses, but it was the end of the golden and giddy days, and Shea is said to have stuck his entire fortune back into horses. Merry Maker is the first good one he has had since Sandy Ford, which had to be destroyed when he lost the sight of his other eye.

BECAUSE of the mud, most of the experts picked Merry Maker to finish on top in the Glen Oaks, but the crowd installed Walter M. Jeffords' Matey favorite.

While Merry Maker is at his very best when the rest are floundering around in the soup, he also can hit it up at a good clip on a fast track.

Tammany Hall is pulling for mud on Derby day, but will back Merry Maker with something more than three cheers and a tiger regardless.

There will be plenty of merry making in the Wigwam if Merry Maker, the "poor" couple's horse, comes down in front.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By Mrs. Gaynor Maddox
NEA Service Staff Writer

DON'T get caught in any kitchen shell game. The only thing that makes an egg fresh is freshness.

How tell when an egg is truly fresh? Dr. Alfred Van Wageningen and Dr. H. S. Wilgus, Jr., of Cornell University actually photographed freshness in "the broken out condition" of eggs.

When an egg is broken out on a flat surface, you can detect its freshness. If the yolk stands up, almost spherically, with the white firm and jelly like, closely about it, then it is the best possible egg.

On the other hand, as revealed by the Cornell photographs, if when the egg is broken out, the yolk is considerably flattened and the white watery and spread over the plate, it is just an average grade "C" egg.

Fresh eggs are delicacies that rate delicate treatment. As per example:

Egg Nest on Shrimp
(Individual serving)
One egg, 1 round of freshly made toast, 1 tablespoon shrimp paste, salt and pepper.
Separate yolk from white, keeping yolk unbroken. Beat white and season. Make round of toast and spread with 1 tablespoon shrimp paste. Make a mound on toast of stiffly beaten egg white, shaping out well in center. Carefully slide unbroken yolk into this well. Dot with butter. Cook in hot oven for a few minutes until yolk is set. Serve immediately.

Shrimp Paste
Chop fresh cooked or glassed shrimp very fine. Add butter and lemon juice and work to paste. Season with a little condensed tomato condiment. Do not have too moist.

Eggs Poached in Cream
(Six servings)
Six eggs, 1 pint cream, 1-2 cup grated American cheese, salt and pepper, paprika.
Heat cream in poaching pan but do not boil. Break in whole eggs, add cheese and seasoning. Keep fire low and spoon cream over eggs until set. Serve on toast with the cream and cheese sauce.

Aged Employees Urged to Obtain Security Numbers

AUSTIN—Employees over sixty-five years of age who are working for employers subject to the Texas Unemployment Compensation Act are urged to secure Federal Social Security account numbers, Chairman-Director Orville S. Carpenter announced today.

Mr. Carpenter pointed out that the Federal Social Security Board has made account numbers available for employees in this classification, who, because of their age, are not covered by the Old Age Benefits section of the Social Security Act, but nevertheless are included in the state unemployment compensation program. The account numbers may be obtained by applying at any postoffice, and will be used by the Unemployment Compensation Commission to facilitate the keeping of records of employees' earnings from which their benefits will be determined if they should later be employed. Benefits, of course, will not be payable until after January 1, 1938.

"It is required that employers' first quarterly summary reports, which will be due on May 31," Mr. Carpenter said, "show each employee's account number as well as his name. Appropriate forms for filing these reports were mailed last week to the approximately 12,000 employers subject to the Texas act."

Mr. Carpenter stated today that the Texas Commission has deposited in the Unemployment Trust Fund $9,041,141.94, a sum sufficient to pay maximum benefits of $15.00 a week for 15 weeks to 40,182 persons.

The British government is again reopening the war debt question. It would save a lot of lost motion if they put a zipper on it.

Compliment to Mrs. Herbert Stafford and Mrs. Roy Roberts, Popular Visitors

A series of lovely courtesies paid honor to the visits of Mrs. Herbert Stafford of Port Arthur and Mrs. Roy Roberts, Corpus Christi, who yesterday drew their visit to a close.

The very delightful program of entertainment opened when Mrs. T. L. Landerdale invited a group of ten close friends of the honorees into her home for one o'clock luncheon.

The smartly appointed board carried for its center a cluster of spring blossoms. Covers were designated through place cards in harmonizing tint.

Mrs. A. H. Allison opened her attractively decorated home for a tea during the hours from 3 to 5 o'clock, naming as honoree, Mrs. Herbert Stafford, who made Ranger her home until some two years ago when she and her family moved to Port Arthur.

A colorful profusion of flowers were, used to artistic advantage in the entertaining rooms. Marking a division between the living room and dining room stood a huge basket.

There will be no going early to get a good seat at the big production "Rangers Casa Manana" on Friday night of next week. Every seat in the entire house is reserved and those who buy first will get the select seats, according to J. N. Crawford who is in charge of the production.

Tickets bought from students will be exchanged for reserved seats at the Texas Electric Service Company's display room adjacent to the Paramount Hotel.

The seating plan for the Recreation Building will be at this location Saturday all day. As there will be no admission except to reserved seats, patrons of the show are asked to secure their tickets at once.

Members working with their president, Mrs. O. G. Lanier, have during the week been busily engaged in the selling of tickets and they have met with a very generous and gracious response. Many realize the value of an active city council and are cooperating in making this a successful undertaking, the first banquet to have been attempted by the membership.

the title heroine who deserts her manager at the altar and pursues a handsome young American to his country. Here she encounters a series of hectic experiences which lands her in jail into love with two men and finally into marriage with one of her suitors.

Miss Pons presents to motion picture audiences the widest variety of music ever brought to the screen in one feature. She sings three popular songs written by Arthur Schwartz and Eddie Heyman, she "swings" Johann Strauss' "The Blue Danube Waltz" to a brilliant new arrangement, she sings "Tarantella," and to top it all off, she renders the beautiful aria, "Una Voce Poco Fa" from "The Barber of Seville" by Rossini.

With Raymond, Oakie, Bing, Mischa Auer, Frank Jenks, Lucille Ball and Linton Haworth, Miss Pons is surrounded by a highly versatile cast. Nathaniel Shilkret directed the music, and Andre Kostelanetz, famed radio conductor, supervised the songs Miss Pons sings. Leigh Jason directed "That Girl from Paris," an RKO Radio Picture.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Caused by Tired Kidneys

Many of those quinine, sodium, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and can be relieved when treated in the right way. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisons out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 2 pounds of waste. If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start itching backaches, rheumatic pains, lumbago, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Modern Freedom FOR MODERN WOMEN

Sanitary Protection without Pads Nappkins or Belts

FOR today's women... busy, modern, throwing off ancient shackles... Better ways were created. Here is a method that ends the discomfort, the inconvenience and the embarrassment that heretofore has been an unavoidable part of this feminine problem. With B-ettes there is no consciousness of wearing a sanitary protection at all. They are completely invisible in use... deodorant... and, though they safely and efficiently perform the purpose of ordinary nappkins, B-ettes are so tiny that a day's supply can be carried unobtrusively in a handbag. Never before have women known such comfort... such convenience... such daintiness... in a sanitary protection.
