SCENE OF HINDENBURG AS IT EXPLODED THURSDAY

As the Hindenburg exploded at Lakehurst, N. J., last night, an Aime Telephoto photographer—his camera focused on the mammoth dirigible—snapped the above picture, one of the most remarkable news shots ever taken. The airship was dropping her lines to be hauled into the navy mooring mast, and photographers were following a routine assignment. Suddenly the explosion demolished an entire section of the dirigible's structure and the "Flying Hotel" burst into a mass of flame. Rushed to New York, this picture was sped across the continent by Telephoto to appear here with news of the disaster. — NEA Service.

DEATH TOLL IN HINDENBURG IS PLACED AT 32

LAKEHURST, N. J., May 7.—Revised compilations today listed 32 known dead or missing in the flames that destroyed the 800-foot German dirigible Hindenburg.

United States sailors and survivors of the German crew poked among the tangles wreckage for additional bodies.

Agents for the Hindenburg announced that the body of a woman was found in the control car when the wreckage was searched today. It was said that the woman was "presumed" to be a stewardess.

Agents reported that it was unusual for any woman to be in the control room.

Another body, unidentified, also was recovered in the wreckage today.

American and German officials, meantime, converged here for formal inquiry to seek the explanation of the spark that enveloped the hydrogen-filled airship in flames, just as she was landing last night after her first transatlantic voyage this year.

Ambassador Hans Luther came from Washington to head the German representation. Dr. Fred Farg, head of the bureau of air commerce, was on hand and Admiral Cook, chief of the bureau of naval aviation, flew here from Washington.

As to the "why" of the explosion that brought disaster to Germany's efficiency in airship aviation over many years, the experts seemed as puzzled as Capt. Ernst Lehmann, veteran Zeppelin navigator, who escaped from the flames murmuring, "I don't understand."

In the words of Commander Charles Rosendahl, chief of the Lakehurst Naval Air Station and himself a survivor of the Shenandoah disaster, all that was known was:

"A fire appeared in the after part of the ship and worked forward. The ship settled to the ground, tail first, and was almost completely ablaze for her entire length by the time the ground was reached."

According to lists issued by the Zeppelin Company, out of 97 aboard, most of them Europeans, 66 were known to be alive. The 66 comprised 24 of the 26 passengers and 42 of the crew of 61.

One member of the ground crew died of burns. This made a total of 32 known dead or unaccounted for.

Among the seriously injured were Captain Max Pruss, commander of the Hindenburg, and Capt. Lehmann, who commanded here last year, but was an advisor on this voyage.

"Both men, in fact all survivors, are suffering from shock," one official said. "They are punch drunk. The question is whether they will recover from shock and their burns."

The Hindenburg left Frankfurt, Germany, Tuesday on the first of this season's flights to the United States. Last summer she had cruised back and forth over the North Atlantic, carrying hundreds of passengers without a mishap.

Justices W. P. Leslie, O. C. Funderburk and Clyde Grissom and Clerk Dan Childress of the 11th court of civil appeals tonight at Sweetwater will be guests of the Sweetwater Bar association at a fish fry.

Parent Teacher Banquet Thursday Is Big Success

The basement of First Methodist church where the banquet affair given by the City Council and its branches all local Parent-Teacher associations and study clubs Thursday evening, brought to the current calendar of social happenings an entertainment which has not been exceeded both in artistic decorations and program theme.

Long tables were surfaced in white and green and carried for center pieces bouquets of purple larkspur and roses. Spacing those fragrant clusters of blossoms were lacy runners of fern and other bits of greenery. Place cards marked plates for over one hundred guests.

The speakers table seated the guest speaker Mr. Don H. Morris and wife of Abilene where Mr. Morris serves as vice president of Abilene Christian college. Other notables were the master of ceremonies Mr. Rupert Ringold, Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Lanier, Mr. and Mrs. B. M. LaMance and Misses H. D. Bishop, F. E. Jacobs, Carl Clemmer and J. B. Houghton, and leader of the sing-song, J. E. Moroney.

Invocation was given by O. G. Lanier, and greetings were graciously extended by the president of the City Council, Mrs. O. G. Lanier. Program opened with a beautiful number, a violin duet, made up of Miss Evelyn Long and Mrs. Margaret Hart Blanchard and accompanist, Mrs. Weldon W. Webb. Evening formal added much color to the already prettily decorated platform.

Mrs. M. R. Newsham and Miss Jennie Lou Bartrug, played a piano duet which also drew rounds of applause. A specialty number one enjoyed for its spice and individuality was offered by the clever impersonator, Mrs. Lee Galley, who is accorded another mark of distinction for her rare ability as an entertainer.

M. B. LaMance, sang a lovely vocal solo accompanied by Mrs. LaMance.

The address of the evening was one long to be remembered for its simplicity but far reaching effect. The theme, "Education" and its basic ingredients. Physical and spiritual training was well stressed along with other valued suggestions playing a large part in early school training, both in the home and in the classroom. Learning to live by living was a high point in the interesting talk by Mr. Morris.

High eulogy was paid the local City Council and respective branches. Cooperation, the key note to success was touched upon rounding out the well interwoven talk.

The delicious plate of creamed chicken and trimmings was served by the Women's Missionary society of the Methodist church.

ANGLERS PROVE HONEST ANTIOCH, Cal.—Les Creason is convinced that fishing is conducive to honesty—if not to truth in telling fishing stores. Since he established a bait house where anglers serve themselves to fish bait and leave the money in a box, not a single customer has failed to pay in full.

PERPIGNAN, France, May 7.—Three hundred persons, injured in street fighting, died overnight in Barcelona hospitals for lack of medical care, frontier reports said today.

Hundreds more were reported dying, victims of the insurrection which flared anew today through all the Catalan state.

Anarchists, making a desperate bid for the power denied them in recent governments, were reported to have issued an ultimatum to the two-day-old government composed of a four-man directorate.

LA PALICCE, France, May 7.—Basque children from war-torn Bilbao, homesick, frightened and hungry, landed today from the liner Habana to seek new homes and friends in France.

As they landed the children were taken to breakfast. Bakers of the region had worked all night to provide a ton of bread for them as a present. Fishermen gave their day's catch, farmers gave beef.

There were 2,373 children on board, ranging from three to 15 years, and 110 aged women and men.

Lindbergh Race to Be Run This Year

PARIS, May 7.—Air Minister Pierre Cot ruled today that the Lindbergh anniversary airplane race from New York to Paris would be held in August, as scheduled, overriding the American objection.

Twenty-two entries were filed before the entry list closed May first.

Aviation authorities in America suggested the air race be postponed one year.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh flew from New York to Paris in May, 1927.

Fort 700 Years Old Found Under Louvre

PARIS.—The need for more underground space in Paris' famous Louvre Museum has led to the discovery of the walls of a fortress, which was built 700 years ago by King Philip Augustus. Workers were digging under the Pavillon de l'Horloge while cutting a subterranean passage and an underground room when they found the ancient walls.

Lone Star Picnic Awarded to Cisco

CISCO, May 7.—The Chamber of Commerce has received official notification by Lone Star officials that Cisco has been chosen as the site of the company's annual picnic June 26.

It is estimated 800 employees and families will attend. Softball, bridge, band concert, basket lunch, skating and dancing are features planned for the meeting.

State Capitol Is Badly In Need of Extensive Repairs

AUSTIN.—Condition of the state capitol, begun in 1882 and completed in 1888, was described as "awful" to the Texas Senate in an effort to get $750,000 appropriated to repair it.

The departmental appropriation bill carried $51,000 for various repairs, including strengthening the 311-foot dome, installing a sprinkler system in the basement and replacing some wooden floors.

Those who had thought the big granite walls were good for ages had a surprise. Sen. Joe Hill, Henderson, chairman of an investigating committee, revealed that the granite has a highly combustible sediment in it and that the walls would crumble under intense heat.

He revealed also that the limestone rock upon which the capitol walls rest is disintegrating. The southeast corner, he said, is most affected.

Legislators are most fearful of the ceilings. Both House and Senate chambers have glass ceilings. The glass is two inches thick and each section weighs about 700 pounds. One fell several years ago in the Senate chamber. Others need constant watching because 200 reported leaks in the Capitol roof let moisture reach the metal frames in which the huge glasses rest. A night meeting of the Senate recently was interrupted by a hail and rain storm. Members rushed from their seats to stand under the galleries.

Eastland Woman at Relative's Funeral Attends Funeral of Father in Alabama

L. L. Hull, father of Mrs. W. J. Peters, Eastland, died Thursday morning at Shawnee, Okla., after a long illness. Mrs. Peters' husband left to attend the funeral services. Mrs. Peters had gone to Shawnee earlier this week.

O. H. Doss of Eastland was at Hartselle, Ala., today to attend funeral services of his father, C. M. Doss, 75, who died Thursday morning.

HOSPITALS FOR INSANE GIVEN SENATE VOTE

AUSTIN, May 7.—The Texas Senate today adopted a conference committee report for building two new hospitals for the insane, one in East Texas and one in West Texas.

Appropriations of $817,000 was made for each. The sites are to be donated and to be selected by the state board of control.

Sen. Weaver Moore of Houston told the Senate that the governor had said he would veto the East Texas hospital and would veto both if the two were put together in one item. Moore called on Sen. G. H. Nelson of Lubbock, sponsor of the West Texas hospital, for confirmation of that statement. Nelson remained silent.

Under the bill the governor may veto one without the other.

Sen. Gordon Burns of Huntsville gave the Senate a laugh by saying the East Texans had been "city slicked" by the West Texans.

Special Session Looms As Likely

AUSTIN, May 7.—Prospects of special session of the Texas Legislature increased today with the senate refusal to override Gov. Alfred's veto of a private carrier motor truck bill.

By sustaining the veto the senate prevented any legislation on that topic during this session. It was estimated 40,000 trucks are subject to prosecution unless there is a special session to make some regulation.

The senate also reduced the tax diversion for erosion projects and sent the soil conservation bill back to the house.

Neither the house or senate bill follows the model bill drafted by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Son of Eastland Residents Given New Health Work

Bunting Is Up and Everything Ready for C.C. Convention

BY RICHARD M. MOREHEAD
United Press Staff Correspondent
BROWNWOOD, Texas—The bunting was up today, the program arranged, and delegations ready to converge on this city for the 19th annual West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention to be held May 10-12.

Eighty-two towns, including Roswell, N. M., had nominated their directors to be approved when the convention holds its annual election.

Planners predicted that this year's meeting, backed by a rising tide of "better times" in the west West Texas area, would be one of the best attended in history.

The three-day program included:

Speakers—Gov. James V. Allred; Attorney Gen. William McCraw; Col. E. O. Thompson, state railroad commissioner; Harry Hines, state highway commissioner; H. H. Williams, director of extension for Texas A. & M. College; D. P. Trent, Dallas, regional director of the Resettlement Administration; J. C. Hunter, Abilene oil operator, and Van Zandt Jarvis, Fort Worth, president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Bands—From Texas Christian University, Fort Worth, Hardin-Simmons University, Abilene; John Tarleton Agricultural College, Stephenville; Wichita Falls, Cisco, Coleman, Brady, Brownwood, and Fort Stockton. Approximately 40 bands are entered.

Conferences—"West Texas Farm Problems," including irrigation and soil conservation; farm tenancy, and far legislation.

speaking contest with nearly 50 entries competing for a scholarship at Hardin-Simmons University, and a civic activities contest.

To lighten the formal sessions, convention managers have arranged for entertainers from many cities of West Texas, quartets, stage bands, dancers, signers and novelty performers.

Delegates are expected to take advantage of the fishing season to try their luck in Lake Brownwood, one of the section's favorite "fishing spots."

A "West Texas Follies" revue will be given the nights of May 10 and May 11, and sponsors nominated from 40 towns will compete for the honor of becoming "Miss West Texas."

Texas Employers Have Refunds On Security Payments

AUSTIN—Refunds or return of contribution payments in the total amount of $14,745.75 have been received by 240 Texas employers from the Unemployment Compensation Commission to date, Chairman Director Orville S. Carpenter revealed today.

Many refunds were necessitated by erroneous computing of contributions, although at least ninety per cent of the refunds were made to employers who are not liable for the payment of contributions.

"The law provides that any over-payment, or any contribution received from an employer not subject to the act, must be returned promptly," Mr. Carpenter pointed out. "All payments received are carefully checked by the Collections Department, and if there is any error it is found and immediately corrected."

New Duck Plan Points Way to Save Wildlife

NEW YORK—"And a little duck shall lead them."

Is that the way the biblical passage will be found to have been paraphrased when, at last, a solution of the nation's wildlife restoration problem has been discovered?

Present indications are, according to More Game Birds Foundation, that the problem of diminishing wild ducks will be solved before substantial recovery is made by other wildlife.

Really united on a national scale for the first time, wildfowlingers of over 40 states are giving daily increasing impetus to the program of Ducks Unlimited which has as its purpose preservation and management of the continent's greatest duck-breeding area.

"The Ducks Unlimited program," the Foundation declares, "is devised to remedy the wild duck decline by first curing the fundamental causes. It is predicated upon the knowledge that the startling decrease of wild ducks during the past decade is due largely to destroyed natural nesting environment.

"Destroy the breeding grounds of any species and you sound the death knell of that species," the Foundation warns.

The Canadian prairie provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba—the continental duck factory produce the bulk of the North American wild ducks. But drought and agricultural development has thrown the factory far off a capacity production basis. Eighty per cent of the water areas have dried up in some sections.

The program of Ducks Unlimited calls for restoration of formerly productive portions of the area over a scheduled period of five years. Water levels are to be re-established and various management practices instituted to increase duck production in cooperation with the Canadian Prairie Farms drought relief program and other provincial water conservation plans.

So certain of positive results are the sponsors of this plan that they are predicting it will produce practical results "in wild duck restoration work which can be utilized to increase the duck supply in other parts of the continent." Its basic elements of wildlife management may be applied to every phase of wildlife restoration.

Some $5,000,000 will be needed to carry out the five-year schedule of the Ducks Unlimited program. The money, payable in annual installments, is being raised through private subscriptions by committees of representative Millions of people have used Kellogg's ALL-BRAN with satisfactory results. Laboratory tests prove it's safe and effective.

Within the body, ALL-BRAN absorbs twice its weight in water, and by cleansing the intestines, it's food better than taking weakening pills and drugs?

At two tablespoonfuls daily, it cleanses the system, in severe cases, it's a cereal with milk or cream, a recipe. Sold by all grocers, and guaranteed by Kellogg's Battle Creek.

Aluminum Suit Halted by Judge

A restraining order granted by Federal Judge R. M. Gibson, above, in Pittsburgh, temporarily halted the government's anti-trust suit against the Aluminum Company of America. The order was based on the company's contention that it was already observing terms of a consent decree resulting from a "parallel" suit brought in Pittsburgh in 1912. The government's suit was filed in the southern district of New York.

RANGER CHILDREN TO STAR IN MOVIE TO BE MADE HERE

Melton Barker to arrive soon from Hollywood to produce the picture, a two-reel comedy, similar to "Our Gang" comedies. Approximately one hundred children will be used in the picture.

Melton Barker of Hollywood will arrive in Ranger soon to produce a two-reel comedy similar to "Our Gang" comedies, according to an announcement by B. E. Garner of the Arcadia Theatre. The local play will be a kidnap story and will be shown at the Arcadia Theatre when completed.

Barker has the distinction of having discovered Spanky McFarland, who is now starring in Hal Roach's "Our Gang" productions. Barker and Spanky are shown in the picture above.

The entire picture will be made in Ranger and about seventy-five children will be used in the cast. Some singing and dancing will be used in the picture but it will not be necessary for the child to be able to sing and dance to get a good part as all types of children are needed to fill out the cast.

After the cast has been selected there will be a three or four days of rehearsals, teaching them to act before the sound camera and to talk over the microphone. There will be a small charge for this training, however, there will be no charge for registering and try-outs.

Children between the ages of 3 to 12 years wishing to try out for parts must register at the Arcadia theatre at once. When the casting director arrives in town he will get in touch with those who have registered and arrange for try-outs. Rehearsals and shooting of the picture will not interfere with school work.

Wool Scouring Is Not Feasible In Texas at Present

AUSTIN, Tex.—The scouring of Texas wool in Texas is possible but not feasible on a large scale at this time.

This was the finding today of the Texas Planning Board after an exhaustive study of the wool industry which took the Board's wool experts into all of the major scouring plants, woolen mills, worsted mills, and wool commission markets of the nation.

Of the 60,000,000 pounds and more of wool produced in Texas annually, the planning board believes that at this time at least 6,000,000 pounds of this wool can be profitably scoured in Texas for the Southeastern and North Central states market.

Texas wools found practicable of scouring in a Texas plant are—the fall and short spring wools produced in the Del Rio area; the heavy shrinking Plains-Panhandle wools; some of the twelve months San Angelo wool, and the clip-pings and tags which are more largely concentrated in the San Angelo area.

The planning board found further that Houston and Galveston together ship twice as much wool as any other port in the country and ship practically all of the fine short spring and fall wools which are particularly adaptable to scouring in a commission plant.

In addition to the Texas wool shipped through Houston and Galveston practically all of the New Mexico clip flows through these two ports to the eastern scouring plants.

Because of the greater movement of wool through Houston and because of the availability of large quantities of water at low cost, the planning board's report suggests Houston as a logical site for a wool scouring plant in Texas. Such a plant, the report points out, should start with a capacity of 6,000,000 pounds of wool annually. It cost would be about $175,000. Later an additional load of 3,000,000 pounds of New Mexico heavy shrinking wool might be added.

The Board's wool experts estimate that at least forty per cent of the wools scoured in a Texas plant would be consumed in the Southeastern and North Central states and that not over sixty per cent would be consumed in the New England and Middle Atlantic states.

We Must Feel Neutral
to Remain Neutral

It would be hard to heave a rock at any public gathering these days without hitting some speaker who is telling his hearers just what America must do to keep out of war.

The speakers don't seem to agree very well, to be sure. One will declare that only a program of super-preparedness can save us; another, that complete economic self-sufficiency is the only answer; a third, that trade barriers must come down; a fourth, that the munitions makers and international bankers must be curbed.

But they all agree on one thing—that we must stay out of war somehow. And anyone who listens very long, and sees how popular this stay-out-of-war theme is nowadays, must believe that this country's feet are set in the path of peace as never before.

We have been raising all kinds of defenses to the danger of war, of late. We have neutrality laws of high and low degree; we have a great fleet and a strong air force;
we have a law to keep up from lending money to our over seas debtors. We have, in fact, guarded against every danger but one, and it happens to be the only one worth talking about.

We have done nothing—for there is nothing much we can do—about the chance that we ourselves, as individual human beings, may get so that we actually want to go to war.

If you will go back and look at what happened between 1914 and 1917, you can see how that works.

When the World War began in 1914, not one American in a thousand dreamed that it could ever be any direct concern of ours. Europe was a long way off, and it was hard to see what the quarrel was all about. Our predominant emotion was a feeling of thankfulness that it did not affect us.

And then, in spite of ourselves, the thing began to get hold of our emotions. The unspeakable drama of Verdun and Gallipoli and the Somme began to get under our hides. We began to pass judgment on the moral issues of the contest. We began to get irritated at the way in which the chaotic mess slopped over on our own privileges and rights.

The whirligig turned faster and faster, and we grew more and more impassioned about it. And finally, when the German submarine campaign got going, we slid blithely over the dam. We weren't taken into the war by the wiles of propagandists, munitions makers, bankers, or anyone else; we took ourselves in. We had ceased to feel neutral; eventually we stopped being neutral.

You can see the some sort of thing starting, in a modest way, in connection with the war in Spain. We are already beginning to take sides, to sympathize with one group and criticize the other. If that war spreads, so will our tendency to take sides. Carried far enough, this could get us into the war—in spite of all our careful safeguards—just as it did in 1917.

There is where the danger lies: in our own emotions.
Until we learned how to bridle them, we are unprotected.

"OUT OUR WAY" By William

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By Mrs. Gaynor Maddox

AFTERNOON weddings have their own special tidbits. A buffet table with flowers, a tray of canapes, a bride's cake or even a handsome wedding cake in the center, gleaming glasses for champagne or other beverage—behold, the wedding feast awaits the afternoon bride and groom. Simple, yet properly dressed in wedding garments; requires little service, yet is formal enough to honor the occasion.

Gaston Koch calls himself the "Canape King" and hails from Switzerland. His passport proves the Switzerland claim, now let's examine him on his right to the title of "Canape King." Brides-to-be should listen with wrapt attention.

What Makes a Canape Step up, King Koch. What is a canape?

"A California artichoke bottom with a layer of Russian caviar, garnished with tiny pearl onions; a slice of Alaska salmon on a crisp reception biscuit; or a long fillet of anchovy topped with a strip of sweetened Spanish pimento, decorated with two pearl onions."

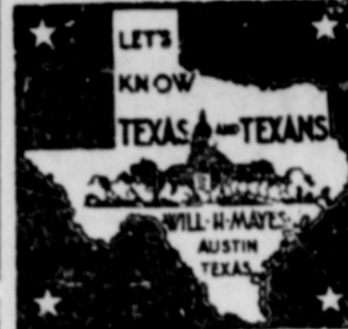

So far so delicious. The jury craves more evidence. "A canape can be a Norwegian cocktail sardine decked with a strip of pimiento; a large shrimp flowered with a small West Indian burr-gherkin; Italian anti-pasto paste spread on a flaky card party biscuit and garnished with an onion-stuffed olive; or again, an artichoke heart snuggling inside a curved anchovy."

The jury is in perfect agreement. Have you anything to say for yourself King Koch of All The Canapes before being sent on your way with honor?

"Yes, if it please the court—and I know it will—a canape is also a curled anchovy, an olive stuffed with toasted jordan almonds and a tiny cocktail shrimp, all on the same caviar toast."

Sunday's Menu

BREAKFAST: Sliced bananas with steamed strawberries, Canadian bacon, rice muffins, marmalade, coffee, milk. DINNER: Tomato juice cocktail, assorted canapes, spring chicken saute in butter, stuffed Idaho potatoes, green peas, asparagus salad, vinaigrette sauce, rhubarb tarts with whipped cream, coffee, milk. SUPPER: Scrambled eggs with broiled sliced ham, biscuits, fruit compote, tea, milk.

Q. Who brought the cowboy song, "Home on the Range" to greatest public attention and popularized it?

A. John McCormack sang it throughout the world and gave it its greatest popularity, along with another range song about equally well known, "Git Along, Little Dogie."

Q. Was "The Eyes of Texas" ever the official Texas State Song?

A. Although for many years before a state song was adopted, "The Eyes of Texas" was considered by most people the state song and is still the song most frequently sung at Texas public gatherings, it was never an official state song, but is the official song of the University of Texas. "Texas, Our Texas" was formally accepted as the state song by the legislature in 1930. The words were written by Gladys Yoakum Wright and W. J. Marsh, and the music composed by Marsh in 1925.

have had a daughter like Joan. That's why I'd like to do something for her. It's no reflection on you, my boy."

"I understand, sir" Bob replied quietly, and his voice was husky with emotion.

"There's one thing more. I'd like Joan to have this house. Oh, I know you have your heart set on a fine place upon your hilltop. You can have that, too. But this place is very dear to me. It's a sort of shrine, I guess you might say, to Nancy. I don't want it to go to Sybil or Phil. They don't understand how I feel about it. Why, Sybil would scrap it for junk. But Joan will understand. I'd like her to keep it for me, if you don't mind. As long as Abraham is alive, it is to be his home. After that, well, let her rent it out to some young couple who would appreciate it—not for the money, but more for the happiness they might find here."

"Joan would do that," Bob assured him. He was a little overcome. That Mr. Hendry had liked and admired Joan, he knew well enough, but never to so great an extent as this.

AS soon as he could trust his voice to be light, he added: "Suppose you plan to live here until our children are married—this would be a fine place to start them out!"

Hendry chuckled. "That's the ideal I never thought of. That's well, I might as well tell you, I'm counting on another 20 years at least. Don't let my little talk fool you. . . . Bless my soul!"

He slapped his thigh vigorously: "When I look at Charley Norton, after all these years—well, tell me now, would you ever think that fellow was 64 years old?"

Bob raised an eyebrow in surprise. "Sixty-four, is he? No, I certainly would never have guessed it."

Hendry took another cigar from the box on the table and bit off the end. He stared at it meditatively before starting to light it.

"Yes, sir, Bob, Charley's a great fellow. We prospected together, out in the Sierra Madre, some 40 years ago, I dare say. Yes, sir, we were kids at the time. Couldn't have been more than 20, myself. And Charley's a year or two older, if anything. He was a great pal. Saved my life once, too."

"He did?" Bob looked up in interest, a little taken back to discover this new angle to Norton's character. "In what way?"

"It was somewhere south of Placerville. We'd come upon an old shaft—abandoned, so it seemed. Of course, foolhardy like

Minister Returns a $450 Bank Night Pot

By United Press FORT WORTH.—It was hard to tell who was most surprised when Rev. J. W. Crowder won $450 at a theater "bank night." Crowder returned the money a few days later.

The Rev. Mr. Crowder, director of extension for the Southwest-ern Baptist Theological Seminary, returned the money after confer- ring with others.

"I feel that I was innocent of any wrong-doing," he said. "I was in the theater to see the show, not to win any award."

Crowder mailed the award back to the theater, including a note that neither his students, fellow ministers, or outsiders would look with favor upon a minister who accepted a "bank night" prize.

The clubhouse, which recently underwent repairs and re-painting of the interior, was quite attractive with bowls and vases of roses in many places. One special attraction was a picture hung above the piano, a painting of "The End of the Trail," the work of Jim Hal Parks, the 12-year-old son of Mrs. David Parks, president of the "21" Study club. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Parks, who spoke some words of welcome to the guests, ending with an appropriate verse of poetry. The program was one of the travel

Another person distinguished for her knowledge of music was Mrs. Fred Warren, who talked on "Classical Music of England."

The importance of good music and its influence was made impressive through the rendition of miscellaneous numbers given by children of various members.

Killingsworth, Cox And Caddo Win Thursday Night

BY CLOIS PHILLIPS

The Killingsworth, Cox ten struck quickly last night, scoring runs in the first, third fifth and sixth frames, to forge ahead enough to have tallies to spare when two Montgomery Ward rallies fell short in the last two stanzas. The final count read Killingsworth Cox 8, Montgomery Ward 4.

The hardwaremen chalked up but ten clean blows off Cox's slants while Ward's batters combed Smith's offerings for the same number of hits. Ward miscues spelled defeat, though, as several costly errors in the pinches cost them runs. Both opposing chunkers hurled fine games.

"Hawkshaw" Greer, fleet little third base patroler, teamed with Marcus Matthews, KC right fielder, to share batting honors for the team. Each banged out two clean bingles in three official trips to the plate.

Simpson and Gray, third base and left fielder respectively, each drove out two hits to safe territory to lead the Wardmen. Cox, Jim Phillips, Hicks and "Pete" Milburn scored the quartet of MW runs. Jack Steuard and Greer each counted twice to lead KC base runners in scoring.

The first inning was over in a hurry. The Wardmen did no harm in their half of the second, but Claud Steuard, Greer and Matthews all hit safely in the KC half to post two tallies to forge ahead. They scored again in the third to make the score 3-0. Neither team made a run in the fourth, but in the fifth frame the fireworks began. Jack Steuard led with a two-bagger over second followed by Lee Dublin's hit which scored Steuard. Then Henderson pecked out a hit to send Dublin across the plate. Long flies by Harbin and Claud Steuard brought Henderson in for the sixth KC marker.

The Wardmen were still scoreless through the fifth. In the sixth little Oscar Simpson, whose batting average is near the .650 mark, belted a double. "Tater" Bishop reached the initial sack on a fielder's choice as Greer tagged Simpson at third. Pitcher Cix then hit safely but the throw into second nipped Bishop. Catcher Jim Phillips doubled, Cox moving to third. Big Bob Earnest came through with a triple that boosted Phillips and Cox over the plate. That ended the scoring as "Chigger" Gray flew out to left for the third out, retiring the side.

"Boss Man" Floyd Killingsworth grounded to start the KC half of the sixth. Greer and Matthews hit safely and "Cobb" Smith flied out. Reese found pay dirt, counting both Greer and Matthews with a double. Jack Steuard grounded to end the scoring.

After Davenport flew out to start the MW half of the last ground, Hicks, Milburn and Simpson found fair territory to chalk up the final two Ward tallies. C. Phillips was tagged out at third.

BY HARRY GRAYSON

NEW YORK.—Baseball men differ in opinion regarding softball's relationship to the hard variety.

George Harold Siler, immortal first baseman who is in the softball business in St. Louis, says that a hard ball prospect gets absolutely nothing out of the playground brand of game.

Joe Cronin, manager of the Boston Red Sox, and others point out that stepping from soft-ball to baseball is quite natural.

Well, anyway, those who fear that soft-ball, a game that has taken the nation by storm, will create an even more acute shortage of baseball talent, can get some consolation out of the fact that Thomas David Henrich, newest recruit of the New York Yankees, is a product of soft-ball.

"The Canton-Massillon region of Ohio, where I hail from, is a football hotbed," says Henrich, who got $25,000 for signing with the Rupperts when Judge Landis declared him a free agent on the ground that Cleveland had "covered him up." "But as my folks said mix on football, I just played ball—soft-ball mostly—when I was young."

HENRICH reported to the Yankees a little shy on training. "After I had written Judge Landis about the middle of January to determine my status, which seemed ambiguous, as I appeared to be the property of two clubs when I figured I was just owned by Cleveland, the commissioner instructed me to report to Milwaukee, pending his decision," asserts Henrich.

"I had the bad luck to twist my knee in a game in New Orleans.

"As my knee is o. k. now, I'm ready and hankering for all the practice inspection Joe McCarthy and his coaches can give me."

Henrich is one of the mighty few who come up to the majors after a strictly soft-ball start. While in high school he was a member of a Massillon softball team in 1931 and '32. He played in the outfield and pitched and his older brother, Edward, was the first baseman.

HENRICH might never have played baseball had not the custodian of a $200 fund, collected by passing the hat for the team with which he played and which was a Massillon town tournament, gone south with the money. The team disbanded as a result and Henrich turned to baseball.

Henrich, the youngest Yankee at 21, couldn't make the Zanesville, O., Grays in the spring of 1934.

From that Cleveland farm club the kid outfielder was shipped to the Monessen, Pa., club of the Class D Pennsylvania State League, for which he batted .326 and hit 15 home runs in 104 contests. He clouted the ball for the circuit in the same number of times in compiling an average of .337 in 115 games with Zanesville the following campaign, and hit .333 in finishing the grind with New Orleans.

Henrich blossomed into stardom playing all fields for the Pelicans last season, leading the Southern Association in total bases, and batting .346.
