ACE REPEAL STILL URGED BY GOVERNOR

By United Press
AUSTIN, May 12.—Gov. All today reiterated his threat of immediate special session on adjournment of the regular session, if a senate vote on horse betting repeal is not taken. He has not thought of changing his plans, he said. Legislators worked for $5 pay today. The 120 days for which they were paid $10 a day expired today. General indication was session will continue until day of next week. Plans were being made to get a private carrier motor truck before the house. A former bill was vetoed. House members are almost unanimous for a bill some sort. Some opposition exists in the senate. The house today, for the second time this session, refused to set a date for adjournment. However, resolution setting Tuesday, May 18, as adjournment day, was reconsidered this afternoon.

GEORGE VI IS CROWNED KING OF ENGLAND

By United Press
WESTMINSTER ABBEY, London, May 12.—George VI, 40th sovereign of England since William the Conqueror, was crowned today, monarch over 500,000,000, inhabiting one-fourth of earth. The coronation was carried out before 7,700 people in an 11-towered ceremony of pageantry, splendor and in color. Royalty, nobility, dignitaries of all lands and chosen representatives of the English working classes, attended the ceremony. At 7:30 a. m. CST, the archbishop placed the crown of St. Edward, glittering with priceless jewels, on the king's head and the assembly broke into a vast roar of "God save the king." At 7:52 the queen's platinum jeweled crown was placed on the head of the former Scottish monarch by the Archbishop. There was a moment of awkwardness in crowning the king. The archbishop turned the crown in his hands, puzzled to find the king's head. Off to the side the royal salute of 103 guns boomed and hundreds of thousands who packed the streets, cheered "God save the king." They had stood in line for hours, some for two days, to witness the procession. They stretched in an unbroken mass along the mile route in which the king and queen rode to Buckingham Palace. Hundreds of thousands of people stayed up all night, massed in the principal streets. With stiffened limbs they held places along the route to and from Westminster Abbey. It was a cold, foggy morning, but nobody minded. Fifty senior officers of Scotland Yard made a three hour march of Westminster Abbey as a precaution against an assassination plot. King George later appeared on the balcony of Buckingham Palace with his queen and received almost incredible demonstration of loyalty.

Jobless Aided By 43 States Under Present Set-Up

By United Press
WASHINGTON — Forty-three states have enacted laws to provide unemployment aid to some 18,500,000 workers. All these laws conform with the unemployment compensation provisions of the Social Security Act, although they vary greatly in their own provisions and will offer varying incomes when payments two years after first contributions to compensation funds have been made. The act is essentially an enabling statute, levying an excise tax upon the payrolls of all employers of eight or more persons except those employing agricultural and domestic workers and certain other types of non-commercial and non-industrial workers. The federal tax, collected by the bureau of internal revenue, is 1 per cent of payrolls for 1936, 2 per cent for 1937 and 3 per cent thereafter. States require additional taxes from employers, and a few states require contributions from employees. An employer is allowed a credit up to 90 per cent of the federal tax on the amount of contributions to his state compensation fund, which requires a payroll tax averaging between 2 and 3 per cent. The amount of compensation in most states is 50 per cent of an employee's regular wages, with a $15-per-week maximum, and in some states there is provision for partial unemployment. The most frequent minimum figure is $5 or three-fourths of the weekly wage, whichever is less. The usual limit of the period during which a jobless worker may draw benefits is 15 or 16 weeks, after which he is eligible for non-compensation until he has had another period of employment. Compensation may be denied or the waiting period between the end of employment and the beginning of compensation extended if a man has lost employment through a strike, quit voluntarily, been discharged for misconduct or refuses to accept a job offered him. Laws have not been enacted by the legislatures of Delaware, Missouri, Illinois, Nebraska and Florida, all of which were believed waiting for the Supreme Court to rule as to the constitutionality of the federal excise tax on payrolls. Hawaii and Alaska were also without laws, but the District of Columbia has one. There has been a general tendency toward broadening the protection which is a minimum requirement under the Social Security Act. Without approval a state is not eligible for the 90 per cent refund of federal payroll taxes for federal grants to cover the cost of administering the state law. The laws of the District of Columbia, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Idaho and Minnesota cover employers of one or more persons, and other states apply to employers of three or four or more. In only one state, Wisconsin, has the payment of compensation begun. Wisconsin enacted its state law before the Social Security act was passed. It is the only state in which each employer's account is kept separately, all others have "pooled funds" accounts or modifications.

Mr. Elliott of Oklahoma, father-in-law of Dr. Kuykendall, was a visitor at the meeting. Next week the club will meet at the Southern Ice company's Ranger plant, with Ken Ambrose as host.

George Ryan, whom Eastland officers sought Tuesday night in a car chase taking them near Carbon after a Plymouth coupe was stolen from Guy Patterson Tire Service at Eastland, was charged Wednesday in justice court. They turned around and gave chase and lost track when the suspect abandoned the car and ran across sand brush. Deputy Sheriff A. D. Carroll filed the complaint after the arrest by Sheriff Loss Woods.

Mrs. Wallis Warfield, whose love meant more than an empire to him, was with the duke at the radio beside a fireplace. She was excited, but a spokesman said the duke seemed "profoundly happy" that he had "no regret" over the choice he had made. While rain lashed the windows, they lounged in the cozy bar, listening to the ceremony from start to finish. As a faithful subject, the Duke sent a congratulatory telegram to his brother. The castle staff refused to reveal its wording.

Working at Marriage Will End Divorce Evil

The papers printed a nice big picture, the other day, of a mildly good-looking American heiress who had posed, grinning broadly, with a newly acquired husband—her third.

Two previous marriages had gone to pot, but the lady was undiscouraged. "This time it's for keeps," she remarked as the cameras clicked. Hope springs eternal in the human breast, and two failures do not necessarily prove that a third venture cannot succeed.

A good deal has been written lately about the "divorce evil," and people who change husbands (or wives) the way ordinary folk change their autos have come in for stern condemnation by press and pulpit. Yet when you reflect on the light-hearted confidence of this girlish sprig of America's nobility you can see that what is wrong with these divorce-addicts is not original sin so much as plain, old-fashioned flightiness.

Maybe we see too many movies and read too many romances. At any rate, we seem to have nourished a legend that if you once get in front of the marriage altar and have the knot duly tied, a life of serene, unbroken happiness follows automatically. If it doesn't—if you find that you and the idol of your youthful dreams have divergent tastes, if you quarrel now and then, if you occasionally wish one another in Timbuctoo—then something is wrong. Not with you—heavens, no!—but with the other person.

Now the one thing you ought to be perfectly obvious is that everyone who approaches marriage in that frame of mind is due to get bumped—hard. The wedding doesn't inaugurate an effortless, lived-happily-ever-after idyl; it begins a venture which calls for all the unselfishness, tact, forbearance and pain, old-fashioned courage that the two parties can muster. The thing the romantics never quite grasp is that you have to work at marriage to make it succeed.

So, when the storm clouds gather, these romantics fly to the divorce court. Being romantics, they learn nothing by their experience; and in the course of time we find them coming back for more a second and a third time—blithely confident, each time, that this one is going to be different.

Is it? The chances are all against it. It isn't marriage that has failed, but the individual. This eternal effort to find the dreamed-off happiness by a change of partners faces highly unfavorable odds. You get out of marriage, in the long run, just what you are willing to put into it. If you have tried it twice and failed each time, what earthly reason have you to hope that the third venture will be any different?

The first step toward ending this "divorce evil" is to grow up. As long as people approach marriage with starry-eyed faith in the automatic magic of the wedding rite, the divorce courts will continue to be jammed.

"Snake bites claim 23,000 natives of India." It is not hard to believe, as there are no hip pockets in sheets.

The skin of a white westerner is turning black. Time was when this would have been considered a stroke of luck, but mammy songs are passe.

Rebel Battleship Sunk by Loyalist Airplanes

When Spanish government planes bombed and sank the rebel warship Espana, above, in the Bay of Biscay, off Santander, it was the first time in world history that a big battleship had succumbed to air attack under war conditions. The battle was dramatic. A little British freighter tried to run the Bilbao blockade. The 15,452-ton Espana dove to and the freighter ran for Santander. The Espana opened fire and the freighter flashed radio calls for aid. Thirty-two Loyalist planes in Santander took to the air, circled over the Espana and began dropping bombs. There was a direct hit on the poopdeck. The Espana sank.

plans for boys' 4-H club work of Eastland county. This group will formulate plans for county and district encampments, 4-H club Sundays, 4-H club achievement days, 4-H club banquets, 4-H club rallies, as well as to assist other boys in choosing and carrying out of club demonstrations.

SEED DELIVERED FOR COTTON DEMONSTRATION

Seed and fertilizer has been delivered to seven Eastland county 4-H club boys who expect to use three acres of cotton for their 4-H club demonstration this year.

The cotton club plans were formulated several weeks ago by the county agents and the 4-H club boys. This club is sponsored by Eastland county bankers, cotton ginners and buyers, civic organizations, business men and others who are interested in 4-H club work.

These sponsors loaned each boy the amount of money to carry out a complete cotton demonstration. The sponsor took a note from the boy signed by himself and his dad, and this note is due this fall after the crop is harvested. The sponsor will visit the boy at least once each month, and he will try to encourage his boy to produce more cotton per acre than some other sponsor's boy.

These cotton demonstrators expect to carry out a complete cotton demonstration. They expect to accomplish this by contouring rows, using good cottonseed, treating seed with cerasan before planting, fertilizing and dusting for boll weevil and the cotton flea hopper.

The 4-H club boys are using two different kinds of fertilizer, namely 11-48-0 and 16-20-0. One hundred pounds of each kind is mixed together and then 66 2/3 pounds per acre is applied. All the land has already been listed, and the fertilizer will be distributed in the lister furrow and then the ground will be relisted, throwing the dirt back on the fertilizer. The fertilizer will be planted on top of the fertilizer.

Before planting starts each boy will treat his cottonseed with 2 per cent cerasan to permit earlier planting which is conducive to setting a good crop of bolls before the appearance of the weevil in sufficient numbers to cause a great damage. At the same time the treating of the seed will insure a better stand of cotton.

All cotton demonstrators are using one variety of seed, that is the California Acala seed.

Powdered sulphur is to be applied when needed to control the cotton flea hopper. The cotton will be dusted with calcium arsenate as many times as needed to control the cotton boll weevil.

The maximum amount of the cotton is to be picked and none to be pulled in July unless necessary at end of the season. The cotton is to be stored until sufficient cotton is on hand to justifi-

STAFF

Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Alford were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Hazard last Sunday afternoon.

A gloom of sorrow came over this community on learning of the death of Mrs. Z. Z. Butler of Phoenix, Ariz., on Saturday. Mrs. Butler was the sister of Walter Duncan of this community and the mother of Carl Butler of Olden, and has a host of relatives and friends at Staff, Eastland, Olden and Ranger to mourn her departure. Mrs. Butler resided with her family in the Staff community for many years before moving to Phoenix.

Mrs. L. B. Bourland received a message last Saturday that her sister-in-law, Mrs. Mason Nabors of Fort Worth was seriously ill. Mrs. Bourland left immediately for Fort Worth. The word came Tuesday that Mrs. Nabors is somewhat improved. Mrs. Nabors resided in this community before making her home in Fort Worth.

fy cleaning of the gin roll, and then the cotton is to be ginned and the seed kept for planting seed for 1938. Each cotton demonstrator will be required to exhibit at least twenty bolls of cotton and one stalk at all of the fairs in Eastland county where premiums are offered.

Each demonstrator must keep a complete record on his demonstration on approved 4-H club book. This record is to be submitted to the county agents as soon as all cotton is harvested and sold from the demonstration plot. A summary of each record book as well as a summary of all record books will be printed in the county newspapers.

If as many as twenty boys are enrolled in the Eastland county 4-H cotton club, they will be eligible to compete in the state 4-H club cotton contest in which four rips are offered to the 4-H club congress to be held in Chicago next November.

This club is to be known as the Eastland County 4-H Cotton club. The following boys have already secured their seed and fertilizer: Callan Guy, Carbon; George Gilbert, Carbon; Vernon Bennett, Kokomo; Jerrell Johnson, Kokomo; Bobbie Revels, Kokomo; J. B. Adams, Morton Valley, and Neil Eaves, Kokomo.

and has a host of relatives and friends in Eastland county who wish for her a speedy recovery. Edward White of Stamford was the dinner guest of Maurice Hazard Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil White of Stamford were guests of Mr. White's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. White, last Saturday night and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Horn, who have been making their home in Washington, D. C., where he was working for the government, were on their way to their home in El Paso last week and visited in the homes of Mrs. Horn's sister and brother, Mrs. Spencer Hazard and Truman Horn. Mr. and Mrs. Horn visited a number of places of interest while making their home in Washington, among them being New York City. Mr. and Mrs. Horn were reared in this community.

Mr. Horn's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Horn accompanied them to their home in El Paso, where they will spend a few months visiting.

Mrs. Morton, the mother of Mrs. Arthur Horn, also accompanied them to El Paso for a visit.

They Saw the Green Light

How a girl may love a man, even though she blames him for the death of her mother and how another girl can love that man so well that she sends him to the arms of her rival, are but two of the many unusual situations in which Errol Flynn, Anita Louise (left) and Margaret Lindsay find themselves in "Green Light," the Cosmopolitan production based on Lloyd C. Douglas' famous book, which opens at the Arcadia Theatre today.

Social Security Act Calls For a Staff of Only 4,500

WASHINGTON. — The Social Security Act is administered by a staff of 4,500 in seven buildings in Washington and one in Baltimore.

Although the 2,500 clerks employed to set up account numbers and a wage record system in Baltimore are on a "temporary" basis, officials estimate that eventually a staff of 7,500 will be necessary.

It is expected that the wage records division will be transferred to Washington when building space is available or decentralized among the 12 regional offices in order to handle more conveniently the thousands of claims.

Employees of the Social Security board administer only the old age benefits, unemployment compensation and public assistance provisions of the act. Public health, child health and vocational rehabilitation work are in charge, respectively, of the Treasury, Labor and Interior departments. The Treasury department acts as financial agent for the board, collecting all taxes and making all disbursements.

In addition to 12 regional offices in key cities the board has set up 116 field offices to handle claims and in the near future to handle applications for old age benefit cards, which has been the work of the Post Office department.

As claims for monthly old age payments and lump-sum retirement during future years, the number of field offices probably will increase to 400.

Doctor Sees Peanuts Gaining in Richness

ORLANDO, Fla.—Peanut eating baseball fans soon will be acquiring previously missing vital elements along with their daily amusements this summer, believes

Dr. Charles Northen of this city, discoverer of mineral colloids.

He explained that these elements when added to the soil in which peanuts are produced not only insure bigger and better peanuts and more of them, but actually add nutritious values to the unshelled meals that come in small paper bags.

All this apparently will mean a greater prosperity for the peanut grower, but equally important, said Dr. Northen, will increase the health of those who eat the goobers.

It may bring smiles to some faces, but it has been proved, the doctor contends, that peanuts grown in mineral colloidal treated soil will remove tartar from the teeth and add a polish where none existed before.

AFRAID to Love

CAST OF CHARACTERS
JOAN BARRETT, heroine, secretary to John Hendry.
JOHN HENDRY, mining investment head.
BOB ANDREWS, Hendry's junior partner and Joan's fiance.
SYBIL HENDRY, associate John Hendry's clerk and Joan's rival in love.
PHILIP HENDRY, Sybil's brother.
DOROTHY STARKE, Joan's childhood friend.
CHARLES NORTON, California mining promoter.

The dinner, of course, was perfect. Joan wondered if she would ever be able to do as well in her own home. She doubted it. There was Jennings, for one thing. She knew that there would never be a place for him—or anyone like him—in their future home. Bob would agree with her in that. Rather for them, a genial black Abraham, or a homely, hearty Mrs. McDonald. And upon neither of these could one depend for formal perfection.

"Your dinners are always perfect," Bob commented, as they finished dessert. "I'm so glad you enjoy them, Bob," Sybil replied graciously. "It is always such a pleasure to have you here. . . Shall we have coffee in the living room?" She rose and led the way.

"What happened?" Sybil asked with curiosity. "The owner of this mine your uncle has arranged to buy," Bob went on to explain, "sent word that he'd be in town this Saturday to complete the sale. He wants his money in cash—forty thousand dollars."

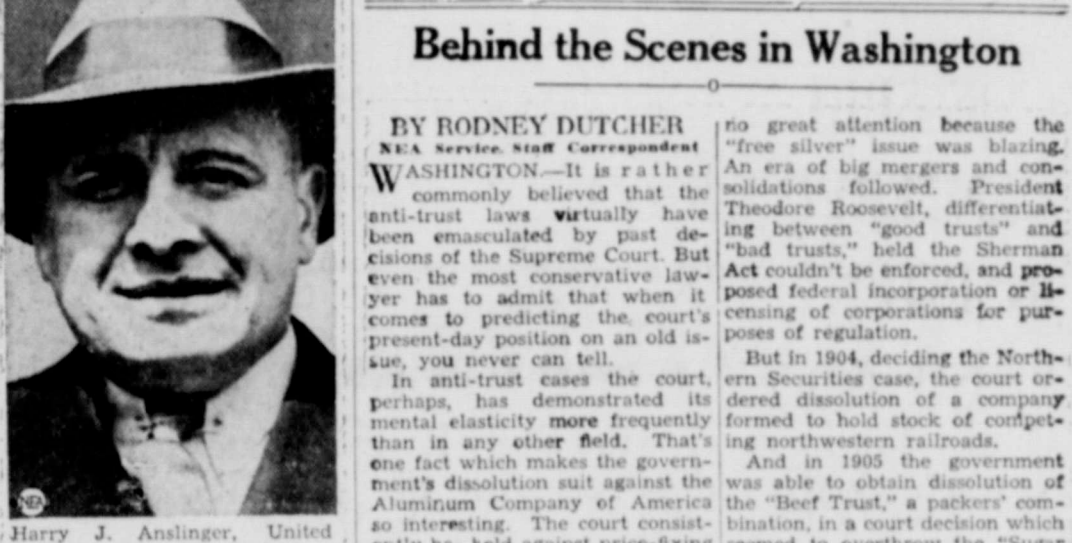

"In cash?" Sybil exclaimed. Bob nodded. "It sounds crazy, I know. But that's the way it is. Well, it takes a bit of financial juggling to get that much cash together. Mr. Hendry arranged for the sale of certain securities, to be paid for in cash, thinking the sale would go through tomorrow. Instead, however, it was made this afternoon, and about ten minutes after your uncle left, the messenger showed up with approximately forty thousand dollars in cash, to be paid over to Mr. Hendry personally."
