You and You Are Cause of Society's Ills!

This is a queer, sadly-tangled world we live in, and the best way to give yourself a splitting headache is to try to figure out just who is to blame for the things that go wrong in it. The detective running down a clewless murder case has a soft snap, by comparison; he at least knows that when he gets to the end of the trail he won't be throwing himself behind bars.

Judge Benjamin Schienman of Los Angeles, Calif., started thinking aloud along these lines the other day. Judge Schienman presides over the court in which the coppers daily unload their assortment of vagrants, and other petty offenders-the misfits of metropolitan life for whose infinitely complicated web of mistakes and offenses society can think of no answer but 10 days in the

So the judge unburdened himself to Ted Le Berthon, reporter for the Los Angeles Evening News.

"We may be arresting the wrong people," he mused. "We may be making a mistake in arresting vags and not arresting those who provide the breeding ground and who certainly contribute to their delinquency.'

And then the judge began trying to figure out just who these contributors to delinquency might be.

He mentioned the sweatshop employers who pay starvation wages; the politicians who decree that jobless men on relief must get along and stave off the soul-racking morotony of idleness on $15 a month; the commercial employment agencies that make them pay to get jobs: the flophouse owners who heard men six or eight at a time in dirty ill-ventilated rooms.

All these things added together, the judge remarked, are enough to drive any man to ruin. Dirt, idleness, hopelessness, friendlessness-put them to work on a man, and you need not be surprised if he winds up, frowsy and befuddled, in police court.

"There is another angle, too, for us to ponder over," continued the judge. "If you and I voted into office the fellows who later decided that a single man on relief should live on $15 a month, we too, might be subject to arrest."

If you want to keep your mental case and complacency, never try to discover the ultimate responsibiltiv for society's ills. For, if you do, you may wind up just where that threw him - he couldn't bet Judge Scheinman wound up-socusing yourself.

DATS took Trissy to the depot on Monday morning. It had been a week-end of hilarity, sudden tears, gay conversation and long doubtful silences. When the train finally thundered out of the sheds and Pats was left standing alone. she felt her first dreadful moment of panic. Gone was the necessity of convincing Trissy that her plan was perfectly feasible, gone too was any confidence she might have felt in the wild scheme. The imminent prospect of facing Don Monteray caused little shudders to run the length of her spine and now the whole affair seemed preposterous, fantastic.

Pats was dressed for the part. The sun glasses had been replaced by horn-rimmed spectacles which, decidedly tinted, gave her eyes a reddish owl-like appearance. All the way down Park avenue she practiced the prim pursing of her lips, forcing herself to play the part of the competent, self-effac ng secretary she was to be. Determinedly, she submerged her own sparkling personality. The thing to do, she kept te ling herabout to rise. Thinking that made

Electricity Brings Cool, Restful Sleep on

Little folks need lots of restful sleep . . . naps in the afternoon and ten or twelve hours every night. And in the summer time, it's a problem. Stifling heat makes them roll and toss and it's impossible for them to relax completely as they should.

Comfort Cooling is the answer to this . . . a cool and soothing breeze, not too draughty but just right, is constantly brought in from the outside and over their little beds. They sleep in undisturbed restful slumber even on hottest days and nights.

A glance at the cut-away illustration above shows how a Comfort Cooling System brings air in through windows, and out through openings in the gables or eaves. Com'st Cooling installations are designed to fit each home, and to change the air in the home every minute.
