Scientists Point Way Toward Ideal Living

That party of scientists who sailed from Honolulu the other day on a two-months trip to study a four-minute eclipse of the sun might very well be taken as a model for the rest of the world to copy.

Along with 11 tons of equipment, these scientiststhere are 13 of them-are bound for one of the uninhabited Phoenix Islands, far out in the Pacific. They will set up their apparatus there and on the eighth of June they will have 240 seconds in which to study a completely eclipsed

The party over, they will head for home again, having spent a good deal of money and a great deal of effort in the quest for a collection of facts which, from the dollars and cents viewpoint, will never do anyone the least

But the net result will be that the sum total of the race's knowledge about the infinitely mysterious world it inhabits will be increased, if only by a little.

The point is that it is still possibly for a disinterested job of this kind to be done. We can still get some high-powered brains together, spend important money and make elaborate plans for an expedition whose fruits can't be turned into cash or reserved as the exclusive property of

The knowledge gained by this expedition will be available to Germans and Russians and Englishmen and Japanese as well as to Americans. It will not be patented and let out on a royalty basis by any man or corporation, or jealously guarded in the archives of any foreign offce. It will be as free as the air to any human being who has the

That sort of thing isn't as common as it might be, these days. For the keynote to this 20th century world seems to be unrestrained rivalry-every man (or nation) for himself, and the devil take the hindmost, as he is quite likely to do. The idea that the race will be better off if it works together and stops trying to gain advantage for one group as the expense of some other has hardly so much as dawned on us.

Yet it ought to be obvious that we simply aren't going to be able to live by this devil-take-the-hindmost creed so very much longer. The devil is following altogether too innings) closely on our heels. The world has grown too small. Like it or not, the human race is going to-wherever it is go- innings). ing-as a group.

So this little scientific expedition shines like a good deed in a naughty world. It is a hint that we aren't necessarily doomed to go on cutting one another's throats, after all. We can co-operate, we can make the gain of one the gain of all.

And if we ever do set out to live up to this example set by our scientists, what a world we can make for ourselves.

In this column answers will be given inquiries as to Texas history and other people. Address inquiries to Will H. Mayes, Austin, Texas.

Q. What newspaper did Marabeau B. Lamar establish and publish before coming to Texas?

A. The Macon (Georgia) Enguirer, now the Macon Enquirer-Sun, which he started April 23, 1828, and conducted until 1833.

Q. Are Federal taxes in Texas increasing or decreasing? A. Texas citizens in 1936 paid $74,581,047 in Federal taxes. Karl A. Crowley, solicitor of the Postoffice Department, as the re-cent meeting of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, asserted that the amount would increase to $125,000,000 in 1937.

Q. How many acres are included in the Texas National Forests and in what counties? A. 1,700,000 acres, situated in Houston, Trinny, Angelina, San Augustine, Nacogdoches Shelby, Sabine, San Jacinto, Montgomery and Walker counties.

Q. How much tree planting was done in 1936 by the National Forestry service in Texas? A. Slightly over 10,000,000 young trees were planted on 12,-289 acres. Present plans call for the planting and development of 10,000 to 15,000 acres a year.

Q. What is the oldest definitely named spot in Jackson county? A. Red Bluff, first mentioned by Cardenas when in search of LaSalle's settlement, Nov. 8. 1690. He camped there overnight and described it as a "red bluff, admirably adapted to fortification and settlement." It is on the east bank of the Navidad, some two
