JULY FOURTH DEATH TOLL STARTS TODAY

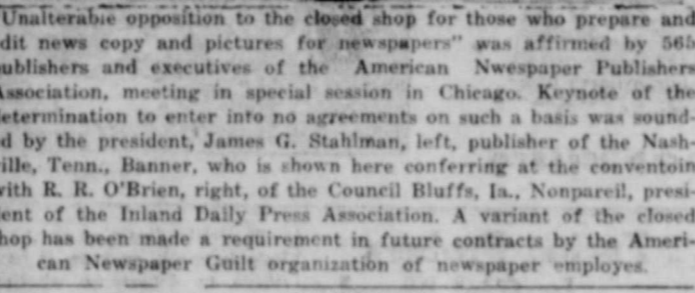

NAMPO, Idaho, July 2.—The death toll in a fireworks explosion that occurred in a drug store when an unknown prankster threw a lighted firecracker onto a display counter, loaded with explosives, rose to five today.
One of 13 persons burned critically was reported dying. A score of others less seriously hurt were recovering in private homes.
The explosion occurred late Thursday when the drug store was filled with more than 30 people and a beauty school, upstairs, was filled to capacity.
The tragedy ended this town's Fourth of July celebration. Mayor Lewis Ord ordered that no more fireworks be sold or exploded in the city limits.

More Steel Mills Will Open Soon In Ohio Sector

MASSILLON, Ohio, July 2.—Republic Steel Corporation reopened two more mills today and planned to complete resumption of operations on the Ohio strike front within a week.
Almost 400 workers returned through lines of booning pickets to start furnaces and prepared for a mass back-to-work march at the two plants, probably within 48 hours.
Militia guarded the gates and county officials enforced strict regulations of picketing, but strike leaders renewed their threats of trouble if the main body of steel makers attempts to return. About 4,000 normally are employed.

Publishers Fight Closed Shop for Newsrooms of Newspapers

Unalterable opposition to the closed shop for those who prepare and edit news copy and pictures for newspapers was affirmed by 565 publishers and executives of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, meeting in special session in Chicago. Keynote of the determination to enter into no agreements on such a basis was sounded by the president, James G. Stahlman, left, publisher of the Nashville, Tenn., Banner, who is shown here conferring at the convention with R. R. O'Brien, right, of the Council Bluffs, Ia., Nonpareil, president of the Inland Daily Press Association. A variant of the closed shop has been made a requirement in future contracts by the American Newspaper Guild organization of newspaper employes.

WEALTHY MAN QUESTIONED IN GIRLS' DEATHS

LOS ANGELES, July 2.—A 33-year old man, member of a wealthy New York family, Henry Satterlee, Jr., was in a hospital today after being questioned in connection with the Inglewood girl murders.
Although witnesses said Satterlee was too tall to be the man last seen with the three girls before they disappeared Saturday, officers said they wanted to check.
Satterlee, police said, was reported to have come to an Inglewood hotel Saturday afternoon in an hysterical condition from liquor and with his clothes blood-soaked.

INGLEWOOD, Calif., July 2.—The inquest into the death of three little girls whose ravished bodies were found Monday, was cut short and sent to the jury today after only a few witnesses had testified.

The outburst, one of the most violent of the year, was touched off by an address by Rep. Maury Maverick of Texas, in which he vigorously defended the CIO and attacked its critics.

Cleaning of Main Going Faster Than Expected at Start

The work of cleaning the barnacles from the main water line from Lake Hag in to the stand-pipe on top of Eastland Hill proceeded so rapidly early this morning that twice as much pipe was cleaned as had been planned.
When the first section of 2,500 feet was cleaned the work had been completed much earlier than had been expected, so another 2,500-foot section, which was scheduled to be cleaned Saturday morning, was also cleaned, making a total of 5,000 feet for the day.
At the rate the work is progressing the 12,500 feet of pipe will be cleared of barnacles in less than half the time estimated.
It is planned that as soon as the go-devil is run through the length of the pipe it will be sent through again, in longer stages, so that only about four days will be required to complete the second cleaning.
The city commission is well pleased with the way the work is turning out, as the water pumpage has been increased more than 100 gallons a minute with only a small portion of the pipe cleaned.

Suggestion Is Made On Plugging Holes In Income Laws

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 2.—Under secretary of treasury, Roswell Magill suggested today that congress enact legislation eliminating the present practice of filing separate income tax returns for husband and wife.
He said such a law would increase federal revenue about $192,000,000 annually.
He pointed out, also, that in eight states which have community property laws families are permitted to split all income equally between husband and wife, thereby avoiding high surtax rates. He said revenue lost annually to these states amounts to $34,000,000.

Man Accused of Kidnap Testifies In Justice Court

Cecil Betts of Cisco testified Friday morning at an examining trial in E. E. Wood's justice court at Eastland in which he is charged that he was not guilty of kidnapping his wife.
The examining trial was for the purpose of determination of the amount of Betts' bond, which had not been set at noon.
Betts testified that he and his wife, Dr. Ethel Miller, going voluntarily, left Cisco Sunday afternoon and arrived at Midland that night. They had planned to go to Odessa, he said, for him to get a job, but stopped at Midland. She decided to go to Illinois and they left Midland Monday.
After going through Eastland, Breckenridge and other points towards her destination, Betts testified, they stopped at Oakley Union when plans were made for him to go to a veterans' hospital in Oklahoma and she back to Cisco. It was there that he was arrested, the reason for which he did not know, Betts said.
From Oakley Union he was taken to jail to Vernon by officers, said Betts.
The state has charged from statements of his wife that she was carried in the trunk-back of an automobile by Betts.
W. L. Rust is her attorney, and W. D. R. Owen the husband's attorney.

Substitute on Court Plan Given Senate

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Senate Majority Leader Joseph Robinson today presented to the Senate a substitute court re-organization bill providing a four-justice compromise for President Roosevelt's supreme court enlargement proposal.
Administration forces hoped to drive the Robinson compromise through to passage. It provided four additional justices might be named at the rate of one each year for each justice sitting who has reached the age of 75.
On the basis of the present membership of the court, the compromise would allow four more justices, or an ultimate increase to 13 members.
Robinson declared that his measure would allow President Roosevelt to appoint two justices to the supreme court before Jan. 1, 1938, and one during the year beginning Jan. 1, 1938.
The appointment of three justices in a period of about six months would be possible because of the vacancy now existing due to the resignation of Justice Willis Van Devanter.

The ladder fell to the ground, however, saving Smith's life as he toppled to the ground.

ICE COLD WATERMELONS!

Three Tweets All Needed to Save One from Grizzly

BY FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON.—When a grizzly bear chases a lady tourist up a tree, she is supposed—if she is able—to pursue her lips and whistle three times, thus:
 Tweet, tweet, tweet.
 In the distance she will hear (if the bear hasn't got angrier still at all the disturbance) an answering whistle consisting of two tweets, from the brave men of the U. S. Forest Service.
 While the bear sits on his haunches and licks his lips, the lady up the tree should hang on for dear life and keep on whistling. Pretty soon the forestly ladies will gallumph up, shoo away the bear, and rescue the lady at cost.

 Robert Marshall, chief of the division of recreation and lands of the forestry service, announced this new service for treed ladies and others in distress.
 The standard bear, shankle, quicksand, robber, flat tire and runaway horse S. O. S. in the national forests hereafter will be the triple-whistle, whistled urgently. The answering signal, denoting help on the way, will be the double whistle, whistled soothingly.
 If the lady-up-the-tree is in no condition to whistle (and the sight of a hungry grizzly is said to have the same effect on whistling as a pickle) she can scream. That will be perfectly acceptable to the rescuers, but Marshall doesn't recommend it, because yelping is hard on the vocal chords.
 If no living thing except hungry bears can hear her triple-tweets, she should take from her pocketbook her mirror and flash it in the sun three times.
 The three flashes will bring rescuers just as efficiently as the three whistles, except on cloudy days. Then Marshall suggested that those in distress use smoke signals, producing triple-puffs through manipulation of a blanket or coat.

 This might prove a problem for the lady-in-the-tree. She might have no blanket or coat. She might not even have a match.
 But even if she did, what could she burn to make smoke? A tree makes a nice thick smoke when burning, but the only tree available to her is the one in which she's perched.
 If she sets it on fire, first thing she knows she will have smoked herself out. Her best solution, therefore, would seem to be to wait for the sun to come out.
 There's one other thing Marshall has suggested and that's the expense of rescue. The rescue (correct) has got to pay it and should be mighty careful, hence, to ascertain the danger before making any of the S. O. S. signals of the wildwood.
 The lady-in-the-tree might

 Work has been in progress at the project for nearly a year, with 450 men at work there now. Ten new all-weather roads and three foot-trails have been built so that observers can reach gauging stations in wet weather. Five major gauging stations have been constructed along Brushy Creek channel and a large number of smaller ones will be constructed along this creek and its tributaries. About 100 rain gauges have been installed with a number being of the recording type.

Healthy Study of Our Nation's Yesterdays

If the literary signposts are worth anything, we seem to be moving in the direction of a sane and helpful reappraisal of our national past.

For a number of years our novelists hardly seemed to know that we had a past. When they did know it, they seemed to look on it as a dreary and confining period from which, by grace of the passage of time, we had luckily managed to make an escape.

But things are different now. The two most fabulous fiction successes of recent years have been "Anthony Adverse" and "Gone With the Wind," which go back to themes our novelists had been ignoring almost unanimously.

Now the point is that very few of these books have been written uncritically. Most of them have sought to show either that some fabled and glamorous era was really less romantic than distance makes it seem, or that in the process of coming of age we have somehow put aside ways of living that were of genuine value.

It is a good thing that this has happened; for the simple truth of the matter is that as a nation we have grown up a little too rapidly. Social developments that took centuries in other lands have occupied decades in America.

All of this has made for a good deal of confusion. We need a breathing spell, so that we can examine this past of ours dispassionately and see just how we became what we really are today.

This doesn't mean that every novelist must immediately get out his reference books and fall to on a historical romance. We need light on the present as well as on the past.
