Rate Sufficient For School Fund Increase Is Plea

A plea that the automatic tax rate provide a tax rate sufficient to take care of the $22 per capita apportionment set by the State and of Education was expressed by County Superintendent C. S. Galloway in a letter sent Friday to Mayor James V. Allred.

The letter addressed to Allred, read: "The school people of Eastland county very earnestly request that the automatic tax board provide for a tax rate sufficient to take care of the $22 per capita set by the State Board of Education in the following term of school. We know the issues involved, but do not to discuss them. Only please provide for the children and pay the teachers a living wage. Put the burden on those who are able to pay. Reducing the rate helps only those who are worth more than $3,000.

"We will greatly appreciate your help. You asked the same for once.

"Yours truly,
C. S. Eldridge."

ROBINSON IS GIVEN A STATE FUNERAL TODAY

WASHINGTON, July 16.—The great and humble said a sad farewell today to Sen. Joseph Taylor Robinson of Arkansas.

The Senate battlefield from which death took him at the height of his career Wednesday, was transformed into a field of mourning as President Roosevelt led dignitaries to a state funeral in final tribute to a "soldier fallen with his face toward the battle."

Brightly blanketed with orchids and other flowers, the body of the late Democratic leader lay in a gray coffin in the chamber. Around it gathered the men with whom he had fought and against whom he had fought politically.

The President bowed his head in front of the ancient red mahogany desk at which Robinson led the battles of the New Deal.

Behind the President sat the black-clad widow.

The burial will be at Little Rock, Ark., Sunday.

Identification of the youth, which was not made for some time, was finally made through the name, Walton, and a number printed in his shoes with ink.

An ambulance from the Riddle funeral parlors at Mexia received the body from Killingsworth, Cox, where it had been held since it was found Thursday morning, and started the return trip to Mexia this morning about 11:30.

Dust Bowl Grain Brings Money For Pockets of Growers

BY RICHARD M. MOREHEAD
United Press Staff Correspondent

FORT WORTH, Texas.—Wheat from the Texas "dust bowl" is flowing to market in a golden tide, bringing good times again to a section that has known only drought and low prices in six years.

The "dust bowl" had its drought in 1936 and in early 1937, but rains came to much of the area to give it the best wheat crop since 1931. Approximately 40,000,000 bushels of wheat was raised in Texas this year and it has brought about $1 a bushel.

Local tradition holds that the Texas Panhandle is the place "where you can expect more wheat and raise less, than any place in the world."

Fortunately for the tenacious wheat farmers, 1937 was a year that the harvest exceeded the prospect—and so did the price.

The "golden harvest" after so many lean years has caused excitement in the wheat belt that would have done justice to a gold rush or an oil boom. District court was turned out at Plainview, on the South Plains, so the jury panel could help with the harvest.

New combines, machines that cut and thresh the grain in one operation, were sold faster than they could be delivered. Trucks, automobiles, irrigation pumps and other items demanding an outlay of several hundred dollars have sold briskly.

Even marriage license sales increased, as once-broke swains pocketed their first money in many months.

Floyd county, with a yield of nearly 4,000,000 bushels, led the state in production. Four adjacent counties—Hale, Swisher, Crosby and Castro—likely will total nearly 6,000,000 bushels together.

Timely rains, from last fall through May, brought the successful crop. "Volunteers" wheat, not planted but allowed to grow from the seed that dropped from the previous crop, yielded up 15 bushels an acre. Irrigated wheat made from 25 to 60 bushels; and dry land wheat from 10 to 45 bushels to an acre.

Infantile Paralysis Largely a Summer Disease Doctor Says

AUSTIN—Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, states that infantile paralysis, like typhoid fever, is largely a summer disease. Although cases may occur during any month of the year, over half the total number come in July, August, September and October. To date, 69 cases of poliomyelitis have been reported to the State Health Department in 1937.

Direct contact between persons is regarded as being the chief factor in the spread of the disease, flies and other insects have been suspected of conveying the virus or germ. Insect transmission has not, however, been demonstrated. Although animals are subject to paralysis, they are seemingly not susceptible to the human type of this auralytic disease. Carriers are different to determine; this fact makes advisable the reduction to a minimum, of human contact during an outbreak.

Early symptoms of infantile paralysis comprise headache, fever, vomiting, bowel disorder, drowsiness and irritability, followed by neck or back stiffness. Prompt medical care, early recognition and reporting of cases make possible the use of valuable preventive and control measures.

After the acute state of the disease has passed and walking is finally permitted the patient, under no circumstances must the affected part be fatigued. It is thus observed that the secret of successful rehabilitation lies in continuance of professional guidance and large doses of patience.

Children under five are more susceptible to the disease and all children under 1 should be watched for suspicious symptoms. There are important things to do when a child shows symptoms. Your family physician should be called at once and physicians should report all cases to the health authorities immediately. When the disease occurs all cases should be isolated for 1 days. All milk should be boiled unless it is pasteurized.

Children should not visit homes where the disease exists or there are symptoms of it. Flies should be killed and their breeding places destroyed. Promptness in diagnosis of poliomyelitis is important in preventing spread of the disease.

Air Conditioning Presents Hazard

DALLAS, Texas.—Air conditioning, although welcomed as a respite to summer heat, brings an added danger from fire and may force fire insurance rates up.

Alfonso Johnson, secretary of the Dallas Fire Prevention council said this week.

"The systems used in creating air-cooled comfort for office workers makes a roadway throughout the entire building for the passage of superheated air," Johnson said. "The insides of pipes are lined with sound insulation material from three eighths of an inch to 1 3/4 inch in thickness.

"Dangers of this equipment, unless properly protected, are borne out by E. A. Fleming, head of the conservation department of Board," he added. Fleming refers to the hazard when the refrigerating unit is put in the main duct. Ninety-six per cent of the refrigerants are either toxic or flammable."

Griswold was driving a truck for the Merchants East Motor Lines when the accident occurred. Fire apparatus from Mineral Wells sped to the scene, but was reported here to have reached the blaze too late to save the truck.

The cause of the accident was not immediately determined, though it was reported that the truck overturned in a ditch before catching fire.

Griswold is reported to have a wife and two children living in Abilene.

ROOSEVELT IS IN FIGHT FOR COURT REFORM

WASHINGTON, July 16.—President Roosevelt's abrupt fight to the finish order on judiciary reorganization smashed head-on today with a congressional movement to scuttle the court bill and adjourn.

It caught adjournment forces unprepared for the maneuver by which Mr. Roosevelt became an aggressive leader of senators who would expand the judiciary. Some observers believed Mr. Roosevelt also had boosted Sen. Alben Barkley of Kentucky toward the majority leadership.

The President wrote Barkley that it was the duty of congress, and especially of Democrats, to devise methods and enact judiciary reorganization. He rebuked senators who forgot "decent respect" for the memory of Sen. Robinson to discuss political and legislative measures before his funeral.

He caught adjournment forces unprepared for the maneuver by which Mr. Roosevelt became an aggressive leader of senators who would expand the judiciary. Some observers believed Mr. Roosevelt also had boosted Sen. Alben Barkley of Kentucky toward the majority leadership.

Preacher Is Ready To Face Grand Jury On Murder Charge

PITTSFIELD, Ill., July 16.—The Rev. C. E. Newton, gangling Baptist parson of Paris, Mo., looked up from washing his shirt in his jail cell today long enough to agree to being bound over to the grand jury on a first degree murder charge.

Eastland Girls to Play Rangerettes On Local Diamond

The Eastland Fire Department girls' team, which defeated the Rangerettes in Eastland Thursday night by a score of 22 to 5, will play them again tonight at the Municipal softball field.

Manager Snyder of the Rangerettes stated today that his team had a bad case of stage fright when they met the team last night and did not play anything like the games they have turned in during their last four starts, but that now they were keyed up to defeat the Eastland girls and a better game was in store for Ranger fans than the one that drew close to 1,000 people in Eastland last night.

Snyder said that the pitching of the Eastland team was not as good as Ranger's, but that their pitcher got better support because the team was playing air-tight ball.

After the game the girls decided that the Eastland team was not half as bad as they had imagined and that most of the runs were due to their own bad case of jitters, which would be missing tonight and a better game played.

Manager Snyder said that he believed the defeat last night would make his girls hustle more and that a much closer score was anticipated tonight.

Before they released Markham, son of the director of the American Petroleum Institute, they told him they would not be taken alive, that they intended to "shoot it out" with officers and that they were going to Tulsa, steal a car and head north into Canada.

Markham, who admitted he was "pretty scared at first when they stuck a gun on me for three hours" was seized near Ada yesterday afternoon as he drove to a well of the oil company which employs him.

DESDEMONA

On Tuesday afternoon of last week Mrs. Charles Lee and Mrs. W. C. Bedford who were unavoidably prevented from attending "open house" at the sewing room, were given a special visit by the supervisor, Mrs. Greenwalt. Both these visitors were especially interested in the sewing room as they are members of the "21" Study Club and the Methodist Missionary Society, the two organizations that first started the campaign to get a sewing room located in Desdemona. On entering the room the first thing that impresses visitors is the neatness of the entire room and of all the workers. The location is in the building on the south side of Main Street, that is owned by Mrs. Olive Ayres. All of the ladies were busy and the numbers of articles being made would surprise anyone. Some were piecing small blocks into strips and others sewed the strips together making the quilt tops which were beautiful. Some were working on neat house dresses, the trimming being white scalloped, the edging the workers had made. Besides the quilts and dresses some were making children's clothes and also toys. All sorts of cloth animals and dolls. The women who work there, and the supervisor, Mrs. Greenwalt, deserves much praise for the work being done.

Mr. and Mrs. Ramon Joiner drove up to Ranger on business on Tuesday afternoon of last week. Jack Walker, who has won many prizes on his registered Jersey heifers and his sister, Betty Joe Walker, attended the 4-H Clubs Encampment at Eastland Friday and Saturday. Mrs. Roy Rushing came Saturday evening to visit her sister-in-law, Mrs. J. H. Rushing, Sr., who is ill and also to visit her mother, Mrs. John Williams at Salem. Her many friends are glad to see her again.

PILL SLAVE FREED FROM CONSTIPATION

A convincing tribute is paid to Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in this letter from Mr. F. C. Aminson of Seattle.

"I suffered with constipation for many years and was compelled to use pills every night. Since I got your ALL-BRAN, it works fine. I was so deatly sick of taking pills. Now it is so different. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN works so naturally, and is pleasant to eat."

Inside the body, ALL-BRAN absorbs twice its weight in water, forming a soft mass that gently sponges out the intestines. It also supplies vitamin B to help tone the intestines, and iron for the blood.

You'll enjoy eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. As a cereal with milk or fruits, or in appetizing recipes. Two tablespoonsful every day are usually enough — three times daily if needed. Sold by all grocers. Made and guaranteed by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Congress will continue in session at least until Aug. 15, but confusion as to what it will do before it adjourns has not been reduced by the post-mortem on the Democratic love feast at Jefferson Island.

Whatever else may have been the results of the cutting, there is today in Congress a marked swingback of reaction from the bitterness of the committee report against the court plan, which was signed by seven Democratic senators. The cutting seems to have been a turning point.

Referring to the now historic party, one of its stage managers explains, "Everybody got all honed up, and we gressed a way to a compromise on the program that will be generally acceptable."

One of the administration's most persistent foes in the House came back on the boat assuring his comrades:

"You know, I like that fellow Roosevelt. You can't help liking him. We all ought to get together with him more and do some of the things he wants and talk him out of the rest of them."

MEANWHILE the leaders who were exposed to Roosevelt by night, when the real huddles took place at the island, are exploring around Capitol Hill to find out what they think can be passed by Aug. 15. Here is a rough outline of present prospects and perplexities:

COURT: Senate Majority Leader Joe Robinson is sure he can get a majority vote for a compromise. The opposition will try to force a vote on the original bill and keep the compromise off the floor. That attempt may be thwarted by a quick move to have a compromise bill passed by the House.

LOW COST HOUSING: Roosevelt wants a bill making optional with local housing authorities the terms of the Treasury capital grant plan, and Senator Wagner's bill for construction loans and rent subsidies. All housing experts agree only the latter can produce genuine low-cost housing which makes the choice somewhat like that between a box of candy and a sock in the jaw. Housing may be dropped because of apathy among congressional leaders.

GOVERNMENT REORGANIZATION: Some bill almost certain to pass—assuming no long court filibuster—along lines of Robinson's compromise calling for a new Department of Public Welfare, six presidential assistants, abolition of the General Accounting Office and controller general's office for a new set-up and a civil service administration to replace the present commission.

LOOP-HOLE LEGISLATION: In all probability.

FARM BILL: Administration gets hot and cold on this measure prepared largely by American Farm Bureau Federation. Currently it's hot; may get cold later. Senate and House leaders are definitely cold, so it's a toss-up. (Copyright, 1937, NEA Service, Inc.)

Humble Events Often
Make Biggest History

They have been having quite a time lately in the pleasant little village of Grand Detour, Ill., celebrating the 100th anniversary of the invention of the steel plow. Good-looking Illinois farm girls dressed up in 1837-style clothes, summersome wooden plays of the pre-steel era were dragged around by patient oxen and a testimonial to one of the really significant events in western history was put on the records.

And this homely little anniversary deserved all the celebrating it got. For we make a mistake when we think that it is only the great events—the battles, the discoveries, the founding of great cities and the birth of great leaders—that shape history. The humble things can be far more significant.

When the human tide spilled over the Alleghenies and went flooding westward, early in the last century, one of the greatest natural granaries the world ever knew was waiting for cultivation. The rich prairie lands of the great river valleys were deep with black soil, and grass as high as a man's waist ripped in the breeze. The newcomers could hardly believe in their luck.

For here, ready to be exploited, was a bread-basket that could provide the sinew for the growth of a giant.
The American nation was inspired from the beginning by the dim notion that men on this continent somehow would be able to work out a way on life in which the ordinary man would have a better time of it—would be freer, would live better, would have a few more of this world's goods—than was the case elsewhere. And these rich middle-western prairies promised the abundance that would help make the dream come true.

But to exploit this rich land, men had tools no better than the ones with which European peasants had tilled their acres in medieval times. Something better was needed—something that would cut the matted soil more quickly and easily than the clumsy implements of the age of scarcity. And so some bright farmer in Illinois got the idea of turning the soil with an all-steel blade.

Simple device, of course—but infinitely significant, because so much grew out of it. Not only were the unnum-bered millions of acres of the rich west put to work to nourish the swiftly growing nation; a first step had been taken in the direction of taking the drudgery out of farming, of freeing the farmer from his old slavery to unending toil.

America was not merely to have abundance; it was to have abundance at a steadily diminishing cost in human labor. Life was to be easier here, as well as richer.

Is that reading too much into a modest little invention that someone was bound to make some time? Not at all; it is these modest little discoveries that do the trick. We put up monuments to soldiers, statesmen, explorers, but it is the quiet men who find simple ways to make life easier and richer who really have us in their debt.

This new type of portable yard light which sticks in the ground anywhere you want it enables you to relax and read in comfort in the cool night air, away from the stuffiness of hot rooms.
The light is strong enough for you to read by, and is high enough so that night flying insects cause no trouble.

for Entertainment..

There is no limit to the number of ways in which you can use this portable yard light, but one frequent use is for lighting the yard for games, for parties or for a picnic dinner at home. The light can be focused on a croquet court or used for other outdoor entertainments or games that cannot be played indoors in hot weather.

for Work

The ease with which this light can be moved to different parts of the yard makes it ideal for use after dark while trimming the hedge, cutting the lawn or working in flower beds in the cool of the evening. With this light, there is no need to work during the heat of the late afternoon, or to stop work just because the sun has gone down.

VACATION DIARY

BY JEAN SEIVWRIGHT

CAST OF CHARACTERS
JOY—Heroine, hostess in smart Mater teardrop.
ROGER—Joy's fiancee, rising young designer.
ANGELA—Joy's rival in love.
DICK—Wealthy young playboy, Roger's rival in love.

Yesterday Joy plans for her wedding with Roger. As she leaves the teardrop where she is hostess she is told a young man had asked to see her. She wonder who it was.

CHAPTER II

SATURDAY: "That just shows what you can do when you have money," Gail whispered to me this noon as Miss Diane Pegler, one of New York's richest women, entered the teardrop with her handsome nephew, Dick. "No one else would dare to wear such old-fashioned togs!"

"Shush!" I whispered, going forward to meet them. Miss Pegler is one of our best customers, and exceedingly good to the girls.
 I was surprised to see Dick. I thought he had a job in Boston.
 He's had rather a checkered career so far. He was at Dartmouth, but something happened. He went to Yale last fall, then started working in spring.

"So it was you who asked for me yesterday?" I said to Dick, after we had exchanged greetings.
 "Yes. I thought perhaps you'd take pity on me and have dinner with me or see a show when my aunt was attending a party for crippled children."

"That would have been nice, but I was tied up, too. . . . I went to an illustrated lecture with Peter."

"And how's the dear little boy?" Miss Pegler asked.
 "Oh, ever since he's had measles he seems to get one cold after the other. I took him to the doctor and he says he ought to spend the summer in the country, but her course that's out of the question."

"Why don't you bring him up to my cottage in Maine? I'd love to have you both spend the summer with me."

"That's very sweet of you, Miss Pegler, but I'm afraid I can't leave my job," I said, and with a smile I left her table for other guests were coming in.

BEFORE they left, Miss Pegler told me Dick was going to work in Wall Street and would make his home with her. She seems delighted at the prospect of having him around. He's her only relative, but I'm afraid he may not be the comfort she expects.
 He's good-looking—very, though I don't care for blond-haired young men. . . . a swanky dresser. . . . perfect manners, but. . . . there's something disturbing about his eyes. His chin hasn't the firm line of Roger's. But then perhaps I'm a bit prejudiced when I compare other men with my darling.

Gail and the rest of the girls were quite intrigued by him, for Dick's his aunt's eye-bite. That's city of me! They do work hard, and many of them have no other prospects in life. He'll be rich in his own right too, though Miss Pegler once told me a strange thing about that. Dick will not come into full possession of his father's estate until he marries . . . and then only if his chosen wife is approved by the executor. How I should hate to have things romantic decided for me like that! Perhaps it's as well Roger has no near kin. . . . he's made his way himself. I'm proud of him.

Peter tells me that his schoolmates are all excited about going to summer camps. . . . wishes he could go, too. That's out of the question. . . . he's just seven-altogether too young.

Angela never came into the tea-room last afternoon with one of her Park Avenue friends. She's a stunning-looking girl.

geous, big black eyes. . . . lovely olive skin. . . . cleverly made up . . . wonderful coiffure.

ROGER says the old man's terribly proud of the girl. . . . well, she's beautiful; but judging by some of the things she does I think she's a shrewd schemer like her father. She's made a place for herself among the sporty deb set, and Roger encourages her to flaunt her money about lavishly.
 There, that's the story of Angela, but it wasn't Angela I was thinking about when I wrote this. . . .
 it was Roger.

Wonder what it will be like when I can do exactly what I want to do all day long—even to lie in bed till I feel like rising!
 I've always hated the summons of the alarm clock. (I may as well throw it away. . . . no, no, second thought says, "Give it to Sally, . . . she needs it). How grand it will be never to have to pace the floor again at Long's, greeting guests with a set smile. Sometimes I wonder when I leave the teardrop and passersby glance at me, if my expression is like the famous Cheshire cat's. . . . mentioned it to Gail one day. . . .

 she said:

"No, booby, it's your gorgeous golden hair they're looking at. . . . wishing they'd natural curls like yours. . . . and big blue eyes, too."

I laughed. According to Dad, my hair was never as lovely as my mother's, though its natural wave saves me lots of money. Well, my afternoon hour is almost over. . . . more anon.

WEATHER decidedly chilly in the region of my heart. Roger and I have come to the parting of the ways. It was Roger versus Peter. Peter won. Maybe I was foolish to send Roger out of my life. I know there will never be any one like him again. We were talking things over. . . . making plans for our future. . . . one minute everything seemed all right. . . . next moment we were at loggerheads when Roger said:

"Send Peter to camp. . . . that's the very thing. . . . just what I suggested the other day."

"But, Roger," I cried in alarm, "Peter's not sturdy enough now to be sent away from home."

He laughed, then caught me in his arms. "You don't want to make a mollycoddle of him. He's a fine little chap if you don't spoil him."

"Spoil him?" I said, and a shrill note leaped into my voice. "I would never spoil Peter, but he needs care."

"He'll get it there. I know a fellow who's sending his sons to camp. I'll talk to him. I'm sure Peter would enjoy that sort of life. Besides he'll learn to stand on his own feet, so when he goes to boarding school in fall, he'll be able to take care of himself."

"Who said he was going to boarding school? I'll never consent to that."

Before I realized it I was arguing furiously with my darling, though I love him so. Then Roger declared if I wouldn't listen to reason, there was nothing further to be said.

I looked at him as I twisted my engagement ring about my finger.

I don't love Peter more than him. . . . why couldn't he understand that my love for my small brother is very different from the love I have for him? Besides Roger knows what I promised Dad and Mimi.

I thought of Angela as Roger started to the door. Was there any truth to that gossip, I wondered? I drew off the ring which he had placed so tenderly on my finger a few months ago, and handed it to him.

Broken Neck Fails To Awe Man Who Has Had Accidents

By United Press

HOUSTON, Texas—John H. Stringfellow Sr., 56, railroad man, broke his neck in three places, but it was four days before he decided that maybe he ought to go to a hospital.

Four minutes after physicians viewed X-ray photos, they shook their heads and despaired of his life.

But Stringfellow just lay on his hospital cot and looked at them—and lived. He hadn't survived seven major railroad accidents to die of a broken neck.

Working on a railroad at 18, John was in two train collisions in Alabama, one of which killed five persons. He was unhurt. Another mishap killed everybody except him.

In 1908, he was piloting a train from Commerce, Texas to Tyler, when it jumped the track. He was unhurt.

Two years later, he missed the footboard of an engine at Shreveport, La., and was knocked under it. They put a silver plate in his skull and he recovered.

An obstruction swept him off a railroad car in 1917. He was thrown 20 feet through the air. Several ribs were broken but soon mended.

Accident No. 7 occurred when an engineer had to set his brakes suddenly. John was catapulted into a car of building material. He was patched up again and returned to work.

His last mishap occurred when he was out of his element. Stringfellow was astride his brown mare, Lady, trying to shoo some wild ducks across a pond as his friends could shoot at them.

 His horse refused to enter the water. Stringfellow put the spurs to her. He woke up in bed at home where his son, Walter, had taken him.
 "Huh," he snorted, his head supported by a brace, "This rodeo stuff is out. For safety, ride the railroads."

EVER hear of combining maraschino cherries with peaches in a pie? It's a colorful thought worth developing. Here's the recipe.

Maraschino Peach Pie

(One 9-inch pie) Three cups fresh sliced peaches, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 6 maraschino cherries, 2 eggs, 1-2 cup sugar, pastry for 2-crust pie.
 Combine peaches, lemon juice and cherries which have been cut into small pieces. Line a 9-inch heat resistant glass pie plate with pastry and fill with peach mixture. Combine slightly beaten eggs and sugar. Pour over the fruit in pie shell. Cover with upper crust. Upper crust may be put on as lattice, if desired. Bake in moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) about 45 minutes, until peaches are tender and crust delicately brown. Serve cold with whipped cream.

Three-Minute Meringue

(For 9-inch pie)
 Two tablespoons water, 2 egg whites, unbeaten, 2-3 cup sugar, few grains salt, 1-8 teaspoon samond extract.

Place all ingredients except samond extract in top of one-quart double boiler. Beat until all ingredients are thoroughly mixed.
 Place saucpan over boiling water and beat with rotary egg beater for one minute. Remove from heat and continue beating for two minutes longer or until meringue stands in peaks. Add flavoring and serve on top of that summer peach pie.

NEW YORK—Max Schmeling permitting Tommy Farr to beat him to Joe Louis and a crack at the crown he formerly wore is something in the way of additional evidence that the German wants no more of the young Detroit Negro.

Close observers suspected as much when Schmeling rejected a flat guarantee of $300,000, tax free, for a second edition with Louis three months after he flattened Smokey Joe in the 12th round.

From all appearances, Schmeling, who made it his business to out-smart cute American boxing figures, finally has outsmarted himself.
 Farr tackling Louis in this country in September practically removes Schmeling from the heavyweight scenery until next June—and maybe for good. The German will be 32 in September, which is a year older than Jim Braddock was when he turned out to be a slow old man against Louis.

It turns out that Schmeling never intended to box Farr in London, where, oddly enough, the Ferocious Frankfurter is not highly regarded as an attraction.

SCHMELING attempted to take Farr to Berlin, where the show would have done well. A victory over the Welshman would have brought the Pretzel Pounder recognition as world champion by the International Boxing Union and the British Board, and those closest to him believe that he would have retired with that distinction.

There were unmistakable signs that Schmeling intended to establish himself as a national hero in the Fatherland without further endangering his Nazi prestige in an escrow with the Improved Louis.
 As it is, it would not be surprising if he rested on the reputation of being the man who knocked out Joe Louis.

FARR is an unknown quantity here, but he is a new face and a novelty in that he is the first British heavyweight in years who doesn't take nine on a dirty look. The ballyhoo boys can be counted upon to build a fairly strong case for the Pride of Penycrag on the strength of his repelling Tommy Loughran, Bob Olin, and Max Baer, and stiffening Walter Neusel.

Farr is described as a larger edition of Loughran, which is good enough, especially in view of the fact that his ironing out Neusel is proof that he whacks 'em a bit harder than did the old professor.
 Mike Jacobs gave Schmeling plenty of opportunity, and insists that the Louis-Farr shindy definitely is on for September.

JACOBS also plans to send Braddock against Baer in a sort of consolation round in Chicago next month.
 The Garden for several years tried to land Marcel Thil, who is recognized as middleweight champion abroad, but now Jacobs comes right up with the Frenchman, and is to use him on a card of four 15-round world title contests at Yankee Stadium, Aug. 25 or 26.

Thil tackles Freddie Apostoli. Lou Amberg, lightweight leader, goes against Pedro Martinez. Barney Ross defends the welterweight wreath against Ceferino Garcia, and Sixto Escobar, bantam boss, is to square off with either tall Harry Jeffra of Baltimore or K. O.
 Morgan of Detroit.

Jacobs, the old Broadway ticket scalper, certainly stuns up plenty of action in the peak-busting business.

You Can't Advertise Today and Quit Tomorrow

You're Not Talking to a Mass Meeting . . . You're Talking to a Parade!

BRUCE BARTON

Ceaseless hammering on the same spot helps win prize fights . . . it is the essence of advertising success. Not until enough individuals in the same neighborhood have been sufficiently saturated with a certain slogan, say, to cause them to react on one another does advertising become a social phenomenon.

The modern business man realizes that his best customers wear out at a rate of nearly 3 per cent a year. Advertising - made prospects disappear far faster. Casual impressions, however, favorable, dry like dew in the heat of competition.

"Cumulative" effects of advertising come not from one advertisement paving the way for another. This is negligible, to say the least. Cumulative effect, on the contrary, comes from salvaging as customers half-finished prospects.

Each advertiser is in much the same plight. If he quits successful, he loses money. If he quits unsuccessful, he tosses away an equity in public recognition far more valuable than the money: So many thousand partly manufactured customers. The second group are spending as little money as they can and still keep their names before the public. They believe themselves wise spenders because they spend so very cautiously—or perhaps reluctantly is a better word . . . THE BALD TRUTH IS THAT THESE RELUCTANT SPENDERS ARE, AS A CLASS, THE REAL OVER-SPENDERS IN ADVERTISING!

WASHINGTON NEWS

FROM CONGRESSMAN
CLYDE L. GARRETT

This column is initiated in an effort to present to constituents of the Seventeenth Congressional District a picture of developments in the Legislature, Executive, and Judicial branches of the National Government. I shall avoid presenting controversial issues other than to give their status. I am led to believe that the readers of this paper are interested in these occurrences because of the inquiries received in my office through the mail.

FARMERS FAVORED — That more than 100,000 cotton growers who purchased in excess of $3-500,000 in cotton tax exemption certificates under the Bankhead Act are entitled to recover their payments, was ruled by the District of Columbia Court of Appeals. Many of our farmers come under this decision and they should investigate their rights.

MINING BILL — Senator Thomas (D-Okl.) has introduced a bill providing for the leasing of lands, within an Indian reservation or owned by a tribe or group of Indians, for mining purposes by authority of the tribal council or other spokesmen for such Indians if the Secretary of the Interior approves. Leases, for terms not over 10 years and renewable as long as minerals are produced, could be made. The bill was referred to Indian Affairs Committee.

FINANCIAL REPORT — With the exception of the Civil and World War periods the Government has followed a "pay as you go" policy.
This is shown by the budget history of the U. S. up to 1930. July 1, started a new fiscal year, Secretary of the Treasury, Henry Morgenthau, reports that at the beginning of this fiscal year, the deficit of $2,707,000,000 is about $150,000,000 above the revised budget estimate made April 20.

It is the smallest, however, of any of the four fiscal years the present Administration has been in office.

LOCOMOTIVES TO CHINA — That the Import-Export Bank will participate in sale of American locomotives to China, was announced by Jesse Jones recently.
The orders which total approximately $1,500,000 have been received by two large manufacturers.

APPROPRIATIONS — A bill to appropriate $99,880,000 for the Railroad Retirement Board and $350,000,000 for the CCC during the new fiscal year, were approved by the House Committee on Appropriations, and passed by the House. Included in the Resolution was $50,000 to finance the tax invasion inquiry and it sets up a $50,000 to finance the tax evasion inquiry and it sets up a $500-000 revolving fund to pay losses on any government shipments.

INCREASE IN EMPLOYMENT — Employments by class one railroad in the past twelve months has increased from 1,049,723 to 1,131,030 reports the Interstate Commerce Commission. Payrolls in the same period advanced from $148,998,643 to $163,953,073.

FARM AID — Congress has been busy debating on the $135,000-000 farm tenancy bill. It is designed to aid three million farm tenants and sharecroppers with loans to help them buy farms and to provide rehabilitation aids and submarginal land retirement.

TRANSIENT LABOR PROBLE-M — President Roosevelt has been visited by Rep. H. Jerry Voerhis (D-Cal.) to give Federal cooperation in solving California's transient labor problem. He specifically asked that additional resettlement camps be established in the State.

NEW LABOR LAWS — The President recently sent a message to Congress asking legislation concerning recommendations adopted by the 20th session of the International Labor Organization at its recent conference at Geneva.

The following points were outlined: "The regulation of special systems of recruiting workers," the "progressive elimination of recruiting," the "reduction of hours of work on public works," and "annual holidays with pay."

If Congress doesn't get in line quickly, patriots will have a task with incorrigible kids insisting they don't want to grow up to be President.

The Housewife Research Professor of Economy

She's not a Ph. D. or an LL.D. She hasn't a diploma or a cap and gown. Her research is not done in the laboratory or the library. As a matter of fact, her findings are made, usually, in the street car, in the subway, in the suburban commuter's train.

She reads the advertisements in this paper with care and consideration. They form her research data. By means of them she makes her purchases so that she well deserves the title of "Research Professor of Economy." She discovers item after item, as the year rolls on, combin-
