Can't Hustle America Into One-Man Rule

One of the encouraging things about our republic is the way it has of smacking a man down just when he begins to think he knows all the answers.

You could dig enough illustrations out of the history books to fill a column, but a few recent ones will suffice. The most striking case is that of Woodrow Wilson.

Mr. Wilson was probably the most powerful leader in all the world on Nov. 11, 1918. Indeed, he could be called one of the three or four most powerful leaders in all history.

But the cheers had not died away before Mr. Wilson collided head-on with the ancient, invincible reluctance of the American people to be hustled. And the first thing anyone knew he was a tragically rebuffed and thwarted man, his high hopes and grandiose plans wrecked by the simple fact that the republic had got tired of seeing one man lay down the law to it.

On a smaller scale you could repeat the parallel with Franklin D. Roosevelt. Last fall Mr. Roosevelt won a landslide election as no president before had ever won one. The opposition was utterly overwhelmed. In the Congress he had a majority which made all former majorities look insignificant.

And so what? So the first major program he handed to the Congress—the plan for revising the Supreme Court—was riddled with hostile bullets and finally was rejected by a Senate committee in a report as biting and critical as any in the annals of that historic house.

Lesser examples abound in recent memory. There was the case of Father Coughlin, who looked for a time as if he were going to be the uncrowned king of American politics, but who wound up completely beaten when the votes had been counted.

You can add this sort of stuff up all day and you will get just one answer. The instinct for democracy as against personal rule is all-powerful in this country.

CAST OF CHARACTERS JOY—Heroine, hostess in smart Maine resort.

TUESDAY: "Ever hear of a man called Jigger around here?" I asked Cal when he came into the kitchen this morning to fix the stoves and fill the ice boxes.

"Jigger?" Cal repeated in a questioning voice. Then he laughed, though not before I caught a flicker of anger in his old blue eyes.

"Well, that's just what happened to his truck; but I wouldn't let a man like that in here unless I had a battalion of the National Guard here to meet him.

"That don't mean anything to me, Miss. In the summer there's a lot more telephones in use with all the visitors around."

Q. Where is Cascade Cavern?
A. About four and a half miles southeast of Boerne, Kendall County, Cascade Cavern has been open to visitors for several years.

Q. How much active credit has been given to aid people of this country during the depression?
A. According to Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the amount has been approximately fifteen billion dollars.

Q. For whom was Seguin's new recreation park named, and why?
A. This unusually beautiful 75-acre city recreation park on the Guadalupe river at Seguin was named for Max Starcke, the city's mayor, honoring him in response to petitions from numerous citizens and from every club and civic organization of the city, all of whom strongly praised the mayor's unselfish and untiring labors for Seguin.

Q. What Texas State official was the youngest colonel in the American expeditionary forces engaged in the World War?
A. Col. Ernest O. Thompson, of Amarillo, member of the Texas Railroad Commission, who recently returned from Paris, where he served under an appointment by Pres. Roosevelt as a representative of the United States government in the World Petroleum Congress.

Q. By what other names has the Rio Grande river been known?
A. From its discovery by Alonso Alvarez de Pineda, in 1519, it has also been referred to as the Rio de las Palmas, Rio del Norte, Rio Bravo, Rio Turbio and Rio de Oro.

"NO, only a man wanting to use the phone; that just before I came up here, I saw him as we crossed the Queensborough bridge. He was driving a swell car then, but last night he had a big truck, covered with tarpaulin."

"Gee, maybe he was a bandit making away with his swag," Tess suggested. "Bet Cal will ask if his business to find out all about him. He's better than a newspaper," she laughed.

"Yes," I agreed, realizing that Cal is quite a character—"a native," Mrs. Fenwick calls him, which I suppose accounts for his queer ways, though she declares he's the mainstay of the teamoom.

THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY BUTCHER

NEA Service Sports Writer

NEWPORT, R. I.—Vessels of Communistic nations are not the only boats which fly the red flag. It may surprise you to know that some of our very best aristocrats have sailed under the red flag.

THE Ashbury case almost caused a war, coming at a time when Americans didn't think much of a Britisher who had anything to do with the sea because the states were still trying to collect those unsettled Alabama claims growing out of the War with the Confederacy.

THE Dunraven dispute, 24 years later, was just as bitter. By his numerous complaints the Earl of Dunraven succeeded in making himself the most hated Englishman since the collector of taxes in Boston port.

IN the last series of races in 1934 both skippers—Harold S. Vanderbilt and T. O. M. Sopwith—waved the red flag.

Leprosy Cure Is Claimed Possible By Witch Doctors

By United Press
BULUWAYO, Rhodesia — Witch doctors in Rhodesia say they can cure leprosy, even when it is so far advanced that the white man's medicine is of no avail.
A native, crippled by the disease, was carried into a native commissioner's office. The local witch doctor came with him.
"Incurable," said the medical officer who examined the patient. "I concentrate to cure him," retorted the African practitioner.
Three months later doctor and patient were back. The medical officer examined the patient and pronounced him completely cured.
The witch doctor refused to explain how he did it, but admitted that the treatment was a drastic one, on the principle of "kill or cure."
A white prospector caught blackwater fever in a native reserve hundreds of miles from the nearest European settlement. His plight seemed hopeless except to the local witch doctor, summoned by his servant.
The medicine man forced a dose of pink liquid between the lips of the patient, who was already sunk in the coma from which few awake. Within three hours the man was conscious, and in three days he was as fit as if he had never been ill.
Not all the traditional remedies of African medicine are secret, and from those which the witch doctors are willing to reveal it appears that they have much genuine lore as herbalists. One of their best known preparations is made from the leaves and roots of a kind of willow.
The natives use it to cure all manner of disease, from childbirth fever to distemper in dogs. For colds, chills and malaria it is said to be better than quinine, and indeed it tastes remarkably like it.
White people who have tried the preparation said that the results were satisfactory.

Can't Hustle America
Into One-Man Rule

One of the encouraging things about our republic is the way it has of smacking a man down just when he begins to think he knows all the answers.

You could dig enough illustrations out of the history books to fill a column, but a few recent ones will suffice.
The most striking case is that of Woodrow Wilson.

Mr. Wilson was probably the most powerful leader in all the world on Nov. 11, 1918. Indeed, he could be called one of the three or four most powerful leaders in all history.
He had settled the greatest war of all time; he alone, among all the allied statesmen, seemed to have a plan for bringing the hopes of a war-sick world to realization. For a little while he held the whole world in his hand.

But the cheers had not died away before Mr. Wilson collided head-on with the ancient, invincible reluctance of the American people to be hustled. And the first thing anyone knew he was a tragically rebuffed and thwarted man, his high hopes and grandiose plans wrecked by the simple fact that the republic had got tired of seeing one man lay down the law to it.

On a smaller scale you could repeat the parallel with Franklin D. Roosevelt. Last fall Mr. Roosevelt won a landslide election as no president before had ever won one.
The opposition was utterly overwhelmed. In the Congress he had a majority which made all former majorities look insignificant. If ever there was a president who could be pardoned for supposing that his word was all-powerful,
Mr. Roosevelt was the man.

And so what? So the first major program he handed to the Congress—the plan for revising the Supreme Court —was riddled with hostile bullets and finally was rejected by a Senate committee in a report as biting and critical as any in the annals of that historic house. And the all-powerful president learned what Mr. Wilson had learned —that the American people will take nothing from anyone unless, upon taking it over, they decide that they happen to like it.

Lesser examples abound in recent memory. There was the case of Father Coughlin, who looked for a time as if he were going to be the uncrowned king of American politics, but who wound up completely beaten when the votes had been counted. There was Dr. Townsend, at whose nod legislators trembled for many a long month—until, at last, the people had had enough. There was, for that matter, Herbert Hoover, who rode into office on a great landslide and rode out on another one, overwhelmingly beaten.

You can add this sort of stuff up all day and you will get just one answer. The instinct for democracy as against personal rule is all-powerful in this country. The people's distrust of power concentrated in one pair of hands is ineradicable, and the man who gets such power concentrated in one pair of hands is ineradicable, and the man who gets such power in his hands, or even seems about to get it, is riding for a certain fall.

IS IT HOT ENOUGH FOR YOU?

PAINESVILLE, O.—While Able stares blankly into space, a tree grows beneath his feet. A vigorous 'Never-say-die' locust tree, again sprouted this season beneath Able's feet. And Able can't move. He's a stone statue gracing

WTCC Officials View Fiesta Exhibits

Officers and directors of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce recently made a formal inspection of the West Texas Natural Resources Exhibit in the WTCC building on the grounds of the Fort Worth Frontier Fiesta and viewed with pride the dramatized story of the wealth and potentiality of the West Texas area. Three officers of the WTCC are inspecting interesting relics in the North Texas State Teachers College display while standing before one of the West Texas' towns panels. They are from left to right: Milburn McCarty, Chamber president; Ray Nichols, Vernon, a past president; and Herbert Hilburn, vice president, plainview.

LET'S KNOW TEXAS—TEXANS

Q. Where is Cascade Cavern?
A. About four and a half miles southeast of Boerne, Kendall County, Cascade Cavern has been open to visitors for several years. The improved section, said to be but a small part of the subterranean cavern, extends something over a half mile from the entrance. The passages contain stalactites, stalagmites, limestone formation in several colors, springs of clear water, a running stream and other attractions. Accessibility and improved passage ways add to the pleasure and comfort of visitors.

Q. How much active credit has been given to aid people in this country during the depression?
A. According to Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the amount has been approximately fifteen billion dollars.

Q. For whom was Seguin's new recreation park named, and why?
A. This unusually beautiful 75-acre city recreation park on the Guadalupe river at Seguin was named for Max Starcke, the city's mayor, honoring him in response to petitions from numerous citizens and from every club and civic organization of the city, all of whom strongly praised the mayor's unselfish and untiring labors for Seguin.

Q. By what other names has the Rio Grande river been known?
A. From its discovery by Alonso Alvarez de Pinola, in 1519, it has also been referred to as the Rio de las Palmas, Rio del Norte, Rio Bravo, Rio Turbio and Rio de Oro.
