SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By Mrs. Gaynor Maddox
NEA Service Staff Writer

LITTLE sweet tooth should learn something about the facts of cooking. Give them a white apron, a bowl or two, a simple recipe and the ingredients.
Of course, for the very young cook, the use of the stove is out.
But there are several excellent candies and salads and desserts that can be made by little hands without benefit of the kitchen stove. The following were selected as helps to modern mothers who believe in teaching young children the rudiments of food preparation.

Prune Whip
(4 to 6 servings)

Two egg whites, 1 cup cooked or canned prunes, 1-2 teaspoon lemon juice, 6 candied cherries.
Beat whites until very stiff.
Mash prunes through sieve. Combine mashed prunes, egg white and lemon juice. A little sugar may be added if needed, but the natural sweetness of prunes should be enough. Pipe into sherbet glasses and top with whipped cream and a bright red cherry.
Any tiny cook will love to see the results of her efforts, and a few words of deserved praise from the rest of the family will do a lot to make cooking seem less work and more interesting to the future housewife.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Sliced
peaches, puffed rice, grilled lamb kidneys, toast, currant jelly, coffee, milk.
LUNCHEON: Frankfurters, potato-celery salad, fruit cup, tea, milk.
DINNER: Baked ham with pineapple, baked sweet potatoes, creamed leeks, sliced cucumbers in vinegar, prune whip, iced coffee, milk.

French Cocoa Balls

(Makes 36)
Three-quarter cup cocoa, 1 3-4 cups confectioners' (4X) sugar, sifted, 1 cup nut meats, 1-2 cup sweetened condensed milk, 1 tablespoon vanilla.

Mix 1-2 cup cocoa and 1-2 cups confectioners' sugar. Chop nut meats and add. Moisten with sweetened condensed milk and vanilla. Shape into balls. Combine remaining sugar and cocoa and roll balls in it.

Apricot Cocomat Balls

(Makes 24)
One and one-half cups dried apricots, ground, 1 cup shredded cocomat, 1-2 cup sweetened condensed milk, confectioners' sugar.
Put apricots through a food chopper. Mix with cocomat.
Moisten with sweetened condensed milk. Drop by spoonful into confectioners' sugar. Shape into balls. Allow to stand until firm.

Fiesta Endurance Flight Is Planned

FORT WORTH.—A new solo flight endurance record will be the goal of Don Teel, Fort Worth flier, as a feature of Aviation Day, Aug. 1, at the Frontier Fiesta. Teel, who has been the "flying ambassador" of the fiesta in carrying invitations to governors and mayors, has not revealed the exact nature of the flight he will attempt.
"It will be of an unusual nature and already is attracting considerable attention among those in the aviation industry," he said.
Teel, 32, is well-known as a commercial flier, instructor and barnstormer. He was one of the first pilots in the country to receive the non-scheduled instrument ("blind") flying rating and formerly was an army flier.
Many noted pilots will be here for Aviation Day.

Hand Spinning Is Revived Under WPA

By United Press
ST. LOUIS.—The art of hand spinning and weaving will be revived on a commercial basis here soon, according to WPA officials.
Several women, engaged at present on a WPA project at which they spin and weave blankets and bed furnishings for city institutions, have purchased their own spinning wheels and hand looms and will soon go into business for themselves.
The spinning and weaving project was begun after a successful attempt at rug-making from rags discarded from the WPA sewing rooms. A stock of raw wool was bought and a group of workers assigned to card it, the first step in the making of woolen cloth.
The wool is cleaned of foreign matter with wire brushes and then rolled into short hands.
The carded wool is then spun into two-ounce swatches on the spinning wheels and is ready for washing and dyeing. Much of the hand woven cloth has a fastness and delicacy of color impossible to obtain in machine-made goods.
At present six wooden spinning wheels of ancient manufacture are in use along with eight hand looms. No products from the project are sold commercially.
Exponents of evolution overlooked a point when they failed to point out street car strap-hanging as a vestige of the tree days.

The battle is on—Erl Roman, famous sportsman, vs. 600 lbs. of savage, fighting, blue marlin!
How would your nerves stand up to two hours of this?

AS the Miami, Florida, "Herald" said of Erl Roman's struggle with the big fish (above): "The battle was tough. Erl had his hands full staying in the fishing chair." But a sporting spirit and healthy nerves kept Roman going. After a 2-hour fight, he landed the second-largest blue marlin ever taken on rod and reel. "Healthy nerves are necessary for keeping on top. Camels don't get on my nerves," Erl says. Above, right, Mr. Roman enjoys good digestion and a Camel after his tense fight. "I make it a point," he says, "to smoke Camels with my meals and after 'for digestion's sake.'"

THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The "senator closely identified with the labor movement," reported in dispatches to have asked Roosevelt to settle the fratricidal C. I. O.-A. F. of L. carnage...

The fellow who laughed hardest when he heard about it was John Lewis, who hasn't enjoyed many uproarious laughs lately. The formula proposed to provide a place for Lewis subordinate to a new president of the A. F. of L. would have been elected to succeed William Green...

Some sort of truce or semi-truce probably will be arranged sooner or later, perhaps sooner. Jurisdictional battles between C. I. O. and A. F. of L. unions, strikes which make no sense to the public and only make the public mad, are beginning to be recognized by organized labor's friends as dangerous, dumb business...

The "scop" in this column, however, is the fact that a group of liberal senators and congressmen, friendly to labor as a whole but beset by both A. F. of L. and C. I. O. lobbyists, is planning a public appeal to both sides. Realists know that hatred between Lewis and certain craft union chiefs wouldn't permit any closely knit coalition...

hope and plan to ask for an agreement that there shall be no jurisdictional strikes, that the A. F. of L. will not try to break any more C. I. O. strikes, and that disputes between the two labor organizations will be referred to some impartial board or court.

This congressional group may never go to bat. But its present plans are the only things which promise a formula for relative peace between Lewis and Green et al.

YOUR correspondent desires to welcome back an old friend who once favored him with no end of mail, but who for many months had been cruelly neglectful. It's the Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals of the Methodist Episcopal Church, which in prohibition days produced its "slip sheet" each week for correspondents here, but which seemed to fold up after there wasn't any prohibition any more.

Here's the "slip sheet" again, however, and it's entirely devoted to a long and learned summary of Supreme Court decisions in cases having to do with strong drink. It seems the court from away back has taken a sock at strong drink every time it had the chance. In these days when the Supreme Court is beleaguered by the forces of Mr. Roosevelt, the big repeal man of four years ago, the Methodist Board comes sallying to the defense of an old ally.

Of course the nation has gone wet again and your guess is as good as mine as to whether the board is going to do the opponents of the President's court plan more good than harm.

Sport Glances. By Grayson

BY HARRY GRAYSON Sports Editor, NEA Service

NEW YORK—Another member of the Old Guard is gone—Jack Curley. He was the most versatile and resourceful of the outstanding promoters and one of the more colorful. None surpassed him in background and glamour.

After launching them on a shoestring or less, Curley mastered sports promotional problems that required every form of ingenuity and scheming and saw nearly all of them through to a successful conclusion. Curley had more real friends than any other sports promoter who ever lived. Few in the sports world ever were known by sight to so many persons. Curley talked to everybody, and in such a manner that total strangers felt that they had known him all their lives.

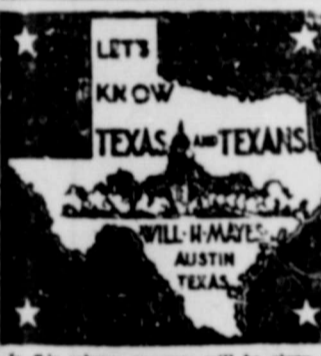

Curley did many charitable acts, and never attempted to capitalize them. He'd take the shirt off his back for a pal in distress. Sometimes the operation was so tough that the skin would come with it, but he never hollered. He didn't drink, smoke, nor was he a playboy in any sense of the term, but he had a much more costly habit. Money to him was something to spend, and he went on veritable shopping sprees, buying everything in sight—automobiles, watches, shirts, shoes, hats. He ordered suits of clothes in half-dozen lots, yet never appeared well dressed.

It wasn't a question of what Curley promoted, but what he didn't promote—fights, wrestling, bicycle races, tennis, marathon dances, lecturing, choir singing, swimming. BUT Jack Curley's memory will live chiefly through wrestling. His name was synonymous with pulling and tugging. Curley made bone bending big business and resurrected it time after time, when most everybody suspected that the last rites had been pronounced over the antiquated dodge. By telling the cockeyed world day after day, with no trace of a smile on his large guileless pan and without batting his innocent blue bulbs, that ear massaging was the grandest sport of all, that it was dead on the level, and that no crooked match ever had taken place anywhere, some began to believe Curley. And the shrewd manipulator built from there. No other promoter ever came quite as close to making the customers believe something they knew wasn't true. That, no doubt, was one of the biggest secrets of the success of Jacques Armand Curley.

Q. How was the burying place of Fannin and his men definitely located near La Bahia church? A. While the spot had been marked years before by Dr. J. H. Barnard, one of Fannin's men who was spared from execution, it was not conclusively fixed until New Year's Day, 1932, when bones were found that had been brought to the surface by gophers and were later identified as human bones.

Q. Does Texas have any Federal courthouses, and if so, where are they located? A. There is a Federal building containing a courtroom in practically every place in Texas where Federal courts are held. Usually these are not known locally as courthouses because they are used not only as court buildings but for various other Federal activities.

Q. Was there ever a Texas port known at Port Saluria and, if so, where was it? A. Saluria was an important port in the early 1850's, at which time boats were run from there up the Guadalupe river to Victoria. The port was about 40 miles north-east of the mouth of the Guadalupe on Matagorda island, at that time known as Saluria island, and was three miles across the bay from the present town of Port Connor and 12 miles from the old town of Indiana.

Q. What tribe of Indians moved across the Rio Grande after Texas was annexed to the United States and from there made frequent raids into Texas? A. The Lipan Apaches, who had inhabited the mountain section of Southwest Texas, moved across into Mexico after Texas became a part of the United States. They were notorious and troublesome border thieves until 1873, when Gen. Mackenzie chased them to their homes and punished them severely.

SUNDAY WAS A BIG DAY FOR REVIVAL HERE

Yesterday was a good day for First Christian church.

There was an interesting Bible school and splendid service for morning hour at church. Rev. Haley brought the best sermon of the meeting at this time. He preached on "God's Trees." It was very unique in its presentation as well as instructive.

He said, in part, trees are used all through the Bible as symbolism. The virtue of lack of it is not in the tree itself, but in what it symbolizes. Almost every tree and shrub has a meaning of its own.

He referred to the tree of testing, or the tree of sin—the forbidden tree in the garden. Adam and Eve were to eat of every tree but one. That tree represents sin. They ate and were banished from his presence. Nothing but sin can separate the individual from God.

2nd. The tree of disappointment. This tree represents adultery. It represents materialism. This will always bring disappointment, discouragement and death. "He feedeth on ashes."

3rd. God showed him a tree. The tree that sweetens. Moses and the children of Israel find the waters of Mira bitter and they could not drink it. When life becomes bitter God comes in and sweetens the water.

4th. The fruitless tree. Jesus comes one morning to the barren fig tree with His disciples; they were hungry but there was no fruit on the tree and Christ cursed it because there was nothing but leaves. How like some Christians today. Nothing but leaves for the Master and as a result, we perish spiritually. If we do not bear fruit, we are cut off from His presence.

5th. The tree of salvation. Calvary tree. What a transformation we find in Calvary tree. What a hideous tree it was before Christ was crucified on its cruel cross beams! What a tree of shame, of suffering. Reserved only for those captured in battle or rebellious slaves.

Last, the tree of life. A tree that satisfies our spiritual hunger and whose leaves are for the healing of the nations. These are some of the high points in the morning sermon.

Then, for the evening sermon, Rev. Haley took as his subject, "Sirs, We Would See Jesus." He showed how the raising of Lazarus from the dead brought about this question.

The people who witnessed this miracle, bore witness to the great power of Christ and the folks who heard about it wanted to see Jesus. Jesus said to Peter, "Upon this rock, I will build my church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it. Men can retard the on-going of the church, but they cannot stop its advancement. You can kill the messenger, but you cannot stop the message.

The Pharisees said, "Perceive ye how ye prevail nothing." "The whole world, said they, has gone after him."

The world does want to see Jesus, because the world wants satisfaction. And the preacher said, if men were not saved the fault was not in Jesus. The reason men do see Jesus in His followers, is because of selfishness, false pride and sin.

The disciples said, on one occasion, "Show us the Father," and Jesus gave them to understand that if they had seen Him, they had seen the Father also. Because He and the Father were one. God created man in His own likeness, but when man sinned, he lost that likeness and his original glory with the Father.

These are just a few of the Sunday evening thoughts that were delivered to a large and appreciative congregation. At the close of the sermon one came forward and made the good confession and the pastor baptized four candidates this morning.

The meeting will continue through the most part of the week. The picture last evening was "The Sinner and the Song," and it was one of the best yet drawn.

"Don't miss one of these services. The service will begin this evening at 8:00 o'clock," Rev. H. B. Johnson, pastor of the church, urged today.

Fisherman's Catches Are Really Unique

FORT WORTH, Texas.—Fisherman V. J. Courtney, who also is a Fort Worth policeman, doesn't think much of the Wichita river as a place to catch fish—but the "fishing" is very good.

Last year, he cast his line without success—but finally he brought in a rabbit's foot. This year, he cast again at the same spot. The line went taut, and Fisherman Courtney tugged. Up came a man's pocketbook containing 70 cents.

The Housewife Research Professor of Economy

She's not a Ph. D. or an LL.D. She hasn't a diploma or a cap and gown. Her research is not done in the laboratory or the library. As a matter of fact, her findings are made, usually, in the street car, in the subway, in the suburban commuter's train.

She reads the advertisements in this paper with care and consideration. They form her research data. By means of them she makes her purchases so that she well deserves the title of "Research Professor of Economy." She discovers item after item, as the year rolls on, combining high quality with low.

It is clear to you at once that you... and all who make and keep a home... have the same opportunity. With the help of newspaper advertising you, can graduate from the school of indiscriminate buying into the faculty of fastidious purchases!
