KAI-SHEK HAS PREPARED FOR WAR, HE SAYS

NANKING, China, July 29.—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, head of China's central government, called on the nation tonight to mobilize all its resources for war on Japan.
"China is determined to fight to the last man," adding he has made arrangements to defend the country against encroachment.
Chiang emphasized he is the highest military and political authority and is responsible for conditions in the north. He said Gen. Sung Cheh-yuan, who quit as governmental head in Peiping under pressure, "must not receive the blame alone."
The generalissimo issued a declaration, while Chinese sources discussed the possibility of severing diplomatic relations with Japan, probably leading to a formal state of war.
"Minor defeats do not mean eventual defeat," Chiang said. "The nation should not be discouraged by the latest setbacks."

LONDON, July 29.—Great Britain has warned Japan that the British government does not approve attempts to detach Chinese provinces from the Nanjing government, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden revealed today in the house of commons.
Wedgwood Benn, liberal, asked "has the foreign secretary made it clear to the Japanese government we do not approve any further attempt to detach provinces from the Nanjing government?"
"Yes," Eden replied "We very much regret the situation, more so as we were hoping for improvement of relations in the far east, which we cannot hope for while present conditions exist."
Eden's statement led to renewed speculation as to whether Britain intended to call a session of the League of Nations Council to deal with the far east crisis. Eden said Britain was not prepared to take the initiative.

W. N. McGlothlin of 216 South Marston street, Ranger, has just returned from an extensive trip, made to the West Texas oil fields, Old Mexico and other places of interest in the West.
McGlothlin says he loves to fish and has always wanted to fish in a stream where the fish would really bite without any "foolin' around." He had that privilege according to the story he tells. Here is the story:
"I am not giving any definite place as to where this occurred, only it was on the Rio Grande river. Two families drove up to the river banks around 7 o'clock in the morning. The boys in the general took a small seine out of several tow sacks found in one of the cars and put one of the seines in the straight side of the bank and ran the other part of the seine some 10 or 12 feet into the river, made a slight curve in the seine and then we got into the water and caught the fish by hand. The water was not over four feet deep in any place and in less time than it took to tell this story and make the people believe it, we caught over 400 pounds of the finest cat fish you ever saw.
"And, strange as it may seem, the natives told us the fish would not bite hooks, and are known as wrestling fish. They just love a good hand-to-hand fight."
McGlothlin says the fish have several tricks and will bite, kick and butt like the very dickens. Some of them can live for several hours burrowed in the ground.
McGlothlin was accompanied on the trip by his wife, who has no part in this fish story. They visited their daughter in Monahan and made an excursion into Old Mexico.

Deputy Sheriff Wallace Ray said he was determined that the bumper cotton crop shall be harvested before "rain or stormy weather ruins it."
The warnings to pickers and agents for growers in other counties were posted after field hands had been "lured away" with promises of better crop and easier pickings elsewhere, Ray said.

The final report, said in part: "We have made a thorough and painstaking investigation of all matters brought to our attention from the various parts of the county, and have tried to perform our duties faithfully and in compliance with the law. We regret to advise that there is an alarming increase of highway accidents in Eastland county resulting from the careless and reckless manner of operating automobiles and resulting from the operation of automobiles while under the influence of intoxicating liquors and beverages. * Our state law and the city ordinances of the respective cities of this county should be strictly enforced by the officers until such time as the highway accidents shall have been reduced to a minimum."
"We have made an inspection of the jail house and find that it is well kept and that it is in a sanitary condition. Mr. Ross Crossley is to be commended for his efficient service."
Indictments returned Wednesday alleged driving intoxicated (2), theft over $50 (7), burglary (4), forgery and swindling. It is at the gates in the wall on the left that most fighting between Japanese and Chinese troops has taken place.

U. S. WATCHES JAP - CHINESE CRISIS CLOSELY

Hull called at the White House to give the President the latest developments, including the attack by Chinese upon Tientsin and the Japanese bombing of the city.
Official quarters received with reserve the statement by Chiang Kai-Shek that the Chinese armies would fight the Japanese armies "to the last man."
Military observers pointed out that "according to the best information," Chiang's forces lacked the material with which to wage extended war upon Japan.

All Is Tranquil In Tirana Now

WASHINGTON.—The commerce department has brought reassuring word of the temporarily critical telephone situation in Tirana, capital of Albania.
Tirana's phone system, 300 paid-up subscribers, has weathered the first major crisis in its history, the department divulged, and has returned to its status as the most efficient telephone exchange for its size in the world.
Tirana not only has the smallest telephone exchange in Europe, but a unique one. Its subscribers have no directories because they have no telephone numbers. And so, it follows, wrong numbers are rare. The three operators know the subscribers—all 200 of them—and members of their households by their voices. And they know them all by name.
For years, the commerce department indicated, this system operated without hitch. Not even a single case of mistaken identity was reported until the Italian foreign journalists visited Tirana.
With them came the big crisis in the life of the Tirana exchange. The operators couldn't recognize the voices of the visitors. The switchboard bogged down under unprecedented heavy load of international calls. Under the strain and stress of this new situation, the operators committed the gravest of infractions. They began mistaking the voices of regular subscribers. Subscribers Ali Yusseif received the shock of his life when he was recognized as Subscriber Mukhta Ben.
It was several days after the official party's departure before the Tirana exchange resumed its traditional efficiency. The operators were days behind on their subscribers' personal affairs and had to get caught up. This, the commerce department explained, is a vital feature of the service.
For example, operators must be able to inform a caller that a certain subscriber had left the city to visit a country cousin, or that another couldn't answer the phone because he was busy milking Daisy.

TIENTSIN IS HORROR SCENE DURING NIGHT

TIENTSIN, Friday.—Flames lighted the skies over Tientsin during a night of horror in which Americans and other foreigners huddled in the foreign concessions after maddened Chinese troops started a hopeless fight against the Japanese war machine.
Eight fires, caused by Japanese bombs, blazed in the Chinese city. The two entrances leading to the foreign concession were held by foreign troops.
The other end of the International bridge was fortified by sandbags and held by French troops behind entanglements. A French tank was held ready for action.
There is no American concession and United States missionaries and their families and other Americans took refuge in quarters guarded by other nationalities. Men of the 15th United States Infantry guarded American buildings, but American citizens complained that the army refused to aid them.
The Chinese, inflamed with hatred against the Japanese, attacked all parts of the city except the guarded foreign concessions.
Danger to foreigners was acute. An Italian soldier and a French soldier were killed by stray bullets.
The fighting in Peiping, now ended, was outside the city.
Rumors were that the pro-Japanese commander of the 38th Chinese division, who by a coup, seized control of Peiping and caused loyal Chinese soldiers and officials to flee, had thrown open Peiping's gates to Japanese troops and huge numbers of Chinese troops were slaughtered.

Man Is Shot As He Flees From Ranger Police Wednesday

Chief of Police Jim Ingram and patrolman Guy Pledger of Ranger captured two suspects in the robbery of a box car on the Texas & Pacific railway siding in Ranger Wednesday afternoon after a long chase in which one of the suspects was shot in the neck before he was captured.
A carload of flour was being unloaded at the C. D. Hartnett Grocery Company in Ranger Wednesday. At noon the car was left unguarded and reports were received by the Ranger police that two men were seen carrying sacks of flour from the vicinity of the car. An investigation revealed that they were Chester White and Floyd Simmons of Ranger.
Ingram and Pledger soon found the two and arrested Simmons. White fled and escaped in the pursuit. Later he was contacted again and again he ran, but as he climbed through a wire fence Pledger fired, the bullet striking White in the back of the neck. He ran on a few yards and then fell.
He was taken to a Ranger hospital for emergency treatment for a flesh wound in the neck and was then released to county authorities.

Key to Ancient Life In Northwest Sough

DETROIT LAKES, Minn.—Scientists are directing excavation of mounds near Detroit Lakes in an effort to determine the age of the skeleton of the "Minnesota girl" found in this vicinity several years ago.
It is believed the skeleton may be of an early tribe which inhabited the Northwest 20,000 years ago or more.
Samples of the silt in which the skeleton was found have been taken and scientists are attempting to determine by tests the probable period during which the girl lived. The work is under the direction of Dr. A. E. Jenks, University of Minnesota anthropologist.
One theory under investigation is that the girl was drowned in a glacial lake, formed when retreating ice sheets blanketed the area now known as Minnesota. The last of the five great ice sheets in this section is said by geologists to have invaded the Northwest 20,000 years ago.

Women War Veterans' Reward for Bravery

Somewhere in the jumble of readjustment after the World War, a little group of volunteers who served the United States overseas became lost.

Their work carried them up to the front, and they were subjected to shellfire, bombs and poison gas.

Now, unprovoked for in many cases, aging and faltering under aggravation of old wounds and mental shock...

According to Miss Dorothy Frooks, national commander of the Women World War Veterans, reductions in compensation cut the incomes of those who were disabled from $60 monthly to $29 and less.

From the veterans' administration comes a reply that male veterans under hospital treatment without dependents receive the same amount...

While these women veterans are all full members of the American Legion, no major action to cover their cases of war disability was taken...

It is amazing, too, that this band of women could go along all these years with the hope that when their own resources ran out, a grateful government automatically would take good care of them.

Of course, such a delusion may have been inspired by the war-shouters of 1917, for when they were drumming up compression for the struggle to save democracy...

Then too, it's just possible that the women veterans erred in not forming a powerful lobby to camp out in the legislative halls when the rewards for valor were dealt out.

Fact that Washington's new Interior building has 26,100 pieces of china in its cafeteria brings danger of a new furor over the Yellow Peril.

King Ranch Foreman Died of Heart Attack, Doctors Claim

George Durham, above, 42-year-old foreman of El Suaz, southernmost section of the vast King ranch in southern Texas, collapsed and died while helping cowboys brand cattle. Only after three doctors had been called in to verify that Durham had died from a heart attack, were rumors of murder dispelled. Durham had been in charge of that section of the huge ranch involved in the famous Blanton mystery—the disappearance last November of Luther Blanton and his son, John, who started on a duck-hunting expedition on the King holdings and were never heard from again. Until the doctors pronounced to the contrary it had been thought Durham's death might have been an outgrowth of the Blanton mystery.

Before Lehman Hit Court Bill

"My good right arm" is the phrase President Roosevelt used in reference to Governor Herbert H. Lehman of New York. Friends of the administration insist the "good right arm" now has stabbed the Supreme Court bill in the back with the letter urging Senator Robert Wagner to vote against the controversial measure. And many wonder whether a scene such as this would be possible again, with the President (right), Lehman and Wagner (left) happily fighting shoulder to shoulder for the New Deal in a campaign meeting in New York City.

PROSPECTS FOR THE COURT BILL DEBATE

Last Sermon of Christian Revival Will Be Tonight

The revival, at the Christian church, will close tonight. Last night was the best service yet. Rev. Haley preached from the subject, "Power of the Blood." It was the best sermon yet delivered by the evangelist and they have all been good.

"The blood of Christ cleanseth from all sin. Though your sins be as scarlet, I will make them as white as wool, though they be red like crimson, I will make them as white as snow." He said, only the power of the blood of Christ can redeem a man from sin, for without the shedding of blood there is no remission of sins.

"There is a fountain filled with blood, drawn from Emanuel's veins. And sinners plunged beneath that flood, lose all their guilty stains." In the Old Testament, the minister said, we find sacrifices, the shedding of blood. A lamb was slain, the best of the flock, a lamb without spot or blemish.

In the New Testament, it was to be something vastly more precious. God sent the best, His Son, to shed

His blood on calvary. He is called the Lamb of God, without spot or blemish. Every worthwhile enterprise cost the shedding of blood. He referred to the construction of railroads, the building and operating of airplanes, the building of great bridges that span the mighty streams of the land. The transfusion of blood often saves a life. The very best blood has to be chosen. Jesus, the Great Physician gave His blood to sin-sick humanity that he might live. His was royal blood. Human saves only for a short while, but divine, royal blood saves through all eternity.

where the sword fails to save one single soul. God sent His best from heaven, came to a sin-cursed world not because the world loved Him, but because it did not love Him. He did this for fallen humanity.

The fountain of blood, started from the wounded side of the Saviour, on calvary's brow is powerful enough to cleanse the world from sin, if applied. Its like the clear mountain stream flowing from the snow-capped peak, down and out into the desert, causing the desert to bloom and blossom like a rose.

I like to think of God giving to His children, not only the flowers, but waving fields of grain to feed the natural man. The flowers are beautiful to look upon, they fill the air with their fragrance, the sick room of a friend or loved one. We take the flowers to a sick friend and often we fail to think that they came from God's great flower garden. We forget that our Heavenly Father fills the air with this beautiful aroma and fragrance and that every breath we breathe is more joyous because He saw fit to delight his poor, unworthy creatures.

Rev. Haley closed this splendid sermon with an illustration of a custom of a Chinese merchant, who sold to his patrons on credit and when the debt was paid, he pricked the skin on his arm and using his own blood takes his thumb and makes a mark in front of the debtor's name. Wherever that blood is found before a name, it means the debt is paid. The same thing will be true when we stand before the judgment bar of God, and the books will be opened, and if the blood of Jesus Christ is not before our name, He will say, "Depart from me, I never knew you."

But if it is there, He will say, "Come ye blessed of my Father. Your sins have been blotted out by the power of the blood."

Thus ended one of the best sermons of the meeting. At the close of the sermon two came forward and renewed their covenant for a better life.

The picture last night was "The end of a perfect day," and it made a profound impression.

The crossroads of the world now is located somewhere in Europe if the debris from smashups is any criterion.

Best-Dressed Woman

BY HELEN WELSHIMER

COPYRIGHT, 1937, NEA SERVICE, INC.

CHAPTER I

OUTSIDE a storm was raging. Even in the velvet recesses of her dressing room at the most exclusive couturier's in New York, Judith Irving felt the tremendous rhythm, the darling, the grandeur of it. Now the slim white buildings that barricaded the horizon were slashed with rain, and the tip of the Empire State building caught lightning and flung it like a slim green banner of fire.

Green fire . . . Judith looked down at the dinner jacket she wore, a jacket whose vivid green was a bright light against the storm-black of the heavy crepe dress. There was a similarity . . .

From the striking cheval mirrors in the dressing room, she watched her striking, slender, black-haired selves walk back and forth. Tomorrow the newspapers would announce that she, Mrs. Philip Godfrey Irving, had paid $800 for that jacket, that she had purchased five other jackets as costly—one in silver, one in Coronation pink, one in royal gold, a blue that was slippery and a white that was dull and powdery. Best dressed woman in America! Best dressed woman in the world, some artists and stylists said.

Suddenly, with the swift, lithe grace that distinguished her, she seated herself before the mirrors, studied her effect. There was a light knock on the door. She turned casually. It would be only Annette, with the pale blue evening dress adorned with scarves of long flame crepe which she would wear to dinner and the theater tonight.

"Come in," she said quietly, no hint of disturbance in her voice. It wasn't Annette. It was the woman about whom she had been thinking when she sat down to study herself before the mirrors.

"Darling, I'm stealing your husband for an hour or two," the newcomer said gaily but her eyes weren't laughing. "You don't mind, do you?"

Judith wanted to say: "Do I mind? I mind so much that I have to clench my hands to keep from telling you what I think of you! I mind so much that I can't see why Phil wants to be bored for one half second—!" But she didn't. Instead, she answered easily and nonchalantly: "He told me. He was having tea with a beautiful woman who wanted help about investments, and I guessed you. Have a good time and rescue him from the cinchman buns. He's the handsomest man I know but the waistline may creep out on him."

WHEN Mrs. Rogers had gone, and Judith was dressed in her brown wool ensemble with a jacket of hyacinth blue had tied herself done in warmer colors, she seated herself once more at her mirror. Intently she looked into her own cloudy gray eyes.

Phil—Phil . . . He was hers. That is, as much as one human being could belong to another. It had been that way for six years now. They didn't just love each other—they liked each other, which was even more important.

Phil . . . He wasn't handsome. Rugged was a better word. Tall, broad shouldered, slim waisted, with rough-edged blond hair and blue eyes that some seafaring relative had given him. He had worked his way through college where he had been an All-American can football star. A wealthy grandfather, who had disinherited Phil's father, had taken an interest in him after that, helped him through law school and had left him his money. Now, at 34, Phil was not only rich, but a brilliant and successful young corporation lawyer.

Sitting before the mirror, with the storm beating against the windows, Judith relived a scene of the night before. The telephone had rung and she had answered the extension in her dressing room. Already there were voices on the line. Phil's and a woman's.

"Of course, darling. Same time and place," she heard Phil say. "I plan all my day around that hour," the velvet voice came back.

VERY quietly she replaced the telephone and when she went into the living room where Phil was waiting in his immaculate dinner clothes she was as cool and composed as the silver metallic sheath that wrapped her slim body.

"You're gorgeous," he said. "A movie version of Joan of Arc done in excellent taste."

Now she smiled, but it did not reach her eyes. Phil knew it. She sensed it in the tightening of the muscles at his mouth. Suddenly he felt the need of explanation—and they never explained to each other. It wasn't necessary.

"Come in, darling. I have a surprise. Bruce Knight is here!"

bio-electric potential as one of the six principal theories which seek to explain the origin and nature of the electric energy produced by living tissues.

The American Journal of Botany, in June published an article by Dr. Rosene entitled, "Effect of an Applied Electric Current on the External Longitudinal Polarity of Douglas Fir." The article cited some 35 papers which furnished experimental confirmation of Lund's theory that organic polarity, bioelectric currents and cell oxidation are interrelated phenomena.

"Did you plan it?" Judith forgot Phil for a second.

"No, Millicent Bayne brought him. She carries somebody's umbrella or something across the stage in his play."

"Anne, be a dear and don't tell him who I am—who I used to be. I mean."

But when she met the actor, tall and fair-haired, in perfect tweeds, his keen eyes scanned her face.

"Don't we know each other?" he asked. "I've seen you—"

"In the rotogravures," Millicent supplied. "Judy's America's best dressed woman and any actress would envy the publicity she gets."

"Mrs. Philip Godfrey Irving." He repeated the name slowly. "No, it wasn't the clothes I've seen. I think it was you."

"We will compare itineraries," Judy said laughingly, but suddenly she wasn't the poised woman of the world whose husband was taking an inconsequential woman to tea. She was Judith Bole, old man Bole's youngest, whose legs were too long and whose hair was fly-away stuff—Judy Bole who lived on a river boat anchored in the flats of Pittsburgh's rivers. She was 17, a high school junior.

Because she had worked happily in the chemistry laboratory with a boy named Bruce Knight they had become friends. Once the class had made an expedition to a mining district and he had taken her in his roadster. They had been late in returning because they had discovered a long way back. The girls, whose clothes were good and whose houses opened on streets, had spurned her because she had taken Bruce, a popular senior idol, from them that day. And she had vowed in a frightened, little-girl heart that some day she would do something to show them she mattered—write a book, be an actress. Of course she couldn't, though.

THIRTEEN years ago that had been—and here they were, important names both of them; a Broadway favorite and a woman who knew style.

"Yes, we'll repeat our travels and find a mutual crossroads," the man was saying. "How about lunch, tomorrow?"

She shook her head. Tomorrow she was going to suggest lunch to Phil. Suddenly the fear of the night before came back. She was the frightened, shabby little Judy Bole, wanting somebody to be kind to her.

"Thursday?" the man was saying. "The Union Club—Ladies' room?"

"At one?" she asked simply. "Telephone for you, darling," Anne interrupted. "In my sitting room." She lowered her voice as she walked away with Judith.

"Judy, that Rogers woman who divorced her husband in Paris last year and came from goodness knows where before New York took 'em up, is casting purple eyes at Phil and he's too sweet to know it. You'd better stop this."

Judith laughed but her hand was shaking when she picked up the receiver.

"Judy dear?" The voice that could make her heart turn over like a top came cheerfully into the room. "I'm being detained—but I'll join the party later. We're dining with the Colbys, aren't we? Will you make my apologies!"

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By Mrs. Gaynor Maddox
NEA Service Staff Writer

LOTS of good eating for little worry. That's the dream of the hungry without much money. Planning can make that dream come to table.

These recipes were worked out in a well known electric home service kitchen. But even though you have a gas, oil or coal oven, they work there, too.

Mock Chicken Casserole
(4 to 6 servings)

Four tablespoons fat, 4 tablespoons flour, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 2-1/4 cups milk, 1 can tuna fish, one 3-ounce package potato chips, 1-2 cup mushrooms.

Heat butter, stir in flour and blend. Add salt, and slowly add milk, stirring until mixture is smooth. Simmer until sauce begins to thicken, then add flaked tuna fish. Slice mushrooms and crush potato chips. Add mushrooms to sauce and 3-4 of the crushed potato chips. Season to taste. Pour into buttered casserole. Sprinkle top with remaining chips. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for about 30 minutes.

Baked Spaghetti Dinner
(6 to 8 servings)

Two-thirds cup butter, 2-3 cup flour, 3 pints milk, 2 sweet green peppers, finely chopped, 2 teaspoons salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 1 small can pimientos, chopped, 6 hard-cooked eggs, chopped, 6 cups cooked spaghetti, 1-2 cup stuffed olives, sliced, 1-2 cup grated cheese.

Heat butter, add flour and mix well. Slowly stir in milk and cook until thickened. Add green pepper and seasoning. Cook 3 minutes. Stir in pimiento, hard-cooked eggs, 1 cup of cheese and the spaghetti. Turn into buttered casserole. Sprinkle remaining cheese over top, garnish with sliced olives. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until delicate brown, about 30 minutes.

This home service kitchen in Cleveland seems to understand the simple needs of people who like hearty food. They suggest this casserole of sausage and cabbage.

Arrange alternate layers of finely shredded cabbage and sliced apples in baking dish. Shape your favorite sausage into patties and brown on both sides in frying pan. Place the patties on top of cabbage and apples. Add 2 tablespoons vinegar to drippings in frying pan, and pour over food in casserole. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until cabbage and apples are transparent. Serve with scalloped tomatoes, cooked in the oven at the same time.

WASHINGTON—The New Deal knife is at last definitely out for those Democratic senators who come up next year for renomination and who have fought Roosevelt on the court and other issues.

Seven or eight such senators are in danger, and the Republicans now expect to give three or four of them Republican nominations in case they are licked by administration primaries or state conventions of 1938.

This means the biggest major party split since the Bull Moose bolt in 1912, assuming that the administration is successful, and that the Republicans carry out their private assurances. Strategists in both parties, however, expect that the big year of political alignment between conservatives and progressives will come in 1940.

The Fight machine, local politicians and labor's Non-Partisan League—which is backed chiefly by top officials of the big C. I. O. unions—are working together for at least a half-dozen states for pro-New Deal and pro-labor Democratic candidates with elimination of anti-New Deal Democratic senators as a chief aim.

FIRST indication that these forces were operating came from New Jersey, where Senator William H. Smithers, and other Roosevelt machine, have decided with organized labor's aid to try to smash Frank Hague's powerful Democratic machine. Congressman Elmer H. Wene will run against Senator Harry Moore in the Democratic gubernatorial primary.

The background of this is the fact that Boss Hague, whose machine was not too onerous for New Deal purposes when he played New Deal ball, has been opposing the administration lately.

THE ugly flinx which has laid its heavy hand on Vinny Dundee, Harry Greb first felt the curse. The Pittsburgh Windmill went blind in one eye and then was threatened with loss of sight in the other. When he submitted to an operation he died under the knife.

Tiger Flowers, whose savage punches hastened Greb along the dark corridor to the operating room, died a short while after when surgeons attempted to remove puffy flesh from around his eyes.

The Tigah, a fearless, ferocious fellow, died of fright, they say. Hot leather didn't phase him, but cold steel did.

Now Vinny Dundee, who won the middleweight title a few years after Flowers, is threatened with blindness.

Vince, suffering from an infection of his right eye for some time, had been warned to stay away from the ring. But he was stubborn, or maybe he needed the money for doctors—anyway, about a month ago Vinny hopped to Pittsburgh for a fight with one Honeyboy Jones.

A hemorrhage spurted out and Dundee was rushed to the New York Eye and Ear Infirmary the other day for an operation. Doctors hope for the best.

THE Southern League is about to free itself of all foreign entanglements.

All the Southern teams are privately owned with the exception of the Chattanooga Lookouts, who are the property of Washington, Birmingham, of course, has an agreement with the Chicago Cubs, and Nashville works with the New York Giants, and the Cleveland Indians have first call on New Orleans players, and so forth. But the clubs themselves are owned and operated by local citizens.

Now it appears that the Lookouts are going to win their emancipation from the big league yoke and return to home ownership.

The fans have been so disgusted with the team's showing and the failure of the Washington club to provide better talent that they have been treating the ball park as if it had smallpox signs hanging on the gates.

So it appears that a group of prominent business men are going to buy the team, and install popular Joe Engel in his old job as president, the position he was ousted from when Clark Griffith installed his adopted son, Calvin.

BACK in the spring of 1936, Buddy Myer, who had won the American League batting championship the previous season, was asked if he thought he would repeat.

"No," said the Washington second baseman, "I won't. But I'll tell you who will win it—that fellow over there," and Buddy pointed to Cecil Travis, his side-kick.

Travis, converted from third baseman to shortstop last year, failed to fill the bill and didn't play regularly, so Buddy's prophecy fell through.

But now that Travis has improved in the field he is playing regularly and batting, if you please, better than 360.

He's hot on the heels of Lou Gehrig, American League leader, and coming all the time.

Buddy may be right after all.

Rangerettes Wallop De Leon 18 to 11 and Killingsworth Wins

Lead by their captain, Dorothy Lane, who knocked out 2 home runs and two singles, the Rangerettes out played and out scored the strong DeLeon Girls' team at the Municipal Soft Ball field Wednesday night 18 to 11. But for the one bad inning when DeLeon made 7 runs in the 4th, the Rangerettes had them well in hand.

The Rangerettes scored in every inning, starting off in the first with 4 runs, 4 more in the second, 2 in the 3rd, 1 in the 4th, then went wild in the 5th to score 6 more runs. Not satisfied with that made one more in the 6th. DeLeon was blanked 3 out of the seventh inning at bat.

Dorothy Lane lead the hitters with 2 long home runs. Juanita Morris slammed out her customary home run per game with 2 on in the 2nd. Arnett with one triple and all the rest hit at will. DeLeon changed pitchers 4 times.

This was the second meeting with DeLeon Girls, the first game was won by DeLeon 9 to 6 early in the season.

Tonight the Rangerettes will try to break the jinx the Eastland Fire girls seem to hold over them, when they meet at Eastland. DeLeon Girls' recently won from the Fire Girls by a score of 8 to 4. So the Rangerettes should be able to give them a good game.

Friday night the Eastland Fire girls will play the Rangerettes in Ranger, in what promises to be a real ball game, for the Rangerettes are getting tired of being kicked around by the Fire girls.

Massena Snyder and Lenina are working the Rangerettes hard to get them into shape for that Wichita Falls trip, when they play the Red Jackets at Wichita Falls, August 8th. Although the Red Jackets were state champions last year and will be regarded as heavy favorites in this game. If the Rangerettes play ball like they have been doing lately they will give a good account of themselves. Any team of girls that can hit the delivery of the crack DeLeon pitcher like they did last night will be hard to handle in any game.

Plans are under way to take the Rangerettes to Wichita Falls in a big bus, and the squad will be intact for this trip. Several fans here expressed desire to go to Wichita Falls for that game and they feel they will see a good game, well worth the trip.

The support given the Rangerettes, by the softball fans of Ranger is very encouraging to the management, and it is their desire to continue to win ball games and the girls are hustling in every game to win.

A smashing single over second base by Greer, Killingsworth Cox left fielder in the last of the ninth inning with C. Stuard on third gave Killingsworth Cox a ninth-inning victory over Palo Pinto Life of Mineral Wells in the first game of the evening.

The score was tied at two, all in the first inning, was tied again at four to four in the fourth and the game went into the ninth tied at eight to eight when the winning run was scored.

Mattern Will Fly Big Plane Over Russians' Route

Inspired by the two trans-Arctic flights of Russian heroes, Jimmie Mattern will fly the big, shining Lockheed monoplane in the upper photograph on an attempted non-stop hop from Oakland, Calif., to Moscow. He also will attempt a return. The heavy black line on the map shows the route he will fly, as compared with the course of the Russians' first exploit, indicated by the dotted line. The second group of Russian flyers continued southward over Oakland to San Jacinto, near Riverside. At lower left, Mattern and his wife inspect the new $100,000 plane, twin-motored, powerful and efficient.

Canadian Veterans Are Rehabilitated

By United Press OTTAWA, Ont.—A $250,000 probational training scheme, designed to aid war veterans to re-establish themselves in the trades.

They were engaged in before the war, has been decided upon by the Canadian government.

The government will pay part of the wages of soldiers while they are "re-conditioning" themselves in industries with which they were familiar before they lost their jobs during the depression.

The scheme will embrace both Canadian and Imperial veterans who actually served in the war.

It will be administered by the War Veterans Assistance Commission, the Employment Service, the Canadian Legion and, where necessary, other veterans organizations.

The early bird gets the worm . . . if he knows where to look!

Watch a robin on the lawn some sunshiny morning. A few hops, then a pause. A few more hops, and he listens again. Then, triumphant, he pulls out a fat, wriggling worm.

A silly bird, you would say, if he merely pecked here and there, hoping to strike it lucky.

Reading the advertisements is for you what cocking his head is for the robin. Advertisers tell you just where are the juiciest buys.

Cock your eye on the advertisements in this newspaper. They may save pecking on barren ground.
