Faint Hope Lingers For Miss Earhart Today

SOME DOUBT IS EXPRESSED ON RADIO SIGNAL

Amateur Radio Operator Says He Got Position of The Lost Plane.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 6.—Charles McGill Oakland radio amateur, reported today he picked up at 8:35 a. m. a faded voice message on the band of Amelia Earhart's missing plane, saying: "KHAQQ-KHAQQ SOS SOS-SOS, 281 North Howland. Cannot hold out much longer. Drifting slowly northwest. We above water. Motor sinking in water. Very wet."

Miss Earhart's husband, George Putnam, said he placed "fair evidence" in the message McGill picked up.

Coastguard headquarters were skeptical.

Coast guard officials denied rumors the mine sweeper Swan had sighted the plane in which Miss Earhart and her navigator, Fred Noonan, were forced down out of fuel after overshooting Howland Island Friday on their flight from New Guinea.

They likewise said "there was nothing to" a report that the cutter Saranac at Galveston, had intercepted a radio message from the cutter Itasca saying the Itasca had sighted the plane.

HONOLULU, July 6.—Faint radio signals, believed from the set of Amelia Earhart, brought new hopes today for the rescue of the woman flier and her navigator, Fred Noonan.

The signals were picked up shortly before 7 a. m. CST by the local coastguard station and by Pan-American Airways, but were too faint to permit placing the position where Miss Earhart's $89,000 twin-motored plane went down Friday.

Three ships cruised the area where Miss Earhart's plane was believed to have alighted.

The coastguard cutter Itasca first reached the scene, caused a brief period of hope today when officers mistook meteors for flares from Miss Earhart's plane.

GALVESTON, July 6.—The U. S. Coastguard radio station reported today it intercepted a broadcast that Amelia Earhart's plane had been sighted, but the message was believed to have been based on a news report of a falling meteor in the vicinity of Howland Island.

The coastguard said the broadcast apparently was from the Colonial Telegraph Corporation to the Tropical Radio Corporation.

The message said, "Colonial Telegraph—Flash on Earhart—the plane of Amelia Earhart has been sighted by the coastguard Itasca and it is proceeding to her rescue."

Issuance of the warrants came as the Ford Company appeared before the National Labor Relations Board on charges of violating the Wagner Act.

Deep Test Drilling At 2,800 Feet in the Desdemona Sand

Central West Texas' bid for deep oil pay, the Gallagher & Lawson No. 1 Bobbie Terry, located about 20 miles south of Ranger, near Desdemona, was drilling today at approximately 2,800 feet, with the bit sinking deeply into the Desdemona sand.

Operators are optimistic, and the progress of the well is being watched closely by several companies which have acreage holdings in the field.

The well is scheduled to be drilled to a depth of 5,500 feet to the Hickory sand unless satisfactory deep production is encountered before reaching that depth.

At 2,800 feet, drillers were still using a 10-inch hole.

ONLY 615 DIE IN A SAFER SANER FOURTH

The "safest and sanest" Independence Day celebration in years was recorded today on police and coroners' records.

A nation-wide survey showed approximately 615 violent deaths during the three-day celebration. The toll was expected to reach 650.

National Safety Council statisticians had anticipated 900 deaths on the basis of 1936 figures.

The tabulation showed: drownings, 165; traffic, 319; fireworks, 5; miscellaneous, 139.

Violence and accidents resulted in 31 deaths in Texas during the three week-end holidays, a poll Tuesday revealed.

Three persons were injured fatally Monday by an explosion near an oil test rig near Jefferson as a crowd of sight-seers inspected the well.

Ten persons died in automobile accident, three were stabbed, two shot, three committed suicide, six were drowned, one was beaten to death, one was burned, another was accidentally electrocuted and another person was killed in an oil rig accident.

Robinson Moves For Consideration Of Court Changes

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Senate Majority Leader Joseph Robinson today moved in the Senate to begin consideration of President Roosevelt's Judiciary program, first proposed just five months ago.

After hearing a warning by Robinson that he intended to employ stern measures against any filibuster tactics, the senate agreed to proceed with consideration of the measure. Robinson's move signaled the start of formal consideration of the controversial subject after weeks of public debate and Judiciary committee hearings which brought an adverse report on June 14.

New Deal senators claimed 54 votes for a compromise bill introduced last week.

$9,000 Program Begins Tuesday On Lyric House

An improvement designed to make the Lyric theatre in Eastland architecturally perfect and affording cinema entertainment on a par with the best was begun Tuesday morning.

B. J. Aylesworth, resident manager for Texas Consolidated Theatres, Inc., stated the program, costing $9,000, should be completed around July 16. He said with completion of the improvements the Lyric will become the company's "A" Eastland house.

An "everything new" policy has been adopted for the modernization program, explained J. H. Elder, director of construction for Texas Consolidated Theatres, Inc., and Interstate Circuits, Inc., at Eastland in an advisory capacity to George O'Rourke, general contractor.

Among the new equipment will be seats, screen, projection machines, a luxuriously appointed lobby, a modernistic outer lobby, and other items.

The new seats, it was explained, provide for the maximum comfort of the patron. They will be blue-green. Built-up side wall columns in the theatre will be ripped off and a new cooling color scheme arranged for the interior of the house. The outer lobby will have porcelain enamel walls. Rest rooms for women and men also are under construction. They will be at side of the inner lobby. The cooling and sound systems are being improved.

A new sign, too, is provided in the construction. The sign will be of "flushed-over" glass and porcelain enamel.

The company stated through its representatives the program is being undertaken because of its faith and confidence in the growth of Eastland.

He's Devouring Western Crops

Typical of the grasshopper pest currently plaguing western and southwestern farm lands is the insect shown above in actual size, often measuring three and four inches in length. The "hopper" pictured here was one of the millions which descended upon Oklahoma farms. Wingless, they crawled across fields, stripping thousands of acres of vegetation. If they develop wings, they are the African variety, agricultural agents said.

Firemen Urged to Go to State School

AUSTIN—Marvin Hall, Fire Insurance Commissioner, today urged Texas fire chiefs and city officials to cooperate in sending to the annual Firemen's Training School representatives from every department in the State of Texas. The school will be held at College Station from July 19 to 23.

In a letter addressed to 250 fire chiefs, Hall said: "From past experience you know that the good of this school training cannot be estimated in any monetary way. We want to urge that you make every effort to see that your city officials are informed on this subject, and that your department is represented this year."

"In addition to the benefits of specialized training involved, it will be possible for over 250 cities to receive three per cent lower fire insurance rates by sending their representatives to the school," Hall explained. "If a city is receiving credit for a recognized waterworks system and fire department, and the requirements of the Texas General Basis Schedules are complied with, there is a three per cent credit provided in the key rate for full attendance as a student and satisfactory completion of all subjects of the course."

Besides representatives of the Fire Insurance Department, there will be some twenty-five instructors at the school who are experts in the field of fire fighting and fire prevention. Prof. H. R. Brayton of A. & M. College will be Director of the School.

"Our goal this year," Hall said, "is to top last year's record attendance of 450. Certainly, I know of no activity in which fire departments can be so profitably engaged as training themselves to be ready to serve the interests of their citizens in times of trouble."

ACC Is Expecting Record Enrollment

ABILENE—With room reservations nearly six weeks ahead of the number in 1936 at this time, officials of Abilene Christian College predicted Tuesday that another record enrollment will be seen in the 1937-38 season at A. C. C., which begins September 15.

There were 10 more room reservations on the campus on June 29, than on August 1, 1936. "This, says president James F. Cox, "indicates that a fifth enrollment record in six years will be realized, and the campaign of the Ex-Students Association, and the Mothers and Dads club of A. C. C. to bring 750 residence college students to the campus in the next year will be successful."

A. C. C. experienced record enrollments each successive year from 1931-32 through 1935-36. An increase in net residence enrollment of 64 per cent, in this period of general decrease in college populations, is larger than all but a few institutions of higher learning in the country. In 1931-32 there were 402 students in the college in the main session, and each year following the figure was 524, 614, 628 and 655. The 1936-37 session had a record attendance even with 20 fewer students than the preceding main session, due to fewer withdrawals of registered students.

Nearly half of the available rooms in the dormitories are already reserved for the next main session at A. C. C. There are 253 students in the first term of the summer session at this time, and the second term which begins July 13 will increase this number.

Hoover Attacks Parole System

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Our $15,000,000,000 crime bill is largely due to abuses of the parole system says J. Edgar Hoover, Director of the G-Men, in a vigorous attack on our state system of releasing criminals who then commit fresh crimes. He advocates that every state model its system after that of the Federal Parole Board.

"Abuse of the parole system allows the worst criminals to run loose in contempt of the law they have outwitted," he states in his article "The Menace in Parole" in August Cosmopolitan. "Put your finger blindly upon the man of the United States and you will be almost certain to touch a section of which defiant criminals, encouraged by lax prison discipline and corrupt or inept parole or pardon systems, have made society pay in blood and death for releasing them."

Supporting his conviction that there should be fewer paroles, Hoover cites the case of one of Alabama's largest cities where the chief of police estimates sixty per cent of his men's time is consumed in running down parole violators and that eighty-five per cent of the crime in the city is committed by parolees.

To remedy the situation, Hoover suggests freeing paroles from politics and reorganizing state parole systems.

"Every state should gear its system to a national standard which is perhaps best set today by the Federal parole board with its highly trained staff and close supervision of parolees after their selection by careful process," he goes on.

"We can never have honest, thorough and impartial justice or law enforcement in America, so long as we have unfairness such as there is today in parole and until our penal systems come from behind its cloud of disgrace."

Roosevelt Is Asked to Rule in Labor Row

WASHINGTON, July 6.—President Roosevelt has been asked to help settle the dispute between the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization, it was learned today.

A formula has been laid before the chief executive in hopes it may be used to re-unite more than 5,000,000 members of the two organizations.

Prepared by a senator closely allied with the labor movement, the formula has been kept secret. Neither William Green, federation president, nor John L. Lewis, CIO chairman, has been told its details.

The peace formula included that a new department would be established in the A. F. of L. paring the metal trades and building trades departments, to be known as a mass production department. This would absorb and actually be the CIO.

MOOL AID KE URGED BEFORE BOARD

AUSTIN, July 3.—A motion to the state school aid from $32 a year per scholar, pending today when the state board of education recessed. A four year vote was not expected until late afternoon.

It was estimated the increase would be made without raising the school tax levy of 20 cents on $100 valuation.

Paint schools, repair roofs and raise teacher's pay was the plea of school officials who appeared before the board.

The board grants the teachers' requests it will doom the state of abandoning the state tax. Figures were presented to show the present $19 can be paid without any school tax increase.

Next year's state school tax will be $40 cents on $100 valuation. If omitted the state ad valorem would be 42 cents. It was 62 cents last year.

I hope the board will hold to present amount and allow us to have real estate tax relief," Gov. Allred.

Work Is Started On July 24 Rodeo

Work started today in preparing the rodeo field for the big event to be held here on Saturday, July 24, with performances in the afternoon and at night.

A temporary fence, that can be pulled or removed for each rodeo, is being built so that the field will not be too large for the best performances, and in order that the parking space can be made available for cars.

Two posts, set in concrete, are placed at each side of the field, and a temporary wire fence stretched across the middle of the field in front of the grandstand. This will allow placing of seats and the fence will permit parking of many cars around the field. Entrance to the parking area will be from the Walnut street entrance.

It is estimated that in addition making the rodeo field more spacious, that it will allow about 60 more spectators to see the performances in comfort.

The Willows was drained today as fresh water was started into the pool after it had been thoroughly cleaned.

It was expected that enough water would be run into the pool to re-open it Wednesday since the cleaning of the main from the lake has doubled the capacity of the water pumps and no more is being encountered in the standpipes filled while water is running into the pool.

County officials announced that some attractions were being prepared for those in swimming Wednesday night, which, with the cool water, would make swimming especially attractive.

Real Public Service Without the Oratory

Back of the swarm of statistics currently being submitted to the public, some very interesting stories are often hidden. One of these cases involves the growth of the Boy Scout organization and its independent work in youth "rehabilitation."

The bare figures themselves show that on April 30, Cubs, Scouts and adult leaders in the United States organization totaled well over a million, with a gain of nearly 60,000 over the roster of April, 1935. More than seven and a half million boys and men are or have been connected actively with the Boy Scouts of America since the movement began in 1910.

But the significance of these figures does not by any means match that of the program actually carried on by the Scout organization.

When the movement began, it was beset by scores of difficulties. Before long it was being called "sissy," a class group, and for many years was accused of being the training ground for soldiers of the future. Worst of all, it was earmarked by fanatics as a vehicle for religious discrimination.

Fortunately, the basic principles of the Scout movement were sound enough to disprove the charges, absorb the handicaps and move ahead to new fields of immense private and public service.

Its benefits to individual members may be taken for granted as a great feat in character building. But greater than that is the Scout work in remaking whole gangs of tough, ragged urchins who previously had defied efforts to police and social workers to reform them.

In Cleveland, one of the great problems of a general campaign against crime was solved almost magically by the Scout organization. One large section of the city, overrun by rival "teen-age mobsters who were aping big shot criminals, was brought back to respectability by interesting those youngsters in Scout work. Within a year practically all the boys who had been thieving and roistering were working at honest jobs or going to school. They even formed an "improvement" board for the civic betterment of their neighborhood.

This example has its counterpart in many communities, and as Scout membership continues to mount, so will its possibilities for public service.

In addition to this work at home, there is an international aspect which, because of its spontaneity, has shown itself superior to the newly popularized student exchanges between nations. When the national Scout jamboree is held at Washington in July, 400 Scouts from 24 different lands will join 25,000 American boys on a plane of common understanding.

As against idealists who are trying to attain Utopia by mechanical education, soap box oratory or just plain shouting, the Boy Scout technique affords a refreshing contrast.

...He gave her several copies of the newspapers about the affair, and rode a mile or two with her along the lower reaches of the mountain. They were careful this time, however, to note landmarks and stick to a more open route, in order not to lose themselves again.

When they had finally separated to return to their homes, Carolee felt an inward glow of satisfaction; just being with Stuart Blake had comforted her, eased the worry over her missing brother. She had confidence in Paul's ability to take care of himself anyway. She hummed songs and talked sweet talk to Chieftain, whom she petted more than any horse's due, but that's the way she felt. Thus was she musing, day-dreaming, when her reverie was interrupted by a distinct groan.

The sound frightened her.

SHE did not immediately see its source. It could have been an animal. But then it was repeated, and unquestionably it was human. Someone seemed trying to attract attention, with odd groans and noises of suffering.

Heart pounding, Carolee called out, "What is it?" and went in the direction of the sound.

Some 50 feet away she found a woman on the ground, an Indian squaw obviously suffering.

"O-o-oh!" cried Carolee, dismounting at once.

The woman looked pleadingly and mumbled something. Carolee couldn't understand, but she began a hurried examination. Water from her saddle canteen was gulped and the woman's gratitude was obvious if unspoken. The Indian indicated that her pain was in her leg, and Carolee soon discovered that the leg was broken.

The squaw could speak but little English.

"When did you get hurt? Did you fall?"

"Sick," the Indian mumbled. "Sick." It was her only way of saying she needed assistance.

Carolee took off her light sweater and made a pillow on the rocky ground for the red woman's head. As easily as she could, she straightened the broken limb; it appeared to be in a terribly painful position. Moving it must have been almost unbearable, but beyond her increasing panting the woman gave no sign. Carolee was afraid she had fainted when her

Behind the Scenes in Washington

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—A rump group of leaders has arisen in Congress and threatens to take over the show at times when the old line conservative Democratic leadership, on which the administration previously has depended, can't manage to whip itself into excitement over controversial phases of the Roosevelt program.

These men are waging a vigorous counter-revolt against the effort of the senatorial "battalion of death" group and a strong southern contingent which hopes to prevent the President in his tracks and prevent him from dictating the Democratic nomination in 1940—or anything else of importance in the meantime.

"Who won the last election?" is a sort of unofficial slogan for this group.

Senators Hugo Black of Alabama, Alben Barkley of Kentucky, Lew Schwelienbach of Washington, Sherman Minton of Indiana and Bob LaFollette of Wisconsin are the more conspicuous leaders.

IN the House the liberal group, which includes Progressives and Farmer-Laborites from Wisconsin and Minnesota as well as Democrats, is led by Congressman Maury Maverick of Texas. But the formal House leadership—Speaker Bankhead, Majority Leader Sam Rayburn and Rules Chairman John O'Connor—has been co-operating more with Roosevelt than the Senate leadership, whose members are accused by Roosevelt partisans of everything from "sitdown tactics" to actual revolt.

In referring to the regular leadership it is wise to include the chairman of the chief House and Senate committees.

Some of these chairmen and other leaders have been particularly confused because men upon whom they have been accustomed to rely for financial support in campaigns have demanded that they stop following White House orders.

LET'S KNOW TEXAS AND TEXANS

Q. Whose aid and counsel especially encouraged Houston just preceding the San Jacinto battle?

A. In a letter to Henry Raguet at Nacogdoches, written April 19, Houston referred with evident satisfaction to the fact that Secretary of War Thomas J. Rusk was in the field and that "Adjutant General John A. Wharton, Inspector General George W. Hackley, Aides-de-camp Alexander Horton, William H. Patton and James Collinsworth, and Major Cook, Assistant Inspector-General, will be with me."

Q. Why was it highly important to the Mexican forces to get across the Trinity ahead of the Texas army?

A. The Mexicans were badly in need of provisions that were not obtainable west of the Trinity, but that might have been purchased or confiscated from settlers to the east. They also hoped to form an alliance with the Indian tribes of that section before the Texans could reach them and do so. With the Texans also short of rations and trapped between well-provisioned Mexican troops and

WHAT NEXT?

THE MERCHANDISE HUNT

The first fan was a crude affair made of plant leaves attached to a long pole and wielded by slaves for the comfort of oriental potentates. In tropical countries. Since the introduction of electricity, many inventions have been recorded of various types of "wind makers", but the one pictured above is unique in that it was especially designed for individual use, and fits in a small pocket. The construction is similar to that of a flash light, and is motivated by a battery which lasts for 20 hours. The fan is more practical than the sketch suggests, since it is obvious that it may be placed on a shelf or desk and will make tolerable hot spots in factory or office.

Killingsworth Is Back From a Trip Over California

Floyd Killingsworth returned to Ranger Saturday night from a 10-day trip to California, where he attended a three-day convention of Philco radio dealers from the section west of the Mississippi river. About 700 dealers attended, Killingsworth winning an all-expense trip as one of the leading Philco dealers in this area.

While in California Killingsworth visited in San Francisco, Hollywood, Beverly Hills, Santa Monica and Oakland. While in California he went on a fishing trip with 40 other dealers, the group catching 250 fish in 45 minutes.

On the trip to California the dealers from the Southwest stopped off a day in El Paso and visited in Juarez. On the return trip they stopped at Ogden, Utah, Salt Lake City, Utah; Pueblo, Colorado, and visited the royal gorge. Killingsworth said this morning that Philco dealers were doing a good business over the entire country, and much optimism was expressed, both on the trip and at the convention, which was held in Del Monte, Calif.
