CONFIRMATION OF BLACK IS STILL DEBATED

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—Admiral forces, fighting for formation of Sen. Hugo L. Black as a member of the Supreme Court, challenged Senate confirmation today to present proof that Alabama Democrat had ever been a member of the Ku Klux Klan.

George McGill of Kansas, in impassioned reply to charges that Royal S. Copeland of New York, declared that the question of whether Black was a "sympathizer" was "based on prejudice" and designed to "degrade the people of the United States."

McGill defended Black's record, absented himself from the Senate during the debate. Copeland, reciting charges that he had once been affiliated with an "un-Godly, un-American organization," asked McGill if he would vote against confirmation if proved he had been a member of the Klan.

Beer Dealers to Get New Permits and No Renewals

Ford, administrator of the Liquor Control Board, has letters to county officials explaining that beer retailers in the state must obtain a new license year instead of receiving a renewal as before.

V. Galloway, county clerk of Dallas, said the following copy of explanation:

County Tax Collectors—Assessors, County Judges, County Clerks and County Clerks: Under the provisions of Section 10 of the Texas Liquor Control Act, as construed by the Attorney General of this state, each applicant for an original license authorized under Article II of the Act as well as a wine Beer Retailer's Permit must file an application for a license or permit with the County Judge as a condition of an original application even though the applicant has been in business and has thereupon had a similar license.

In words, no license can be procured by filing a petition for renewal with the County Tax Collector except in such instances as the license expires at a subsequent date to Sept. 1, 1937.

Applicants whose present license expire during the first few days of September will of course be compelled to file their applications some time during the month of August. In such instances the procedure should be followed by forwarding to the Board of the required instrument even though the procedure has been completed prior to the first of September.

A fee of $5.00 allowed on all applications for licenses according to the Attorney General's opinion should be deposited to the General Fund of the County and may not be claimed as fees of office.

County Tax Collectors are respectfully asked to see that the county officials named in this resolution receive a copy of this letter, a sufficient number enclosed herewith.

Very truly yours,
Texas Liquor Control Board,
Bert Ford, Administrator.

Food Expert Says Potatoes Really Are Non-Fattening

By United Press
AMES, Ia.—Contrary to popular belief, a few potatoes more or less in the daily diet will have no effect on the waistline, according to Miss Ruth Cessna, nutritionist at Iowa State College.

About 80 per cent of a potato is just plain water, she said, and consequently not very fattening.

From a calory standpoint, a medium size potato rates equally with a baking powder biscuit, a tablespoon and one-half of French dressing, or even a good sized apple or orange.

"A wedge of chocolate iced cake, a couple of doughnuts or other foods with large sugar, fat or oil content are more fattening minerals and vitamins," she said.

"Potatoes contain some vitamin A, B, C, and G and are a source of iron and phosphorus. The minerals are found in the layer under the skin; therefore it is better to cook the potatoes with their jackets on."

Miss Cessna also had a few other pointers on the proper method of cooking potatoes.

"If the water is at a rapid boil when potatoes are put in to cook, a better product will be turned out than if they are put on the stove in cold water."

"Slashing a cross in the skin of a baked potato as soon as it is removed from the oven will prevent sogginess."

Files Are Searched For Address of a Former Champion

By United Press
AUSTIN, Texas.—The chamber of commerce has gone back into the files of nearly half a century ago to search for the address of one Stansbury of Australia, here of an international regatta held on Lake Austin in 1892.

The chamber desires to extend another invitation to the man who stroked his one-man scull to a world record breaking pace in the celebration of the opening of the lake, then Lake McDonald. The invitation will ask Stansbury to take part in the Austin 1939 Centennial and celebration of the restoration of the Tom Miller (Mayor) dam at Lake Austin.

Stansbury was one among several internationally and nationally known oarsmen from Canada, England, Australia and the United States who competed in the water sports staged by Jack Crofty, himself a retired oarsman. Records in the chamber of commerce say it was the "greatest regatta of the world. Crofty's first assistant was Lee "Huly Gee" Smith, former Austin newspaper man.

A successful campaign raised contributions to guarantee money prizes that would draw the "best" performers on the water.

Another champion of the single scull was McLean, also of Australia. The long-time record holder for the three-mile straight-away course, Hanion The Great, was present. He was reputed to have received on several other occasions as high as $500 for an hour's performance in his scull. Big Peterson, Jake Gaudaur, of Canada, and a four-oared crew from England and the Thame river arrived with a carload of sculls and equipment.

With the regatta was staged an elaborate production of the Gilbert and Sullivan opera, "Pinafore." The cast consisted of members of the Austin musical union, and the opera's famous "stageship" was a real one anchored near the lake shore.

The spectators viewed the performance from the shore and the actors arrived in gaily decorated skiffs.

At the close of the show, Crofty filed a report with the chamber of commerce in which he said: "Austin was greatly advertised by the regatta and the attendant festivities and I would like to see the city stage another attraction of the same kind."

Oil Taxes Increase By 109 Per Cent In The Past Two Years

By United Press
LONGVIEW, Texas.—Oil production taxes now being collected by Texas have increased in volume 109 per cent over 1935, according to a survey just completed by the Texas Mid-Continent oil and gas association.

An increase in production this year over 1935 of 112,000,000 barrels at an advance price averaging 17 cents per barrel, coupled with an increase of 37.5 per cent in the states' gross production tax rate, this year will return to Texas a total revenue of $16,362,000 or $8,531,000 more than was collected in 1935, the association officials reported.

The report following the survey stated that Texas oil production combined with an increase in ad valorem taxes would result in a total increase in tax revenue to the state of $9,578,386, or 71 per cent more than collected in 1935.

At this rate, the states income this year from oil production alone, not including taxes from other branches of the industry, would aggregate $23,150,000.

Ad valorem levies on oil producing properties in 1936 aggregated $11,266,914, an increase of $91,625 over the preceding year.

Officials Planning Meetings With State Game Commission

WASHINGTON — Secretary Wallace has approved a plan to obtain greater participation of State game officials in matters affecting migratory-bird protection.

According to the plan, advanced by Ira N. Gabrielson, Chief of the U. S. Biological Survey, and already endorsed by a majority of State commissioners, representatives of the States will meet annually with Federal wildlife officials to discuss conditions affecting migratory game birds and their pursuit by hunters.

The State leaders probably will meet with members of the Biological Survey early in summer, following a similar conference with the Bureau of Fisheries.

Throughout the year and preceding the conferences, the Biological Survey plans to forward to the State officials data collected by Bureau naturalists and information on problems and inquiries. Regional meetings at various times will also permit further consultations between the State and Federal wildlife workers.

"With the advice of State officials responsible for wildlife administration, we hope," says Dr. Gabrielson, "to advance the migratory bird program through closer contact with local conditions and also to more accurately equalize the distribution of such hunting privileges as may be allowed. It is our hope that this type of conference will result in even closer cooperation than now exists between Federal and State officials responsible for wildlife administration."

The Migratory Bird Treaty Act makes the Secretary of Agriculture responsible for regulations governing the hunting of migratory game birds. Regulations adopted by the Secretary are subject to approval by the President.

First Chauffeur of Dallas Now Dead

By United Press
DALLAS. — Jesse Illingworth, 57, who in the early years of this century zipped through the streets of Dallas as the city's first chauffeur, died recently in Spokane.

A native of Dallas, Illingworth was hired as a chauffeur shortly after 1906 by the late Col. E. H. E. Green, then living in Dallas. Illingworth was still in his early 'teens when he met Green's car at the railway station and drove it through Dallas streets while most of the populace looked on. He drove the car to the Green home next door to the present city hall.

He was in Green's employ for many years, driving cars for him. He raced extensively at the old fair park at Miami, Fla., where he was later badly hurt and forced to retire from the racing game.

Returning to Dallas, he entered the automobile business and later the loan business. Illingworth recently testified at the hearing in Dallas in which Texas attempted to establish its right to an inheritance tax on the fabulous Green estate.

Bicycling Once a Strenuous Pastime

By United Press
DALLAS.—Riding a bicycle 50 years ago took some expert pedaling, and to keep up with the best cyclists, plenty of stamina and endurance were required, according to H. J. Blakeney, who owned the first bicycle in Dallas.

That was back in 1878. Blakeney's bicycle had wooden wheels and iron tires. Soon after that, he recalls, these gave way to cone bearings and solid rubber tires. It was in 1882 that the late Gross R. Scruggs brought the first wheel to Dallas with rubber tires. It cost $162.50.

When four members of the Dallas wheel club, including Blakeney, 50-year-old pedaled to Waxahachie, a distance of 30 miles, they went to bed for hours of needed rest.

Their time, counting stops for water at crossroads and farm houses, dismounting to keep from frightening horses and to push their wheels up sandy hills, was three hours and 45 minutes. The trip included a rest under a shady tree about 10 miles from Waxahachie. Waxahachie is now about 45 five minutes from Dallas, good driving time.

How to Get the Most From the Day's News

A wondrous variety of items, recording the events of the day as they happen in China or on Main street, make up the daily newspaper which nearly every American family reads.

The newspaper is thus recording history as it happens. But history isn't complete until its basic facts are blended by the interpretation of the people. That's where the newspaper reader comes in. His is the privilege of clothing the facts with significance.

Instead of skipping through the paper and tossing it away for consignment to service on the pantry shelf, try this interesting game of jigsawing its separate items into a meaningful pattern.

For instance, on one recent day there appeared three stories which, together, form a better commentary on the state of the nation than does any one of them individually.

The first tells how Allegheny county, Pa., in which Pittsburgh is located, is spending two and a half times as much for relief now as in the worst month of the depression, although employment levels now are equal to those of the boom year of 1929. More than two and a half million dollars was spent on direct and work relief in the area in July, 1937, whereas only a little more than a million was spent for the same purposes in March, 1933.

Another story tells of congressional alarm that new demands by World War veterans may saddle the nation with a system of pensions that would cost an estimated 20 billion dollars by 1996. This, on top of the 12-billion-dollar share already allotted to veterans out of the 60-billion-dollar total cost of the war to the nation to date.

The third item recorded the statement, by an official of the National Economy League, that for the last seven years the government has been spending two dollars for every dollar of income. It was predicted that unless the spending pace is greatly reduced, the future will bring even greater deficits.

Taken altogether, these items stimulate some vital questions. Why, if employment conditions are back to normal, must relief be more expensive? Why, if veterans just last year were given millions in a bonus, should they need more now? And just how do these first two situations bear on the disastrous two-to-one public spending policy? By taking these problems through and forming an opinion, one way or another, the newspaper reader not only is getting the most out of the news, but he is also performing one of his important duties as a citizen—that of And, simple though it sounds, that is making history. taking a healthy interest in what is going on around him.

Florida's Democratic Senate approved a bill to prevent the death of the state G. O. P., but it is doubtful whether Maine will make it reciprocal.

Comparatively Unknown Rising Star Team Nearly Trips Hanlon Group in District ASAA Eastland Tournament

Hanlon only collected two hits from Rising Star's pitcher Jenkins while Rising Star got five from Puryear.

Hanlon won the game when Hart, roving short, got what would have probably been only a single, but Rising Star's left fielder, Roach, let the ball go uncaught and Hart proceeded to net the run.

Rising Star got four shut outs in the game while the Hanlon pitcher netted 10.

Rising Star came close to getting a run when Vernon was struck out, then Adams came in with a third hit, filling bases and with one man out. Hanlon then shut out two.

ROANOKE ISLAND RELIVES 350-YEAR-OLD TRAGEDY OF "THE LOST COLONY", FIRST ANGLO-SAXON SETTLEMENT IN AMERICA

Fate of Colonists Mystery-veiled

By NEA Service MANTEO, N. C. — Commemoration of the first Anglo-Saxon attempt at a permanent settlement in the New World, 350 years ago, will culminate on August 18 with an address by President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

He will stand in a reproduction of the original stockade at Fort Raleigh on the northern tip of Roanoke Island, North Carolina, built by 121 settlers, men and women sent out from England by the great adventurer, Sir Walter Raleigh, in the summer of 1587. His speech will be in memory of Virginia Dare, the first white child of Anglo-Saxon stock born on the American continent, on the 350th anniversary of her birthday.

Record Lost When She was 9 Days Old The records of little Virginia Dare are meagre. It is known that she was born on August 18, and baptized the following Sunday. But nine days after her birth her grandfather set sail for England. He wanted to make a report on the establishment of the colony and to send back supplies—salt,

The tragic drama of Roanoke's "Lost Colony" highlighted by the story of Virginia Dare, lives again in the pageant written by Paul Green, Pulitzer-prize playwright. Pictured are Katherine Cole, young actress who takes the part of Virginia's mother; and Raoul Henry as one of the settlers.

Presidential Speech to Mark Birthday of Virginia Dare

History is being revived this summer on that narrow strip of wooded sand-dune and fragrant pine thickets which rims North Carolina off Albemarle Sound. The commemoration will continue until September 6 with a series of celebrations, of which the President's speech will be the most important.

for instance, which had been carelessly left out of the expedition's stores. It was four years before John White sailed back. All he found was wilderness. The colonists had vanished, why, how, or just when nobody knows. Perhaps they had been massacred by those same Indians or by the Spaniards. Many legends survive, but of facts, there are none. The Roanoke expedition differed from previous ones because it was a real attempt to colonize, not merely to loot. Women were in the party, and, presently, a child. They were there to establish homes.

Increase of Power Purchases In State Noted In Survey

By United Press

ST. ANTONIO, Texas—The Texas planning board has estimated an increase of 48 per cent in Texas purchases of electrical energy during the next 10 years, despite a decrease of 15 per cent during the past year, including recovery of depreciation losses and establishing an all-time record for the state.

The planning board survey on power for Texas hydroelectric projects is listed as reasons for the increase: increased buying power, increased population, service to rural areas, increase in the use of home appliances, development of new industries, substitution of electricity for mechanical power, increased volume and raised standards of lighting streets, highways, public places and homes. Additional electrical energy for Texas will be generated by steam plants and from hydroelectric projects on the Colorado and Brazos rivers. Planning board members have estimated that the cost of these rivers will supply 160,000 of the additional 300 kilowatts the state will need in 1945.

The Colorado and Brazos river projects will develop power from reservoirs. They afford constant means for carrying peak loads over large areas in Central Texas simply by the installation of additional generating units for increased demands over average dependable production. The board's report pointed out that this equipment could be installed at less cost than corresponding generating equipment.

The planning board believes the estimate of increased consumption may be "unduly conservative in view of the actual demands for electrical energy which exceeded all previous records despite incomplete economic recovery."

Although hydroelectric plants generate power at lower cost than fuel plants, the board's report said, "substantial consumption reductions must actually be accompanied by increases in energy use."

To secure cheap industrial power, the report said industries should locate close to the generating plants and use unusually large amounts of power.

The occurrence of cheap fuel gas, lignite, and coal has developed development of Texas water power up to the present time," the report said. "Indeed, the proposed generation of hydroelectric energy by various Texas river authorities is made possible chiefly by the need for flood control and power conservation, although recovery from the sale of power will depend upon to help liquidate construction loans.

"The variable flow of most Texas streams requires large reservoirs to insure enough water dependable power during dry seasons. Such reservoirs, built for power generation alone, are often so costly that the generated power of their power is higher than fuel burning plants. It has been estimated for the increasing need for flood control to justify the construction of water power in connection with multi-purpose reservoirs on Texas rivers."

You Can't Advertise Today and Quit Tomorrow

You're Not Talking to a Mass Meeting . . . You're Talking to a Parade!

BRUCE BARTON

Ceaseless hammering on the same spot helps win prize fights . . . it is the essence of advertising success. Not until enough individuals in the same neighborhood have been sufficiently saturated with a certain slogan, say, to cause them to react on one another does advertising become a social phenomenon.

The modern business man realizes that his best customers wear out at a rate of nearly 3 per cent a year. Advertising - made prospects disappear far faster. Casual impressions, however, favorable, dry like dew in the heat of competition.

"Cumulative" effects of advertising come not from one advertisement paving the way for another. This is negligible, to say the least. Cumulative effect, on the contrary, comes from salvaging as customers half-finished prospects.

Each advertiser is in much the same plight. If he quits successful, he loses money. If he quits unsuccessful, he tosses away an equity in public recognition far more valuable than the money: So many thousand partly manufactured customers. The second group are spending as little money as they can and still keep their names before the public. They believe themselves wise spenders because they spend so very cautiously—or perhaps reluctantly is a better word . . . THE BALD TRUTH IS THAT THESE RELUCTANT SPENDERS ARE, AS A CLASS, THE REAL OVER-SPENDERS IN ADVERTISING!

 THE DUCHESS—patron of superstition.
 PROFESSOR BRACEY—Egyp-

CHAPTER V
 THE next Sunday Pat came
 tramping down the stairs,
 uttering under his breath,
 "The Duchess was giving a cocktail party in her studio that afternoon and he had shifted every piece of furniture she owned not once but several times."

Kathleen's door opening just as she put an end to his grummings. "Good morning, Pat, getting a nice day, isn't it?" she said. Then she added with an excited gleam in her eyes, "I'm awfully glad, because I'm actually going to a party. The Duchess invited me. Wasn't that nice of her? The first real party I will ever attend since I came."

For a minute the little Irish-man's ready tongue seemed tied abruptly and he tamped down
 the lighted tobacco in his pipe. Rubbing his burned finger his pants, he began, "Now, Miss Kathy, ye ain't lost a thing up-here. Mr. McTavish ain't goin'
 down."

"But he is, Pat. She invited him to bring Schmatz. He said her friends would love him because they aren't a bit formal or stiff."

"Right she is," Pat retorted.
 "I will be stiff now, sweepin'
 after they get through. Better think agin, Miss Kathy, before ye takin' up with them artists."

Kathleen looked at him with a smile. "Pat, did you ever try to do the rhymes all day long? Well, you did, you'd be glad of something to break the monotony, too."
 Pat couldn't think of any more arguments, so sent a sudden puff of smoke up from his pipe as though expressing his opinion of artists and their goings-on.

BUT Kathleen did not let Pat's ideas about the party worry her. She was too much excited at the prospect. Thrilling new people in interesting surroundings, and Bob among the guests, were quite enough to give her eyes an inner brightness and make her glow with anticipation as she put on her prettiest dress.

The Duchess' big studio was well filled with people when Kathleen timidly knocked at the door. Immediately she was swept into a gay laughing group, as the Duchess told them there was one of her dear little friends from a studio downtown. A tall glass was thrust into her hands, and almost at once she found herself sitting on a love seat between the dark mysterious-looking Professor Bracey, and a pale, anemic-looking poet, who called her "darling"

 because the Duchess had failed to mention her name.

"I haven't seen you here before,
 my dear," the professor was saying in a purring voice.
 "No," she answered. "You see I haven't known our hostess so very long. I don't go out much.
 It was so nice of her to ask me
 today."

"Meaning just what, Professor?"
 Bob asked, jerking around and
 looking him squarely in the eye.
 His tone held a challenge.
 The Duchess shrugged. "Now stop grousing about the dog and go on and tell Mr. McTavish about your old Egypt, if you must break up our tele-a-tele this way. I'll discuss—well, art, perhaps, with you some other time, Bob dear."
 She pouted up at him coquettishly
 and with a toss of her head walked away.

FOR a moment the two men eyed each other as though they were measuring swords, then Professor Bracey's glance fell, and Bob asked perfunctorily,
 "You have been to Egypt then?"
 "I am an Egyptologist," the professor answered, then added in a bored tone, "An authority, some people are kind enough to think."
 Bob's eyes brightened with interest. "Then you must be interested in Dr. Gabra's work at Her-mopolis?"

"It was fair," replied the professor evasively.
 Bob looked at him in amazement.
 "You've been there yourself?"
 Bracey asked.
 "Yes, I've always been kept up
 about the work Peyron, Schwartz,
 and some of those men have done,
 so got a job with an expedition
 so I could go take a look-see myself. We worked near the Temple of Set. Uncovered an exceptional electrum scarab of the eighth and ninth dynasties, and a gold seal
 amulet of button form, very rare."
 "Um," answered the professor.
 He glanced over the room.
 "Sometime we must have a talk about it, though I don't usually discuss my work with amateurs.
 They can't appreciate it." He strolled away.

Bob looked after him with a sarcastic grin. "Says you!
 Schmatz, that guy didn't even know what I was talking about,
 and I'll bet my last dollar on it.
 He wasn't sure whether an electrum scarab was a pyramid or a buried temple. But if he's not a see my work doesn't make me exactly appreciate all this. Hey, what's the matter?" The terrier had given a low growl. "You must excuse the pup if he says he isn't used to this kind of art either."

 "It isn't your picture, Duchess,
 but it's the pesky little brute
 doesn't like," said Professor Bracey behind them. "Why do some people have to drag their snapping canines along with them everywhere they go?"

"Meaning just what, Professor?"
 Bob asked, jerking around and

Behind the Scenes in Washington

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Republicans
 may enter Democratic primaries next year to help renom-inate anti-New Deal Democrats,
 but they will do so only as individuals.

The suggestion has been made by Mark Sullivan and others that
 G. O. P. voters enter the opposition's primaries in order to assure renomination of various Democratic senators who have opposed the Roosevelt program, especially the court plan.

But the Republicans as a party will discourage such tactics, believing that they could practically be guaranteed to break up party machinery. Candidates for governor, county commissioner, sheriff and other posts must also run in the primaries and each of these small fry will be hollering at top pitch for votes in his own party's primary. To have all these minor candidates find the votes they were counting on, cast in the Democratic primary, would create some rather bad reactions.

You may be sure, one is told,
 that nearly all Republican state nominating conventions will be held after the Democratic convention in the same state, just in case
 a coalition seems feasible between dissatisfied anti-administration
 Democrats and the Republicans.

It is just possible that some anti-Roosevelt members will be fooled by such talk and, after being defeated for Democratic nomination, turn to the Republicans for a nomination only to find that there are too many Republicans themselves eager for their party's nomination.

SUGGESTIONS have popped up from time to time for taxation
 of union dues and funds.
 They have aroused some curiosity as to just what groups and

Woman Takes Up For Snakes Killed Along Highways

By United Press
 BEAUMONT, Texas—When a motorist runs over and kills a snake on the highway, he destroys a particular friend of Mrs. Bruce Reid of Port Arthur.

"There is no sense in auto drivers running over snakes, regardless whether the snakes are poisonous or not," said Mrs. Reid, who has a wide reputation as a naturalist and author.

Reptiles have a right to live, she contends, just as much as the most valuable birds. And Mrs.
 Reid is a friend of all forms of wild life.

She wants to establish a game
 refuge and preserve in the Big Thicket of Hardin and Tyler counties, an area of several thousand acres. Big Thicket, a mass of tangled underbrush, abounds with deer, bear, pumas and other varieties of game.

Mrs. Reid's enthusiasm includes the protection of vegetation as well as animals. She spends all her spare time searching for and observing rare specimens.

Her prize joke was at her expense. She said that she had visited many sections of Texas
 in search of the Harlequin king snake. After she returned home empty handed, a friend found two Harlequins in a tree on her own property.

Jail to Be Social Center for Mexicans

By United Press
 SAN MARCOS, Texas—The
 Hayes county jail will be converted into a Mexican social center when the county accepts a new $35,000 jail, it has been announced.

The Commissioners court entered
 an agreement with the city mission board. The county will lease the building to the board for one year for $1, with the provision that the county may sell the structure at any time after the year's lease has expired.

In this column answers will be given to queries as to Texas history and other matters pertaining to the State and its people. Address inquiries to Will H. Marx, Austin, Texas.

Q. Where has the Federal Government recently acquired land for large southern game preserve?
 A. In Cameron Parish, La., across Lake Sabine from Port Arthur, where 137,235 acres has been purchased for a wild life preserve, one of the largest game preserves in the South. All types of game abound in the area, especially wild owl.

Q. Will you give a brief sketch of Capt. James B. Gillett, ex-ranger who died at Temple, June 11, 1937?
 A. He was born in Austin, Nov. 4, 1856, son of James S. and Elizabeth Harper Gillett. His boyhood dream was for service as a Texas ranger, for which his outdoor training especially fitted him. In 1875 he joined Company D at Menardville under Capt. Dan W. Roberts and in 1879 went to Yaléta with Capt. G. W. Baylor with whom he served six and a half years, after which he held the offices of marshal and chief of police at El Paso. Later he engaged in ranching and in business, with his home at Marfa. His book, "Six Years With the Texas Rangers," is an authoritative record of the ranger service of the period.

Q. What noted organization did Rebecca Jane Fisher establish and in what way was she honored by it?
 A. After years spent with her husband in his ministerial work in Texas, Oregon and California, and following his death, she organized the Daughters of the Republic of Texas and was its honored president for 30 years. She was also the only woman elected to membership in the Texas Veterans' Association and the first woman whose picture was hung in the Texas Senate chamber.

Sport Glances. By Grayson

BY RICHARD McCANN
 NEA Service Sports Writer

AROUND the bases of the major leagues, eavesdropping here and there:
 NEW YORK: Joe McCarthy, boss man of the boss team, thinks the owners should increase the player limit from 23 to 25. . . .
 "I've cut it down on account of the depression," says Joe, "but now that's over they ought to raise it again. We haven't had enough players this year because of the unusual wave of injuries."
 But anybody with Joe DiMaggio on his side ought to concede the other fellows 10 extra men, a half-lap start, and a point after touch-down.

Across the way at the Polo Grounds, Bill Terry is getting ready to step into the headlines. Seems the boys think his meal ticket—King Karl Hubbell—is all punched out.
 But it must be remembered that another Giant southpaw of winning—Frankie Frisch—was also punched out.
 Rule, after taking his first 19 games in 1912, won only seven of the next 18, but the next year came back strong.

ST. LOUIS: "I often wondered," says Jim Bottomley, recently sentenced to serve as manager of the Browns, "why managers needed two coaches. Now I wish I had four. They worry for you."
 But, of course, James would be willing to struggle along with two coaches if he had four pitchers, an infield, an outfield, and a catcher who can go places besides across the street for another beer.
 CHICAGO: Chetley Grimm and James Joy Dykes are happy souls these days. Mr. Dykes isn't going to win any pennant with his Sox as Mr. Grimm is doing with the Cubs, but the patriots are more than satisfied with the way he has toxated those Discards sloot.

 James Joy is so popular, in fact, that the other day to avoid writer's cramp autographing score cards and such he swathed his hand in bandages and bruce through the crowd outside the dressing room. . . . "Sorry, folks," said James, "but look at me hand. . . ."

PITTSBURGH: Any day now local journals will carry this Situation Wanted ad: "Reliable man, wants work; industrious, good worker. Available Oct. 3. Write: Pie Traynor, Forbes Field."
 Mr. Traynor, you see, is about to be Gone With the Wind which was stirred up by those onrushing Chicago Cubs.

WASHINGTON: Speaking of jobs, Bucky Harris has found out that it is possible to send a boy out to a man's job, but vice versa isn't so good. The man, Harris, is quite unable to repeat the wondrous things the boy, Harris, did back in 1925.

Like as not, Bucky will retire this year. And his good friend, Mr. George Preston Marshall, who cleans everything but politics in the nation's capital, will probably hire him in his laundry.

IT MAY BE THAT WE ARE WRONG

This column contains timely items, suggested by the citizens of Ranger and are published at their request. They do, not, necessarily, represent the opinions or editorial policies of the Times, but are written at the suggestion and request of its readers.

"A. Reader" left the letter printed below in the handle of the door to the Times Monday evening after the office had closed. This is not the same "A. Reader" who wrote about the drinking cups last week, because the handwriting is different, so it must be the other reader. The letter follows:

"Just a few more ideas of what our town needs to do. Papers in front of the doors of the merchants and in the streets do not look good to our home people or visitors either. What is wrong with our street sweeper? We might ask Fire Chief about borrowing his goats for a while.

"Anyway here is another idea. I think we the people of our town, should drive out by the old city cemetery and see if we could do something about getting it cleaned out and try to make it a bit more attractive place than it has been in the past years.

"We may at least get a few comments from our visitors and tourists that our town has not forgotten the dead. I do think that its a shame that our Ranger people have so long neglected this lonely spot. Let's have a little boosting toward getting it clean.

"A. READER."

TeePee Wins In a Scoring Spree from Elks Here Monday

TeePee hit three Elk pitchers for a total of 13 hits and 15 runs in seven innings, while the Elks were accounting for 15 hits and 12 runs, two of the hits being home runs by Varner, Elk catcher.

Errors by the Elks accounted for many of the runs. Allison started pitching for the Elks and lasted three innings, being relieved by King, who finished the game. Since only one game was scheduled, nine innings were played, but the score was counted as at the end of the seventh.

Tonight Killingsworth, Cox, in second place in the league, plays Caddo. Caddo is in a tie for first place, and a win by either team will change the standings of two of the top three teams. In the second game tonight Montgomery Ward plays TeePee.

Townsend Social Is Well Attended

The watermelon social given by Ranger Townsend club Monday evening at the Fire Department park was a most pleasant affair. There was a large attendance. After a welcoming address by President E. A. Ringold gave an able address stressing the importance of our school system and explained clearly how the Townsend plans would make it possible for our entire population to give their children a good education, fitting them to go out into the world well equipped to meet the battles of life and become intelligent and prosperous citizens, a credit to their families and the nation.

After this address ice cold watermelons were served. The club meets each Monday evening in the I. O. O. F. Hall.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By Mrs. Gaynor Maddox
R.M.A. Service Staff Writer

They are shiny, luscious, brilliant in a dark and flashing way—that's why blackberries are such good friends to the young bride who wants to prove herself an ambitious cook. These recipes, selected because they are no strain on the June bride's August cooking, should be pasted in that growing day-by-day "How To Keep Your Husband" cook book.

Magic Blackberry Cream Pie
(9 inch)
One and one-third cups (1 cup) sweetened condensed milk, 1-4 cup lemon juice, 1 cup blackberries, 1-2 cup whipping cream, 2 tablespoons confectioners' (4X) sugar, vanilla wafer or graham cracker pie crust or baked pie shell (9-inch).

Blend together sweetened condensed milk and lemon juice. Fold in blackberries. Pour into 9-inch pie plate lined with vanilla wafer or graham cracker pie crust. Cover with whipping cream sweetened with confectioners' sugar. Chill before serving.

To prepare the crumb crust, roll enough graham crackers or vanilla wafers to make 3-4 cup crumbs. Cut enough graham crackers into quarters, or vanilla wafers into halves, to stand around edge of pie plate. Cover bottom of plate with crumbs and fill in spaces around edge. Pour in filling as usual.

The beauty of this pie, from the bride's point of view (to say nothing of the hungry groom's) is that mixture thickens to a creamy filling without cooking and is failure proof.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Rhubarb and apple sauce, scrambled eggs, blueberry muffins, coffee, milk.
LUNCHEON: Tomato bouillon, cottage cheese salad, toasted rye bread, crabapple jelly, whole pears, tea, milk.
DINNER: Grapefruit juice, boiled beef tongue, spice sauce, mashed potatoes, buttered zucchini, sliced tomatoes with chopped chives, blackberry cream pie, coffee, milk.

Meatpoons sugar, buttered toast cut in strips, whipped cream. Add sugar to carefully picked over and washed berries. Slowly bring to boiling point. Slowly—that's important. Pour over hot strips of buttered toast and fleck with cold whipped cream.

Blackberry Bavarian Cream
(4 to 6 servings)
One cup freshly pressed blackberry juice, 1 tablespoon clear gelatin, 2 egg yolks, 1-4 cup sugar, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-2 cup cream, 1 teaspoon grenadine syrup.

Press fat berries through a sieve and collect 1 cup of regal juice. Heat gently and add gelatin. Beat egg yolks slightly, not very much. Add sugar and continue to beat. Add salt. To this egg mixture, add the dark purple blackberry mixture, stirring without repose. Return to top of double boiler and cook over hot water until it coats the spoon.

Keep stirring right to the end. Beat egg whites very stiff. Then strain this mixture over egg whites. When mixture begins to thicken, fold in the 1-2 cup cream, well beaten. Add grenadine, stir and turn into mold. Chill in refrigerator, but do not freeze. Remove from mold and garnish with blackberries.

50 Cent Investment Saves County $144

LONGVIEW, Texas—An investment of 50 cents saved Gregg county $144 in jury pay, according to Dozier Skipper Jr., district clerk.

Attorneys on both sides of a case told D. S. Meredith Jr., they wanted to try it. "Are you sure?" the judge wanted to know. "It's the only jury case on the docket."

"They were sure, so Judge Meredith had the jurors summoned. Then one of the attorneys announced that it would be impossible to try the case.

It was then that skipper bought 50 cents worth of post cards and sent them to 50 men who had been summoned, telling them they would not be needed.

Two of the 50 men came in for jury service, not having got the card countering their summons. They were paid the regular $3 daily fee. But the other 48 men got their penny postcards and did not appear.
