MAVERICK NOW TAKES UP FOR HUGO L. BLACK

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 21.—Rep. Maury Maverick of Texas today denounced the fight on Associate Justice Hugo L. Black of the Supreme Court, as an underhanded political move designed to "embarrass not only the President but the Supreme Court as well."

Maverick, a leader in the House of Representatives for the Administration's original court reorganization program, said that he had been asked to join in a move to impeach Black.

"For what?" he asked. "He cannot be impeached at all and those who advocate it know it. They do so not only to embarrass the President but the whole of the federal government."

Maverick, in his formal statement, answered demands of Sen. Burton K. Wheeler, Dem., Mont., that President Roosevelt ask for Black's resignation.

"For the President to make such a demand would be highly improper, for he has no right whatever to demand the resignation of an judge," Maverick said.

Slips Requested In Subsidy Money

Eastland county cotton producers should require receipts from buyers upon sale of cotton for filing at the county agents' office, it was announced Tuesday.

The receipts should be filed in the agent's office as quickly as possible so that the producer may make application for subsidy payment.

That information was given the county agent's office from the following wire by extension service officials:

"Buyers receipts for cotton from 1937 crop sold prior to September 15 must be mailed or delivered in person to the county office not later than Sept. 30. Buyers receipts for cotton sold after Sept. 15 must be so filed not later than 15 days after date of sale, pending receipt of government forms producers should secure original sales receipt from buyer showing date of sale, name and address of producer, number and gross weight of bales and signature and address of buyer."

Group to Attend Wildlife Meeting

Eastland county will have four representatives at a state-wide wildlife conservation camp meeting Friday and Saturday in Kerrville.

To attend the extension-sponsored meeting will be County Agent Elmo V. Cook, Assistant Agent Hugh F. Barnhart, L. R. Higginbotham, Kokomo adult club member, and a member of the county wildlife game conservation committee. They will leave Thursday afternoon.

Following the meeting a discussion of possibilities for establishment of a wild life restoration area in the county.

Progresses In Its Completion

James Taylor and J. A. Beard's 11 Caroli Fox, lot 28, league McLeannan county school land, four miles south of Ranger, Tuesday was expected to penetrate the Hightower oil sand.

The sought, Taylor stated, is a shale break and a high-angle which was topped at 1,222 feet and bottomed a 1,232 feet. The sand resulted in a slight show.

Taylor also stated that Monday noon about six inches of sand had passed through the bit drilling through the first.

It was not known, it was said, how many feet of shale had been drilled from the sand.

Running Terraces

Terrace lines were run Tuesday afternoon by County Agent Elmo V. Cook for Dr. R. S. Hodges of Ranger.

Even in Sleep She Sneezes On

Pain visible in her drawn face, Frances Irene Ladd, 16, lay in a Kansas City hospital as this picture was taken, suffering from repeated sneezing which neither she nor physicians could stop. Weakened and her throat bleeding, Frances slept under the influence of an anesthetic, but continued to sneeze during her sleep. The strange malady followed a head cold.

Agricultural Body Session Scheduled

Discussion of this year's farm and ranch program is scheduled when members of the Eastland County Agricultural Conservation committee convene at 10 a. m. Wednesday at the courthouse in Eastland.

Members of the committee are Dick Weekes of Alameda, chairman; W. H. Williams of Rising Star and J. D. Guy of Carbon.

Legionnaires March Down Fifth Avenue Before Huge Crowd

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—The American Legion marched up Fifth Avenue today before up to 1,500,000 persons who jammed the sidewalks against boarded shop windows along the three mile route.

More than 100,000 men and women were scheduled to march.

The motorcycle escort of New York City police, led the parade, forming a column a block long. All of them, nearly 100, were Legionnaires.

Legion officials estimated that they would be lucky if the last of the 10 divisions had completed the parade in 20 hours.

Training Before 4-H Team Members

Two weeks' training is before 15 4-H club youths who are prospective members of field crop, plant propagation and poultry judging teams to compete in state extension service contests Oct. 2 at College Station.

Assistant County Agent Hugh F. Barnhart, in charge of boys' 4-H work, is training the youths.

L. R. Higginbotham, sponsor of the Kokomo 4-H club, is arranging transportation. After participating in the College Station contest the boys, Higginbotham and Barnhart will go to Galveston for a short recreational stay.

PRODUCTION OF OIL FOR WEEK SHOW INCREASE

TULSA, Sept. 21.—The daily average production of oil in the United States increased 49,877 barrels daily during the past week.

The increase brought the total average oil production back to 3,676,996 barrels, approximately the same as it was two weeks ago and 156,706 barrels over the Bureau of Mines estimates of September demands.

Texas produced 1,492,895 barrels, approximately 11,000 barrels more than the week before, due primarily to increased production in the Texas Panhandle.

AUSTIN, Sept. 21.—Texas oil production during October will be set in an order expected today from the Texas Railroad Commission. A hearing on natural gas production was postponed until Sept. 30, to be held at Amarillo.

Allred Raps Those Who Talk Economy But Failed to Act

AUSTIN, Sept. 21.—Gov. James V. Allred, now busy preparing his message to the special tax session, said today he had never seen greater propaganda than now being carried on in Texas against taxes.

Without mentioning a state session economy committee, Allred said: "The people are raising a hue and cry for economy now should have joined me in the spring when I urged economy and consolidations."

Cinderella Girl Gets A Big Cinema Role

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 21.—Another Cinderella girl came into her own today when Dorothy Howe, pretty 19-year-old Dallas girl, landed a feature role in a W. C. Fields picture, within two months after she quit her job at a Dallas telephone switchboard.

U. S. TIGHTENS DEMANDS ON JAPAN TODAY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—The United States today tightened pressure upon Japan to compel her to quit the high road of war, to fulfill her treaty pledges and to observe the usages of international law, which she is widely accused of violating.

The developments were: 1—In Geneva, American Ambassador to Switzerland, Leland Harrison, was instructed by the State Department to participate as a non-voting observer in the meeting of the League of Nations Advisory committee on Far Eastern Affairs.

2—In Washington the Japanese ambassador was reminded that this government is watching closely every development in Japan's undeclared war on China and serious threats to American nationals resulting from that war will not pass unchallenged.

3—In Nanking, under threat of annihilation by mass attack of Japanese war planes, American Ambassador Nelson T. Johnson temporarily evacuated the American Embassy as a precautionary move to assure the safety of the lives of his staff. He made it clear that abandonment of the embassy was due entirely to threats of destruction from Japanese attacks.

Reopening His Court Battle

Defiant words ringing from his wide-open mouth, President Roosevelt is shown above carrying to the nation in a Constitution Day address from Washington his fight for Supreme Court co-operation with Congress and the chief executive. His speech was viewed as the opening shot in a campaign which he will carry on during a cross-country trip to Seattle of several senators who stoutly opposed his court reorganization program.

Those called upon first for expressions stated that they believed the celebration would be a big thing for Ranger, and were heartily in favor of it, provided the expense could be kept within the means of the merchants and citizens of Ranger.

First suggestions were that a parade be staged, with bands from other towns invited to enter and that as many decorated floats as possible be secured, both from Ranger and from other towns in this vicinity.

It was suggested that as much free entertainment as possible, and it was brought out by Boyce House of Fort Worth, who was present at the meeting, that it was possible a troupe of entertainers could be obtained from Fort Worth for the evening.

Constitution Reflects Nations Faith, Ideals

Perhaps the most encouraging thing about the Constitution of the United States is the fact that after living under it for 150 years we are still arguing about its precise meaning.

That means that the document is flexible. Being flexible, it is adaptable to changing times. Because this is true, it can obey that inexorable law of nature—"adapt or die."

That fact is a good one to keep in mind this fall, as we celebrate the Constitution's sesquicentennial.

We might save ourselves a good deal of argument about "horse and buggy days" and the fact that the founding fathers did not foresee this era of sea-to-sea highways, giant corporations, mass production and so on. For while it is quite true that the country for which the Constitution was devised contained none of those things, it is equally true that that does not necessarily make any difference. They gave us a Constitution which is not rigid and inanimate, but supple and alive.

It is easy to lose sight of the goal which the founding fathers sought to reach. Fundamentally, they were simply trying to make certain that their America would continue to be a democracy, a land of freedom and of equal opportunity, where men could live without butting their heads against the injustices and stupid cruelties inseparable from authoritarian regimes. They had a pretty clear idea about the things that had been fought for and won in the American revolution, and they wanted those things preserved.

During the century and a half since they finished their work, the Constitution has done its part nobly. Those goals of freedom, democracy and equality have in large measure been attained, not perfectly, perhaps—for perfection is rare in human undertakings—but very substantially. And the very fact that the country has existed for a century and a half under this Constitution is the best guarantee that it will continue under it in the future.

A Charter of freedom like our Constitution does not go on living of itself. It lives because it expresses ideals which are dear to the people who live under it. Our Constitution is rounding out 150 years of service because the American people are and have been determined to remain free. The Constitution is merely the instrument through which they make their determination effective.

It is no blind subservience to the written word that makes us revere our Constitution, nor is it an unthinking obedience to the dead hand of the past. It is a reflection of the ideal that animates us, of the faith by which we order our society. As long as we are true to that ideal and that faith, we need not fear for the Constitution's continued good health.

Fiesta Enters Its Last Week With Good Attendance

FORT WORTH, Sept. 21.—Realizing that only a few days remain in which to see the magnificent Casa Manana Revue, the largest crowds of the season ushered in the closing week of the Fort Worth Frontier Fiesta.

An all-new 30-minute jamboree, a feature of the second performance of Casa Manana each night, is being presented, starring Everett West, high note tenor of the California Varsity Eight; Al Galodoro, hot saxophonist of Paul Whiteman's band; Gomer and Winona, greatest of ballroom dancers; Harriet Hector, the lovely ballerina, the Original Dixieland Jazz Band, and Art Frank, eccentric dancer, who turns serious for once to give a touching impersonation of a Confederate veteran as he hears Civil War tunes. There is no increase in admission price for the second performance of Casa Manana with the jamboree. Not only are the crowds filling the huge cafe-theater, but Pioneer Palace, Firefly Garden, the Astor House and other attractions are playing to throngs. The recent abolition of the 50-cent charge for entrance into the grounds has helped stimulate attendance. The Frontier Fiesta closes Sunday night, Sept. 26.

Wants License to Make Home Brew

By United Press ABILENE, Tex.—A sun-browned, sandy haired youth of 22 stalked into the office of County Judge Lee R. York and asked: "Can you issue me a license to brew beer?" "For what?" demanded the surprised judge. "To make home brew," explained Penn Gilbreath, the judge's secretary. "I've never heard of such a thing," Judge York answered, after considerable pondering. "No, I can't issue such a license and I doubt that anyone else could." "Thank you," said the caller. "I just wondered," and stalked out again.

FIVE MINUS TWO LEAVES FOUR

Wrong, Well, yes—and no. The arithmetic of your school days taught that "If Mary had five dollars and spent two..." three dollars remained.

But that is mathematics—not shopping! In managing a home... guarding a limited family income... we've simply got to do better than Mary did. We must sharpen our buying wits... ascertain where the dollars of extra value lurk... take five dollars to town and get much more for the money spent.

Fortunately, there are ever-willing guides right at hand—the advertisements in this newspaper. Advertised merchandise is often exceptional value merchandise. It makes dollars S-T-R-E-T-C-H.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
PRISCILLA PIERCE—heroine, young woman attorney.
AMY KERR—Cilly's roommate and murderer's victim.
HARRY HUTCHINS—Amy's strange visitor.
SERGEANT DOLAN—officer assigned to solve the murder of Amy Kerr.

Yesterday the case of Amy Kerr is complicated when Cilly receives a surprise letter from Harry Hutchins advising he has taken the first plane to New York, the thought of the link connecting the sergeant Dolan knocks at the door.

CHAPTER VI

Cilly led Sergeant Dolan into the living room, remembering as she did so, that the had no as yet tidied it.
 "One could not put too much faith, she was thinking, in Sergeant Dolan's pleasant manner. It was reflected in the careless, good-natured bulk of his six feet two, in the lightness of his speech, in the wide smile which came so easily to his lips. But his rather small, quick eyes belied all that. They were shrewd and cunning."
 "I'm sorry to say, Miss Pierce, the sergeant said, seating himself in the most comfortable armchair, "that this matter of Miss Kerr's—accident, presents itself in rather a different light this morning."

Cilly sat down opposite him. "You've seen Mrs. Corbett then?" she asked.
 "Who is Mrs. Corbett?" he countered.
 "A neighbor from across the street. She called a few minutes ago—with some rather startling information. I suggested that she get in touch with you immediately."
 "Um-m-m-m." Dolan scratched his chin. "Just what was this startling information?" he asked.

Cilly hesitated. It would be wiser at present, she decided, to do no more talking than was necessary.
 "Perhaps it would be better, Sergeant Dolan," she suggested, "for you to hear Mrs. Corbett's story from her. She intended to phone you, I believe."
 Dolan looked at Cilly shrewdly. "Here's a girl," he thought, "who's nobody's fool."
 Aloud he said: "She did get in touch with me. Thought I'd just stop in and get your version of the affair once more."
 "I'll be glad to answer your questions, sergeant," Cilly offered, courteously. She was more composed now, more her natural well-poised self.
 Sergeant Dolan took out his inevitable black book and an almost useless stub of a pencil.

"How long did you tell me you've known Miss Kerr—Amy Kerr, that right?"
 "Yes," Cilly repeated what she had told the night before. She met Amy some six months previous, in the Cannon building, where they both worked. "We frequently met downstairs in the tea shoppe for lunch," she added.
 "Amy spoke of the difficulty in finding a nice place to live in New York. She had been staying at a girls' residence club and did not like it very much. Finally I suggested that she share this apartment with me. That was two months ago."

"Remember the name of this residence club?"
 Cilly named a modest but well-known clubhouse in the Seventies.
 "Did she have many friends?"
 "Very few, I should say. Amy was a stranger in the city. I understood that she came from a town called Interlaken, in New Hampshire, where she had lived with an aunt. She came to New York less than a year ago and happened to find this position as secretary to Harvey Ames, of the real estate firm. They have offices on the same floor as ours."

IN his book, Sergeant Dolan wrote: "See Harvey Ames."
 "What company did you say you were with, Miss Pierce?" he asked.
 "Crowell and Burns, attorneys," "Secretary, I suppose."
 "No, junior attorney. I was admitted to the bar two years ago," Sergeant Dolan raised his eyebrows. He looked Cilly over with a new respect dawning in his eyes. "You don't say! Quite a youngster to be a full-fledged lawyer, aren't you?"
 "I'm 27."

"Twenty-seven, eh? Well, you don't look it. Not a bit of it. And how old was Miss Kerr?"
 "She was younger than I. We celebrated her 25th birthday together only a few weeks ago."
 Sergeant Dolan nodded. His eyes, never quiet for a second, were still roving about the room. They saw everything and they saw through everything, it seemed to Cilly. He went on:
 "Was she unhappy about anything?"
 "Not at all."
 "Had she quarreled with anybody? Was there anybody, as far as you know, whom she particularly hated or feared?"
 "Nobody that I ever heard of. Of course, she didn't speak of her past very much."
 "Not with Amy. She was naturally a reticent person; she never forced herself upon anyone." For the first time, Cilly understood the attraction between Amy and Harry Hutchins. They were so totally different.

 "Did she ever tell you why she left New Hampshire?"
 "No. I assumed it was for the same reason that thousands of girls leave small towns for New York. To seek a career."
 "Never mentioned any trouble at home?"
 "No."
 "Never spoke of any enemies?"
 "Again Cilly shook her head. 'I'm sure Amy didn't have an enemy in the world.'"

SERGEANT DOLAN leaned forward in his chair. His sharp brown eyes looked deeply into Cilly's gray ones.
 "She must have had an enemy, Miss Pierce," he said. "Somebody wanted her out of the way. She didn't fall from the roof, as we thought last night. She was murdered!"
 He wondered why Cilly showed no surprise.
 "I know it," she said dully.
 "You know?"
 "Yes. That is what Mrs. Corbett told me. Her mother saw someone—some man—throw Amy off the roof."
 "For Heaven's sake, why didn't you tell me?" he demanded irritably.

"You said that Mrs. Corbett had already communicated with you."
 Dolan nodded his head abruptly. "Yes, she asked me to stop in and see her. I haven't done it yet. There's always a dozen people ready with startling information in a case like this. What did she say?"
 "Her mother saw Amy flung bodily from the roof. Some criminal, some maniac, she supposed."
 Unconsciously Cilly shuddered at the recollection. That terrifying, pitch-black roof. Not Dracula up there, no foolish figure of a silly imagination. But a real flesh-and-blood murderer. A fiendish trap had been laid up there, and Amy walked into it blindly.

Dolan shook his head negatively. "More to it than that, I'm afraid. The medical examination this morning disclosed no evidence of criminal attack, such as might be attributed to a degenerate, or a maniac. But it did disclose something else—something very curious."
 "What was it?"
 "The girl was strangled—brutally strangled with a piece of ordinary clothing—before she was thrown from the roof."

1854, two years before the county was organized. Twelve sons and daughters of the pioneer family and their numerous descendants have contributed helpful parts to the development of that part of Texas.
 Q. Where was the Texas town known as Mantus?
 A. At the close of the Civil War it was a prosperous village in the northern part of Collin county, where it was founded in 1853. The place was practically deserted in 1873, when the Houston and Texas Central Railroad was built into Van Alstyne, and is now a mere memory.
 Q. How many and what organized military companies from out of Texas were in the capture of San Antonio from Gen. Cos in 1835?
 A. While there were numerous newly arrived adventurers in the Texas Volunteer Army, the New Orleans Grays, two small com-

WASHINGTON.—What is the biggest single establishment in the vital field of communications? American Telephone and Telegraph? Western Union? Postal? RCA?
 Not at all. It is the U. S. Postoffice, which at last report had 279,443 employees as compared with A. T. and T.'s 262,000. The postoffice is a really gigantic business. It operates more than 45,000 postoffices, and at last report was handling well above 15,000,000,000 pieces of mail a year. Just one division, that of Postal Savings, is handling more than a billion dollars of depositors' money, merely as a sideline of the postoffice's regular business.

The first widespread postal system in the American colonies came when in 1691 Thomas Neale, a British court favorite, was granted a monopoly to establish a postal system. It never was satisfactory, and the public postal system was developed by Franklin.
 The U. S. Postoffice is a monopoly, protected strictly by law, of "the transportation of letters by regular trips or at stated periods over all new routes." This is a deliberate policy to protect the revenue of the government from competition.

The government does not (as yet) object to competition with the parcel post—express companies. In fact, if you will remember when the parcel post was instituted, there was considerable objection by the express companies to "government competition."
 The postoffice is thus not only

DON'T look now, but there goes a man who isn't going to succeed—Steve O'Neill.
 You know, it seems as though everybody is going to succeed Mr. O'Neill as the manager of the Cleveland Indians. Any day now you're liable to be hearing that the Last of the Mohicans or the Four Marx Brothers are a-headin' for the Erie town. (And you can spell that Erie any way you care to.)
 But, come to think of it, it wouldn't be a bad idea at all to bring those Marx boys in. They could play the infield a confound sight better, and that fuzzy-haired one could harp on the fans for a change.
 The latest in the long line of nominees for the post is Antonio Lazzari. Lazzari nominated himself this year. He upped and told a sports writer the other day that he had heard Mr. Bradley wanted him and he expected to get the job.
 It was no rumor Mr. Lazzari heard. It was an echo. New York sports writers have been hearing it for five straight years.

The Signor's self-nomination makes him the 4897th member of the On-Cleveland Caravan.
 Among the other prominent names uttered in connection with the job are Bill Terry, Rogers Hornsby, Bill McKechnie, Rabbit Maranville, Bucky Harris, Ossie Bluege, Muddy Ruel, Charlie Gehring, Lefty O'Doul, and George M. Cohan.
 There is some question as to whether these gentlemen should consider rumors connecting themselves with the portfolio as insults or compliments, rewards or punishments.
 Jimmie Dykes broke all precedent the other night when the talk got around to the Cleveland managerial graveyard and he ventured the guess that he didn't think that "they'll put Steve out this year."
 This was the first time since Tris Speaker left Cleveland that an Indian manager has been given a ghost of a chance of being around at the end of the ninth.
 "I don't have any inside info," said Jimmy, "but I just don't think they'll give Steve's job to anybody else. And why should they?"
 Mr. Alva Bradley could do a lot worse than Mr. O'Neill, and maybe not any better. Not even some imaginary mental giant with Connie Mack's patience, John McGraw's face, Joe Cronin's happy money, and Bill McKechnie's magic could offset the loss of two regular pitchers such as Johnny Allen and Bob Feller for half of the season.
 You can see the difference those two fellows meant between a winning and a losing team. Deprived of their services every fourth day through April, May, June, and July, the Indians stumbled around, but in the last six weeks with both boys taking their regular turns the Tribe has been on the warpath.
 The sport may give the Indians back to O'Neill.

SOUR MILK COOKING may sound old-fashioned. But it's as modern as tomorrow's newspaper. During the past two years, sour milk has become so popular in the large cities where good food is famous that dairies now make it for consumer use and deliver it right along with the sweet milk for drinking. The dairy product may be not better than your own sour milk, but it is usually more uniform and therefore easier to cook with.

Corn Meal Grittle Cakes
 Ingredients 1 cup corn meal (white or yellow), 1-2 cup flour, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon sugar, 2 cups sour milk, 2 eggs, 1 tablespoon melted butter, 1 teaspoon baking soda.
 Mix corn meal, flour and salt, then sift together. Beat eggs well, combine with sour milk and melted butter. Cook the liquid and dry mixture and stir well. Add soda dissolved in a little of the sour milk. Drop on hot griddle by tablespoons. Brown on both sides. Ben Jet Nature take its course.

Sour Cream Pear Pie
 Seven or 8 cooking pears, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 1 cup thick sour cream, 1 cup brown sugar, 1-2 cup granulated sugar, 1-8 teaspoon nutmeg, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons quick cooking tapioca.
 Wash, pare, and quarter pears. Sprinkle with lemon juice. Combine flour, granulated sugar, nutmeg and tapioca. Spread this on the bottom and sides of an unbaked pie shell. Combine the sour cream and brown sugar and dip each pear section in mixture and arrange in pie shell. After the apple shell is filled, pour the remaining sour cream mixture over the pear sections and place in a hot oven (400 degrees F.). After 15 minutes, reduce the temperature to 250 degrees and continue baking for one hour, or until the pears are tender.

Tomorrow's Menu
BREAKFAST: Orange and grapefruit juice, creamed dried beef on toast, raisin bread toast, currant jelly, coffee, milk.
LUNCHEON: Paralee omelet, French bread, ginger pears, cookies, tea, milk.
DINNER: Wed cantaloupe, breast of lamb, browned potatoes, buttered carrots, salted peas, grapefruit salad, Holland apple pie, coffee, milk.

In this column answers will be given to inquiries as to Texas history and other matters pertaining to the State and its people. Address inquiries to Will H. Mayor, Austin, Texas.

Q. What effect has the repeal of prohibition had upon the manufacture of non-alcoholic drinks in Texas?

A. Apparently none, as production and consumption are increasing in about an equal ratio with the State's increase in purchasing power. Texas has more manufacturing plants of non-alcoholic drinks than any other state in the Union, turning out 14,379,000 cases in 1935 and leading all others in quantity production.

Q. Was William B. Travis a member of the convention that met at Washington-on-the-Brazos and adopted the Declaration of Independence, March 2, 1836?

A. He was elected a delegate to the convention, but remained at the Alamo, determined to do all that he could to save his fellow citizens or die in the attempt.

Q. What flag flew over the Alamo during the siege and at its fall?

A. While some historians state that the flag was that of the Provincial Government of Texas (the red, green and white flag of Mexico) with the numerals "1824" substituted for the Mexican "2", other flags were in evidence and it is probable that, according to the custom of the period, each company floated its own banner.

Q. From what states were the defenders of the Alamo?

family settled in Comanche County?
 A. Capt. James Cunningham and his wife, Aunt Susie' Cunningham, heads of the Comanche County Cunningham family, which now numbers 598 persons, settled in Comanche County in

Royal Service Program Given in Japanese Garden Setting

Making more realistic the program theme, "Japan," the women of the missionary society of First Baptist church were entertained with a delightful garden party at the home of Mrs. R. C. Carville, Peaching street, Monday evening, at which time the true atmosphere prevailed in every perfectly arranged detail.

The lovely back yard garden was transformed into a scene of color afforded through lanterns and other emblems symbolic of Japan. Baskets of flowers were effectively used about the garden blending their color hues against those growing in profusion. The ceiling of lanterns added a note in keeping with the authentic background. The hostess, a gracious one, opened the program and individually introduced each person on program beginning with Mrs. R. O. Bundick, who gave a fitting devotional followed with the description of Japan by Mrs. Jack Terry, Sr. "Survey of Japan" was well discussed through the fluent manner of Mrs. Bob Hodges, and Mrs. McGabbe talked very interestingly on "From Civilized Traditions to Present Civilization." Mrs. Hugh Russell said prayer. Mrs. Charles T. Tally, Jr., seated behind a radio, gave news flashes of the day's happenings centering in Japan.

To climax the program, three young girls, Misses Mona Robinson, Ruby Milburn and Oldell Jay, members of the YWA frocked in native costume of Japan served chop, soup and tea.

This program one of the highlights for the month's study was attended by Meses. Hubert Mitchell, Lee Mitchell, H. M. Russell, John W. Tribbles, J. F. Byan, Bob Hodges, Jack Terry, Coluqui Brushier, Ida Hunt, J. R. Ferris, R. Ingram, Pearl Parrish, Charles Russell, W. A. Lewis, Charles Tally Jr., E. C. Ward, Carl Page,

Killingsworth Cox Enters Playoff of Series With TeePee

Killingsworth Cox eliminated Lone Star in the Shaughnessy playoff series of the City Softball League in one of the most spectacular and thrilling games of the entire season Monday night by a score of 8 to 7 in a nine-inning game. The victory places Killingsworth Cox in the three-game series with TeePee, by virtue of TeePee's victories over Lone Star and Killingsworth Cox in their first two games.

The elimination series was started with the Elks, TeePee, Lone Star and Killingsworth Cox as the high ranking teams in the league playing a series to determine which teams would be entered in the finals, which will be played off in three games, the winner of two games becoming the city champions.

In the game last night Lone Star was held scoreless until the sixth inning, without a man reaching first base until after the last of the fifth, while Killingsworth Cox had scored two runs in the fourth and four in the fifth.

The heavy hitting Lone Star lineup got into action in a big way in the sixth, however, rapping off four consecutive doubles to account for three runs before the side was retired.

Killingsworth Cox got three on base with no outs in the seventh but were cut off without a run when the runner was forced at the plate and a double play, Landers to Littlefield to Williams, retired the side.

Going into the ninth inning Killingsworth Cox had a three-run lead and two Lone Star runs crossed the plate before the side was retired and the other entry in the final playoff determined.

Tonight TeePee and Killingsworth Cox will begin the playoff with the game beginning promptly at 8 o'clock.

Installation Plans For Post Completed

All Ex-Service men are cordially invited to attend the installation of newly elected officers of Carl Barne Post No. 69 American Legion at the home of Post Commander Dr. Harry A. Bogdon, 614 Young Street at 8 p. m., Thursday night.

The committees have worked faithfully for this occasion and promise a good time. They have arranged a program and feed. The retiring officers and the newly elected officers will be there to greet all who attend.

Boyer House outlined briefly tentative plans for the 29th Anniversary Homecoming, stating that a good celebration could be staged which would attract thousands who had been in Ranger during the early days of the boom, and mentioning that the Saturday Evening Post would soon carry an article he had written, stating that Ranger would celebrate in October. This means alone, he said, would give the somecoming publicity throughout the United States and would, no doubt, do much to bring in many of the early oil men.

At the close of the breakfast period a group met to discuss further plans for the homecoming and all were enthusiastic over the prospects of having a real celebration at a very nominal cost.

Those present at the breakfast were: Joe Dennis, L. C. Russell, S. P. Bonn, F. D. Hicks, W. H. Clark, Dr. Joseph C. E. May, J. D. Collier, P. A. Reed, W. T. Walton, R. H. Snyder, Hal H. University Gets An Atom Smasher

By United Press

ST. PAUL.—Construction of a high-voltage laboratory for use of University of Minnesota scientists has been started.

The laboratory is expected to be of great value in experimental medicine. It will enable scientists to study such processes as the flow of materials through plant and animal bodies.

A huge Van de Graff generator, capable of producing 4,000,000 volts of electricity, will be part of the laboratory. There are but three similar generators in the United States at present; at the Westinghouse laboratory in Pittsburgh; at the Carnegie Institute in Washington, D. C., and a small one at the University of Wisconsin.

The machine will be used to smash atoms, and will produce radio-active substances. It will be 33 feet high, 18 feet in diameter. With the high voltage generator it will be possible to bombard chemical elements with protons and deuterons of high energy. Under this bombardment many elements are transmitted into radio-active modifications, and the resulting elements will be used in research.

The radio-active elements will be manufactured on such a scale and by such a method as will allow their shipment to Rochester, Minn., for application in experimental medicine at the Mayo clinic.

Funds totaling $36,000 to be used in the project were granted the university by the Rockefeller Foundation, New York.

The laboratory is expected to be completed in November.

TRESPASSERS FACE DEATH

BAKERSFIELD, Cal.—The U. S. Army's target range in the government owned grounds on Muroc Dry Lake in the Mojave Desert, is an unhealthy place of trespassers. "Duds, bits of steel, shell fragments, and unexploded cartridges will be found in this region and many of these will explode at the slightest touch," an army bulletin stated.

Windsors Visit Exile Hosts

In high good humor, the Duchess of Windsor, right, laughs merrily when greeted by Mrs. Charles Bedeaux at Mezőkovácsháza, Hungary. Mr. Bedeaux, left, chats with the Duke in the background. The visit with the Bedeauxs, who had been their hosts at Monts, France, prior to the wedding, marked the end of the Windsors' honeymoon seclusion.

The unveiling of the corner stone of the new Ranger Post Office has been planned for that date.

The tentative program, as suggested at the meeting, called for the parade at 10 o'clock in the morning, followed by the unveiling of the corner stone. At noon the Lions and Rotary Clubs would meet in joint session, with visiting dignitaries of the state and officials of the major oil companies as guests of the club.

Following the luncheon would be a period of speaking, during which talks would be made by visiting officials, with the Big Spring-Ranger football game starting at 3 o'clock, provided the date of the game could be changed.

In the evening one block of Main Street would be roped off a stage erected and seats provided, and the free entertainment staged.

This tentative outline of the program, which is subject to change, if necessary, would entail very little expense, and would furnish a full day of activities, and at the same time would allow plenty of time for visitors to renew old friendships throughout the day.

Everyone present spoke briefly on the celebration and all expressed the belief that it would be the best thing Ranger could do toward gaining wide recognition.

Mayor Hall Walker was elected general chairman of the celebration by acclamation after his name had been submitted by nomination and the nomination recorded. Other committees are to be named later by the general
