We Can Quit Fueling Orient's War Engine

The Japanese bombing of Nanking represents in its purest form a new and frightening principle of warfare. Nanking is not a military stronghold. It is not a great industrial city or an all-important nerve center in Chinese life.

Yet it drew from the Japanese air force the most prolonged and severe bombing of the whole Sino-Japanese war to date. The attack could give Japan no conceivable military advantage; its sole aim was to make war so horrible for non-combatants that the nation's willingness to resist invasion would be broken.

And this casual acceptance by the Japanese general staff of the idea that wars can be won by applied frightfulness leads us to a warning sounded by Pearl Buck in the current issue of Asia Magazine.

Mrs. Buck remarks that the orient lacks all of those restraining notions about the value of human life which, through the centuries, we have built up in the west. Life is not sacred, in the Far East; people are crowded together too closely, getting a living is too much a grim struggle, death is too familiar a specter.

To this oriental, continues Mrs. Buck, the western world has given the most terrible of weapons. It has armed, and armed to the teeth, a people who have no moral or sentimental restraint whatever against using its weapons to the very limit of their power.

"To have the means of death in one's hands with no fear of death in one's heart is the ultimate of terror, not only for those who are actually engaged in such warfare, but for everybody alive. This combination of orient and occident, spreading world wide, would be the end not only to all civilization, but to all physical human life."

It may make, then, very little difference—as far as our western world is concerned—whether Japan or China wins the present war. In either case, the victor will, as Mrs. Buck says, be "flushed with a fresh and horrible confidence in the ruthlessness of his heart and the gun in his hand."

For the world has at last brought itself to this pass; it has put the means of unlimited destruction in the hands of people who can have no qualms whatever about using them.

It is a dark and frightening picture. It may be that it is already too late for us to "do anything about it"; but we might, at the very least, give some thought to the advisability of immediately stopping the sale of munitions to either side in the conflict.

Some Plants Have A Billion Children In Single Month

NEW YORK.—A single plant of algae can have 1,000,000,000 children and grandchildren in a single month, reports the American Institute of Sanitation. These tiny plants, only a few thousandths of an inch in size and ordinarily invisible to the naked eye, are found in virtually all public water supplies.

In arriving at the conclusion that a single plant of common algae may have one billion offspring in a single month, the scientists did not count the plants one by one, explains the institute. A drop of water containing one of the tiny plants was placed in a quart of sterile water (which contains several thousand drops). The time for the single plant to develop into several thousand was observed. Then a drop of the water was transferred to a fresh quart of sterile water. In this way the remarkable reproductive activities of algae was determined.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
FRINELLA PIERCE—heroine,
AMY KERR—Cilly's roommate and mother's victim,
JIM KERR—Cilly's brother,
HARRY HITCHIN—Amy's
 fiance,
SERGEANT DOLAN—officer assigned to solve the murder of Amy Kerr.

Yesterday, Cilly discovers a bundle of blueprints. They were papers in the incinerator. At once she goes there to see if she can find out who was in the house, Amy's murderer, double-cross, was interested in this.

CHAPTER XIII

Cilly waited until after nine o'clock on Tuesday morning to call Sergeant Dolan at police headquarters. He was not in, but she left her name. She stressed the fact that her message was important.

Then she went downstairs to Mr. Johnson's rooms in the basement. If any of the tenants in the house had come from Utah, Mr. Johnson would remember it. Moving men have to see the superintendent before unloading their vans; and a truckload of furniture coming from the Far West would arouse curiosity.

"Good morning, Mr. Johnson," Cilly met him coming up the stairs with some tools in his hand. He was surprised to see her.

"Oh, good morning, Miss Pierce. Good morning. Did you want to see me?"

"Yes, I did, Mr. Johnson. Are you very busy? There is something I wanted to ask you about."

He stopped a minute. "Well, I will see, Miss Pierce. I am in a bit of a hurry. Mrs. Downey up in 4-A called me. She's had some sort of an accident with the plumbing—a leak, she says—and I wanted to fix it up before any damage was done. Are you in a hurry, Miss Pierce?"

"No, not at all, Mr. Johnson. May I wait until you're finished?"

"Sure, sure, Miss Pierce. Come right in."

Johnson turned and went down the five steps to his own room; he opened the door and led Cilly into his simple bedroom. "I'll be back in ten minutes," he said, and left her alone.

A small bookshelf lined the wall against the corner looking at Cilly. She found that the books were in the order of their titles—virile, the white paper of the cover, the red spine. She had never and never at the time. A man's name was written by the books.

Suddenly she wrinkled her brow as her eyes caulked down the shelf. Mr. Johnson's literary tastes took a sudden surprising turn. There besides the few adventurous tales of the sea were other books, startlingly different. So morbid and cruel were these that Cilly looked twice, to be sure she read their titles correctly.

Lamentable Tragedy, Its Early Symptoms . . . Insanity, the Scourge of Intolerance . . . Adventures in Deceit . . .

What a queer literature this was for a simple, uneducated man like Mr. Johnson—a man who made his living by taxes of especially and honest repairs! The discovery suggested an entirely different insight into the man's quiet, kindly character. Cilly thought quite suddenly that she would never want to meet the superintendent alone on the roof at midnight . . .

"Well, Miss Pierce?"

She turned, startled by his voice, and dropped a look she was examining. She was so pained at the fierce, angry look in his eyes.

"Oh, Mr. Johnson! I didn't hear you come downstairs. I've been glancing over your book-shelf here while I was waiting."

He strove and picked up the book he had dropped, replaced it on the shelf.

"What a man wants to read," he said sharply, "is nobody's business. Now what can I do for you, Miss Pierce?"

Cilly never remembered hearing Mr. Johnson speak in such a curt, unfriendly tone. She walked over to the leather chair and sat down carefully, struggling for composure. She was unconscious of his mild blue eyes, now dark in anger, following her.

"I wanted to speak to you about the tenants, Mr. Johnson."

He waved his hand in annoyance. "The police have already done that. All day yesterday that fellow Martin checked up on the tenants. I know nothing of them."

"Did any of them come from the West?" Cilly persisted. "From Utah, particularly?"

"Utah. Let me see . . ." Mr. Johnson lit a match, puffed slowly on his pipe. "I think I remember something about Utah . . . place there called Salt Lake City, isn't there?"

"Seems to me there was someone came from there—oh, a long time ago. But who it was—or what—I can't remember. Why?"

Cilly told him about the papers she had found wedged in the incinerator.

Sport Glances. . . . . By Grayson

BY HARRY GRAYSON
 Sports Editor, NEA Service

"D. X. will straighten 'em out." That's what football friends and foes alike of the University of Texas say. They're referring, of course, to Dana Xenophon Bible and the Texas Longhorn football team, which lingered in utterly strange territory—the Southwest conference basement—these last two seasons.

Bible was the answer to every faithful Texas ex's prayers—a solid man, a good football coach, a master diplomat, and possessor of a "name" potent enough to command a 10-year contract at a top salary. This was settled the trestle tempes which raged at Texas since football began.

Texas was the "graveyard of coaches." Texas coaches were here today, gone tomorrow—but not yet. No U. T. football coach ever progressed to a better job. Usually they dropped out of the game altogether, as has young Jack Chevigny, latest victim of the wolves, who traded grid togs for a lawyer's toga.

For the first time since 1893, University of Texas fans are entirely satisfied with their coach. There was no trouble before that date, because there wasn't any coach.

Bible has 13 lettermen, only a few of them potential stars, and several rather promising sophomores for his first Longhorn team. With double-tough clubs like Arkansas, Texas Aggies, Texas Christian, Southern Methodist, Rice, and Baylor playing in the same league, a coach needs more than that. He needs sympathy, and a handful of miracles.

yards for a kickoff-touchdown and sprouted 40 against Louisiana State for the tying score last year, will play quarterback. He will weigh in at about 200. In track, he runs the 100-yard dash.

Bible suspects that he has potential greatness in Sophomores Lewis (Bullet) Gray, a ripping fullback, and Beufus Bryan, 170-pound three-gun left halfback.

The line is a bit slow, the backfield anything else but. Bible believes that the defense will be all right, but that those ponderous linemen may gum up the attack.

Texas will have a better team than last year, but that doesn't guarantee a championship. It doesn't even guarantee anything better than the tie-for-last the Longhorns got in '35 and '36. To repeat: The Southwest is a tough league.

Bible may learn what it means to have a losing season. He has never had one.

Starting at Mississippi College in 1913, he produced a .750 ball club. Ever since his teams have finished with better than 500.

Texas hasn't won half its games since '34, when Chevigny's charges staged a thundering upset at Notre Dame and tied for second with S. M. U. behind Rice.

The Longhorns last won the championship in 1930, under Clyde Littlefield. This man, whom Chevigny succeeded after a bad '33 season, is back as "B" team coach and scout.

The rest of the Southwest Conference bosses were glad to see Bible back after an eight-year absence. Dana X. established his great reputation at Texas A. and M.

"It will make things tougher, but an honor to play against him," explains one Southwest Conference rival.

THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Dr. Rexford Guy Tugwell, quitting the Roosevelt administration, said he reminded himself of the small boy who hunted squirrels with stones and didn't kill any, but at least "annoyed the hell out of them."

Whatever else Tugwell did or didn't do, after he became Roosevelt's Brain-Truster Number One, you may be sure of these facts:

1. Tugwell always gave Roosevelt his own honest convictions, severely criticized several New Deal programs in inner councils and far from the "yes man" type.

2. Tugwell continually dined into Roosevelt ears the philosophy of more widespread purchasing power, low prices and better living standards—the theory of making industry bring about income redistribution and economic stability through taxation.

TUGWELL was a Columbia University professor called in by Ray Moley as an agricultural expert in the 1932 campaign. He never helped turn out the Roosevelt speeches. As Assistant Secretary and Undersecretary of Agriculture, with increasing importance as general adviser to a President who he thought believed in a new social order, Tugwell worked as hard and as best he knew how for a more ideal civilization.

AS Resettlement Administrator Tugwell inherited rural rehabilitation loans, a subsidy on homesteads, a housing and acquisition program and other sour messes to which were added his own community housing experiments with their handicap of required relief labor.

Friends and foes disagree as to whether Tugwell had administrative ability. Some bad

LET'S KNOW TEXAS-TEXANS

Q. What preparations had both the United States and Mexico already made for war pending negotiations for the annexation of Texas?

A. General Taylor had been stationed on the Sabine with a strong force of U. S. troops, which were immediately ordered to Corpus Christi, and Mexican troops were being massed at Matamoros.

Q. What have been named as the ten trees most important to mankind and on what is the selection based?

A. In the order named: date palm, coconut palm, almond, apple, fig, mulberry, olive, lemon, cinchona and rubber, a number of which are successfully grown in Texas. The list is based on usefulness to mankind for a long period of time—at least 1,000 years—and a species that, if suddenly disappearing, could not readily be replaced by any other.

Q. What amount of rice is produced per acre in Texas?

A. The Eagle Lake rice section is harvesting about 14 barrels per acre this season, which is said to be a fair yield.

Q. How many State Teachers colleges does Texas have and what is their valuation?

A. There are seven such schools for white students and one for negroes. The Teachers Colleges for white teachers are at Huntsville, San Marcos, Denton, Commerce, Alpine, Canyon and Nacogdoches. The school for negroes is at Prairie View. Their total estimated property value is $10,000,000 to $12,000,000.

White Rock Park One of Leading Recreation Spots

DALLAS, Texas—White Rock Park, in Dallas, with more than 500,000 visitors in less than three months, has taken rank with leading recreational areas in the Nation.

An actual count made by the National Park Service in connection with a state-wide recreational study, showed that a total of 555,834 people visited White Rock in the 77-day period from May 16 to July 21. Those included residents of 46 States, Alaska, Mexico, Canada and the District of Columbia.

The total exceeded the number of visitors to any park in Southwestern States where development work is being carried on by the Civilian Conservation Corps. It was more than 220,000 in excess of the 331,334 people counted in 16 State Parks of Texas for the same period.

The total number of automobiles checked into White Rock was 156,690, of which 3,657 carried out-of-state license plates. In number of autos from Texas counties outside of Dallas, Bexar ranked first with 1,880; Bell had 892, and Tarrant 850.

Oklahoma, with 658, led in number of out-of-state cars. California was second with 277, and Louisiana third, with 274.

The average number of cars per day was 2,164, and the average number of daily visitors, 7,218. Sundays were the peak days, with a grand total of 173,317.

The report points out that additional information on White Rock park is being collected by the National Park Service concerning use of facilities, participation in activities, types of people, age groups, etc. This information never previously compiled, will be of value to the City Park Board in planning for future development.

The actress who "broke" with Eddie Bergen over Bergen's dummy, Charlie McCarthy, apparently couldn't see the family tree for the wood.

Glamorous Hollywood! . . . magical mecca of the movies . . . with its fascinating studios . . . its famous stars . . . its world celebrities . . . its brilliant premieres! Hollywood! . . . where dazzling careers are realized, and the nobility of today becomes the celebrity of tomorrow.

It is to this paradise of golden opportunities that four lucky Texans as persons are going to be sent with all the glamour and excitement of full and complete screen tests by regular Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer test crews . . . with all expenses paid.

More . . . seventy one more . . . all Texans . . . are going to be given complete screen tests right here in Texas.

All this will happen through the backing of the great Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, world's greatest motion picture producing company, which company in association with the Ranger Times and the Arcadia Theatre offers persons in the circulation area of the Ranger Times the golden opportunity to win one of these glowing prizes.

Countless thousands have gone to Hollywood, only to meet with disappointment and more often than not, out and out hardship. Hollywood is generally pretty cruel to "unknowns."

But in Ranger the "unknown" is going to have an inning. And so are seventy-four other "unknowns" from other Texas cities, for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is making a veritable hunting ground of the whole state of Texas in an intensified search for new talent.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is sending its crack test crew of cameramen, technicians and makeup artists into Texas to make these tests under the expert direction of C. Edward Carrier, MGM test director who will make the tests

Returned Missionary From Japan Talks To Y. W. A.

The surprise promised members of the Y. W. A. Central Baptist church proved to be very delightful in the person of Mrs. Fucelcar, a returned missionary from Japan. Even though it has been ten years since the guest speaker was in Japan vivid are her memories of the work and the time spent there. So interesting was her address the entire time was given over to her with other Y. W. A. matters to be taken up at next week's program.

Retail Merchants Still In Need of Active Members

Officers of the Ranger Retail Merchants Association announced today the recent campaign for enlistment of new members to the organization has met with very good success. However, according to officers there is need for a number of new members yet, and anyone interested in the success of the R. M. A. is invited to see the secretary.

There are a number of reasons why the business men of the city should get behind the club, said an official this morning. First, it keeps the credit rating information of the association more accurate with a large number of members. Second, there will be fewer bad accounts. Third, the organization can take a more prominent part in the affairs of the community.

These are just a few of the many reasons why the R. M. A. should have the support of all the business interests in the city, stated officials.

Fighting Cat Dies; Never Lost a Battle

ESSEX, Conn.—Bum, king of all cats on River Road, is dead. Up to his death, at the age of 10, no other cat in town, came within a mile of Capt. William Suda's home, where Bum lived.

Whenever a rival appeared Bum sought it out. He often came home with torn ears and slashed face—but nevertheless victorious.
