Englishman Invents Sky Torpedoes

SWANSEA, Eng.—Behind an electrified iron fence guarded by a notice which warns "Keep Out," a lonely building set amid a thousand acres of desolate Welsh mountain-land, houses a remarkable invention which, it is said, make Great Britain safe from aerial attack.

It is a rocket aerial torpedo which discharges parachutes bearing steel wires, to the ends of which bombs are attached. The aim of the invention is to lay an "aerial minefield" for raiding aircraft.

Full details of the device have been revealed by the inventor, Harry Grindell-Matthews. He believes that the use of anti-aircraft guns will be futile against the bombing machines of the future that will choose their own time, fly in cloud-layers high above, and use instruments to tell them the position of their objective a rocket or aerial torpedo tube.

To counter this, he has invented, which, using a special fuel, will attain an altitude of 32,000 feet in a few seconds. At this height the rocket will discharge 20 or more parachutes to which timed bombs are attached by high-tensile steel wires.

The parent rocket is provided with its own parachute which blows out at the end of the run, thus enabling the container to float to earth and be retrieved for recharging.

Large numbers of these aerial rockets can be discharged every minute. They will release colonies of 20 to 30 smaller rockets, so creating an aerial minefield.

The plan has been inspected by leading aeronautical experts. The period of research and experiment is drawing to a close, and soon Grindell-Matthews' workshops will be manufacturing these defense rockets.

LONDON—In a series of unfortunate public signs being quoted by an English newspaper appears the following example: Outside a church at Barnstable is a big sign reading "Love thine enemies." In the window of an adjacent house is a placard reading: "Beer is man's worst enemy."

TS shape alone will not make an apple a success. For baking it must be firm, yet tender throughout, and it should be baked in a moderate oven (350 to 375 degrees F.) for from 45 to 60 minutes. Both very sour apples which contain a great quantity of water and meaty apples are quickly reduced to pulp when cooked, and are therefore not suitable for baking. Firm juicy apples are best. And they should have a touch of tartness, too. Rome Beauty, Winesap, York Imperial make good baking apples. So-called "greenings" are best for pies and sauce.

Even the old-fashioned baked apple can take on a touch of novelty. The use of nuts and maple syrup adds to their flavor interest.

Apples Baked in Maple Syrup
Pare six or eight apples to within an inch of the blossom end. Core apples but do not break through blossom end. Stand apples in a deep baking dish, allowing a small space between each apple. Fill cored portion of each apple with chopped pecan meats. Mix one cup of maple syrup and one and one-half cups of water and two tablespoons of butter. Pour mixture over apples. Cover apples and bake until almost tender in a moderate oven (350 degrees F. to 375 degrees F.). Remove cover during last period of cooking. Baste apples occasionally during baking. Serve with whipped cream, if desired.

Apple Macaroon Pudding
(4 to 6 servings)
Two cups raw apples, 8 macaroons, 1 lemon, 1-2 orange, 2 egg whites, 1-2 cups sugar, 3-4 cup water.

Sunday's Menu
BREAKFAST: Persian melon, Philadelphia scrapple, creamed potatoes, popovers, cranberry jelly, coffee, milk.
DINNER: Cranberry juice, baked ham, candied sweet potatoes, broccoli with Hollandaise sauce, pickled peaches, apple macaroon pudding, coffee, milk.
SUPPER: Ham omelet, mixed green salad, buttered toast, coconut layer cake, tea, coffee.

Peel and core apples very fine. Roll the macaroons with a rolling pin. Save 1-4 cup of sugar for meringue. Place a layer of apples, then crumbs and sugar, lemon and orange juice and grated macaroon until dish is full. Pour water over all. Bake 30 minutes in moderate oven (350 degrees F.). Remove from oven and cover with meringue made from egg whites beaten stiff and sugar. Put in hot oven (400 degrees F.) and brown quickly. Serve hot.

Apple Salad
(4 to 6 servings)
Six small eating apples, 1-4 cup red cinnamon candies, 1 cup water, 1 lemon, 1 cup sugar, 1-2 cup almonds, 1 package cream cheese. Peel and core apples. Make a syrup of sugar, water, lemon juice and candies. Put apples in and cook very slowly, basting constantly. When tender remove and chill thoroughly. Blanch the almonds and cut in half lengthwise. Put apples on a bed of lettuce, stick almonds in like a porcupine and fill center with cream cheese and serve with half mayonnaise and half whipped cream.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

WASHINGTON—Possibility that the Supreme Court might act in one way or another to keep Justice Hugo L. Black from its bench, although not considered a very strong one, calls attention to the court's recent record on cases involving civil and religious minority liberties such as were threatened by the Ku Klux Klan.

One idea is that the court might consent to hear a suit contesting Black's right to sit, on the ground that he was in a Senate which voted new emoluments for Supreme Court justices.

Another rumor is that the other justices might decide that Black was ineligible in case he were found to have taken the Klan oath, assuming that oath were found to pledge a taker to continued intolerance toward Jews, Catholics, Negroes and aliens.

In case that isn't simply a pipe-dream—and no one is whispering that any justice actually talked to him about it—the position of weakies who have taken strong or just positions as to rights of Negroes, Catholics or Jews in certain cases might be an important factor.

At its last term the court voted five to four to invalidate the old Georgia "insurrection" law under which Angelo Herndon, a young Negro Communist leader, had been sentenced to 20 years for distributing literature.

Although in 1935 it had refused to review an appeal on technical grounds, this year a majority—Chief Justice Hughes, Justice Roberts and one liberal trio of Brandeis, Stone and Cardozo—heard the case and held the Georgia law an unconstitutional interference with free speech and contrary to the "due process" clause. Herndon's conviction, the majority said, was based on no evidence of any clear and present danger to the state.

In 1925 the court ruled against the Klan-supported Oregon parochial school law, which struck at Roman Catholics, by barring all private schools. No state, the court said, had power to standardize its children by forcing them to take instruction from public teachers only.

Although the supreme bench had approved refusal of the Democratic party in Texas to allow Negroes to vote in its primaries, it set aside the convictions of two Scottsboro defendants in 1935 on the ground that Negroes had been barred from the jury. Last year it unanimously freed three Mississippi Negroes on the ground that their confessions had been obtained by torture.

These are only a few of the outstanding recent cases. In previous years its record as to civil liberties and minorities has been rather spotty.

One of "Forgotten Men" Gets Chance For His Freedom

By United Press
HOUSTON, Tex.—One of the 16 "forgotten men" of the Texas Prison System has been offered hope of freedom.

Ernest Vickers, 37-year-old convict of Belton, serving a commuted life sentence for murdering a Fort Worth railroad officer, has served 15 years.

His chance for freedom was offered by Mrs. C. A. Teagle of Houston, member of the Texas Prison Board, who will take his case before the State Board of Pardons and Paroles.

Former Gov. Pat M. Neff saved Vickers from the hangman's noose by executive clemency 13 years ago.

Vickers, a World War veteran holding the Croix de Guerre, has only one black mark against his prison record. He escaped from Central Prison Farm in 1933 and did not return.

Officers found him at Alice, Texas, working for an oil company as an accountant. He was taken back to prison.

Vickers was 17 when he was decorated for valor in France. He was one of 13 men who fired 16-inch naval guns and anti-aircraft batteries in a combat at Le Mans, France, which recaptured the town.

Three years after the war, he was convicted of murder and sentenced to be hanged. He insists he is innocent.

Mrs. Teagle will ask the parole board to clear Vickers of the six years in commutation time and four years in overtime that he lost when he escaped.

"Although he never was really bad since he has been a prisoner," Mrs. Teagle said, "I know that he has learned his lesson."

10,000 Students In State Are Aided By NYA Program

AUSTIN.—Because they have been assigned to useful and practical part-time work under the NYA Student Aid program, about 10,000 Texas boys and girls who otherwise would not be able to attend school this year are now registered for classes. J. C. Kellam, Texas Youth Director, estimated this week.

Eighty-four Texas colleges and universities have been approved for participation in the Student Aid program and have been assigned quotas which will provide 4,096 part-time jobs at an average wage of $15 a month.

On October 1, 1,222 Texas secondary schools had been approved and had been assigned quotas providing 4,238 part-time jobs at a maximum wage of $6 a month.

Since, in past years, some schools, particularly junior colleges and high schools, have limited the earnings of students to less than the maximum monthly wage, thereby making more jobs available, Mr. Kellam estimated that a number of students considerably larger than the number of jobs provided had already been given part-time work. The work must be practical and desirable, and is to be performed under the direction of local school officials.

Mr. Kellam said that the NYA College and Graduate program was almost completely organized for the year. He estimated that about 60 per cent of the secondary schools desiring and eligible to participate in the program had applied and had been approved. He stated that action was being taken upon all applications for participation on the day they are received in the State Office at Austin.

Builders Given Higher Values In the Construction

HOUSTON.—Home building today are reasonable and the material builder is giving high for the building dollar, according to Bernard L. Johnson, editor of American Builder. He points out the time to build a home is during the market when rents are low, employment is high, real estate activity on the part of all of which conditions are present.

Johnson is not misled by false and vicious propaganda on the subject, he declares. "To some it is more than the sum of the raw materials used, the buyer is and should be provided with the complete unit of habitability, comfort, security and not with the board of lumber or the cost of the cost of cement.

As the motor car production turn out a better machine of advancing price of materials, the efficient building today is delivering a better for less money because his building methods and his common materials have been improved.

Of course, the raw materials building have risen from the low of the depression, but so has practically everything else. Houses, like most commodities, a year ago were dirt cheap but they are not for contrast to those of 1932. We are in the 1926-29 era is more and by that standard the of today is indeed a good ing facts from a nation-wide survey of building costs and made by American Builder in October issue devoted to subject, Johnson points out reaching improvements in 37 homes over those of the era. Although the home has such new developments as air conditioning, insulated bathrooms, modern kitchens, copper and pipe, lifetime construction the total cost in most communities is 25 to 40 per cent less than it was in the 1926-29 era.

Analyzing the whole picture of building costs and values, Editor Johnson lists ten favorable factors that enable builders to produce a better home today at less cost than in 1926-29, as follows:

1. Lower financing costs under a single long-term mortgage in place of the old short term first second and land contract system.
2. Building sites priced for use not for speculation.
3. Construction costs cut thru increased use of factory-produced units of materials and equipment.
4. Labor costs cut through increased operating efficiency due to modern tools and power equipment.
5. Lower costs from use of simplified house designs, planned for stock sizes of materials and parts, and elimination of useless ornamentation.
6. Economies arising from present vogue for smaller, more compact houses with multiple use of space for sleeping, dining and "living."
7. Savings in fuel costs from use of insulation and other present high standards of construction.
8. Savings in upkeep and maintenance costs from better design and use of proper long life materials.
9. Lower sales costs on houses built by operative builders, and smaller profit margin by contractors.
10. Lower tax costs through "out to the suburbs" and "into the country" movement.

One Variety Plan Of Cotton Planting Is Working Out

By United Press
HOUSTON, Tex.—Texas, the leading cotton producing state in the nation, showed one bright spot in an otherwise gloomy world export market during the growing season just ended.

Burriss C. Jackson, chairman of the Cotton Improvement Committee of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce, announced initial success in the "one variety community" program to improve the quality and yield of Texas cotton.

New Nest for U. S. Navy's War Birds

Addition of nearly 150 fighting seaplanes to the U. S. Navy air forces has been made possible by the acceptance for service of the new Aircraft Carrier Yorktown, seen at anchor in Hampton Roads, near Norfolk, Va. The flagship of Rear Admiral Charles A. Blakeley, the Yorktown cost $20,000,000, has decks 109 feet wide and more than 800 feet long.

All of the 21 communities participating in the program reported staples of 15-16-inch and above—a very good classification, Burriss said.

"We firmly believe that if other sections join in the program, Texas will regain its lost prestige with European buyers within the next five years," Jackson's report continued.

The complete picture, however, was described as being in less favorable condition. Jackson said many foreign mills continued to stipulate that Texas cotton must not be included in their purchases.

The average yield per acre has decreased in the last 65 years from 211 pounds to only 119 pounds.

"Although the government's agricultural policies have contributed to the loss of our markets," Jackson said, "we must admit that poor quality has been a prime factor."

The stimulus to foreign cotton production resulted in an increase last year of 8,500,000 bales over the 1927 production outside of the United States, he said.

"The American producer must now compete with 19,500,000 bales of foreign-grown cotton, and, ultimately, the only way he can do that is to have a product of better quality."

Another problem facing the American cotton farmer is that of finding more uses for cotton. Jackson believes Groups interested in the South's greatest industry seek to establish a research laboratory for cotton uses in one of the Southern states.

P. D. Renfro, chairman of the East Texas organization, and Lamar Fleming of Anderson, Clayton & Company, world's largest cotton firm, planned an educational campaign "to make all Texas marine conscious."

"Many Texans in inland cities do not realize the importance of foreign trade to their economic well-being," Renfro said.

Chef Against Fancy Names for Dishes

By United Press
ST. LOUIS.—A chef tastes his dishes by smelling them, according to Pierre J. Berard, noted chef and officer of a society of epicures. The trick, he pointed out, is to sniff and at the same time pretend you're chewing and swallowing.

Berard, chairman of Les Amis d'Escoffier, Chicago chapter of the Societe Culinaire Philanthropique of New York, has taken over the management of the kitchens at the Park Plaza Hotel in St. Louis.

He insisted there must be an "accent on food." The true accent, he held, is attained through wise and skillful blending of food flavors that whet the appetite, thrill it and leave it with a sense of satisfaction.

A French name on the menu is justifiable if the dish has been created for some historic occasion, has a history of its own and has an easily translated name, he said. Otherwise, "short, plain English" is best.

Supreme Court Faces Six Issues

WASHINGTON.—Here are some of the major questions on which the Supreme Court already has been asked to rule during the 1937-38 term:

1. Will the tribunal, in view of economic and social needs of the day and the seeming switch of the court's majority from a conservative to a liberal outlook, reverse its earlier ruling holding the municipal bankruptcy act unconstitutional and thereby open the way for reconsideration of num-

5. Do such industries as the shipbuilding industry, purely interstate according to those engaged in it, have sufficient effect on interstate commerce to come under the National Labor Relations Act.

$629,325 Estate Is Given to College of Mines by Executor

EL PASO, Texas.—Estate of the late Frank R. Cotton, Brookline, Mass., financier, assessed at a total value of $629,325, has been given the College of Mines and Metallurgy here, a branch of

The University of Texas. Announcement of the gift and its acceptance by the Board of Regents of the University was made by Dr. D. M. Wiggins, College of Mines president. Mines officials said they believe the estate will eventually reach a $1,000,000 value.

The gift was tendered the college by Judge Walter B. Grant of Boston, sole surviving executor and trustee of the vast Cotton estate. The property involves 500 acres in the city of El Paso, 20,000 acres in Hudspeth County, and about 5,000 acres in Culberson County. In addition the gift includes about $15,000 in stocks and bonds.

Mr. Cotton died in 1907 in Boston.

Whipping Post For Wife Beaters Urged

By United Press
GOLDEN, Colo.—Public whippings at old-fashioned whipping posts is advocated by Justice of the Peace John Owen as the proper punishment for men who beat their wives.

The recommendation was made at the trial of an alleged wife beater.

"It is too bad that the old-fashioned whipping post in the public square cannot be reinstalled for wife beaters," he said. Judge Owen sentenced the man to six months in jail.

Widow Sees Again After 6 Yrs. In Dark

MARION, Ill.—After six years of blindness, both eyes darkened by cataracts, Mrs. Sam McNeill, a 90-year-old widow, longed for the bright, colorful world again. She underwent an operation for removal of one cataract.

A day later, her physician removed the bandages and tested her.

"Why, I see only one finger," she said, dismayed.

"That's all I'm holding up," replied the doctor.

Fear of War Behind Dictators' Meeting

It was a great show that the Germans put on for Benito. No nation in Europe understands the value of the spectacular better than do the Germans; that one little touch of floodlighting all the buildings on Unter den Linden just as the two dictators appeared was a masterpiece.

But there was a grim and menacing undertone to the great celebration. Hitler showed Mussolini those aspects of German civilization which were best calculated to interest and impress the visitor—the great munitions works at Essen, the new German army, the trim warships, the bombing squadrons, and so on.

For the international friendship signalized by this meeting of statesmen is a friendship that rests on the fear of war. The get-together was no more sentimental gesture; it was a gesture that brought mailed fists into a handshake.

And no American can read of it, and think about the significance of it, without reflecting on the providential good fortune which is his as an American.

Lying between two great oceans, we escape the unending pressure which forces Germans and Italians to turn their nations into armed camps. We do not need to bid for other nations' friendship by showing how tough we could be in case of a fight. The money and energy which go to build up a war machine can be diverted to peaceful production.

You can dramatize the contrast best by imagining that some foreign statesman—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of England, for instance—had come to America and was being shown the sights by President Roosevelt.

What would the President show the prime minister? Would he not take him to those spots where America's great productive machinery is in high gear, so that the visitor might see how a nation enjoys the blessings of peace?

There would be a visit to the Detroit auto factories, no doubt, and to the Mahoning Valley steel belt; a look at the Tennessee Valley, with its great experiment in planned living; a glimpse at the western wheat belt, where rippling grain rolls to the horizon like a wind-touched sea; a visit to Chicago with its infinite network of busy railroads, and another to New York, where the innumerable threads of American life are all gathered together.

Vastly different, that, than a round of munitions factories and military camps. And the difference is symptomatic of the difference between those nations that are cursed by the fear of war and those that are not.

Because we do not have that fear, we can devote our energies to building for the future—to the production of things that men need, things that lay the foundation for a richer and happier life. The difference between what Hitler showed Mussolini and what Roosevelt would show Chamberlain is the measure of our tremendous good fortune.

Nazarene Revival Continues to Draw Large Attendance

To hell and not back!" is announced as the sermon subject of evangelist Herschel Murphy, conducting a revival at the Church of the Nazarene.

Services begin promptly at 7:15 p. m. with a series of stereopticon slides made by the Mayo hospital of Rochester, Minn., on "The Evils of the Tobacco Habit." There are 108 scenes, each costing 1.00 and are beautifully colored. Rev. Murphy invites everyone not clear on the damage done to the physical man by use of tobacco, to see these slides tonight.

The congregation was still larger again last evening to hear the speaker's message on "The Unpardonable Sin." At the close of the message several knelt at the altar and were definitely blessed of God after a lengthy season of earnest prayer. The revival is creating quite a bit of comment. The public is invited to hear him tonight speak on: "To Hell and not back!" and judge whether or not he has a message. Rev. Poole, local pastor insists that the public hear this man of God the last few days of the revival.

Woman Explorer Risks Her Life to Capture a Panda

The most important single achievement in the world in collecting animals is undoubtedly the recent capture and transportation to America of the baby Giant Panda. Mrs. William H. Harkness, Jr., succeeded in doing what no white person had ever done before when she risked her life in the bamboo forests of the mountains of Szechuan province in southwestern China and captured the animal alive.

The existence of such animals was first discovered in 1869 and ever since that time it has been considered one of the world's most valuable trophies and many explorers have attempted without success to capture it.

The survival of the baby panda and its remarkable growth is credited to Mrs. Harkness, who, with no available history to guide her, succeeded in devising a suitable feeding formula. In less than three months after its capture the panda had increased its weight from 3 pounds to 14 pounds. It is expected to eventually weigh about 250 pounds.

Mrs. Harkness, like all great explorers, realizes the importance of food in building reserve energy. She says, "I consider Quaker Oats a splendid breakfast for active people." Quaker Oats is a wonderful source of food energy and is rich in Vitamin B.

Judith Sings $2,000,000 Love Song Over Lost Jack

Claiming the siren song of dollars had deafened her boxing, crooning ex-husband to her love song, Judith Allen, top photo, sinuous, shapely Hollywood starlet, filed suit for two million dollars against Mrs. Delphine Dodge Goode, lower left, who Miss Allen claims, has ensnared the affections of that ex-husband, Jack Doyle, lower right. Reconciliation with the singing slugger, whom she divorced last April, was blocked by the heirs to the Dodge millions, who is planning a marriage to Doyle as soon as she divorces her third husband, accused

Housewife to Pay High Meat Prices At Least a Year

CHICAGO.—The wife, said almost as much for tonight's steaks or chops as she—or her mother—paid in world war days, and she may expect to go right on paying those prices at least until next summer, a United Press survey showed today.

Price of beef and pork, especially the choice cuts such as steaks, have risen as much as 50 per cent since last Halloween. The biggest boosts are in the east and on the west coast.

Butchers and packers blame the droughts of past years. Corn and feed of all kinds was burned out, because so scarce there was not enough to feed the usual supplies of prime stock. Many ranchers

Well-Known Feature Writer Pays Visit to Ranger:
Miss Stephenson, who conducts a feature column in the Fort Worth Star Telegram, visited in Ranger last night and today as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Garner, Gholson hotel.

Miss Stephenson's visit was for the purpose of covering the Search for Talent auditions conducted in Eastland and Ranger, brought to an exciting climax on Thursday night. This, the first visit of the writer to Ranger, proved interesting and her interview with the winners proved an unusual privilege to them. Miss Stephenson has been a member of the editorial staff at the Fort Worth Star Telegram for several years and only a short time ago made a visit to Hollywood where she compiled colorful materials for a series of chats featured through her column. This assignment brought her in contact with Frank Stars, who conducted the auditions and announced as winners, Miss Adriene Flurry.

To Women:

If you suffer every month you owe it to yourself to take note of Cardui and find out whether it will benefit you. Functional pains of menstruation have, in many cases, been eased by Cardui. And where malnutrition (poor nourishment) had taken away woman's strength, Cardui has been found to increase the appetite, improve digestion and in that way help to build up a natural resistance to certain ills suffering. (Where Cardui fails to benefit, consult a physician.) Ask your druggist for Cardui—(pronounced "Card-u-i").

Montgomery Ward Radio Attracting Attention in Theatre Lobby:
Stella Dallas, the feature which all of us have looked forward to for so long is attracting and filling the engagement book today and tomorrow. Of course we also know John Boles and Barbara Stanwyck are co-starred and the picture is one you can not afford to miss.

Along with this attraction there is also another you will want to know more about. In the lobby on the right you will see a radio, fast-proving a sensation. This one is furnished by Montgomery Ward chiefly because the stars have approved its value and sensational tone quality. The very latest in radio improvement is a feature of this handsome radio displayed with the consent of the local manager, J. L. Ambler. An eleven tube radio and represented through 550 Montgomery Ward stores cooperating with John Boles on radio-tie-up.

Here is Barbara Stanwyck, as she appears in the title role of Samuel Goldwyn's "Stella Dallas," now at the Arcadia theatre. Miss Stanwyck's portrayal of the vulgar, tawdry woman who was capable of a magnificent, unselfish love and sacrifice, is considered the finest individual performance of the year. "Stella Dallas" is a United Artists release.

Although Barbara Stanwyck first expressed her theatrical yearnings at the age of eight by dancing at birthdays and concerts, and at sixteen had made her professional debut as a dancer at the Strand cabaret on Broadway, it was her acting ability that first commanded attention.

Her ability as an actress was soon recognized by such stage producers as Ziegfeld, Willard Mack and Arthur Hopkins, and the lead in "The Noose," and "Burlesque" supplanted the dancing. A succession of starring roles in pictures followed and her outstanding performances in numerous screen hits inevitably led to her selection by Samuel Goldwyn for the title role in his emotional classic, "Stella Dallas," in which she is now appearing at the Arcadia theatre. "Stella Dallas" was directed by King Vidor and includes in the cast John Boles, Anne Shirley and Alan Hale. It is released through United Artists.
