RANGER, TEXAS, WEDNESDAY EVENING, OCTOBER 20, 1937

PRICE TWO CENTS NO. 120

President Roosevelt, studying national sentiment on the court fight, may easily have been thinking about the Continental Divide when he set his route over the Rockies.

FARMERS IN DEBT URGED TO GET AID

Debt distressed farmers should avail themselves of the service of the farm adjustment section of the rehabilitation division of the Farm Security Administration, said Dan Gregg of Dallas, state director of the debt adjustment work, urged Wednesday at Eastland.

Gregg, accompanied by Guy H. Tomlinson of San Angelo, supervisor in district 7, 10, 11—which in this area—and 12, had arrived to be with FSA District Director Robert Fisher of Eastland on a tour of his area to arrange closer cooperation of county FSA supervisors and farmers in the debt adjustment work.

Gregg explained that the farm debt adjustment is a free government service which acts as a mediator between debtor and creditor. He added that under the new set-up of his work with the FSA, formerly known as Resettlement Administration, aims to more localize the work of the debt adjustment. Records of farmers whose debts are being adjusted are to be kept in the office of the county FSA rural supervisors.

Farmers desiring debt adjustment were invited, whether clients of the FSA or not, to contact the rural supervisor who in Eastland county is George I. Lane.

In addition in each county there is a voluntary committee which aids the FSA and debt adjustment section in helping the farmers. Members of the Eastland county committee are Felix S. Boland of Scranton, W. R. Ussery of Carbon and Dick Weekes of Alameda. Dates which the committee will meet with Lane are to be announced.

One of the outstanding activities of the farm adjustment work, Gregg stated, is to "keep worthy farmers on their home place and help them sustain it." He explained by pointing to the reduction of debt which is aided materially.

Visit of Gregg, Tomlinson and Fisher in the latter's district which includes 16 counties was estimated as for the remainder of this week.

November Demand For Crude Oil Is Estimated Lower

AUSTIN, Oct. 20.—An estimate of the U. S. Bureau of Mines that November demand for Texas crude oil will be 55,000 barrels a day less than present allowable production was announced at today's statewide oil production hearing of the Texas Railroad Commission.

The estimate was that 1,415,000 barrels will be required daily. It compares with an October estimate of 1,480,000 barrels daily and present allowable of 1,465,819 barrels a day.

REV. STEPHENS' RESIGNATION NOT ACCEPTED

Rev. H. H. Stephens, pastor of the Central Baptist church of Ranger, tendered his resignation to take effect Jan. 1, 1938, at a meeting of deacons and church officers, held Tuesday night. At the urgent request of the entire group, however, the pastor agreed to defer his resignation indefinitely.

The monthly meeting was called by the pastor in order that reports from the chairman of the different committees of the church might be made. Dr. A. K. Wier, chairman of the board presided.

John McKinney, trustee reported the re-roofing of the building was completed at a cost of approximately $100. A. L. Stiles, treasurer reported all current bills paid and a balance of $150 in the treasury.

Those in charge of the refinancing of the church building reported all papers had been signed, all releases made and the entire debt on the half block of property was only $4000. This to be paid at the rate of $35 per month. All reports were received and committees discharged.

The pastor reviewed his work with the church during the eight and one-half years that he has been in Ranger, in which he stated that during his ministry more than 500 had been received into the church, about 300 of these coming for baptism. The church debt, which he came to Ranger with $14,000 has now been reduced to $4000.

A committee was appointed to recommend to the church the ordination of five new deacons.

The pastor was instructed to leave today for Fort Worth and secure a choir director to take charge of the music.

All present expressed much optimism for the future work of the church and pledged themselves to renewed activities and interest in the ongoing of the program as outlined.

Dr. A. K. Wier offered his resignation as chairman of the board that will probably be acted upon at some future meeting.

MONETARY AND CREDIT CHANGE URGED TODAY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—President Roosevelt today declared that only by perfecting the nation's monetary and credit machinery can the disaster of extreme booms and depressions be avoided.

He presented his views in ceremonies dedicating a new federal reserve bank building.

Mr. Roosevelt avoided any mention of the precipitated stock market decline and talked in general terms.

He described the goal of the federal system as and declared the achievement was dependent upon "proper functioning of our monetary and credit machinery."

"That machinery," he said, "must be steadily perfected and coordinated with other instruments of government to promote the most productive utilization of our human and material resources."

"Only in that way can we hope to achieve and maintain an enduring prosperity free from disastrous extremes of booms and depressions."

YOUTH HELD AS CAR YIELDS BODIES

The weird odyssey of an 18-year-old boy who for more than two days drove through five eastern states with the bodies of two 64-year-old murder victims—in their own car—was told by Paul Dwyer, left, of Paris Hill, Me., after he was held as the slayer at North Arlington, N. J. Police said he confessed that he killed Dr. James G. Littlefield during a medical examination, then, after luring Mrs. Littlefield from home on a pretext, strangled her because she suspected him. With the woman's body in the car and her husband's corpse stuffed into the trunk, right, Dwyer said he drove aimlessly until he fell asleep and was arrested on a roadside.

Japanese Offense In North China Is In Difficulty

SHANGHAI, Oct. 20.—Chinese sources asserted today that three main Japanese forces in North China were in difficulties and that many advance units had been cut off or were in great danger.

Reports continued that there was something wrong with the Japanese drive in the north. It was known that the Japanese had made astonishingly rapid progress on all northern fronts. So rapid that foreign military experts had wondered about the safety of communications with their main bases.

The reports today were the Chinese troops of all sorts were harassing the Japanese mercilessly and winning considerable success.

FUNDS URGED FOR PENSIONS IN THE SENATE

AUSTIN, Oct. 20.—A bill to appropriate $2,000,000 from the general fund for old age assistance was introduced today by Sen. Joe Hill.

The bill sets out that proceeds for additional taxes to relieve the critical old age assistance situation were uncertain. The house yesterday asked Gov. Allred to allow them to give board of control members the power to borrow money for pensions, if necessary.

The senate passed a resolution criticizing all attempts of congress to take for the federal government, that part of the coastline between high and low tide. Texas has considerable oil resources in that area.

Senators also adopted a resolution to investigate the state game, fish and oyster commission. The inquiry was requested by the commission itself to quiet rumors of mismanagement and favoritism. The bill was adopted to permit the state park board to accept donations for the proposed Big Bend National Park.

The house asked the governor to submit the topic of an appropriation for county and district officers for fees due in 1936. A bill was introduced to give them $79,000 in salary deficiencies in case the subject is submitted.

Rep. Merritt Gibson and Roy L. Tennant, Jr., of Longview, introduced a bill declaring that all state property produced become state property.

District judges were ordered to restrain its movement if necessary, while litigation is in process.

Corn Loans Are Urged By O'Neal

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—Edward R. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, told President Roosevelt today that government corn loans of 60 cents a bushel are an "immediate necessity."

O'Neal said corn now is selling at 38 to 44 cents for December delivery against an 80 to 84 cents parity price.

"The condition of farm crop prices," O'Neal said, "is one reason for the stock market being so jittery."

Barbecue Plans Are Explained by General Chairman

Hall Walker, general chairman of the Homecoming celebration, today outlined the plans under which the barbecue for the visiting oil men would be conducted Thursday afternoon at the Ranger Country Club.

Tickets have been printed and space left for the name to be written on each ticket.

This was done in order that a complete record might be kept of all those attending. Local people are the hosts and every local person is supposed to purchase a ticket if he attends, with the exception of those who have contributed to the homecoming.

Approximately one third of the contributions will be needed for general expenses, it has been estimated, and two thirds will go toward the cost of entertaining out of town guests at the barbecue. This will give the local people some idea as to the amount of tickets due them to be given to their guests.

"The barbecue tickets will be sold for $1 each to local people," Walker stated today, "and I am sure that the citizens of Ranger will be patriotic enough to buy their tickets, rather than ask the local citizens who have contributed to the general fund to supply them with tickets when they have been purchased for out of town guests."

This statement was given to the press due to the fact that some people think this is a free barbecue and they are due all the tickets they want," Walker said. "I am sure that if they give the above statement due consideration they will see that it will be impossible to give out tickets to everyone and the distribution must be based upon the amount of contributions."

It was explained, however, that if anyone had more guests than had been anticipated arrangements would be made to secure tickets for them.

How We Help Japan to Conquer China

If there is one American who is entitled to be heard in connection with the tangled situation in the Far East, it is former Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson.

Mr. Stimson was some six years ahead of President Roosevelt in the belief that this country should take peaceful but effective measures to restrain the Japanese militarists. Unfortunately, the British let him down with a dull thud when he tried to translate his belief into action, and his effort to preserve peace and the sanctity of treaties in the Orient failed.

But he knows the Chinese-Japanese situation as few Americans know it; and when he wrote a lengthy letter to the New York Times the other day, setting forth his ideas on the course America ought to follow, he said some things which all Americans ought to ponder.

No one, says Mr. Stimson, can argue that we should send troops and warships to the Orient to restrain the Japanese invasion by force. The American people would never consent to such a step; even if they did, China must work out her own salvation, and her problem cannot be solved by outside intervention.

But that, he continues, does not mean that we must fold our hands and passively watch the Japanese complete their program of aggression. For as a matter of fact, Mr. Stimson says, we are right now actively helping Japan—giving her the help without which she could not carry on the war.

Japan, he points out, depends on the outside world for her ability to attack China. She has ample manufacturing facilities, but she lacks vital raw materials—oil, iron, rubber and cotton. These she must buy abroad; she can pay for them only by selling enough of her own products to obtain the requisite foreign exchange.

The principal product that she has for sale is raw silk.

Keeping that in mind, says Mr. Stimson, note that America buys upwards of 80 per cent of Japan's silk exports, with Britain buying almost all of the rest. Furthermore, Japan buys most of her essential raw materials from America and England—5 per cent of her oil and 50 per cent of her iron from America, practically all of her rubber from England, 80 per cent of her cotton from the two nations combined.

It is this trade that makes her war possible. As long as we carry it on we are helping in the assault on China. And Mr. Stimson asks:

"Is the condition of our statesmanship so pitifully inadequate that we cannot devise the simple means of international cooperation which would stop our participation in this slaughter?"

We might profitably study our government's present foreign policy in the light of Mr. Stimson's statement. It is a reminder that we do not now face a choice between keeping absolutely clear of the imbroglio or getting into it up to our necks. We are in it already, and we must shape our course in the light of that fact.

Romance, History In Exciting Film

The stirring history of the discovery of oil and the development of the oil industry in America serves as a background for the strange romance of Irene Dunne and Randolph Scott in 'High, Wide and Handsome,' which opens today at the Arcadia Theatre. The love between Scott, a hard-bitten farmer of indomitable will, and Miss Dunne, a gay, light-hearted carnival singer, which is accented and abetted by the haunting music of Jerome Kern, makes one of the most absorbing stories the screen has seen.

Scott meets Miss Dunne when she comes to Titusville with her show, and they fall in love without knowing it, during her stay in town. The knowledge that they are in love does not come to them until they attend a picturesque barn dance together, at which Charles Bickford, who plays a villainous teamster, kisses Miss Dunne and starts a fight with Scott.

Scott persuades Miss Dunne not to leave town with her show, and they are married in a colorful ceremony at Scott's Pennsylvania farm home. Just after their marriage, while they are on a hill where they plan to build their new home, oil gushes from Scott's oil derrick, the first one in the country. At once the city is plunged into turmoil, with farmers all over the section drilling on their property for oil.

Miss Dunne watches in bewilderment while her husband becomes more and more oblivious of her, more absorbed in the growth of the new industry he has discovered. Soon his activities make him the leader of oil section. All the farmers who have suddenly become oil producers look to him for leadership, and eventually he finds it almost impossible to spend any time at home. He is inarticulate, incapable of making his wife understand his duty to his friends, or his interest in the oil that can be afforded by rich and poor alike. When the railroads begin hoisting freight rates in order to freeze out the farmers and control the oil business themselves, Scott is so absorbed in his problems that he apparently forgets the existence of Miss Dunne, who is terribly hurt by his apparent indifference. He finally decides to beat the railroads prices by building a pipe line clear to the refineries, and plunges into the new task with all his energies.

It is then that Miss Dunne realizes that the love to which she has dedicated her life is a cold thing. Her husband refuses to share his interests with her, she feels useless to him, and in a supreme effort to recapture his love and gaiety she runs off to sing with a carnival once more. But, when danger threatens Scott, she realizes that her love for her husband is more important than anything else life can give her and she returns to fight for him and with him.

Miss Dunne and Randolph Scott are supported by a fine cast, including Raymond Walburn, William Frawley, Elizabeth Patterson and Charles Bickford.

CHAPTER XXXI

It was the following Sunday. Cilly was preparing tea in her room. She expected Sergeant Dolan and Jim, of course. But she lived here now. They had married the previous afternoon, with Sergeant Dolan, ironically, serving as best man. At this minute, Jim was taking their bags to the airport. The time tomorrow they would be in Utah, to welcome Jim's new home.

She peeked into the oven, to see if the biscuits had browned. "There's nothing I can do about it," she said. "I'll have to bake some more." Dolan had told her, "It's not often, you know, that a girl bakes like myself anybody willing to bake for me."

Well, Cilly was willing. If she had a thousand years, she could bake enough for Sergeant Dolan. When she thought of that, she remembered the events of the previous Thursday evening. . . . It was a awful second when she opened her eyes and expected to find Jim dead at her feet. . . . Instead, it had been Hutchins, the bullet had found—she had been Hutchins' superior Harry Johns. She saw the stream of blood dripping from his hand, and on the floor where he had slipped it. And behind her, out of the shattered glass of Ames Wakefield's front door, stood Jim, his service revolver still in his hand.

It was no less than a miracle. Dolan had appeared at the very second when he was most needed. . . . And now Harry Hutchins was behind bars.

She didn't stand a chance. The cards were stacked against her. The evidence Amy had left behind her was complete: There was the perfect sequence of his actions, from the moment he stepped from the Utah plane three days following the theft of the gold, to the record of the hotel he had gone to immediately, the name of the landlady in whose house he had lived next. . . . the transactions in disposing of the gold, one at a time. . . . Amy had done it all, single-handed, and given her life for it. Only she had confided in someone, in Cilly, at least.

Unfortunately, however, she did not know when it was that Hutchins finally became suspicious. Probably not until a few days previous, when, under the guise and appearance of the eidboard and sit at the desk. It was simple for Hutchins to write the number down himself. Probably just about that time—one o'clock or so—there's a change of operators anyway. Of course, you'd have discovered it anyway, sergeant, as soon as the telephone bills came through."

Dolan shook his head. "I doubt it. If we definitely suspected him, we could check, of course, but otherwise—" He shrugged. "The hotel operator would never say anything about it. That would be reminding the telephone company that they'd forgotten to charge for one call, and few people are that honest. There'd be no special record of it on the telephone bill for Mrs. Elliot because it was a local call from here. No, I don't think we'd ever have caught him on the telephone slip-up. He's slick. He figures things out carefully. I worked all Friday trying to get somebody at the Ralston to identify him: he was there, I know it, to plant the bonds and that blue belt, but not a soul saw him. Oh, he'd have gotten away with the whole thing, if it weren't for that evidence in the safety deposit box. What bothers me is the reason he didn't try to get it sooner. Don't you suppose, Jim, that he heard Amy tell you about it up on the roof?"

Jim shook his head. "He couldn't have heard everything we said. We were over near the edge, you see, and he must have been behind one of the furnace stacks. He'd have seen him otherwise. . . ." His voice trembled, and he lowered his eyes, as if to hide a guilt.

He would always feel this guilt, whenever his meeting with Amy on the roof was mentioned. He felt personally responsible, as if he alone had lured her to her death.

Dolan laid a sympathetic arm across his shoulder. "Try to forget how it happened, Jim," Dolan urged, very kindly. He folded his napkin laboriously, cleared his throat. Then, in the brusque, severe voice that had so often frightened Cilly, he added: "Well, I enjoyed the supper. . . . best biscuits I ever ate, Friscilla. What a girl you are! Smart, good-looking, and a good cook besides! Say, if ever the old man doesn't treat you right, just remember me, will you?"

He grinned, and they all got up from the table.

A few minutes later, Cilly and Jim, arm in arm, watched him from the window as he disappeared down the street.

READY TO BRING YOU RELIEF IN MINUTES

The Reason BAYER ASPIRIN WORKS SO FAST

Drop a Bayer Aspirin tablet into a tumbler of water.

By the time it hits the bottom of the glass it is disintegrating.

This speed of disintegration enables genuine BAYER Aspirin tablets to start "taking hold" of headache and similar pain a few minutes after taking.

YOU can pay as high as you want for remedies claimed to relieve the pain of Headache, Rheumatism, Neuritis, Sciatica, etc. But the medicine so many doctors generally approve—the one used by thousands of families daily—is Bayer Aspirin—15¢ a dozen tablets—about 12 pieces. Simply take 2 Bayer Aspirin tablets with a half glass of water. Repeat, if necessary, according to directions.

Usually this will ease such pain in a remarkably short time. For quick relief from such pain which exhausts you and keeps you awake at night—ask for genuine Bayer Aspirin.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—No single reason suffices to explain why Roosevelt and the State Department have suddenly and completely reversed the previous national policy of isolation and so-called neutrality which Congress in its wisdom was commonly supposed to have enacted into law.

The Roosevelt "Quarantine" speech at Chicago and the subsequent government statement branding Japan as an aggressor nation in China were no part of a plan of positive action aside from the administration's willingness to consult with other signatories of the nine-power treaty which theoretically guaranteed Chinese sovereignty.

Sanctions and provisions for economic boycott or similar action are omitted from both the nine-power and Kellogg treaties. The administration's only recourse is to exhortation of the American public. Unless it applies the neutrality act to both China and Japan, in effect, the neutrality has been completely repudiated.

THE violent contrast between the new policy and previous policy is indicated by the fact that an administration-backed embargo on arms to Spain, a duly recognized nation invaded by Italy and Germany, flashed through the House last January by a vote of 406 to 1, and through the Senate by 80 to 0.

Behind recent developments are these facts, although not necessarily in the order of their importance:

1—Roosevelt and Secretary Hull are emotionally on the side of the "Democratic" peace-seeking nations sometimes called the "Haves," as distinguished from the dictator-led, aggressive and warlike "Have-nots." Their fear of dictatorships and the ultimate menace threatened by fascism if it should sweep the rest of the world is genuine and widely shared.

2—Roosevelt's instincts although peaceful—impel him to step out on the world stage in a star role, although these instincts have been somewhat restrained by healthy regard for the popular desire to avoid steps which might lead toward a war.

3—The State Department, which was unalterably opposed to neutrality legislation and successfully labored to prevent it from being made mandatory, clings to the old traditions which have kept it deep in Far Eastern politics for 40 years or more. The "Open Door" policy as to China is no dead letter and there is still a vague but strong belief that America's destiny is more or less wrapped up in Asia.

4—Domestic considerations cannot be ignored. Although this government's leap into the international situation tends to rally support behind Roosevelt and to blur memory of the Black-Han incident, it is more to the point to reveal herewith that Roosevelt has persistently contemplated use of the sour international state of Fascist nations to point an object lesson to Americans in aid of his legislative proposals. NEW YORK.—They are alarming reports from the Germantown, Pa., home of Connie Mack. The famous manager of the Athletics, who will be 75 on Dec. 23, is suffering from a gall bladder condition and has been bothered by a pelvic tone that has been out of place for years.

Mack lost considerable weight trying to get out to the park the last couple of weeks of the season, and has fallen away to 132 pounds.

His friendly face was missing at a world series for the second time in memory. He was taking a club to Japan when he last failed to put in an appearance at the big fall show of 1935.

ANOTHER prominent absentee was Will in Boyd McKechnie, the most sought man in baseball at the moment. McKechnie rushed to his home at Wilkesburg, Pa., when his 5-year-old daughter, Carol, was stricken with pneumonia.

Cleveland and Cincinnati seek McKechnie, who wants a three-year contract at $25,000 per year making the switch from the Boston Bees. He drew $18,000 in his eighth consecutive campaign in the Hub.

Bob Quinn, head of the Bees' business office, dislikes to lose McKechnie, but will not stand in his way. Both the Indians and Reds have Quinn's permission to dicker with the man who is considered by many to be the finest manager in baseball.

THOSE closest to the situation assert that the Brooklyn club can't miss being peddled this winter. It seems that the bank demands more than the squabbling owners can pay.

It is said that the Brooklyn property can be acquired for $1,500,000, half cash, and it would be a splendid buy at that price. Some group had better act before the rival San Francisco Seals, who so dally with Williams that he gave the youngster batting pointers calculated to knock the blocks off Lefty's own pitchers.

O'Doul made great progress with another Edmarzo, too. Dominic, 13 and bespectacled, hit more than 300 in his first season in the coast league. A center-fielder like Joe and Vince, Dominic should out-hit the latter.

It was too bad but just as well for major league pitchers that the oldest brother, Tom, hurt his arm. They say that he was the best ball player of the lot.

Tommy Thompson, son of T. L. Thompson of the Gulf Pipeline company, Country Club road, enrolled at T. W. C., Fort Worth, this year and is fastly gaining recognition in the musical field of activities for which the school is well known.

This summer the young student was in Fort Worth where he appeared with the Swing Trio over Stations WBAP and Dallas, on WFAA. When summer faded and fall came, he, along with other studious chaps, felt the urge to further his learning and really study music, which prior to this time was all talent. With the necessary training, which means so much toward attaining success, Tommy chose T. W. C. and immediately determined to take voice seriously.

Tuesday afternoon a quartet of T. W. C. students, under the arrangement of the vocal instructor of the school, presented the group over KTAT. The entertaining program was climaxed with Thompson singing a solo.

Special praise has been given him through music critics and he is doing beautifully in this work and study. Other similar programs are to be offered by the quartet, and Tommy from time to time, during the school term.

THE OLIVER ROW-CROP '70'
YOU CAN SEE WHAT YOU'RE DOING WITH THIS NEW SPEEDIER TRACTOR
Here's the sensational new Row Crop '70'—the six-cylinder, streamlined tractor everybody's talking about.
Due to its famous Tip Toe wheels there's unusually great clearance under the tractor so that planting and cultivating equipment can be mounted amidships—always in full view of the operator. You can see what you're doing. The work's easier!
Here's great power, too, with light weight—only 3,000 lbs. And, under ordinary soil conditions, you can plow with two 14-inch bases at over 4 miles an hour! That's great speed that gets the work done sooner—and gives the operator more spare time for other things.
There are two '70's'. Come in and see them. One for 70 octane gasoline—the other for kerosene or distillate—each setting new standards of fuel economy. There is, of course, a complete line of mounted listing, busting, planting and cultivating equipment.

IT'S IN THE News!

There are two classes of news in these columns every day:

- (1) Interesting stories about events all over the world; and
- (2) The advertisements. Yes, the advertisements are news, and in many ways the most important of all, because they affect you more directly and personally than any other.

A new and better method of refrigeration is devised — and you learn about it through advertisements. Improvements are added to automobiles which make them safer than ever — again advertisements carry the story. Styles change in clothing — and advertisements rush the news to your doorstep. A manufacturer finds a way to lower the price on his products — he advertises to tell you about the savings.

You'll find that it pays to follow this news every day. Reading the advertisements is the sure way to keep abreast of the world . . . to learn of new comforts and conveniences . . . to get full money's worth for every dollar you spend.
