Guiding Blind on Way to a Brighter Life

Helen Keller Tribute Year, a period devoted to honoring blind teachers of the blind, is to culminate in National Helen Keller Day, designated by President Roosevelt, as March 3.

So the nation honors an outstanding woman whose perseverance and courage stand out as guideposts to the infirm, her achievements proof of handicaps surmounted if will is strong enough.

Sharing in spirit the honors which are to be conferred upon her extraordinary pupil will be the late Mrs. Anne Sullivan Macy, for 48 years constant companion and teacher of Miss Keller.

Helen Keller was not born deaf, dumb and blind. A normal child at birth, the daughter of an editor of North Tuscumbia, Ala., she was stricken with brain fever at the age of 19 months, and through this illness was deprived of her faculties.

Years of constant, patient training followed. Years of failure and disappointment, finally climaxed in success marked by a single spoken sentence: "I am not deaf now."

Well versed in the Braille alphabet of the blind, as well as in a manual alphabet for conversation through touching fingers, Miss Keller rapidly developed her ability to discern and reproduce spoken words.

At the age of 20, she and her tireless, constant companion and teacher matriculated in Radcliffe College, Cambridge, Mass., from which the blind prodigy was graduated with an A. B. degree in 1904, "with special mention for excellence in English Literature."

Her case attracted the attention of international scientists who marveled at the attainments of the Alabama girl and her mentor. Success as a novelist and as a lecturer came swiftly. Throughout the world Helen Keller became a model of victory over personal handicaps.

Chief activity during the major portion of her life has been Miss Keller's devotion to the American Foundation for the Blind, and its $2,000,000 fund. Proudly Miss Keller has rejected patronizing offers of assistance, but readily has welcomed every heartfelt effort to aid the sightless.

Living proof of what teaching and care can accomplish, Miss Keller well deserves all the honors that a nation may pay her. And through this tribute she hopes attention be drawn to others, similarly handicapped, but not endowed with such exceptional mental faculties, that they may be led along a brighter way, to happiness in a darkened world.

Home Loans For September Totaled $1,437,310 in Texas

LITTLE ROCK, (Sp.)—Home loans aggregating $1,437,310 were made during September by the 114 insured savings and loan associations in Texas, according to figures just compiled by the Federal Home Loan Bank of Little Rock, with which the Texas associations are affiliated.

The proceeds of approximately half of the total loans, averaging about $2,000 each, were used in the construction, repairs, and modernization of Texas homes, while 233 loans, aggregating $452,255, were made to assist Texans in the purchase of their dwellings.

New savings funds continued to flow into the insured Texas associations, amounting to $757,464 during September, making the total new funds received during the past three months more than $3,000,000.

The figures for the State of Texas are included in those for Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, and New Mexico, the five states comprising the Ninth Federal Home Loan Bank District served by the Federal Home Loan Bank of Little Rock. In the entire District there were 1773 loans made during September, aggregating $3,487,731, of which $1,320,000 was for new construction and $1,257,000 for the purchase of homes.

Condemned Food Is Destroyed In El Paso

EL PASO, Texas—State Health Department inspectors have destroyed more than 30,000 pounds of food, condemned under health laws, with the last few weeks.

Defects of the destroyed food were not revealed, except that part of the goods consisted of vegetables and fruits that had been returned to wholesale produce dealers as spoiled.

About 20 owners of food-handling establishments have paid fines on food law violations in campaign. Charges against them included failure to have health cards for employees, improper sterilization of dishes and glasses, exposure of food to flies, adulteration of food and misbranding of food.

CHEANEY

We are having entirely too much rain around Cheaney for cotton picking and peanut thrashing. It has been eleven days since the thrasher could do anything and several days of sunshine will be needed before the fields will be in any shape to haul on.

Mrs. R. L. Yardley, Mr. Elmer Smith, Mr. Hatley Dean have their peanuts stacked before the rain came. So they may get to thrash soon. Mr. Jonas Kitchen and family have moved to Ranger to be near the school and other conveniences.

Mrs. R. L. Yardley has been in the city county hospital over two weeks for operation, is getting along fairly well. We are all hoping she will be able to come home soon. B. C. Weeks and son, Dick was at Eastland, Monday on business. J. P. Strickler and son, Earl, B. C. Weeks and R. R. Brownings were at Abilene last week on business. Mr. H. A. Neger and family were at Ranger Saturday, shopping and selling produce.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By Mrs. Gaynor Maddox NEA Service Staff Writer

"I'm sure we can fight rising meat prices if you help us with good recipes for cheaper cuts," writes Mrs. Edward Lloyd of Sacramento, Cal., who asks for some beef heart recipes.

Beef heart can be really delicious. Not only is it inexpensive and nutritious, but it also makes a pleasant variation for the home dinner. Hearts usually weigh from 6 to 8 pounds, depending on the size of the steer. When you buy a heart at the butcher's it is split on one side and cleaned. Before cooking, wash it again very thoroughly and remove the large veins and arteries from the inside. Be sure that all blood is removed from the inside. Beef hearts are usually stuffed and then may be stewed or roasted.

Stewed Beef Heart

(4 to 6 servings)

One heart, 3 tablespoons melted butter, 1-2 tablespoons chopped onion, 1 cup bread crumbs, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons water, 1 2 tablespoons water, 1 tablespoon chopped celery, 1 teaspoon chopped parsley, 2 tablespoons flour.

Prepare the heart as described. Melt the butter and saute chopped onion and diced celery in it. Add crumbs, seasoning and parsley and water. Fill heart and tie it up with stout twine. Place heart in a clean piece of cheesecloth, tie well and put in a sauce pan full of water, cook slowly three hours. When finished there should be about two to three cups of liquid in same pan. Remove heart and thicken liquid with flour. Serve immediately.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Baked apples with cream, hominy cereal, scrambled eggs, raisin toast, coffee, milk. LUNCHEON: French fried chicken, French onion soup, chocolate cup cake, tea. DINNER: Saute beef heart with mushrooms, surprise baked potatoes, brussels sprouts, milled orange salad, steamed marmalade pudding, hard sauce, coffee, milk.

Stuffed Roasted Beef Heart

(4 to 6 servings)

One beef heart, 3 cups of bread, 2 tablespoons melted butter, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon sage and a little thyme.

Dice the bread after all crusts have been removed, add seasoning and butter. Prepare heart as directed above, add dressing and sew up side, put in baking pan add about 1 cup of water and cook in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about three hours. Be sure and baste very frequently while cooking. When done remove heart and make gravy pan by adding 2 tablespoons flour, 2 cups water and 2 cups water and 1-2 teaspoon salt and stirring until thick.

Sauteed Beef Heart and Mushroom

(4 to 6 servings)

Use 2 cups left-over beef heart, 2 cups mushrooms, 4 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt and 2 cups water. Dice left-over heart. Peel and slice mushrooms and saute in butter, add flour and cook few minutes, then add water and stir until thick, add salt and cook a few minutes. Add beef heart to this and serve very hot on toast. With this serve buttered broccoli and grilled tomato.

JILL WENTWORTH, heroine, sensitive, determined.
ALAN JEFFRY, hero, rising newspaper editor.
HARRY WENTWORTH, Jill's father.
JACK WENTWORTH, Jill's brother.
SILVIA METTON, Jill's friend.

CHAPTER V
 PATTY'S blithe voice, which somehow matched her blazing red hair, answered Jill's one morning over the telephone.

"Hop over," she said. "I want you to see my diggings. It's not much to look at."
 "You'll find me two streets south of Miss Lancaster's tearoom," Patty went on. "You remember the place. If you drew a straight line from Miss Lancaster's you'd jump into this old brick place with a store stoop and grillwork. There are window boxes with flowers in them. You can't miss."

Miss Lancaster's tearoom appeared unchanged, as Jill's tan roadster tore past. Inside, she knew, the same busy clatter was going on. But there was a patio in the place at the rear with flagged flooring, a white trellis covered with artificial vines, and waitresses in crisp white and green moving about.

Jill drove two blocks south and turned. The mental line she was drawing dropped over the tops of buildings to settle down to the stone stoop of an old red brick building of the 1880 type. There was an iron grill and flowers bloomed feebly in weatherworn green window boxes.

GUIDED by her mental line, Jill parked and got out. She stepped inside the dark hall. The door to the room on the left was open, and voices came through. Two girls were wandering around the room, examining paintings—placed end to end on long tables against the wall.

Painting did things to Jill. Left her curiously stirred by memory. She walked slowly toward the staircase that spiraled upward.
 A voice with a single in it came through the open door. "Have you one of the Blue Danube?"

"I've never seen the Blue Danube." A cool, deep, aloof voice.
 Jill spun about and went back to the door.
 Directly in front of her on an old marble mantel was a picture of an ancient gateway. And in the dangling from her arm. Standing near the mantel was a young man with broad shoulders and tumbled brown hair. His back was turned, but Jill knew there were gray eyes that grew dark and intent at times, and a not-ordinary nose. Yes, Jill knew it; this was Alan Jeffry.

An elderly lady was looking at a picture through eyeglasses, secured by a chain. She was oblivious of the fact that the two girls had corralled the man who had painted it.

"THE room was topsy-turvy. Look at the place, Jill commented to herself. Things everywhere. Dust over everything. I have my doubts that he could keep a place neat and orderly."

"I'm afraid," Jill thought, leaning for a moment against the door. "That some day, though, I'm going to be devoting my life to that man. If I step through this door, I'm fairly certain I will."

And then Jill stepped through the door, committing herself there-by to all the young man's capricious ways. Some might not have recognized this as love. But Jill recognized it, and the surge and thrill of her discovery sent the warm color to her face and quickened her step as she went to meet destiny.

Alan Jeffry turned to meet the newcomer, relief in his eyes. Jill recognized the look of one about to be rescued.

Then something else showed. Recognition and an eager light that sent a sweet little thrill chasing up and down her spine.
 "You're not a very nice part of a dream I'm having?" Alan asked.

"I hope not," Jill replied. "I feel very substantial. I think this is the Daytime Me. Does my nocturnal self visit you often?"
 The trio, neglected, wandered around the room, giving funny, little excited squeaks: "Oh, Beatrice, look at this." "Lillian, doesn't this remind you..."

The elderly woman was no longer engrossed. She was now peering at Jill through her glasses, with a look that said as plainly as words: "Young woman, I do not trust you. I wouldn't trust any young woman who came to see a young man's pictures without a chaperon. The way you threw yourself right at him before our eyes showed what a bold, brazen young person you are. I hate to leave a nice young man in your clutches."

IT looked as if she never would. "But she's up against it if she thinks she can outwit me," Jill thought. She had forgotten all about her visit to Patty. Tomorrow, she would remember it, perhaps. But tomorrow was another day, which had nothing to do with shining moments within one's grasp.

But at last they were gone. This, Alan told her, was a one-man exhibit. He had inserted a small ad in one of the papers and it had brought him the trio. Maybe there would be others tomorrow.

Jill could have wept, remembering another one-man exhibit against a background of gold velvet hangings and mellow paneling.

She wished fiercely she could go out and send all of her rich friends here. Only, of course, they would not come. Even the finest of pictures couldn't compete with the prestige of a wealthy sponsor.

Anyway, she couldn't have stood it if some rich old woman tied him to a leash and showed him off. Shadows were filling the room. Time was marching on much too rapidly for Jill, who would hoard her moments.

Alan switched on the lights. "If there were only someone here," Alan said, doubtfully, "I might—we might—"

"Were you inviting me to dinner?" Jill asked breathlessly. "Were you?"
 "We could go out for dinner. Or order scrambled eggs."

"I adore them," Jill said.

"THIS place boasted a telephone. She could hear Alan communicating with the outside world. A world composed of millions of persons less the two shut within the walls here. The only two that mattered at all to Jill.

Scrambled eggs turned out to be broiled filet mignon for Jill, and slightly more substantial meat for Alan. Salad, iced tea, and cake topped with whipped cream. There had been a clean cloth, and shining silver.

She was glad the darkness hid details about her car. Its expensiveness contrasted sharply with the shabby surroundings she was leaving.

The glow was still on Jill when she reached home and gave an excuse for arriving home wine-d and dined, so to speak!

Mrs. Wentworth welcomed the signs of romance. "She probably met some attractive man at Elise's," she decided.
 That was nice. When girls didn't marry young, they started

 "They're not hard to get," he said. "When you're on any kind of a horse and get one in the open you can rope him easy."
 After the bobcat is roped, Glover said he kills the animal, takes it to his camp where it is stuffed and mounted on the wall.

CHICAGO—George Halas predicts that in five years all football offenses will be based on a man-in-motion play.

What puzzles the owner and coach of the Chicago Bears is that other coaches—college and professional—have not taken advantage of this maneuver.
 He asserts that the man-in-motion business has enabled the Bears to lead the National League in scoring and yardage gained for five consecutive campaigns, or since he perfected it.
 A wide end run, usually with Beattie Feathers, the left halfback, in motion, is the renowned Bronko Nagurski's pet play. Feathers cracks back on the defensive left end, and Nagurski convolved down field by Jack Manders, the other halfback, after taking a lateral from Bernie Masterson, the quarterback.

Halas contends that the man-in-motion play makes an attack 70 per cent more efficient.
 "Using standard forward passes, without a man in motion, I would say that our chances of completing a pass were one in 10," explains Halas, who played plenty of end at Illinois and with the Great Lakes Naval team during the war before turning to the professional game. "With the man in motion and everything mechanically correct, we complete the same passes seven out of 10 times."

"A RUNNING attack is improved proportionately by the man in motion."
 "The man in motion can do seven different things."
 "He can block out the end as the play goes around."
 "He can take out the halfback down field."
 "He can go down and take a flat pass."
 "He can run and catch a long pass."
 "He can go in motion a little deeper, take a lateral, and then forward pass up a quick kick for the tailback."
 "He is a splendid decoy when the play goes the other way."
 "When three defensive men have to change positions to combat the man in motion, you've got something. The man in motion upsets the defense. The defense must rotate. If it doesn't shift, one man is left wide open. Using the man-in-motion play, the opposition plays the defense we want it to play. It practically is impossible to play a seven-man line against a team using the man-in-motion play."

THIS man-in-motion idea wasn't new when the Bears started to monkey with it seven years ago, but before Halas did something with it the man on the move simply ran out to the side and did nothing.
 The Bears use the antiquated T formation, with the quarterback directly under the center just as he was in the days when Amos Alonzo Stagg was quite a kid at Yale.
 It was Bob Zuppler who cracked that some day a coach will come up with a seven-man line and believe that he has something new.
 That's how far the great majority of football coaches have fallen away from fundamentals.

THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—News leaks from the Maritime Commission indicate that Chairman Joe Kennedy, before he quits at the end of the year, will hand out a parcel of headaches for various ship operators.

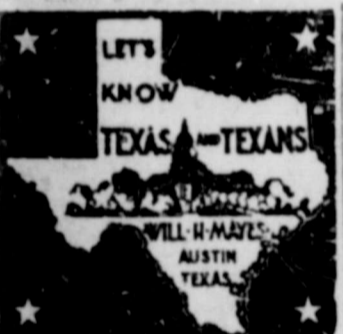

Current subsidies will be whittled or drastically cut in the case of some shipping lines, if anticipated recommendations based on the commission's economic study of the shipping industry are carried out.
 About 185 ocean-going ships now enjoy federal subsidies granted for six months in settlement of canceled ocean mail contracts, but Kennedy is trying to figure out how much of the money is justified from economic and military standpoints. Privately, it's promised that the day is over when ship operators could reach into the public till and see what they could abstract. Some shipping officials and lines which have been supported in luxury are expected to suffer.

Current temporary subsidies will be replaced after Jan. 1 by long-term subsidy contracts subject to possible annual revision.

OFFICIALS here refused to be agitated over the dramatic court-martial of Harold Dahl, American aviator, by the Franco-ites in Spain. Dahl had sailed from Mexico with a Spanish passport under a Spanish name and was shot down while flying for Loyalist forces last July.

Officially the State Department can't do anything when an American serving in a foreign army is said to be threatened with death. Actually, it usually does and an American consular secretary reminded Franco that it wasn't a polite practice to execute prisoners of war.
 Franco agreed. Reason for the well-publicized court-martial and the death sentence promptly canceled by Franco is not known here. Probably Franco welcomed the chance to suggest to Americans that he was a pretty good fellow after all. Everyone ought to be happy, suggests a State Department official, because newspapers had an excuse to keep printing photographs of the very beautiful Mrs. Dahl.

THE Iowa City Power & Light Company's suit to invalidate a PWA loan-grant for a municipal power plant was dropped the other day because the city had decided it didn't want the plant. PWA thinks it can explain the change of mind. After it made a half-million dollar allotment in 1935, the power company, besides blocking the project through court action, announced a rate cut but impounded the resultant savings in accounts for each customer with the announcement that the reduction would be retroactive and effective only if the city decided to have no public plant.
 The money mounted up to $72,000 and the average electricity user found he had $25 or more in his special account. The company kept reminding with each monthly bill and urging customers to agitate for their money. The scheme worked.

In this column answers will be given to inquiries as to Texas history and other matters pertaining to the State and its people. Address inquiries to Will H. Hayes, Austin, Texas.

A. In the first six months of 1937, 7,176 homes were built in Texas cities that required building permits. This gave Texas third place among the states with Houston leading other Texas cities.

Q. How many more are on the Texas scholastic rolls than attend school?

A. About 330,000, according to State Superintendent of Public Instruction Woods, were on the scholastic rolls last year who were not in school. Texas has a compulsory school attendance law, and there were numerous cases of roll-padding to enable districts to secure more state money.

Day and lived in Austin, though operating ranches in this state and Kansas. He had a contract to supply cattle to the Confederate Army, was paid in Confederate money, and this broke him. He recuperated his fortune, built the Driskill hotel and a fine residence in Austin, but endorsed paper for friends and again lost his fortune in the panic of the 1880's.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson

ON last New Year's Day, when the northern hemisphere was wrapped in snow and ice, we were only 91,337,700 miles from the sun, while on the fourth of July we basked in a sun that was at a distance of 94,484,200 miles . . . or 3,146,500 miles farther away than the New Year's Day sun.

Announcing:
The Ruth class of Central Baptist church meet at the church Tuesday for their regular luncheon and business with Mrs. Marvin Martin and Mrs. Arlie Carver, co-hostesses. Members are urged to be present.

The home of Mrs. H. G. West, Tee Pee camp, will extend a warm welcome to new members of the Gleaners Sunday school class of First Baptist church, when the class personnel under the guidance of their teacher, Mrs. Chas. T. Tally Jr., serves as hostesses at 7:30 o'clock. Since Mrs. Tally has been conducting the Sunday morning lessons several members have been added and it is at this time they will be further welcomed and entertained. Every member is particularly asked to be present.

Hodges Oak Park Parent-Teacher association meets tomorrow (Tuesday) at 4 o'clock. Mrs. H. D. Smith, will present her girls sextet and grade school orchestra. Members are urged to be present for discussion of plans for the Halloween carnival.

Needle Craft Club Has Busy Hour:
Mrs. T. L. Dupree entertained the Needle craft club Friday afternoon from 2:30 until 5 o'clock at her home, Cypress street. The Needle hour was spent in various kinds of work. Most of the members are engaged in knitting at the present.

A session brought the election of new officers: Mrs. Terrell Williams, president, Mrs. T. L. Dupree, secretary, and Mrs. J. E. Adkins, reporter. A dainty refreshment plate was served. Mmes. Tom Wilson, John Tibbles, O. M. Lemmond, Jess Weaver, J. R. Adkins, Terrell Williams and hostess, T. L. Dupree.
The November 5th club meeting will be held with Mrs. John Tibbles.

Announcing:
The Patriarchal Family Among Hebrews, Greeks and Romans. Who can find a virtuous woman? for her price is far above rubies. Leader for the program bordering on the above introductory comment will be Mrs. J. A. Johnson, Wednesday afternoon when the New Era club meets in the Colonial room of Gholsen hotel, at 4 o'clock for the lesson, "Pre-Christian Era." Mrs. O. B. Denny, "Christian Era"—Mrs. Vernon

Y. W. A. to Share in Wednesday Night Week of Prayer Lesson:
The Y. W. A. of Central Baptist church under the sponsorship of Mrs. T. J. Anderson, will have part on the week of prayer program to be held at the church at the usual time. Due to this arrangement the regular Tuesday evening lesson will not be held.

Entertainment Climaxed with Theatre Party:

Mrs. L. E. White entertained her class of expression pupils with a gay party at her home, Joseph Apartments Saturday afternoon. Spice to the gala hour was added through clever costumes and appropriate program. Ella Joe Bearden, Donna Mae Champion and Juanita Love gave readings.

The party was climaxed with the group attending the Arcadia theatre. Mrs. White passed refreshments of cookies and punch just before the group left her entertaining suite, which was colorfully decorated with timely emblems symbolic of Halloween.

Present were: Those on program and Glenda Fae Morris, Lindy Bryan, Murie Lee Stiles, Montraella Langley, Jeanette Cawley, Nancy Lee Phillips, Tommie Powell, Alvin Langley, Billy Jean Joseph, and Jewel Christine White and brother, Lynn White.

Each guest was given a favor of pop corn and candy bags.

NOTE BOOK

Miss Ora Mae McGee and sister, Mrs. W. W. Wilson, spent Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. McGee, of Breckenridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Altham, of Weatherford, visited over the week-end with the E. F. Latham's, Gulf camp. The visitors were among those sharing in the gala Halloween and tacky party staged at the Country club Saturday night, hosted by Mrs. T. J. Powell, with the assistance of members of the Ladies Golf Safety club.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Ware, of Ranger spent the week-end with friends who live in Brownwood.

Mrs. John O. Farms of Hobbs, N. M., guest of the Paramount hotel, accompanied by Mrs. C. H. Suits, spent today in Fort Worth.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jameson, whose summer tour of many states total 18,000 miles, arrived in Ranger over the week-end after a delightful visit on the West coast. The Jamesons left Los Angeles, Monday and en route visited Mrs. Gullaborn of Phoenix, Ariz., hence to Odessa where they met with the Wade Swifts and while visiting in Monahans, time was taken for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Harwell. At Midland, the J. C. Smith's were paid a short visit. Home seemed much closer with former Rangerites extending their welcome here and there. Van Horn, was included on their route where Mr. and Mrs. Ed Dixon make their home. The Jameson's plan on remaining here quite a number of days since Mr. Jameson had found due to x-rays there are several of his teeth needing immediate attention.

NEWS DRAMATIZED IN NEW MARCH OF TIME

Development of a speakery in England, the rise of Fiorello H. LaGuardia, Mayor of New York, as a national political figure and the ominous significance of a boom in the scrap metal market coincident with wars in Spain and China and the menace of another world war are the striking news features of the new March of Time now running at the Arcadia Theatre.

That Britain suffers a minor prohibition problem will come as a surprise to most Americans seeing the March of Time presentation, "Dora." The war-time Defence of the Realm Acts still in effect, prohibits the sale of liquor after ten o'clock at night. Result, according to March of Time, is evasion; the development of after-hour speakeries, fake "clubs" and phony liquor dealer corporations that pay dividends to "stockholders" in whiskey and gin.

In La Guardia March of Time has scratched a politician and found a movie actor. Mayor La Guardia enacts for March of Time the story of his four years as Chief Magistrate of the metropolis, from the Tammany-smashing victory of 1934 on through his struggles to balance the budget, wipe out municipal corruption, route the machine politicians, establish social reform, clean up the racketeers and increase the efficiency of every city department.

To show the significance of a rising market for junk, March of Time points out that millions of tons of scrap metal have been shipped from American ports within the past nine months—much of it destined for Japan or European nations frantically building up armaments. It is a situation, says March of Time, which is a part of the world-wide battle for steel. Meanwhile American's quarter of a million junkmen are growing rich, becoming big business men.

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your common cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Creomulsion not only contains the soothing elements common to many cough remedies, such as Syrup of White Pine Compound with Tar, and fluid extract of Licorice Root, but it also has fluid extract of Ipecac for its powerful phlegm loosening effect. Fluid extract of Cascara for its mild laxative effect, and most important of all, Beechwood Creosote, perfectly blended with all of these so that it will reach the source of the trouble from the inside. Creomulsion can be taken frequently and continuously by both adults and children with remarkable results. Thousands of people, who really know their drugs, use Creomulsion in their own families, realizing that this excellent preparation aids nature to soothe the inflamed mucous membrane, to heal the irritated tissues, and to loosen and expel the

Seeing Pianist's Hands in Mirror

Through a mirror that enables all instead of just half of a concert audience to see the pianist's hands on the keyboard, Dr. Thomas C. Poulter, Chicago, has solved a problem long vexing to music lovers. Dr. Poulter is shown above with Florence Kirsch, a concert pianist. The audience on the left sees Miss Kirsch's hands. The audience on the right sees those hands too, but through a mirror.

El Paso Will Be Host to Baptists' General Convention

EL PASO, Texas.—This picturesque border city was speeding preparations today for welcoming 5,000 Baptists expected to crowd Liberty Hall, Municipal Auditorium, during the annual session of the Baptist general convention of Texas, Nov. 8-13.

An elaborate program of entertainment for the delegates from 3,018 churches and additional thousands of visitors was planned, its climax coming at an unprecedented underground convocation, Nov. 14 at Carlsbad Caverns, New Mexico. Baptists of New Mexico will join in the impressive services to be held underground.

Outstanding leaders of the denomination will report on foreign missions—now disturbed by war in the far east—Home Missions, Civic Righteousness, Christian Education, Hospitals and care of orphans. A special report will be made on the summer evangelistic campaigns held throughout the state in which denominational leaders estimated 100,000 members were added to Baptist churches in Texas.

Dr. Wallace Bassett of Dallas, two-fisted, hard-hitting pastor will crack down on gambling and the liquor traffic in his speech on civic righteousness. Texas Baptists during the past year joined anti-gambling forces, leveling their fire especially at horse racing.

One day preceding the general sessions, pastors and laymen will meet in their annual conference to thrash out problems of special concern to them. This meeting annually provides a forum in which ideas are exchanged and plans formulated for future effectiveness.

E. D. Head, Houston pastor, will deliver the convention sermon, keynoting the program of the denomination which includes 650,000 members in Texas. George W. Truett of Dallas, President of the Baptist World Alliance; F. M. McConnell, Editor of The Baptist Standard; R. C. Campbell of Dallas, Executive Secretary; L. R. Scarborough, President of Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth, and other denominational leaders will speak. Dr. J. B. Tidwell, head of the

First Showing of The 1938 Chevrolet Attracts Big Crowd

Tremendous local interest is being shown in new Chevrolet models for 1938 recently on display for the first time in the showroom of the Anderson-Pruett Chevrolet Company.

"As near as we can determine," stated C. B. Pruet, president of Anderson-Pruett Chevrolet company, the people who visited our showrooms were very enthusiastic over the introduction of the new model.

"Public reaction to the new Chevrolet is the finest ever. It is a bigger-looking, better looking low priced car and in my opinion, the most outstanding automobile value we have yet been privileged to offer," concluded Pruet.

The new Chevrolets have many developments and refinements designed to provide new comfort, luxury, economy and operation, performance and safety. It is an extremely attractive car, offering advantages that should appeal to all classes of car buyers.

LONDON TOO LONELY

LONDON.—Because he found London, with its 8,000,000 population, lonelier than his sheep station in Victoria, Stephen Staughton, 29, had a nervous breakdown. This was the story told at the inquest when he fell from a window of a London nursing home and suffered fatal injuries.

Bible Department at Baylor University, Waco, for many years an outstanding leader among Southern Baptists, is president of the convention.

Baptist women of Texas will meet in their annual session Nov. 8-19. They will hear addresses by Mrs. Eugene Salic, Missionary to China; Mrs. George W. Truett, who will tell of her tour of foreign mission fields; and reports on the manifold activities of the Women's Missionary Union during the past year.

FIVE MINUS TWO LEAVES FOUR

Wrong, Well, yes—and no. The arithmetic of your school days taught that "If Mary had five dollars and spent two..." three dollars remained.

But that is mathematics—not shopping! In managing a home... guarding a limited family income... we've simply got to do better than Mary did. We must sharpen our buying wits... ascertain where the dollars of extra value lurk... take five dollars to town and get much more for the money spent.

Fortunately, there are ever-willing guides right at hand—the advertisements in this newspaper. Advertised merchandise is often exceptional value merchandise. It makes dollars S-T-R-E-T-C-H.
