He signed also the resolution to appoint a commission of 45 Texans to plan the state's participation in the New York and San Francisco expositions.

'Sane' Hallow'en Here Is Suggested

Police officials here Friday urged a "safe and sane" observance Saturday night of Hallow'en eve.

"Have your fun," it was advised "but be sure that it doesn't include damage of property, malicious acts or anything that constitutes violation of the law."

Property rights of others must be respected, it was cautioned. At the same time officials pointed out that cooperation of parents and children has been received for several years.

Motorists were urged to drive slow as children might be on the streets.

SENATOR SAYS TAX SESSION WAS SCUTTLED

AUSTIN, Oct. 29.—Sen. Frank H. Rawlings of Fort Worth today proposed a session of the legislature without pay, in reply to a statement by Gov. James V. Allred that the social security tax program was "scuttled."

Rawlings said that Allred, himself, "scuttled" the session and let legislators go home last Tuesday night without raising the money.

Rawlings proposed that Allred call a conference of members of both House and Senate who are "sincerely interested in solving this problem" to work out a bill.

After it is prepared, he proposed an agreement be secured from a majority of both houses to pass it and that the legislature be reconvened again.

"I will serve without pay and I think the other members of the Senate will do likewise," Rawlings said. "Let's have a showdown and see who is sincerely interested in the old folks, the needy blind, dependent children, and teachers' retirement."

Rawlings renewed the statement that a majority of a House-Senate conference committee had agreed on a tax bill. Because of House refusal to withdraw instructions, he said, "the bill died in the House under the leadership of the young lieutenant of Governor Allred."

"During the last hours of the session," Rawlings said, "the Governor sat nonchalantly by on the floor of the House, saw this social security measure scuttled by his own lieutenant, and so far as I am informed, without one word of protest from him."

Swindle Suspected In Sweepstake Sale

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 29.—Police suspected a world wide swindle in the handling of Irish Sweepstakes tickets today after the arrest of two men and seizure of $120,000 in sweepstakes tickets.

Alfred Darcy, 50, and Joseph Kirk, 58, held in custody under a city ordinance, insisted they believed they were selling legitimate tickets.

NOLAN COUNTY JAIL TO LOSE FEDERAL RATE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—The Justice Department today ordered U. S. Marshal J. R. Wright of the northern district of Texas, to remove federal prisoners from the Nolan county jail at Sweetwater, which has been placed on the disapproved list.

The action was taken because of escape of C. W. French, a federal prisoner awaiting trial on the Dyer Act charges and four county inmates, Oct. 17.

The marshal will move five federal prisoners now in the Nolan county jail to other institutions.

Director James Bennett of the Federal Bureau of Prisons, said the marshal's office had notified the sheriff that a federal prisoner, upon being released from the jail a few weeks prior to the escape, had informed him that prisoners had tools in their possession by which they planned a release.

Bennett charged that despite the warning the five prisoners escaped.

Immunizing All Young Children for Diphtheria Urged

AUSTIN.—State Health Officer Geo. W. Cox urges all parents of children between the ages of six months and ten years who have not been immunized against diphtheria, to take them to their family physician and have this done at once.

The first ten months of 1937 saw 1,635 cases of diphtheria reported to the Texas State Department of Health. This is an increase over 1936's figures, and shows the need of immunization of children in this age group.

It was not many years ago that parents dreaded diphtheria because of inability of the medical profession to either prevent or cure the disease. But today when we know both the cause and the cure there is no obstacle but negligence which will prevent the complete elimination of the disease in Texas.

Diphtheria is most dangerous to the very young children, and it is especially important that immunization against it be given early in a child's life. In young children there is practically no reaction to the injection. Immunization has proven to give absolute protection.

"It is in the power of the parents of Texas, cooperating with their physician and the Health Department, to eliminate the disease," Dr. Cox stated. "In about six months after immunization the child should be given a Schick test to determine whether further treatment is necessary. Early immunization against diphtheria is a routine procedure with up-to-date physicians. Cooperate with your family physician and your community and make early immunization a regular practice in Texas."

Fish-Eat-Fish Study Brings Chilean Award

SANTIAGO, Chile.—For his study of a fish which allows itself to be swallowed in order to eat the bigger fish from the inside, Prof. Ernest Gignoux, curator of the National Museum of Natural History in Chile, has been awarded the Order of Merit of the Chilean Academy of Natural Sciences.

Myxine dembeysii is the name of the fish which Prof. Gignoux has been studying in his private aquarium. When it has been swallowed, it hides itself in the organs of the larger fish and then begins to gnaw at them. Before long it has crippled its unwilling host and finishes by devouring it entirely.

Work of Italian Bombers in Spain

Seen from the air, it looks as though a grove of weep trees sprouts from the plain below. Actually each puff records the deadly explosion of a huge air bomb dropped by Italian flyers on loyalist positions in Spain. The picture is one of several released by the Italian Air Service in Rome.

Ohio Voter for 45 Years At Last To Cast His First Legal Ballot Nov. 2

SPRINGFIELD, O.—When the November election rolls around, 69-year-old Mathew Meehan of Springfield, who for 45 years marked an "X" after the names of the candidates he preferred, will walk into a voting booth and cast his first legal ballot.

Years ago Meehan came to this country from County Mayo, Ireland. When he reached 21 he began voting. Not once in the following 44 years was he challenged at the polls.

Two years ago, however, Meehan was told that all of his votes should never have been counted, that every one he cast since his first one—that for Grover Cleveland in 1892—was invalid because he was not a citizen of the United States.

During those years Meehan had believed he was a citizen. His father became naturalized years ago, he told officials of the Clark County Old Age Pension Bureau when they informed him he had to prove his citizenship before he could be granted a pension.

The bureau checked old records and informed Meehan that his father had been naturalized, but not, they pointed out, before Mathew was 21 years old.

This fact changed everything as far as the younger Meehan's citizenship rights were concerned. Had his father become naturalized before the son was 21, the latter would have assumed his father's citizenship. But when the elder Meehan did not become naturalized until his son was past 21, Mathew still remained an Irishman in the eyes of immigration officials.

Meehan resolved that he would become a citizen. He took out naturalization papers and when the two-year naturalization period expired recently, Meehan passed the examination with something to spare and won the right to resume casting his votes at election time.

BRITISH POST IS WIPED OUT BY JAPANESE

SHANGHAI, Oct. 29.—Japanese shells wiped out a British outpost at the edge of the International Settlement tonight and a high foreign official predicted swift action would be taken as the result.

Three British soldiers of the British Ulster Rifles were killed, and three others wounded by the Japanese shells that fell in the settlement and the French concession.

Entrance of the Japanese navy motorboat into the Soochow creek sorely aroused British commanders, who ordered the Japanese to get out of their defense sector. The Japanese complied.

British soldiers said the Japanese had informed British military commanders that they would resume the artillery barrage, which is endangering foreigners on the western boundary of the settlement.

Reverse, Remand Case from Taylor

The 11th Court of Civil Appeals Friday reversed and remanded the case of W. P. Wright against O. D. McCoy, an appeal from the Taylor county court.

Wright was owner of a truck hit in a collision with a truck owned originally in the Taylor court to recover damages. By cross action McCoy alleged cause of action against Wright for damage to his truck. Each alleged negligence.

In the answer of a jury to special issues in the trial court it was found the plaintiff's vehicle was damaged to the extent of $158.59. Defendant's damage was placed at $70.

From the jury's answers the trial court rendered judgment to the effect that neither should recover damages. Then Wright appealed.

O. C. Funderburk, associate justice, stated in an opinion: "It is our belief that this case was not tried and judgment rendered upon a correct theory of law, that the verdict of the jury in the light of undisputed evidence was conflicting in its parts, that the judgment should be reversed and the cause remanded, and it is accordingly so ordered."

Ghost Buffalo Herd Is Declared a Myth

AUSTIN, Texas — Research workers for the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission have discovered a record of a "ghost buffalo herd" that 40 years ago created wide interest among Central Texas sportsmen. Wild buffalo had disappeared from Texas several years earlier because of the depredations of professional hunters. Then, in 1894, a sports magazine reported that "40 or 50" buffalo still roamed the wild area of Val Verde County along the Rio Grande. As the story circulated, the herd grew figuratively larger.

An expedition to search for the "last herd" was formed at San Antonio. Then came word that the herd had crossed the Rio Grande into Mexico. The would-be buffalo hunters became suspicious and finally disbanded.

H. P. Attwater, well-known naturalist of the day, checked up on the legendary herd. He concluded that the buffalo were entirely mythical.

"So far as I know," he wrote in a report in the commission's files, "no sign of them has been seen. It is strange that some of the buffalo have not turned up since that time, or at least been heard from in some way."

It's Carrillo for Governor

Basing his campaign on making the people of California gayer and more carefree, Leo Carrillo, swarthy, grinning character actor of the films, announced he will be a candidate for governor in 1938. One of Carrillo's favorite stories is how his great-grandfather, Carlos Antonio, then provisional governor of California, defended the territory against an invading army of Mexicans. "They fought three days," says Carrillo, then one man was shot in the arm so both sides stopped and they all had a barbecue."

They Have Quail at Every Meal!

Quail to most persons is a rare table delicacy, but to Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Springer of Atlanta, Ga., it is an interesting pet. "T-Bone," as they call the bird, above, eats out of Mrs. Springer's hand and is cited as a rare example of the domestication of the breed. "T-Bone" sleeps under a blanket, lays eggs in her owners' laps and accompanies the Springers on their trailer jaunts through the south to paint gasoline stations.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Chairman Marvin Jones of the House Agriculture committee said today his committee generally agreed that farm benefit payments should be based on tilled acreage, rather than the actual production of commodities.

Farm Equipment Exhibit by NYA Is Sent to Washington

AUSTIN—An exhibit of farm equipment made last summer by youths assigned by the National Youth Administration to a Resident Work and Agricultural Training Project which was operated at several Texas colleges has been sent to Washington for display this week at a conference of NYA directors of all states in the Union.

J. C. Kellam, Texas Youth Director, had the equipment shipped ahead and took with him several rugs which girls working in NYA sewing rooms in Dallas and San Antonio had made from cloth scraps. Among farm equipment made by youths on the Agricultural project were singletrees, halters, pruning knives, driving lines, and lariats. The articles sent to Washington were made under the supervision of M. F. Thurmond, associate professor of agricultural engineering at Texas A. & M. College, at which one unit of the resident training project was operated.

Mr. Kellam is scheduled to report at the Washington conference on the Resident Work and Training Projects conducted in Texas. Last summer nearly 600 Texas youths from rural areas were assigned for six weeks to work at an agricultural college. During their spare time they were given instruction in agricultural methods and practices by regular members of the college staff. He will also report on the recreational leadership training project conducted at Southwest Texas State Teachers College during the summer and on the domestic sewing training project for Negro girls which has been in operation at Prairie View State College since November 1936.

Texas-Mexican Air Line to Start in Near Future

By United Press
 EL PASO, Texas—An air line carrying passengers, mail and express between El Paso and Mexico City, and operated by the Mexican-owned Lineas Aereas Mexicas, S. A., will start service next month.

Tri-weekly service will be maintained, the tentative program calling for south-bound flights on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and north-bound flights on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Goron S. Barry of Mazatlan, vice president and general manager of the company, said six planes would be used at the beginning, and nine would be placed in service later.

The planes will be six-passenger, single-motored Lockheed-Vegas. The company plans to substitute single-motored Lockheeds within six months, Barry said.

The El Paso-Mexico City trip will require eight hours, and stops will be made at Chihuahua City, Parral, Torreon and Leon. Connection will be made at Durango with branch lines. A rate of $5 will be charged—the same amount as that charged for railroad fare—with a 10 per cent increase on round trips.

The company, with headquarters in Mazatlan, has been in operation in Mexico for four years. It now has lines running from Mazatlan to Durango, Toyolita, San Ignacio, and water routes to La Paz, Baja Calif., and Tres Marias Islands. Adolfo Garcia of Mexico City is president of the company.

All pilots employed on the run, Barry said, will be veterans with an average flying time of 3,500 hours. Mexican commercial flying regulations, which are similar and as strict as those in the United States, require that a pilot have had a minimum of 2,000 hours of flying time in order to qualify for transport pilot's license.

Intermediate fields at 60-mile intervals between El Paso and Mexico City are now under construction, Barry said.

Barry, formerly of Los Angeles, was a pilot for the CAT lines which once operated between El Paso and Mexico City. That line was discontinued when the Mexican government ordered that all pilots on Mexican lines be Mexicans. That company at that time did not have sufficient Mexican pilots in its employ.

"It is an easy run, over level country, with weather unusually good, normally," Barry pointed out. "Our line will be the shortest and fastest connection between the United States and Mexico City."

Old Files Reveal a Slave Beating Case

LOCKHART, Texas.—Files in an old criminal case of 1859 in which a prominent Lockhart citizen was indicted for cruelly whipping a slave who was the property of another person have been unearthed in the courthouse attic here.

The discovery was made by T. H. Beckwith of San Antonio and Miss Lucille Hodges of Lockhart, working on an historical record survey undertaken as a Public Works Administration project.

Thomas H. Baker was foreman of the grand jury which investigated the slave-whipping case. The defendant contended that the slave had insulted him.

The charge to the jury by District Judge A. W. Terrell, who later became author of the Terrell Election Law, stated in part: "Insulting language used by a slave to a white person will justify such white person in inflicting reasonable chastisement on the slave and the white person insulted need not wait to consult the master, but may administer chastisement himself; but, if in inflicting punishment under such circumstances the insulted person inflict unreasonable abuse, he would be guilty of the offense charged."

The penalty in such cases, according to the charge, was punishment by a fine of not less than $100 or more than $2,000. However, the verdict returned by the jury was for a fine of $10 and costs.

Building Permits in Texas Show a Slight Increase

AUSTIN.—Building permits in Texas during September increased slightly over the like month of last year, but were moderately below those of the preceding month. The University of Texas Bureau of Business Research stated in its survey of the building industry.

Permits granted during the entire third quarter of the year were slightly below those of the like period last year.

Reports from 39 Texas cities show total permits during September of $4,353,000, an increase of 1.4 per cent over September last year but a decline of 7.6 per cent from August. Aggregate permits for the third quarter were $13,121,000, a decline of 2.6 per cent from the corresponding period last year.

Cities in which permits during both September and the third quarter were above those of the corresponding periods last year were Abilene, Amarillo, Big Spring, Brownsville, Cleburne, Dallas, Del Rio, El Paso, Harlingen, Tyler, Waco, Snyder and Graham.

Texas 'Little TVA' Finished at Pecos

By United Press
 FORT WORTH, Texas.—State headquarters of the Public Works Administration in Fort Worth have announced the completion of the first part of the Texas "little TVA" project on the Pecos river.

Nowhere in the Southwest is there another project like that which centers around the $2,600,000 Red Bluff dam, for it will supply not only irrigation facilities but electricity to farmers and ranchers living in the hither-to-semi-arid country.

Today there is an abundance of water for residents along the meandering Pecos.

With water flowing over the Red Bluff spillway, PWA headquarters has received authority to award contracts on an electrical distribution system, which will include a large generator and about 150 miles of power lines. J. B. Shaw, Houston engineer, has been employed to handle the electrification program.

The new water distribution is expected to increase by hundreds of acres of the development of lands down the Pecos, one section of which already is considered one of the finest spots in the nation for raising of cantaloupes.

J. E. Starley, Pecos lawyer, is manager of the irrigation district.

Big Splash Always Ends in Tiny, Fading Ripple

All stories are longer than they look. We seldom hear the complete story of anything, because every story is like a stone plunged into a lake, sending ripples out across the expanse of time. And before they have died away, we lose sight of them in the distance.

Thus a tiny ripple passes across today's news, all part of a story that made a very big splash 35 years ago.

Richard Croker to a whole generation of Americans was a symbol. No child was too young, no man too old to have heard of Richard Croker, in whose pugnacious person was concentrated for a time all the hatred that an aroused public opinion could pile up against municipal graft and corruption. For 16 years Richard Croker was the unchallenged boss of New York's Tammany Hall. Chauncey M. Depew said of him that "He was a king and New York was his kingdom."

Croker was the last of the colorful Tammany bosses, inheritor of the soiled mantle of Tweed. Driven both from his post at last and even from the city of New York, he died abroad.

And of what he left behind at his death, what remains today? The Tammany organization is badly on the run in New York City, and its grip on the town is nothing like it was in Croker's day. Politically he left behind only a malodorous memory of corruption, machine rule, and demagoguery, tainted with faint overtones of the vice racket.

But Croker left behind a great fortune, the extent of which was never exactly determined. Admitting that "I was working for my own pocket all the time," he did amass a great deal of money.

And what happened to that? Long and bitter legal squabbles distributed much of it among lawyers. And today his widow, Bula E. Croker, is broke, facing eviction from the magnificent palace Croker built in West Palm Beach, Fla.

"The Wikwam," it was called, recalling its Tammany origins, and for years though it was gradually falling to ruin, Mrs. Croker was able to hold on to it. Now Mrs. Croker awaits eviction, her last resources dissipated, she says, in lawyers' fees, taxes, and court cost.

The last little ripple passes almost noiselessly along, and all that Croker did, all that he got, is vanished. It is usual to note, when some cheap little crook is rubbed out, that "crime does not pay." Yet even for Richard Croker and his family, his career can have brought little satisfaction.

Croker died in exile, much hated and despised. Even the property he amassed failed to protect his widow. Of his long and colorful career, nothing, not even a ripple, now remains.

Headline: "War Spirit Fed in Italian Children." They'd have enjoyed a hearty meal more.

Ex-WTCC Head Says Texas Is Not In the Dust Bowl

By United Press

FARWELL—J. D. Hamlin, of Farwell, former president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and executive of a company owning 300,000 acres of land in the so-called "Dust Bowl" area, is at a loss to understand why many persons writing about soil erosion insist placing the emphasis on Texas.

"In only four West Texas counties—and only in parts of those—are there conditions which can be likened to a 'Dust Bowl,'" he said. "For its area, Texas has suffered less from drastic drought and wind erosion damage than any other part of the nation."

Four counties have suffered only on their fringes. They are Dallas, Hartley, Oldham and Deaf Smith. In these, the damage was not total.

"For example, the eastern two-thirds of Deaf Smith County is well irrigated and more Hereford cattle are produced there than in any other part of the United States. Yet it is one of the so-called Dust Bowl counties and is pictured in its very worst light."

"Of our 300,000-acre holdings, 150,000 acres are in Dallam County and Hartley County and I am familiar with conditions there. I do not maintain that we have not been damaged. We have. The five-year drought has had its effects, and had ones—but I do contend that it is a localized situation and that the term 'Dust Bowl' for all of West Texas, including all of the fertile areas that this year will produce their most bountiful yields, and to call it a drought-stricken wasteland, is grossly unjust and unfair."

Hamlin pointed out that Lubbock County anticipates a cotton crop of 100,000 bales this year, and that all of West Texas probably will produce 1,250,000 bales. Moreover, he said, the largest grain sorghum harvest in the section's history is in prospect.

Weather Man Gives Cats Credit For Being Forecasters

By United Press

AMARILLO, Texas—H. T. Gollman, weather man, who has been on the job for 28 years, places a lot of faith in cats, telephone poles, fiddle strings and in the weather.

"A house cat is a fair forecaster at times," Gollman said. "When a cat puts on heavy fur in the fall, you can look for a hard winter. When a cat wants to eat all the time, it's a good sign a cold snap is on the way. But if the cat eats little or refuses to eat in winter months, it's a good sign of continued warm weather."

"You can go pretty far by telephone wires, too. If a telephone line sings, and sings loudly, you can look for a cold spell."

"That is true of other noises. If, for instance, you can hear trains or machinery a long distance, it's a good sign of damp weather."

Pre-Revolutionary Relic Destroyed

Modern improvements are blamed for the flames and smoke that lick the roof and spire of the 202-year-old Dutch Reformed Church at Pompton Plains, N. J. The fire was blamed on a short circuit of electric wiring. Many documents and historic relics were destroyed.

Cattle Shipments In September Are Above Last Year's

AUSTIN, Texas—Livestock shipments from Texas to Fort Worth stockyards and interstate points during September were sharply above those of the corresponding month last year, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research.

Forwardings of all classes of livestock totaled 7,704 cars, compared with 4,247 cars during September last year—an increase of 81 per cent. Cattle shipment, 2,996 cars, compared with 2,529 last year, gained 58 per cent; shipments of calves, 1,830 cars, compared with 857 cars, increased 113 per cent; hog shipments, 438 cars, compared with 354, were up 80 per cent; and sheep forwardings, 1,249 cars, compared with 507 cars, gained 146 per cent.

Shipments of all classes of livestock to the Fort Worth market maintained a wide margin of increase over September last year; and forwardings of cattle, calves, and sheep direct to feeding areas in Kansas, Missouri, Iowa, Illinois, and other corn belt states were several times those of September last year.

Plane's Nose Dive Routs Stalking Lions

By United Press
BULAWAYO, Rhodesia—While flying over the Kayama Pan, in the Victoria Falls district of Southern Rhodesia, Ted Spencer, pilot of an airliner, saw a pride of lions attacking a herd of eland, a type of large antelope.

The eland, about 200 strong, wheeled in a circle with the full-grown animals on the outside and some 80 calves inside the circle. Two lions and lionesses were charging the herd to try to cause a stampede and so capture some calves.

To save the eland, Spencer dived at the lions, and as he swooped over them they leapt at the plane, snarling and roaring. This interruption, however, gave the herd of eland time to escape.

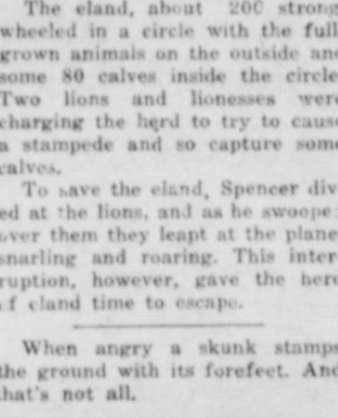

When angry a skunk stamps the ground with its forefeet. And that's not all.

AIMS TO DO WELL

Casey Stengel, paid $15,000 not to pilot the Brooklyn Dodgers last season, probably will not get as much for boosting the Boston Bees next year, but the merry manager aims to do well in his new position. He succeeds Bill McKechnie, who moves to Cincinnati.

AIMS TO DO WELL

IT REALLY HAPPENED IN FOOTBALL

DARKNESS cloaked the players of two southern prep school teams as they battled through the closing minutes of what seemed sure to be a scoreless tie. Finally one team desperately attempted a field goal from an almost impossible distance, and an absurd angle. Whether the ball had split the crossbars or gone wide the officials couldn't tell, as it sailed into the darkness. Only Dixon, safety man of the opposing team, could see whether the goal was good or not. "Goal!" said Dixon. "I'll say so! I never saw a prettier one." And he rushed to congratulate the opponent whose kick had beaten him.

HARRY WENTWORTH, Jill's stepfather.
JACK WENTWORTH, Jill's brother.
SYLVIA SETTON, oil heiress.

Yesterday Ardash hints to Alan that Jill maneuvered the $2000 purchase of his picture. And Alan's bright world toppling.

CHAPTER IX
ARDATH HOLM did not analyze her feelings. She had wanted to hurt Jill for some reason. From the moment she met Jill she had realized they were potential enemies.

Jill, with her beauty enhanced by expensive clothes, represented the type of people Ardash was accustomed to serving. In her heart she hated all of them, though she entered to their whims, as she must.

At Alan's studio, she had read Jill's love for him in her eyes. Ardath, too, had been stirred by his charm.

He had not really seen her during that half hour they were there, Ardath decided. Which was an affront to her vanity. Men were always aware of her the moment she entered a room. But Alan had followed Jill with his eyes, had waited for her approval.

There might have been only the two of them in the room. Although he had talked a great deal with Patty, Ardath knew that she and Patty might as well have stayed at home. There was a magnetic current between Jill and Alan which no one could interrupt. But currents could be broken.

kins' protest. When he saw me, he demanded to see you. He looked like an anarchist, or something. Mrs. Wentworth ended vaguely. "His hair needed combing, and he didn't have a hat."

Jill's heart almost stopped beating. Alan, of course. Very rude! Yes, he could be very rude when he was not pleased. If either Perkins or mother had put on airs—it must be something like that.

He couldn't possibly have learned about the picture, Jill told herself, frantically powdering her nose. Her eyes looked scared in the mirror, and she made a little grimace at her reflection.

Nothing could have leaked. There were only three people in the world who knew about the picture. Dad, Mr. Felton, the dealer, and herself. The picture was now carefully stored, awaiting her orders.

Oh, of course! He had found out who she was. He probably believed she had been masquerading. But all that could be cleared up when she talked with him. He would laugh at her for being foolish. And that would be all.

But despite her sensible reasoning, with which she was bolstering her courage, Jill fell far from courageous, as she ran lightly down the great stairway. There was something of the frightened little girl about her as she reached the bottom step, and saw Alan waiting.

that I'm not yet an applicant for charity. And I detest men who let rich women take care of them."

Jill's face blanched. "I think you are terrible," she whispered. "Jill!" cried Alan. "I don't see how you could have done this to me." He stepped closer.

ALL of Jill's anger was suddenly gone. She was conscious of deep shame. She didn't see how she could have done this to him either. He had wanted only to achieve, and she had made his achievement a sham.

Alan's swift impulse of tenderness was succeeded by another surge of unreasonable anger. He had been a boy for rich Jill Wentworth. Well, from now on, she could find somebody else—a more sissy chap who wouldn't mind having favors heaped upon him.

"Goodby," Alan said, with cruel finality. "Goodby," Jill barely whispered. She watched him walk away. Tall, handsome and unhappy. She wanted to rush after him. But after all, when a girl knew a man was through with her, she couldn't run and throw herself in his arms. Not if her heart died within her. Jill felt hers had. She felt cold and lifeless and weary.

At the top of the stairs, she ran into her mother. "Who was the young man?" Mrs. Wentworth asked. "And what did he want?" Jill answering the first question spoke in a dull voice: "Alan Jeffery."

WASHINGTON

WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON—Postmaster-General James Aloysius Farley will be out of the cabinet "by the end of November," says who?

Well, to be honest about it, this is just one more of those supposedly trustworthy tips from the so-called "inside" Washington correspondents with prophetic tendencies have been sticking their necks out on the basis of such tips for more than three years, every now and then.

Insofar as the last story concerning Jim's future movements is concerned, it just won't come true. This was a very interesting yarn promoted by others than those who had a right to speak for Mr. Farley. The indication was that as soon as a certain reorganization program and a certain issue of securities therein involved were okayed by the Securities and Exchange Commission, Farley would quit the Post Office and go to work for the company involved with a large bonus of stock.

The story left the inference, if one is to judge from the gossip about it, that the SEC might naturally be expected to act favorably. Diligent research reveals two facts: First that the SEC has indicated no intention to act precipitately, if at all. Second, that Jim Farley has shown not the slightest sign to SEC that he believed it should.

Farley would like to quit as postmaster general and jump into business for awhile. He has had no end of offers, but if one

NEW YORK—Perhaps it is the suspicion that a remarkable Cornell crew must suffer a let-down somewhere along the route, but I have a hunch that Yale will check the phenomenal comeback drive of the Big Red in the New Haven Bowl, Oct. 23.

There are other reasons for liking Yale, too. The Bulldog matches Cornell in manpower. Last year's guards are battling to hold their jobs, which gives you an idea of the line.

Pittsburgh took a lot out of Fordham, no doubt, yet Texas Christian will find the Ram line too firm in New York. Personable Harry Stuhldreher has made considerable headway at Wisconsin, but Pitt will be Pitt in Pittsburgh.

Temple's superior backs gave the Owls a slight margin over Carnegie Tech in Philadelphia. Marion Kemmann in the backfield and the biggest and best ends in the south give Georgia Tech the jump on Auburn in Atlanta.

Friend of Hostess Pours
At teas of this type the hostess invites one of her closest friends to "pour." Wearing a tea gown and hat, she will sit at one end of a large table with tea service directly in front of her, and the cups, saucers, spoons, and napkins in one side. The hostess, dressed in a long, semi-formal gown, stands near the door where it is convenient for her to greet guests and introduce them to others.

Took Deadly Elixir But Is Unafraid

The 37 deaths that have already been attributed to a toxic preparation of elixir of sulfanilamide fail to dim the cheerfulness of Evelyn Shargrough, Mount Olive, Miss., nurse to whom a dose of the poison was administered in the belief it was a powerful agent against infection. She is helping to care for six others who took the drug.

Miss Spears is a graduate of Hardin-Simmons. Her contribution to the Junior day program will be in the person of Jennie Lou Bartrug, a pupil and one who is doing beautiful work. Another representative of the Spears class is Ellen Ayres Rice of Gordon. Miss Bartrug will give her selection "Hungry" by Koelling during the luncheon to be held at the high school cafeteria. This is her initial appearance on the Junior club program. Another musician from Ranger, violinist, is Miss Evelyn Long.

"Texas' Forgotten Golfer" Accidentally Steals Golf Attention at Cisco Club

As Craig E. Taylor, sports writer of the Golfer's Delight of Louisville, once said Joe Ezar stole the show. While paying a visit to the Cisco golf course this week and swinging a few, Joe did just that once again, and drew complete attention of those out to enjoy a typical October afternoon of golf.

The Clown Prince of Golf, hailed as the world's greatest trick shot player, and pupil of Joe Kirkwood, is an entertainer for any onlooker. He imbeds one ball, and then up another, in front of it, swinging at both, and sends one true on its course down the fairway, while popping the other several feet straight up in position to be caught. He also reverses a driver and drives the ball with the back of the club. The artist of Texas, born at Waco, has won fame in England, Australia, and other places so fast and furiously Texas has lost sight of the adventures of the thrills afforded through his magic repertoire.

Ezar once told George Trevor he would have to admit he was the best but goofiest Syrian player he had ever seen. Yes, Bing Crosby and others known to the California winter tournaments wholly agree. Ezar was a visitor in Ranger from Tuesday until last night, when he made a return visit to Fort Worth, where he is acting as pro for Benny Hogan. Since coming to Texas from England only six months ago, he has also given many instructions to Mrs. Frank Goldthwaite of Fort Worth, who Sunday is matched with Bob Byrnes, also of Cowtown, for an exhibition at Abilene Country club.

Coffee Hour at Traders Saturday
What could possibly be nicer and more uptown in every way than to have a delicious coffee cup served during your grocery shopping tour? With coffee the favored beverage of the Americans, both lead and hot, the arrangement is ideal.

Beginning at 9:30, or shortly before, Mrs. J. D. Weaver of Ranger will be present at Traders to serve every person coming into the store a cup of coffee. Since names are always important, and this, to be certain, is no exception, the name is Admiration, to be found on the shelves of all Ranger grocers.

The regular meeting was to have been held October 20, but it was postponed because of the Homecoming event. A good time was enjoyed by all.
The Natural Science club met October 27, at seven o'clock. The members present enjoyed seeing slides portraying different stages of skull development, prehistoric man, primitive reptiles of land sea, ancient cave drawings, and primitive methods of travel.

Flowers Reported Stolen Off Graves In Cemetery Here

Reports have been received by this paper that people have been stealing flowers from graves in Evergreen cemetery, and one more or less indignant citizen referred to the practice as "the meanest thing I have heard of."

The latest report was that flowers, which were placed on the grave of Eddie Stants Thursday afternoon, had been stolen between the time of the funeral and Friday morning. The flowers were not taken from the containers, it was stated, but the stems were cut off and several inches of the stems were left at the grave.

This is not the first time flowers have been reported stolen from graves after funeral services have been completed, one report having been received that some time ago a woman was seen taking flowers off one of the graves.
The reports of flowerstealing have been made to the paper with the request that something be written about it, in the hopes that those who have been guilty of the practice may be persuaded to discontinue.

Sunday morning he will meet with the young peoples' department of the Sunday school and direct the music of the opening exercises. He will also conduct the music for the Senior B. Y. P. U., Sunday night.

Actor Gives 'Don'ts' For Young Doctors

LONDON—A long list of "do's" and "don'ts" to guide them to success and popularity among patients have been offered students of the Westminster Hospital Medical School by Sir Seymour Hicks, famous actor-manager, speaking as a "patient of 65 years' standing."

"I have enjoyed a great many very pleasant illnesses in my time," he said. "In fact, at times, I have almost been a professional patient. That is my only excuse for having the temerity to come here and give you a few scraps of advice to remember when you leave the hospital and embark on general practice."

Here are Sir Seymour's Do's and Don'ts for young doctors:

- Don't keep your patients waiting.
- Don't let your wife talk about medicine and surgery in private life.
- Don't give us small talk in the consulting-room.
- Don't try and impress on us that you're attending Lord and Lady Lipstick.
- Don't allow scandal to be talked in your presence.
- Don't back horses.

Blindness Ends After 20 Years

DENVER.—A grandmother's determination to see her grandchildren, three of whom were born since she became blind 20 years ago, led to a delicate eye operation which restored the woman's sight.

It was in 1917 that Mrs. Mary V. Dunklee, wife of District Judge Geo. F. Dunklee of Denver, lost her sight. It was believed then that the cause of her blindness lay in some incurable ailment.

So for 20 years, Mrs. Dunklee lived in a world of darkness. Recently she became convinced in her own mind that an operation would restore her sight. A Denver doctor was equally convinced. Friends warned her of the hazards of such an operation at her advanced age. She believed it worth the risk.

"Do you realize," she would say, "that I have three grandchildren whom I have never seen? I don't think any risk too great that might permit me to see them."

Following the operation she saw them all, also a fourth grandchild, now a grown man, whom she last beheld as an infant. "It's lovely," she said.

The faces of her grandchildren, the theatre, books, parks, trees, flowers, and the thousands of physical changes that take place in two decades in a fast moving world—all were as new to her as though they had just been created.

She described a talking motion picture as one of the most startling experiences of her life. "Seeing people on the stage," she said, "somehow accentuated how unreal it was to be seeing at all. I've never seen a sound movie, you know, and that's the next thing on the program."

The operation was performed only on Mrs. Dunklee's left eye. Vision is not perfect, but with glasses she can see well. An operation on the right eye may be performed soon.

Marines to Recruit Additional Men

DALLAS.—Several hundred men will be accepted for service in the United States Marine Corps during the next few months, it was announced here today by the officer in charge of recruiting activities in Dallas.

Many young men, who have expected to complete their high school education and continue their studies at a college or university, are forced for economic reasons to change their plans, curtail their schooling and seek employment prematurely.

All marines are encouraged and assisted to continue their education through the medium of the Marine Corps Institute, which provides free courses in automotive engineering, drafting, electricity, diesel engines, steamfitting, radio and other subjects.

Many ex-marines are today filling responsible positions of trust
