Sydney Leopold McLaglen, brother of movie star Victor McLaglen, and "anti-Semitic secret agent," shouted: "It's a frameup, and I'll prove it presently, as he was photographed above in the Los Angeles county jail. He was held for investigation of accusation he demanded $20,000 from Philip Chancellor, millionaire Hollywood sportsman and explorer, whom he planned to help write a book.

SINKING OF BRITISH SHIP TO BE PROBED

LONDON, Nov. 1.—The British Cruiser Hood was ordered to proceed at full speed to Barcelona from Majorca today to investigate the sinking of the British Steamer Jean Weems.

A "pirate" airplane bombed and sank the Jean Weems Saturday. Newspaper correspondents reported the Spanish Loyalist Government asserted the "pirate" plane bore markings to show that it was piloted by Bruno Mussolini, son of the Italian Premier.

The Hood's officers were ordered to fix responsibility for the attack.

Young Mussolini left Rome about a month ago to join the Spanish Nationalist air forces at Majorca and has reportedly engaged in several bombing raids.

The crew of 26 rode for hours before reaching a fishing village.

He Didn't Get a Scent for This

Its head tightly wedged in a glass bottle, this striped skunk wandered disconsolately through the streets of Derry, a New Hampshire village, until Lawyer-Woodman George Grinnell bravely stopped the animal, pulled the bottle off, as pictured above. The grateful skunk trotted back into the woods, leaving no appreciable memento of his visit.

WEATHERFORD MAN CHARGED IN SLAYING

WEATHERFORD, Nov. 1.—R. C. Bell, 40, of Fort Worth, was charged today with the slaying near Springtown, Sunday, of Ellis Holbrook, 26, after a dispute over a cow pasture.

Frank Byers, 30, was in a Fort Worth hospital with two bullet wounds in the abdomen. Holbrook's brother, 24, was beaten over the head in the melee, in which Clay Shawn admitted taking part.

All except Bell were resident farmers in the Springtown area and Bell owned a farm nearby. The land in dispute was leased by Shawn until recently, when Byers bought it.

Bell also was charged with assault to murder, as was Shawn.

HICKOK TEST FLOWS HOURLY AT 4025 FEET

Production from a new horizon in northwestern Eastland county was assured Monday by the Hickok Producing and Development company No. 1 Van Parmer, about 15 miles north of Cisco, which topped Ellenberger lime at 4,025 feet.

Representatives of the company stated that the well came in on Sunday morning with successive hourly flows.

Operators Monday were beginning to shut in the well and set two-inch tubing in its completion. Storage was being erected.

Apparently the biggest well for the county in months, estimates on its worth ran from 200 barrels up, but will not be known officially until testing.

Only a slight portion of the Ellenberger, possibly 12 inches, was penetrated by the test, it was stated.

The well was flowing by heads from six-inch pipe set at 3,956 feet. From that depth to the producing zone was open hole.

It was understood the company staked Sunday a location for another well in the vicinity. Location for the new well, it was reported, is on the J. E. Donovan land two miles southeast of the Van Parmer, in the center of the 40 acres of the northeast one-fourth of the northwest one-fourth of section 489, S. P. R. R. company survey, abstract 460.

Location of the Van Parmer is in the center of the north one-half of the west one-half of southeast one-fourth, section 477, S. P. R. R. company survey.

The Grover Cleveland, recently completed as a gas well by Hickok, is one-half mile northwest of the Parmer.

Peanut Threshing Completed Early

Threshing of peanuts in the Flatwood community has been completed earlier this year than in several seasons, Oscar Lyeria stated Monday.

Usual time for completion of threshing of the crop is in the middle of December, he stated. He estimated average peanut yield in the community was 20 bushels an acre, and for peanut hay, 10 to 12 bushels.

Early threshing this year was given as because of summer rains which matured the crop early.

Stephenville Plans To End Soliciting Without Approval

STEPHENVILLE, Nov. 1.—At a meeting held in the Chamber of Commerce assembly room, a large number of Stephenville business men agreed not to make donations to solicitors for any cause unless those solicitors have a written letter of approval signed by the secretary of the local Retail Merchants' Association.

It is understood that the secretary of the RMA will be governed in such matters by a secret committee, to be appointed by the Chamber of Commerce.

Action was taken when it became apparent that too many solicitors were out on comparatively unimportant matters, extracting a heavy toll from local merchants and professional people, and obstructing needed donations to more worthy causes.

FSA Has a Hard Task Before It

DALLAS.—After arranging a state-wide series of conferences between his organization and the Farm Security Administration, H. H. Williamson, state director of the extension service, said that FSA has the most difficult task of any farm agency.

"The low-income farmers with whom FSA is dealing have bankrupted more Texas bankers and merchants than any other group," Williamson said. "The extension service realized the need for reaching this group, but had nothing to reach them with. We can give them advice and guidance, but they need first of all financial assistance."

The conferences which Williamson came here to arrange will bring farm security and extension service workers of Texas together at twelve district meetings, each meeting to cover ten or fifteen counties.

"There are nine state or federal or federal agencies serving Texas farmers," Williamson said. "We hope that the FSA and extension service will be able to set a pattern of teamwork between these agencies."

C. M. Evans, regional director of the Farm Security Administration, said that FSA will finance, among low-income farmers, "the sort of program which extension service has so successfully introduced among other farm groups."

Schedule of the meetings, which will be open to the public, and explanation will be made of the manner in which farm tenants may obtain FSA aid, including loans for purchase of farms.

Pastor of Church At Stephenville Denounces 'Racket'

STEPHENVILLE, Nov. 1.—Rev. J. Clinton Bradshaw, pastor of the First Christian church of Stephenville, in a letter to the Stephenville Empire-Tribune, deprecates the song book advertising "racket" which is being practiced over this section of the country. Rev. Bradshaw and the First Christian church were victims of what he termed a racket, as were many of the Stephenville business people.

Rev. Bradshaw, in his letter, said:

"It was to my deep sorrow to learn this past week that an impostor had contacted most of the business men of Stephenville urging them to buy an advertisement in a hymn book for the First Christian church. I knew nothing of such a scheme nor did any of the members of this church. We regret very much that such a thing had to happen to our fine friends in this city.

"I should like to warn the business men of Stephenville that this is a 'racket' which is being carried on all over the country. It is very difficult to seize the person or persons engaged in such business because of the manner in which they work. The one who was in Stephenville last week may be in Oklahoma this week.

"May I speak on behalf of all the churches; do not buy anything from or donate to anybody that you do not know, or who is not accompanied by someone that you know. By so doing you protect yourself and you help protect the church or other organizations of the city."

Campaign Promises and 'Coon Hounds

The most stimulating little story of the fall has to do with the politician down in Kentucky who got into a jam with the authorities for promising too much to the voters.

This man was running for his party's nomination for sheriff. As the backbone of his campaign platform, he vowed that, if elected, he would not collect the dog tax on 'coon hounds—which, considering the widespread ownership of 'coon dogs in his bailiwick, was calculated to appeal to everybody.

But a circuit judge stepped in and ruled that this was an attempt to bribe the electorate. For that reason, the judge ruled the candidate off the ballot and brought his campaign to an inglorious conclusion.

To the baffled candidate, to say nothing of the 'coon dog owners of Kentucky, one must extend sympathy. But it is impossible to avoid a little dreamy speculation about the revolution that would be worked in American politics if this circuit judge's ruling should be applied to all candidates for office, high and low.

Promising everybody everything is the oldest standby of our campaigns. Everyone does it. The Kentuckian, limiting himself to one direct appeal to the 'coon dog vote, seems to have been pretty moderate. If a candidate can't offer special privileges to different groups of voters, how is any American ever to run for anything?

Take the congressman, for example. He has to promise things: a new postoffice, or an appropriation for dredging, straightening and beautifying Mud creek, or an extra share of the relief allowance for his district. Such promises are his stock in trade. How could he live without them?

Or—to ascend to more rarefied air—consider the presidential candidate. Boiled down, his platform usually amounts to just about this: elect me and I will see that you are prosperous and happy, that the wolf stays far from your door, that foreign peace and domestic order reign, that your taxes will be reduced and your businesses flourish. My opponent is too unworthy and untrustworthy to give you these things, but I—I will be the fountainhead of all good things.

Outlaw campaign promises, and you would immobilize a good percentage of all our presidential candidates—past present and to come. The situation is dreadful to contemplate.

But we might, just possibly, live through it. We might be able to struggle through to an order of things in which candidates offered themselves to the electorate on the basis of principles, not promises; in which we elected men not because of what they were going to guide our efforts to help ourselves.

The transition period would be bewildering, but in the end we ought to have a much saner and healthier political life.

WHICH WOULD BE MORE EMBARRASSING?

WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—The extent of the federal administration's activity in the New York mayoral campaign is in inverse ratio to its very active interest in the result.

Postmaster General Jim Farley's recent and rather perfunctory acceptance of honorary chairmanship of a Manhattan young Democrats campaign committee represented the most any federal official here is known to have done on behalf of Jeremiah Mahoney, the Democratic candidate running against Mayor F. H. LaGuardia.

The original attitude high up in the administration, after the city's primaries, was that LaGuardia seemed sure to be elected, that this was satisfactory at the White House and that a hands-off attitude was best from various standpoints.

Recent advices from New York indicate that the election is more of a toss-up than was supposed and Farley is inclined to think Mahoney will win. New York is traditionally Democratic and LaGuardia was a minority winner over two Democratic opponents in the last election.

LaGuardia is being supported by such extreme opposites as Republican National Committeeman Charles D. Hilles, who in past years did more than any other man to keep the G. O. P. safe for Wall Street, and Earl Browder, chief of the American Communist party. His support includes our progressive, labor, good government and independent political groups. There's good reason to believe Roosevelt would prefer LaGuardia victory.

On the other hand, Mahoney was the "New Deal" candidate who defeated anti-New Deal Senator Royal S. Copeland and Tammany leadership which supported him. Mahoney was and is supported by the Democratic leaders in New York's five boroughs who are friendly with the administration. Roosevelt, whose relations with LaGuardia have been friendly, will be sitting pretty in New York regardless of what happens.

A JAPANESE correspondent who was an American correspondent trying to get against one of Washington's better club bars, arguing in cotton than any other country in the world," said the former. "I'm glad and she also buys more strait, set iron for shrapnel," replied her cot companion. "I hope we don't get any of it back."

"Yes," said the Japanese, who had sometimes gets mixed in his English. "I hope so, too, not."

Other club members are staying and trying to figure it out. (Copyright, 1937, NEA Service, Inc.)

Among these are: No old maids or bachelors; never has asked a WPA grant; has not claimed to be important as a geographical center; has a bridge at both ends of main street; is the home of the only wind-propelled grist mill; has no ordinances regulating chickens, dogs, children or goats, and gets its water supply only from the clouds.

The latter part of this or the first of next week. Commissioners' court will canvass the vote. Exact results were not available.

Candy Makers Must Give Up Portraits

By United Press
LONDON—Portraits of the king and queen or their two children must cease to appear on chocolate boxes or any other articles offered for sale, while the branding of goods as "King George VI" or "Queen Elizabeth" must be stopped.

Until the Coronation, it was necessary to obtain a formal grant of royal permission for such uses. During the period of Coronation preparations and celebrations, however, makers of chocolate and other boxes and cartons were allowed to decorate their goods in this way without official assent.

Although the former restriction was contributed by individuals and other organizations, the Medical and nursing costs amounted to $21,380, while burial expenses assumed by the relief agency totaled $14,720. Rescue, transportation, mass shelter, food, clothing and maintenance were other major items of cost listed by the Red Cross.

Of more than 100 persons injured, the Red Cross cared for 77 cases. Follow-up work has included some plastic surgery and provision of an artificial leg for the only victim permanently crippled by the explosion. In addition, Red Cross nurses have made 451 home visits.

FIVE MINUS TWO LEAVES FOUR

Wrong, Well, yes—and no. The arithmetic of your school days taught that "If Mary had five dollars and spent two . . ." three dollars remained.

But that is mathematics—not shopping! In managing a home . . . guarding a limited family income . . . we've simply got to do better than Mary did. We must sharpen our buying wits . . . ascertain where the dollars of extra value lurk . . . take five dollars to town and get much more for the money spent.

Fortunately, there are ever-willing guides right at hand—the advertisements in this newspaper. Advertised merchandise is often exceptional value merchandise. It makes dollars S-T-R-E-T-C-H.
