John and A. F. of L. fought for a majority in the election in Akron and Canton, Ohio, in both cities to replace incumbent.

America Is No Place for Divided Loyalty

The Nazi government in Berlin seems bent on making life as tough as possible for people of German descent who no longer live in Germany.

A recent blast from Gen. Hremann Goering's pet newspaper announces that German-blood citizens of other countries must now become agents of the Nazi social and economic program. They must abandon "unGerman" points of view, accept the Nazi ideology and be prepared to undergo all sacrifices and accept full responsibility in the present struggle of the German nation.

This, of course, is nothing less than a demand that all Germans living in countries like the United States must automatically hyphenate themselves. They must keep tongue in cheek when they take citizenship oaths abroad. They must dilute their new citizenship, and be prepared constantly to sell out the land of their adoption on orders from Berlin.

That any appreciable percentage of Germans in America will pay any attention to this screed in extremely doubtful. The tragic days of the World War showed that American citizens of German birth or descent were as loyal as any. Then, as now, the government in Berlin made things pretty difficult for them by demanding that they go down the line for the kaiser on all occasions; but only a scattered handful paid any attention.

But the point is that the Nazi government is committing the same grave error that the kaiser's government committed.

A plea of this kind harms the government that issues it. It compels other governments to be distrustful. In the amount of ill-will it raises it must inevitably react against its sponsors.

Furthermore, it makes things bad for Americans of German descent. America is a democracy—the very antithesis of everything National Socialism stands for. Any American who sets out to become an agent of the Nazi program, as General Goering urges, automatically ceases to be a good American citizen. That is so obvious that General Goering's plea cannot fail to cast a shadow of suspicion on German-Americans generally—however little may deserve it as individuals.

There is one thing more to be said.

All of us, if we trace our ancestry back very far, are Americans of foreign descent. If the descent is recent, we are bound to have a sentimental attachment for the old country. That is perfectly natural, and the most ardent patriot cannot object to it.

But any American who goes beyond that sentimental attachment and tries actively to transplant to this country the ideology of his fatherland—especially when that ideology is a direct denial of America's most cherished ideals—is forfeiting his citizenship. He has no business here. He will sooner or later draw down on himself the reprisals of the American people.

And any German-American who is tempted by General Goering's eloquence might bear that fact in mind.

THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

WITH RODNEY DUTCHER
BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—There is a curious situation within the Republican party, of which the disagreements between ex-President Herbert Hoover and ex-candidate Alfred M. Landon present a conspicuous phase.

It would be neither so curious nor so complicated except for the fact that Mr. Hoover is a far more potent force in the party machinery than Mr. Landon. Recognition of this fact probably will make the meaning of recent and forthcoming events in the G. O. P. plain to the outside observer.

With the Republican National Committee due to meet at Chicago on November 5, Landon timed his radio attack on Roosevelt for little more than two weeks earlier as a means of reasserting himself as the party leader.

He felt that Hoover sought to dominate the party. There is excellent reason to believe that Landon also suspects Hoover, despite all denials, of yearning for Republican nomination in 1940.

Theoretically, a party's last presidential candidate is regarded as its titular leader. But the hard, cold fact is that Hoover can control or influence a large bloc, perhaps even a majority, of the national committee. There is much doubt whether Landon could control the vote of more than eight or 10 members.

Through long years as a cabinet member and for four years as undisputed boss of the party and its patronage, Hoover dug himself in.

The result is that the proposed national mid-term convention of

THE REASON HEADACHES ARE RELIEVED SO FAST

THE REASON BAYER ASPIRIN WORKS SO FAST - Drop a Bayer Aspirin tablet into a tumbler of water. By the time it hits the bottom of the glass it is disintegrating. This speed of disintegration enables genuine BAYER Aspirin tablets to start "taking hold" of headaches and similar pain a few minutes after taking.

All people who suffer occasionally from headaches ought to know this way to quick relief.

At the first sign of such pain, take two Bayer Aspirin tablets with a half glass of water. Sometimes if the pain is more severe, another dose is necessary later, according to directions.

If headaches keep coming back we advise you to see your own physician. He will look for the cause in order to correct it.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By Mrs. Gaynor Maddox
NEA Service Staff Writer

The welfare of the average American family is threatened. Suddenly, at the approach of winter, we find ourselves facing almost prohibitive costs for the meat required as a necessary part of our daily food allowance. If we can't lower meat prices to former levels, what shall we do about it?

Rising food costs without a corresponding rise in income have produced an increase in the cost of living about 15 per cent. Should women rise up and attack the politicians? Should they boycott butcher shops and hold out until prices drop again to where they were?

Boycott Has Disadvantages

A boycott is a two-edged weapon and the inexperienced might easily cut themselves. Whenever women have refused to buy groceries or meats in protests against high prices, prices have eventually dropped for a time. But it is not as simple as it looks. The local butcher may have to cut his prices to dispose of stocks on hand, but the large packers may just sit tight and lock their refrigerator doors. It's the little fellow who takes the rap, not the big one. And if the housewives' boycott lasts very long, the family suffers from lack of essential and expected items in the diet.

The question now is, can we maintain our American standard of living in the face of the high cost of living? Too much of our "standard of living" is composed of waste and self-indulgence. Americans love a good prime roast of beef. We regard porters' house and sirloin steak as a national birth-right. Both loin lamb chops and a chop seem to be the inherent privilege of any good citizen and a leg of lamb for Sunday dinner is little more to us than a flavorless weekly habit.

But all these choice cuts put together do not use up the entire carcass of the beef or lamb which was sold to the wholesaler on the hoof and by the total weight. Mark that point—the animal from which your choice cuts are cut was sold by total weight, not by the weight of sirloin steaks and loin chops. Someone has to feed and pay for the rest of the meat which the spoiled American steak turns up its nose at. Do you know who feeds and pays for the meat you do not eat? You do.

How can you change your food habits? Your husband doesn't want any cheap cuts and he won't eat liver or any other of "those things." That's what he thinks in the series of twelve articles on slicing The High Cost of Food. I shall try to convince you with selected recipes and specially worked out menus, that unfamiliar and low-priced cuts can be introduced to your family with good results. Both loin lamb chops and a chop seem to be the inherent privilege of any good

America Is No Place for Divided Loyalty

The Nazi government in Berlin seems bent on making life as tough as possible for people of German descent who no longer live in Germany.

A recent blast from Gen. Hremann Goering's pet newspaper announces that German-blood citizens of other countries must now become agents of the Nazi social and economic program.

This, of course, is nothing less than a demand that all Germans living in countries like the United States must automatically hyphenate themselves.

That any appreciable percentage of Germans in America will pay any attention to this screed in extremely doubtful. The tragic days of the World War showed that American citizens of German birth or descent were as loyal as any.

But the point is that the Nazi government is committing the same grave error that the kaiser's government committed.

A plea of this kind harms the government that issues it. It compels other governments to be distrustful.

Furthermore, it makes things bad for Americans of German descent. America is a democracy—the very antithesis of everything National Socialism stands for.

There is one thing more to be said.

All of us, if we trace our ancestry back very far, are Americans of foreign descent.

But any American who goes beyond that sentimental attachment and tries actively to transplant to this country the ideology of his fatherland—especially when that ideology is a direct denial of America's most cherished ideals—is forfeiting his citizenship.

And any German-American who is tempted by General Goering's eloquence might bear that fact in mind.

IT is too bad that Old Oscar Pepper Vitt can't take the Bears to Cleveland with him, but you may rest assured the Indians' new chief will do quite all right with the team.

SELECTING Vitt as Steve O'Neill's successor perhaps is the move Alva Bradley has made in the 10 years that he has been the Cleveland club.

BILL McKECHNIE, Rogers Hornsby, Tony Lazzeri, Don Rabbitt, Marvyn Miller, Larry Gilbert, Frank O'Doul, and Alvin Dark were suggested by those attempting to guess the identity of the new Cleveland guide.

VITT has never set eyes on Bob Feller, but naturally he is pleased at having the services of this brightest of pitching prospects.

with favor of Milo Montagne. It was almost too much to hope for. Mrs. Wentworth wanted the party at one of the leading hotels... any home affair lacked the brilliance that a swank downtown setting could give it.

But, to her amazement, her husband vetoed the suggestion. "No use in throwing money away in large chunks, when we have every facility for entertaining at home," he said.

They were at the dinner table. Jill, looking at her father, had the impression again that he looked weary and worn. She felt troubled. The next moment her stepfather's eyes met hers, and he smiled. "I'll have her heart on having her party."

"I haven't though, dad," Jill broke in quickly. "I'd hate having it away from home." She added with a flash of her old, mischievous smile: "It would look as though you and mother were introducing me all over again. Anyway, we can take care of everyone comfortably at home."

Mrs. Wentworth had finally given in. A week later the invitations were being addressed.

"I hope you've thought of everybody," Mrs. Wentworth said to Jill. "I've racked my brain trying to remember all the parents of your best friends, and other special old friends."

"Parents of all the most eligible men," Jill couldn't resist saying. "I suppose you included Mr. Montagne."

She had encountered her stepmother at the top of the beautiful spiraling stair and now would have hurried past, but Mrs. Wentworth spoke nervously: "Could you come into my room for a moment, I want to talk with you."

Jill scarcely ever came to this room. It's magnificence depressed her. Designed by an interior decorator of faultless taste, it was yet definitely stamped by the personality of its owner.

"Is anything wrong, mother?" Jill asked.

"Jill, I did ask Mr. Montagne, of course. You know we wouldn't have a big party without asking him. But he refused."

"I don't blame him," Jill replied. "It would probably bore him to death."

"You are taking this very lightly, Jill. I tell you it is strange. He spoke very abruptly. There was something..."

"What could there be?" Jill asked, perplexed. "Mother, I'm sure you're wrong."

"I'm just sure I'm right," Mrs. Wentworth said. "She's so careless. She may have overlooked someone she should invite."

Miss Dexter handed over several pages written in Jill's up and down and very youthful hand. There was a slight hesitation in her manner.

Mrs. Wentworth's eyes ran down the list. Suddenly, her brow contracted ominously. She had reached an unfamiliar name: Alan Jeffrey.

Q. What name did the French generals, Lallemand and Regaut, give to the colony planted near the present town of Liberty in 1818?

A. They called it "Champ de Asie," meaning "Field of Refuge."

Q. Did Garay establish a colony on the Rio de las Palmas following Pineda's exploration and report in 1519?

A. He made two unsuccessful attempts from 1520 to 1523, but these were failures, largely due, perhaps to his greater desire to acquire territory on the Panuco, where Pineda's report led him to believe the opportunities for acquiring gold and other riches and for profitable trade with the natives were greater.

Q. When did Garay personally command an expedition for an attempted settlement on the Rio de las Palmas?

A. In the summer of 1523, with 16 vessels, 600 men and 150 cavaliers, Garay undertook the permanent establishment of the municipality of "Garay" on the Rio de las Palmas. He entered the mouth of the river and sent scouts up the stream. These reported that the territory was unsuited for settlement and that there were many villages of hostile Indians. Garay then decided to abandon the project to try his fortunes in the Panuco River section, where prospects for gold were more alluring.

WASHINGTON

WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—There is a curious situation within the Republican party, of which the disagreements between ex-President Herbert Hoover and ex-Candidate Alfred M. Landon present a conspicuous phase.

It would be neither so curious nor so complicated except for the fact that Mr. Hoover is a far more potent force in the party machinery than Mr. Landon. Recognition of this fact probably will make the meaning of recent and forthcoming events in the G. O. P. plain to the outside observer.

With the Republican National Committee due to meet at Chicago on November 5, Landon timed his radio attack on Roosevelt for little more than two weeks earlier as a means of reasserting himself as the party leader.

He felt that Hoover sought to dominate the party. There is excellent reason to believe that Landon also supports Hoover, despite all denials, whether Landon could control the vote of more than eight or 10 members.

Through long years as a cabinet member and for four years as undisputed boss of the party and its patronage, Hoover dug himself in. The result is that the proposed national mid-term convention of the party next year, for which Hoover has vigorously worked, now seems certain to be called by the national committee. This is despite Landon's original opposition and his more recent private insistence that it first receive approval of a majority of the party's representation in Congress.

William R. Castle and William Hard, the two assistants to National Chairman John D. M. Hamilton, are old intimates and admirers of Hoover. Vice-Chairman Ralph E. Williams of Oregon is another Hoover man.

And that brings you to Hamilton himself, and to recent reports planted by friends of the former Kansas governor that Landon desired to get Hamilton out of the national chairmanship.

Despite the fact that Hamilton was Landon's pre-convention campaign manager last year and also his choice for national chairman, there is no reason for disbelieving these reports. Friends and advisers of Landon represent him as annoyed by the working arrangement appearing to exist between Hamilton and Hoover.

Hamilton, finding himself at the head of a national committee which neither he nor Landon could order around, naturally played ball with the so-called Hoover crowd on the committee, and has refused to stand in the way of the Hoover proposal for a mid-term convention despite Landon's antagonism. This was not only the best thing for Hamilton, since it solidified his position, but also tended to make for harmony.

Boycott Has Disadvantages
A boycott is a two-edged weapon and the inexperienced might easily cut themselves. Whenever women have refused to buy groceries or meats in protests against high prices, prices have eventually dropped for a time. But it is not as simple as it looks. The local butcher may have to cut his prices to dispose of stocks on hand, but the large packers may just sit tight and lock their refrigerator doors. It's the little fellow who takes the rap, not the big one. And if the housewives' boycott lasts very long, the family suffers from lack of essential and expected items in the diet.

The question now is, can we maintain our American standard of living in the face of the high cost of living? Too much of our "standard of living" is composed of waste and self-indulgence. Americans love a good prime roast of beef. We regard port-houses and airloin steak as a national birthright. Both loin lamb chops and rib chops seem to be the inherent privilege of any good

But all these choice cuts put together do not use up the entire carcass of the beef or lamb which was sold to the wholesaler on the hoof and by the total weight. Mark that point—the animal from which your choice cuts are cut was sold by total weight, not by the weight of sirloin steaks and loin chops. Someone has to feed and pay for the rest of the meat which the spoiled American taste turns up its nose at. Do you know who feeds and pays for the meat you do not eat? You do.

How can you change your food habits? Your husband doesn't want any cheap cuts and he won't eat liver or any other of "those things." That's what he thinks. In the series of twelve articles on slicing The High Cost of Food I shall try to convince you with selected recipes and specially worked out menus, that unfarmiliar and low-priced cuts can be introduced to your family without any protest on their part and without any lessening in the nutrition value of your meals.

THE REASON HEADACHES ARE RELIEVED SO FAST

THE REASON BAYER ASPIRIN WORKS SO FAST
Drop a Bayer Aspirin tablet into a tumbler of water.

By the time it hits the bottom of the glass it is disintegrating. This speed of disintegration enables genuine BAYER Aspirin tablets to start "taking hold" of headache and similar pain a few minutes after taking.

All people who suffer occasionally from headaches ought to know this way to quick relief.

At the first sign of such pain, take two Bayer Aspirin tablets with a half glass of water. Sometimes if the pain is more severe, another dose is necessary later, according to directions.

If headaches keep coming back we advise you to see your own physician. He will look for the cause in order to correct it.

The price now is only 15¢ for twelve tablets or two full dozen for 25 cents—virtually, only a cent apiece.
