Heroes of 1932 In China Winning Back Prestige

NANKING.—The great surge of national feeling brought about by the Japanese invasion of China has swept aside all former differences among the country's civil and military leaders.

It has brought back to Nanking many political exiles who a few months ago were all but outlaws in the eyes of the government. Among these are the former commanders of the 19th Route Army, which gained worldwide fame and admiration during its long-drawn defense of Shanghai in 1932.

The first to return was Gen. Tsi Ting-kai, field commander of the army and the outstanding hero of the 1932 war. As soon as he came he dropped his well-cut Western suits and the civilian manner he had acquired abroad, donned uniform and left for the front.

Now he has been followed by Gen. Chen Ming-shu who, as garrison commander of Shanghai and Nanking, was his superior officer in 1932. General Chen is more remarkable as a political than as a military figure. An old Kuomintang revolutionary and former governor of Kwantung, he was the founder of the "Chinese Social-Democratic Party" and for a long time a source of irritation to the government.

In 1933 he led the 19th Route Army in a rebellion in the course of which a "people's government" was proclaimed in Fochow with himself as chairman. This government demanded war against Japan and reconciliation with the Red Army. Although the rebellion was quickly crushed, its slogans continued to reverberate and were voiced again by the Canton-Kwangsi rebels of 1935 and the leaders of the Sian revolt last December. Today, when they have become the policy of the government, General Chen and other exiles are returning to Nanking not as pardoned rebels but as recognized patriots.

With General Chen came the former commander in chief of the 19th Route Army, Gen. Chiang Kwang-nai, and Gen. Ong Chao-yuan, bespectacled English-speaking director of the heroic defense of the Woosung forts during the first Shanghai conflict. Another, non-military, member of the group is George Hsu Chien, a fiery old radical who, as a leading figure in General Chen's Social-Democratic party, was one of the moving spirits of the Fochow "people's government."

Thus the 19th Route Army has returned, in the person of its leaders, to the national capital. But it has returned only in the abstract sense, because the army itself long since has been disbanded and even its name was abolished when the prestige it carried was harnessed to anti-government aims.

The heroes of Shanghai were broken on the wheel of internal struggle when the government sought to escape the catastrophic solution which it maintained was inevitable—and which has since proved to be so.

COWS GO TO COLLEGE

PORTALES, N. M.—Several students at New Mexico junior college here defray their expenses by bringing their cows to college with them and marketing the milk. The college supplies the feed from its student-operated farm and buys much of the milk for its dining hall.

Victor and Vanquished at New York City Polls

Although all independent polls indicated a landslide victory for him, Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia wears a very sombre expression when he emerges, at top, from the voting booth in New York City. Tammany Hall kept up its struggle until the last vote was cast to regain the mayoralty. Postmaster General James Farley, right, who below wishes Democratic candidate Jeremiah Mahoney luck in the contest against LaGuardia, was called to bring personal pressure to bear in the campaign windup.

Brothers Travel 174,960 Miles to Get An Education

CLEVELAND.—Thomas Sebian has returned to Cathedral Latin high school carrying on a "commuting tradition" started and held by the Sebian brothers of Painesville, O., and after much addition and multiplication, he computed the distance the Sebian brothers had traveled to school at 174,960 miles.

George, who now is 28, and the oldest Sebian brother started the school-going tradition. After George, there followed four more Sebian brothers—Paul, 26; Aloysius, 21; William, 18 and now Thomas, 16.

The Sebian brothers commuted between their home in Painesville to Cathedral Latin—a distance of 27 miles by train, "thumbing" and by offering through an advertisement, to "divvy up" the gasoline bill with a commuting motorist.

Francis Sebian, another brother who comes between Paul and taxpayers approximately $30,000, and has been able to put into effect a 10 per cent reduction of light bills paid before delinquency, a saving of $24,000.

Maintenance of streets without direct taxation and an appropriation of $44,000 for civic improvements also have been accomplished through the light plant earnings and economical government.

Mayor Sermon said: "The city administration, the civic relief in charge of the charity drive feel that our charity needs can be financed without burdening the workers with the colossal task of raising $20,000. Our generous citizens will be given what they ask and deserve—a breathing spell. The city government is in position this year to render this service to its citizens despite some unusual other services and an appreciable tax reduction. We are therefore happy to announce there will be no charity drive."

Aloysius with an age of 23, was put out of the commuting when his leg was broken in seven places in a motorcycle accident.

Two more Sebian brothers, Richard, an eighth grader, and John a fifth grader—expect to follow the others to Cathedral Latin in a few years.

Mary Ann, the family "baby" won't carry on the Sebian brothers' tradition. Cathedral Latin is a boys' school.

Each of his four brothers that preceded him to Cathedral Latin made the 34-mile round trip on 180 school days each year for four years. He multiplied the school days by the mileage.

He then calculated the miles he and his two brothers still in school have traveled. By the same method he also calculated the number of miles they will have to travel before graduation—97,200.

Prize Catch of Club Is One Tiny Fish

LONDON.—Forty members of High Wycombe Thames Angling club went to Mapledurham, near Reading, for their yearly fishing competition.

The challenge cup went to one of the club's youngest members. He had the larger of the only two fish caught. It weighed 2½ ounces.

Town's Income to Cover Charities

INDEPENDENCE, Mo.—While other municipalities are going through their annual drives for Community Chest charity funds this fall, this community of 20,000 will enjoy a "breathing spell" in the knowledge that a full program of aid will go forward without the need of contributions. The city administration stepped into the charity situation with the offer to provide the full $20,000 goal out of city surplus funds. The offer came as generals, captains and business men workers of the community chest drive prepared to seek funds in a campaign they knew would be difficult.

Merchants lately have felt the weight of sales taxes, social security taxes and other levies by the state and federal government and when the city relieved them of the charity burden they hailed the move as a welcome "breathing spell."

The city's action as announced by Mayor Roger T. Sermon was made possible by the administration's development of a $1,000,000 municipally owned electric light plant and the careful husbanding of the plant's income. Since the first of the year the council has been enabled to reduce city taxes from 9 to 6 mills on the $1 valuation, saving the

Why Britain Nears Break With Japan

The casualties suffered by British outposts at Shanghai have strained relations with Japan, but the incidents are only the last straws in a sequence that threatens to break the diplomatic camel's back. Pictured are evidence in two other incidents—below, the car, with the Union Jack painted on top and another flying from a staff on the running board, bombed nevertheless by Japanese aviators; and above, the Shanghai home of a Briton, bombed despite the flag that still hangs crazily from the wreckage at right.

DIG "BABY DOLL" Anderson, who does not like his nickname any too well, played at center and did a nice job of it. Anderson likes to play, but has had very little opportunity to show what he can do and to learn to do more.

BUT THE THING that got us was that one of the best ball-carriers on the team has been riding the bench. Bill Reese, the fastest man on the team, went in in the last quarter and carried the ball on several occasions. And there is a ball carrier! With a little more chance he might do some mighty good work. And he certainly should have that chance, not only for the remainder of this year, but next.

It may be true that he does not know his assignments on some of

BUT THAT BILL Reese is the man who should be given an opportunity to show what he can do. He has it in him and is willing enough, but much ground can't be gained on the bench.

BACKFIELD COACH JENNINGS pointed out the fallacy of trying to dope out what high school football teams would do by taking comparative scores. We have done the same thing a number of times. Jennings does it this way:

Eastland beat Big Spring 18 to 13, making them five points better than Big Spring.

San Angelo beat Eastland 81 to 0, making San Angelo 86 points better than Big Spring.

Sweetwater beat San Angelo 20 to 0, making Sweetwater 20 points better than San Angelo, or 106 points better than Big Spring.

Couple Paint But Clowning Gets Pay

NEW YORK—The clown who wanted to play Shakespeare has a counterpart here in Herman Hyde, a comedian who'd rather paint.

Hyde and his wife, Sally Burdell, are painters when they are not clowning in a night club show. They returned recently from Majorca with 125 canvases which they will exhibit soon.

Their method is to work—in night clubs and on tour—until they amass enough money to take time off for painting. When the money is exhausted they go back to work.

By thus operating they have been able to go on painting vacations to South Africa, the Basque country, the Azores, and most of the countries in Europe.

Hyde is the son of a missionary and former professor in Springfield (Mass.) College. He developed an early aptitude for music and painting, but was unable to pursue either art seriously during his student days because of limited finances.

Woman Won't Go Armed As Marshal

By United Press

CROWLEY, La. — No "gun-toting" in the picturesquely traditional manner of the old-time peace officer is needed by Mrs. Reulah Sigur, city marshal, to keep order in Crowley.

Mrs. Sigur, who already has served three terms, wears a small badge on the front of her dress—an inconspicuous emblem of her office.

Presenting a kind, motherly appearance, the widow of the late A. O. Sigur, whom she succeeded as city marshal, can become stern when the necessity arises. But she says, she never has any trouble enforcing city ordinances.

Whether law-breakers still have the traditional Southern respect for womanhood or whether surprise makes them extremely docile, she refuses to say, but she has carried out her administrative and enforcement duties so well that she was elected the first time over five men candidates.

HOUGHTON IS THE best ball-carrier on the regular starting lineup, with McKelvin doing nice running, but fumbling so often that he loses more than he gains when he drops the ball. If he could just learn the knack of holding onto a ball when he is hit he would be dangerous. ## Team Work is Needed to Move a Heavy Load

Overtures toward peace between the Committee for Industrial Organization and the American Federation of Labor, however embryonic and ineffectual, arouse hope that America's prolonged labor conflict soon may be terminated.

As a pawn between two bitterly opposing forces, each striving for dominance, the workingman has been the real loser in the year-long conflict. With a bright era of industrial prosperity near, firm establishment of business upon a definite road to recovery has been impeded, if not blocked, by a turbulent labor situation.

A team will never accomplish much if energy is wasted pulling against each other. Achievement is possible only when forces co-ordinate, in harmonious and unified effort.

If a wagon bogs down in sand, two horses may lunge against their collars until exhausted, churning up a great flurry of dust without ever moving the load. But two lighter, better trained and disciplined animals can move the wagon with comparative ease, if they pull together.

If their avowed principles be fact, both the C. I. O. and the A. F. of L. are striving for the same goal, the improvement of laboring conditions and a just distribution of industrial profits. But in place of united action toward fulfillment of that aim, the past year has seen factional battles, fraught with violence, for the right to control.

Taking no sides in the controversy, the average individual can easily see the gigantic waste of effort that might have been put to better use. That there are convincing arguments for organization along the lines laid down by the C. I. O. is undoubtedly true. And equally admissible are the contentions of the A. F. of L. that the course of action it has pursued in organization is sound.

But there is no truth, no basis in fact or reason that one faction, and one alone should be supreme, dominant in every instance. If labor would reach the goals it has set for itself it will be necessary for the leaders of these two great organizations to sit down, in amiable conference, each granting concessions, each agreeing on "spheres of influence" and control. Only in this way can American labor achieve greatness.

It's foolish to argue that the law has no heart. Look how easily a sheriff may develop an attachment for your house.

Football is back again, and with it the great game of trying to distinguish the head linesman from the radio broadcasters.

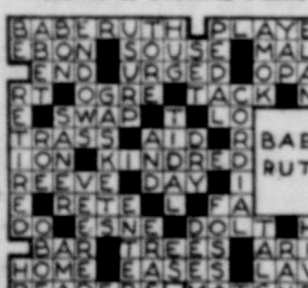

Detroit has a driving class for traffic violators, which every student, presumably, will flunk until he learns how to pass properly.

'RAILROADS TO ASK FOR NEW RATE INCREASE'

News From 4-H Clubs of County

"Well planned and arranged shelves will double the storage capacity of a clothes closet," says Aline Upton, clothing demonstrator of the girls' 4-H club at the Rising Star Grammar School. "As it is necessary for six to use the one closet we now have and impossible to build another, I plan to rearrange the shelves more conveniently. I will make narrow shelves for some things and wider shelves for others. I will use one shelf for placing my hat racks and the others for storing folded garments. Shelves spaced 10 to 12 inches apart are convenient. I plan to paint all my shelves white."

"Keeping a clothing expenditure will help me to learn the value of money," states Netta Katherine Putty, clothing demonstrator of the girls' 4-H club at Desdemona. Beginning with October first, I have listed all the clothing I have bought for myself under the following headings: outer clothing, under clothing and sleeping garments, footwear, headwear, and accessories and cosmetics. In this way, I can easily know how much money my clothing cost for one year and the list will also show on what groups I have spent too much money."

"An inventory is a list of the clothing one has and the condition they are in," states Dorothy Nell Woodall, clothing demonstrator of the girls' 4-H club at Gorman. While making this list, I do all necessary mending and sew on all buttons, hooks, and snaps. This lengthens the life of a garment and it is always ready to wear. This list is very helpful in deciding just what clothes I will need for another year."

Behind the Scenes in Washington

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—Frank C. Walker, New Deal trouble-shooter and "mystery man," is likely to become director of the Bureau of the Budget.

The element of doubt about it appears to rest in the question whether Roosevelt can persuade Walker to take over the job. Heretofore Walker usually has succumbed to the blandishments of his close friend in the White House when the latter has beseeched him to take over a difficult administration job. Walker doesn't want to be director of the Budget, but he probably will be, just the same.

The budget and the matter of balancing it have become an increasing serious problem in the President's mind. Ever since Director Lew Douglas quit a protest against New Deal spending policies, in 1934, the budget has been in charge of capable Acting Director Dan Bell, who is guided to a large degree by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, who in turn is so subject to White House supervision that Roosevelt sometimes is called "his own Secretary of the Treasury."

The fact that neither the budget directorship nor the post of comptroller of the currency, vacated by John H. McCarl, have ever been filled is at least partly attributable to the fact that the previous incumbent proved too independent and recalcitrant for the President's comfort.

Walker, a lawyer-business man with considerable prestige here and in New York, would be a strong figure in the job appointment probably would appeal to business men, since considered more conservative otherwise. On the other hand, always has been completely devoted to Roosevelt, although an adviser of the more conservative things in the White House. One function of the Budget Bureau is to approve or disapprove appropriations by Congress.

ONE of the most popular venier shops on Pennsylvania Avenue, heavily patronized by tourists, was the one which carried the sign "Oriental Japanese Gift Shop."

Recently the owners, Goldberg and Macy Cohen, they weren't doing so well "made in Japan" stock was specially sluggish in moving. So now the shop has been "Chinese Bazaar" and is selling Japanese goods are being lowered for sale.

ATTACK by Senator Johnson of California demanding Roosevelt's "new foreign" was a distinct letdown to the administration strategists. They had been confident anti-Japanese sentiment first Pacific Coast was strong enough to persuade Johnson and other west isolationists to refrain early criticism. But Johnson's record bones of his fear that Roosevelt's "new foreign" may bungle the country in arriving.

"As a clothing demonstrator, I plan to extend my closet to the ceiling so as to avoid becoming a dust catcher on top," says Bobbie Sue Burns, of the Dkka Girls' 4-H Club. I plan to have two doors, one for the upper part in which all the quilts will be stored and one for the lower part, in which I will place a rod for hanging shirts, shelves for storing garments and will build a rack and hat rack. In this space will be utilized his things stored will be from the dust."

Students and Convicts Discuss Same Topic

By United Press
ST. LOUIS.—Prison inmates and university students have the same chief topics of conversation—namely, sex and religion—according to the Rev. Donald M. Cleary, Catholic chaplain at Cornell University and former New York state prison chaplain.

In a talk before the Third National Catechetical Congress here, Father Cleary related that while a prison chaplain he had asked 20 inmates each day what their chief conversational topics. The answers were almost invariably "sex and religion."

In the two years he has been at Cornell, Father Cleary said, he has continued this practice among the students. He said the responses have been virtually the same.

Housewife Combines Job With Collecting

By United Press
NEW LONDON, Conn.—New London's chief collector is Mrs. Edward Burns. In 11 years, she has corralled 151 salt and pepper shaker sets, 3,000 match book covers, 125 elephant models, and is now collecting pictures of the Dionne quintuplets.

The salt and pepper shaker collection includes many types of persons and nationalities, such as a Dutch boy and girl, brides and grooms, skeletons, Indians, kewpies, Buddhas, clowns, tramps, dancers, sailor boys and French dolls. Many types of animals are represented. There are rabbits, dogs, monkeys, donkeys, cats, elephants, parrots, owls, pelicans, chickens and many kinds of fish are included in the designs. There are lighthouses, ships, acorns and chefs. They come from various parts of America, Montreal and Paris.

The miniature elephants range in size from one-half inch in height, carved from a peach stone, to a black elephant 5 inches tall. In addition to her collections, Mrs. Burns has other hobbies. "I make a sampler each year, and yarn pictures," she said. "Now I'm working on a patchwork quilt. You'd never think I had a husband, a 2-year-old son and a canny to take care of, would you?"

What the nine-power treaty seems to lack is power.

• Early evenings, cooler weather and homework to be done bring youngsters indoors for play and study. Instead of bright, outdoor sunlight, they must use their eyes under artificial light which can be only a fraction as brilliant as sunlight. do. Grand chap, who uprooted himself and went wandering."
"You know him?" Jill's tone was incredulous.
"We were at Eton together as small chaps. Alan was the star of the school. Headmaster's favorite and all that, which didn't interfere with his popularity with the students."
Jill scarcely breathed. "Then?" her eager voice prompted.
"Alan went the educational way. I had to drop out. Family fortunes, you know. He studied. He must have been accumulating a vast amount of knowledge, besides indulging himself in the study of art."
"The Jeffrys all go in for politics," he answered. Parliament is a tradition. Lord Jeffrey—"
"Lord—" broke in Jill faintly.
"Yes. Didn't you know? He has always been a staunch conservative. But he is growing old, and he wanted the mantle to fall upon Alan. It must have been a great blow to the old man when Alan would have none of politics. They quarreled. I believe he told Alan that if he could prove he could support himself with his painting as an Englishman gentleman should be supported, he could follow his bent. Otherwise, he must return to the fold and follow his father."
"Oh," exclaimed Jill. "Did he agree?"
"Yes. He's a family loving chap at heart. Loved the old home, an ancestral place called 'Templeogue,' which in the Gaelic means 'dear abiding place.'"
Jill sat with a lump in her throat, her eyes misted over with tears. How many humiliations must have come to Alan in the course of his testing period. One of them—the hardest to bear—her own careless plan to pave his rocky way with gold.
"I'm sorry I can't wait to meet him," Ainsley said. "He is one of the finest chaps I know. But I'm taking a train out tonight, on my way south to visit friends. Hello—" he was glancing at his watch. "I'm running late. I must look up your mother and father and thank them for a delightful evening."
"Don't stop for that," Jill said. "You might miss your train. I'll tell them for you."
After he had gone, Jill crossed to a window and stood staring out. She felt faint and confused. Lord Jeffrey! Alan was of the English nobility. Some day he would be an English lord. They would live in that splendid old home and carry on its fine traditions.
She turned from the window.

Sports Editor, NEA Service

BRANCH RICKEY, never lacking for a bright reply, says the cohesion of the American League has enabled it to plaster the national.

The director of the far-flung St. Louis Cardinal chain admits that the American League boasts baseball's top team in the New York Yankees, but challenges feelingly the current claim that the younger circuit, as a whole, is superior to the elder.

"The league average about the same strength," explains Rickey. "We've got as good pitching, fielding, and power as the American. There's one thing we don't have, though. That's the unity of the American. In their desire to beat the National, American League clubs are one. We have concentrated on our intramural fight. This we must correct."

Rickey wouldn't break up the Yankees "for the good of baseball" even if he could.

ON the other hand, it is his view that the Ruppert Rifles have issued a challenge to the rest of their field and to the National League.

"Baseball must answer it by a general improvement on all fronts, and not by weakening the Yankees," asserts the man whose resourcefulness and hard work brought the revolutionizing farm systems to the game. "There is no point in aiming at a lower standard." Rickey believes that the Yankees will win five more pennants in the next 10 years.

He attributes the tremendous success of Col. Jacob Ruppert's organization to the fact that it is not a profit-making concern.

"Unfortunately, most of us are by necessity profit-minded," continues Rickey. "Not so with the Yankee company. It puts every cent back into the business. Naturally, it can pay bigger prices for talent, and better wages after it develops stars. It doesn't have to dispose of reserves as the rest of us have to do to keep out of the 'red.'"

THE difference between the American and National Leagues is that the Yanks and other junior loop clubs now control more preferred playing material than the Cardinals, which are the only well-conducted outfit in the older wheel.

American League clubs buy, and do not have to sell.

Rickey would have the other 15 major league clubs overtake the Yankees, but neglects to tell them how.

Perhaps this is because mapping a plan of battle calculated to whip the Yankees would be especially difficult for the head of an organization which no longer seems able to win in a mediocre loop despite the fact that it controls some 300 athletes.

As Rickey suggests, an armistice in the National League's intramural scrap, which would enable its members to get down to the serious assignment of leveling on the American Leaguers might help. That and a few good ball players.

Tomorrow's Menu
BREAKFAST: Mixed fruit cup, farina, baked beans with codfish cakes, buttered toast, coffee, milk.
DINNER: Apple juice, beef tongue with nut brown sauce, sliced hard cooked egg, parsley potatoes, baked tomatoes stuffed with peas, endive and orange salad, mince meat pie, cheese, coffee, milk.
SUPPER: Creamed salmon with green peppers, roasted French ribs, mixed green salad, stewed fruit, chocolate brownies, tea, milk.

Beef Tongue with Nut Brown Sauce
(4 to 6 servings with some left over for tomorrow's luncheon)
One beef tongue, 1 bay leaf, 1 small piece garlic, 1 stalk celery, 1-2 tablespoons cooking fat, 2 tablespoons flour, juice 1 lemon.
Place tongue in kettle of boiling water. Add bay leaf, garlic and celery. Simmer until tender. Don't rush it, give it plenty of time. Remove and skin at once. Then cut into individual slices. Heat the cooking fat in saucepan and stir in the flour. When flour is well-browned and blended, slowly add enough stock in which tongue was cooked to make enough sauce to cover the slices of meat. Then place the slices of tongue in the sauce, add salt to taste, pepper, and lemon juice. Simmer about 5 minutes, then serve with slices of hard cooked eggs.
The contrast of rich brown sauce with the gold and white of the egg will put a handsome aspect on the battle for lower meat costs.

Sauteed Liver Goulash
(4 to 6 servings)
One and a half pounds fresh beef liver, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon bacon drippings, 1 large onion, 2 large carrots, 1-2 bay leaf, salt and pepper, soup stock.
Wipe liver with damp cloth and remove thin outside skin and veins. Parboil 10 minutes. Drain

Q. Why hasn't the State appropriated money for the purchase of land for the Big Bend National Park?
A. It was named for Major S. Cooper, then of the United States Army, but later an adjutant general of the Confederate Army. It was abandoned as a military post about the beginning of the Civil War.

Improving Swine In County Urged

Eastland county farmers are being urged to cooperate in improving the quality of swine in the county by buying registered sow pigs from outstanding swine breeders in the state.

County Agent Cook has announced that farmers who wish to make the greatest improvement possible with the smallest expense should buy an outstanding weaned sow or boar pig from a reliable breeder and raise this animal to maturity for breeding purposes.

As a number of 4-H club boys in Eastland county are planning buying registered sow pigs for their demonstrations, others interested in securing breeding stock are urged to get in touch with the county agent and pool their orders.

IT REALLY HAPPENED IN FOOTBALL!

IT sounds impossible, but a football game was won after it was officially ended. It wasn't one of those cases of a touchdown pass being in the air as the gun went off, but another pass, by the losers, after the final shot was fired.

In a desperate effort to break a tie, St. Louis University opened a passing attack against Davis-Elkins in the closing minutes of the game. One of the passes was in the air as the gun sounded. It was incomplete. But the referee ruled interference by Davis-Elkins, giving St. Louis another play, after penalty. Another pass! A Davis-Elkins player intercepted and ran for the touchdown that won the game . . . after the game was over.

Rev. Johnson Is to Preach His Annual Sermon to Bulldogs

Rev. H. B. Johnson, pastor of the First Christian church of Ranger, announced today that he would preach his annual football sermon Sunday for the Ranger Bulldogs. Members of the Ranger high school band and the pep squad also are expected to be present.

Rev. Johnson stated today that although he was not making any predictions, no Bulldog team had lost to Cisco after he had preached his annual football sermon, though there had been tie games. "I have seen the time," Rev. Johnson stated, "when I watched the Cisco-Ranger game and thought that maybe I hadn't preached quite hard enough the Sunday before, but we have managed to get by with nothing worse than a tie in all the years I have been preaching these sermons for the Bulldogs."

The annual sermon for the team is preached each year on the Sunday prior to the Nov. 11 game with Cisco.
Nov. 17, Camp No. 9059 of Ranger will act as host.
Other officials who will attend include Mrs. Eva Huskey of Greenville and Mrs. Myrtle Johnson of Houston, state supervisor, and Mrs. Carrie E. Henry of Ranger, district deputy. With supreme, state and district officers planning to be present, a large attendance is expected.

During a long period of service with the society, Miss Barthel has taken an active part in the progress of Royal Neighbors of America, which is now one of the largest fraternal benefit societies. She has served as supreme recorder since 1925. Miss Barthel is president of the secretaries' section of the National Fraternal Congress.
The program will include a school of instruction and class adoption. Miss Barthel will be the principal speaker.

Cold Years Brew War, Says Doctor; Bleak 1916-17 Winter In U. S. Cited

By United Press
CINCINNATI — If 1917 had not been an unusually cool year in America, the United States might never have entered the World War. And if the period from July, 1917, to the middle of 1918 had not been uncommonly warm in Austria and Germany, the "double eagle" might have been flying over most of the civilized world today.

That is the theory advanced by Clarence A. Mills, professor of experimental medicine at the University of Cincinnati, who has made an intensive study of the effect of weather on military forces and movements.
Dr. Mills contended that the case or difficulty by which body heat may be thrown off dominates "the entire existence level of man." In brief, he points out that in areas of moderate temperature, the body can more easily dissipate the heat it generates, thus stimulating bodily functions and increasing energy.

In hotter climates, where the warm moisture in the air is high, the body finds difficulty in throwing off its heat, resulting in a lowered vitality.
He blamed climatic conditions for the failure of Napoleon's catastrophic invasion of Russia in 1812.
"His men and horses, gathered from western Europe where severe heat or cold seldom come, were ill-fitted to endure the climatic extremes that afflict the Russian plains," Dr. Mills wrote in an article in "The Military Surgeon."
"Unconsidered natural forces of physical environment had shattered Napoleon's most mighty military undertaking."
He points out that "revolutions against tyranny, demanding greater freedom of individual action, have shown an almost uncanny predisposition to take place in cold, stormy years that come after prolonged warmth."
The French revolution in 1789 came in one of the coldest years on record in that region after a

Services at Strawn begin at 10 a. m. and continue until 3 p. m. Then, about 3:30 p. m., the team will arrive at Ranger, and conduct a conference with this church.
Plans have been made to visit every church in the presbytery by various teams, usually two or three ministers, laymen and as many women. They bring a definite message for each church, and seek commitment to some definite, outstanding work, that each church may do. This is not a local matter, but is universal through the entire denomination concerted action it is hoped that splendid results may be attained for the Kingdom of Christ.
