BLIZZARD BRINGS MORE SUFFERING TO FLOOD VICTIMS OVER STATE

By United Press

One of the winter's most severe blizzards bore down on flooded North, Central and East Texas Friday.

The U. S. Weather Bureau at Dallas forecast a hard freeze for all North Texas Friday night and freezing as far south as San Antonio and Houston.

Snow, sleet and rain continued throughout the Panhandle and the High Plains Friday morning.

Residents in the Trinity River bottoms in Dallas and Rockwall Counties prepared to flee as floodwaters reached within two feet of the tops of levees.

A shippers forecast for a radius of 350 miles around Dallas warned of 12 to 20-degree weather to the north Friday night, 20 to 25 degrees to the west and east and near freezing to the Gulf Coast. Clear and colder weather will follow on Saturday.

The Panhandle, Western Oklahoma and Eastern New Mexico were under snow and ice. It was still snowing in most of the areas.

The Red River was within a few inches of flood stage and more water flowed in from tributaries in Oklahoma. Traffic was interrupted in several sections.

The Trinity River at Fort Worth forced dozens from their homes in near freezing weather. Four feet of water flowed over the Dallas-Fort Worth highway east of Handley and the second route by Grapevine, also was impassable.

The U. S. Weather Bureau at Houston said rains in the interior would cause rapid rises on the Brazos, Trinity, Neches and Sabine Rivers in the next 36 to 48 hours.

Hundreds of families in Oklahoma, Arkansas and Missouri were driven from their homes by flood waters. Cold added to the suffering.

At Fort Smith, Ark., the Arkansas River reached flood stage. Coal Creek poured out of its banks at McAlistar, Okla., and flooded the city water plant. A grave water shortage was feared.

CROP CONTROL PROGRAM BEING MAPPED TODAY

By United Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace, placing the new crop control program into action, today assigned production allotments and marketing quotas for 1938 cotton and tobacco production.

Invoking authority granted in the $440,000,000 farm bill signed this week by President Roosevelt, Wallace announced the first votes among producers for establishing marketing quotas will be held Mar. 12 to determine whether cotton and tobacco farmers will market their crops under quotas.

Unless rejected by one-third of the producers, Wallace said, the quotas will affect all producers of these crops. He fixed acreage allotments of cotton at approximately 26,384,000 acres, compared with 34,383,000 acres planted last year. The acreage, Wallace estimated, will yield 10,129,000 bales of cotton.

Texas' tentative acreage allotment for 1938 is 9,839,627, compared with 12,896,000 acres planted last year.

Oil Shutdown May Continue During March

By United Press

AUSTIN, Feb. 18.—Texas oil production will continue one day a week shutdowns to await developments in the next month, then revamp completely proration of oil supplies, if the Texas Railroad Commission adopts the suggestion made today by Ernest O. Thompson.

Both proposals were applauded at the monthly hearing on oil proration.

Texas is producing 1,235,600 barrels of oil daily. The federal estimate of market demand for Texas oil in March was 1,344,900 barrels a day.

The "new deal" plan, as Thompson termed it, was precipitated apparently by increased retail gasoline prices in Dallas, despite the biggest gasoline stock in history.

She Put Murder Blame on Friend

In a desperate attempt to avoid conviction on a murder charge growing out of the hold-up slaying of a bus driver, Genevieve Owens, 17-year-old gangster, is seen above as she faced a jury in Newark, N. J., and insisted that her co-defendant and holdup companion, Mrs. Ethel Sohl, was the sole plotter and executor of the fatal crime for which each received a life sentence.

The President ordered the R. F. C. lending activities to stop last Oct. 18. Jones said that the R. F. C. had $1,500,000,000 available for lending.

Nazi Inroads Into Austria May Grow

By United Press

VIENNA, Feb. 18.—Chancellor Schuschnigg may resign within a week after which greater Nazi inroads are expected in the Austrian government.

Texas Charters Show Increase

AUSTIN, Texas.—New charters granted to Texas corporations during January increased sharply over the preceding month and moderately over the corresponding month last year, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research has reported. Total capitalization was under that of December but well above that of January last year, the Bureau said.

Reports in the office of Secretary of State show a total of 139 corporations chartered in January, an increase of 41.8 per cent over the month before and 4.5 per cent over January last year. Total liabilities, $2,266,000, were down 19.2 per cent from the preceding month but were 12.7 per cent above the January, 1927, figure.

Increases in the number of charters over both the preceding month and January last year were confined to the merchandising and oil groups, although banking and real estate-building made sharp gains over December.

There were 47 corporations capitalized at $5,000 or less, as compared with 30 the preceding month and 40 during January last year; while corporations capitalized at $100,000 or more numbered six in January, six the month before, and three the like month in 1927.

Probation Officers Find Women Are The Most Difficult

By United Press

PROVINCETOWN, Mass.—Men can be made to see the error of their ways, but most women seem to feel that they know it all, says John A. Cook, probation officer of a Barnstable court, in his annual report.

He would rather deal, he asserts, with six men than with one woman.

Bond Posted In Theft Over Case

Delmer Perrin, charged with theft over $50, has posted $750 bond, it was announced by officials Friday at Eastland.

RODESSA DEATH TOLL MAY REACH FIFTY AS MORE BODIES FOUND

By United Press

RODESSA, La., Feb. 18.—Mud-spattered oil field workers labored today to clear away wreckage of a tornado that swept through this oil town and killed an estimated 30 and injured scores of persons.

Danger of explosion from fumes of a wild gas well near the town abated shortly after dawn, when the wind shifted. At mid-morning the fumes were being blown over a small residential section only.

Oil field workers trudged through mud and debris along "supply row," the section of the town hardest hit at 9:45 p. m. on Thursday, when a tornado smashed through Rodeessa.

They sought bodies still buried under crumpled buildings. Huge derricks, trucks cleared the wreckage.

The body of an unidentified man was recovered from the wreckage of the Superior Iron Works on "Supply Row" during the morning. Workmen believed several others still were buried.

Chief Deputy Sheriff W. T. Prudhomme said the death toll "might reach 50." He believed more than 100 were injured.

National guards from Shreveport patrolled the damaged section.

An area two miles long and a quarter of a mile wide was devastated. It extended to within a block of the main business corner and along the rambling colony of supply houses and shacks where oil field families lived.

Men worked all night carrying out dead and injured, who were loaded on trucks, cars and the few available ambulances and taken to Vivian, La., Atlanta, Tex., each about 10 miles away, and to Shreveport, 35 miles south.

First estimates of the damage ranged between $200,000 and $250,000. The main part of the town escaped destruction.

OUTLINE FOR PRICE BALANCE BEING MAPPED

By United Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—President Roosevelt today outlined the goal of his administration as achieving a balance of prices designed to end business recession and restore national prosperity.

Price rises are sought, he said, but should be confined largely to raw materials and goods produced under high competition and in which decreases have been registered.

Prices which have maintained high levels, particularly those in the building industry, should not be lifted, he said.

He submitted a statement of administration price and economic policies prepared by advisors headed by cabinet secretaries.

Mr. Roosevelt criticized wage policies of industry but did not indicate whether he believed wages should be raised or lowered at this time.

He said the administration sought no inflation but an easy credit policy should be maintained.

The statement declared "this is not a policy of restriction. It is a policy of abundance. Our agricultural, industrial, housing and monetary programs have been, or will be, directed toward this end."

State-Wide Cotton Committee to Meet At Dallas, Feb. 24

DALLAS.—General Chairman Burris C. Jackson is calling the first meeting of the State-wide Cotton Committee of Texas for Thursday, February 24, at the Adolphus Hotel in Dallas, beginning at 9:30 A. M. to plan a program of work to carry out the committee's three sole objectives: Cotton improvement, better ginning, and a new uses for cotton research laboratory.

R. J. Cheatham, in charge of Cotton Utilization for United States Department of Agriculture, will bring the principal address of the morning session on "New Uses for Cotton." Also discussing the need for extended cotton uses will be Victor H. Schorf-felmayer, Agricultural Editor of the Dallas News, and A. M. Goldstein of Waco, Chairman of the Committee's New Uses Section.

In discussing cotton improvement work, Mr. Jackson said, "We fully realize and appreciate the good work now being done in East Texas on cotton improvement by the East Texas Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with Extension Service and Vocational Agriculture Department, and this same type of endeavor must be extended to all of Texas to accomplish the desired necessary results."

The one-variety-cotton, community program will be thoroughly discussed by recognized leaders and the better ginning discussion will be led by Dr. Bradford Knapp, President of Texas Tech and F. E. Lichte, cotton ginning specialist of the Extension Service. Chairman of the Cotton Improvement Section, will discuss the proposal he has made for a Federal Cotton Improvement Corporation.

Chairman Jackson, who will preside over the meeting, in issuing the call and extending a cordial invitation to all persons interested in rectifying the present cotton delirium to attend, stated he is planning his program so as to allow for informal discussion on each subject as the scheduled talks are completed.

Sit-Down Tactics Of Liquor Board Prove a Success

AUSTIN.—Sit-down operations of state liquor board inspectors have ended, apparently because they proved successful. The sit-downs are credited with lifting Fort Worth and Dallas out of the list of "bad spots."

Rather than risk sit-downs by enforcement officers, C. A. Paxton, chief of enforcement, says that operators against whom injunctions are sought are accepting the injunctions without protest and posting $1,000 bonds to guarantee observance. The Wichita Falls dealers adopted that course.

Size of Brain Is Believed Unchanged

By United Press

DENVER.—Although man may be getting taller and more portly than he was 20,000 years ago, his brain is no larger, according to Dr. Ralph Linton, professor of anthropology at Columbia University, who is conducting a lecture tour.

"The only change we can discover is that better food and better medical care are making us taller, but our brain is the same size as that of our primitive ancestors," Dr. Linton said.

The reason we know more than our ancestors did lies in the fact that there is more around us to learn, he said. Linton believes there is no intelligence difference between various races.

very poor one for a child because it leaves nothing to his imagination or his own initiative. We worked out a score card for a child's toy and placed safety above all other things because if a toy isn't safe then a child certainly shouldn't play with it. Some other important points on our score card were instructiveness and the toy's appeal to imagination. If a toy has neither of these qualities then what does a child get out of playing with it? The toy should also be durable and washable or it would outlive its practicality. Too, the toy should be interesting to the child because if you buy him something he isn't interested in, then in all probability the toy will be discarded and your money wasted.

I'm sure that if everyone would buy his child's toys on the basis of these points his money would be wisely spent. Some toys made by eighth grade Home Ec. students are on display at 308 Main Street, and the general public is invited to inspect them.

Puncturing the Spell of a New York Address

For many years it has been an industrial custom for all companies to strive for the day when they can have their "headquarters" in New York.

A firm begins business locally, it prospers, grows. Then comes the urge for a New York address, the magic of a letterhead carrying a number on Broadway or Fifth avenue. And soon you have the spectacle of the management of that local company moving to New York, its president and directors ensconced on Long Island, and the local factory left to shift more or less for itself under salaried managers.

Business management ought to question the universal wisdom of this, and to weigh against the unquestioned advantages of New York headquarters the advantage lost by pulling up roots from the old home town. This often creates the feeling that the locally-built enterprise is just an orphan after all, administered by those who have lost interest in the locality.

Is this the dizzy idea of some provincial theorist? Not at all. It is the serious question posed by W. Averill Harriman, chairman of the board of the Union Pacific railway who put it flatly up to the Bond Club in New York.

Harriman called on business men to analyze quite frankly this concentration of industrial control and to "either justify it or change it."

Often there are good reasons for a removal to New York, Harriman indicated. But too often the move is made for no better reason than the "prestige" of a New York address, the hope of better access to financing, or even just because the president or his family think it would be nice to live in New York. In many cases, Harriman felt, "the weight of the values may be on the side of their moving to centers of their business activities or their production."

This urge for removal to New York, Harriman felt, gives greater impetus than the situation perhaps warrants, to the criticism of concentration of industrial control which is again rising to high pitch as it has in the past.

Certainly no rule will apply to all businesses; each must decide for itself. But in a time when all social and business trends are under criticism, and each is being made to justify itself anew, it might be valuable for many companies to study this situation. Certainly, other things being equal, it is best for the management of an industrial firm to remain an integral part of the community on which its business has been built.

A Cornell professor advises sportsmen to aid farmers by replacing fox-hunting with mice-hunting. Any attempt to eliminate the baying of hounds will probably be met with cat-calls.

Providence College seniors offer an insurance plan guaranteeing students additional tries at "flunked" examinations without payment of special fees. An effort to ease Father's financial burdens?

THE PROGRESS OF THE WAR

Rambling With The Rambler

BY WAYNE WALLACE

If there is any one thing that can be singled out as pre-eminently distinguishing the mental attitude of the people of this country from that of foreign countries, it is conquest. History, both traditional and written, gives ample proof of this great difference. Since the days of early Egyptian conquest has meant power and richness to the countries that lie beyond the seas. Weaker nations have been forced to bend before the superior armies of their neighbors, have been robbed of their lands and possessions and have even become the slaves of the ones who conquered them. Their homes have been destroyed, their freedom taken away and they themselves, have been sold into bondage. Our proud boast of being civilized would seem to preclude any such condition existing today, but such is not the case. The only difference between the present and the past is that the people of today invent some slogan to relieve the sensibilities of anyone who might be offended, such as "civilizing the savage" and the like. The Japanese policy seems to be a good example of this. Japan has as much as informed the rest of the world that what she does is none of their business. Her present war with China speaks for itself; more land which, of course, will mean more power. Germany with her well supplied and trained army is another country that makes little attempt to conceal the fact that she is out to get land at any cost. Mussolini's conquest of Ethiopia is still another example of the European attitude; while the conquests of England and France fill many a page in history.

The American people, on the other hand, as a class frown upon such brazen brigandage as that employed by our foreign neighbors. While it is true that some of our actions in the Pacific have broadened on this method, such as the acquisition of the Hawaiian Islands, Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines; still a glance through history will reveal that we had cause for our interference and that our subsequent actions to right any wrong we may have been guilty of, shows that we do have some regard for the rights of our fellowmen. After subduing the Hawaiian Islands we re-entitled and gave them the status of an organized territory with the same rights as possessed by a citizen of this country, the government of Cuba was turned over to the natives after order was restored in agreement with the "Teller Resolution. Porto Rico was organized as a sort of compromise between a colony and a territory under the protection of our laws and the Philippines have the promise of freedom as soon as they are capable of governing themselves. Alaska, one of our possessions, was purchased from Russia for the sum of $7,200,000. Still another strip of land we own, some 10 miles wide, was purchased outright from the Republic of Panama, through which the now famous canal was dug. Although this land was acquired after some very doubtful proceedings; still reparation was afterwards made to the satisfaction of all concerned. Also we are reminded of the fact that after the Big War when the conquering nations distributed the spoils, America did not take a thing. Few nations as powerful as ours can boast of such a record.

While it is true that these foreign countries can offer some reason for their seemingly strange attitude on this subject, nevertheless it is to be wondered if it is not due more to greed than necessity. Some of these countries are small and they claim that they cannot supply enough raw materials to take care of their needs. They say that they must have colonies to make up for this lack of supplies. Also that they need room for expansion since their population is too great for the size of their country. Such a condition as this is not found in America since the country is large enough to take care of all its people so that there is no need to acquire colonies. It is noteworthy that none of these countries set a limitation upon the amount of territory they must conquer; instead taking all they think they can safely get away with.

Perhaps need for a little engenders greed for all. Another fact that stands out is that the danger of conquest seems to be increased when the policies of a country are predominantly controlled by an individual. Hannibal, Alexander, Caesar and Napoleon are outstanding examples of the influence an individual can hold over the mass of people.

One of the prerequisites of a dictatorial form of government judging from the past, seems to be an inherent ability to inflame the minds of the people to deeds of unsurpassed valor; which means nothing more than to conquer people by force in order to demonstrate that they belong to a lower class than you.

Thus it would seem that the world of today can really not look for peace as long as men like Mussolini, Hitler, Stalin and the rest of the dictators are in power. While they may make temporary treaties to avert war, there is nothing in the world that can guarantee they will not break them just as soon as they think they better themselves by doing so.

America's aversion to this form of government was recently expressed when the people took Henry Ford's side in his fight against labor. While the American people are on the side of organized labor, still they do not want it run under any such dictatorial form as that tried by John L. Lewis. All of which should prove that the supposition on the part of some of our leaders that America has a secret treaty with Britain to conquer the rest of the world in nothing more than a matter of time. If some other purpose since it is likely that the American would back up the men to sign it.

Things we love: The ploughed fields in the year; the tender you that give promise of the to come; the branches of bent beneath the delicate ored blossoms; the loud bees as they gather to the babbling brook in along; the warmth of beauty of stars in cluster the color of flowers; the the crotchets and the birds.

The Texas cowboy ends every "ridin'" day with a pot of coffee brought to steaming fragrance by the embers of his camp fire. The chances are more than even that today, he fills his pot with Admiration, because this Texas coffee has become the largest selling brand in the state. Such sales can mean only one thing—people LIKE it. And whether you buy it at a commissary or at your corner grocery, Admiration is fresh, delivered to the point of sale direct from one of the roasting plants, by fast truck. You, too, should try Admiration . . . It's the thing in Texas.

Oh, for me a horse and saddle
Every day without a change,
With the desert sun above
On a hundred miles o' range.

Just a-ridin', just a-ridin',
Dessert ripplin' in the sun,
Mountains blue along the skyline,
I don't envy anyone.

When my feet are in the stirrups
And my horse is on the bust,
When his hoofs are flashin' lightning
From a golden cloud of dust,
And the howlin' of the cattle
Is a-comin' down the wind,
Oh, a line like from ridin',
Would be might hard to find.

Just a-ridin', just a-ridin',
Splittin' long cracks in the air,
Stirrin' up a baby cyclone,
Rootin' up the prickly pear.

For Love of Polly

By RACHEL MACK

CHARACTERS
HELSREY, heroine, who sees her through.
WHITFIELD, Jerry's friend.
BANKS, privateer.

Disguised as an old man, Polly starts from Dover in the Channel and means to see Jerry through. Her disguise is so good that Jerry is surprised to observe her in a rusty black burst of laughter and at the same time wipe tears from her eyes.

Actually, was Polly's state of elation and joy. She felt she hadn't a care on earth. Several thousand miles from home in an enemy country, she was impressed by the navy on a ship called "The Deal" and in a desperate state. Yet she didn't care in the world, and she didn't care in the world.

Presently they pulled hamp strands from the damp rope and resumed their game of yesterday, and after that they spoke of how the foliage would soon be turning in Massachusetts, and of the "wild" of wild turkeys near the settled places.

over the district court then in session in San Antonio, the bodies were buried in one grave just outside the Catholic cemetery near the present Milam square.

to speculate as to whether his girl might be among them. The conversation of the two marines could be heard in the hold. Jerry Whitfield said to Cabell Banks, "We're close to shore!"

Just those few words, but he spoke them so tensely that Cabell, who was lying in his hammock with closed eyes, came alert. He turned and opened his eyes to see Jerry Whitfield disappear up the ladder with the softness and swiftness of a cat.

As for Jerry, he was impelled by instinct entirely. Reasoning did not enter into it. He gained the deck, balanced his slender but powerful body for a moment for its greatest projection of strength, hurled himself toward the two hateful backs and struck down both men simultaneously.

As he turned to go, afterward, Banks fell in 3 step with him. The two prisoners went below. Banks said, "Here's some salve I bought from the surgeon's helper. I'll put it on for you." His aristocratic, ugly face was as white as death.

and 1845, being member of committee that drafted the constitution of the Republic; member of Santa Fe commission of 1841, was captured and marched on foot to Mexico City and imprisoned in solitary confinement for four years; after escape from prison, represented Bexar in the State Senate; died in San Antonio in 1870.

Jerry shouted, "I'll get even with them for this!" It was the threat that cruelty automatically produces.

In Boston the hour was not so late. Mr. Cabell Banks, senior, was pacing the drawing room floor in his beautiful square Georgian house on Beacon Street while his wife sat erectly before the fire sipping coffee from a small fragile cup and urging him to be calm.

Prudence Winthrop was this girl's name, and her father was in business with the wire old man who paced the floor. She was very much attached to that old man's son. She confessed as much now to his parson: "If Cabell comes home and asks me, I shall accept him. He's homely and high-strung but I find him stimulating. I am very fond of him."

Q. How did the Mexican failure to capture San Antonio and Austin in 1840 affect the Comanches?
 A. They blamed the Mexicans for persuading them to raid Texas settlements and for failing to join them as agreed. In October, 1840, some 400 or 500 Comanches made their way 400 miles into Mexico, burning ranches and villages, killing inhabitants, capturing women and children and taking several thousand horses and mules.

Q. State the principal events of interest in the life of J. A. Navarro.
 A. Jose Antonio Navarro, son of a native of Corsica, was born in San Antonio in 1795; was highly educated in Spain, returned to San Antonio and entered business; was land commissioner in DeWitt's colony; represented Bexar in the constitutional conventions of 1836

Schools Are Urged To Mold Youths

Schools Are Urged To Mold Youths

DENVER—Discipline in education—a discipline which will educate and not destroy—is advocated by Dr. Alexander J. Stoddard, superintendent of Denver schools.

"It is not enough to give knowledge," according to Dr. Stoddard, "the necessity is for a definite curriculum which comprehends all the forces of society which make up the environment of a child in this changing world."

Dr. Stoddard stressed the need of progressive education. One of the major factors of progressive education, he said, is discipline.

"We stand in this country for the production of a disciplined people," he said, "not the sort of discipline which enables children to grow into self-contained citizens."

"We hear a lot about self-expression these days and the need for allowing children to grow by expressing themselves. That's all very good, but we do not believe in unrestrained, untrammelled self-expression, which in too many cases is a form of ruthless selfishness and inordinate vanity and lack of intelligent parental guidance."

"Progressive education wants the disciplined individual who has found out the value of self-discipline."

If schools are to be progressive, they must serve, Dr. Stoddard pointed out.

"What was good enough for my parents is not good enough for my children," he said.

"Why? Because all the conditions of life and society have changed. We have to prepare people to live in these changing conditions."

He urged that form of discipline which will educate and not destroy; to discourage that self-expression which is destructive and has no place in real education.

THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON—It is now clear enough that "little business men," although sorely confused, pattern after the "big business men" in their economic thinking.

At the never-to-be-forgotten conference which nearly a thousand of the former group attended in Washington it became obvious that some of them arrive at similar conclusions independently and that others just parrot the headlines.

But the boys did deliver a terrific wallop to any idea Roosevelt had that he could get any strong support—or any new ideas—from small business.

Through all the cat-calls, conflict and turmoil nothing stood out more distinctly than the wistful eyes of small business for a return to the dear old days of Calvin Coolidge. Various delegates estimated that from 90 to 95 per cent of their group had voted for La Follette in 1936.

It seems likely that the "little business men" and their recommendations, most of which implied criticism of New Deal aims and legislation, will have little if any effect.

The demonstrated solidarity of business is being used by the President's conservative advisers to influence him. But his liberal advisers are using the flacco aspects of the show to convince him that the little fellows know even less than the big fellows about problems of economics and government in the large.

Government action to make loans available for industry was being planned before the guests arrived and this recommendation will be heeded. Urging the strengthening and enforcement of monopoly laws was right down the administration's throat.

Scenes From "Mannequin" Showing at Arcadia Theatre
