As they were busy installing hitching racks for the horses, mules and cattle, and installing pens for the smaller animals, they called attention to the fact that the registrations this year were far ahead of those of last year, and that much finer stock was to be shown.

The show will be held Friday in the Duffebach Building, on North Commerce Street, where everything is being put in readiness for the show.

At the Chamber of Commerce office, where registrations are being received, it was stated that a large number of beef and dairy cattle, sheep, hogs, horses, mules, goats and chickens had been listed for exhibition, beginning at 9:30 Friday morning. MEETING TONIGHT

A meeting of the Eastland Royal Arch Chapter is slated tonight for initiatory work. It will be in the Masonic temple beginning at 7:30.

METHOD FOR MEET MONEY IS OUTLINED

Mindful of the many times Eastland merchants are solicited for contributions, P. B. Bittle, director general of the County Interscholastic League meeting scheduled March 24, 25 and 26 at Eastland, has decided to refrain from that method and to assess a small admission charge on several events to defray expenses incident with the contests.

Bittle stated that a 10-cent admission charge will be assessed for a person to witness debate, choral singing, rhythm band and valley ball contests. A 10-cent ticket will be required for each event.

Bittle reasoned that each of the 1,200 students in Eastland schools should find it easy to sell one ticket, thus raising a material portion of the $150 required to stage the meeting. He solicited cooperation from the students and those to whom they ask to purchase tickets.

Bittle stated that financing the meeting required purchase of pens, ribbons, trophies, securing of judges and other expenses.

It was pointed out that the 10-cent fee was believed reasonable and there are many other events which may be witnessed without charge.

Program for the meeting is nearing completion.

AUSTRIA NOW HOLDS KEY TO EUROPE'S FATE

By United Press
The Rome-Berlin axis creaked today under the strain of Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg's surprise call for a national referendum on Austria's independence.

The rumors in Rome that Hitler might cancel his projected visit in May, which had been proclaimed as a demonstration of German-Italian solidarity. The reports were ridiculed in Berlin.

However, observers here for weeks been voicing doubt over enduring agreement between Italy and Germany.

They point among other obstacles, to two major ones, a clash of racial difficulties and personal ties.

Then there is the current Austrian problem. Mussolini would not care to have Hitler entrenched in Austria. He wants an independent Austria.

The reaction in Berlin to Schuschnigg's plebiscite, was distinctly unfavorable. It was regarded as an anti-Nazi move. Berlin was not pleased, either, with the reception in London of the German foreign minister.

Paris was occupied with another cabinet crisis, in which Premier Camille Chautemps resigned today because he could not get sufficient support of his request for wide power to deal with the economic situation.

This World Needs More D'Annunzios

Every country and every age needs a man like Gabriele d'Annunzio as a release from the humdrum and the prosaic, the routine and the inevitable dull monotony of everyday living.

D'Annunzio published his first book of poems when he was 16. He knew French, English and German and his Greek and Latin were the envy of literary friends.

His love affairs, particular his famous romance with Eleanora Duse were the vicarious joy of every honest Italian. D'Annunzio lived like a feudal lord in his Villa Vittoriale, over the poor of which was engraved "Per Non Domire" - "It is impossible to sleep here."

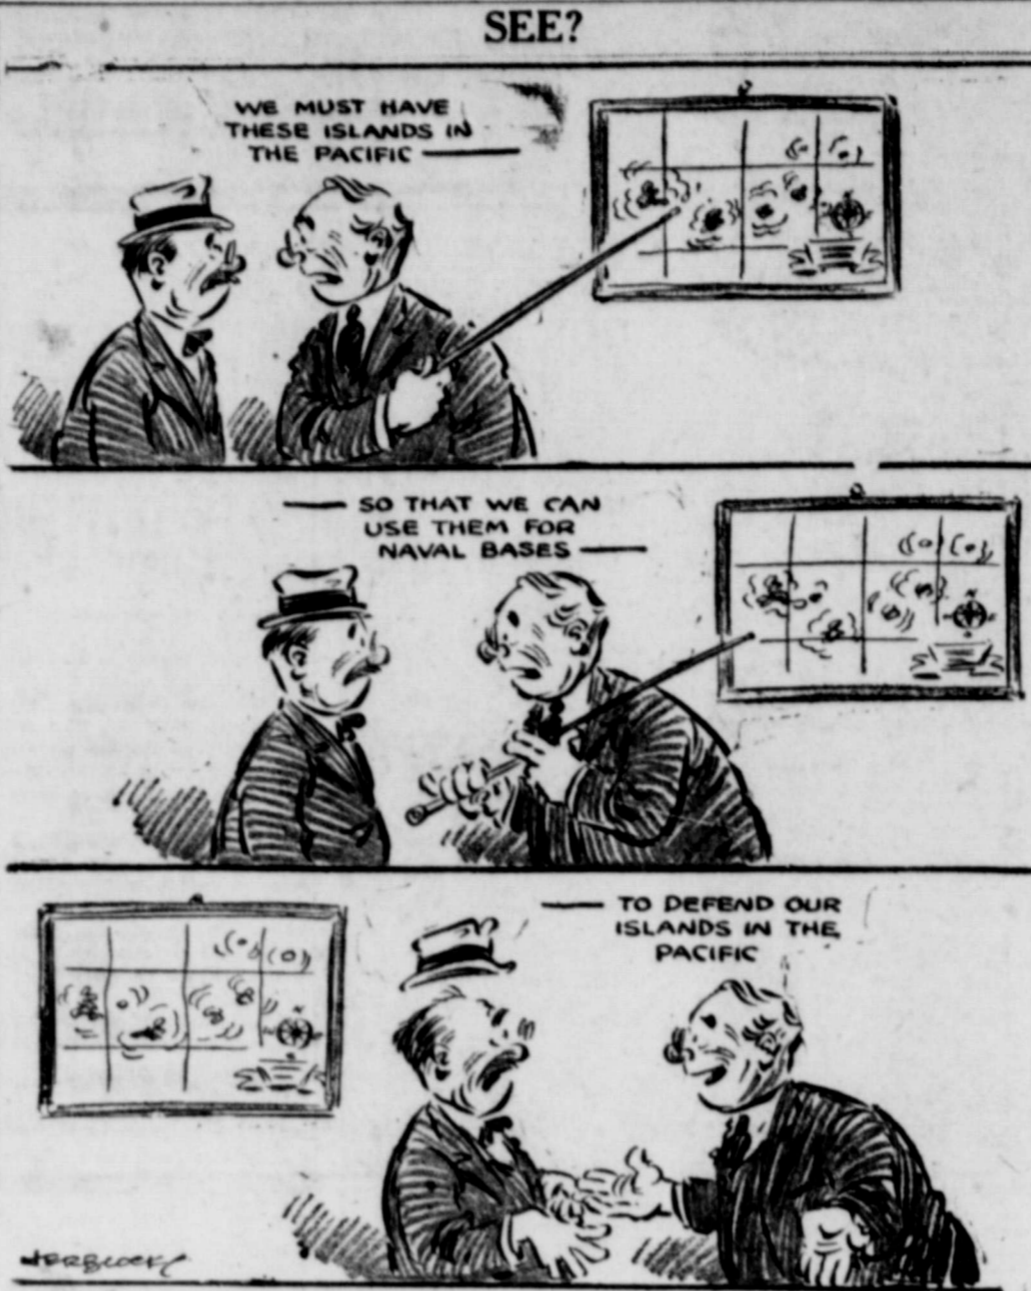

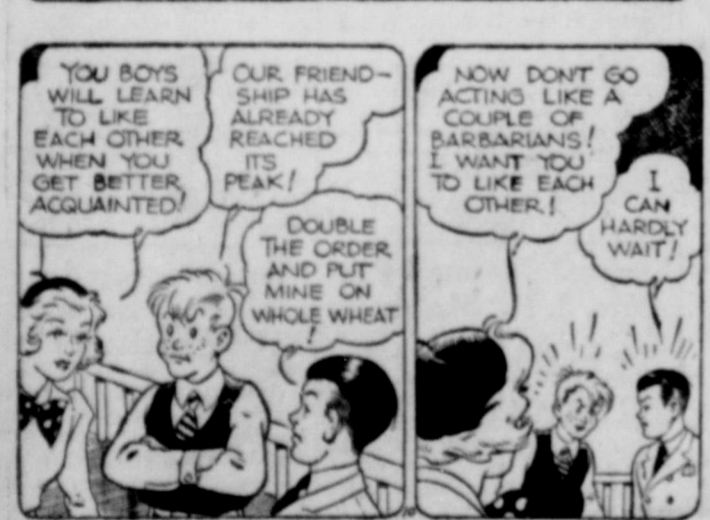

He was created a prince and honored countless times by his nation. He was dominating, bold and jealous of his freedom from day-by-day ties.

Death was the most prosaic thing that ever happened to d'Annunzio. He courted glorious deaths, often talked of taking his own life in spectacular fashion as old age came upon him.

THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—Although Secretary Ickes said in his blast against Fascism, broadcast to the British Empire, that he spoke as a private citizen and didn't represent the views of Roosevelt or the government, it is hardly likely that the most naive Hindu, Boer, or Anzac will be deceived.

Unauthorized speeches of such a character are not made by high public officials in any country, even in the democracies.

Officials of this administration will continue to holler against Fascism, not only for consumption in South America, where its penetration is feared, but also with the hope of stiffening the resistance of England, France, and other nations to Fascist demands.

Although the "quarantine" stuff is definitely out, Roosevelt and Secretary Hull agree 100 per cent with Ickes' reference to "fanatical foes which have the will to conquer at all costs" and to Fascism as "the greatest threat in the world today."

Events in Europe which find England unable or unwilling to stand up to the collective security theory in the face of German and Italian aggression have only intensified their fears. As long as "Fascism threatens to dominate the world, it is felt, America's voice should be raised in protest."

The President's point of view—and his recent hopes—are indicated by a story being told about his remarks to a visiting delegation in which he criticized the strong isolationist sentiment in this country.

"Once," he is reported to have said, "Americans were willing to fight at the drop of the hat. Look at them today. How can I scare the pants off the dictators?"

The Eden resignation and ascendency of the Chamberlain, with its seeming quietus on Roosevelt's suggestion for "concerted" action, has relieved officials in the administration who feared this movement would let itself be yanked British chestnuts and end be left in the lurch.

Wives of British diplomats in Tory England, according to strong school of thought, always depended on the play both ends against the middle and to cross up or abandon nation at any time such appeared to be to her satisfaction.

Although she had the mainstay of the League of Nations collective security set-up, she had to contend with the covetous obligations of the sively throwing Manchuria, Cuba, Spain, China, and to the wolves. By no means critics of Britain, was she a sirable ally.

Ambassador to Spain, Bowers once remarked that his job consisted of waiting for the British to hold Spain's arm back while Italy and beat her up.

Senator Gerald P. Nye, D-Ore., who once considered sensational munitions legislation, insists on making a barraging reminder that the States helped rearm Germany.

"Although the treaty sails for the United States, when Germany did so, Britain and the United States caused their governments at the violations and rearmament kings to reap the rewards."

are non-technical illustrations. A 50,000-gallon pool will accommodate 1,000 persons. The water must be recirculated.

Dr. Harry A. Logsdon had charge of the Lions Club program today and introduced Assistant Coach H. G. Jennings of the Ranger High School, who made a very interesting talk on football.

Coach Jennings talked first up on the prospects for a good team in Ranger next year, stating that the outlook at this time was for a fine team, and one which would be able to establish a good record during the next football season.

He then outlined the four principal formations now used in football, these being the short punt, single wing, double wing and the Notre Dame shift, giving some of the details of play under each of the formations.

His talk was very interesting and gave the Lions some good pointers, both on the Ranger team for 1938 and on the general fundamentals of football.

Paul Sampson, food expert, made a short and interesting talk on the subject of foods and diet, and the relationship of different foods in the diet.

Jimmy Smed, soloist of the quartet offered, "There's a Gold Mine in the Sky." With Mrs. Smith at the piano the club sang Texas songs. Facts about Texas and its colorful history were given by Mrs. J. W. B. Stroud, Formerly of Ranger, Buys Arizona Store

The following news story taken from the News at Williams, Ariz., gives an interesting account of a former Ranger man who is well known here since Ranger was his home for a number of years before leaving Texas for Arizona.

History was made in Williams yesterday when R. B. Stroud, manager of the Williams store of the United Dry Goods Stores, returned and quietly announced that he is now owner of the Williams store. He took possession on Monday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Stroud have watched over the local United store for the past eight years, carefully and efficiently building it up into one of the leading dry goods stores in this part of Arizona.

For some time Mr. Stroud has been reasoning that since he has made a success of the store for its owners, he might still better make a "go" of it for himself, and the upshot of this was his purchase of the store from its owners in El Paso.

Mr. and Mrs. Stroud have a wide circle of friends and patrons, who will welcome this good news, and it will always be a pleasure to the News to be able to welcome a Williams resident as an owner of a Williams business. We predict a yet greater measure of success for the business now that it belongs to Mr. Stroud and he can run it as he sees best without having to consult remote owners in policies of buying and selling and general conduct of the business.

West Texas Owners Give Their Own Experience

MRS. CLIFFORD DEATON, 2111 Roberts, WICHITA FALLS, TEX., has this to say about her Servel Electrolux: "I consider my Servel Electrolux Refrigerator my best investment because of the saving it makes in food costs and food preservation.

"We thought if the Servel Electrolux performed in half as good a manner as the salesman represented it would that it would be much better than the type of domestic refrigeration to which we had been accustomed.

"Servel Electrolux preserves food of all kinds, indefinitely, keeps my raw foods fresh until ready to cook and keeps cooked foods until ready to serve. I have no waste in either one. It furnishes plenty of ice for drinks at all times, also freezes cream, chills custards, salads and all other delicacies in the ice line.

"After five years of use, we can truthfully say that the Servel Electrolux in our home has more than lived up to the statements made about it and is still as silent, as low in operating cost as the day it went into our kitchen. In all these years we have had carefree refrigeration without one cent spent for repairs or service."

Want to Know You're Constipated?

Would you give a million dollars for that dull, dopey feeling that often comes on you? Probably not. But a minute and think of the trouble you're constipated in. You get enough "bulk" and don't feel that way. It means a kind of food that is entirely digested, but it's a sort of bulky mass in the stomach which helps a bowel movement.

What to do? Eat something of All-Bran for breakfast every day. This crunchy treat is not only rich in "bulk" but contains both the intestinal Vitamin B, and iron. Eat All-Bran every day. It helps a bowel movement. You don't get off your stool. You feel plenty of water. You feel your best! Kellogg's All-Bran is sold by every grocer.
