ROOSEVELT IS BLAMING FEW FOR DECLINES

By United Press
GAINESVILLE, Ga., Mar. 23. President Roosevelt, in his major address in nearly three months, blames the selfishness of a few citizens today for retarding national progress and prosperity. Asserting that there still was too little consideration for that third of the population which is "ill fed, ill housed and ill clad," he said that those who believed such feudalism was the "best system" were leading toward fascism. "When you come down to it," he said, "there is little difference between the feudal and fascist systems."

TENSION FELT IN CONGRESS ON TWO MATTERS

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Mar. 23.—Tension in Congress was intensified today by the message from President Roosevelt, laying before the legislative body the explosive TVA controversy and refusal of an alleged lobbyist to comply with a new subpoena by the Senate lobby committee. Meanwhile the House appropriations committee reported favorably the largest army appropriation bill since 1921 and the Senate finance sub-committee recommended that Sen. Tom Connally's bill to levy high taxes on war profits be attached to the new tax bill as a "rider."

Eastland Dealers Sell Beer Legally Tuesday Afternoon

Sale of beer legally the first time since the Mar. 12 election began Tuesday afternoon in Eastland. An official of one cafe had gone to Austin and returned with official authorization of the Texas Liquor Control Board and was the first to sell. Later Tuesday afternoon telegraphic advice was received that licenses of several other cafes in Eastland which had made early application for permits were granted and it was legal for the sale in those places.

Employment Up In Most Factories

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Mar. 23.—Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins reported today that factory employment rolls increased in February for the first time in four months. The Secretary estimated, however, there was a decline of employment of about 100,000 workers in non-agricultural jobs between January and February. She added that this was the smallest decline in three months.

Love Bug Got Him—and How

Finky Tomlin, crooner and composer, once wrote a song-hit about the "Love Bug" getting you if you don't watch out, and now he has disregarded all his sage advice and has succumbed to the wiles of that potent insect. But no one can blame him much after looking at lovely Joanne Alcorn, 21-year-old daughter of an Oklahoma oil man, whom he is about to kiss after they filed intention to wed in Los Angeles.

Trial of Hepler Opens Wednesday In 91st Tribunal

Events prior to an automobile accident in which Clyde Hepler is charged with murder without malice and is on trial were related Wednesday morning in 91st district court. T. J. Sampson, Beaumont, located with Hepler at Ranger on a temporary job for an oil company at the time of the accident Dec. 1 last year, testified that in his opinion Hepler was not intoxicated before the mishap in which M. D. Cox of Odessa was killed. J. G. Morris of Fort Worth, also an employe of the company, told of Sampson, Hepler and himself drinking a pint of liquor that evening. Also they drank beer at Ranger afterwards, it was testified.

Kitchen Subject Of Discussion At Flatwood Meeting

Miss Ruth Ramey, county home agent, spoke on the importance of well ventilated kitchens at the recent meeting of the Flatwood Home Demonstration club in the home of Mrs. W. F. Webb. She stated that it is better to give the space below the window for equipment and have the ventilation enter through the upper window, and further advised that the use of bright curtains in the kitchen would give a cool, cheery effect, and still allow sufficient light to enter. There should be made of durable material which is easily laundered. Refreshments of cookies and iced punch were served to the following: Mrs. M. L. Foster, D. E. Webb, F. Bennett, O. G. Reese, T. E. Robertson, C. A. Webb, Eutis Reese, M. W. Grieger, Oris Robertson, and visitors, Misses D. A. Reese, H. L. Henley, Will Wilson, D. C. Justice, Miss Ruth Ramey and Mrs. Tom Webb.

Beer Being Sold In Ranger Under Special Permits

At least four places were selling beer in Ranger Wednesday morning, under special permits from the State Liquor Control Board, pending actual receipt of their licenses, which were not expected to be received by retail dealers before the end of this week or the first of next week. Activity in the retail beer business in Ranger found several wholesalers ready to do business and a number of trucks were distributing various brands of beer to the places that have been approved. Other retail beer sellers will be ready to do business in the city within a few days, it was indicated today, as they had not sought permission to begin sales before receipt of their licenses. Places reported to be selling beer legally Wednesday morning were Jiggs Cafe, Vivian's Cafe, Highway Eat Shop and Bob Yeager's Cafe.

United States May Receive $650,000 From Bird Hunters

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Mar. 23.—More than 600,000 sportsmen paid $1 each last year for Federal migratory bird hunting stamps, the U. S. Biological Survey reported. Not included was former Supreme Court Justice Willis Van Devanter, who has taken into custody by a state game warden while hunting without a license. The charges were not pressed. The sale of 605,523 stamps last year—the third in an annual series—exceeded those of the previous year by 150,000, and almost equaled the record sale of 635,001 set by the first stamp. The sale of stamps for this year, which began July 1, is expected to approximate 650,000, officials said. The stamps are on sale at every postoffice in the country. Proceeds amounting to not less than 90 per cent of the sales, as provided by law, are turned over to the survey for establishing, maintaining and administering migratory bird refuges. Leading states last year in the sale of stamps were Minnesota, 72,640; Illinois, 53,251; Wisconsin, 48,959; and California, 44,570.

POWERS MOVE TOWARD PEACE OVER EUROPE

By United Press
The world's dictatorial powers moved today toward peaceful legalization of their vast territorial and economic gains. In Rome Premier Mussolini shouted to a cheering crowd that Italy was "ready for peace" but it necessary will fight. Fascist newspapers warned France not to aid the battered Spanish loyalists unless she forced Italy to go to war. In the Warsaw senate, Polish Foreign Minister Joseph Beck declared that the "road is open" to good relations with Lithuania. London newspapers reported unofficially, that protest against the bombing of Barcelona by Spanish nationalists had led Gen. Francisco Franco to disclaim responsibility and act to prevent future bombardments. Pope Pius also protested the bombing. British cabinet confirmed the government policy of keeping out of trouble in Central Europe and approved a declaration on Britain's foreign policy, which Prime Minister, Neville Chamberlain will deliver in the house of commons Thursday.

Aims Big Guns at Lithuania

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Mar. 23.—President Roosevelt today transmitted to congress a report on his removal of Arthur Morgan as director of the Tennessee Valley Authority, and emphasized he had no objection to a congressional inquiry into the situation. The message was accompanied by an opinion written by Acting Attorney General Robert Jackson, upholding the president's right to remove Morgan. Senate and house leaders were expected to start an inquiry. The president, however, did not specifically request such an inquiry. Morgan himself was expected to file a court action challenging legality of his removal. Citing his reasons for removing Morgan, his charges against fellow TVA directors and refusal to present evidence, Mr. Roosevelt said, "Arthur Morgan has repeatedly he will answer questions only to a committee of the congress. Obviously there can be no objection to hearings before such a committee."

MORGAN MAY ENTER PROTEST UPON OUSTER

Reports Heard As C. of C. Directors Meet on Tuesday

K. E. Ambrose, president of the chamber of commerce, opened the regular meeting of the board of directors Tuesday night by stating that he had received several complaints about the post office being closed early each night, about placing the letterbox directly in front of the post office door, about the closing of the general delivery and stamp windows of the office and about lack of prompt window service. He stated that he had also received complaints on the office being closed on Saturday afternoons. He followed this statement concerning complaints with the further statement that he had learned yesterday the office will be left open all night after the light now being installed on the walk is ready for use. After a general discussion it was decided that perhaps the postmaster is doing as well as she can under the circumstances and that she will welcome suggestions. Harry Henry volunteered to take these matters up with the postmaster and to report his findings at the next meeting.

The lights are declared clearly visible to cruising officers who upon seeing the lights, will find out from the hotel who left the call. The lights will be left burning until police report. Officials stated that the system is expected to lower considerably the amount of time necessary for police rendering aid at night.

Ordinary Rules Don't Hold for the General

The same doctors who said a short time back that Gen. John J. Pershing's death was to be expected momentarily have now announced that the general may live for years if he will live carefully and quietly. They have classed his recovery as almost—but not quite—miraculous.

The funeral train assembled to transport the World War hero's body across the nation has long since been disassembled.

You will remember reading these excerpts from news stories of not so long ago regarding the general's apparently futile battle for life:

"The life of the 77-year-old wartime commander of the American Expeditionary Forces was believed drawing to a close."

"As the spark of life in the stout heart ebbed away . . ."

"Gen. John J. Pershing sank steadily toward death tonight . . ."

"Members of the family who came tearfully from the bedside indicated that the end was near."

"Dr. Roland Davison said, 'With the very rapid progress of the ailment against him, I doubt if he can last very long.'"

All of which proves once more that ordinary rules of life don't hold for extraordinary men. During long periods of his illness the general was in a coma. He could not speak. He could not eat. He could not take drink. Some of his organs had ceased to function.

But one organ kept on the job just as it had in many tough spots during the general's 77 years. That was his grand old fighting heart. That heart is beating with new strength these days and people everywhere rejoice in its victory.

Perhaps the general will never again lead an active life. Perhaps he will. The doctors have said that he must live quietly. But who would be surprised to see the old battler fool the doctors again, and return to the activity that characterized his career always?

The general is very much among the living and reports of his death were not only "greatly exaggerated" but also extremely premature.

The whole world joins in shouting: "A good fight, Gen. John J. Pershing!"

British censor board forbids children under 16 to see "Snow White" on the theory they might be frightened. Are these the same children who are taught the use of gas masks?

Dallas relief families spend more for prunes than any other food. Cynics observe that relief prunes may once have been political prizes.

MONTGOMERY WARD

LOVE LAUGHS AT THE DOCTOR

CAST OF CHARACTERS
CONSTANCE MAIDWELL—The stand-in.
MARK ROGERS—An artist who loves money best.
HILDEGARDE THORVALD—Mark's polished but somewhat dim sister.
DR. ROGERS—He met his most difficult case.

Yesterday's Rogers date being a replacement for Constance in the comic strip. Constance did not read any further.

CHAPTER XII

CONSTANCE did not read beyond that first sentence. It seemed to her hours before she was able to look up and say in a voice that sounded reasonably like her own, "I didn't know there was any one naive enough to buy this comic sheet. The last I heard they were drumming up publicity by paying people to sue them for libel."

But she knew they had seen her face in that first moment.

When she slipped out of the store that night, a man stepped from a parked car, hastily threw away a cigarette, and stood in her path. Under the entrance light, his uncovered head shone with copper lights.

"Are you weeping on any one's shoulder tonight?" he asked.

"Go away," said Constance.

"The last time I talked to you I got my hands slapped. We do not associate with the male relatives of our customers."

"There aren't any customers in my family any more," Dr. Mark Rogers said with a brief smile. "We spent all our money the other day—thanks to you."

He held the car door open.

"Please get in," he suggested.

"I'd like to talk to you."

WELL, well; Constance thought.

Just like that! . . . But, after all, why not? (She thought of Derek.) He probably only wants to take my temperature or make sure I'm getting plenty of sleep.

As she hesitated, she was vastly amused to see him take out of his watch and glance at it hastily.

"Don't let me keep you," she said with malice, "if someone is choking to death or something. But I thought you were on a vacation now."

"It's no vacation now." He was definitely not the philandering type of male. He looked worried and a little embarrassed. "I—but we'll talk about that later. I'm counting on a good meal to put you into a receptive frame of mind—at Daimler's, shall we?"

WORDS, gesture, and intonation were lifted bodily from one of Camilla Wynne's most popular impersonations—the role of the nurse in "A Doctor's Best Friends."

The man across the table gave such a whole-hearted shout of delight that Constance could not help warming toward him.

"I say," he demanded, "how long could you keep that up?"

"Until you screamed for help," Constance said. "Since my friends discovered the fatal resemblance, it's been my one and only parlor trick. . . . Why?"

"Because Camilla Wynne got herself knocked out in an automobile crash this morning. That's what this is all about."

He had sobered so abruptly that Constance said after a moment of incredulous silence, "You're not by any chance suggesting that 1937?" With a flicker of a smile he finished dryly, "I want to park you somewhere where you'll feel that you have the protection of sane human beings when you decide that I've gone crazy."

After a brief hesitation Constance laughed in spite of herself. He looked so desperately in earnest, and at the same time so uncomfortably aware that he must look ridiculous.

"All right," she said. "I shouldn't be human if I weren't curious."

When they were settled at a table, and Dr. Rogers had ordered—steaks, blue points, planked steak with mushrooms and fresh asparagus, a salad, an ice, and coffee—he said, with a crooked little smile, "Thank God the orchestra's at the other end of the room."

"I'll do this to music without any of that melodramatic as it unquestionably is. . . . Did anyone ever tell you," he demanded abruptly, "that you look like Camilla Wynne?"

"Why, yes," Constance admitted after a bewildered pause. "But I never felt inordinately set up about it."

"Ever seen her—on the screen, I mean?"

"And heard her."

On a mischievous impulse Constance leaned an elbow languorously on the table, rested her chin on her palm, and looking up at him under fluttering lids, said in a throaty, breathless voice, "I understand, Doctor. You want me to tell him a bedtime story. . . . But is it really kind? Sometime, you know, he's bound to wake up—and that hurts. . . . I know, that's—she smiled bravely, brushed away an unshed tear, and finished on a tremendous note—"that's one of the things you have taught me."

"Exactly that. . . . All right—now about the police."

While she was still searching for words, a party of four men passed their table. One of them checked his steps, turned, and called pleasantly, "Good evening, Dr. Rogers. Run in and see me again before you leave town, won't you? I have a patient I'd like to—why, good evening, Miss Maidwell—or I should say—" at something he must have seen in Constance's face, he broke off, and finishing a little awkwardly, "Well, glad to have seen you," hurried after his companions.

"Know him?" Mark Rogers asked.

"I ought to. He's Dr. Ardmore, my physician," Constance said. . . . She thought, "He started to call me Mrs. Manthorn."

"May we consider that I am properly identified, or shall I call him back?" the man opposite her asked. "The time, I'll have to remind you, is getting short."

Civil War with a Democratic majority and it freed Texas of the obnoxious election feature of the constitution of 1869.

Q. What provision did the Thirtieth Legislature make as to voting?

A. It passed a law that repealed the four-days election provision of the 1869 constitution and allowed people to vote in their own precincts or communities instead of at the county seats.

Q. What were the most notable contributions of the Lamar administration to the cause of education?

A. They were Lamar's first message to the Congress of the Republic in December, 1938, containing his oft-quoted utterances on education, followed by the passage of an education bill, Jan. 26, 1939, providing that three leagues of land be set aside in each county to establish a primary school or academy, and 50 leagues to be separated for the endowment of two colleges or universities. The grants to counties were increased to four leagues each the following year.

Q. When and why did Governor Pease resign from office and what followed his resignation?

A. Governor Pease resigned in December, 1869, having become dissatisfied with the extreme reconstruction measures and the methods employed Gen. Joseph J. Reynolds, then military commandant, a former classmate and a close friend of President Grant, became military governor.

Q. What proclamation did Gov. Davis issue governing voters under this provision?

A. Before the election of 1872, he issued a proclamation requiring voters who did not live in the county seat at which they voted, and who went there to vote, to leave immediately after casting their ballots.

Poultry Expert Is Also Cake Baker

By United Press
STEPHENVILLE.—T. A. Hensarling, professor of poultry at John Tarleton Agricultural College, has a unique hobby that increases income of the poultry industry.

Hensarling, who is supervisor of the International Egg-Laying Contest conducted by the college, spends his spare time baking angel food cakes.

Friends of Hensarling pointed out that poultrymen's profits are hiked proportionately with every angel food cake baked. Here is Hensarling's recipe for a pleasing pastime, profits for the poultryman, and a good cake:

Hensarling's angel food cake: 1 1/2 cups egg whites, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1 1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar, 2 cups fine granulated sugar, 1 1/2 cups cake flour, 1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla, 1 1/2 tablespoons water.

Add salt to egg whites and beat until foamy with egg whip. Add cream of tartar and continue beating until eggs are stiff but not dry. Fold sifted sugar in with a knife, small amounts at the time. Mix vanilla with water and fold in batter. Fold flour, four times sifted, in the same manner. Bake in ungreased pan 60 to 80 minutes. Use heat 275 degrees first half of baking period, increasing to 325 second half. If baked in square tins, this recipe makes 32 medium or 24 large servings.

FRECKLES and HIS FRIENDS By Blosser

NEW YORK.—Far be it from me to become too bellicose with any part or parcel of our 5,733,009 track and field bugs, but why is it they have established the mile run as the most popular event on the program?

Such is the case, if you hadn't previously been aware of the fact, fans are interested in the mile run—or its 1500-meter equivalent—in any other event in the book. That, they claim, is the piece de resistance of every meet.

Without being an out-and-out non-conformist I differ with the popular pattern, and nominate the 440 as the thrilling track event of all. And with an ear turned to the ground I can hear a few folks backing me up.

True, you find some of the most highly-publicized names in sport-don running the mile—Glenn Cunningham, Archie San Romani, Gene Venzke, Don Lash, and others.

Those names are on the tip of your tongue. You probably would have to think a moment or two before you could name three top-notch quarter-milers.

ON an outdoor track, the mile is run around four laps of 400 yards each. What, then, can be so thrilling in the first three laps, for the spectator? There's nothing but jockeying on the part of the runners in those first three laps.

The real race comes in that final 440 yards. In other words three-quarters of the race is merely a buildup for what is to come.

The 440 is one single lap around the track—no stalling, little jockeying—just plain, headin' for the tape.

Most track men and track coaches will tell you that the 440 is a tougher race to run than the mile. It's probably the most strenuous flat race there is, being practically a full sprint over a distance.

To examine it a little closer let's equate it to the mile. The world record for the quarter is 46.6, held by Bill Carr. That's just about running four good centuries in 10-flat, which is pretty fair time—with six seconds left over for the added 40 yards, or distributed throughout the race.

TO me, there's more of a thrill in seeing a half dozen or so crack quarter-milers streak it tapewad than there is in watching them pound down the 100-yard dash. The century is tops in speed, but it's over too soon.

They call Gene Venzke a "picture runner." But Venzke, running the mile, never was as thrilling a sight as Bill Carr reeling off one of his terrific quarters.

Pennsylvania's 1932 Olympic champion, whose career was cut short by an auto accident, was the spectacle of his day.

Perhaps the reason for the quarter not being as popular as the mile is the fact that it rarely is included on the big eastern indoor meets, where the show is stolen by the Wannamaker Mile, the Baxter Mile, and other featured mile events.

But put Archie Williams, Ray Malott, Loren Benke, Jimmy Casin, Al Fitch, and a couple others in a few 440 indoor events, and the track bugs will clamor for more.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

WASHINGTON.—The only one to move with a lightning speed is the commander of the U.S. Navy's fleet of aircraft carriers. The Navy's fleet of aircraft carriers is the most powerful force of naval power in the world.

That, at least, was the feeling of American officials who decided that they ought to colonize the tiny Pacific islands of Canton and Enderbury even though the British had been there to it.

Although this "international incident" is far from serious it does represent the first American attempt in a long time to acquire a few square miles of new territory. There are about 20 speckish and valueless islands in the area, visited at one time or another by British or American vessels.

THE "draft Jimmy" movement in Massachusetts is being taken seriously in Washington, where James Roosevelt works as one of his father's secretaries. The President's son is said definitely that he wouldn't run for governor in the Bay State, but recently has failed to discourage efforts to get him into the race.

Some astute politicians are sure "Sonny Jim" could be elected if he got the Democratic nomination, which is now hotly sought by anti-New Deal Governor Charles F. Hurley and Lieut.-Governor Francis E. Kelley.

There is much doubt, however, whether young Roosevelt can get that nomination without a knock-down fight and he doesn't want to take chances of defeat at this stage of his career.

Thus, although there's still an outside chance that Jimmy will be in the gubernatorial picture, it is perhaps more likely that he easily can get and might accept nomination for lieutenant-governor—which in Massachusetts is almost traditionally a next step to the governorship.

Plans Completed For Brotherhood Dinner

The advance publicity announcement of the world wide brotherhood dinner named to take place in all churches on the evening of March 24, has this to say of the anticipated occasion, "It is vital that every church hold a brotherhood dinner on March 24, and it is so important that we frankly suggest the adoption of local church programs so as to make this possible. For the sake of the brotherhood and the intangible but real benefit that will come to the local church through the fact of all participating at one time in the same program and on the same evening, we urge upon the consciousness of the leaders of the local church the necessity of participating in the brotherhood dinner." All plans are completed and will be carried out by those capable ones in charge.

The hour is 7:30 o'clock and the dinner will be held in the church annex. The pastor of the local First Christian church, Rev. H. B. Johnson, again calls to the attention of members this entertainment.

G. A.'s Have Picnic

Y. W. A. Change Meeting Hour

Song and prayer opened the Y. W. A. program given at First Baptist church Monday afternoon. Devotional was brought by Jimmie Beth Todd. Plans to cover the remainder of the month were discussed and it was suggested next week's meeting time would be at 7 o'clock, in order not to conflict with revival services.

Present: Geraldine Pirkle, Jimmie Beth Todd, Odelle Jay, Mona Robinson, Ruby Milburn, Elizabeth Jay, Mary Jane Todd, Mrs. G. W. West, and Mrs. Nath Pirkle.

Mrs. Jack Carothers Hostess

The Ranger Home Demonstration club's personnel met with hostess, Mrs. Jack Carothers, at her Deademonia Boulevard home Tuesday afternoon and a program of interest to all members was given. Kitchen linen was the theme of the splendid talk offered by Mrs. R. I. Bundick, principal speaker. Handy hints were given by Mrs. Bundick and enthusiastically accepted by those present, which named: Mmes. J. F. Drien-hofer, R. O. Bundick, Jack Blackwell, J. W. A. Cox, J. B. Ferris, E. W. Gordon, Owen Hinman, G. T. Williams, E. V. Reynolds, E. P. Mills, Preston Burks, Mrs. Dick Weeks and Mrs. Frank Weeks were visitors.

St. Patrick Day Marriage Announced to Ranger Friends

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Cole, announce the marriage of their daughter, Emma Lee, to Mr. Karl Harper of Eastland, on St. Patrick's day, March 17th. Mr. and Mrs. Harper are to make their home in Eastland, where the bridegroom is employed at the Connellee and Lyric theatres.

Enthusiastic Cooperation Noted in Cooking School Plans

The nearer the time for the opening of the merchant's annual cooking school, the more apparent is the enthusiastic cooperation. Each spring merchants of Ranger to make it a greater success than the one the spring before. Only praise can be given such a spirit and personal interest. The Recreation building has been chosen as the scene of the school, and Mrs. French is proving her skill more and more in the line of culinary art. Her menus promise to be different, and also to offer piece de resistance of all concoctions.

Names of many taking part have already been named and others are to be introduced within the next few days. Looking back over former schools one's memory is refreshed with the success and benefit derived. Daily interest promises to be manifest at each day's school, namely March 29, 30, 31, and April 1 at 2 o'clock.

Ceremony Read by Judge J. N. McFatter

Do You Know The Facts About Your Cosmetics

It should be clearly understood that the skin derives its nourishment from the blood stream. That is why persons with skin disorders should consult the rightly made out skin chart or sometimes a physician. It is important that all cosmetics be properly applied. To preserve and restore muscle tone these things are essential and that which every woman should acquaint herself with.

Monday of the week coming, Miss Auline Gleen, authority along this line, comes to Ranger, as guest of the Oil City pharmacy. Her complete knowledge of skin, its care and many other interesting things will intrigue and fascinate. She is a well versed representative for Cara Nome products, an exclusive Rexall line of cosmetics. A good skin requires daily attention. Plan a visit with the pleasing Miss Gleen during her week's engagement at Oil City.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning!
The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food does not digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sick and the world looks pink.
A more loved movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those ten pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Don't stubbornly refuse anything else.
