FRANCE TAKES FIRM HAND IN AIDING PEACE

By United Press
The firm hand of French Premier Edouard Daladier appeared today to aid in stabilizing Europe's peace.
An unexpectedly large vote of confidence in the chamber of deputies gave him drastic powers to meet the economic crisis, opened the way for settling strikes analyzing the defense program and illustrated again the ability of France to unite when facing danger from abroad.
Daladier made clear that France would ignore "threats and agitation regarding her frontiers and colonies" which indicated a firm hand against fascist expansion in North Africa.

Meantime the United States got a taste of wartime atmosphere with congressional charges that fascist, Nazi and Japanese spies were active.
Two U. S. destroyers at Manila were ordered to Davao to investigate reports that 22 "mysterious" vessels were anchored off the southern Philippines. It also was revealed the Philippine army had dispatched two planes to Davao after the collector of customs there said the vessels were either destroyers or submarines.
Reports reaching Washington, but denied at Tokyo, said Japan was constructing a new "hit and run" fleet of high-speed cruisers, which naval officials said would be the most powerful weapons at sea.

Elsewhere:
China—The recent successes of Chinese armies at Shantung province appeared likely to be nullified by strong Japanese reinforcements.
Spain—Nationalist troops made another small advance in Catalonia. To the north, however, loyalists advanced a counter attack with some success.

ROOSEVELT IS DEMANDING A PROFITS TAX

By United Press
WASHINGTON, April 13.—President Roosevelt in a sharp challenge to tax opponents today called upon congressional tax conferees to retain the skeleton of the undistributed profits tax and eliminate senate modifications of the capital gains and losses levies.
The proposal, made in a letter to Sen. Pat Harrison and Congressman Robert Doughton, immediately aroused opposition among conservative congressmen.
Harrison, who sponsored both changes, immediately defied Mr. Roosevelt and made it plain as would fight for the senate bill.
Mr. Roosevelt said his proposals would help, not hurt, business, and asserted their retention was desirable inasmuch as they symbolized a fundamental principle of taxation.

The president revived depression tactics in swift maneuvers to revive business with a big lending-aiding program.
He was almost ready for a test of strength with Vice President Garner or any conservative democrat who would challenge his recovery-relief plans.
This second new deal drive on depression will be launched tomorrow in a message to congress and Thursday night with a "fire-side chat." The president has taken 45 minutes of radio time.

Easter Cruise

BY MARION WHITE

CAST OF CHARACTERS JOYCE MILNER, heroine; she took an Easter Cruise. DICK HAMILTON, hero; he bumped into the heroine. THORNTON PORTER, traveler; she sought a mate.

Yesterday, Dick goes ashore at Hamilton on some special mission and Mr. Gregory asks Joyce to go with him. She declines, hoping Dick will call her instead.

CHAPTER VII

DICK was waiting at the ship's rail when Joyce came aboard. "I tried to see you this morning," he said, "but Dr. Gray chased me off. Joyce, are you all right?"

"Of course I am, Dick." "You might have caught pneumonia."

"Nonsense. The whole thing seems nothing at all in daylight." "Here, let's sit down a moment."

He led her over to his deck chair. The whole row of chairs was deserted now, with most of the passengers just returned from shore or watching for late arrivals.

"Believe me, we won't try any more tricks like that. I was all set to suggest another happy two-some in Havana Friday night, but I don't dare. We'll tag along with the sheep. You'll come with me, Joyce?"

"Her eyes twinkled. 'I even dared to hope you'd ask me.' For a moment he regarded her speculatively. 'I still can't be sure of you. First I thought it was perversity that wouldn't let us get together—your perversity, if you remember yesterday morning. But after last night, I'm willing to believe that it must be destiny...'"

"Don't talk like that! I'll expect an earthquake in Havana—or at least another revolution."

He laughed. "Then we'd better stick close to Mrs. Porter. I do believe she could manage a revolution."

"Undoubtedly. You saw what happened last night to the first two rebels."

He took out a cigaret, lit it slowly and leaned back in his chair, watching a group of small fishing boats off shore. In about five minutes the Empress would be leaving Bermuda for their next port of call, Nassau in the Bahamas.

Already the sailors were preparing for departure, though the companionship had not been missed.

SUDDENLY Joyce straightened in her chair. "I wonder what's going on," she said, looking astern.

The passengers were grouped at the rail now, staring intently down at the water, and there was a great shouting and commotion.

"Let's see!" Dick jumped to his feet and pulled her out of the chair.

Standing at the rail, they saw two small launches drawing up to the unsteady floating platform of the companionship.

The first was bringing back a happy but unsteady Mr. O'Hara, and watching him, one wondered how he would ever be able to accomplish the rickety steps under his own power.

They were narrow steps, with only a flimsy hand-rail for a steady arm to grasp. In the second launch, Mrs. O'Hara sat in grim and arrogant determination, oblivious to the comments and the commotion.

"That's my bridge partner," Joyce pointed out.

As the first launch drew up to the platform, Mr. O'Hara stood up confidently and managed to lift an uncertain leg. The fact that it lifted over the launch and landed securely on the platform was nothing short of a miracle.

Now a seaman stoadied him and started him on his way up the steps, where another member of the crew came forward to meet him.

The first launch backed off, making way for the second. Mrs. O'Hara, still imperiously attractive in her immaculate white suit, stepped over and started up. Her husband was nearing the top.

But the effort proved too much. The energy required to climb had borrowed too much power from his legs and his foot slipped. True, a seaman was in front to catch a hold, but Mr. O'Hara was a heavy man. Back he went, down the stairs, and the dead weight of his body struck his wife with sudden force.

On deck passengers gasped as they heard a splash. They held their breath in a long moment of suspense. A few minutes later a thoroughly soaked Mrs. O'Hara was escorted to her stateroom.

Dick shook his head, chuckling. "Let me give you one bit of advice," he offered. "Don't play bridge with her tonight!" Then he went on:

"I saw Obadiah this morning. Joyce brightened. 'I'm so glad you did, Dick!' she said heartily. 'I was just thinking of him. It took him seven years to buy the boat.'"

He nodded, thoughtfully. "And seven seconds to rip the bottom"

although it wouldn't make the finder rich. Henderson said scientists had to depend on the average citizen to find the "stones from heaven" because most "shooting stars" are high above the earth and usually appear to fall miles from their actual landing place.

The best way to recognize a meteorite, Henderson said, is by its extraordinary weight. Meteorites, often composed almost entirely of iron and nickel, are among the heaviest of rocks.

The star fragments do not always show signs of burning. The stones, although actually burned because of friction with air, probably are cool enough to handle when they strike the earth. Henderson said.

He explained that a meteoroid is nearly at absolute zero—270 degrees below zero Centigrade—when it enters the earth's atmosphere. As the meteor plunges through the atmosphere in a few seconds, the exterior becomes white-hot before the interior is heated above ordinary earth temperatures.

Wild-eyed truck drivers are more dangerous than falling bombs, Will Rogers, Jr., reports on his return from the Spanish war front. If this be true, wild errors can war hold for the American pedestrian!

Meteorite Hunt Is Urged Over U. S.

By United Press

WASHINGTON.—"Stones from Heaven" may be worth more than "Pennies from Heaven," the Smithsonian Institution said in requesting nationwide search for meteorites.

E. P. Henderson, of the museum's geology department, estimated that thousands of meteorites—or fragments of shooting stars—are scattered throughout the United States. Each meteorite, he said, would "bring a very good return for a day's work."

From the punishment of Pilate, let us realize that if we do offend God, even though we are not punished in this life that we will have all eternity to satisfy for our sins, usually however sins that we commit are turned to our own sorrow and some day we have to suffer for them even in this life.

Cave Robbers Gang Is Broken Up

HOUSTON — Probation Officer A. O. Taylor has broken up a gang of juvenile cave-using robbers who plundered and hid their loot in the manner of old-time thieves.

The youngsters, ranging in age from 15 to 17, used a large cave in the 60-foot bank of White Bayou as a hideout. Many of the boys lived in the cave for a time on food stolen from cafes and homes.

They entered the cave through a tunnel in the top of the bayou. Inside the cave Taylor found stolen bicycles, clothing, automobile accessories, guns of cigars and scores of articles.

West Texas Housewives Cheer Silence, Savings

MRS. L. M. PATE of Bridgeport, Texas, who runs a cafe, says: "The smartest thing we ever did was to buy our Electrolux because of its saving in food. Its cheap cost of operation has saved us many dollars in food and 20c to 25c a day in ice. We have had ours two years and it has never been off. We run a cafe and think it is the best and cheapest and handiest refrigerator on the market. We also think it is our best investment."

Only those who have worried with the tantrums of an electric refrigerator—which so often put your disposition as well as your budget out of balance—can appreciate an Electrolux. No repair bills and low operating cost mean a great saving, but to the busy woman it means more to have the assurance that with no moving parts, there will be no fluctuation of temperature, and when she returns—whether it be hours or days—she will always find her food in perfect condition.

(Signed) ANNA M. GREVE, 1210 Virginia Place, Fort Worth

For the past three years I have been using a Servel Electrolux refrigerator. My Electrolux only costs me sixty to seventy cents per month, and with all the food we save we really have made money by having an Electrolux. We have never been out any repair bills and, above all, it is silent. I would advise anyone that is interested in a refrigerator to get a Servel Electrolux.

SERVEL ELECTROLUX is famous for its silence. This different refrigerator can't make a noise—ever. For it has no moving parts in its entire freezing system. A tiny gas flame does the work, circulating a refrigerant that produces steady, constant cold—without friction, without sound, without wear. And that simplicity of operation means you save more money on operating and upkeep costs—year after year.

SCIENCE AND ENGINEERING JOIN TO DEFEAT RURAL LIFE ENEMIES—ROAD MUD AND DUST

Left—Science has proved that mixtures of natural soil materials, held together by moisture, can convert the typical mud "road" into one that is as dustless in August as it is mudless in April.

Right—When it isn't mud, it's choking dust. Another road that will yield quite cheaply to science's formula for making good rural highways.

Once not more than a mud road like the one pictured above it, this Virginia thoroughfare resulted from the proper mixtures of local soil materials and calcium chloride to give a "stabilized" turnpike of the type recommended by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads for low-cost, all-season purpose.

Science and engineering effectively have combined forces to fight those twin evils of rural life—road dust and mud. Making use of just such soil materials as may be found in almost any county, plus a moisture attracting chemical, the United States Bureau of Public Roads has developed formulas for building low cost, all-season roads that from now on likely will get a bigger share of federal construction funds if the clamor for better secondary highways is any indication of future trend.

The Bureau has found that tiny drops of moisture form the key for locking soil particles together. In road making, definite proportions of granular materials and very little clay, plus some moisture tend to bring about what is called a "stabilized" condition which results in a road tread that is quite hard and, with proper maintenance, is as dustless in August as it is mudless in April. Traffic of the kind usually found on "farm-to-market" roads actually operates to make a better road instead of breaking it up. This is because the "stabilized" road materials are compacted even more by the rolling weights above. How to provide and maintain the necessary moisture during dry months was the problem. Then chemistry stepped in with a substance—calcium chloride—that, when spread on the road, absorbs moisture directly from the atmosphere and keeps the road surface damp. Experimenting independently in an attempt to find a type of road that would cost little, yet provide a good surface for the greatest number of people all year round, the highway departments of several states followed the lead of Michigan and also developed dustless, mudless roads of the stabilized kind. Now thousands of miles of chemically stabilized roads serve rural and resort areas of Michigan, Indiana, Ohio, New York and other states. In these areas travel was not enough to justify spending $7,000 to $20,000 a mile for heavy traffic pavements, but quite enough to warrant spending from

Other southern states, making vigorous efforts to "balance agriculture and industry" as well as to balance the different factors with-in agriculture and lessen their dependence upon cotton, have greatly increased their commercial vegetable acreage, too. The report cites a study by Gustave Burmeister, Department of Agriculture economist, showing that Louisiana's acreage last year was five times as great as in 1919; Alabama and Mississippi four times; and Georgia and Florida tripled their truck growth acreage in that period.

Spinach was Texas' principal truck crop in acreage last year, its 50,000 acres representing about two-thirds of the total in the nation, though marketing faults make the income in "winter garden" farmers uncertain. Acreages devoted to other leading truck crops were: tomatoes 40,000, watermelons 46,000, cabbage 26,000, onions 21,000, Irish potatoes 13,000, carrots 7,800, snap beans 7,300, green peas 6,000, cantaloupes 5,200, beets 4,800, strawberries 2,150, green peppers 1,500, egg plant 500, and cauliflower 150.

Texas' progress in crop diversification is noted also in its substantial production of corn, wheat, oats, grain sorghums, grapefruit, peaches, pecans, peanuts and other staple fruit crops not listed in truck lists. Increasingly better balance in agricultural pursuits will help to round out farm incomes and stabilize purchasing power, the council's report noted, improving the state's rating as an active consumer market and therefore a magnet for new commercial and industrial enterprises.

Improved roads, making possible rapid transportation by trucks, and improved facilities for handling perishable food products during the winter and early spring have been important factors in the growing commercialization of Texas vegetable crops, the report said. That there is room for continued expansion was shown, however, by the fact that one-third of all the vegetables unloaded in Dallas alone last year came from California, and that was four times the amount received in this city from Texas shippers.

Texas Is Next To California With Acreage In Truck

DALLAS, (Special)—Significant evidence of growing diversification in farm crops, highly desirable in the South to ease the shock of dwindling cotton markets, is seen by the All South Development Council in the rise of Texas to second place, next to California, in acreage devoted to commercial vegetable crops.

The 271,350 acres so-utilized in the state in 1919, bringing the state from 12th place to second.

The $19,225,000 in cash income from such crops put the state in fourth place nationally in the table, and was a large gain from the $14,700,000 valuation in 1936.

California, which has been the leading state in both acreage and income for many years, was far out in front in value, with $92,735,000. Florida and New York were second and third, with valuations of $26,745,000 and $25,180,000, respectively.

NAMES in the News

Names make headlines. Newspapers, today as always, are made up of what people say, think, propose, dissent from. Governments, institutions, businesses—and all their activities—are only the lengthened shadows of men!

What is true on the front pages is true, also, on advertising pages. Advertisements are simply signed statements of men, banded together to form a business who seek your patronage. They back their good name against the products they ask you to buy. They say, in cold black type, that theirs is a name you can trust.

People who get the most for their money in the market-places are people who know the value of familiar, trade-marked products. They buy with confidence. They buy by name—and save time, tiresome searching, and money! Are you doing likewise?

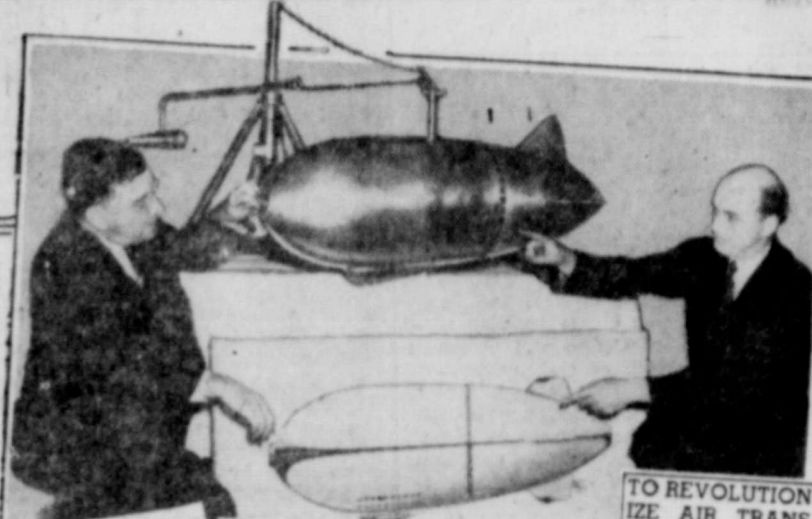

PHOTO-FLASHES

TWIN TWINS—No, you're not seeing double. These two sets of twins, Merlin and Marshall, 10, and Beatrice and Bernice, 13, are the sons and daughters of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Roberson of Atlanta, Ga. The boys are THE identical twins. They are the same in height, weight, color of hair, bone construction, and both have scars on their thumbs. Even their fingerprints are in the same classification.

HULA GIRLS—CHORUS STYLE—Celebrating the anniversary of the hotel where they are employed as waitresses, these Hawaiian girls dropped their traditional grass skirts and appeared as chefs in the accepted chorus manner.

WAR IS THEIR BUSINESS—But they wage it with typewriters. W. E. Courtney, left, who covered the Ethiopian and Spanish wars for Collier's, is shown saying goodbye to Jim Marshall, the magazine's Far Eastern correspondent, who was wounded in the Panay bombing and is now back in the U. S. Courtney is enroute to China to take Marshall's place.

SPRING SONG—Seven little lincas look on the world for the first time and only one has nerve enough to voice his opinion.

FOR WEAK HITTERS—Johnny Whitehead, Chicago White Sox pitcher, would be the pal of every hitter in the American League if he tossed balls the size of this one. But it's just a beach ball painted like a baseball.

RADIO INVADERS SACRED PRECINCTS OF THE LAMBS CLUB—The first radio broadcast ever to emanate from the historic old Lambs Club was the high spot of the lunch recently attended by famous personages of the radio, stage and art worlds. Dr. M. Sayle Taylor, radio's "Voice of Experience" and secretary of the Lambs, introduced to the radio audience the notables shown in this picture, taken in the Lambs Club lounge. They are (left to right): James Montgomery Flagg, Howard Chandler Christy, David Warfield, Billy Gaxton and "Voice of Experience." Other notables present were John Golden, Harry McNaughton ("Bottle"), Leonard Liebking, Metropolitan tenor Armand Tokaty and Frank McIntyre.

WORLD'S SMALLEST ARMY—M. Roblot, Minister of State, reviews the army of Monaco, principality in the Mediterranean, most known for its famous Monte Carlo. The army—the smallest in the world—consists of some 60 officers and men.

(3) An afternoon suit of fine black woolen. Silk braid edges the waist-length boxy jacket. The white blouse is of an all-over embroidered organdie.

IN SPRING TRAINING—(Left) Gabby Hartnett, dean of major league catchers, starts his 17th year as Chicago Cubs' receiver. (Right) Rellie Hensley, catcher, whom the Cleveland Indians acquired from the St. Louis Browns.

THEY DIDN'T PAY OFF ON THIS—Primitive forms of insurance predate the Christian era, but they couldn't cover disasters such as the destruction of Pompeii, ancient ruins of which are shown above. Consumers Information points out that today life insurance, safeguarded by law, has been brought within the reach of millions. Advertising is credited with bringing this vital protection to its present state.

(2) A diagonal floral printed crepe decorates this striking gown. The flowers are red and blue on a ground of white. The decolletage and jacket are of white chiffon.

FOR MILADY—(1) A lattice-yoked afternoon suit of black marocain. The tight basque-jacket laces up the front like a boot on self-covered "pegs." A dainty blouse of white and pale pink organdie peeps through the lattice.

FACE HOBBYIST—When it comes to hobbyists, Emil Mottert, Hoyleton, Ill., shoemaker, tops them all. He has made a violin out of toothpicks, a ukulele out of a gourd, a mandolin out of a cow's horn, a saxophone out of corn-stalks—even a bull fiddle out of cow's hide.

"Life's Greatest Folly" Subject of Revival Sermon

"Life's Greatest Folly," will be the theme in the Consecration Week Revival at the First Methodist Church, tonight at 7:45. The pastor, Rev. G. Alfred Brown, will deal with the very foolish conduct of a certain thoughtless individual, that brought a great deal of needless sorrow and suffering. He will then point out the more intelligent way.

The sermon last night was on the theme of "Your Passage to Paradise," and began with the words of Jesus: "Whoever shall confess me before men, him shall the Son of man confess before the angels of God." In this he spoke of a successful life voyage with Jesus Christ, and likened it to an ocean voyage. It was pointed out that in beginning the voyage, there are some things that we must part with, there is a certain cost that must be met. Then is the evidence of our citizenship in the Kingdom of Christ on earth, and the only way to become a part of that spiritual kingdom is through spiritual birth. Then we must have our vision, which is the approval of Christ, as promised in the text. Then we must get aboard, and continue the entire voyage with Christ, the captain of our destinies.

Splendid interest is being manifested, with an increasing attendance. Only four nights remain in this week, and then comes Easter. Everyone is invited to be in the service tonight.

The following story appeared in the Arkansas paper after the game:

"After a scoreless first quarter Key Eakin passed 25 yards to Ralph Atwood and the speed merchant eluded tacklers to race 16 yards for the Red's first touchdown midway in the second period. Ray Cole place kicked the extra point.

"Guy Gray, a brilliant passer, went to work a few minutes later for the Whites and closed a 65-yard sustained drive with a 10-yard pass to Zack Smith and a 39-yard heave to Walter Hamberg during the march."

In addition to his passing Gray ripped off a 15-yard end run when he failed to find a receiver in the open.

Both Gray and Cole are expected to be mainstays in the Razorback field during the next football season.

The Seven Dwarfs Sing As They Go

Singing their "Hi, Ho" song, Walt Disney's inimitable dwarfs, who share the starring honors with the heroine in his full-length feature production "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," trudge homeward from their dimmed mine, little suspecting that a beautiful stray Princess has wandered into their cottage and occupied all seven of their little beds. The EKO Radio Picture is the latest animated achievement in music, song and phantasy in Multiplane Technicolor. The Arcadia gets the film for a four-day run starting Saturday.

Useful Training Is Provided by NYA For Texas Youths

DALLAS, Texas.—The National Youth Administration Work Program has developed so that training boys and girls for useful and practical adult occupations at which they may earn a living is a fundamental objective. J. C. Kellam, State Youth Director, said in a talk here this week.

Mr. Kellam said that off-job training classes are also operated for youths assigned to projects with the cooperation of the State Department of Education and various public schools, the Adult Education program, and other public agencies.

Resident Training Projects have been developed so that intensive training may be given, he said. Five Resident Training projects are now in operation, one at Southwest Texas State Teachers College for 50 boys interested in general shopwork; another at Luling Foundation Farm for 12 boys interested in farming; a third at Texas Technological College for 50 West Texas farm boys; and two at Prairie View State Normal and Industrial College for Negro boys and girls interested in domestic service training. Two other Resident Training Projects are scheduled to start in April, one at Buchanan Dam for 100 boys who will receive training in subsistence agriculture and farm mechanical work, and the other at Center Point, in East Texas, for youths interested in farming.

"We recognize that many steps in this training program are new," Mr. Kellam said. "Here is a great field for training and education. The NYA has already helped thousands find their way bridging the gap between the end of school and a regular job."
