ROBY OFFICERS QUIZ FROM CASE SUSPECT

By United Press
ROBY, Tex., April 21.—A burglary suspect, giving his name as Raymond McAdams, 29, was questioned here today regarding his activities on March 30, the date Mrs. Weston Frome and her daughter were slain near Van Horn.

"Some things about McAdams make us believe he is worth investigating," said Sheriff Frank Harris.

McAdams was arrested here Thursday in connection with a $500 theft from Tom Henry of Roby. McAdams was driving a black Plymouth sedan with a California license.

"McAdams has been in El Paso recently, but he's mighty close-mouthed about what he has been doing," said Sheriff Harris. "We don't have anything definite to connect McAdams with the Frome case, but we are checking his fingerprints and have sent his gun to the State Public Safety Department at Austin for inspection."

TWO WARS ARE PROLONGED BY NEW OFFENSES

Warfare in Spain and China today developed into stubborn counter attacks that may prolong the fighting indefinitely.

The Spanish loyalists tightened defense lines against insurgent offensives. The government claimed the nationalistic armies had been stalled. The loyalists ordered all boys of 18 years of age to report for military service.

In China the Japanese renewed their shattered offensive toward Hankow, but their difficulties continued. While admitting the loss of Linyi to the invaders, the Chinese claimed they had trapped 10,000 Japanese near Yhsien.

At Berlin newspapers reported that the nazis had confiscated all properties in Austria of the exiled Archduke Otto, pretender to the throne, who has been charged with treason.

The General—a Sick Man?

CHARGES FILED AGAINST 2 FOR STATION LOOT

Sheriff Loss Woods Thursday announced the filing of robbery with firearms charges against Dee Hutton, 30, and Bill Roberts, 22, in connection with the recent theft of $29 and a $25 radio from the C. T. Lucas Service station in Eastland.

Woods also stated that the men would be questioned in connection with a wave of filling station hi-jackings in West Central Texas.

Woods stated that Hutton, allegedly an ex convict and formerly of near Rising Star, and Roberts of Long Beach, Calif., were apprehended 15 miles northwest of Breckenridge and in a Breckenridge rooming house, respectively.

The officers also stated that in the Breckenridge room where Roberts was arrested was a radio similar to the one taken from Lucas' station.

The men were being held at Breckenridge.

Data On Tindall Related Thursday By Eastland Man

Information on William Pike Tindall, who fought in the San Jacinto battle April 21, 1836, in which Texas won independence from Mexico, and whose body is buried in the Eastland cemetery, was related Thursday by Ed T. Cox Sr., Eastland county pioneer and historian.

Cox stated:

"There lies in the cemetery at Eastland the remains of William Pike Tindall, a native of Alabama who came to Texas to help in the winning of its independence.

"In 'Texas Under Many Flags' by Clarence R. Wharton it is stated that Tindall was born in Alabama on March 4, 1818, and was one of the young men from the states east of the Mississippi who volunteered to help the Texans win their independence in the revolution of 1836 fighting under General Sam Houston.

"In Thrall's 'History of Texas' in connection with the siege and capture of San Antonio from the Mexicans in 1835 we have this statement, 'The Texan force was not more than 800, including the Greys, Captain Peacock's company from the Mississippi, and Captain English's company from East Texas.' As Captain Peacock's company was the only one mentioned as being from East of the Mississippi, it is reasonable to suppose that Mr. Tindall was a member of this company.

"The Greys spoken of were organized at New Orleans and did yeoman service in the Texas Revolution under Captains Morris and Breese.

"In an obituary which appeared in the Eastland Chronicle December 6, 1901, it is stated that Judge Tindall also was a member of the Mier expedition and a participant in the drawing at Rancho Salado.

"As the Mier expedition was made in 1842-43 it is assumed that Mr. Tindall remained in Texas until about the last of 1843 at least when he returned to Alabama.

"Mr. Tindall married Virginia Caroline Barksdale but no date is obtainable as to time or place.

"A few years after his return to Alabama he moved to the State of Mississippi where he was county judge of Pontotoc county for four years and county clerk for a like number.

"We have no information that his wife came to Texas with him in 1873 and it is reasonable to suppose that she died prior to that time. Mr. Tindall made his home with Bill Long, a son-in-law, and wife in Hamilton county for some years and in 1885 came to Eastland county where he lived with a son, J. L. Tindall, until his death November 25, 1901.

"Mr. Tindall had four children, two sons, J. L. and Dick Tindall, Mrs. Bill Long and another daughter, the latter two living at Stephenville.

"A brother, Judge T. P. Tindall, settled in Robertson county, Texas, at an early date and was justice of peace in precinct 1 at the time of his death in 1880."

BORAH'S TAX VIEWS SOUGHT BY PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, April 21.—President Roosevelt called Senator William Borah of Idaho to the White House today for a possible discussion of tax and money questions as a congressional deadlock continued over the tax revision bill.

Conservative democrats and republicans contended the revised tax bill, without capital gains and undistributed profits taxes, is essential to recovery. A showdown was delayed when congress recessed over the week-end.

Meanwhile opponents of the president's $4,512,000,000 recovery drive, charged that the program means inflation, will cause new distress and bring a federal deficit of $8,000,000,000 in the 1939 fiscal year.

The billion dollar naval expansion program was attacked by Senator Gerald Nye of North Dakota, who predicted that "this is only the beginning" of a naval expansion costing billions of dollars. The house gave approval to a conference report of the $546,866,494 navy department bill, the largest in peacetime history. The bill must be approved by the senate.

Mr. Roosevelt stirred his executive departments to high speed in the recovery drive. Harold Ickes PWA administrator, indicated that the PWA may call new projects in addition to nearly 3,000 already approved.

The president plans to confer next Wednesday, with Henry Ford.

Rep. John Taber of New York of the house appropriations subcommittee asserted the spending program "unquestionably will result in inflation."

The Supreme Court Takes the Ball

For a moment it looked as if the Supreme Court's decision to give a little study to intercollegiate football would have the effect, once an opinion had been delivered, or crossing the subject off the list of handy issues for dinner-table argumentation.

Most people have already made up their minds, of course, on whether college football is a commercial activity, but a number still can be found on what might be called the other side, and it looked at first glance as if a court decision might bury the subject for good.

A second look, though, changed the picture completely. The issue is not whether intercollegiate football is a "gigantic commercial activity" or a necessity of higher education, but whether it is the former or "an essential governmental function."

This just presents everybody with an entirely new subject to fight about between now and the court's arrival at a decision, and leaves the old issue to go right on being cause for hair-pulling.

The new issue should provide much better conversational fare than the old. The government is appealing a circuit courts decision favoring the "essential governmental" theory because that decision took away the federal right to impose a tax on the football game receipts.

The circuit court felt the tax was an unconstitutional burden on the state government, because, in short, state universities also play football.

State universities play football with other states' universities. If football is an essential government function, why couldn't inter-state football be regarded as a function of the federal government?

If the Supreme Court decides the game is a governmental function, and the government is still contending it's a "gigantic commercial activity," keep your ears open for the old indignant yell: "Take the government out of business! Rah! Rah! Rah!"

Of course, the big danger is that the whole thing will become just another political football.

A rooster in Ironton, O., got killed when he rushed at a washing machine and engaged it in battle. He probably expected it to swerve and honk its horn.

Detroit had itself a city-wide streetcar strike and don't think more than one married woman's boy friend wasn't caught without an answer for the first time.

Mussolini's landlord has passed away, and Il Duce is expected to take over the reins of government any moment now.

It's beginning to look as if the Japanese and Chinese were going to lick each other.

Easter Cruise

CAST OF CHARACTERS: JOYCE WILSON, heroine; she took an Easter Cruise. DICK HAMILTON, hero; he bumped into the heroine. JARVIS PORTER, traveler; she sought a mate. Yesterday: Five miles out of Port-au-Prince, which overlooked the whole of the Empress, Mr. Gregory reached the importance of a silly anecdote. CHAPTER XIV: "Do you think we should venture out of the city?" Mr. Gregory asked uncertainly. They were finishing their lunch at the British Club, and he seemed loath to leave its cool shelter and its conservative protection. "Why not?" Joyce asked lightly. "We have plenty of time, and Dr. Gray remarked particularly that the drive to the Petionville Club was a worth-while sight. "I darsay the road takes us through the jungle. He stood up, unwilling. "Well, if you really would like to go, we'd better start." "The women are never willing to stir off the main street," Joyce reminded him. "The minute they're off the ship, they swarm into the shops to bargain for all sorts of things they'd never buy at home. That's all they seem to go ashore for—to buy things." "As a testimony, when they get home, that they were actually abroad." "It was nearly six when they left the club, and now the sun hung low over the farthest rim of the mountains. Night would fall quickly in the valley. This time they did not have to search for their three musketeers; the boys were in front of the club, awaiting them expectantly. "Big ship go soon," their interpreter reminded them, with an air of responsibility. "Yes, we must go fast," Mr. Gregory settled himself beside Joyce. "Quarter past six," he noted, glancing at his watch. "We've plenty of time." Presently the boy at the wheel bent forward, jiggled a few levers, and waited expectantly. There was a quick response to his efforts; the tune of the motor changed from a rumble to a deep threatening roar, accented by staccato back-firing. They were off, and soon going at the lightning pace of 50 miles per hour. The car shook under the tremendous pressure, and in the back seat the customers were jolted about until their teeth chattered. "Hey!" cried Mr. Gregory. "Wait a minute!" The driver turned and smiled, mistaking the order for a compliment. "Stop, I say! Stop!" It was the motor which obeyed his command. It gave one deep spasmodic choke, followed by several puny put-put-put gasps; then, with a long whispering sigh, it died out altogether. The three boys looked at each other in consternation. Mr. Gregory groaned. "Sounds like we're out of gas," Joyce remarked woefully. Their driver quickly disproved that theory by the old expedient of poking a stick down into the tank to measure. It was half full. The other boys peered uncertainly beneath the hood, their black faces long in distress. Their magic wares had stopped! Mr. Gregory issued his superior

A FRACTURED breast bone may force Freddie Steele to quit the ring. It's an old wound. Dr. William McNeerney of Tacoma located the trouble after taking 100 X-ray shots. He had to get it from behind at a certain angle. Dr. McNeerney ordered Steele to rest. There will be no work of any kind until May 1. Then, more X-rays, and the doctor's verdict. Steele is matched with Young Corbett III in San Francisco, but at the moment the world middleweight champion can't tell you whether the fight will take place late in May or in July. Indeed, he would scrap Young Corbett III free, gratis, and for nothing if he were sure that his fractured breast bone was healed. The battle with Young Corbett III, surprise conqueror of Freddie Apostoli, depends upon the doctor's decision. Although that may be favorable, Steele, right now is wondering how he'll stand up in training. In short, the young man is worried. "It's the most painful thing I ever knew," writes Steele. "It slung up my arms and legs. The same injury drove Happy Littleton and Lefty Cooper out of boxing. It caused Mike Gibbons months of agony, suspense, and worry." STEELE says that if the verdict is favorable he'll tackle Al Hostak, a promising Johnny-Come-Lately, in Seattle following the Corbett engagement. Then he'll be ready for Apostoli, who stopped him, in New York, or any of them. "I'm not trying to alibi," he explains, "but this breast bone business had me screwy when I fought Apostoli at the Garden. I can't myself. That goes for my fight with Carmen Barth in Cleveland, too. Steele relates how he spent two hours in Al Ulbrickson's laund, on Lake Union the other afternoon. "It's a topless little chugger, offering no protection against cold wind and rain," he asserts. "And that was the type of weather that greeted me." "AT the end of a two-mile competition between the University of Washington varsity, jayvees, and scrubs, I was drenched, shivering, and white with cold. "There they were... in that cold and rain in nothing more than short tights and sweat shirts. But Ulbrickson tells me that the kids love it... that crowd hardens them and makes them at one... and judging from what I saw, there is no doubt about it." Steele is positive that Washington will make it three consecutive three-way sweeps of the Hudson at Poughkeepsie in June. He wishes that he were as sure of his breast bone being all right as he is that all three Husky crews can keep up with Al Ulbrickson's launch.

THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON - The war between the government and the public utility holding companies will be resumed very shortly. Some companies will be "good," now that the Supreme Court has compelled them to register with the Securities and Exchange Commission under the holding company act. Others, including some of the largest, will continue to try to beat the act in the courts. Not the famous so-called "death sentence," but the act's provisions covering inter-company service charges will provide the next battlefield. These charges, levied by holding companies upon operating companies with or without regard to the value of services rendered, have been the devices by which certain holding companies are alleged to have milked consumers of billions of dollars. H. C. Hopson, head of the High Associated Gas & Electric network, who gained great notoriety during his hide-and-seek game with the Senate lobby committee, is expected to be in the forefront of utility executives resisting application of the service charge provisions. The act provides that service by parent companies must be rendered at cost and that costs must be mutualized or pro-rated so that certain favored companies will not escape their share. Holding companies are required to make applications to SEC for approval of service contracts and approval of SEC rules permit a 30-day exemption after registration, under the law the servicing must be furnished at cost during that period. No one knows which of about 130 holding companies already registered are seeking to comply with the law. A. G. & E. registered March 29. In case that company doesn't bring suit against the act, it means it does not bring in a report showing compliance, SEC probably will hold hearings as a preliminary to court action. The "death sentence" won't reach the courts for a year or more. Its application is complicated and SEC officials are going slow with it. Actually, this section requires SEC to simplify corporate structures, make sure that voting power is properly distributed and see that physical properties are geographically integrated. In other words, SEC must take holding companies apart and put them together again. Officials hope this will result not only in lower rates but will also make utility stocks the soundest possible investment. Already Mr. Hopson and SEC officials are mutually interested in a curious case in nearby Virginia, where the Virginia Public Service Co. operates as an A. G. & E. subsidiary with headquarters at Alexandria, across the river from Washington. President Alexander Speer of the subsidiary company has refused to obey A. G. & E. orders which he said would mean the "milking" of his company by the A. G. & E. The Virginia State Corporation Commission has forbidden A. G. & E. to discharge Speer pending an inquiry. And A. G. & E. has gone to the courts seeking an injunction against the commission's order. (Copyright, 1938, NEA Service, Inc.)

Unique Trade Plan Meeting to Be Held On Friday Morning

A meeting of the merchants of Ranger, called for Thursday morning, was postponed until Friday morning at 9 o'clock, when it was found that several who wanted to be present would be out of town today. Every merchant in town is urged to be present promptly at 9 o'clock Friday morning, at the Gholson hotel, for the purpose of hearing a new trade expansion plan outlined.

The plan, which is so unique that it is meeting with instant appeal wherever tried and has been in constant operation in a Nebraska town the size of Ranger for the past three years, where it is hailed as the biggest boon to business the town has ever had.

Attractive features of the plan are the simplicity of its operation, the low cost of promoting it over a period of months, the growth in its appeal from month to month as word of it spreads over the trade territory and the little amount of work necessary for each merchant in promoting it.

Success of the plan, like any civic or cooperative movement, depends largely upon the cooperation of the merchants in promoting it, as it has been tried in other places and perfected until it is ready for adoption as it stands.

Every merchant in town can cooperate, as it is attractive to department, furniture, dry goods, hardware, grocery, or any retail store, as well as tailor shops, filling stations and practically every service line.

There will not be time to contact every merchant personally, but an urgent invitation to all has been extended and it is believed that when the plan is explained that all will see its attractiveness as a stimulant to business and in drawing out-of-town people from over the trade territory.

Jim Ambler had charge of the Lions Club program today and presented Mrs. Hamrick and her girls sextet in two songs and Dr. L. R. Gray in an interesting talk.

The songs presented by the young ladies were greatly appreciated, and the program as a whole was one of the best in some time.

Dr. Gray spoke interestingly on "Who is the Greatest man in the World," bringing out an interesting discussion of his subject.

Fund Being Raised To Mark Burial Place of Pioneer

GOODNIGHT, Texas—A $1,000 fund is being raised by West Texas friends to mark the burial place of Col. Charles A. Goodnight, pioneer Panhandle rancher and noted Texas trail driver.

Col. Goodnight and his wife, for whom this town was named, are buried side by side in a local cemetery. The memorial fund would be spent building a six-foot iron fence around the burial plot and to place between the graves a simple stone marker inscribed with the record of the pioneer couple.

W. H. Patrick, Clarendon banker and friend of the Goodnights, is chairman of a committee raising the fund. Vance Johnson of Amarillo is secretary. Other committeemen are J. T. Christian of Claude, Cleo Hubbard of Goodnight, and Claude Wells of Memphis. Mrs. Harold D. Bugbee of Clarendon is treasurer.

Harold Bugbee, Panhandle artist, will contribute lithographed portraits of Col. Goodnight to the first 25 contributors to the fund. The West Texas Chamber of Commerce will be asked at its Wichita Falls convention to take part in the campaign.

Col. Goodnight brought the first beef cattle to the Panhandle. He was noted in the early days as a trail driver and ranchman.

Liquor Revenue Still Showing An Increase

AUSTIN.—The state treasury and the state liquor board were at odds during the week over a treasury statement that liquor income was on a decline. It was found that one department was using stamp sales receipts as a gauge; the other was using all receipts.

Finally State Treasurer Charley Lockhart issued a statement that a re-check shows an increase of $163,752 in the sale of liquor, beer and wine stamps for the first seven months of the state fiscal year. A decrease had been reported because the total was contrasted with totals for a preceding year that included other income of the liquor board, such as license fees.

East Texas Routers Foiled by the CCC

JASPER, Texas.—Hogs which root up a scrawny existence from the East Texas piney woods will be foiled again this spring.

Enrollees at the Nancy camp of the Civilian Conservation Corps, who have planted hundreds of thousands of pine seedlings during the last several years, have begun the hog-proof fencing of 10,000 acres.

Forest Ranger Lorenzo Jared said that, unless the CCC boys fence them out, the razorbacks would uproot months of labor required in planting the seedlings.
