FORD CLAIMS LEADER PUTS 'OVER FAST ONE'

By United Press
NEW YORK, April 28.—Henry Ford, without specifying to whom he referred, said today that the people have a leader "who is putting something over on them."
He asked whether he referred to a labor leader or to someone else. Ford declined to answer.
"There's a lot of people who are half asleep," he said. "They are looking for a leader and they have one who is putting something over on them, and they deserve it. People ought to be their own leaders."

Following his luncheon with the president yesterday, Ford previously had expressed belief that there is too much government interference with business and too much international interference with government.

Ford will be a guest tonight at a banquet in connection with the American Newspaper Publishers Association convention.

"Did you come away from the conference with the president with the assurance conditions will be better?" Ford was asked.

"Conditions are going to be different," he said.

"Do you mean better?"
"Certainly," Ford replied. "Conditions will always change. People have got to wake up and go to work."

Administration officials hope that Ford would publicly line up with 16 business men who have pledged themselves to cooperate with the government in the fight on the depression.

Legion Post Plans A Farewell Party For Dr. Logsdon

Dr. Logsdon has served the local legion post faithfully and well during his long membership and the post will honor him with this farewell party tonight in recognition of his service.

All ex-service men are urged to be present at the meeting tonight, which will start at 8 o'clock in the legion hall. Refreshments will be served.

Johnson was in the box for Tee Pee and Whitefield pitched for the Elks.

Tonight the Elks will play Hamilton. No admission is to be charged.

Nationalists Wipe Out Loyalists In A Grenade Battle

By United Press
HENDAYE, Spain, April 28.—Nationalist forces wiped out the 22nd Loyalist Brigade in a "battle of hand grenades" north of Castellon today, while warships shattered loyalist coast defenses and communications.

The loyalists advanced against the nationalist lines using only hand grenades. Poor visibility prevented the use of artillery and aircraft. It was estimated that more than 600 loyalists were killed and 200 taken prisoner.

Reports from representative groups of creameries, cheese factories, and ice cream plants indicate an increase of 40.2 percent in creamery butter production over March last year, a gain of 55.6 percent in cheese production and a rise of 40.3 percent in ice cream production.

"With the rapid adjustments which are now taking place in land utilization under the direction of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration the statistics on livestock and livestock products are assuming increasing significance as a measure of change in agricultural activity," the Bureau report said.

BRITAIN AND FRANCE REACH AN AGREEMENT

The principal victors, Great Britain and France, in the greatest war in history, met today in an effort to save themselves from their triumphs of 20 years ago.

The French and British reached full agreement on all points, it was reported and army and navy staffs of the two countries probably will confer after Chancellor Hitler's visit to Rome next month.

French sources said Britain would be informed that France intends to stand by Czechoslovakia in any crisis.

Probably never before has there been such a quick shift of power in Europe as that which confronted British Prime Minister Chamberlain and French Premier Daladier as they met in London to chart a new course.

For France the question was whether she will be forced into the position of a secondary power. Britain has been in a more favorable position, by shifting to direct negotiations with dictators.

FINGERPRINT DEPARTMENT SHOULD BE INSTALLED IN SHERIFF OFFICE -- JURORS

That a fingerprint department be installed in the sheriff's office was recommended in a written report of March term 88th district court grand jurors who adjourned Wednesday.

Apparently, the jurors were impressed with that method of criminal identification partly because of great assistance, they said, given them in cases by M. H. French, fingerprint expert of the Cisco police department.

The jurors declared that installation of a fingerprint department in the sheriff's office would eventually prove a saving to tax payers. The sheriff's office would be able to give greater cooperation to other city officers in the county, they added.

According to some estimates it is believed a finger print department would cost $1,100.

The jurors returned 10 indictments, making the total for the term 25. Twenty-four were felony and one a misdemeanor. The indictments returned Wednesday charged robbery with firearms, driving intoxicated, selling intoxicating liquor and burglary.

Named by the jurors and in custody were Marcel Lutz, Jessie Lee Lutz, Howard Wright and John T. Herrod, all charged with burglary.

LA FOLLETTE IS CRITICIZING A LARGER NAVY

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Sen. Robert La Follette of Wisconsin today charged that President Roosevelt, 10 years ago, enunciated principles in direct conflict with the chief executive's program for a $1,150,000,000 naval expansion program.

LaFollette, in an assault on the bill to increase war fleets by 20 per cent, warned the senate that ultimate responsibility for the new program must be placed with the president.

He bitterly denounced expenditure of billions for armament in times of economic crisis. LaFollette recalled a speech by President Roosevelt in 1928 in which he condemned the practice of authorizing construction of naval vessels beyond current fiscal years.

Meanwhile it was understood the administration was preparing to attempt to force the new wage-hour bill to the floor of the house by petition. The bill is in the house rules committee, whose members are not enthusiastic about bringing it to a showdown.

Fleet Sailors Give Honolulu a Boom For a Short Time

HONOLULU.—Fifty thousand sailors have completed the "capture" of Honolulu.

With the war games at an end and the exception of maneuvers incidental to the fleet's return to Pacific Coast bases officers and men enjoyed 10 days' relaxation after a month of strenuous duty in the annual mid-ocean exercises.

Hawaii, scene of the nation's heaviest concentration of troops and armament, is a favorite port with most fleet personnel.

The visitors got a bad break in weather this year at opening of their liberty period, with low clouds and rain prevailing, and a wind which local people think is cold but may be a warm breeze to those fresh from northern climes.

Typical of servicemen's reactions to the islands was the comment of Private John Curley, New York marine just back from China. "My girl thinks Hawaii is a very romantic place," he said, "so I am finding out for her and from all I have seen it lives up to its reputation for blue skies and waving palms."

A fellow marine, Private Max Klein of New York, was more blasé. "We have places like this around New York," he said, "where we go for week-ends."

Seaman William Seger, New London, Conn., just off the U. S. S. Whitney, was sold on the Far East and "you can have your palm trees and Walkiki and hula moons. Why they even have better hula girls in Manila than in Honolulu," he said, although admitting the only hula girls he knew in the Philippines were Hawaii-trained.

"And I like Shanghai better than either of them. I was on the Augusta when she was bombed but I still like China."

No Night Shore Leave
About half the enlisted personnel was allowed liberty each day. Thousands of sailors rolled into Honolulu on buses each morning from Pearl Harbor, 14 miles away, where nearly all vessels except the aircraft carriers are anchored. The carriers, Saratogs, Lexington, and Ranger anchored about a mile off Walkiki Beach. Enlisted men could stay ashore only until 7 p. m.

Local merchants prepared for weeks for the fleet's annual visit, which marked one of their biggest booms of the year. A hula market prevailed for 10 days in grass skirts, ukuleles, leis, cocoanut-ready-for-makim and picture post cards. Down on Hotel streets a sailor could get his picture taken in a grass shack with a real hula girl for 25 cents.

A high percentage of fleet personnel were camera fans and many follow the usual tourist trails to King Kamehameha's statue in front of the Federal building, Iolani Palace just across King street and on out to Walkiki, Diamond Head, or "around the island."

Committee Meet For Conference Is Due On Friday

The meeting was postponed because it fell on the week-end of Mother's Day and many of the post office employees of the district would want to visit their mothers on that Sunday and would be unable to attend.

The meeting will be held at the Gholson Hotel Saturday, May 14, with a banquet that night. Postmasters and post office employees from all over the district are expected to attend.

Poultry and Egg Shipments Down

AUSTIN.—Rail shipments of poultry and eggs from Texas to interstate points during March were sharply below those of the corresponding month last year, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research has reported. Poultry shipments totaled 59 cars, compared with 79 in March last year, a decline of 25 percent; while egg shipments dropped from 94 cars last year to 47 during March of the current year, a decline of 50 percent.

Thirteen cars of eggs were received in Texas from out-of-state points—twelve cars from Kansas and one car from Missouri.

Power Consumed Shows Small Gain

AUSTIN, Texas.—Electric power consumption in Texas during March maintained a substantial margin of gain over the like month last year, but the increase over February was less than the normal seasonal gain, it was stated by the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research.

Reports to the Bureau from seventeen representative power companies show total consumption of 192,000,000 kilowatt hours, an increase of 8.9 per cent over March last year and 2.6 per cent over February. For the entire first quarter of 1938 the gain was 10 per cent over the corresponding period last year.

Commercial consumption was up 11.2 per cent from March last year; industrial consumption gained 7.8 per cent, and residential consumption rose 13.4 per cent.

REPRIEVE ONLY CHANCE LEFT FOR VAUGHN

AUSTIN, April 28.—John Vaughn, reprieved in the death house at Huntsville last week because an electric generator failed, will be within six hours of another execution before he knows his fate tonight.

Chairman Bruce Bryant of the pardon board said the board would have no decision before 6 p. m. Bryant said the board at that time would announce its decision in Vaughn's case and also in the case of Johnnie Banks.

Another reprieve for John Vaughn, whose attempted execution failed twice last week, was the only clemency considered today by the state pardon board.

Commutation of the death sentence, which Vaughn declared was interrupted by an act of God, is not being considered, said Pardon Board Chairman Bruce Bryant.

Three weeks time has been asked to assemble new evidence that Vaughn did not fire the shots that killed motor policeman A. A. Edwards of San Antonio, after participating in a filling station hold-up. A companion in the holdup received a 99-year robbery sentence.

A decision will be deterred until late today, Bryant said.

An earlier decision was expected in the case of Johnnie Banks, youthful negro preacher, convicted of killing a 13-year-old negro girl in Matagorda county. He also was to have died last Friday, but was granted a week reprieve. Both the father and sister of Banks' victim have recommended clemency.

Gov. Alfred's approval also is necessary to delay execution of the men tonight. The pardon board recommends clemency. Alfred was in Dallas.

Meantime reports reached Austin that the courts at Huntsville or San Antonio would be asked to stop the execution. Vaughn's brother contends he is "legally dead" and cannot be executed again. It also was reported that Vaughn's mind had given way under the strain of waiting for his execution.

Three Texas legislators, who were in Huntsville to witness the execution, have appealed to the pardon board to commute the sentence on the grounds that both men "died a thousand deaths while waiting repairs on the generator."

MAY 15 FINAL DATE TO SIGN IN PROGRAMS

May 15 will be the final date for farmers and ranchers to sign in the 1938 AAA farm and range programs according to information received by County Agent Cook from the state AAA office.

Farmers who signed a work sheet since January 1, can receive AAA payments for 1938 if they comply with the terms of the program, on their individual farms. If they did not sign a work sheet in 1937 or have not signed a work sheet since January 1, 1938, they will not be eligible for a payment in the 1938 AAA Farm Program, even if they comply with the provisions of the program.

Ranchers who have signed an "Application for Determination of Grazing Capacity" in the 1938 Range Program can execute one or more of the 14 recognized range conservation practices and earn a payment in the 1938 Range Program. Those who have not or do not sign such an application by May 15th, 1938, cannot earn a 1938 Range payment even if they execute range conservation practices in 1938.

Farmers or ranchers who wish to sign for 1938 should call at the county agent's office at Eastland not later than May 15th.

The Future Alters the Present

It is a pretty little picture which has been held up for the edification of a heedless world by the Viennese geologist, Prof. F. X. Schaffer

Professor Schaffer foresees the coming of a new ice age. Something queer is going on under the surface of our earth as he sees it. The solid ground is slowly humping itself up very slowly, but steadily, enough to lower the annual temperature by a fraction of a degree. If this goes on (and he seems to suspect that it will) the temperature will drop just enough to bring a new sheet of glaciers down over the northern hemisphere.

All of this won't happen tomorrow, even if Professor Schaffer's diagnosis is correct; but from the stand point of geological time the change is taking place at what amounts to break neck speed. It is the professor belief that the new ice age will be upon us within the next 2000 years

Now of course it takes more than one expert to make a cataclysm, and any timours mortal could undoubtedly find plenty of geologist to disagree heartily with everything that the Viennian expert has said. But there is a salutary little notes of warning in this gloomy picture which is worth bearing in mind even if the picture itself turns out to be wholly false.

We ordinarily take it for granted that all our human activities take place in a permanently stable, orderly world. The solid earth, the open sky, the recurring change of seasons—these, as we see them, are the immutable framework within which we work out our destinies as best we can.

So, taking the earth for granted, we go ahead and do our best—or our worst. We devote our energies to all kind of struggles that array man against man; to wars between nations, to combats between rich and poor, to every conceivable kind of class, racial, and group antagonism. On these things, we tell ourselves, depends the "future of the human race."

But suppose the future of the human race depends on nothing of the kind. Suppose, instead, that it depends on some incalculable shift in the forces of nature itself; suppose that all of us, black and white, rich and poor, American and European and Asiatic, have only a few more centuries to go before the flame goes out and the earth becomes an unlit lamp swinging silently through everlasting night. What then?

Would we, in such case, have the intelligence to drop our petty squabbles and see our human race for what it really is—a unit, which holds insecure footing on an unpredictable planet, and which must work together if the years which remain to it are to be made endurable?

It might take the shadow of approaching cosmic calamity to make us do that. Looking at the world today, one must admit that it would almost be worth the cost.

Now that it's been disclosed that half the country's stockholders are women, the time is foreseen when a buying market will be known as "cowish."

A prominent orchestra leader has announced he intends to retire to a farm for awhile to raise potatoes. Going in for a little hi-de-hoeing.

'LET US CONTEMPLATE THE BEAUTIFUL SCREEN'

REDUCING OF GAS RATE IS RESTRAINED

Federal Judge James C. Wilson sitting in Ft. Worth has restrained temporarily the cities of Quannah, Memphis and Wellington from enforcing ordinances reducing natural gas rates. It was announced here, United Gas Corporation, which serves the cities, filed separate petitions for each city charging that the company had not been given an opportunity to be heard before the reduction was ordered. This follows closely a federal court temporary injunction against El Paso where the city council had reduced rates without giving the company a hearing. This case was filed by Texas Cities Gas Company, a member of Lone Star Gas System. A few cities and towns passed rate reduction ordinances or resolutions inviting the Railroad Commission to investigate gas rates, following announcement by two Railroad commissioners, who are running for high state offices, that the commission would take concurrent original jurisdiction with city councils and investigate gas rates free of charge upon invitation. Lone Star Gas System officials deny that commission has such a legal right. "As a result of another decision in the Travis County District Court last week denying the Texas Railroad Commission an injunction against Texas Cities and Community Natural Gas Company, we expect to proceed by every legal means possible to prevent the Railroad Commission from making this Company a political football and putting it to the enormous and unnecessary expense of rate controversies," Roy C. Coffee, general attorney for Lone Star, said. "We will permit the commission access to our books, records and property over and protest in incorporated cities and towns, as the commission's jurisdiction is finally settled. Regulation as prescribed by law is not opposed by us, but will resist any and all illegal aggressions against our gas service for political purposes. "The state attempted to enjoin the company from trying to prevent the Railroad Commission from exercising original jurisdiction in incorporated cities and towns. We believe this original jurisdiction is exclusive with the City Council in such towns, and we expect to do everything we can legally to keep the Commission within the law in this matter. "It is evident that since the Commission has done nothing to make valuations in these towns for seventeen years and has during such time taken the position that in these towns for seventeen years and has during such time taken the position that they had no original jurisdiction under the law in such cities, the commission's sudden change in this election year is nothing more than a political move."

More Farmers To Fertilize Crops Declares Officials

At least 11,000 acres of peanuts, cotton, truck and feed crops will be fertilized in 1938 by Eastland County Farmers according to a recent survey made among fertilizer dealers by County Agent Cook. This acreage is four times as great as that fertilized in the County in 1936 and almost twice as great as the acreage fertilized in 1937. Farmers are realizing the importance of a plentiful supply of feed on the farm as indicated by Cook's survey which shows that fertilizers for feed have gained in popularity, more especially than fertilizer for cash crops. Records in the County Agent's office show that at a cost of $1.00 to $1.70 per acre farmers have been able to more than double their yield of feed or increase their peanut yield from 5 to 15 bushels per acre by the proper use of commercial fertilizers. Many different brands and analysis of fertilizers are being used by Eastland County farmers ranging in price from $24.00 to $60.00 per ton and ranging in plant food analysis from 4-8-4 to 11-48-0. Every sack of commercial fertilizer carries a guarantee tag which shows the percentage of available nitrogen, phosphorus, and potash. A 16-20-0 fertilizer contains 16 per cent nitrogen, 20 per cent phosphorus, and no potash. Most Eastland County farmers have learned that it is not a good practice to mix the fertilizer with their planting seed as this causes a low germination, and reduces the effectiveness of inoculation for those who inoculate their seed. As a general rule they are placing the fertilizer 2 to 3 inches below the seed and getting satisfactory results. Some are putting out the fertilizer when they plant by using a fertilizer distributor attached to the planter while others are making two separate operations of the job by putting out the fertilizer from one to two weeks before planting. Both methods are good. Latest experimental data show that for the best results fertilizers should be placed about 2 inches below and 2 inches to either or both sides of the seed. At present there is no fertilizer distributor available that will do this and all experiments have been done by hand. In addition to field crops, fertilizers are being used in Eastland county on gardens, fruit trees, pecan trees, lawns, flowers, and ornamentals. Gorman leads all other towns in Eastland County in the number of tons of fertilizers sold with Carbon second, then Ring Star, Ranger, Cisco and Eastland.

Inoculate Peanuts, Peas, Is Advise of Agent Elmo Cook

Inoculation of seed peanuts and peas before planting can be expected to increase the yield of seed and hay from ten to twenty-five per cent, according to reports made by County Agent the last two years by Eastland County farmers. The operation costs from ten cents to twenty-five cents per acre on peanuts and from 2 cents to 5 cents per acre on cowpeas, depending upon the amount of inoculant used. An inoculant is a fine soil or other substance containing nitrogen fixation bacteria. When this inoculant is mixed with the seed before planting the bacteria adhere to the seed. When the seed are planted the bacteria start multiplying on the roots of the plant and form small nodules or knots on the roots of the plant. The nitrogen fixation bacteria take nitrogen from the air and change it into food that the plants can use. Just as cows turn feed into milk for human use the bacteria turn air-free nitrogen into plant food for the plant's use. Our soil is lacking in nitrogen and inoculation of legumes is one way to supply a part of this shortage. Inoculation will not take the place of commercial fertilizer but pays an excellent profit if the cost is considered. Inoculants are available in most towns in Eastland County from dealers of seed, fertilizers and other farm supplies. Eastland Committeemen to Demonstrate Legume Inoculation. The eighteen county and community committeemen of Eastland County are serving as demonstrators of legume inoculation in 1938 in cooperation with County Agent Cook and a company which manufactures the inoculant. Each committeeman is being supplied with sufficient inoculant to inoculate 2 bushels of cowpeas or 4 bushels of peanuts and will keep a record on

Questions In Farm Program Answered By R. R. Bradshaw

Several questions that are being asked at the County Agent's office by Eastland County farmers are being answered as follows by R. R. Bradshaw, Chairman County Agricultural Conservation committee. Questions: What crops which are usually planted in Eastland County are considered soil depleting? Answer: Some of our soil depleting crops are cotton, peanuts when harvested (not hogged off), small grains, when planted for harvest and not turned under as green manure, corn, grain sorghums (not sweet sorghums), sweet sorghums when harvested for seed or silage, truck and vegetable crops such as berries, melons, tomatoes, and sweet potatoes, canning peas, and Irish potatoes. Question: What crops which are usually planted in Eastland county are considered conserving; that is, count neither soil depleting nor soil building and can be planted without penalty? Answer: Some of our soil conserving crops are sudan, and sweet sorghums when grazed or cut for hay, but not harvested for seed or silage, peanuts when hogged, yields of seed and hay on the inoculated acreage as compared with an adjoining acreage of the same crop not inoculated. Question: What soil building practices are recommended for Eastland County for use in connection with the 1938 farm program? Answer: Some good soil building practices recognized in 1938 are building of standard field terraces, building tank dams, re-seeding old pastures, contour ridgeing pasture land, planting hairy vetch on cropland, turning under green either cowpeas, sudan, cane or oats (wheat turned under green is not soil conserving), planting of crops on the contour, and sowing small grain on the contour. Question: When peas are planted in strips between strips of soil depleting crops, how many rows of peas should be planted in each strip for soil building credit? Answer: When strips of peas are 10 feet or more in width the acreage covered by peas counts soil building and the acreage in soil depleting crops counts soil depleting but when strips of peas are less than 10 feet in width the whole acreage counts soil depleting. For example, a 15-acre field planted 4 rows peas; 8 rows peanuts would be considered 5 acres peas and ten acres peanuts while a 15 acre field planted 3 rows (rows 3 feet apart) peas; 8 rows peanuts would be considered 15 acres of peanuts. At the same time, however, the farmer would credit for the acreage in peas as long as they occupy as much as a third of the land, I advise all farmers who intend to qualify in the program to plant their peas in strips of 4 or more rows.

JIM WENT TO THE CELLAR

Last night Jim, our next-door neighbor, went to the cellar and looked over his last year's porch furniture. His appraising eye saw all the scratches and wear given the chairs last year by his three growing boys.

Jim decided that he needed some paint and a new brush; and planned to take that furniture out in the back yard next Saturday afternoon for the annual cleaning-up process.

Curious, but men all over the country are now tihnkng of paint, and seeds, and outdoor games. And—a new hat, a new suit and some new shirts.

And maybe the women don't feel the urge to buy new things!

And why shouldn't they? Why be content with old things when there is money for new? Mercanths are offering the latest goods of all sorts in the advertisements in this newspaper. Go to them as you would to old friends. You can rely upon their descriptions of every article.

Gainesville Circus To Be Attraction At Health Festival

MINERAL WELLS—Announcement has been made here that the Gainesville Community Circus has been booked as a major attraction of the second Health Festival to be held June 17-18-19.

The circus, nationally recognized as the only civic project of its kind in the world, will present matinee and night performances on opening day of the celebration, Friday, June 17.

Dr. H. Arthur Zappe, general chairman of the festival, stated: "We are very proud to offer the Gainesville Community Circus as a major attraction of this year's Health Festival. We realize that there are many people in Texas who have not had an opportunity to witness this fine show, and we are looking for great crowds from many Texas cities."

The three-ring show is produced, directed and presented by business men and women of Gainesville. Performers do not draw salaries, and net profits are used for enlargements and improvements from year to year.

In recent months many national publications, as well as newspapers throughout Texas, have published articles dealing with the success of the undertaking.

Other major attractions of the Health Festival program are: golf tournament, square dance contest, high school band contest, health contest, old time fiddlers' contest, amateur show, motor races and bathing beauty contest.

Back to U. S. Comes Insull

One-time emperor of electricity, Samuel Insull returns to the country where he built the utility empire which crashed in 1929.

After his journey from Rome where he has been living, Insull refused to talk to newspapermen and waved off photographers.

For an award annually given the freshman making the highest average for the year, but that item covers only one facet of her personality.

She was offered scholarships by schools in all parts of the nation, but she chose Trinity because its curricula in drama, romance languages and biology appealed to her.

Entering last fall with her youth as a handicap, Miss Stripling easily "made" the Players Club, a dramatic organization, her first tryout.

Her choice in boys is the "smart" football player type. Miss Stripling weighs 110 pounds and is 5 feet, 3 inches tall.

Instead of being ridiculed because of her age, she has gained the admiration of all her fellow students, instructors and officials of the university because of her vivacity and poise.

Allotments Under Program Question Being Determined

Eastland county farms for which 1937 or 1938 work sheets have been signed are being tabulated in the state AAA office at College Station with the assistance of Harry K. Westerman, Eastland County Agricultural Conservation Assistant.

As soon as the tabulation of the work sheets is complete they will be returned to the county agent's office by Westerman, where individual crop allotments on each farm will be announced by the county agricultural conservation committee.

As soon as crop allotments for 1938 are announced each individual farmer who has signed a work

County Agent Cook has estimated that individual farm allotments will be announced in Eastland county not later than May 15th.

'Hopper Meet Is Set for Monday At Cisco C. of C.

A meeting of all Eastland county farmers who are interested in discussing grasshopper control will be held in the Cisco Chamber of Commerce at 2:30 Monday afternoon, May 2nd, according to plans made by Elmo V. Cook, county agent.

C. H. Gable, entomologist representing the U. S. Department of Agriculture will be present to discuss grasshopper control and tell how the U. S. Government is prepared to cooperate with farmers in controlling grasshoppers before they damage growing crops of cotton, feed and grain.

During a recent survey made by Gable and the county agent, it was found that approximately 75 per cent of the grasshopper eggs in the Dotban area have hatched young hoppers which number several hundred per square yard in the worst infested areas.

At present the little insects are in small areas along creeks, ditches, fences and rock ledges and can be controlled without a great amount of expense.

Farmers and livestock raisers who experienced damage from grasshoppers in 1937 or who have land infested with the little hoppers at present are urged to attend the meeting Monday to assist in plans for effective control.

Insane Hospital for Criminals May Be Forgotten Again

By Gordon K. Shearer
United Press Staff Correspondent
AUSTIN—Unless some candidates for governor make it an issue of the 1938 political race, the state's need for a hospital for the criminally insane probably will be forgotten by the time another session of the legislature is held.

Spasmodically the need bobs up. State indignation flares at lack of such provision. Then it is forgotten before the time arrives to do anything about it.

Two legislatures have taken perfunctory action. A follow-through was lacking to be sure that anything was done.

As far back as 1931 the need was recognized. The 42nd legislature passed an act of a type familiar in legislatures. It authorized the hospital, directed that criminally insane persons be confined in it—but provided no money for the hospital and no penalty for failure to follow the law's provisions.

The 43rd legislature cured part of the difficulty by providing $50,000 for the hospital. Apparently the legislators considered the need pressing. It was made part of the appropriation for the first year of the biennium. But if the $50,000 was spent for such a hospital, officials still are hunting for it as a place in which to confine the criminally insane.

Public opinion may force action yet. Claude Teer, chairman of the state board of control, asks:

"If your mother, wife, sister or daughter should lose her mind and be placed in an institution, do you want criminally insane people in the same place?"

Major Clark Wright added the suggestion that detention of criminally insane patients in the usual asylums results in unnecessary restrictions and harsher treatment for the harmless insane.

The small, unarmed forces of

In Bleak No Man's Land of Chinese War

No Man's Land of the Sino-Japanese War right now is a stretch along the Yellow river where, with each side holding one bank, some of the fiercest fighting of the entire conflict is in progress. Symbolic of the new respect the invaders have gained for the surprising Chinese warriors is the attitude of watchful waiting shown by the Japanese soldiers pictured above at an outpost high above the river in Shanai province, with formidable mountains forming a gloomy backdrop for the bloody drama.

attendants at the hospitals make it necessary to keep patients more confined when they are in groups containing those with criminal tendencies.

Wright visits all the state asylums frequently as part of his check-up on accounts. He said it is impossible to estimate accurately the number of inmates who properly should be placed in a separate institution. Because no such hospital is provided, officials have not gathered the data.

He pointed, however, to the great number of criminal trials at which defendants are acquitted on pleas of insanity as indicating that many criminals and potential criminals are in the hospitals.

Lack of finger-printing of inmates of state eleemosynary institutions also has been drawn to public attention. It is being started on a small scale—not, however, as a result of the escape of Howard Pierson. Officials say it has been delayed because of expense and will go forward as

Bagby Blossoms

Boston Red Sox were given early assurance that they could expect considerable help from at least one of their young pitchers when Jim Bagby, Jr., above, a surprise choice, beat the New York Yankees in the season's opener. Jim's father copped 20 games for Cleveland in 1920.

"Pin the Tail On the Donkey"

When you were young, you played that timeless game. Blind-folded, you weaved your way to the painted donkey on the wall, and tried to pin his tail in approximately the right position. You hit his nose, his ear, his leg—or you missed completely, and your blind stab landed on the empty wall.

Do you still "pin the tail on the donkey" when you go shopping? Do you make your purchases "blindfolded," leaving your choice to chance? That is literally the "unenlightened" method. It wastes your time, your energy, your patience—and your money.

Don't buy haphazardly. Know beforehand what to buy, and where to buy it, and how much to pay for it. Read the newspaper advertisements! Scan the shopping columns; compare prices, compare values—decide upon your bargain. Then go directly to the store which advertises it; make your purchase—and be content!

No more hit-and-miss buying when you follow the advertisements. They lift the blindfold; they make it easier to find the best values.

Easter Cruise

BY MARION WHITE
Copyright, 1938, NEA Service, Inc.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
JOYCE MILNER, heroine; she took an Easter Cruise.
DICK HAMILTON, her father; he brought her on the cruise.
LUCILLE PORTER, traveler; she brought a note.

Yesterday Mrs. O'Hara became Joyce of the theft of her jewels and Joyce is unmoved by the captain. She goes fearfully.

CHAPTER XX
CAPTAIN BOYER'S voice was kindly.

"Remember, Miss Milner," he said, "I'm not accusing I want you to explain, if you can. Your steward found this clip, which Mrs. O'Hara has identified, in your stateroom. It was caught on some clothing in your closet."

The fact beat upon her brain, until her head spun. Mrs. O'Hara's jewels had been stolen—thirty thousand dollars' worth of jewels—and of them all, this clip had been found in her room. It was unbelievable, impossible!

But there it was.

"How did it get there, Miss Milner?" the captain persisted.

She shook her head despairingly. In a pitifully small voice, she replied: "I don't know, captain. I don't know how it got there."

"After you came up to dance this evening, did you return to your cabin at all?"

"No."

"You do remember passing Mrs. O'Hara in the hall?"

"Yes, I passed her, as I explained on my way to the ladies' room."

"What cabin was she coming out of?"

She tried to recall. Then wondering why she had not noticed it at the time, she observed quickly: "Why, she was coming out of the same cabin as mine, except that it was on 'A' deck."

The captain nodded. "That is her cabin, A-14. And yours is C-214."

HE regarded her curiously from under half-closed lids, his shrewd eyes probing into her very soul. And as he continued to stare, she realized, with a terrible implication, what he was thinking. Her cabin was directly under the O'Haras', two flights below. It would have been an easy matter to pick up the jewel case and run down to her own room. The stairs were at that very spot. She could have accomplished the trip in less than a minute!

"Miss Milner, let me ask you something else." The captain's voice lost a bit of its severity;

It took on a confidential warmth. "Did you know the O'Haras before you came on this trip?"

"No, Captain Boyer." She was a little taken back by the question. "I never saw them before in my life."

"You know what I'm thinking about, of course," he went on to explain. "That night of our first dance out on deck, Mrs. O'Hara seemed to resent her husband's dancing with you."

"If you will recall, captain," she pointed out, "the dance was a Paul Jones—a free-for-all exchange of partners. I did not see Mr. O'Hara out. His wife's resentment was uncalculated."

"I see." His face was grim, uncommunicative. "Very well, Miss Milner. You may go."

She walked back to her room slowly, her head strumming with the chaotic uncertainty of her own thoughts. How did the clip get into her room?

MEANWHILE, on deck, despite Dr. Gray's well-meant advice, Dick broke away at the first opportunity and hurried down to Joyce's cabin.

He hastened down the stairway, past "B" deck, to "C" deck, his clumsy Pilgrim square-toed shoes making a tremendous clatter. He made his way to C-214. The door was ajar on the catch, and as he knocked, he looked in, hopefully. But Joyce did not answer. Twice he knocked on the door, then getting no reply, he pushed aside the curtain and poked his head into the room. The cabin was empty. There was no sign that she had been down here. Where else had she gone?

Back to the upper deck he went; twice he walked around it, looking in through the windows to see if she might have joined some group within the lounge or the salon. But he looked in vain.

Then, just as he was about to make another trip down to her cabin, to wait for her this time until she did return, he stopped abruptly. Through the open window the sound of Mrs. O'Hara's strident voice came to his ears. He turned and retraced his steps, as casually as he could, and looked into the lounge. She was sitting on a settee, a light coat thrown over her flowery frock, her hair tied up in a most prepossessing arrangement, and she was discussing the robbery dramatically with a group of wide-eyed women sitting in a close circle about her.

"I just saw her coming down from the captain's quarters," she was saying with smug satisfaction. "And if ever I saw a guilty expression, it was on that girl's face."

An eager young woman, her eyes brightened by this thrill of scandal in their midst, edged her chair closer. "Do you really believe she did it?" she asked breathlessly.

"I'm positive," Mrs. O'Hara declared, with an emphatic nod.

"Oh, I don't know," a mousy little woman in a blue-ruffled Goldilocks dress spoke up. "She's a nice sort of girl. The first day out, my husband said to me, 'Now take that Miss Milner; she's what I call a well-bred young woman.'"

She looked up artfully. "Her words were just fuel to Mrs. O'Hara's fire, and she knew it."

"Yes," agreed the eager young woman. "All the men like her."

Mrs. O'Hara flared. "She's the kind that does attract men. Flashy and brazen!"

Outside the window, Dick's hands itched to choke her. This course, loud-mouthed, baroque queen could dare to call Joyce flashy!

"I STILL say," the blue-ruffled one put in hastily, "I still say we can't be sure she did it. So many people were running about the ship..."

In her subtle fashion, she baited Mrs. O'Hara to tell them something more definite. "And with the stewards, in and out of your room all the time. You really can prove anything!"

At last Mrs. O'Hara jumped to the challenge.

"Oh, can't I? Well, don't be too sure!"

Quickly they pressed her for details. "You mean—somebody actually saw her do it?"

Reluctantly, at length, Mrs. O'Hara explained. She leaned forward confidentially, and lowered her voice to a hoarse whisper, so low that Dick had to press close to the window in order not to miss one word of what she was saying.

"The captain asked me not to say anything about it yet, not until everything has been located. But—one of my clips was found in her closet!"

"It was?" Her listeners gasped in quick amazement, entranced by the delicious thrill of it.

"Yes, it was caught in one of her dresses. She must have dropped it, in her hurry to dispose of the case."

For one staggering moment Dick stood there, every vestige of color drawn from his face. Then, without further hesitation, he turned about and hastened to the captain's quarters.

65 AND OVER—Nearly eight million persons in the U. S. have reached or passed the critical age of 65. Particular interest attaches to them because of State and Federal legislation recently enacted to bring them a measure of economic security. At the beginning of 1937 there were three large groups of aged (each numbering about one million persons) who possessed or received some form of income: persons with current earnings, persons with savings, and those in receipt of public assistance (old-age assistance and aid to the blind) under the Social Security Act. In addition, there were three smaller miscellaneous groups: one of about half a million (574,000) persons who received Federal, State, municipal, and private pensions, insurance annuities, and so forth; a second of about 4 of a million (268,000) persons who received various forms of organized public or private relief, other than public assistance under the Social Security Act in their own homes; and a third group of about 200,000 aged persons who were in public or private homes, in hospitals for mental disease, or in other institutions. Out of a total of about 7.8 million persons 65 or over on January 1, 1937, in the continental U. S. and Alaska and Hawaii, it is believed that approximately one-third (2.7 million) were self-dependent. Approximately one-fifth (1.6 million) were supported wholly or partially by public or private social agencies. Between two-fifths and one-half (3.5 million or 45 percent) appear to have been essentially dependent on friends and relatives. Approximately two-thirds (5 million) were supported wholly or partially by public or private social agencies or were dependent on friends and relatives.

State Laws Govern Catching of Fish In Many Instances

By United Press
AUSTIN, Texas—This is the week when Texas fishermen get out their rods and reels look at their supplies of artificial lures, check their fishing licenses and plan trips to lakes and streams. May 1 opens the fishing season.

Fishing for some varieties has been permitted but a statewide law protected bass and white perch through March and April. Special laws protected them earlier in some parts of the state.

Protective measures have brought results, Executive Secretary Will Tucker of the state game, fish and oyster department reports. Bass prospects are the best in years.

But the fisherman better be wary and consult the local laws in force where he fishes. To fish with an artificial lure anywhere in the state he must have a license that is issued for $1.10. If he fishes in Harris county or any of a group of 20 counties known as the "hill country" he must pay 55 cents if he is not a resident of the county. The state departments has ruled, however, that the holder of a $1.10 lure fishing license need not pay the added 55 cents.

Any manufactured bait or imitation of natural bait is an artificial lure. No state license is required to fish with worms, minnows, helgramites, crayfish, shrimp or other natural bait, or with meat, cheese or other substances not imitating something else.

Persons who live outside the state must pay $5 for a season license or $1.10 for a five-day license.

Local laws must be consulted in most places as to size and number of fish that may be retained. Nearly everywhere a bass less than 11 inches or perch less than seven inches must be thrown back.

Kind of tackle is regulated in many places by special law. Possession of illegal tackle within 200 feet of the water is prima company by its owner. Service men investigated, found a small owl that had entered through the chimney, continued through the stove pipe, and had lodged in the back part of the stove.

Denies Taking Simone's Money

Promising "plenty of fireworks before this thing is over," Sandra Martin, above, angrily denied in a Los Angeles jail that she had confessed to the theft of $16,000 from movie actress Simone Simon, who employed Miss Martin as her secretary. District attorney's investigators announced the 32-year-old secretary admitted taking the money to buy clothes and furniture.

Pea Planting In Program Is Told

Eastland County farmers who intend to qualify in the 1938 farm program are being advised by County Agent Cook to plant their crops in strips of 4 or more rows instead of one or two rows in order that the whole acreage so planted will not be considered peanuts, corn whatever kind of crop is planted between the peas.

Cook states that strips of peas, 10 feet or more in width will not be included in calculations when the acreage of soil depleting crops are figured.

Tarrant County's Oldest Schools Sold

FORT WORTH.—Tarrant county's two oldest schools were sold at auction recently, one to be salvaged for lumber and the other for use as a negro church building.

Some of the bidders were pioneer citizens who attended Live Oak and White Settlement schools. The one-room Live Oak school building was sold for $78 for salvage. It was built in 1895.

The White Settlement school, erected 37 years ago, brought $310, bid by a negro contractor who will rebuild it into a church.

ing erected for the Buchanan Lake area on the Colorado river. Warden are alert to see that law violators do not offset their efforts to restore the state's once abundant fish supply.

THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON WITH RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON—Sometimes official denials actually are true and, if one is to judge by additional vehement protestations made in private by the men who know, reports of a "tilt" between Vice President Garner and President Roosevelt at the White House were grossly exaggerated. That point is relatively unimportant, however, because there really is a definite feud between Garner and Roosevelt. Friends of both will tell you that the vice president is the strongest political foe the President has in Washington.

Garner, like many other veteran Democratic politicians, doesn't want Roosevelt's influence to overshadow the 1940 Democratic convention. He also is opposed to most labor legislation and to large scale government spending. Although he may not row openly with F. D. R. at the White House, his game, as a practical politician, calls for diminution rather than enhancement of the President's prestige.

The prospect of many few cotton mills in Texas hasn't made the wage-hour bill popular among the Texans. Their state hasn't suffered badly from the depression, so Texans in Congress aren't laboring by relief demands. This has been more or less true all along, since Texas has benefited from farm payments and Jesse Jones long ago poured plenty of RFC funds into his home state. All of which has made it relatively easy for Garner and his Texas cronies to attempt to hobble the President.

HELP KIDNEYS PASS 3 LBS. A DAY

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 million of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Most people pass about 2 pints a day or about 2 pounds of waste.

Frequent or empty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, which due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, big pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doss's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give longer relief and will help the 15 million of kidney tubes flush out poisons from your blood. Get Doss's Pills.
