Treating Sorghum Seed Is Urged by County Agent Cook

Sweet sorghum and grain sorghum seed should be treated for smut before planting to prevent the frequent losses that occur from smutty heads, according to Elmo V. Cook, county agent. In addition to a loss of grain running sometimes as high as 25 per cent, smut is harmful to animals when hauled feed is fed without first cutting off the smutty heads. Heading the smutty stalks also requires considerable labor when the percentage of smutty heads is high.

The Rewards of Fire Prevention

Winter is over. The good days are here. And millions of people will soon start a pleasant round of motoring trips, picnics, camping excursions and other forms of outdoor recreation.

If you are one of these, you will see nature at her best. But do your part to make sure that she continues at her best—by being careful with fire.

There are millions of acres of ravished, blackened stump land in this country that once bore magnificent trees—because someone was careless with a campfire. Some of the finest natural garden spots have been turned into ashy wastes—because someone was careless with a cigarette. Animals and humans have perished horribly in holocausts of raging flame—because someone took a chance with fire.

Almost all states have laws against throwing matches or lighted tobacco from cars—obey them rigorously. They are sound laws, designed for your protection, and they deserve your cooperation. An excellent practice is to break a match in two between your fingers before dropping it—then you'll know that it is really is out.

Don't go on a camping trip without the basic tools of fire control—a shovel and a good-sized bucket. If possible, make a rock fireplace for your fire. Under no circumstances build it near brush, dry leaves or other easily inflammable materials. Don't build a large fire—a relatively small one is adequate for all camping needs. And when you are through with it, really put it out—douse it with water, and shovel dirt over the ash. Be certain that not a spark remains.

The prevention of fire in the outdoors is its own reward—it guarantees that there will be a beauty spot for you to visit next year.

Savings Bank Life Insurance

Periodically there is agitation for the issuance of life insurance by savings banks, where the man wanting a policy may go in, look over a list of contracts, make his selection and complete his purchase.

There is probably nothing against this system of issuing life insurance—if adequate legal safeguards for the protection of the buyer are erected. But it is inconceivable that the American people would have ever purchased $120,000,000,000 of life insurance protection, as they have, in "over the counter" buying.

Savings bank life insurance has been legal in Massachusetts for a great many years—yet the total is extremely small in comparison to that of the regular stock and mutual companies doing business in that state. It is the agency system, under which men trained in underwriting call upon the prospective buyer, that is responsible for our being the best insured of all the world's people. No other system can hold a candle to it.

Science Rolls On And Finds Many Aids for Humans

By United Press
 PITTSBURGH—A year's work in the new "Temple of Science" which houses the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research, has led to new conquests in the field of both pure and applied science, according to a report by Dr. E. R. Weidlein, institute director.

For example, hard coal heating equipment has been developed to the point where the furnace will operate "for weeks at a time without any attention whatever to the fuel supply, ash removal, or damper settings."

The 218 scientists supported by the institute from March 1, 1937, to March 1, 1938, conducted experiments in everything from shirt collars to tooth cavities to hydroxyethylapocarpine—a drug which is proving useful in the treatment of pneumonia.

Frank Changes Curb on Press

Refused permission to testify at the Senate lobby committee's investigation of his magazine. Rural Progress, Dr. Glenn Frank, top chairman of the Republican program committee, accused Chairman Minton (D-Ind.), lower right, of using his authority "to harass and intimidate" any newspaper or magazine criticizing the New Deal. The controversy arose as the committee questioned M. V. Reynolds, lower left, vice president of the publication.

Among other things, the institute's scientists have conducted worthwhile experiments in the field of dental caries or tooth decay.

It has been found, Dr. Weidlein reported, that "modification of the diet of female rats during pregnancy and lactation affects the caries susceptibility of the young... indicating that nutri-

THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
 NEA staff correspondent

WASHINGTON.—Reports that the German embassy had notified the State Department that she wouldn't participate in the New York World's Fair because of "financial difficulties" are greeted in Washington with amusement, mingled with little or no pain.

At first it was supposed that Herr Hitler might be trying to retaliate for the refusal of Secretary Ickes to let Germany buy American helium. The idea that a nation which spends vast sums for armaments, foreign invasions and propaganda campaigns all over the world couldn't afford an exhibit at the New York fair was too absurd to be taken seriously.

But now the word is getting around that the Nazis just didn't trust the citizens of New York City. It seems there are too many Jews there. The nature of Nazi treatment of Jews in Germany and Austria is no secret and even turns the average Aryan stomach in other lands.

There was every reason to believe that any beautiful white facades of buildings which the Germans might erect at the fair would soon be found decorated by adhering portions of decayed tomatoes, squashes and similar materials. A large force of outlying guards might have prevented such a catastrophe, but the Germans may have remembered that Mayor LaGuardia, who himself has cast a few verbal tomatoes at Hitler, is boss of New York cops.

This explanation of German coyness is unofficial but is being commonly accepted.

SECURITIES Exchange Commissioner John W. Hanes, who lined up 16 big business men to sign a qualified pledge of cooperation with the government recovery program, came to Wall Street and rapidly liquidating the outstanding liaison between Wall Street and Washington.

Thus far, at least, Hanes inspired more confidence in among members of the nation's liberal wing than did Ambassador Joe Keenan. RFC Chairman Jesse Jones of the New Deal's most active big shots.

Hanes comes from Salem, N. C., where his prominent banker and man. He made a spectacular in Wall Street after practically from scratch came senior partner in one of Street's biggest firms. His toward securities market more liberal than that Wall-Streeters, plus his ability, caused his recent ascent to SEC.

He is a sandy-haired, 7-foot man of medium height who well and is easy to like. His future ambition is to be senator from North Carolina. Don't be surprised if he is promoted to a bigger administrative job before the end of the year.

THE latest appeal for the National Committee for Constitutional Government, which helped defeat the Court plan, the wage-labor and the government reclamation bill—indicates that organization will oppose the administration's proposed spending recovery measures.

Conservative senators are in huddles planning to certain phases at least administration program.

cently by the National Safety Council which conducted the contest. Results of the contest were announced March 31 after judges finally had selected the winners from the 1,101 cities and 42 states which participated in the contest. Judging was done largely from examination of voluminous reports of the 1937 safety programs of the cities and states. Judges were Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, chairman; Paul G. Hoffman, president of the Automotive Safety Foundation and of the Studebaker Corporation, and D. D. Fennell, president of the National Safety Council. Memphis, Tenn., was awarded the national grand prize for cities. Massachusetts won the national grand prize for states. Six other cities won first-place prizes in their population groups. They were: Milwaukee, Wis., in the 500,000 or more population group. Hartford, Conn., in the 100,000 to 250,000 group. Beaumont, Tex., and Sacramento, Calif., tied for first place in the 50,000 to 100,000 group. Everett, Wash., in the 25,000 to 50,000 group. Des Plaines, Ill., in the 10,000 to 25,000 group. The grand prize for states went to Massachusetts, which also won the first prize in the Eastern division of states. Other winning states were: Oklahoma in the Southern division; North Dakota in the Midwestern division; Nevada in the Western division. In addition to awarding prizes to the cities and states named above, and rewarding other cities in those population groups with second and third prizes and honorable mention, the judges named a special honor roll of 113 cities with populations between 5,000 and 10,000 which went through 1937 without a traffic death. The national grand prize was won last year by New York City. The first prize in Memphis' population group was won last year by Kansas City, Mo. Contest rules provide that the grand prize among cities shall go to the city which, in the opinion of the judges, came nearest to doing for safety the maximum that could be done practically in that city. And it was precisely on this point that the judges awarded the national grand prize to Memphis. "While Memphis presented a

Elks Lose Close Game To Gordon Here On Tuesday

A bunch of boys from Gordon drove into Ranger Tuesday night on a truck, threw a big monkey wrench into the Elks softball machine and then drove back to Gordon, winners by a score of 9 to 8 over the previously-unbeaten Elks.

The Elks got off to a good start in the first inning, before Pitts, Gordon pitcher, could get started and blasted out four base hits in a row to score four runs. They came back and got one more on errors and a walk, but went out in one-two-three order for five innings, popping up weak infield flies in most instances. After they once got hot Gordon was out in the lead, which they maintained despite a ninth-inning rally that threatened for a while. Gordon scored three times in the second, once in the fourth and matched the Elks' first-inning rally by scoring four in the fifth and added another in the sixth.

very impressive reduction in its traffic deaths from both 1936 and the three years preceding 1937," said Chief MacDonald, "it was the city's comprehensive safety program and its many well-rounded and constant activities that brought it the grand prize. "We were impressed especially by the educational activities of the city along safety lines. In the field of traffic enforcement, too, there was outstanding activity. Street improvements were numerous also. "Then, too, the judges were impressed tremendously by the safety leadership shown by Memphis in a section of the country which previously has not achieved a good safety record. "We are especially pleased that this great honor comes to Memphis as the culmination of 15 years of intensive safety effort. "It is highly significant, we feel that everyone of the winning cities had a constant and well-rounded safety program, and that their safety achievements were in proportion and activities of their public officials and civic organizations."

Scoring of the contest was based on elaborate reports submitted by cities and states. Fifty points were allowed for low death rate and for reduction of death rate below the average for the three years preceding 1937. Five points were allowed for completeness in accident reporting and maintaining a permanent accident records file, 10 points for safe traffic planning and construction, 15 points for effective traffic law enforcement and 10 points each for development of child safety and public safety education programs. A similar scoring schedule was employed for states.

The Elks scored twice in the eighth when the Gordon left fielder misplayed a line drive off the bat of Red Lingle and let it get over his head for a home run with Pace on base. In the ninth the Elks filled the bases, but managed to push over but one run when, with two out, Arterburn hit weakly and was thrown out at first for the final out. Gordon outhit the Elks nine hits to eight, which matched the runs for each team. Thursday night Baptists play TeePee.

TEXAS BREAD WEEK is vital to everyone in the Lone Star State because it will help increase consumption of our farm products. From the Panhandle comes wheat . . . the finest in the world. From our modern mills come flour of superior quality. Our cotton industry provides cottonseed-oil used for shortening in baking. Dairy farmers of Texas provide milk and butter which are the good companions of bread. A larger market for these important farm products is made possible when we eat more bread . . . therefore TEXAS BREAD WEEK is important to the agricultural and industrial welfare of the State.

AUSTIN.—Total livestock shipments from Texas to Fort Worth stockyards and interstate points during March were moderately below those of the corresponding month last year, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research. Forwardings to all classes of livestock combined totaled 5,934 cars, a decline of 5 percent from March last year. Cattle shipments, totaling 3,033 cars, declined 9 percent; calves, 659 cars, increased 30 percent; hogs, 782 cars, decreased 13 percent; and sheep, 560 cars, increased 4 percent. Shipments during the first three months totaled 13,589 cars, a decline of 7 percent. Receipts of Texas livestock at the Fort Worth market were sharply below those of March last year, especially of hogs and sheep," the Bureau's report said. "Marketing to Los Angeles also

NYA Workers Will Build A Hatchery

AUSTIN. — An NYA resident project, under which ponds for a federal fish hatchery to supply fish for the lake area of the Colorado river and an administration building for the Colorado River Authority will be constructed, was begun last week at Buchanan dam, 50 miles northwest of Austin. J. C. Kellam, state youth director, announced at the end of the week that 125 selected NYA youths had reached the project and were housed in the structures used during construction of Buchanan dam, and that work on the fish hatchery ponds was underway. The hatchery is being built on the east side of the river below Inks dam, three miles downstream from Buchanan dam. The project was dropped off sharply, while Kansas City and Oklahoma City took more Texas sheep."

U. S. Bureau of Fisheries is supervising the construction and will operate the hatchery as a branch of the San Marcos establishment. Work also started on the foundation for the administration building, which will be located near the west end of Buchanan dam. This will be a rock structure, containing an auditorium, space for a concession, and quarters for CRA official visitors. The NYA boys assigned to this project were selected chiefly from families living in small towns and rural areas. They will work about one-half their time and during the other half will be given instruction in subsistence farming methods and in farm shop work of such nature that they will be enabled to care properly for farm equipment and to build and repair their farm structures. A tract of arable land adjacent to the fish hatchery site will be cultivated by these boys as part of the farm training, while shop training will be provided in blacksmith and wood-working shops set up at the project.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE

Without Colic!—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning!—
The liver should pour out two pints of bile into your bowels daily. If it's bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest, it just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sick and the world looks pink.
A more bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pints of bile flowing freely and make you feel up and up. Harmonize, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 25c. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

CHAPTER IX
Roger was glad now that she had a lovely new dress, purchased so reluctantly among her many clothes, for the dance.

Of course the fact that Beryl would be there had nothing to do with it!
Roger had seen to it that the evening for this evening should be as romantic as possible. Guy came lanterned had been hung and the velvety lawns and terrace, near the outdoor swimming pool a platform for dancing had been erected and just in case it would not be, any moon, a lantern had been supplied.

"I'm terribly sorry," Roger did offer additional apology of his own, as his strong arm circled Jackie's slim waist for the first dance. "It wasn't Beryl's fault, Jackie. It was mine. But you know I'd manage to get here, didn't you, my love?"
"I have told you before that I am not your love," Jackie gave him a stern look. She had had to pretend before the world that she and Roger were a pair of turtles doves when the announcement of their engagement had been made at the dinner table, but they could drop all that nonsense now.

"You look so sweet tonight, with those stars in your hair—and in your eyes—that I almost wish you were," he told her, with his gamin-grin. She had no right to look so desirable if she expected him to remember that this was all pretense.

"DON'T be silly!" she admonished. But secretly she was pleased that he thought she looked nice. It was almost like flying, dancing with Roger, their steps matched so perfectly, the music carried them on wings. "I suppose," Jackie said, after a few moments of this sheer bliss, "that I'm honored to have you spare me even this one evening. Since you're kept so busy getting ready creature, rather than deliberately throwing them together, my dear." "I'm not throwing them together!" Jackie flared. "Oh, why didn't Roger come? There was simply no excuse..."

"Ah, there he is now—and with Mrs. Melrose, just as you thought!" Not only Jackie, but everyone in the room, watched the entrance that Beryl Melrose made then. She was the sort of woman whose coming into a room would be termed an entrance.

She was easily the most beautiful woman present. She was all in white tonight, even to the long string of pearls about her beautiful throat. Her big eyes looked larger and darker than ever, her skin more gardenia-like.

"It's all my fault that Roger is late," she said in her self-assured, gracious manner, that made Jackie feel so gauche. "We were making some very important tests today and got so interested. I do hope you'll forgive him!"

"It doesn't matter in the least," Jackie murmured coolly. She felt that Roger should do his own apologizing. She knew instinctively that Beryl Melrose had purposely seen to it that they should be late.

"I'm terribly sorry," Roger did offer additional apology of his own, as his strong arm circled Jackie's slim waist for the first dance. "I believe you're jealous, Jackie!"

"Jealous?" She drew back, glaring at him. "I believe you are!" He bent closer to her, holding her so firmly that she could scarcely get her breath again. "Do you know I have a notion to kiss you for that, my love! In public this time, of course. So that everyone will believe in this ridiculous engagement!"

"If you dare!" Jackie gasped. She pulled away from him. She was trembling all over—from anger, of course. "Let me go, Roger—I don't want to dance with you, any more."

"Very well," Roger said. He let her go, too readily. He looked as he had that night when she had slapped him. He bowed stiffly, having escorted her from the floor. And what was more, he did not dance with her again!

for your flight—and with your new friend."

"I have been busy," Roger said. He gave her a whirl that sent her full skirt in a wide swirl and practically lifted the silver slippers from the floor. His blue eyes crinkled at their corners as they smiled down into hers. "Though if you mean Beryl—it isn't she who has kept me occupied. There's plenty to do, making ready for a flight of this sort. I don't want to slip up anywhere. I hope to be ready to leave for the west coast by the end of another week."

"Another week!" Jackie said faintly. Maybe because she had not quite got her breath. That was so very soon. "Is Mrs. Melrose going with you—to the coast, I mean?" How could she keep Roger away from this other woman—even if she wanted to—under the circumstances?

"She expects to," Roger said. "She certainly is a wonderful person, Jackie. What she doesn't know about aviation isn't worth knowing."

"Of course that's the only reason she's playing Mrs. Santa Claus to you!"

Roger gave her a questioning look. "What do you mean by that?" he asked.

"Nothing. Nothing at all!" Jackie tossed this off lightly. If Roger did not have sense enough to know that Beryl Melrose was probably interested in him because he was young and handsome, Jackie would not put him wise.

"Why, see here!" Roger practically stopped in the middle of the floor. "I believe you're jealous, Jackie!"

"Jealous?" She drew back, glaring at him. "I believe you are!" He bent closer to her, holding her so firmly that she could scarcely get her breath again. "Do you know I have a notion to kiss you for that, my love! In public this time, of course. So that everyone will believe in this ridiculous engagement!"

"If you dare!" Jackie gasped. She pulled away from him. She was trembling all over—from anger, of course. "Let me go, Roger—I don't want to dance with you, any more."

Preview of Moon's Big Show Coming May 14

The moon's big shadow show is scheduled for May 14 when the lunar body slips behind the earth to become temporarily shielded from the sun's light. If you're not asleep and the weatherman is kind, you will see a phenomenon such as that represented in the above drawing. The diagram shows the earth's surface moving over the moon's face. The successive stages shown left to right will occur in the Eastern Standard Time belt at 2, 2:30, 3, 4:30, 5 and 5:30 o'clock in the morning. Astronomers say the eclipse will be total from 3:18 to 4:09. The times, of course, will be one, two or three hours earlier if you live in the Central, Mountain or Pacific Coast time belts.

attention to the fact that Texas exports nine out of every 10 bales of cotton produced within its borders and that loss of foreign outlets imposes hardship upon every cotton farmer, upon the agencies of transportation which haul it to the state's numerous deep water ports and upon those thousands of families whose livelihood comes from the great cotton exporting industry.

Unless new domestic outlets for Texas cotton are found, the planning board believes the state will suffer a serious economic upheaval and face social problems of utmost gravity.

People Are Warned Of Snake Dangers; Especially Rattlers

AUSTIN.—Dr. Geo. W. Cox, state health officer, urges everyone to be careful to prevent snake bites when in the country. In Texas the chief offender is the rattlesnake, and, contrary to common belief, it does not always rattle before it strikes.

About 75 per cent of all bites occur on the lower extremities and could be prevented, to a large extent, by wearing high top boots or leggings. About 20 per cent occur on the hands and arms. Care should be exercised in not putting the hands in invisible places when climbing rocks, and to look before picking up anything that may be obscured by vegetation, brush or rocks.

If one is bitten, prompt action is necessary and a physician should be obtained as soon as possible. No time should be lost in removing the poison by suction; this can be done by a suction cup. First, a tourniquet should be applied above the wound, so as to increase congestion and assist in washing out the poison. A cross cut incision with a sharp, clean knife or razor blade should be made over each fang mark, or preferably to connect the two fang punctures. These cuts should be at least a quarter of an inch deep and at least that long. Suction should be applied for at least a half hour. The tourniquet should be released every ten or fifteen minutes for a minute at a time.

If bitten by a snake, do not take alcoholic stimulants; do not use potassium permanganate (which is now known to be of no value as an antidote) to cauterize the wound; and do not depend on home remedies.

Winners in U. S. Speech Contest

Failures Show An Unfavorable Trend

AUSTIN.—Commercial failures in Texas during March exceeded those of the preceding month and March of last year both in the number of firms that failed and in the total liabilities of these firms, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research has pointed out.

"According to reports issued by Dun and Bradstreet, Inc., there were seventeen commercial failures in Texas during March, compared with fifteen the month before and seven the corresponding month last year." The Bureau statement said. "Total liability of these establishments was $248,000 an increase of 62.1 percent over the preceding month and 145.5 percent over March last year. For the entire first quarter of 1938 there were 54 failures, compared with 34 during the first three

Leaves for Dallas For Demonstration On Making Cream

Warner Lovell left for Dallas today to attend the ice cream making demonstration in that city this week. This demonstration will be attended by Mills Counter-Freer owners and representatives over the Southwest.

The Guaranty Ice Cream Parlor, which is Ranger-owned and operated, has the only counter-freer in Eastland county and hopes to offer an almost unlimited variety of ice creams, sherbets and frozen malts this season, the latter of which has won great popularity in the larger cities.

It is a known fact by those acquainted with ice cream facts, that ice cream gradually loses its flavor if stored too long before serving. The Guaranty Ice Cream Parlor makes its ice cream fresh each day and advertises the fact that ice cream is best when fresh.

Lovell will make ice cream for this new Ranger enterprise this season, and it is hoped by him attending this demonstration, he will bring back to Ranger the very latest and up-to-the-minute information on how to make good ice cream even more appetizing and delicious, along with new flavors and preparations that have been developed within the past few weeks.

Name Is Omitted From a Committee

Dave Cooper, chairman of the committee in charge of promoting a series of Ranger Trades Days, today called attention to the fact that one name had inadvertently been omitted from the list of committeemen to work out details in connection with the affair.

The name of F. P. Brashier, which was on the original list of committeemen, but which was left off the copy furnished to the Times, should have been listed among the committeemen who have charge of the trades day work.

At the same time it was announced that J. L. Haney had been named Secretary-treasurer of the trades day.

Girls to Practice Softball at 5 P.M.

Girls who reported for the first meeting of the local girls softball team and others who are interested in playing will meet this afternoon at the softball park for the first practice session of the season.

Enough girls have reported to form a team, but more players are needed, it was stated today by Bill Wilson, manager, and all are asked to attend the practice session.
