OLD MURDER CHARGE FILED AFTER ESCAPE

By United Press
SAN ANTONIO, July 2.—A seven-year-old murder charge was renewed today against Robert Compton, Jr., of Gonzales, who escaped three weeks ago from the San Antonio insane hospital.

Andrew Young, uncle of the dead girl, refilled the charge today. A warrant was issued for Compton's arrest.
The charge alleged that Compton killed Miss Nagel because she "dated" a San Antonio army officer.

Northern Trappers Warn Fur Coats to Be Higher Priced

By United Press
EDMONTON, Alta.—A sharp increase in the price of mink coats and other furred wearing apparel for mid-lady's wardrobe is forecast by fur dealers here for next season.
According to reports emanating from the fur country north of Edmonton, the fur harvest will realize considerably less than the $3,000,000 total is brought last year.
Felts of all kinds are scarce on the local market and experienced dealers attribute the scarcity to a decrease in rabbits, which form the main item of diet to many fur-bearing animals.
For some reason, trappers say, rabbits contract an incurable disease every seven or ten years that kills them by the thousands. This year rabbits are at the bottom of the prevalence cycle and it will take another five years before they return to normal.

Price Cutting Is Shown to Barber As Against Law

By United Press
OKLAHOMA CITY, July 2.—W. L. Tennyson, an Oklahoma barber, went to jail as a matter of principle when he would not pay a fine of $25 for charging only 25 cents for a haircut, and still is in jail despite an Oklahoma Supreme Court order for his release on bond.
Tennyson's attorney is about to file a $100 bond to get him out so that the barber can continue to defy the Oklahoma barber price-fixing law by "charging 15 cents for a shave and 25 cents for a haircut if he wants to."
The state supreme court granted a writ of habeas corpus and directed the sheriff to show cause why Tennyson is held. The county court has ordered the barber to post $500 bond to assure that he would not violate a restraining order prohibiting price-cutting.
A test of the law which permits association of barbers in cities and towns to fix minimum prices now is before the state supreme court and it is predicted that it may finally reach the United States Supreme Court in Washington on appeal.

RANGER JUNIOR COLLEGE

(ESTABLISHED IN 1926)

HAS RENDERED TWELVE YEARS' SERVICE TO THE YOUNG PEOPLE OF THIS DISTRICT . . . FULLY AFFILIATED WITH ALL SENIOR INSTITUTIONS . . . HOLDS CLASS "A" RANKING FROM THE STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION . . . A MEMBER OF TEXAS ASSOCIATION OF COLLEGES AND THE NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF JUNIOR COLLEGES.

RANGER NEEDS THE COLLEGE

Each year 300 seniors graduate from the affiliated high schools of Eastland County and a large per cent of these attend college. Each year 60 or more students graduate from Ranger High School and approximately 50% of these attend some institution in the State. Of the Class of 1938, twenty-one graduates have signified their intention of attending Ranger Junior College.

The faculty and student body of Ranger Junior College annually spend $10,000.000 with Ranger merchants. An institution which brings this amount of legitimate business to the city benefits every citizen!

Young People Need The College

A junior college education is essential to getting and holding a position today as graduation from grammar school was twenty-five years ago!

The young people of Ranger will have to compete in a field full of workers who have been given junior college training. Let us give the young people of Ranger Independent School District an even chance and opportunity to succeed and be happy in their work. A vote for this twenty cent tax will help the young people of Ranger from being handicapped when they seek employment!

MAINTENANCE TAX NECESSARY IF COLLEGE IS TO CONTINUE!

The State Board of Education has specified that this 20-cent tax for college maintenance must be voted if the college is to continue.

The School Board of Ranger Independent School District wants the citizens to express their conviction on this issue.

One hundred and two tax paying qualified voters of this District have petitioned the Board for this election.

Vote For Ranger Junior College

The only Municipal Junior College within a radius of one hundred twenty-five miles.

Its continuation is subject to the action of the Tax-Paying Voters of Ranger Independent School District, Saturday, July 9, 1938.

WHAT TAX WILL PROVIDE:

20 Cents College Tax will provide free tuition to Ranger Junior College for each high school graduate whose parents live in the Ranger Independent School District. This means that the only actual expenses the local student will pay will be for fees and textbooks.

TEN REASONS FOR MAINTAINING RANGER JUNIOR COLLEGE:

1. It opens the college door to many for whom it otherwise would be closed.
2. It helps prepare young people for living.
3. It increases their efficiency and strengthens their high ideals.
4. It gives them 100% better opportunity for getting and holding a job.
5. It stimulates democracy and makes for a better citizenship.
6. It strengthens the high school.
7. It offers two years of standard, fully affiliated, university training at home.
8. It brings people to Ranger.
9. It helps stabilize real property values.
10. It increases the demand in Ranger for the Ranger merchants' goods.

KEEP ITS ADVANTAGES

If you want to keep the advantages of Ranger Junior College for your children and your neighbors' children, vote for the twenty cent Junior College Tax Saturday, July 9, 1938!

RANGER ONLY OIL BELT CITY WITH JUNIOR COLLEGE!

Every city of the Oil Belt has some inducement to offer prospective residents and business people. Ranger has many such inducements . . . BUT ONE OF THE GREATEST, and one which cannot be matched by any neighboring city . . . IS RANGER JUNIOR COLLEGE!

TAX LIGHT ON EVERYONE!

This tax if voted would mean that a person owning property valued for tax purposes at $100.00 would pay only twenty cents (20c) tax to the Junior College. If an individual owns property valued at $1,000 his college tax would be only two dollars ($2.00) tax each year.

RANGER SCHOOL

H. C. Wilkinson SECRETARY

HOLDUP HONEYMOON

BY EDWIN RUTT Copyright 1938, NEA Service Inc.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
JOSEPH SANDHAM—here he thought he was on top of the world until he was snatched up.
KELLY ARCHER—heroine; she thought she was headed for the altar until she was snatched up.
ED THE WEASEL—gangster; he thought he was a hoodlum, but she thought he was a hoodlum who got mixed up.

Yesterday Joe convinced Ed that he is kidnapping Kelly and then under cover of darkness he begins to do things in the Ford.

CHAPTER IX

YES, under cover of darkness, Mr. Sandham moved into action. First his left hand stole surreptitiously into his inside coat pocket while his right continued to guide the car. From the pocket he drew a small oblong object which he placed in his lap. Then the hand went back into the pocket and came out with a small—thinner object. After that, for the space of five minutes, both hands rested innocuously on the wheel.

In the back of the car the head of Ed the Weasel nodded slightly. He was by no means asleep. But the steady purr of the motor had lulled his sensibilities. Joe half-turned in his seat and stole a look at him out of the corner of his eye. "Getting sleepy?" he asked.

"Naw," said the Weasel, blinking through the darkness. "Joe drove for another mile in orthodox fashion. Then, very carefully, his right hand slipped from the wheel, groped in his lap for the slender thing which he had taken from his pocket, found it. The oblong object lay flat on his knee. And for a short time the thumb and first finger of his right hand were tortuously busy, while with his left hand he controlled the destinies of the Ford.

Finally he ceased his labors. "Want some candy?" he said suddenly to Ed the Weasel. "This car's lousy with it."
 "Don't care if I do," said the Weasel, yawning. "I ain't et much today."

Joe reached down to a cardboard packing-case under the seat and fumbled in it. He extracted a small flat box.
 "Try these," he said, passing it back to the Weasel. "Chocolate covered peppermints."
 The Weasel took the box and tore at the cellophane wrapper with his fingernail. It came off and presently he was rustling the wax-paper inside, fighting his way toward the peppermints. For a second the noise of paper rattling filled the back of the car. Under cover of it came a thinner rattling sound from the front seat, a sound that was barely audible. Then Joe slipped the oblong object back in his pocket.

"Dese is okay," said the Weasel, with his mouth full of peppermints.

"Take 'all you want," Joe invited.

"I got enough," said the Weasel. "I don't go fer sweets much." "Guess I'll have one myself," said Joe.

The Weasel handed him back the box. His fingers dove into it. After that, he replaced the lid and left the box on the seat beside him.

At dawn Joe pulled up before a likely-looking refreshment stand whose environs were devoid of other vehicles. A black-haired girl was polishing the counter inside. At Joe's signal she issued forth.

"Kawfee," said the Weasel hoarsely, from the depths of the Ford. "An' hot cakes. Fer tree. We'll have 'em out here in da car."

In a short time the black-haired girl returned, bearing sustenance. The hot cakes were huge, brown and indigestible. Kelly and Joe ate of them but sparingly. Ed the Weasel, however, was no weak sister. He cut his allotment into great segments, drowned them in syrup and masticated with audible satisfaction.

"Dat hits da spot," he stated, between bites.

"Do enjoy yourself," said Kelly. "Presently the girl returned with coffee in thick China mugs. When they had finished drinking Joe handed her a bill.

"Keep the change," he said grandly. She flashed him a smile. "Thanks."

"And just as a token of our esteem," said Joe, evidently made mellow by the coffee, "accept these chocolate peppermints. Delicious, fine-flavored, a boon to the digestion. Here you are. On the house." He picked up the box of chocolate peppermints and thrust them at her.

"The girl hesitated. Joe's eyes held hers.

"Come on," he said. "Take 'em. Plenty more where they came from."
 She reached for the box then. Joe slid in the clutch. He winked flagrantly at the girl of the refreshment stand. The Ford roared away.

MID-AFTERNOON found them near Niagara Falls and the Canadian border. In a deserted stretch of road a few miles from the town, Joe stopped the car suddenly.

"You and I," he said to the

WEASEL, "HAVE GOT TO HAVE A CONFERENCE."

The Weasel exhibited impatience at the unexpected delay. He was anxious to get across the border. He growled: "Wot we gotta talk about? Ting is to git into Canada."

"Sure," said Joe. "But we'll never do it with all this junk in the car." His hand swooped over the merchandise which loomed around the Weasel. "The customs officials will want to know why we're going to Canada with enough candy to make a herd of elephants sick. There'll be questions and delay."

"Gee, dat's right," said the Weasel thoughtfully.

Kelly looked at Joe in exasperation.

"You would bring that up," she said. "You certainly do all you can to smooth the way for our amiable jailer here, don't you?"

"I figure it a romantic touch," Joe told her, "for you and me to be married in a foreign land."

If a pretty girl can smooch, Kelly snorted. "Married? You know darn well whom I'm going to marry. And he doesn't look anything like you."

"I'll bet I'm handsomer," said Joe. He turned to the Weasel: "We've got to throw the cargo overboard, that's all."

"Tain't no place, den," said the Weasel. "An' we'll throw it." A side road offered a convenient spot. At the point of the Weasel's gun, Kelly and Joe evacuated the car. The Weasel took up a position favored by overseers.

"Okay," he said to Joe. "Chuck da stuff out."
 Joe opened the back doors of the car and started in. Confections of all descriptions were dragged out and dumped carelessly at the roadside. And as he worked Mr. Sandham sang, raucously. His broke off suddenly and addressed the Weasel. "Give me a hand with this, will you? It's heavy as lead."

Obligingly the Weasel snuffed over, placed a hairy paw on a huge box and jerked. Joe jerked in unison. The recalcitrant box of chocolate dipped nougats began to vacate the Ford.

"Then, all at once, the Weasel dropped it as if it had been a puff adder.

"Hey," he roared. "Come back here, you!" At the same instant his gun hand whipped up.

Joe raised his head. Miss Kelly Archer had converted the distraction of the Weasel's attention. She was fleeing down the road toward the main highway like a species of red-headed deer.

Taxi Driver Has Catalogued People In Seven Classes

HOUSTON—Alvin B. Cowan, who has driven a taxicab around Houston streets for years, places all people in seven categories.

Cowan, who plans to write a book about the people he has carried, has kept a diary telling about his "fares."

The first rule of taxi-driving, he has found, is to keep quiet and not do much talking. By following this rule and studying the person riding with him, he has decided that everybody comes in one of the following classifications:

1. Bigshots—"I have had some of the society set get in my cab so high on opium they didn't know where they were."
2. In-and-outs—"They get into my cab and get out where they are going; don't have much money to spend. They usually go to a picture show. They are the nicest people."
3. Drunks—"We call them beer rats. They are the beer parlor boys, usually up to petty larceny and small change deals, but they are not tough."
4. Dope heads (narcotic addicts and prostitutes)—"Nobody really knows about this bunch like cab drivers. We know their hang-outs all the way from a $25 place to a joint where you can get in for a grain of morphine."
5. Timid souls—"Usually the cheating wife."
6. Toughs—"They are not the real killers—that bunch nearly always wants faster transportation. Toughs are the little 'job' workers. They may beat a man on the head or stick up a store, or cut a man up, but they are small-timers."
7. Love-birds—"They are the most common and all they want me to do is drive them. There's no clear class to divide them."

Texas Tech Plans Trip to Mexico

LURBOCK—Conditions in Mexico have become settled enough that authorities of Texas Technological College are going ahead with plans for a student field trip in archeology in that country.

Dr. W. C. Holden, who will conduct the trip, said that Ambassador Josephus Daniels, the U. S. consul at Monterrey, and the Laredo Chamber of Commerce had all sent word that the expedition would be safe.

The group will leave July 19 and return August 23. It will work around Mexico City, Cuernavaca, Toluca, Teotihuacan, and Xochimilco.

Caleb: A Life-Time Devotion

Text: Joshua 14:6-15

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D. Editor of Advance

CALEB shared with Joshua the distinction of having the courage and faith to believe that determined Israelites could conquer the Promised Land. The rewards of heroic conduct and of true character are not always evident in this life. Men serve in sacrifice, and the evidence of what they have done often does not appear until after they have gone. But it is a satisfaction to realize that the reward came in Caleb's case, and that a fitting portion of the Promised Land was given to Caleb for his inheritance.

The reward had come to Caleb when he had not many remaining years on earth, for he was now, as he says in a statement of the lesson, 85 years old. His statement that he was then as strong as in the day that Moses sent him justified, or is it the boast of an old man who does not realize how much he has aged?

We can hardly believe that his physical strength was what it had been 45 years before—but it is easy to believe that his moral vision and his moral fiber had not weakened, and that the old man was realizing the heritage of a well-spent life which had been attained in everything to strength and courage and righteousness. The possession of Hebron, the fine part of the land allotted to Caleb, was not altogether a matter of ease. It meant the obligation to hold it and to defend it. In this, Caleb was evidently successful, for we have the record in the closing words of the lesson that "the land had rest from war."

THE moral lessons of this ancient story for our own time are not difficult to appraise. There is, of course, the question of the moral right of one people to conquer a land and to expel another people by force of might—a question that has not very seriously arisen until comparatively modern times. The story of history is, in the main, the story of conquest and settlement, with those who showed capacity for settlement as well as conquest triumphing in the end.

But apart from this deeper question of the right of conquest is the lesson that determined courage and faith with moral vigor can conquer any obstacle. The man who is truly righteous need not fear the giants of evil. Formidable enemies can be dispersed and conquered by moral will and heroism.

But there is the further lesson that the goals of life are not in triumph over enemies, but in the attainment and preservation of peace. It was the spirit in which the Israelites possessed the land that has made their place in history significant.

Joshua and Caleb are heroic types for today. The story of what they were and did is inspiring, and nerves to action all to whom "promised lands" open up in characters to be attained and tasks to be achieved.

NO doubt the United States Lawn Tennis Association has noted the public prints by now that Donald Budge has won the French clay courts title, which means the highest tennis honor to be won in France.

The United States Lawn Tennis Association, should sign in the wind and the handwriting on the wall.

The U. S. L. T. A. shudders at the thought of it, but that one according to those who know the Oakland "edhead best, means lanky Donald is all set to succumb to the old 's' sign. Not immediately mind you, but next fall . . . in time for a winter program.

Budge has completed what he set out to do—the grand slam tennis. He now holds the French, English, American, and Davis singles titles. There is absolutely nothing else of importance for a tennis player to win.

Those close to him say he no longer would get a kick out of being Bobby Riggs, Bity Grant, Gene Mako, and other current rankers.

SHOULD a newcomer spring up to challenge his amateur supremacy, his interest may be fanned into a flame again. A newcomer, perhaps like 19-year-old Frankie Kovacs from his own home town, Don McNeil, the Kenyon College youngster.

Budge is a practical sort of person despite his tendency to get much fun out of life as possible. And remaining in the ranks of amateurs when there are no more worlds to conquer doesn't add to the bankroll.

Not a few experts consider him, at his best, better than Fred Perry or Ellsworth Vines, who aren't going to get any better. They've cleared more than $75,000 on their professional tour last year.

By the time Budge returns from his European campaign, and wins up the summer with American and Davis Cup play, he'll probably have an interesting announcement to make.

One which won't make the U. S. L. T. A. feel too good.

IT looks as though Sam Chapman, Connie Mack's All-American rookie, has arrived.

The husky University of California lad wasn't supposed to be much of a chance to stick in the majors—not in his first year off campus anyway—when he joined the Athletics.

But the other day, he was walked—purposely.

The experts, of course, are waiting for Chapman to complete first round of teams and pitchers in the loop, and start on his second before they pass final judgment.

But when hurlers start handing out intentional walks it looks though they've made up their minds ahead of the experts.

LIVE SPONGES would not be recognized as such by the layman; some of them resemble raw beefsteak.

THE lines used in telescopes for purposes of orientation must be extraordinarily fine. The thickness of a spider web varies from 0.004 to 0.0013 of an inch in diameter, but splitting the thread into one or more strands allows scientists to obtain a line only 0.001 inch in diameter.

 CHICAGO.—Dr. G. L. Freeman of Northwestern university psychology department conducted some experiments which tend to disprove the theory that noise cuts the efficiency of the worker.
 Students worked at top speed under both noisy and quiet conditions and the difference in the amount of work produced was nearly negligible.
 Dr. Freeman noted that the muscular tension of the subjects rose when put under noisy conditions, but that it gradually lessened as the subjects adjusted themselves to the din.

Ranger Buys In Bonds At Big Saving To City

A reporter visited the city hall Saturday morning and in contacting E. T. Eubanks, city secretary, Eubanks stated this week had been one of the busiest weeks this year at the city hall, due to the fact the city commission had just completed a deal with the bondholders committee on past due coupons owed by the city.

The bond holders committee holds a mortgage for $24,770 on $55,884.04 of delinquent taxes of 1931 and prior years. Eubanks stated the city commission had been trying to get a compromise on this deal for the past six months and have just been successful in closing the deal and had purchased the bond holders committee's claim of $24,770 for $1,400 cash. This purchased all of the past due coupons held by the bond holders committee.

Eubanks stated the commission considered this an excellent deal and are in hopes that they can work out some more deals in the future on the bonded indebtedness in a similar manner. They believe this can be accomplished when the bond holders are better posted on the city's financial condition. The bond holders have been asking 30c for the bonds in the past. However, after the city's financial statement showed a reduction in renditions, the bonds have been offered freely at 24c.

Eubanks stated the members of the city commission believe that the bonds could be bought much cheaper in the future and hope the bond holders would see fit to reduce their bonds down to a price of 15c, the amount the commission believes them to be worth.

In addition to this deal, the commission has been studying their audit of one year's work which has just been completed and return to Ranger Tuesday to make their future home here. They have purchased the B. C. Morgan residence.

Bill Miller of Trinidad is a visitor at the home of his brother, Al Miller, who is employed at the Goodyear Service Store.

B. E. Garner is a patient at the West Texas hospital. He is reported to be suffering from an eye infection.

Leroy Jay, Jr., has returned home from a week's visit with friends at Strawn.

L. R. Pearson left Thursday for Houston where he will attend the Texas Bar Association over the week-end.

Mrs. A. J. Woodruff of Oklahoma City is visiting Miss Pauline and Aline Henson. Mrs. Woodruff is the former Miss Billie Lawson.

Norman Bailey visited his brother, Odell in Fort Worth this week-end.

Mr. J. I. Johnson, assistant manager of Montgomery Ward leaves tonight for Muskogee, Oklahoma, where he will meet his wife and baby. They will spend two weeks' vacation in Arkansas, Kansas and Oklahoma before returning to Ranger.

Mr. G. L. Drake, manager of Montgomery Ward will spend the holidays in Tulsa and Claremore, Okla., with his family.

ARCADIA . . . SUNDAY and MONDAY

Lovely to look at and dangerous to love that's what they said about "The Toy Wife" from which the above scenes were clipped. Louise Rainer is the charmer and Melvyn Douglas and Robert Young are the charmed in the story. It's one of Metro's new season pictures and will be shown at the Arcadia theatre today and Monday.

China's Flood-Stricken Peasants Beg Japs for Rice

Driven from their homes by the great Yellow river floods, Chinese peasants are pictured above as they stood waist deep in water and begged Japanese soldiers for rice. These were only a few of the more than half million Chinese driven from their humble homes in the valley flooded so often by "China's Sorrow." This photograph, made by a Japanese photographer with the invading forces, is one of the first pictures of the flood terror to reach the United States.
