Much is being made of the fact that half of the new police rookies of Dayton, O., have college degrees. What's more remarkable is that they've got jobs.

According to a Detroit doctor, noise is one of the greatest occupational hazards to health. It makes you wonder why congressmen live to such ripe old ages.

TEXAS PUBLIC SAFETY HEAD IS ARRESTED

By United Press
AUSTIN, July 22.—Texas Public Safety Director, H. H. Carmichael, knew today what it is to be arrested. Sheriff Lee Allen of Travis County arrested him late yesterday on order of District Judge S. B. Carr at Cotulla. The judge had been informed that Carmichael was disobeying the court's injunction against interfering with the trucks and drivers of M. B. Peterson. Carmichael submitted peacefully to arrest, but objected to the sheriff's instructions that Sheriff Allen hold him in custody until Monday. A writ of habeas corpus by the state supreme court voided that part of the district court's instructions. Carmichael was released on $500 bail.

Episcopal Church Services Set to Be Held Sunday

Invitation to the public to attend was extended.

Former Citizen of Ranger Will Be Buried Tuesday

Word was received in Ranger Thursday afternoon from Geneva, Pa., of the death of P. J. (Pat) O'Donnell, 57, formerly of Ranger. Death occurred Thursday afternoon. Funeral services are to be conducted at Geneva Tuesday morning. He had been visiting in Geneva for the past month and appeared to be in the best of health until shortly before his death. O'Donnell worked in the Pennsylvania oil fields, later going to Pottsville. After returning to the United States he worked in the oil fields of Kansas, California and different fields in Texas, mostly in West Texas, where he had made his home for the past few years. He was a drilling contractor here during the boom, and while in Ranger married Miss Leona Dunkle. Surviving relatives include his widow, two children, Marjorie and Patsy, and several brothers and sisters.

Project House Is Again Allotted to County A&M Boys

A project house for cooperative living will again be available to Eastland county boys who attend Texas A. & M. college the next session, announced Elmo V. Cook, county agent, Friday. Agent Cook stated that the house was allotted to the county again because of the good record of youths the last session. All boys with the exception of two who were there last session are being invited to participate in the project house the next term. Any vacancy in the house roster will be filled by Eastland county freshmen applicants. Those who want to attend were asked by Cook to send $4 to him to cover payment on kitchen and dining room equipment. He stated that August 5 was the deadline to make the payment. It was also stated that rent on the house has been raised from $64 to $96 per month by the Board of Regents of the school. That will mean $1 monthly increase on rent for each youth. Payment of $15 for one semester's rent should be made by each enrollee at the beginning of the school session. If as many as 14 boys agree, a truck will be available for $35 to transport baggage to the school before the opening, Cook said.

RUSSIAN - JAPANESE CONTROVERSY SEEMS NEARING A CRISIS

By United Press
Japan, demanding withdrawal of Soviet troops from disputed Manchukuo border territory, is prepared to "take the necessary steps," a foreign office spokesman declared today at Tokyo after the cabinet had considered the situation. The spokesman declared that Japan considers herself the protector of Manchukuo. He said Russia apparently has challenged Japan in occupying a hill near Changkufeng, which Japan claims in Manchukuo territory. How far the quarrel would be carried, how much it would affect Japan's conquest of China, how much nearer it might bring the two great eastern powers to a war for which they long have been preparing, depended upon developments at Tokyo and Moscow. Soviets left little doubt that an attack would be met in kind. Meanwhile Japanese armies in China made little progress up the Yangtze or in the north. Floodwaters in the north again seriously hampered the Japanese.

Forging a New Bond of Peace Between United States and Canada

Another steel link binding the United States and Canada will be welded when President Roosevelt goes to Canada in mid-August to dedicate the Blue Water International Bridge pictured above. The bridge, 8000 feet long, and arching 152 feet above the waters of the St. Clair river, connects Port Huron, Mich., with Sarnia, Ont. It cost almost $2,000,000, and commands an impressive view of the junction of Lake Huron with the St. Clair river, a point where teeming lake traffic funnels through the narrow channel. The American and Canadian governments built the respective approaches, and an international commission built the center span. The bridge opens a new fast route between Chicago and Montreal.

The agreement was made at an early point in the campaign. The candidates have requested their friends to adhere to the agreement and dispose of their literature prior to the election. The agreement covers loud speaker systems, placards, circulars, cards and all forms of advertising.

Clash Over Oil In Orient Seen

By United Press
SAN FRANCISCO.—Japan's expansion program of creating by force a powerful industrial and economic center in the Far East is unopposed even from a purely economic point of view, according to Dr. J. Anton de Haas, professor of international relations at Harvard University. Addressing Pacific coast audiences, Dr. de Haas declared that the success of this policy would bring neither peace nor security for Japan and would make instead the whole problem even more difficult. "It is a mistaken policy," he said, "to establish another workshop in the world which already has too many at the present time, and the creation of one in the Far East with Japan as its center would result only in increased social tensions inside Japan and trade restrictions from without." Dr. de Haas declared that the real tragedy of the Pacific is the futility of conflict for the reason that economic factors and forces will continue always to prepare the ground for new conflicts in the future with oil as the symbol for the next conflict to come. This conflict he envisaged as one between Japan and the Netherlands for the possession of the oil fields of the Netherlands Indies. "Oil fields of Borneo and Sumatra," he said "represented more than 8 per cent of the oil resources of the West Pacific and they will become ever increasingly important to Japan both from the standpoint of its navy and industry. The Dutch have no illusions of grandeur. In case of conflict, Japan would have every advantage, but Holland is already making preparations for defense. "They have been constructing submarines, torpedo boats and mobile units for small sizes. The oil fields also will be heavily mined to permit easy destruction in case of attack for their possession. Any power attacking would be disappointed as far as acquiring oil resources is concerned." Dr. de Haas argued that as regards the present conflict, no matter which side wins, funds for economic rehabilitation will be sought from the United States and the rest of the Western world. He expressed grave doubts as to whether such loans will be forthcoming, and as a consequence the situation in the Far East will always remain serious. "I am not saying whether such loans should be made or not," he said. "Perhaps it would be better if funds are not lent to either nation. "It would enable them to rebuild more slowly and more securely on a self-sufficiency basis which would preserve the native economic organization. In that direction only lies economic security in the Pacific."

Republicans See Third Term Plans

By United Press
WASHINGTON, July 22.—Republicans party leaders interpreted a statement of WPA Administrator Harry Hopkins today as the launching of a Roosevelt third term movement. Republican committee chairman John Hamilton accused the administration of trying to perpetuate itself. He referred to remarks by Hopkins who said he believed 90 per cent of his relief workers would vote for President Roosevelt.

Hamilton Given Kidnaping Blame

By United Press
DALLAS, July 22.—Kidnaping was added to the alleged activities of Floyd Hamilton today as the elusive desperado was hunted in four southwestern states. J. M. Newell, 28, claimed that Hamilton and Ted Walters were the two men who met him at Fort Worth yesterday in answer to an advertisement to sell an automobile, robbed him of $18,500 and tied him up in a thicket in the outskirts of Dallas. "The Dutch have no illusions of grandeur. In case of conflict, Japan would have every advantage, but Holland is already making preparations for defense. "They have been constructing submarines, torpedo boats and mobile units for small sizes. The oil fields also will be heavily mined to permit easy destruction in case of attack for their possession. Any power attacking would be disappointed as far as acquiring oil resources is concerned." Dr. de Haas argued that as regards the present conflict, no matter which side wins, funds for economic rehabilitation will be sought from the United States and the rest of the Western world. He expressed grave doubts as to whether such loans will be forthcoming, and as a consequence the situation in the Far East will always remain serious. "I am not saying whether such loans should be made or not," he said. "Perhaps it would be better if funds are not lent to either nation. "It would enable them to rebuild more slowly and more securely on a self-sufficiency basis which would preserve the native economic organization. Controlling Cotton Flea Hopper Due In 2 Demonstrations Demonstrations in control of cotton flea hoppers by dusting with sulphur are being conducted by Oral Davis and O. K. R. T. Simon of Gorman on the J. Frank Dean farm near Gorman in cooperation with the county agent. Davis and Simon started their demonstrations last week by dusting five acres of cotton each with approximately 15 pounds of dusting sulphur per acre. Farmers and others interested in witnessing the progress of these demonstrations are invited to visit the demonstration plots at any time. The cotton will be dusted each week as long as the flea hopper infestation exists. Many cotton ginners, buyers, and farmers of Eastland County believe that flea hoppers cause more damage than boll weevils to cotton in Eastland County. They seek the way from the earliest forms that would produce early bolls, while the weevils destroy the bolls and bolls that come on later. Heavy flea hopper damage to cotton results in slender, whitish stalks with few or no side-fruited branches. Dusting with very finely powdered sulphur effectively controls the flea hopper.

Geologists Study West Texas Area

By United Press
ALPINE, Tex.—Two geologists have begun a study this summer of deposits in this region from the Pleistocene or Ice Age. The investigators, Dr. Kirk Bryan, professor of geology at Harvard University, and Dr. Claude C. Albritton, instructor in geology at Southern Methodist University, have been awarded a grant from the Penrose Bequest of the Geological Society of America to carry on the work. To geologic project is supplementary to the work of an archeological expedition undertaken jointly by Harvard University and Sul Ross Teachers College of Alpine, to explore and excavate sites of early man and extinct animals in the region within 50 miles of Alpine. The field survey has been underway for several months, and already 19 sites have been located at which relics of early man have been found at depths of from seven to 20 feet below the surface. Dr. Albritton and Dr. Ryan are studying the sites excavated by the archeologists, and will correlate the deposits thus exposed with nearby natural exposures and with the general topography of the region in an attempt to discover the exact age of the deposits. The region is one of broad basins and isolated mountains. Some of the basins drain to the Rio Grande and some are enclosed. Roads are poor and distances are great.

Economy Should Be Practiced—George Davison

By United Press
CORNICANA, Texas, July 22.—The people of Texas have long demanded governmental economy and it is time the folks who pay the bills get what they want, George A. Davison, Jr., candidate for lieutenant governor, said here last night. Speaking at Jacksonville, Palestine and Corsicana today, the candidate sped on his final sprint of the campaign. Friday will be one of the most crowded days of his 30-day campaign, as he will speak in Ennis, Waxahatchie, Fort Worth, Weatherford, Mineral Wells and Breckenridge. Davison will end the first primary with a speech before a crowd of well-wishers at a homecoming in Eastland Friday night. Reduction of governmental costs plus the new monthly increasing state income as a solution for a larger social welfare program, has been a major part of his platform. This, he believes, will alleviate the necessity for new taxes. "We are paying too much for government," he has told audiences all over Texas. The will of the citizens for economy has been circumvented by the selfish wishes of pork-barrel politicians. We can never put government on a business basis, we can never cut the outrageous overhead until the people of Texas force the politicians to hear their voice, Davison declared. "We must look at the problem realistically. Organized political machines are supporting my opponents. The people should listen and note that these candidates do not promise governmental economy. Let the public just think about that strange bit of realism. The politicians are supporting those candidates who say nothing about cutting the expenses of government. Is further comment necessary?" Davison queried.

By United Press
COURTENAY, B. C., July 22.—Forestry officials today charged that incendiary was responsible for the spread of a fire that swept toward this island. More than 1,500 men fought the fire along a 20-mile front, although it had been burning since July 5, and it was not until a week ago the flames got out of control. It had been suspected that men who wanted work had started the fires. Today there was direct evidence of it.

MILLION VOTERS ARE EXPECTED TO CAST BALLOTS SATURDAY

By United Press
One million Texans tried to decide today which of 12 candidates they would nominate for their governor at the first Democratic primary Saturday. When the polls in 254 counties open at 7 a. m. Saturday, the million voters also must select nominees for eleven other statewide offices and name eleven congressional candidates and nominees for district and county offices and court seats. As the polling places were set up for a record vote, State Democratic Chairman Myron Blalock warned election officials to guard against irregularities. He declared negroes would not be permitted to vote in the primary. Candidates today allowed caution to go with the winds in hometown rallies and freely attacked their opponents. Carl Estes, Longview publisher, although not a candidate, charged Governor Allred had publicly supported W. Lee O'Daniel. In a telegram Estes asked Allred if he was not aiding O'Daniel in his campaign against Attorney General William McCraw. McCraw, too, is a leading gubernatorial candidate. Allred declined comment. Following are some of the last campaign-day activities of candidates: McCraw, who spoke Thursday night over the radio, returned to his home city, Dallas, for a final rally. O'Daniel directed a home town rally in his honor in Fort Worth Thursday, then left today to talk in East Texas. Railroad Commissioner Ernest Thompson went to Greenville where a one-hour broadcast was scheduled tonight to end his campaign. Tom Hunter of Wichita Falls in the governor's race for the fourth time, announced he would speak in Fort Worth tonight. By United Press

Savings Insurance as Economic Assurance

One of the elements which offer hope of recovery from today's depressed business conditions is the strength of the banking system as compared with that of 1932.

Quickly indeed we have come to accept the guarantee of bank deposits as a matter of course. And yet the act was passed only in June of 1933, and was not really set operating until the first of the following year. It has been functioning only a little more than four years, yet already it is so generally accepted that you seldom hear it spoken of.

Yet today more than 50,000,000 bank accounts are insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. And the owners of those accounts feel safe in regard to them. That builds confidence.

The first bank to close, whose depositors were protected by the insurance law, folded up in the fall of 1935. Since then more than 350,000 depositors in 200-odd banks have received $117,000,000 from the FDIC.

They lost nothing, and, barring a total collapse of the banking system with a series of closures like that which dotted the period 1920-23, the depositors in more than 3,700 insured banks are not likely to lose anything either.

They know it, too, and the result is a confidence which turns makes widespread bank closings less likely. Confidence breeds confidence, and security breeds security.

This strong banking situation is not entirely, of course, the product of the insurance plan. It should be remembered that half of the banks in the country went bust in the period just preceding the 1932-33 depression, and that, generally speaking, it was the stronger banks that survived. Ever since bank deposit insurance came in, there has been a tendency for the number of banks to shrink, by consolidations and closings. There are probably three or four hundred fewer banks today than there were then. This generally makes for greater strength in those which remain.

Stricter rules for chartering new banks have been put into force, with consequently greater chances of success for those that do begin business. The capital structure of the existing banks has also been materially strengthened through federal action.

The deposit insurance corporation thus far has operated on a sound basis, and is actually money ahead, building up its resources, despite the money paid out in the 200 failures.

As long as there are 50,000,000 savings accounts whose owners feel quite secure in their possession, there lies beneath recessions and depressions something which ought to make, and in the present instance seems to be making, a cushion off which we "bounce" once bottom is hit.

Rambling With The Rambler

America is the land of the free. No other people enjoy the privileges that is the birth right of every citizen of this country. Solow arrests us, in carrying out the long has this condition existed that often times we feel sorry for those who are governed by policies that differ from ours. So long has the desire for freedom been nurtured and developed in us that it has permeated our whole system. We chafe under restraint, it annoys and irritates us. Authority, law and order, as applied to the individual, are distasteful in the extreme. If an officer of the law arrests us, in carrying out the performance of his duty, I feel that we are being abused. Freedom is a good thing for man. It lifts him from a slave to a being of importance. Yet like everything else it can be carried to excess. Strang as it may seem, we must have a certain amount of order and control before we can be free. Without it we would have nothing but chaos and disorder. Lawlessness would be the inevitable outcome. The greatest proof we have that such would be the case in the necessity that compels us to have police departments, and other bureaus for crime detection. This necessity is demanded by the first law of nature, self preservation. We must make the world a safe place to live in. To do this we must endeavor to suppress those who will not suppress themselves.

Two things that have never had definite limitations placed upon them are freedom of speech and freedom of the press. The result of this is that people have come to the point where they expect no limitation set upon them whatsoever. They say or write things of a treasonable nature when any attempt is made to check them; they cry that their freedom is being infringed upon.

Heaven forbid that our speech and writings ever come under the censorship exercised upon it by some of our foreign neighbors. When such a condition exists then news is of little value since it can give only one side of the question, that is favorable to those in power. Yet neither is it necessary to permit people to publicly advance theories destined to overthrow our government. That a nothing short of treason, and during war times would be punished as such.

Many people contend that such things will never amount to anything; so why antagonize them by repression. First of all such a contention may be wrong, it may eventually amount to something. When detrimental theories are advanced, it is noteworthy that such theories are so sugar coated that their evil qualities never appear on the surface. Only those things that will appeal to and quicken the imagination are discussed. Also since there is a certain amount of truth contained in their theories, and since they pick out and continually harp on the faults of other systems they find little difficulty in obtaining attentive ears.

According to reports there are many prominent people in these United States, who have strong leaning towards Communism, Nazism and the like. Only recently six officials of the German American Settlement League Inc., and the league itself were convicted of violating the state of New York civil rights law.

Because people are citizens of the United States or because they are well educated is no guarantee that they are loyal or that they cannot be fooled. By suppressing the roads of in-adera we may take a big step in eliminating civil

Our government has as much right to protect itself as any other. While such fault was found with the attitude of the mayor of Jersey City with regard to his opposition to the "Reds," still he showed the rest of us that he has the interest of this country at heart. It will do us no harm to let all "ism" clicks know that we are violently opposed to them and their teachings as being antagonistic to our form of government.

The opposition that we give such people does not mean we are taking their freedom away from them. If they are as interested in other forms of governments as they pretend, they would do, not only to some country that practices the systems they are in favor of. And while our opposition against them may appear unconstitutional, at least many strong arguments can be advanced for such a stand. None of us want to be governed by those who oppress; yet this is the system advocated by those opposed to democracies.

Girl Likes Job Moving Houses

By United Press

MOUND, Minn.—First she borrowed her father's team and plow and hired out to turn up garden patches for neighbors, then she slid behind the wheel of a truck that replaced the team and hauled dirt and cinders, and now she's moving furniture—and houses.

That's the financial story of the girlhood of Evelyn Krause, 26, who didn't like to take care of children, and wasn't very fond of housework. She is probably the only woman house mover in Minnesota.

In Mound school, she played football with stars such as Sheldon Beise, University of Minnesota player and now assistant coach; Milton Bruhn, now on the coaching staff at Amherst, and Walter Ohde, coach at Anoka, Minn., high school.

Miss Krause says that next to shifting houses around on rollers, the hardest part of her job is to move electric refrigerators. She feels the pleasantest part of her job is driving the truck, which she considers "nice easy work" and prefers because "it keeps me out in the open."

She tips the scales at 130 pounds, is 5 feet 7 inches tall, and has no trouble keeping her figure trim.

BEDOUINS PLAY SOCCER
By United Press

CAIRO—The football has replaced the rifle and spear for settling tribal warfare among some Bedouin tribes. Visitors returning from Tarim, southern Arabia, report that many Bedouins have become enthusiastic soccer fans and now fight out their battles on football pitches. The practice is being officially encouraged.

CAST OF CHARACTERS NIKKI JEROME, heroine...

Illustration by E. H. Cunder

Yesterday, Nikki Jerome starts her trip by finding $100,000 in a strange traveling bag...

CHAPTER II

NIKKI spent a puzzled and unhappy night. The incident over the money and the note from her father mystified and frightened her...

Her first reaction was, "I must tell Steve. And then she saw again the 'extremely confidential' phrase and knew, miserably, that she couldn't tell Steve...

"What is the matter, Nikki? You look like you'd just looked down from the top of the Empire State building."

"I'm sorry dear," she had to make some excuse and she knew Steve deserved a better one than she could give him...

Steve went back to the club car to spend the evening leafing through the train magazines...

"You were a darling not to be here last night," she told him, feeling fine now...

"Get ready," she told herself half aloud. "Here's that man again."

HE was followed by another, shorter and stockier, and obviously they were together. He was almost abreast of Nikki when he spoke...

"I would like to apologize for my intrusion of yesterday. I must have startled you," he said, and Nikki remembered his soft, smooth voice.

"Take your hand off her arm!" Steve's voice was low, but it was gratingly harsh.

She simulated mild surprise. "It was quite all right," she said, deciding swiftly that her safest course was to be casual.

"Just a minute," said Steve, mostly amazed, but a little annoyed. Nikki leaped into the breach.

"Oh Steve," she said. "This is Mr. Bancroft, Mr. Bancroft, Mr. Mallory, and added, 'my fiancé.' Steve granted, Bancroft looked Steve up and down and said: 'Very happy. Congratulations. But I'm sure, turning to Nikki, 'that Mr. Mallory won't mind leaving you in good company for a while.'"

"You're a little too quick, Bancroft," said Steve. "We'll go on out on the observation. Come on, Nikki."

"I think you'll find it occupied also," replied Bancroft smoothly. He took Nikki's arm again. "May I offer you this seat, Miss Jerome?"

"Take your hand off her arm," Steve's voice was low, but it was gratingly harsh, and several people in the car looked up.

"Steve," she said quietly. "This is being ridiculous. Mr. Bancroft is an old friend."

Steve stared at Nikki a moment in disbelief, his eyes bitter. Then he turned and strode out of the car.

"Your wire has been sent sir," Bancroft turned to Nikki. He said: "I just telegraphed ahead for reservations on the Lazy R. Decided a little western vacation wouldn't do me any harm either."

"What afternoon she and Steve strolled back to the club car, but found every chair taken. The train had filled up at Chicago.

NEW YORK—Harness racing requires a complete new deal to survive.

This from the lips of Benjamin Franklin White, who launched his illustrious career as a trainer and driver under the daddy of them all, Edward F. (Pop) Gears, as far back as 1898.

White points out that the sulky sport is badly in need of a racing secretary for the entire Grand Circuit.

His appointment would eliminate local directors at the various stops, and keep 2.09 performers out of fields of 2.02 trotters.

White urges cards of dashes in place of the old and current heat system.

He stresses the fact that it is fair to ask 3-year-olds to trot three separate miles in 2:04 4/5, 2:01 3/5, and 2:02, and older heads only two heats which they traverse in something between 2:04 4/5 and 2:17.

White is right when he says that the public grows tired of seeing the same horses return to the track on this side.

He would split up the larger fields to limit them to nine horses.

He hits kerosene scoring... asserts that the horses are sufficiently warmed up after scoring twice and that a competent starter should have them on their way in the third attempt.

They have dash racing and a minimum of scoring in Europe, where the standardbreds occupy the lofty position held by the runners on this side.

White deprecates the lack of attention given the more wholesome type of racing by the wire news services.

White is the only man who has driven two Hambletonian winners, Mary Reynolds in 1933, and Rosalind in 1934. He trained another, Isola's Worthy, in 1927, and...

The result of the Champion Stallion Stake at Cleveland's North Randall indicates that Benjamin F. may have another in Long Key, a brown son of Peter Volo-Isola's Worthy, standing 15 hands 2 inches high and weighing 900 pounds.

E. J. MERKLE, retired sportsman of Columbus, O., purchased Long Key as a yearling at the Old Glory sale in New York for $3500 on the recommendation of White and because he was a son of Isola's Worthy, which he also owned.

Long Key equaled the record mile of 2:01 1/2 for the Champion-ship Stallion Stake, set by the renowned Greyhound in 1935. This occurred in the second heat, after Champion had captured the first in 2:04 4/5.

Long Key also must tackle McLain and Esther Mite, conditioned by that other veteran, Walter Cox, and other good ones.

McLain was the winter book Hambletonian favorite, but today the price is down on Long Key, which bagged the fastest three-heat Championship Stallion Stake trotted since it was inaugurated at North Randall in 1910.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHES, NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Many outstanding economists in Washington are now beginning to believe that business has left the bottom of the 1937-38 depression and is proceeding upward toward another period of recovery.

Even some conservative experts who until recently feared that any marked early upturn would be followed by a sharp drop in business activity during autumn have now lost their skepticism.

And many expect the wheels of industry to be whirling merrily by January.

Chief difference in confidential forecasts available is a diversity of opinion as to the probable rate of acceleration of the upswing.

The stock market is something else again, in the opinion of some of the canner government experts, who believe its recent spurt was not justified by the relatively small business pickup and that stock prices previously had held up well as compared with the precipitous decline of industrial production.

A sharp market drop would cause no surprise in Washington.

ANNOUNCEMENT of the Hitler government's nonchalant policy toward payment of German—and Austrian—debts continues to spread. Even the New York Stock Exchange has made a unique application to the Securities and Exchange Commission for removal of a German bond issue from its list.

McCraw Literature Printed In Union Shops in the State

Three telegrams, received today by Donald J. McCarthy, secretary of Typographical Union No. 842, which covers Eastland, Cisco, Ranger and Breckenridge, denied reports that William McCraw had distributed literature printed in non-union shops.

The telegrams were from union men in Dallas and Fort Worth. They follow, in full:

Dallas, Texas. Donald J. McCarthy, Secy., Typographical Union 842, Ranger, Texas.

Understand wires from Austin sent saying "A candidate for governor is distributing non-union printed literature. This may be another attempt to discredit Bill McCraw at eleventh hour. I know Bill well enough to say charges are entirely false as to him."

TOM WILSON, Wilson Printing Co. Fort Worth, Texas.

Donald J. McCarthy, Secy., Typographical Union 842, Ranger, Texas.

Request was made for me to investigate whether or not literature distributed by William McCraw for governor printed in union shops. So far as I could learn, no literature distributed by McCraw headquarters here except printed in union shops. Knowing Bill McCraw as I do I doubt that he would permit literature printed in non-union shops to be distributed to any of his friends in Texas.

JOHN CONLEY, 2nd Vice President-elect, International Typographical Union Dallas, Texas.

Donald J. McCarthy, Secy., Typographical Union 842, Ranger, Texas.

So far as we are able to ascertain all McCraw literature has been printed in union shops. Understand wires from Austin have been sent out to the contrary. Sounds like a deliberate attempt to discredit McCraw.

L. E. VOHRMAN, Pres. Dallas Typographical Union 173.

District Attorney Hears Death Verdict Given 10 Times

By United Press EL PASO, Tex.—District Attorney Roy D. Jackson, who has heard the death penalty read to 10 men he prosecuted, says he is getting used to his work.

In Alpine recently, Jackson directed the prosecution against Francis Marion Black, Jr., who was given the death penalty for the murder of 13-year old Marvin Dale Noblett.

"I became ill the first time a man I prosecuted was given a death sentence," Jackson recalled, "and I couldn't sleep well for several nights. It doesn't bother me now, though."

District Attorney Allen Frank of Alpine, who asked Jackson to aid in the prosecution, became when the death sentence for Black was pronounced.

To The Voters of Eastland County

The time is near for the voters of Eastland county to select their County Superintendent for the next four years. The length of the term is not the question in this race. The question is and should be the best interest of all the children of the entire county. If the voters will read the recent articles I have had published they will have a fair idea of what has been accomplished.

What I have told the voters is a matter of record and in addition to past articles I wish to state that there has been created during the past four years a better spirit of cooperation and friendliness among the smaller and larger schools than has been enjoyed for many years. That fact is evidenced to all and at the same time every child in Eastland county has free access to our affiliated schools. We now have four accredited rural high schools, namely, Morton Valley, Colony, Alameda and Scranton.

I told the people four years ago that I believed in CONSOLIDATION, was strong for it, BUT BY VOTE OF THE PEOPLE ONLY. That has been accomplished.

Now about the four years term. The legislature in special called session in 1930 passed the bill changing the term from two to four years. This is a matter of record in the House journal of said special session. My predecessor served the first four-year term. I had nothing to do with the passage of the law before or since its passage.

I have served the schools of this and no other county for 24 years as teacher at both Gorman and Eastland, and principal of rural schools at Flatwood, New Hope and Mangum, all near my home for the past 35 years. I have supported by my active service and material means all civic and humanitarian organizations my full limit.

I was reared in Gorman and Carbon and lived in the two towns for the 35 years above mentioned, with the exception of one and a half years during the World War, 14 months of which I spent in active service. It is a very easy matter to check my qualifications, reputation and CHARACTER. There are literally hundreds of the old-timers in all parts of this county who have known me from early boyhood, from a poor country lad to county superintendent. I am merely asking that true Democracy be done.

Elect me for a second term and I'll give in return efficient and courteous service and will do my best to build a system of schools that will endure. Thanks a lot.

Florence Rice and Melvyn Douglas in "Fast Company"

Fast Company to Play at Arcadia

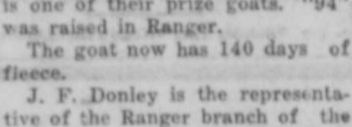

Melvyn Douglas, who has recently climbed to new screen heights with his deft comedy portrayals adds new laurels to his career as a modern rare book sleuth in "Fast Company," which opens today at the Arcadia Theatre.

Florence Rice as the feminine lead is given a complete personality change with the aid of special mature hair dress and make up as a distinct contrast to the ingenuities of her recent pictures. She plays the ultra-modern wife of Douglas who believes that domestic and business life can be combined.

The plot presents a novelty background for a fast-moving blend of romance, mystery, drama and thrills. An inside revelation of the little known traffic in stolen rare books provides a diverting series of incidents leading to a murder and the breaking up of an international racket.
