Dad and Daughter Reunited

This appealing picture shows the reunion of a father and his daughter after a story book lost-and-found mixup. John Emerson's wife left their San Francisco home to visit her mother in Washington state, decided she wanted a divorce, didn't return. The couple's children, Joan, 4, and Kenneth, 8, hitch-hiked with another girl to Tacoma to try and persuade their mother to come home. The father started out to find the children, their trails crossed, and the father reported the children lost. Then he saw their picture in a San Francisco paper, rushed home, and this is John Emerson and his daughter, Joan together again.

CROCKETT, Texas, Aug. 18.—Rob Parker, suspended Eastham prison farm sergeant, charged with murder in connection with the shooting of John Frazier, an escaped convict, was released from jail today under $10,000 bond. The Houston county grand jury continued its investigation of the charges filed against Parker.

CROCKETT, Aug. 18.—Sheriff Archie Maples went before the Houston county grand jury today and told why he filed charges of murder against Rob Parker, Eastham Prison Farm dog sergeant, in the killing of John Frazier, Dallas convict.

Maples' story to the grand jury was kept secret, but County Attorney Leon Lusk and Dr. C. W. Butler, a member of the prison board, quoted Maples as saying that Frazier was shot to death yesterday as he pleaded for his life, with his arms above his head.

Hold Political Spotlight

Central figures in an important test of President Roosevelt's political prestige are Senator Millard Tydings, right, and Representative David Lewis, left, who are waging a hot campaign for the Democratic senatorial nomination from Maryland. Speaking on the third anniversary of his signing of the Social Security Bill, Mr. Roosevelt praised the work of Representative Lewis as co-author of the bill. Senator Tydings has opposed many New Deal measures. The Maryland primary is Sept. 12.

O'DANIEL IS PLEADING FOR HIS FAVORITES

FORT WORTH, Aug. 18.—W. Lee O'Daniel, democratic nominee for governor, took full credit today for endorsing six candidates for state office and told listeners that he did not "intend to stuff idly by and let somebody pour water on our ammunition."

The nominee said that he had "sacrificed" voters totaling over $125,000 in order to begin his government program now.

One proposition, he said, offered $50,000 a year.

"In view of the $50,000 sacrifice which I made, and additional offers runs the amount up to over $125,000, are any of you unwilling to help elect the men I prefer in certain offices, who will be key men, I am confident will enable us to pay the old age pension and the other things advocated during the campaign?" he asked. "We do not have to wait until the legislature convenes next January to start this battle. I am working at the job now and do not intend to stand idly by and let somebody pour water on our ammunition without doing what I told you I would do—get on the radio and call for votes."

Dallas Business Men Organize To Aid W. T. C. of C.

DALLAS, Aug. 18.—Dallas business men Thursday organized for the purpose of securing additional members here for the West Texas chamber of commerce. The West Texas chamber of commerce membership in Dallas has up to the present time been far less than the trade territory represented.

At a meeting held this week the business men arranged groups for the purpose of aiding the West Texas chamber of commerce solicit memberships. B. F. McLain, representing the retail merchants of Dallas, is chairman of the committee. J. B. Adoue represents the banks; Lester Lorch, wholesale merchants; John W. Carpenter, public utilities; Holmes Green, department stores and retailers; M. J. Norrell, oil companies; Homer Mitchell, insurance companies and John E. Williams, hotels.

Each of these named is chairman of a group and will actively urge that every business concern in the group take a membership or several memberships in the West Texas chamber of commerce.

This is the first time that Dallas business interests have made a concerted effort to aid the West Texas chamber of commerce, whose offices are at Abilene with Herbert Hilburn of Plainview as president and D. A. Bandeen as secretary.

"Dallas business men feel that the West Texas chamber of commerce should be given full support here because the organization is militant for many interests affecting the welfare of Dallas, such as Trinity river flood control and navigation," McLain said, in commenting on the campaign which is already underway.

State Man Will Assist Veterans In Their Claims

J. T. Gray of the veterans' state service office will be in Eastland on Thursday and Friday, Sept. 1 and 2, with headquarters located at the district clerk's office, third floor, courthouse, to assist all war veterans and their dependents in establishing their claims to any government benefits they may be entitled to receive under present veterans' laws.

The veterans' state service office of Texas is a part of the state government maintained for the purpose of rendering service to war veterans and their dependents.

Gray states that he is working with the various veterans' organizations in his territory, and is receiving their full cooperation. He suggests that it would be advisable to bring all papers pertaining to individual claims in order that he may render the best service possible in connection with claims brought to him for assistance.

P. L. Crossley, service officer for the Dulin-Daniels post of the American Legion, No. 79, at Eastland, said that the Eastland post is cooperating with Mr. Gray in every way possible to the end that veterans of all wars throughout Eastland county who have a claim pending or who think that they have good grounds for a claim may see Mr. Gray at the district clerk's office in Eastland on Sept. 1 and 2.

Crossley states that the insurance on those veterans who lost their lives during the World War will terminate this October.

The surviving father and mother, if both are living, are entitled to $25 each per month, for the rest of their lives, or if either the father or mother survives, they are entitled to $45 per month, but application a and certain proof must be furnished. Also, the bonus is due those veterans who lost their lives if same has not already been collected.

Crossley especially requests that all fathers and mothers of boys who lost their lives during the World War visit Mr. Gray at the district clerk's office on the above dates, in order that those claims may receive proper attention, as well as all other veterans who have claims pending or who think that a claim might be established.

Iowa Bowling Club Is Declared Oldest In the United States

DAVENPORT, Ia.—The Friday Bowling club, oldest kegler's organization in Davenport and the only one in the United States to bowl the old German nine-pin game, is celebrating its 63rd year.

Organized April 9, 1875, the club met weekly for many years without adopting a name. In 1882 it became the Advance club with membership of 29. Ten years later it was christened the Friday Bowling club.

E. S. Carl, cashier of the Citizens National Bank of Davenport, was the moving spirit behind organization of the club.

The origin of the nine-pin game is not known but it was brought to Scott county, Ia., in 1848 by early settlers. At that time, bowlers used the Hamburg-Mecklenburg count, and set their pins in a diamond formation. The counting system gradually was simplified to allow 10 pins for from one to six pins; 20 for seven; 30 for eight and 40 for the entire rack.

Unlike the modern 10-pin game, played on an alley 42 inches wide, the nine-pin balls are rolled on a 16-inch alley which spreads into a triangular area where the pins are set.

Balls now have two or three finger holes, the same as for 10-pins, but in early days, balls were not drilled and were thrown with a push movement.

Pins now are set up in rows of six and three. A perfect score is 920 instead of 300 as in 10 pins. There are four frames.

Gasoline Company Safety Meeting Held in Ranger

With Plant No. 103 in charge and A. C. Smoot acting as chairman, about 50 employees of the Ranger district of Lone Star Gasoline company held their regular monthly safety meeting Wednesday night in the Ranger Office yard. Archie Robinson was secretary for the meeting.

R. V. Burns gave a talk on "The Safety Factors in the Operation of Gas Engines" and discussed the accidents that had occurred to engines in his years of experience as engineer. "It's not the gas engine that is dangerous, it's the way some of them are operated." Some of the factors that insure safe operation is to keep the engine tight, regular inspection of fly-wheels, governors, bearings, etc., periodic testing of pop valves, and to keep the fluid level low in the suction scrubbers.

A discussion followed with the "boners" that have been pulled when men who are not familiar with first aid attempt to render assistance to men who have been injured resulting in "worst aid" instead of first aid.

Edson Todd had the subject "School Days Are Here Again" and called the attention of every one that school would begin soon and school children would be going to and from school and would present a hazard to everyone that drives a car. He brought out the point that these children do not use the utmost precaution in walking along the highway or in crossing the streets and that every driver may be the cause of any injury to one of them.

P. C. Coffin, assistant general superintendent of gasoline plants, was a visitor from the Dallas Office and commended highly the talks that were presented.

PRACTICE WILL START MONDAY FOR BULLDOGS

Coach Bill Tipton of the Ranger Bulldogs announced today that equipment would be issued to the 1938 football team this afternoon and regular practice would start Monday afternoon.

"I am going to start the boys right off on plays," Tipton stated today, "and will give them real workouts each afternoon. We will have to do this in order to get the team whipped into shape as early as possible and so they will have a fairly complete set of plays for their first game, which is scheduled for Friday night, Sept. 16."

Much interest is being shown in the team already this year, since the playing field is in excellent condition, the stadium is to be completed and the school board has agreed to install lights on the field in time for the first game of the season.

The Bulldog schedule has been worked out, with several open dates still listed, so that a good night schedule can be played this year.

Conference games scheduled to be played in Ranger include Reckenridge, Brownwood and Stephenville, with dates open for three non-conference games in addition to the one scheduled with Gorman.

National Youth Administration labor has been used for several days on the playing field and the grounds around the stands, putting it in good condition for the coming season. Sandy loam has been added to the field, filling up the sunken places on the field and the drainage system has been changed so that water will drain around the stadium on the west side instead of under the stands and across the track.

Tipton stated today that the first practice sessions would be held on the football field, instead of the softball field, as he intends to start right out with tackling and blocking assignments and running of plays. Since the softball field is too hard for this kind of practice the football field is to be used.

Tipton Proves An Interesting Talker At Lions Meeting

L. E. Gray had charge of the Lions club program today and presented Bill Tipton, coach of the Ranger Bulldogs, in one of the most interesting programs of the year.

Tipton, unlike many coaches, proved to be a fluent talker and one who had a thorough grasp of his subject, which was football.

He touched upon the origin of the game and drew contrasts of the early game to the scientific game of today and mentioned many of the rules that had been passed to keep the game from being so dangerous. He mentioned, as an example, the flying wedge, which was outlawed years ago because of its brutality and told how other dangerous plays and practices had been eliminated to make the game safer.

The coach had very little to say about local prospects, but stated that within 30 days after practice starts next Monday "he would be able to tell just what kind of a team he would have for this year."

A Straw Suggests the Wind Blows Away From Fascism

The next time you wake up in the night to worry about the danger of Fascism, and comfort yourself with the thought that it can't happen here, you might wind up by offering a word or two of thanks to the American voter.

For that gentleman, despite the fact that he often gets a flighty streak and puts some unaccountable hams into office, is our first and last line of defense against the idea of a dictatorship. And in his engagements to date he has done pretty well by himself.

There was, for example, the recent primary in Kansas. The Rev. Gerald Winrod was seeking the Republican nomination for U. S. Senate. A week or two before the election, strange tales began to circulate: first, that he had dismaying and unmistakable Fascist tendencies, and second, that he was rather likely to walk off with the nomination.

But when the voters got through with him at the polls, the Rev. Mr. Winrod was just another also-ran. After appealing to almost every kind of prejudice and trying to capitalize on every variety of discontent, he placed a poor third. And it is now apparent that the wheat belt offers very slim pickings for home-grown Hitlers.

Which isn't so very surprising, of course, when you stop to think about it. Yet the thing to keep in mind is the fact that it is never the demagog who is dangerous; it is the people who listen to him and fall for the line he hands out.

Germany is the principal case in point. We do a lot of talking about the repression which exists there—about the way nobody dares express any discontent, about the supervised rubber-stamp elections, about the snoopers and tale-bearers who make it unsafe for any man to voice the least dissatisfaction with Herr Hitler.

Yet the indisputable fact remains that the Germans embraced the Nazi cause with their eyes wide open. Hitler got into office by vote of the people. The election which followed the Reichstag fire was, of course, manipulated brazenly by the Nazis; nevertheless, it is unquestionably true that a majority of voting Germans gave Hitler the mandate to go ahead and do his stuff.

People get just about the kind of government they ask for, these days.

Dictatorships exist because people invite them. The one and only defense against them is the good sense of the electorate.

If it can't happen here, the sole reason is that the American people are intelligent and alert enough to keep it from happening. And the Kansas election is a straw indicating that the wind is blowing in the right direction.

Largest Hatchery Of Fish Opening Slated Aug. 21st

By United Press SOUTH HAVEN, Mich.—The world's largest fish hatchery will be dedicated here Aug. 21, signaling the end of 10 years of construction work.

The hatchery covering 362 acres consists of a series of fish rearing ponds and connecting channels. There are 29 ponds connected by an intricate system of 25 raceways and canals. Each connecting channel is set at a different level so that water from one overflows into the next, finally entering Wolf lake.

Locks in the connecting channels provide control of the water and, when closed, confine the fingerlings to the designated pond. In 1937 an estimated 12,000,000 fingerling blue gills and bass were produced at the Wolf lake hatchery. Other fish raised there are brook, brown, and rainbow trout and small mouth bass and grayling.

A score of state officials will attend the dedication. Another feature of the program will be a virtual fisherman's paradise—a fly casting competition held within the hatchery.

TO HAVE EXHIBIT

There will be an art display at the WPA school on Friday and Saturday in the studio in the old Liberty theatre building. The instructor, Tillie Kelly, cordially invites the public to attend the exhibit.

HAYWIRE HOUSE

BY EDWIN RUTT

COPYRIGHT, 1938
NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday, just as Kinks proceeded to take a nap, Mrs. Clipperton was there in a tussle in the yard, taking rabbits out of the hat.

CHAPTER X

SALLY and Kinks dashed through the house to the porch.
It was apparent at once that Mrs.
Clipperton was right. Proceedings of a singular nature were taking place on the front lawn.

On the grass at the edge of the driveway stood a tall, black gentleman. He had a pair of magnificent mustaches which curled luxuriously at either side of his mouth. His chin was long, springing and shrubbed by a little tuft. Despite the warmth of spring, he was dressed in amber knickerbockers with a flowing, black cape over his shoulders. On his head was a silk top hat.

The fact that the hat might really have been standing in for a rabbit hutch seemed proved, circumstantially at least. A small, white rabbit with suspicious eyes sat at the gentleman's feet, consistently nibbling a dandelion. And even as Sally and Kinks paused, open-mouthed, on the porch, the gentleman was in the act of extracting a string of frankfur-ters from the ear of Mr. Tony Spaldini, who had been very much impressed.

"Et is with ze women zat I have ze disgust," continued the Great Pierre sadly. He glanced at Sally. "Who does not perceive zat mademoiselle ees charming, he sees ze blind man. But zair are ze women zat are—how you say eet—ze traitors!"

"Ain't it da truth?" said Bull Griffin. "When you want to know who's double-crossed you, all you gotta do is churchie la foam."

"Monsieur speaks ze French like a native," said the Great Pierre, with a sidelong wink at Kinks.
"I c'n polly francise to beat the devil," said Bull proudly. "I was wit' da Seventy-Seventh Division."

"HERE ees what 'ppen," said the Great Pierre, who seemed anxious to come entirely clean. "I have zis girl. She ees ze —do you say—assistant? She 'elp me with my trecks. But what does she do? Two days ago in Bridgetown she leave me." He snapped his fingers. "Like zat, pouf!"

"Took a runout powder, hey?"
said Bull Griffin intelligently.

"Out," said the Great Pierre.
"She take ze powder. But I, Pierre, know where she go. She go to Yussif, the Trecky Turk.
Yussif, he give what he call magic show in Hartford." Of a sudden the Great Pierre burst into a derivative laugh. "She think she show

The Great Pierre

Yussif my trecks. But she one beeg fool. Yussif? Zat cochon.
Mon Dieu, Yussif ees not feet to take ze egg from ze collar. Like so!"

He extended what appeared to be an empty hand and plucked an egg from the back of Mr. Bull Griffin's rhino neck.

"Boy," exclaimed Mr. Griffin enthusiastically, "dat wuz neat.
Show me dat one, will you, pal?"
"I have jut the room you want," said Sally, who was anxious to get down to brass tacks.
"It's a big one on the ground floor.
You'll be all by yourself there."

The Great Pierre waved his hand.

"Take eet," he said Napoleonically. "Ze sight unsee. But all my—my equipment ees in ze car.
He pointed to the trailer. "Eet must come to ze room with me.
Of zat I inseeet."

"Mr. Parker will carry it in,"
said Sally.

MR. PARKER did, with the help of Mr. Tony Spaldini, gracefully loaned by Bull Griffin. It took them the best part of half an hour to get the Great Pierre's impementa out of the trailer and into the house. There were trunks of suitcases, boxes and crates of all descriptions. There were numberless queer-looking bundles. A very green and very profane parot was in the trailer in a cage.
Another cage housed lovebirds.

One crate in particular quacked protestingly as Messrs. Parker and Spaldini carried it in. It contained feathered folk of the same general character as ducks.

"How on earth," Kinks asked Sally, "is he going to keep ducks and things in his room?"

"He isn't for long," said Sally.
"We've a chicken house and ne chickens. The ducks and things can have that. And you, my pet, are going to build a rabbit hutch down by the barn."

"Good night," said Kinks. "All I do is work when I want to be telling you what a swell gal you are. How many rabbits does this guy carry around with him?"

"Fourteen," said Sally cheerfully. "He told me so himself."

"Well," said Kinks, "I've never built any rabbit hutches, but I'll try anything once. That's the kind of a guy."

He stopped suddenly as the sound of a motor came to their ears. A car was coming up the driveway.

"Now what?" Kinks said.
"It seems to be Wilton," said Sally. "She gave him a mischievous glance. "Shall I invite him to dinner?"

Old Law Sanctions Nude Dip After 9

By United Press

DULUTH, Minn.—A number of out-dated oddities still appear on the law books of Duluth, Minn., former city attorney Bert W.
Forbes discovered when he began indexing city ordinances preparatory to modernizing them.

It's improper to bathe in the nude in Lake Superior until after 9 p. m., under an ordinance passed June 8, 1885, and still on the books.

A bicycle may not be ridden on a sidewalk. Furthermore, the rider must sound a bell 50 feet before approaching an intersection, the city fathers decided May 19, 1895.

In 1907 it became unlawful to distribute samples of patent medicines.
Since July 25, 1885, residents of Duluth have been breaking the law by either riding or leading a mule, horse or cow across a sidewalk without providing adequate protection for the walk.

BILL HARRIS, Joe Heving, Vance Page, and Whit Wyatt refute the belief that there no longer are jobs in this world for old men of experience.

Their cases also make it clear that the pitching shortage is more acute than ever.

Desperate for someone who could get the ball up to and over the plate, the fabulously wealthy Boston Red Sox brought in the 38-year-old Harris from Buffalo and Heving from Milwaukee. Chicago Cubs paged the 32-year-old Vance Page in Indianapolis, and Brooklyn bought Wyatt from Milwaukee for 1939 delivery.

Harris has had the more unusual career of the quartet.

William Milton Harris has been throwing professionally since 1921.
Harris perhaps has had more clubs than any other athlete in the history of the game.

Turned back to Buffalo by the Boston Bees at 37, the graying Harris came back to the majors at 38 to pitch for the Red Sox before 36,397 people in Cleveland the day of his arrival.

THIS Slim Harris, who is not to be confused with the Slim Harris of the old Athletics, doesn't quite know what to make of this baseball business.

For example, he bagged 19 games for Minneapolis in 1925 without being given a tumble by the majors. He copped 26 and lost nine for Asheville in 1928, but the best it got him was a switch to Dallas.

Yet Pittsburgh took him in the fall of 1931, after he had lost 23 engagements for Galveston and West Worth.

It spent most of the season with Galveston, and our club was a poor one. I pitched 29 complete games, won 11, had a half dozen shutouts, and an earned run average of 2.60."

It was while with Galveston that Harris pitched the first of three no-hit, no-run games. He turned in two with Buffalo in 1925.

Harris, a North Carolina cotton grower, had more than a cup of coffee in Pittsburgh. He stuck around for two and a half seasons.

CINCINNATI drafted Harris from Winston-Salem in 1927.
He believes that he would have remained with the Reds had P.
Moran lived, but Jack Hendrick sent the tall, wiry chap to Milwaukee in the Hughie Crisp deal.

Harris threw overhand until he broke a finger while with the Millers in 1926. That switched him to a side-arm delivery. He is fairly fast today, has an excellent sinker, and generally keeps the ball around the dish, but his curve isn't up to the rest of his stuff. He has a slick move to his bases, but his biggest asset is his knowledge of pitching.

Harris ought to know how. He certainly has set some kind of record for getting around. He has appeared with the following clubs in the order named: Chicago, Winston-Salem, Cincinnati, Minneapolis, Memphis, Nashville, Little Rock, Macon, Asheville, Dallas, West, Galveston, Fort Worth, Pittsburgh, Albany, Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Boston Bees, Buffalo, and the Boston Red Sox.

If farming isn't too good when Harris is finished, he ought to be able to obtain a job in a travel bureau.

WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—A real Russo-Japanese war, if it should come, will likely produce the most spectacular, effective aerial bombardment and combat yet seen.

Tokio, as American army officers see it, would become the first capital of a major power to suffer a severe aerial bombardment.

It is less than 700 miles from Russia's Vladivostok to Tokio. Experts who believe Tokio would be a prompt objective also envision suicide squadrons of Japanese taking off with loads of explosives and flying madly into Russian air fleets.

News of darkening of Japanese cities confirms belief that Tokio and other large centers are vulnerable.

Diplomats and military men have supposed that the Chung-kufeng fighting would be kept localized, on the theory that Japan wants no war because of her Chinese involvement and that Russia has too much to worry about in Europe. This is mere deduction.

Aside from general background, all the State, War, and Navy Departments know is what they read in the newspapers—meaning the official versions from Tokio and Moscow.

Several bizarre theories as to the "real reason" behind the outbreak have gained wide credence in Washington. But the best Far Eastern experts are unwilling to go beyond suggesting as possibilities:

1. That Russia has sought to diffuse Japanese military energy and take heat off the Chinese.
Chinese resistance might suddenly collapse as Ethiopian resistance to Italian troops did—and Russia may have been warned of such a likelihood.

2. That Russia desired to test Japanese reaction and find out how weak or strong Japanese resistance would be.

3. That Russia, believing the point of maximum Japanese weakness may have been reached, prefers to strike before Japan can consolidate her position in China.

At any rate, Russian troops moved into previously unoccupied territory of great strategic value and Japanese fought to drive them off. The Chungkufeng hills dominate Japan's Tumen railroad, which runs far into Manchukuo from the important new Korean port of Rashin. The Rashin-Tu-men route is Japan's shortest route for getting troops and supplies into Manchukuo.

MENTION of the alleged treaty with China in which Russia bases claim to the disputed territory brings skeptical grins from State Department officials, who never heard of such a treaty. They haven't even a map bearing the name Chungkufeng—and they have many exhaustive maps. To Japanese questioning existence of the treaty, Russia says: "Ask the Chinese." Japan, warring on China, won't.

One of the less screwy-sounding theories circulated in Washington says Japan attacked Russians in a major engagement at behalf of Germany, as a prelude to a widely-feared German invasion of Czechoslovakia this month.

While renewed Berlin verbal blasts against the Czechs might back up this theory, cagey diplomats here say Japan wouldn't stick her neck out, just because Germany asked her. But they say many Japanese militarists would like to see both Russia and China collapse.

Lower electric rates mean that you can freeze more desserts in your electric refrigerator, use more ice cubes and keep larger amounts of food at no extra cost.

If you do not now have an electric refrigerator, or if your electric refrigerator is an old model, visit your electrical refrigerator dealer and let him explain how a new refrigerator and your new low electric rates will give you the most economical refrigeration.
