ATES ON CROP LOANS RAISED FOR FARMERS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—The department of agriculture today announced a loan program for the cotton crop, setting rates at 5.3 to 10.75 cents a pound. The department increased the rate for loans on the 1937 crop from 50 to 57 cents a bushel, established on a base rate of 75 cents a bushel for seven months, and the rate on the 1938 crop will be 75 cents a bushel. The increase in corn rates will be farmers with corn under 50 to obtain additional loans. Loans will be available for full rate to rowers who did not knowingly overplant their acreage allotments. Loans non-cooperators will be at 60 percent of the full rate.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Farm cash exclusive of government bonds, dropped 16 per cent the first eight months of 1938, as compared with 1937. The bureau of business research reported today.

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—Wheat advanced more than two cents a bushel in S. grain markets today. The government announced it would be purchased for export.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace initiated a far-reaching export subsidy program today, trying to meet competitive prices in world markets. The program was understood to have president's endorsement of a program to dump 180,000,000 bushels of wheat abroad in the next 12 months.

'This Is What It Is All About'

Sometimes, surveying this confused world of ours, it is a little hard to figure out just who is kidding whom. The line that separates the charlatan from the statesman gets awfully thin, at times.

A few days ago the New York Times went to the trouble to print a verbatim stenographic report of a speech delivered by Father Divine to a flock of the faithful in one of his "Heavens" near New York City. To a non-member of the cult, it makes weird but interesting reading.

A sample paragraph goes like this: "Permit me to be transmittable, permit me to be reincarnatable, permit me to be reproducible. When this is done you will see God in all mankind. . . This is what it is all about, beloved ones, and when you build up this foundation you will be lifted above the underprivileged and will ascend the height of perfection and go above the over-privileged and put them in their places. That is what I am doing. I am putting the overprivileged in their places."

Read through a couple of columns like that, trying earnestly to figure out what it means, and you get a tantalizing feeling that you have heard something very like it before. It's hard to place, but you think and think—and then, at last, you have it: it sounds just like a speech by one of the more strident European dictators!

The technique is much the same; the emotional appeal is the same, and the intellectual content of the message is the same.

That, is really an insult to Father Divine. He preaches peace, and by and large his career probably has made for less unrest rather than more. But the board lines of the appeals are much the same.

For the dictator has the same technique of aiming his appeal at the emotions rather than at the reason. He knows, too, the trick of appealing to discontent, of pouring forth a string of high-sounding but fundamentally meaningless phrases of reiterating that he and he alone holds the secret—and, finally, of pointing to some sort of promised land which will be entered if people will just follow him and say nothing.

Is that an unfair comparison? Read some of the dictators speeches some time and see for yourself. The parallel is uncanny. And that is a measure of the utter confusion of our time.

That a group of underprivileged colored people should follow Father Divine is not at all surprising. But that whole nations should flock after these assorted Father-Divines-in-uniform, surrendering their destinies to them and empowering them to go forth and destroy the peace of the world—that is nothing less than appalling.

The acrobatic Princess Baba says that she and her husband are going to Hollywood to "show mama and papa what we can do." Don't mama and papa ever look at the pictures in the papers?

Life Saver--If It Doesn't Scare People to D...

The weird contraption is supposed to help the man save people's lives—if it doesn't scare them to death first. At left, W. D. Wentzel, Columbus, O., fireman, climbs into the new-fangled breathing apparatus that enables the would-be rescuer to prowl a lake bottom for two-hour periods in search of ill-fated swimmers, as shown at right above. The large tank on Wentzel's back is a shield for a bellows which moves with his breathing. Below the large tank is a smaller one containing oxygen which feeds the swimmer's lungs. Exhalations are run through a special chemical back into the oxygen tank.

Offsetting Strain Of Nervousness Is Stressed by Camel

"Let up, Light up a Camel!" is the headline of a new series of advertisements for a Camel and accompanied by the text: "This Collier dog has a nervous system that is remarkably similar to yours. Like yours it is delicate, complicated. But here is where a big difference comes in: the dog can spring into flashing action—and then relax. While man's nature makes him unkind to his nerves. All too often, we work too hard, worry too much, are fatigued or sleepless from strain. Nerves cry for rest, but we do not rest. Don't let tension 'get' your nerves. Give your nerves a frequent rest—a pleasant breathing spell—'Let up, Light up a Camel.' Camels help you to remember that you need a brief bit of leisure, for they are mild and mellow, a supremely enjoyable tobacco, made from costlier to bacco. Steady smokers find that 'Let up—light up a Camel' puts more joy into living, and that Camel's costlier tobaccos are mild and soothing to their nerves."

Samuel: Spiritual Revival

IN the crisis of the defeat of the Israelites by the Philistines and the carrying away of the Ark of the Covenant with the tragic death of Eli, there comes as the savior of the people the man whose devout mother, Hannah, had dedicated him as a babe to the service of the temple. Samuel struck at the very roots of the trouble in Israel. He did not begin by amassing a great army, but he began first of all by attacking the moral condition of the people. He urged them that, with all their hearts, they should put away the foreign gods from them and the base and corrupting forms of idolatrous worship, and that they should serve the Lord of Israel. The people responded to his appeal, and then it was that Samuel gathered them together and began to marshal them for the victory that they were ultimately to attain. He called all the people together at Mizpah, and there, with the ritual practice of drawing water and pouring it forth on a day of fasting, he confessed the sins of the people. Samuel became, by strength of personality and moral conviction, the judge of Israel. Word of the massing together of the people at Mizpah came to the Philistines, and they came up against the people whom they had conquered. It was a trying time for Samuel. Would his leadership suffice? Could he inspire the fea-

"My Family Likes Things From Schooley's Just as Well As My Own Homebaking!"

SERIAL STORY

HAYWIRE HOUSE

BY EDWIN RUTT

COPYRIGHT, 1938
NEA SERVICE, INC.

CHAPTER XVIII

Wolfgang, dachshund

Sally Pennington broke a breathless silence.

"If I don't hear just what happened in exactly two seconds," she said, "I'm going to scream my head off."

"Okay," said Kinks. "I guess I'm elected. Well, it was very simple. This morning I found the Great Pierre utterly confusing Mrs. Clapstack with delight-ful stuff. And just then I happened to remember that there were such things as loaded dice. Also I remembered that Bull Griffin and that fellow, Spaldini, were absolutely crawling with money. So, putting two and two together, I made a practice of doing that, anyway, before I buy a property."

"You mean you want to buy our house?" Sally asked, her face falling.

"But it—it was cheating!" said Sally, dismayed.

"Well, of course," said Kinks. "I'm going to tell Bull what happened. I'll give him, and Spaldini, an I. O. U. How well you pay them I haven't figured out yet. But why worry? We've got six months. The only thing is, I hope Bull can take a joke. It would be inconvenient to get 'da works' just now. And, incidentally, when I put the car up the game was still going on. Bull and Spaldini are down to their last yacht."

C. K. Titus spoke for the first time.

"I'm afraid," he said, with a shadowy smile, "that I owe you young people an apology. You see, my name's Titus, and happens to be C. K. Farnsworth. I own an organization called Farnsworth Hotels, Incorporated."

Kinks shook his head. "I don't get it."

"You will presently," said Mr. Farnsworth. "Our corporation is always interested in houses that can be turned into small country hotels. Well, a representative of mine came to Winston to look around and happened to meet Spencer Ames. Mr. Ames mentioned this place and even brought him to see it."

"Ah," said Sally, suddenly remembering something.

"However," said Mr. Farnsworth, "I wasn't entirely satisfied with my man's report on Mr. Ames. Mr. Ames told him one or two things that made me suspicious. So I came to see for myself. I make a practice of doing that, anyway, before I buy a property."

"You mean you want to buy our house?" Sally asked, her face falling.

"I'm coming to that," said Mr. Farnsworth. "I did not wish to use my own name here on account of Ames. So I selected 'Titus' and came to find you people running this—this madhouse. And then last night Mr. Parker told me of your difficulty. I appeared disinterested."

"I'll say you did," ejaculated Kinks. "You just walked out on me."

FARNSWORTH gave a quiet chuckle. "I only let you think so. I had no intention of seeing you lose this place. I had my own suspicions of this man, Ames. He'd have bought it in, of course, and sold it to me. You can believe it or not, but you hadn't raised the money today, I'd have raised it for you. I only—his eyes twinkled at Kinks—

"I'll never sell this place," Sally said swiftly, "to be turned into a hotel with bar-rooms and bowling alleys and—and things. I have it altered."

"My dear young lady," said Mr. Farnsworth earnestly, "I haven't the slightest intention of altering it. I wouldn't touch it. It's one of the most charming spots I've ever seen. I'm merely suggesting that I take it over, leave it as it is, turn it in to a hotel, advertise it properly and install you and Mr. Parker as manager and manager. That's the sum and substance of my proposition. Now I've said it, say. And—he looked at them in amusement—

"we seem to have arrived at one of those moments where a third party is entirely superfluous. I'll leave you to think things over." He nodded casually to them and went out of the room.

For a moment Sally looked wonderingly at Kinks.

"Oh, Kinks," she said breathlessly, "do you think he really means it?"

"Sure, he does," said Kinks. "He's one swell guy."

"We'll do it, then," Sally decided suddenly.

MR. KINKS PARKER took a turn up and down the room. He had something else to say and he wanted to say it in the right words. They didn't come easily.

"Listen, you blond-haired, blue-eyed tidalwave," he barked at Sally. "We've got all but one thing settled. And that's what's happening to you and me. Well, get this! I love you. And all I want to do is hear you say you'll marry me and then I'm going to kiss you from now till next July the Fourteenth. And if you say you won't, I'll come over there and wring your neck. See if I don't."

"Well, you p-poor p-p-prime," she said, "how are you going to kiss me when you stay fifty yards away and pace up and down like a caged p-anther?"

Mr. Kinks Parker took a swift look around the room. There was only one thing between him and kissing Sally Pennington. That was Wolfgang, the dachshund. Mr. Parker addressed Wolfgang. "Get out of my way, Von Hindenburg," shouted Mr. Parker. "Or I'll mow you down."

In a stride that would have sent Mr. Glenn Cunningham back to Kansas broken-hearted he was across the room. And I'm very well satisfied. You ought to make a first-rate hotel manager."

"Me!" said Kinks, blinking at him.

"I'll never sell this place," Sally said swiftly, "to be turned into a hotel with bar-rooms and bowling alleys and—and things. I have it altered."

"My dear young lady," said Mr. Farnsworth earnestly, "I haven't the slightest intention of altering it. I wouldn't touch it. It's one of the most charming spots I've ever seen. I'm merely suggesting that I take it over, leave it as it is, turn it in to a hotel, advertise it properly and install you and Mr. Parker as manager and manager. That's the sum and substance of my proposition. Now I've said it, say. And—he looked at them in amusement—

"we seem to have arrived at one of those moments where a third party is entirely superfluous. I'll leave you to think things over." He nodded casually to them and went out of the room.

For a moment Sally looked wonderingly at Kinks.

"Oh, Kinks," she said breathlessly, "do you think he really means it?"

"Sure, he does," said Kinks. "He's one swell guy."

"We'll do it, then," Sally decided suddenly.

MR. KINKS PARKER took a turn up and down the room. He had something else to say and he wanted to say it in the right words. They didn't come easily.

"Listen, you blond-haired, blue-eyed tidalwave," he barked at Sally. "We've got all but one thing settled. And that's what's happening to you and me. Well, get this! I love you. And all I want to do is hear you say you'll marry me and then I'm going to kiss you from now till next July the Fourteenth. And if you say you won't, I'll come over there and wring your neck. See if I don't."

"Well, you p-poor p-p-prime," she said, "how are you going to kiss me when you stay fifty yards away and pace up and down like a caged p-anther?"

Mr. Kinks Parker took a swift look around the room. There was only one thing between him and kissing Sally Pennington. That was Wolfgang, the dachshund. Mr. Parker addressed Wolfgang. "Get out of my way, Von Hindenburg," shouted Mr. Parker. "Or I'll mow you down."

In a stride that would have sent Mr. Glenn Cunningham back to Kansas broken-hearted he was across the room. And I'm very well satisfied. You ought to make a first-rate hotel manager."

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

LET'S relax and eat old-fashioned. It's good for the hot weather appetite.

Applesauce Cake

One-half cup butter, 1 cup sugar, 2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon baking soda, 1-2 teaspoons cinnamon, 1-4 teaspoon cloves, 1 cup thick sweet applesauce, strained cream butter, add sugar and beat until smooth and light. Combine flour, spices and soda. Sift twice. Add to butter and sugar mixture, a little at a time, alternating with applesauce. Grease baking pan carefully and dust with flour. Then pour in cake batter. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 40 minutes.

Applesauce Custard Pie

Two and one-half cups applesauce, 1 cup cream or 1 cup evaporated milk, 2 eggs, 1-2 cup sugar, grated rind of 1 lemon, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-4 teaspoon nutmeg, 1-8 teaspoon cloves, 1-4 teaspoon

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Mixed grapefruit, creamed dried beef, wholewheat toast, currant jelly, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Avocado and orange salad, French dressing, hot nut muffins, tea, milk.

DINNER: Braised chuck, beef, carrots, green beans, apple sauce custard pie, coffee, milk.

ginger, 1-16 teaspoon salt, plain pastry.

Line pan with pastry. Beat eggs slightly and add sugar, salt and spices. Combine applesauce and cream, then mix into egg combination. Strain into pastry lined pan. Bake for 25 minutes in hot oven (450 degrees F.) and then for 35 minutes more in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.).

For an emergency dessert, try adding egg whites to spiced applesauce and sprinkling with stale cake crumbs. Chill and serve with slightly whipped cream.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

Sunday school, 9:45 a. m.

Morning worship, 11 a. m.

Wednesday, testimonial service, 8 p. m.

Public cordially invited.

"Christ Jesus" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, Aug. 28.

The Golden Text is: "Thou, Bethlehem Ephratah, though thou be little among the thousands of Judah, yet out of thee shall be come forth unto me that is to be ruler in Israel; whose goings forth have been from of old, from everlasting" (Micah 5:2).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "These twelve Jesus sent forth, and commanded them, saying: Behold, I send you forth as sheep in the midst of wolves: be ye therefore wise as serpents, and harmless as doves" (Matthew 10:3, 16).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from

A POET'S version of ecstatic dining is "For he on honeydew hath fed and drunk the milk of Paradise." Milk comes in bottles. Melons arrive in refrigerated express cars. But the taste can be Paradise in hot weather.

Honeydew Dessert

(1 Serving)

One-third section medium honeydew, about 10 seedless white grapes, powdered sugar, 1-3 lemon in 2 sections, grape leaves.

Use a highly polished glass dessert plate. Place the chilled honeydew in center on bed of grape leaves. Roll seedless grapes in powdered sugar, then place in center of melon. Garnish with lemon slices. Serve with fork and spoon.

Cantaloupe Garden

(1 serving)

One-half cantaloupe, 1 navel orange, 1-2 cup large blackberries, light French dressing, crisp romaine.

Chill and peel cantaloupe. Peel orange and cut into fine cartwheel slices. Clean blackberries. In salad plate, arrange chilled cantaloupe leaves around half of sliced orange cartwheel slices. Place half cantaloupe in center and fill with the blackberries. Pass a light French dressing made of olive oil, lemon and lime juice and very little salt.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Orange and lime juice, rice muffins, boiled eggs, plum marmalade, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Creamed corn, tuna, wholewheat toast, honeydew dessert, tea, milk.

DINNER: Meat balls with herbs, butter sauce, parsnip potatoes, battered young carrots, lettuce-tomato salad, lemon cream frappe, coffee, milk.

Here's another version of weather nectar, using some of milk of Paradise.

Lemon Cream Frappe

(1 quart)

Two eggs, 1-2 cup sugar, cup light corn syrup, 2 cups milk, 1-4 cup lemon juice, 3 dr. almond extract, 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel.

Beat eggs until lemon color. Gradually beat in sugar mixture. Add remaining ingredients and mix well. Freeze in cream freezer until stiff, or automatic refrigerator.

Freeze at lowest temperature until stiff. Remove to bowl and beat until light and creamy. Turn at once to freezing tray. Finish freezing. This one stirring all that is needed. Hold at room temperature until serving.

WASHINGTON

WITH RODNEY BUTCHER

WASHINGTON—This is a mystery yarn. The mystery was left unsolved when the LaFollette committee ended "little steel strike" hearings. The tale has gone untold because it was so confusing to all concerned—and still is.

Characters: (before the LaFollette committee). 1. Elmer Lohman, former Republic Steel steamfitter in Cleveland, once an Employers Representation Plan (company union) officer, briefly a union organizer, now a "night club" owner. Hero or villain? 2. Republic Police Capt. Dewey Jones, Cleveland. 3. Alex Balint, former E. R. P. officer, later a union organizer, now describing occupation as "discharged Republic steel worker." 4. Vincent Favorito, union lodge president. 5. Bozo Damich, union field organizer at Cleveland. 6. Chief Jim Williams of the far-flung Republic police force. 7. Walter Malone, once a paid union organizer under Damich.

Lohman blurted off his futile collective bargaining efforts for better wages and conditions for his men, his protests when older men were laid off, of Jones' alleged order to "get the hell out of here if you don't like it," of his layoff by the company, of his appointment as a S. W. O. C. organizer.

Balint and Lohman smiled cordially at each other as the former, young, alert and grinning, was called. His story: Same as Lohman's, as far as that had gone. But he said Lohman, organizing, suddenly became nervous. Balint and Favorito had learned employees were being accused of it at company offices. These employees included all those personally recruited by Lohman.

Stout, white-haired, veteran Bozo Damich, a leader of men—gentle but ungrammatical—described likewise. A man who had merely shown his union card to Lohman was soon fired.

Then Malone, after exposure by LaFollette as a Republic proctor with a criminal record, confessed he falsely accused Lohman "to get in good with Damich and land his $25 organizing fee"—from which he was soon fired after being charged with doing what he had accused Lohman of doing.

This writer last saw Lohman as he was pleading with Balint Favorito and others to believe his story.

John Frey of A. F. of L. has added the latest queer twist to this strange story by charging the Favorito is a Communist who worked for a private detective agency before becoming a union organizer.

no meeting, no Negroes—of Lohman, and soon after, Jones and other cops.

Suddenly Lohman started by asserting he had just recognized "Hollis" as Chief Williams, an earlier witness who was still in the hearing room. LaFollette at once called Williams. Williams' story: Lohman had been passed out union literature near a plant; old employees complained they were harassed. Williams asked Lohman why he didn't it, Lohman, he said, asked why the indictment would be. Williams promised to "do the right thing." He "thought" he had paid Lohman $300. If Lohman was "stool-pigeon," Williams presumably knew. Lohman denied the $300 incident, insisting he conferred with Jones and Williams only so he could resume work for Republic "to do more good for Mr. Damich."

Then Malone, after exposure by LaFollette as a Republic proctor with a criminal record, confessed he falsely accused Lohman "to get in good with Damich and land his $25 organizing fee"—from which he was soon fired after being charged with doing what he had accused Lohman of doing.
