The Hines Trial Should Be a Citizen's Eye-Opener

The New York trial of Tammany District Leader Jimmy Hines is certainly providing a first-rate elementary course in civics for the enlightenment of the ordinary citizen.

Whether Mr. Hines is acquitted or convicted, this trial is painting in unmistakable colors the classic picture of political corruption in its relation to organized crime.

If your memory goes back a few years, you will recall that until the advent of Mayor LaGuardia, Tammany was supreme on Manhattan. At the same time, the big shot of the underworld was the late Dutch Schultz. According to the evidence presented so far, Schultz struck a bargain with certain Tammany bigwigs.

Under this bargain, Schultz was to operate with a minimum of police interference. In return, the political higher-ups were to get a slice of his profits. But the benefits to the two parties did not stop there; for Schultz was able to use this new alliance to force his rivals out of business, while his henchmen provided thousands of illegal votes and did a good deal of useful strong-arm work for the political machine on election days.

It would be a good thing if every city dweller in the land could study that testimony. For the picture which it paints is an authentic picture, regardless of the outcome of this particular trial. That is, that is the kind of set-up we get in our big cities whenever an unscrupulous political organization has charge of the city government. The alliance between crime and politics, alleged in this trial, is a commonplace of American civic life.

Once you get that fact firmly fixed in your mind, you may find some of the outlandish history of our post-war years easier to understand.

You can see, for instance, why we have had a great "crime problem"—why gangs have been able to operate openly, why "known criminals" were so mysteriously hard to catch, why the comparatively simple job of breaking up rackets and quelling the underworld seemed so far beyond the powers of the police.

You can also understand why big city political machines are so hard to beat, why they are so well supplied with money, why they can always "roll up the vote" when the going gets tough.

There never has been any mystery about it, really. But we have a strange capacity for shutting our eyes to the facts of life, and we usually exercise it to the full where the crime-politics alliance is concerned.

If the New York trial will compel us to realize that that alliance is always, without exception, somewhere present in connection with the modern phenomenon of large-scale commercialized crime, it will be one of the most useful events of the year.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—World tension over Germany's immediate intentions in Czechoslovakia will increase in the next few weeks. This fact and the fear in Washington and other capitals that tension will lead to explosion lie behind the speeches in which Secretary Hull denounced "international lawlessness" and President Roosevelt emphasized America's concern over other nations' "wanton brutality."

Although about a million Germans have been called out for maneuvers, the U. S. government has no inside information on Hitler's plans—and it is doubted here that Hitler himself knows just what he will do.

Reports of differences between Hitler and his army generals are considered authentic. The generals don't believe Germany is sufficiently stoked for a European war and they advise against invasion of Czechoslovakia. But they also advised against the Austrian adventure.

Diplomatic and military officials in Washington suspect Hitler won't attack. The Hull and Roosevelt speeches were designed to notify the world that American sympathy—and perhaps more—would be ranged against Germany in case her aggression provokes a war.

Expert opinion holds that risking war with all other major European powers plus moral opposition from the United States is too big a gamble for a rational man to take. Yet all U. S. officials are not convinced Hitler is rational.

TENTATIVE TIP: The British-American reciprocal trade treaty is likely to be concluded within a month, much sooner than has been expected. Few differences remain.

The British want the agreement soon because it will open up credit facilities valuable in war and perhaps will have some psychological or moral effect on Germany.

The U. S. government is glad to give such an impression of Anglo-American friendship, and the British agreement, much more far-reaching than any other, will cap a series of trade treaties dear to Secretary Hull's heart.

The British proved hard-boiled bargainers. Recently, however, they have discarded an illusion that the Roosevelt administration wanted to get the treaty signed before November's election, and have accepted more impressed with its political advantages to themselves.

Remove part of meat from cracked soup bone, cut into cubes and brown lightly in hot fat. Place meat, soup bone, water, salt and pepper in soup kettle. Cover tightly and simmer approximately 2 hours. Cool, strain, and chill sufficiently so that excess fat may be skimmed off. There should be 6 1/2 cups of stock. Return stock to kettle and add vegetables. Bring to boil, then add Quaker Oats slowly. Cover and simmer approximately 1/2 hour, or until vegetables are tender. Soup meat used in making the stock may be cut in small pieces and added. Serve with finely chopped parsley, if desired.

and steady nerves. Quaker or Mother's Oats also supply proteins for firm muscle and those body-building minerals, iron and phosphorus.

So put Quaker or Mother's Oats in your soup and win the reputation for making the kind of soup men love. To be sure you have the best possible recipe, clip and use this one:—

- QUAKER VEGETABLE SOUP (Serves 8)
2 lb. soup bone (1/2 bone, 1/2 meat)
2 tablespoons fat
2 quarts water
4 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
2 cups canned tomatoes
1 cup cubed carrots
1/4 cup chopped onion
1/2 cup chopped celery
1/2 cup Quick Quaker Oats or 1 cup Regular Quaker Oats

Heat and Humidity, One Man's Bane, Another's Fortune

PHILADELPHIA.—Heat, humidity and other disturbances which make life uncomfortable for most people, do not concern I. M. Levitt of the Franklin Institute whose job is to watch movements of the sun daily.

Levitt's chief concern is whether the sun will shine brightly enough to enable him to make observations.

He is one of 18 men scattered around the world who work in "shifts" studying the sun under the sponsorship of the International Astronomical Union. Other observation posts are located in California, Tokio, Nanking, Kodaikanal, India; Kharkov, Russia; Italy, Switzerland, and England.

At 11 A. M. daily, Levitt "takes over" the sun from the English observer at Greenwich. At 1 P. M. the sun goes into the "custody" of the Mount Wilson, Calif., observer, and periodically thereafter each of the other stations takes it up.

Levitt works in the private observatory of Dr. Gustavus W. Cook, where he uses a photoheliostat to take pictures of the sun and a spectroheliograph which enables him to watch the sun's light of a single wave length.

Around the sun are fields of clouds of burning hydrogen, Levitt says. Occasionally the hydrogen gets brighter and spreads over a large area, forming a phenomenon called eruption.

"We chart the time taken in the beginning and ending of the eruptions," Levitt said. "We record their intensity, magnitude and position and speed."

The reports are sent to headquarters of the Union of Astronomers, where worldwide sun reports and figures are prepared.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY ROBERT W. FISHER
 NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—It becomes increasingly difficult for "joiners" to enter any organization which does not contain a few Communists, genuine or alleged. The Communists themselves have become "joiners."

And it's practically impossible to join a respectable organization with assurance Communists won't take credit for everything it does.

That's about all the "Un-American Committee" under Chairman Martin Dies of Texas has learned. Most members of organizations, especially those of liberal or labor character, were aware of it before. Dies would be doing a great service if he could reveal just who is a Communist and who isn't. But to date committee policy has been to listen bug-eyed to all volunteer witnesses who want to put the Communist tag on persons and organizations they don't like, with or without evidence.

No such loosely handled investigation has been covered previously by this generation of Washington correspondents. The Dies committee started with six investigators and now has three. It has no lawyer and no accountant. Its secretary, a nice young man named Stripling, has studied law while serving as a House doorkeeper.

A mass of information about Communists has been gathered from Communist publications and

Mystery Radio Is Creating Interest

Killingsworth's is now demonstrating the new mystery radio, produced by Philco, which is the latest development in the radio industry.

A small box, to which no wires are attached, and which does not need to be plugged in to any electrical current or attached in any way to the radio set, tunes the radio in at any one of a number of stations, and raises or lowers the volume at any reasonable distance from the radio set proper.

On top of the control box is a dial, similar to one used on a dial telephone. The radio set is turned on, then, from a distance, the station can be changed by dialing the desired station, or by dialing "loud" or "soft" the volume can be controlled. By holding the dial on soft the volume gradually decreases and the radio is turned off.

For the past two days the mystery radio has been creating considerable attention.

TRY A WANT AD—IT ALWAYS PAYS!

Here's One for the Book—Your Own Book of Recipes

Here's a new Scotch kitchen trick every homemaker will welcome... It's a way to make meat go farther... make it taste better... and add extra food value. All at the same time.

So get out your scissors because there's a recipe coming that you'll want to save. It's for Quaker Meat Patties, a main course dish that will make the whole family sit up and all appetites take notice.

But first let us tell you that oatmeal is just about the finest meat "extender" there is. When you remember the butcher bills and how little oatmeal costs, you'll be delighted to know about this new use for such a delicious and healthful food.

Oatmeal supplies proteins for firm flesh and those valuable body-building minerals, phosphorus and iron. And even more important—it also is nature's richest economical source of Thiamin (Vitamin B1) which everybody needs continuously for best health.

Quaker meat patties are an excellent way to supply the family with today's Thiamin. And here's the recipe:

QUAKER'S MEAT PATTIES
(Serves 6)

6 slices bacon
3/4 lb. beef (ground)
3/4 lb. pork (ground)
1 egg (beaten)
1 tablespoon onion (chopped)
1 cup tomatoes (canned or fresh)
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup Quaker or Mother's Oats (Quick or Regular)
3/4 teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper

Line 6 muffin tins with strips of bacon. Combine remaining ingredients and mix well. Put into the muffin tins. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for approximately 1 hour.

"But I—I want him myself!" she exclaimed, freeing her hands, as the auctioneer cried for more bids.

"I'm ashamed to tell you, sir. It was a measly little two hundred and fifty."

"I'm bid five hundred for Golden Toy, do I hear the thousand?" the auctioneer sang.

NEW YORK.—In closing a new five-year tie-up with Madison Square Garden for 14 boxing shows a season and exclusive privileges at its Bowl in Queens, Michael Straus Jacobs makes it very emphatic he is through with the "Hearst Athletic Club."

The Hearst A. C., which grew out of boxing shows sponsored by the Free Milk Fund for Babies during Tex Rickard's days, was composed of three New York Hearst sports writers—Dan Runyan, Bill Farnsworth, and Ed Frayne.

The break came after Jacobs kept his partners waiting a month for their share of the profits of the second Louis-Schmeling fight in June which grossed $1,615,000, including radio and pictures.

ALSO, Jacobs said "No" when the three directors of the Hearst A. C. suggested he promote an outdoor show in September for the Free Milk Fund, long sponsored by the Hearst newspapers.

JACOBS wound up by paying one of the newspapermen $25,000 for his 25 per cent interest in the Twentieth Century club, after the three partners drew down five-figure amounts as their shares of the return match between Louis and Schmeling.

MEANWHILE, there were changes in the Hearst New York newspaper field. Runyan was switched from sports to the news columns. A merger left Farnsworth out of a job, and he promptly moved in with Jacobs as general manager of the Twentieth Century club at a fat salary, in addition to his division of the profits.

His partners helped Uncle Mike drive the Madison Square Garden Corporation out of the boxing business, but he thinks he doesn't need them any more.

"Why should I incur the displeasure of all newspapermen by trying to do it myself?" asks Jacobs. "I'm on my own from now on. I would have had to make up any loss in the past, and I'm in position to make up any deficit in the future."

IN originally going into the promotion business openly, Jacobs' main idea was to get first crack at choice tickets that could be peddled at a premium. Now he not only has the ducks, but the entire shebang, and makes the great Rickard look like a piker.

Modern Co-ed Is Building Career

EL PASO.—The modern college girl is preparing for a career in business, not marriage and home life, according to figures released at the College of Mines and Metallurgy, here, a branch of The University of Texas.

Enrollment of women majoring in business administration and economics at the College of Mines has increased 320 per cent during the last three years. Total enrollment increase for both men and women over the same period has been 142 per cent.

Nineteen per cent of the students enrolled in the college during the 1937-38 session majored in business administration or economics.

This rapid increase may be attributed to a broader curriculum being adopted by the major colleges and universities. Thomas E. Morris, head of the department of business administration and economics said. More courses are being designed and offered for women students who expect to follow careers after graduation.

Modern diplomacy encounters a brick wall: General Franco rejects the troop-withdrawal plan, and now there's nothing left to do.
