CRUDE PRICES CUT IN THREE STATES TODAY

AUSTIN, Oct. 11.—Col. Ernest O. Thompson, chairman of the Texas Railroad commission, said today records at Houston easily could establish whether oil is being imported into Texas to usurp the Texas markets.

Thompson's warning yesterday that Texas oil fields might be opened to full-time production if necessary to hold markets, was based on unofficial reports. That, he said, is why he called for evidence at next Saturday's state oil hearing.

More than 7,000 acres of land have been pledged by 53 Eastland county farmers and ranchers in the four game management demonstrations that have been organized in the county, according to County Agent Cook.

The purpose of game management demonstrations is to group landowners together in such a way that they can cooperate with the extension service and other cooperating agencies in protecting, conserving and increasing wildlife species of game birds, non-game birds, game animals, fur-bearing animals, and adapted fishes.

The first step in organizing a game management demonstration is to secure a suitable land area by a group of landowners and tenants by having each sign agreements to cooperate with each other.

Properly Managed Poultry Farm Pays Blair Records Show

A profit of $772.06 from an average of 580 laying hens made by Wynan Blair of Cisco during the first eight months of this year clinch the argument that there is a profit in raising poultry in Eastland county, when proper management is used, thinks County Agent Cook, with whom Blair is cooperating in keeping accurate records of his flock of white leghorns.

Blair, who has been keeping records for several years, attributes his success to well-bred birds, proper feeding, comfortable housing, and close supervision of his flock. He seldom ever leaves the place except to sell his eggs. He mixes his own laying mash, vacinates for fowl pox, and worms the birds before they go into production. Green feed is provided and whole oats are fed to the birds once each day.

Complete poultry records are also being kept in Eastland county by A. A. Hyatt and H. G. Lyda of Gorman and Mrs. Everett Harris of Rising Star. Record books are being supplied by the A. & M. college extension service.

When he came to Eastland he was an accountant. Then in 1921 the firm of Hoffmann and Page was organized with C. W. Hoffmann, now mayor of Eastland as a partner.

Startling Facts Are Revealed In A Tax Survey

WASHINGTON.—Disturbing trends in national fiscal policy are reflected in a compendium—"Facts—About Taxes and Public Spending"—issued by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Among the facts listed, most of which are taken from official sources, are the following: The cost of government—federal, state and local—mounted from $8,818,000,000 in 1923 to $16,900,000,000 in 1937, or from $79.96 per capita to $150.75.

At the present rate of public spending it would take the working population of a city of 150,000 inhabitants about 150 years to support the Federal Government alone for one year.

In the last fiscal year the Federal Government spent more than $21,000,000 a day. The per capita cost of Federal Government increased from $27.95 in 1923 to $62.91 in 1937.

The national indebtedness for all classes of government increased from $5,721,000,000 in 1913 to $55,579,000,000 in 1937, a per capita increase from $59.28 to $429.99.

It is estimated that more than three-fourths of the direct obligations of the Federal Government are held by banks, reserve banks, insurance companies and non-finance corporations.

British per capita taxes were $109.81 in 1937, compared with American taxes of $53.16 per capita.

The important difference is that government, in Great Britain, is practically paying its way, while government in the United States is going deeper into debt.

Hutters Regaining Farms In Dakota

PIERRE, S. D.—Members of the Hutterish faith, who left this state years ago to find new locations suited to their tenets, are drifting back to their old South Dakota homesteads.

These people, who live and work together in communities where all property and profits share a common ownership, left their South Dakota homes, during the World War.

The Hutterites, descendants of a German people who settled in Dakota as early as 1876, refused to purchase war liberty bonds asserting their religious belief prevented them from taking part in any war.

Local authorities then seized part of their property, sold it and used the proceeds to buy bonds. They refused their lands, and left remainder of their lands, and left to find new homes in Canada and Mexico.

The past few months many families have returned to their former settlements, repurchasing the lands they had sold. They explained that this country so far had given them their best homes.

The Hutterites originally lived in Germany. They left their homeland to avoid compulsory military service. They first settled in southeastern Russia, but when promises that they should not be molested were broken, many moved to this country.

The families live together in communal buildings. All work in their fields together with the proceeds of their efforts divided according to needs of the different families.

Peanut Disease Control Started By Pioneer Man

A demonstration in the control of peanut diseases by dusting with sulphur is being demonstrated by J. D. Isabnet of Pioneer, in cooperation with Elmo V. Cook, county agent, who reports that as soon as final yields of test acreages are checked the results will be available to anyone interested.

Cook reports that among several peanut diseases or ailments found in Eastland county, some of the most important are a leaf spot, shell spot and root rot. The leaves are also attacked often by leaf-worms. Sulphur is being advanced as a possible aid against all of these troubles because it is harmless to any animals that might later eat the hay.

The leaf spot lowers the yield of both hay and nuts by causing premature dying of the leaves, making it necessary to harvest the peanuts much earlier than when the disease is not present. The shell spot causes small brown or black spots on the shells and lowers their value by detracting from their appearance. It also causes stems to be weakened so that many nuts are left in the ground at harvest time.

The root rot is so called by peanut growers because it causes the entire peanuts to turn black and rot before they ripen.

Plans are being made to continue next year with several demonstrations in the use of sulphur to control peanut diseases. Peanut growers who are interested in conducting such demonstrations are invited to discuss the matter with the county agent. Cook has announced that he intends to request cooperation of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station in conducting the tests.

Power Plant Work Is Begun Monday By Texas Electric

Repairs to the main building of the Leon Power plant to cost $5,000 were begun Monday by the Texas Electric Service company.

The building is made of stucco on wire lath, and was built in 1920. In the 18 years that have passed large sections of the stucco have become loose and were about to fall off before the repairs were started.

The repairs are being made by a contractor who specializes in such work and will be done in four steps.

First, stucco will be fastened, then all unnecessary ornamentation will be removed, new caps on pilasters will be fixed and all cracks will be sealed. Then the building will be painted to make it water-proof.

Seven men are employed on the job and will work 12 weeks. These men were not on the Tesco payroll before start of the work.

LEWIS TO QUIT CIO IF GREEN QUILTS A F OF L

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—John L. Lewis said today he is willing to quit as chairman of the Committee for Industrial Organization if William Green will resign as president of the American Federation of Labor.

Lewis made his offer after the A. F. of L. convention at Houston demanded that he step out of the C. I. O. leadership as the price of labor peace.

At Houston President Green said delegates to the convention will reply to Lewis' offer to resign.

"The delegates will give him his answer before we adjourn," he said.

Green obviously referred to his virtually certain re-election. Green and Lewis will give the nation tonight, a chance to judge the merits of their positions in labor's civil war.

Lewis will speak from 7:30 to 7:45 p. m. Green will speak over a similar hookup from 7:45 to 8 p. m.

In outlining his proposal Lewis said that if he and Green quit: "It may then be possible for the remaining labors of the A. F. of L. and C. I. O. to conclude a peace, in which even the contributions made by Mr. Green and myself would be of some value."

Speaking to newspapermen Lewis said there may be "some virtue" behind the A. F. of L. suggestion that he retire, and added, "obviously the C. I. O. could function without my services, and conceivably with increased efficiency."

"The same suggestion would apply to Mr. Green, whose ferocity seems to know no bounds.

"In any event, I think it is worth trying. I am willing to resign tomorrow, or any day thereafter, if Mr. Green will resign."

College Youths Are Rescued from Cave

DOUGHERTY, Okla., Oct. 11.—Two college students were taken, alive and unharmed from the mysterious caverns of the Arbuckle mountains today. They had been lost in the pitch black, underground wilderness for almost 48 hours.

Parents feared they were drowned or hopelessly lost in the unexplored caverns, which are so extensive that men, according to legend, have entered them and were never seen again.

The youths were Thurman Treadwell, Jr., 18, and Hugh Monros, 17, college students. They put on their bathing suits, crawled into the cave and swam across a subterranean pool a quarter of a mile long, and believing their flashlights, and believing their own chances of rescue was to wait until a searching party, remained there until a party arrived early today.

That Dream Castle Comes Down to Earth

Why haven't we had this housing boom that everybody has been looking for during the last half dozen years?

If we could talk ourselves into it we would have had it long since. The subject has been given enough columns of type to reach from here to the moon.

We have discussed pre-fabricated houses, mass production building methods, resettlement projects, slum clearance schemes, and cheaper financing until everyone concerned ought to be blue in the face. We have been told times without number how a building boom would get us out of the depression.

Yet somehow the boom has not been forthcoming. You probably could figure out a good many different reasons for this. One of them undoubtedly, is the fact that the average citizen who needs a new house and who, conceivably, could find the money to buy one, does not realize just what he can get for his money nowadays.

There is no use denying that Mr. Average Citizen is just a wee bit gun-shy on this matter of home building. He has lived through home building booms in the past, and he has confused but lively memories of high financing costs, and a completed product which sometimes didn't quite seem to be worth all the expense. What he needs to realize is that things are quite a bit different now.

Life Magazine performed an excellent service recently by devoting some 23 pages to the job of bringing the average citizen to this realization.

The magazine remarks that financing a home is both easier and cheaper now than ever before. Secondly, it points out that for all our talk of high building costs, those costs today average a good 10 per cent below the costs for 1926—an "average" year, anyway you look at it. And, lastly, it emphasizes a fact that hardly any of us have realized: that the business of designing and building homes has made, relatively, as great strides in the last 12 years as has the business of designing and building automobiles.

By way of demonstration, the magazine prints pictures and plans for the homes that men in different income groups can buy.

This display is abundantly worth studying. It attacks what looks like the key leg of this building jam—the ordinary family man's failure to realize just what he can get for his money nowadays.

A campaign based on this point might well actually give us this building boom we have been waiting for so long.

School days are here again, and papa will soon be kicking himself for not having brushed up on his fractions.

The British fleet is now concentrated in Scottish waters. We hope they realize what a tight spot they're in.

The 4-Power Peace Plan at Home

Weatherford Home Coming Scheduled For October 29th

Sam Morrison of Eastland, president of the Weatherford Junior College ex-Students Association, has announced plans for the school's annual homecoming Oct. 29.

A statement circulated in this section by Morrison is as follows: According to Webster, the word enthusiasm means "earnest and fervent feeling." The word loyal means "constant and faithful."

We are today performing a service which is worthy of all the praise possible. I believe we have the most loyal group of ex-students to be found anywhere. If this is true, there is no reason why we can not make splendid use of these characteristic traits of our former students and capitalize for this school in an unimpeachable manner.

Start making your plans now to meet with us and recall some of those happy and cherished moments spent in "Our College."

Sailing Pacific In A Junk Proving Popular Pastime

SAN FRANCISCO.—The same fall season that introduced hoop skirts and the Lambeth Walk now has made it fashionable to sail across the Pacific Ocean in a junk, a two-by-four vessel that thousands of Chinese use as homes.

This fall involves sailing across almost one-fourth of the earth's water surface in a skiff usually small enough to store in one's garage. The route—not counting detours due to weather—is 7,000 miles.

Among the hazards are sharks, typhoons and leaky seams. There are no repair shops for junks midway between Honolulu and Yokohama.

Despite the odds against success of such ventures, a Los Angeles doctor, his wife and two Russians completed a Shanghai-to-Los Angeles junk trip.

Dr. E. A. Peterson, 36-year-old part owner of a Los Angeles hospital, his American-born Japanese wife, and two Russian crewmen go the credit for the first successful Junk Crossing of the Pacific this year.

Vehicular Travel Shows Big Increase

AUSTIN—Vehicular travel created nearly 281 million in this year over the same period 1937, while 224 fewer persons were killed in traffic mishaps, state safety officials said today.

Through a strict enforcement and educational program Texas traffic guardians have managed general 17 per cent decrease street and highway fatalities since January 1. With the mileage increase taken into consideration the death drop would have reached 21 per cent, experts estimate.

SERIAL STORY

MURDER TO MUSIC

BY NARD JONES

COPYRIGHT, 1938 NEA SERVICE, INC.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
MYRNA DOMBEY—heroine. Wife of the sensational swing band leader.
ROBERT TAIT—hero. Newspaper photographer—detective.
ANNE LESTER—Myrna's closest friend.
DANNIE FEELEY—officer assigned to investigate Luden Dombey's murder.

Yesterday Tait and Anne and Myrna in an abandoned cabin and bring her back to the city to face the music. Tait vows to help her until the end.

CHAPTER VII

ALMOST three hours later, just as the little coupe was crossing the north city limits, Myrna awakened on Anne's shoulder. The dawn was breaking into full day, and the spirits of the trio rose with the sun. The black hounds in and near that hillside shack seemed to Tait like a bad dream.

He turned to Tait. "Feeling better?"
"Yess . . . a little."
"Anne and I have decided you should sleep some more, though—in my apartment. Another 20 minutes and we'll be there."

But when Tait arrived at his apartment building he decided that caution would be the better part of valor. Instead of parking near the entrance way, he drove around to the alley.

"I'm going up and have a look. It may be that Dannie Feeley's got suspicious and has someone waiting for my return. You girls sit tight here in the car."

She managed to return a smile. "I'll be here," she said.
Tait hurried up the back stairway of the apartment, slowing down only when he reached his floor. Quietly he opened the door from the back landing into the long hall. To his relief, no patrolling stranger was in sight. Nevertheless he went down the hallway to listen before his door.

SUDDENLY he stopped. The door of his apartment was slightly ajar! Tentatively he pushed it open and looked inside—and was amazed to see, seated in his one easy chair, Harris Rogers.

"Well!" he tried to keep the anger from his voice. "You're an early-riser—shall we say an early caller?"
Rogers got up, shrugging his shoulders and straightening his collar. "Better call me a guest, Tait. The fact is, I've been here all night. He smiled, not unpleasantly. "You see, I came last night. You hadn't arrived, and I persuaded the janitor that I was a friend of yours. I hope I didn't exaggerate, Tait."

"It's not necessary to exaggerate with the janitor if you've a $5 bill," Tait said.

"I really expected that you'd return—and then somehow I fell asleep in that very comfortable chair. I hope you'll forgive me. But under all the circumstances . . ."

"His voice trailed off, and he made a gesture which said that Tait would unquestionably understand.

"What can I do for you?" Tait was still standing. He was puzzled at Rogers' curious visit, was nervous about the two girls in the car. Suppose they grew disturbed at his long absence, and walked into the apartment to investigate? "I—I don't want to rush you, Rogers. But the fact is, I've an early appointment."

Again Rogers smiled. "I won't be long. Here's the point, Tait. I've known you for quite a while, and I've always liked you. Somehow I got the impression, down there at the Pacific Plaza last night, that you were interested in this terrible business."

"Interested? How do you mean?"
"Well, curious, then. I can understand that. After all, you're a newspaper man by training. You've been at the finish of a lot of things like this. But this is one that I wouldn't get worried about, Bob."

"Naturally not. The police will keep on investigating. But it's a tough case. You know that. It may slide along for considerable time."

The photographer smiled. "In other words, you figure that the fewer who are 'interested,' as you put it a moment ago, the less chance of getting the reputation of Dombey and the band dirtied up."

"That is it precisely. I thought you'd see it my way."

TAIT shook his head. "But I don't see it your way, Rogers. In the first place, the most logical suspect that the police have right now is Mrs. Dombey. Until they can get some leads elsewhere she's going to have a bad time. In the second place, I'm not at all certain that she's interested in the money you can make for her with Lud's reputation and his band—"

"Do you know her well enough to be sure of that?" Rogers wanted to know. "It occurs to me that their acquaintance before marriage was rather short."

Ignoring the remark, Tait proceeded: "In the third place, Rogers, all I have is your word that Dombey's affairs are in a mess and that his past might not look well in print."

"And you doubt my word. Is that it?"
"No—not just yet, at any rate. You might give some notion of what you mean and then I'll be glad to tell you whether I'm willing to believe it."

Rogers' face darkened. "All right, Tait. I can tell you plenty about it. The manager of the Swingsteers dropped indolently to the arm of the chair. "I think that when I'm finished you'll be ready to forget that Lud Dombey was killed."

Town Has Catchy Invitations to Fete

SEGUIN, Texas—"Si, Senor," is the alliterative invitation being sent out by the Seguin Centennial Association.
The city is planning a centennial homecoming for October 12. Historical pageantry and a Queen's coronation will be a part of the ceremonies which will end with a Centennial Ball. A float parade during the morning will picture the 100-years history of the community.
Seguin at one time was known as Walnut Springs. It was built on land granted by the Spanish government to Sir Humphrey Branch in 1836. Most of the land was sold to a group of "Minute Men" from Gonzales, all members of Capt. Matthew Caldwell's company of Gonzales Rangers or Capt. James H. Callahan's company of "Minute Men."
On Feb. 25, 1839 the name of the community was changed to Seguin in honor of Don Juan Seguin, leader of a company of men of Spanish and Mexican descent who fought for Texas in its war in independence against Mexico.

FRECKLES and HIS FRIENDS--By Blosser

WASHINGTON LETTER

By Rodney Dutcher
NEA Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON.—It takes more than the threat of another World War to jolt the Supreme Court from the even tenor of its ways as it continues to grind out decisions shaping the law and public policy.
More than ever the court is recognized as a "super legislature." This conception of the court, on which the ill-fated Roosevelt plan to reorganize it was based, has been easier to grasp since the pronounced swing toward more liberal opinions which began during the historic Senate struggle against "packing" the court and continued as vacancies permitted the President to appoint justices leaning toward New Deal viewpoints.
TVA, the Wagner labor act, the Tom Mooney case and other items of national interest are on the Supreme Court docket as it reconvenes.
Eighteen power companies still seek the injunction against the whole TVA program which was denied them by a three-judge circuit court. If the Supreme Court sustains the lower court, the TVA act finally will have been judged constitutional.
Among several National Labor Relations Board cases before the court, that brought by the Consolidated Edison Company of New York probably is the most important. Here the NLRB undertook to cancel a contract between the company and an A. F. of L. union, maintaining that the company had violated the law by encouraging the A. F. of L. union as

Probe of Disastrous Highway Collision Sets a Precedent

DALLAS—Investigation of Texas' most tragic automobile collision in 1938 has been completed by a special committee appointed by Governor Allred, and immediate release of the report and recommendations were made today by Carl J. Rutland, Chairman of the Committee and President of the Texas Safety Association, Inc.

Governor Allred created this committee to investigate an automobile crash at Highway 80 and Belt Line Road, near Dallas, on May 5, 1938, in which six people were killed and two badly injured.

This is the first case on record of an investigation of an automobile accident by the governor of a state, and the committee, composed of C. J. Rutland, Albert Sidney Johnson, of the Public Safety Commission, Harry Hines of the State Highway Commission, and Judge Ben Fly of the Dallas County Commissioner's Court, devoted its efforts to learning the fundamental causes of the fatal crash and drafting a number of recommendations for the prevention of such tragedies in the future.

In its report, the committee named violation of a boulevard stop sign, speed too high for safety, driving while under the influence of intoxicants, and ignoring a crossroad sign as the immediate cause of the fatal crash.

In its conclusions the committee charges the traffic system of the State with failure to educate the driver to the dangers of these violations—failure to enforce the traffic laws, and provide certainty of punishment for violators, together, with need for further traffic engineering for safety on streets and highways.

The committee recommended a state-wide traffic survey, county by county, perhaps through WPA funds. It points out the need for a substantial increase in the State highway patrol personnel. It urges adoption of an anti-ticket-fixing pledge by all City Councils and county officials in the state.

Complete scrapping of the state traffic laws and adoption of the Model Code as recommended by the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety was urged.

A definite program of education for motorists revision of the driver's license law, giving the Texas Department of Public Safety authority to suspend licenses, with the right of appeal, and providing for a small fee to be charged for each license issued, were recommended.

A copy of the published report of this committee's investigation and recommendations will be mailed to every official in the State concerned with traffic matters. Ten thousand copies have been printed for distribution.

Mrs. Broach will return to her home in Penwell in a few days.

C. J. Moore spent the weekend in Dallas, visiting his wife and attending the Texas-Oklahoma football game.

Mr. and Mrs. Pat Downing of Alice, Texas, formerly of Ranger, visited friends here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Buster Mills attended the football game between Texas and Oklahoma universities in Dallas, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry V. Davenport, made a trip to Dallas the latter part of last week where he had another examination of his eyes, which are improving satisfactorily.

Dr. and Mrs. D. T. Wier have turned to their home after a visit in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Henderson and his father, Dr. A. K. Wier. They spent almost two weeks in New Orleans, where Dr. Wier did observation work in a hospital during his leave of absence from his work.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Edwards of Longview, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Tom Yonker and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Henry.

Barbara Stanwyck Stars With Herbert Marshall In "Always Goodbye"

"We can't have everything we want just the way we want it; there's always a penalty . . ." and it fires with drama the romance of Barbara Stanwyck and Herbert Marshall in "Always Goodbye." Now playing at the Arcadia Theatre today only.

The committee calls attention to the fact that the annual number of traffic accident victims in Texas is over six times as great as the number who perished in the New London disaster and it appeals to every public official and every citizen of the State of Texas to join the committee and the Governor in demanding that those recommendations and other steps necessary to make our highways safe be put into effect without further delay and political quibbling, and consequent waste of life and property.

Citrus Growers Have Invoked Regulations

WESLACO, Texas.—The Citrus Growers Industry committee has invoked regulations under the state-federal marketing agreement to control fruit shipments until Oct. 15.

The committee, in announcing the decision, also issued a report on a study into the necessity of control of citrus shipments during the coming season, in which the national production was estimated at 41,000,000 boxes of grapefruit.

Of the national total, the committee forecast a Texas crop of 14,000,000 boxes and that the state will ship approximately 7,000,000 of 18,500,000 boxes which will move into commercial fresh fruit channels.

The committee also estimated that Texas would process approximately 4,000,000 boxes of the nation's 10,000,000 of grapefruit which will be processed for commercial distribution.
